1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Expectations are high that a free trade agreement involving India and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) is close to fruition. However, a bone of contention relates to intellectual property rights, and has persisted as an issue since 2008. Switzerland and Norway, which are prominent members of EFTA, host several of the pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies that are responsible for several of the drugs and therapeutics that underpin health care globally. The nature of the pharma industry — it costs much to discover a useful effective drug and relatively little to make generic copies of it — with demand that is far disproportionate to affordability, means that there is a constant tussle between the inventors and the generic-drug companies. Patenting, or an exclusive monopoly for a fixed number of years to originators and a reciprocal right by governments to issue directions for 'compulsory licensing,' thereby selectively breaking such monopolies in the interest of public health, has brokered the peace and sustained the global pharma industry for decades. But new legal innovations such as data exclusivity continue to inveigle themselves in free trade negotiations. Under this provision, all the clinical-trial data that concerns the safety and efficacy of a drug generated by the originator firm becomes proprietary and out of bounds for a minimum period of six years. Permission to make a generic is possible if a country's regulator can rely on supplied clinical trial data to approve a drug. For this, generic makers usually rely on the originator's published data.

The principle of data exclusivity is present among European countries as well as in agreements involving many developing countries. Were it to take effect in India, it could significantly hinder India's drug industry which is also a major exporter of affordable drugs. Indian officials have rejected data exclusivity as a point of negotiations in the FTA, though leaked drafts of the agreement suggest that it is alive. However, India's rise up the drug manufacturing chain in the last few decades means that it must invest in an ecosystem that can conduct ethical drug trials and make new molecules and therapeutics from scratch. The paradigm that drug development will always be expensive and confined to the West need not be permanent, as was seen in the development of several novel technology approaches to developing vaccines in India during the COVID-19 pandemic. But as preparation, India must invest substantially more in fundamental research to incubate the local drug industry into the future.

What role does patenting play in the pharmaceutical industry, according to the passage?

a. It encourages generic drug production

b. It provides an exclusive monopoly for originators

c. It reduces the cost of drug development

d. It hinders public health initiatives

e. It limits the demand for drugs

Tg: @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

What is the potential impact of data exclusivity taking effect in India, according to the passage?

a. It could boost India's drug industry

b. It may lead to a decline in drug exports

c. It would reduce drug manufacturing costs

d. It might facilitate global drug collaborations

e. It would not affect India's drug industry

3. Questions

Why have Indian officials rejected data exclusivity as a point of negotiations in the free trade agreement?

a. Lack of awareness

b. Concerns about public health

c. Pressure from pharmaceutical companies

d. Opposition from EFTA countries

e. Economic considerations

4. Questions

What has been a persistent bone of contention in the free trade agreement negotiations between India and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA)?

a. Agricultural subsidies

b. Environmental regulations

c. Intellectual property rights

d. Trade tariffs

e. Labor laws

5. Questions

Which countries are highlighted as prominent members of EFTA with pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies?

a. India and China

b. Switzerland and Norway

c. Brazil and Russia

d. USA and Canada

e. Australia and Japan

6. Questions

What is the primary function of data exclusivity in the pharmaceutical industry?

a. Encouraging global collaboration

sk53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. Reducing drug development costs

c. Protecting clinical trial data

d. Promoting generic drug production

e. Expediting regulatory approvals

7. Questions

What does the passage suggest as a prerequisite for India to continue rising in the drug manufacturing chain?

a. Increased focus on agricultural research

b. Adoption of stringent labour laws

c. Investment in fundamental research

d. Collaboration with developed countries

e. Emphasis on environmental sustainability

8. Questions

In the sentence given below two blanks are there followed by six words to fill the blank to complete the sentence meaningfully correct. You have to choose the correct pair of words to complete the sentence.

The novel aims to explore the complex interplay between science and _____, delving into the ethical _____ that arise when scientific advancements outpace societal understanding.

1). morality

2). skepticism

3). superstition

4). innovation

5). dilemmas

6). rigidity

a. 1 and 5

b. 2 and 4

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 4

e. 3 and 5

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

The bank's efforts to enhance cybersecurity include investing in advanced technology and conducting regular training programs to equip employees with the skills needed to detect and prevent security _____, thereby ensuring the _____ of customer information.

1). breaches

2). vulnerabilities

3). infringements

4). fortifications

5). confidentiality

6). safeguards

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 6

e. 2 and 4

10. Questions

The investment advisor recommended a diverse portfolio to the clients, emphasizing the importance of spreading investments across different asset classes to minimize risk and enhance potential _____, especially during periods of market _____.

1). returns

2). volatility

3). stagnation

4). losses

5). appreciation

6). corrections

a. 1 and 2

b. 3 and 4

c. 5 and 6

d. 1 and 6

e. 2 and 5

11. Questions

The fitness app incorporated AI algorithms to personalize workout plans, aiming to enhance the _____ of users and promote a sense of _____ in their fitness journey.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1). effectiveness

2). accessibility

3). motivation

4). transparency

5). efficiency

6). accountability

a. 1 and 2

b. 3 and 4

c. 5 and 6

d. 1 and 6

e. 2 and 5

12. Questions

The scientist's groundbreaking research not only _____ our understanding of the universe but also _____ new possibilities for future exploration.

1). enhanced

2). challenged

3). opened

4). restricted

5). diminished

6). propelled

a. 1 and 6

b. 2 and 4

c. 3 and 5

d. 1 and 4

e. 3 and 6

13. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The perpetual motion of the windmill harnesses energy throughout the day, providing a continuous source of power.

sky53up@gmail.com

II). He was praised for being a knave of all trades, excelling in various skills.

III). As the incumbent mayor, she faced the challenge of securing re-election and continuing her work for the community.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

14. Questions

I). The manager displayed forbearance by promptly firing the employee for a minor mistake.

II). The team's camaraderie was evident both on and off the field, fostering a positive and supportive environment.

III). She handled the sensitive information with discreet professionalism, ensuring that it remained confidential.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

15. Questions

I). His actions towards the vulnerable were truly despicable, causing widespread outrage and condemnation.

II). As the clock struck midnight, the New Year's Eve party was in full swing, and the revelry continued until the early hours of the morning.

III). The sunny day had an ominous feeling, as everyone at the picnic sensed a pleasant surprise approaching.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

I). The medicine had a palatable taste that made children grimace with distaste.

II). The teacher worked to dispel any confusion by providing clear explanations and examples.

III). The teacher's apposite criticism of the student's essay praised the clarity and coherence of the writing.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

17. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). She is not interested in politics and prefers to stay out from it.

B). Despite the rain, they decided to go ahead with their plan for an outdoor picnic.

C). The cat jumped off from the table and ran towards the door.

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Both A and C
d. Both B and C
e. No error

18. Questions

A). The athlete performed good in the competition, surprising everyone with his skills.

B). Despite the rain, the event was carried out quite successfully.

C). She plays the piano beautifully, creating a soothing and a calm atmosphere.

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Both A and C
d. Both B and C
e. No error

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

A). Each of the students in the classroom were given a copy of the textbook.

B). Despite the obstacles, neither the coach nor the players were ready to give up.

C). The collection of old coins were displayed in a Glass case.

a. Only A
b. Both A and C
c. Both B and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

20. Questions

A). Not only the staff but also the manager was involved in the decision-making process.

B). Despite the rainy weather, she wore a colorful and a comfortable dress.

C). Not only the play but also the costumes were elaborate and a well-designed.

a. Only A
b. Both A and C
c. Both B and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

It provides an exclusive monopoly for originators.

The correct answer is (b) It provides an exclusive monopoly for originators. The passage mentions that patenting grants an exclusive monopoly to originators for a fixed number of years.

The passage discusses the role of patenting in the pharmaceutical industry, highlighting that it grants an exclusive monopoly to originators. The relevant passage text supporting this answer is: "Patenting, or an exclusive monopoly for a fixed number of years to originators..." This indicates that the primary function of patenting in the pharmaceutical industry is to provide originators with an exclusive monopoly, allowing them exclusive rights to their inventions for a specified period. This exclusivity is granted as a reward for the high costs associated with discovering effective drugs.

a). It encourages generic drug production: The passage does not support the idea that patenting encourages

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

generic drug production. In fact, the passage suggests a constant tussle between inventors and generic drug companies, implying that patenting creates a barrier for generic production rather than encouraging it.

c). It reduces the cost of drug development: The passage does not suggest that patenting directly reduces the cost of drug development. On the contrary, it mentions that discovering a useful effective drug is a costly process. Patenting provides an exclusive monopoly to originators, but it does not necessarily reduce the overall cost of drug development.

d). It hinders public health initiatives: While the passage mentions the potential for conflict between inventors and generic-drug companies, it does not explicitly state that patenting hinders public health initiatives. In fact, the passage later discusses the role of patenting in sustaining the global pharma industry for decades.

e). It limits the demand for drugs: The passage does not discuss patenting as a factor that limits the demand for drugs. Instead, it emphasizes the high demand for drugs and the constant struggle between inventors and generic-drug companies, which suggests that demand is not limited by patenting.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) It provides an exclusive monopoly for originators, as explicitly stated in the passage. The other options are not supported by the information provided in the passage.

2. Questions

Answer: B

It may lead to a decline in drug exports.

The correct answer is (b) It may lead to a decline in drug exports. The passage suggests that data exclusivity could significantly hinder India's drug industry, which is a major exporter of affordable drugs.

The passage suggests that if data exclusivity takes effect in India, it could significantly hinder India's drug industry, which is also a major exporter of affordable drugs. The relevant passage text supporting this answer is: "Were it to take effect in India, it could significantly hinder India's drug industry which is also a major exporter of affordable drugs." This indicates that the potential impact of data exclusivity in India is a negative one, potentially leading to a decline in drug exports.

a). It could boost India's drug industry: The passage does not support the idea that data exclusivity would boost India's drug industry. Instead, it implies that data exclusivity could hinder the industry in India.

c). It would reduce drug manufacturing costs: The passage does not provide information to suggest that data exclusivity would reduce drug manufacturing costs. The focus is on the potential negative impact on the drug industry rather than a positive effect on costs.

d). It might facilitate global drug collaborations: The passage does not indicate that data exclusivity would facilitate global drug collaborations. Instead, it emphasizes the potential hindrance to India's drug industry and drug exports.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e). It would not affect India's drug industry: The passage clearly states that data exclusivity could significantly hinder India's drug industry. Therefore, the option "e) It would not affect India's drug industry" is not supported by the information in the passage.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) It may lead to a decline in drug exports, as suggested by the passage.

3. Questions

Answer: B

Concerns about public health

The correct answer is (b) Concerns about public health. The passage states that Indian officials have rejected data exclusivity in the FTA negotiations due to concerns about its potential impact on public health.

According to the passage, Indian officials have rejected data exclusivity as a point of negotiations in the free trade agreement due to concerns about public health. The relevant passage text supporting this answer is: "Indian officials have rejected data exclusivity as a point of negotiations in the FTA, though leaked drafts of the agreement suggest that it is alive." This implies that the rejection is based on the officials' concerns regarding the potential impact of data exclusivity on public health initiatives.

a). Lack of awareness: The passage does not suggest that Indian officials rejected data exclusivity due to a lack of awareness. Instead, it indicates a deliberate rejection based on concerns about public health.

c). Pressure from pharmaceutical companies: While the passage mentions a constant tussle between inventors and generic-drug companies, it does not explicitly state that pressure from pharmaceutical companies led to the rejection of data exclusivity.

d). Opposition from EFTA countries: The passage does not provide information about opposition from EFTA countries as a reason for Indian officials rejecting data exclusivity. The rejection is linked to concerns about public health.

e). Economic considerations: The passage does not indicate that economic considerations were the primary reason for the rejection of data exclusivity. The focus is on public health concerns as the driving factor.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) Concerns about public health, as explicitly mentioned in the passage. The other options are not supported by the information provided in the passage.

4. Questions

Answer: C

Intellectual property rights

The correct answer is (c) Intellectual property rights. The passage mentions that a bone of contention in the negotiations relates to intellectual property rights, particularly since 2008.

The passage explicitly mentions that a persistent bone of contention in the free trade agreement negotiations between India and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) relates to intellectual property rights. The specific line in the passage supporting this answer is: "However, a bone of contention relates to intellectual property rights, and has persisted as an issue since 2008." This indicates that intellectual property rights have been a consistent source of disagreement in the negotiations.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). Agricultural subsidies: While agricultural subsidies are a common point of contention in international trade agreements, the passage does not mention them as a specific bone of contention in the negotiations between India and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA).

b). Environmental regulations: The passage does not discuss environmental regulations as a specific point of contention in the free trade agreement negotiations between India and EFTA. The focus of the passage is on intellectual property rights, particularly related to pharmaceuticals and biotechnology.

d). Trade tariffs: There is no mention of trade tariffs as a persistent bone of contention in the negotiations between India and EFTA in the provided passage. The primary focus is on intellectual property rights and their impact on the pharmaceutical industry.

e). Labor laws: The passage does not indicate that labour laws are a persistent bone of contention in the negotiations between India and EFTA. The primary issue discussed in the passage is related to intellectual property rights and their implications for the pharmaceutical and biotechnology sectors.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) Intellectual property rights, as it is explicitly mentioned in the passage. The other options are not supported by the information provided in the passage.

5. Questions

Answer: B

Switzerland and Norway

The correct answer is (b) Switzerland and Norway. The passage explicitly states that Switzerland and Norway, prominent members of EFTA, host several pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies.

The passage explicitly states that Switzerland and Norway are prominent members of the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) with pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies. The relevant line in the passage supporting this answer is: "Switzerland and Norway, which are prominent members of EFTA, host several of the pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies that are responsible for several of the drugs and therapeutics that underpin health care globally." This indicates that Switzerland and Norway play a significant role in the pharmaceutical and biotechnology sectors within EFTA.

6. Questions

Answer: C

Protecting clinical trial data

The correct answer is (c) Protecting clinical trial data. The passage explains that under data exclusivity, clinical trial data becomes proprietary and out of bounds for a minimum period of six years.

The passage explains that the primary function of data exclusivity in the pharmaceutical industry is to protect clinical trial data. Under data exclusivity, the clinical trial data generated by the originator firm becomes proprietary and out of bounds for a minimum period of six years. The relevant passage text supporting this answer is: "Under this provision, all the clinical-trial data that concerns the safety and efficacy of a drug generated by the originator firm becomes proprietary and out of bounds for a minimum period of six years." This implies that the purpose of data exclusivity is to safeguard the exclusive rights to the clinical trial data of a drug, preventing others from using it during the specified period.

a). Encouraging global collaboration: The passage does not provide information to support the idea that the primary function of data exclusivity is to encourage global collaboration. Instead, it emphasizes the protection of clinical trial data and its proprietary nature.

b). Reducing drug development costs: The passage does not suggest that data exclusivity plays a role in reducing drug development costs. The focus is on the protection of clinical trial data, and there is no indication that this protection leads to a reduction in overall drug development expenses.

d). Promoting generic drug production: The passage does not support the notion that data exclusivity promotes generic drug production. In fact, it suggests a constant struggle between inventors and generic-drug companies, and data exclusivity is presented as a provision that can hinder the production of generic drugs.

e). Expediting regulatory approvals: While the passage mentions that generic makers usually rely on the originator's published data for regulatory approvals, it does not state that the primary function of data exclusivity is to expedite regulatory approvals. Data exclusivity, in this context, serves to protect the clinical trial data rather than facilitate faster regulatory processes.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) Protecting clinical trial data, as explicitly mentioned in the passage. The other options are not supported by the information provided in the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: C

Investment in fundamental research

The correct answer is (c) Investment in fundamental research. The passage indicates that for India to continue rising in the drug manufacturing chain, it must invest substantially more in fundamental research.

The passage suggests that a prerequisite for India to continue rising in the drug manufacturing chain is to invest substantially more in fundamental research. The relevant passage text supporting this answer is: "But as preparation, India must invest substantially more in fundamental research to incubate the local drug industry into the future." This indicates that the passage advocates for increased investment in fundamental research as a necessary step for the advancement of India's drug manufacturing capabilities.

a). Increased focus on agricultural research: The passage does not mention any connection between India's rise in the drug manufacturing chain and an increased focus on agricultural research. The emphasis is on fundamental research related to the pharmaceutical industry.

b). Adoption of stringent labour laws: There is no indication in the passage that the adoption of stringent labour laws is a prerequisite for India's advancement in the drug manufacturing chain. The focus is on research and development.

d). Collaboration with developed countries: While the passage mentions the paradigm shift that drug development need not be confined to the West, it does not specifically suggest collaboration with developed countries as a prerequisite for India's progress in drug manufacturing.

e). Emphasis on environmental sustainability: The passage does not discuss environmental sustainability as a prerequisite for India's advancement in the drug manufacturing chain. The emphasis is on investing in fundamental research to support the local drug industry.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) Investment in fundamental research, as explicitly mentioned in the passage. The other options are not supported by the information provided in the passage.

8. Questions

Answer: A

1 and 5

Morality: "Morality" accurately represents the ethical aspect and values associated with human behavior. In the context of the novel exploring the interplay between science and morality, it aligns with the ethical considerations of scientific advancements.

Dilemmas: "Dilemmas" refers to situations involving difficult choices. It captures the essence of the ethical challenges and conflicts that arise when scientific advancements outpace societal understanding. This term complements the exploration of complex interactions between science and morality.

Skepticism and Innovation: While both "skepticism" and "innovation" may be relevant in discussions about science, "morality" and "dilemmas" more specifically address the ethical dimension that the sentence emphasizes. "Skepticism" might imply doubt or questioning without necessarily delving into the ethical implications, and "innovation" focuses more on the positive aspects of advancement rather than the potential ethical challenges.

Superstition and Rigidity: These terms do not fit well with the context of exploring the interplay between science and ethics. "Superstition" is unrelated to the scientific context, and "rigidity" does not capture the ethical dimension of the challenges arising from scientific advancements.

In summary, "morality" and "dilemmas" were chosen for their precision and relevance to the exploration of the ethical aspects of the interplay between science and society. The other options, while valid in different contexts, may not align as closely with the specific nuances of the intended meaning in this sentence.

So, the revised sentence reads: “The novel aims to explore the complex interplay between science and morality delving into the ethical dilemmas that arise when scientific advancements outpace societal understanding.”

9. Questions

Answer: D

1 and 6

Breaches: "Breaches" accurately represents the security incidents that the bank aims to detect and prevent through its efforts to enhance cybersecurity.

Safeguards: "Safeguards" aligns with the goal of ensuring the protection and security of customer information. It emphasizes the measures taken to prevent security breaches and unauthorized access.

Vulnerabilities and Confidentiality: While "vulnerabilities" may be associated with cybersecurity, it doesn't specifically address security incidents. "Confidentiality" is related to protecting information but doesn't capture the specific idea of preventing security breaches.

Infringements and Fortifications: "Infringements" is not as specific as "breaches" in the context of security incidents. "Fortifications" refers to strengthening defenses but doesn't specifically address the detection and prevention of security breaches.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In summary, "breaches" and "safeguards" were chosen for their precision and relevance to the bank's efforts to enhance cybersecurity and ensure the security of customer information. The other options, while valid in different contexts, may not align as closely with the specific nuances of the intended meaning in this sentence.

10. Questions

Answer: A

1 and 2

Returns: "Returns" accurately represents the potential profits or gains that investors aim for when making investments. It aligns with the recommendation of a diverse portfolio to enhance the overall returns.

Volatility: "Volatility" is relevant to the recommendation of spreading investments to minimize risk. It refers to the degree of variation of a trading price series over time, indicating the potential for price fluctuations. Diversifying across different asset classes can help mitigate the impact of market volatility.

Stagnation and Losses: "Stagnation" does not fit the context of emphasizing the potential for returns and minimizing risk. "Losses" is relevant to risk but does not capture the positive aspect of potential gains.

Appreciation: While "appreciation" is a valid term in finance, it does not directly align with the advisor's recommendation of spreading investments to minimize risk and enhance potential returns. "Appreciation" typically implies an increase in value over time but doesn't capture the broader concept of overall financial returns.

Corrections: "Corrections" refers to a decline in the market value of an asset after a period of growth. While it is a valid term, it doesn't fit well in the context of the sentence. The advisor is emphasizing the importance of a diverse portfolio to minimize risk, which includes protecting against market corrections.

In summary, "returns" and "volatility" were chosen for their precision and relevance to the investment advisor's recommendation of a diverse portfolio to minimize risk and enhance potential gains. The other options, while valid in different contexts, may not align as closely with the specific nuances of the intended meaning in this sentence.

11. Questions

Answer: C

5 and 6

Efficiency: "Efficiency" is relevant in the context of incorporating AI algorithms to personalize workout plans. The goal is to make the fitness app more efficient in providing tailored workout plans that suit individual users, optimizing their fitness routines.

Accountability: "Accountability" complements the idea of personalizing workout plans. It implies that users are held accountable for following their personalized plans, fostering a sense of responsibility in their fitness journey.

Options 1, 2, 3, and 4 are incorrect in this context:

Effectiveness (1): While effectiveness is important, the focus in the context is on making the fitness app more efficient and personalized.

Accessibility (2): Accessibility typically relates to ease of use or availability, and it is not the primary focus in the context of personalizing workout plans.

Motivation (3): Although motivation is essential in a fitness context, it is not directly related to the efficiency and accountability of providing personalized workout plans.

Transparency (4): Transparency is not directly related to personalizing workout plans. In this context, the emphasis is on efficiency and accountability.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

Answer: A

1 and 6

Enhanced: This term accurately represents the positive impact of the scientist's research on our understanding of the universe, suggesting an improvement or enrichment.

Propelled: "Propelled" complements the idea of the research not only enhancing understanding but also driving forward or creating momentum for future exploration.

Challenged: While a valid term for pushing the boundaries of understanding, "enhanced" was chosen for its positive connotation that fits well with the context.

Restricted: This term is contrary to the idea of the research expanding our understanding and opening up new possibilities.

Opened: While "opened" might seem to convey the idea of revealing or uncovering new possibilities, it doesn't capture the depth of impact suggested by the context. The term doesn't fully express the profound nature of the scientist's research and its transformative effect on understanding and future exploration. "Opened" is more associated with doors, possibilities, or opportunities, and in this context, it may not be as strong and accurate as "enhanced" and "propelled."

Diminished: This term is opposite in meaning to the intended effect of the groundbreaking research, which is to enhance and expand our understanding.

In summary, "enhanced" and "propelled" were chosen for their positive connotations and their alignment with the context of the sentence. The other options, while valid in certain contexts, do not convey the intended meaning as effectively. Therefore, the revised sentence reads: "The scientist's groundbreaking research not only enhanced our understanding of the universe but also propelled new possibilities for future exploration."

13. Questions

Answer: B

Only II

I). In this sentence, "perpetual" is correctly used to describe the continuous, uninterrupted motion of the windmill.

II). In this sentence, the word "knave" is used incorrectly. "Knave" traditionally refers to a deceitful or dishonest person, and it does not mean someone skilled in various areas. The more appropriate term for someone skilled in various fields would be "jack of all trades."

III). In this sentence, "incumbent" is correctly used to refer to the current holder of a position, in this case, the current mayor seeking re-election.

14. Questions

Answer: A

Only I

Tg:- @NextGenBankers
sky53up@gmail.com

I). In this sentence, "forbearance" is used incorrectly. Forbearance typically implies patience, restraint, or tolerance, and promptly firing someone does not align with the concept of patience or tolerance.

II). The word "camaraderie" is used correctly. "Camaraderie" refers to a spirit of friendship and mutual support among a group, and in this context, it appropriately describes the positive and supportive environment within the team, both on and off the field.

III). In this sentence, "discreet" is correctly used to convey the idea of careful and unobtrusive handling of sensitive information to maintain confidentiality.

15. Questions

Answer: C

Only III

I). In this sentence, "despicable" is used correctly to describe actions that are morally reprehensible and deserving of strong disapproval.

II). In this sentence, "revel" is correctly used to describe the lively and celebratory atmosphere at the New Year's Eve party, with people engaging in joyful and festive activities.

III). In this sentence, "ominous" is used incorrectly. "Ominous" typically conveys a sense of foreboding or threat, often associated with something negative or harmful. The use of "ominous" in connection with a pleasant surprise is contradictory to its usual meaning.

16. Questions

Answer: E

Both I and III

In this sentence, "palatable" is used incorrectly. "Palatable" means pleasant or acceptable to the taste, and it contradicts the description of the medicine having a taste that made children grimace with distaste.

In this sentence, "dispel" is correctly used to convey the idea of removing or eliminating confusion through clear communication.

In this sentence, "apposite" is used incorrectly. The correct term in this context should be "positive," as "apposite" means relevant or appropriate, which doesn't fit the intended meaning of the sentence.

17. Questions

Answer: C

Both A and C

A). The error in this sentence is "prefers to stay out from it." The correct form is "prefers to stay out of it." The preposition "of" is used after the phrase "stay out."

Corrected Sentence A: "She is not interested in politics and prefers to stay out of it."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "jumped off from the table." The correct form is "jumped off the table." The preposition "off" is sufficient; there's no need for "from"

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:-@NextGenBankers

Corrected Sentence C: "The cat jumped off the table and ran towards the door."

18. Questions

Answer: C

Both A and C

A). The error in this sentence is "performed good." The correct form is "performed well." The adverb "well" is used to modify the verb "performed."

Corrected Sentence A: "The athlete performed well in the competition, surprising everyone with his skills."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "soothing and a calm." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "a soothing and calm atmosphere."

Corrected Sentence C: "She plays the piano beautifully, creating a soothing and calm atmosphere."

19. Questions

Answer: B

Both A and C

A). The error in this sentence is "Each of the students in the classroom were." The correct form should be "Each of the students in the classroom was." When "each" is used before a singular noun, the verb should be singular.

Corrected Sentence A: "Each of the students in the classroom was given a copy of the textbook."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "collection of old coins were." The correct form should be "collection of old coins was." The term "collection" is a singular noun, and when referring to it as a single entity, a singular verb is used.

Corrected Sentence C: "The collection of old coins was displayed in a glass case."

20. Questions

Answer: C

Both B and C

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). The error in this sentence is "colorful and a comfortable." The correct form is "colorful and comfortable dress."

Corrected Sentence B: "Despite the rainy weather, she wore a colorful and comfortable dress."

C). The error in this sentence is "elaborate and a well-designed." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "elaborate and well-designed."

sky5sup@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

Corrected Sentence C: "Not only the play but also the costumes were elaborate and well-designed."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:
Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has called for US solidarity in his address to Congress, despite declining popularity and increasing opposition in his own country. In an address to the United States Congress, Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu sought to rally American lawmakers behind Israel's ongoing military operations in Gaza. The speech, delivered amidst a backdrop of escalating violence and rising civilian casualties, underscored Netanyahu's determination to secure unwavering support from Israel's most powerful ally. He emphasised the existential threats faced by Israel from militant groups operating in Gaza, particularly Hamas. The Prime Minister framed the military actions as a necessary response to ongoing rocket attacks and acts of terrorism that have plagued Israeli communities. However, Netanyahu's speech did not address the mounting international concerns regarding human rights violations in the Palestinian territories. Reports from various human rights organizations, including Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch, have highlighted a range of human rights violations. The humanitarian crisis in Gaza has been further exacerbated by a blockade that severely restricts the movement of people and goods, leading to shortages of essential supplies such as food, water, and medical care. The present Gaza offensive, which has gone over 250 days, has left a spree of death and destruction. According to the Gaza Ministry of Health, at least 34,000 people have been killed, and more than 77,000 have been wounded in Israeli attacks. About 72 per cent of those killed are women and children. United Nations human rights chief Volker Turk has gone on record saying that a child in Gaza is killed or wounded 'every 10 minutes.' Israel's actions violate international law and constitute collective punishment, disproportionately affecting innocent civilians and deepening the humanitarian crisis. The United States, as Israel's primary ally, plays a pivotal role in shaping the dynamics of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. This support has also placed the US under scrutiny, with calls for it to leverage its influence to promote peace and uphold human rights. The very weaponry provided by the US is being used by Israel against the civilian population in Palestine which is undergoing a horrendous time. There is growing advocacy within the US, both among the public and some members of Congress, for a more balanced approach. The US is urged to take a firm stand against human rights violations and to support diplomatic efforts aimed at achieving a sustainable and just resolution to the conflict. A sustainable peace can only be achieved through a comprehensive and inclusive approach that addresses the legitimate concerns of both parties. The US has a moral and strategic responsibility to advocate for human rights and justice in the region. The US can play a pivotal role in paving the lasting peace in the region by telling Netanyahu to comply with the UN directives on Gaza and stop bombing the civilian targets to minimise civilian casualties.

What role does the United States play in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict according to the passage?

a. A neutral mediator
b. Israel's primary ally
c. A distant observer
d. An economic adversary
e. A humanitarian aid provider

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

What is the growing advocacy within the US calling for in relation to the Israeli-Palestinian conflict?

a. More military support for Israel

b. Increased economic sanctions on Palestine

c. A balanced approach and support for diplomatic efforts

d. Withdrawal from all Middle Eastern affairs

e. More financial aid to Gaza

3. Questions

What has been one significant impact of the blockade on Gaza?

a. Increased economic prosperity

b. Improved healthcare infrastructure

c. Shortages of essential supplies

d. Expansion of educational facilities

e. Increase in tourism

4. Questions

Which organizations have reported human rights violations in the Palestinian territories?

a. United Nations and NATO

b. World Health Organization and UNICEF

c. Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch

d. Red Cross and Doctors Without Borders

e. International Monetary Fund and World Bank

5. Questions

Which of the following statements is NOT mentioned in the passage?

a. Netanyahu's speech did not address mounting international concerns regarding human rights violations.

b. The United States plays a pivotal role in shaping the dynamics of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

c. Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch have highlighted a range of human rights violations.

d. The blockade has led to improved economic conditions in Gaza.

e. Netanyahu emphasized the existential threats faced by Israel from militant groups operating in Gaza.

6. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Which of the following is the best antonym for the term "exacerbated" as used in the passage?

a. Aggravated

b. Improved

c. Intensified

d. Worsened

e. Compounded

7. Questions

What is the overall tone of the passage regarding Netanyahu's speech and the situation in Gaza?

a. Optimistic

b. Neutral

c. Critical

d. Humorous

e. Indifferent

8. Questions

In the given question, sentences are given in jumbled form. Rearrange them in proper order and answer the questions that follow.

A). India has managed to (a)/ preserve many monuments and (b)/ despite numerous invasions (c)/ aimed at destruction and loot, (d)/much of its cultural ethos. (e)

B). India, a land of cultural consciousness, great traditions, and rich heritage, is home to 43 UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

C). Among these, 34 are cultural, seven are natural, and one, Kanchenjunga National Park, is of mixed type.

D). Education, and local economies (a)/ a crucial role in tourism, (b)/to human civilization, playing (c)/ symbols of India's contribution (d)/ these heritage sites are living. (e)

E). This impressive number places India sixth in the world for the number of heritage sites recognized globally by UNESCO

Which of the following is the penultimate sentence after rearrangement?

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

9. Questions

Sentence A is divided into five parts. Rearrange the parts into a meaningful sentence and mark the option accordingly.

a. abecd

b. cdabe

c. baecd

d. cbaed

e. None of these

10. Questions

Which of the following is the hind most statement after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

11. Questions

Sentence D is divided into five parts. Rearrange the parts into a meaningful sentence and mark the option accordingly.

a. ebacd

b. edcab

c. edcba

d. cbaed

e. None of these

12. Questions

Which of the following should form a consecutive pair after re-arrangement?

a. A-B

b. A-C

c. B-C

d. B-E

e. C-D

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

13. Questions

In each of the following questions one word is highlighted in bold, and using that highlighted word four sentences are framed, in four sentences three will be synonyms for the highlighted word and one is an antonym for the word. You are required to find an antonym for the highlighted word.

ANGST

a. She was in agony after spraining her ankle during the marathon, barely able to walk.

b. Despite her initial apprehension about starting a new job, she quickly adapted and began to enjoy the work.

c. She felt a sense of dread as the deadline for the project approached, knowing there was still much work to be done.

d. The placidity of the lake in the early morning made it the perfect spot for meditation and reflection.

e. None of the above

14. Questions

EGREGIOUS

a. The scientist was praised for his commendable efforts in making groundbreaking discoveries that greatly benefited the field of medicine.

b. The conditions in the abandoned building were atrocious, with severe neglect and hazardous debris everywhere.

c. The loss of the historical artifacts was a grievous blow to the museum, depriving it of invaluable pieces of cultural heritage.

d. The judge described the crime as heinous, emphasizing the extreme cruelty and inhumanity of the acts committed.

e. None of the above

15. Questions

TUMULTUOUS

a. The party was filled with raucous laughter and music, making it clear that everyone was having a great time.

b. The audience fell into a hushed silence as the orchestra began to play the opening notes of the symphony.

c. The festival was a riotous celebration of music, colour, and dancing, with people from all over the world joining in the exuberant festivities.

d. The days leading up to the event were incredibly hectic, with last-minute preparations and numerous tasks to complete.

e. None of the above

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

EXACERBATE

a. Leaving the window open during the allergy season can aggravate your symptoms.

b. The company plans to augment its workforce by hiring additional employees to meet the increased demand.

c. To appease the dissatisfied customers, the company offered them discounts and a sincere apology.

d. The controversial speech was designed to provoke a strong reaction from the audience.

e. None of the above

17. Questions

EVICT

a. The school decided to expel the student after multiple violations of the code of conduct.

b. The factory uses a process to extrude plastic into long, flexible tubes for various applications.

c. The government decided to expropriate the land for the construction of a new highway, offering fair compensation to the affected property owners.

d. She decided to engage in the community service project to help those in need and make a positive impact.

e. None of the above

18. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

The International Court of Justice (ICJ) recently _____ a historic decision on Israel's occupation of the Palestinian territory in the Legal _____ arising from the Policies and Practices of Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, including East Jerusalem case.

a. delivered, consequences

b. issued, implications

c. announced, ramifications

d. pronounced, outcomes

e. revealed, judgments

19. Questions

India's e-commerce sector has been _____ on by a _____ of factors, including government initiatives, reduced smartphone and data plan prices, and a significant shift in consumer behaviour.

Tg. - @NextGenBankers

a. hindered, group

b. constrained, set

c. challenged, array

d. spurred, confluence

e. regulated, sequence

20. Questions

India's first two _____ in 1962 and 1971 were justified by the _____ of the Indo-China and Indo-Pak wars, respectively.

a. announcements, reasons

b. decisions, causes

c. proclamations, exigencies

d. declarations, motives

e. measures, impacts

21. Questions

Since emission trading schemes will only _____ as the world goes net-zero, countries in the Global south, aiming for their own trading schemes, will look _____ towards India's experience.

a. diminish, indifferently

b. stabilize, vaguely

c. contract, attentively

d. fluctuate, passively

e. proliferate, keenly

22. Questions

Bihar and Andhra Pradesh asked for a special category status based on socio-economic backwardness, _____ to natural calamities and a _____ fiscal space.

a. susceptibility, ample

b. venerable, restricted

c. exposure, liberal

d. propensity, constrained

e. inclination, broad

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

Correct Answer: b) Israel's primary ally

a). A neutral mediator: This option is incorrect. The passage does not describe the United States as a neutral mediator. Instead, it highlights the strong supportive role that the US plays in favour of Israel, which contradicts the concept of neutrality.

b). Israel's primary ally: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly refers to the United States as Israel's "most powerful ally." It discusses how Netanyahu's speech was aimed at rallying American lawmakers to support Israel's military actions and how the US's role is pivotal in shaping the dynamics of the conflict. The passage emphasizes the close and influential relationship between the US and Israel.

c). A distant observer: This option is incorrect. The passage indicates that the United States is actively involved in the conflict by providing support to Israel. It is not described as a distant observer but as a key player in the conflict.

d). An economic adversary: This option is incorrect. The passage does not describe the United States as an adversary to Israel, economically or otherwise. Instead, it highlights the supportive role of the US towards Israel.

e). A humanitarian aid provider: While the US may provide humanitarian aid, the passage focuses on its strategic and political alliance with Israel rather than solely on humanitarian assistance. The key role highlighted in the passage is that of a primary ally rather than just a provider of aid.

In summary, the passage clearly depicts the United States as Israel's primary ally, emphasizing the strong support and influence the US exerts in favour of Israel in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Answer is: c) A balanced approach and support for diplomatic efforts a). More military support for Israel: This option is incorrect. The passage does not mention a call for increased military support for Israel. Instead, it highlights a shift towards advocating for a more balanced approach.

b). Increased economic sanctions on Palestine: This option is incorrect. The passage does not mention any calls for increased economic sanctions on Palestine. The advocacy discussed is not focused on punitive measures against Palestine.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c). A balanced approach and support for diplomatic efforts: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly states that there is growing advocacy within the US, both among the public and some members of Congress, for a more balanced approach. It calls for supporting diplomatic efforts aimed at achieving a sustainable and just resolution to the conflict. This approach includes taking a firm stand against human rights violations and promoting peace and justice in the region.

d). Withdrawal from all Middle Eastern affairs: This option is incorrect. The passage does not mention a call for the US to withdraw from Middle Eastern affairs. Instead, it discusses the need for the US to play a proactive and balanced role in addressing the conflict.

e). More financial aid to Gaza: This option is incorrect. While financial aid to Gaza might be a part of the broader discussion, the specific advocacy mentioned in the passage focuses on a balanced approach and diplomatic efforts rather than solely on increasing financial aid.

In summary, the growing advocacy within the US is calling for a more balanced approach and support for diplomatic efforts to resolve the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. This includes addressing human rights violations and promoting a sustainable and just resolution, highlighting the importance of a comprehensive and inclusive strategy.

3. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Answer is: c) Shortages of essential supplies such as food, water, and medical care a). Increased economic prosperity: This option is incorrect. The passage explicitly describes the negative impacts of the blockade, including severe shortages of essential supplies. Increased economic prosperity is not mentioned and would be contrary to the described conditions.

b). Improved healthcare infrastructure: This option is incorrect. The passage indicates that the blockade has led to a worsening humanitarian crisis, including shortages of medical care, which suggests a deterioration rather than improvement of healthcare infrastructure.

c). Shortages of essential supplies such as food, water, and medical care: This is the correct answer. The passage states that the blockade has severely restricted the movement of people and goods, leading to shortages of essential supplies such as food, water, and medical care. This significant impact is directly linked to the humanitarian crisis in Gaza.

d). Expansion of educational facilities: This option is incorrect. The passage does not mention any expansion of educational facilities. Instead, it focuses on the negative consequences of the blockade, which do not include educational improvements.

e). Increase in tourism: This option is incorrect. The passage describes a dire humanitarian situation resulting from the blockade, which would be inconsistent with an increase in tourism. Tourism is not mentioned as an impact of the blockade.

In summary, the significant impact of the blockade on Gaza, as described in the passage, is the severe shortages of essential supplies such as food, water, and medical care. This has exacerbated the humanitarian crisis in the region, leading to further suffering for the civilian population.

4. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

The Correct Answer is: c) Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch

a). United Nations and NATO: This option is incorrect. While the United Nations is mentioned in the context of condemning the actions and humanitarian crisis, NATO is not mentioned in the passage as reporting human rights violations.

b). World Health Organization and UNICEF: This option is incorrect. The passage does not mention these organizations in the context of reporting human rights violations. WHO and UNICEF are typically involved in health and children's welfare but are not cited here.

c). Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly mentions these two organizations as having highlighted a range of human rights violations in the Palestinian territories. They are well-known for their work in monitoring and reporting on human rights issues worldwide.

d). Red Cross and Doctors Without Borders: This option is incorrect. Although these organizations are active in conflict zones and provide humanitarian aid, they are not mentioned in the passage as reporting on human rights violations in the Palestinian territories.

e). International Monetary Fund and World Bank: This option is incorrect. These organizations focus on economic development and financial stability and are not related to reporting human rights violations, nor are they mentioned in the passage.

In summary, the passage specifically cites Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch as the organizations that have reported human rights violations in the Palestinian territories. These organizations are renowned for their comprehensive and credible documentation of human rights abuses.

5. Questions

Answer: D

The Correct Answer is: d) The blockade has led to improved economic conditions in Gaza.

a). Netanyahu's speech did not address mounting international concerns regarding human rights violations: This statement is mentioned in the passage. It specifically notes that Netanyahu's speech did not address these concerns.

b). The United States plays a pivotal role in shaping the dynamics of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict: This statement is mentioned in the passage. It discusses the influential role of the US in the conflict.

c). Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch have highlighted a range of human rights violations: This statement is mentioned in the passage. It references these organizations reporting human rights violations.

d). The blockade has led to improved economic conditions in Gaza: This is the correct answer. The passage describes the negative impacts of the blockade, including shortages of essential supplies and worsening humanitarian conditions, not improved economic conditions.

e). Netanyahu emphasized the existential threats faced by Israel from militant groups operating in Gaza: This statement is mentioned in the passage. It explains that Netanyahu emphasized these threats in his speech.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: B

The Correct Answer is: b) Improved

a). Aggravated: Incorrect, "aggravated" is a synonym, meaning to make worse, which is similar to "exacerbated."

b). Improved: Correct, "improved" is the best antonym for "exacerbated." While "exacerbated" means to make a situation worse, "improved" means to make a situation better.

c). Intensified: Incorrect, "intensified" is a synonym, meaning to make more severe, which is similar to "exacerbated."

d). Worsened: Incorrect, "worsened" is a synonym, meaning to make worse, which is similar to "exacerbated."

e). Compounded: Incorrect, "compounded" is a synonym, meaning to increase or add to, which is similar to "exacerbated."

In summary, "improved" is the best antonym for "exacerbated," as it indicates making a situation better rather than worse.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Answer is: c) Critical

a). Optimistic: Incorrect, the passage does not convey a hopeful or positive outlook. Instead, it highlights serious concerns about the humanitarian situation and human rights violations.

b). Neutral: Incorrect, the passage takes a stance and presents critical viewpoints, particularly regarding the actions of Israel and the humanitarian crisis in Gaza.

c). Critical: Correct, the tone of the passage is critical. It scrutinizes Netanyahu's failure to address human rights concerns and highlights the severe humanitarian crisis and the negative impact of the blockade on Gaza.

d). Humorous: Incorrect, the passage discusses serious issues related to conflict, human rights, and humanitarian crises, and does not use humor.

e). Indifferent: Incorrect, the passage is far from indifferent; it expresses strong concern about the human rights violations and the humanitarian situation in Gaza.

In summary, the overall tone of the passage is critical.

8. Questions

Answer: A

The paragraph highlights India's cultural heritage and the significance of its UNESCO World Heritage Sites, emphasizing their global ranking and impact.

The passage begins with sentence B, introducing India's rich heritage and the total number of UNESCO World Heritage Sites it has. Sentence C provides a breakdown of these sites by type. Sentence E highlights India's global ranking for the number of these sites. Sentence A explains how India has managed to preserve its heritage despite historical invasions. Finally, sentence D discusses the role of these sites in representing India's contribution to civilization and their significance in various sectors.

So, the correct sequence is: B – C – E – A – D.

The penultimate sentence in a paragraph is the one that appears just before the last sentence and serves as a bridge or transition to the final point. In this sequence, Sentence A, " Despite numerous invasions aimed at destruction and loot, India has managed to preserve many monuments and much of its cultural ethos." is the penultimate sentence.

9. Questions

Answer: B

The corrected sentence is:

Despite numerous invasions aimed at destruction and loot, India has managed to preserve many monuments and much of its cultural ethos.

10. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph highlights India's cultural heritage and the significance of its UNESCO World Heritage Sites, emphasizing their global ranking and impact.

The passage begins with sentence B, introducing India's rich heritage and the total number of UNESCO World Heritage Sites it has. Sentence C provides a breakdown of these sites by type. Sentence E highlights India's global ranking for the number of these sites. Sentence A explains how India has managed to preserve its heritage despite historical invasions. Finally, sentence D discusses the role of these sites in representing India's contribution to civilization and their significance in various sectors.

So, the correct sequence is: B – C – E – A – D.

The hindmost statement, also known as the last sentence, is the final statement that concludes the paragraph. The hindmost or last sentence is Sentence D: " These heritage sites are living symbols of India's contribution to human civilization, playing a crucial role in tourism, education, and local economies."

11. Questions

Answer: C

The corrected sentence is:

These heritage sites are living symbols of India's contribution to human civilization, playing a crucial role in tourism, education, and local economies.

12. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph highlights India's cultural heritage and the significance of its UNESCO World Heritage Sites, emphasizing their global ranking and impact.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The passage begins with sentence B, introducing India's rich heritage and the total number of UNESCO World Heritage Sites it has. Sentence C provides a breakdown of these sites by type. Sentence E highlights India's global ranking for the number of these sites. Sentence A explains how India has managed to preserve its heritage despite historical invasions. Finally, sentence D discusses the role of these sites in representing India's contribution to civilization and their significance in various sectors.

So, the correct sequence is: B – C – E – A – D.

The consecutive pair after rearrangement is: B-C.

13. Questions

Answer: D

The antonym for "angst " is reflected in option d). "Angst" refers to a feeling of deep anxiety or dread. The opposite, or antonym, of angst would involve calmness or tranquillity. Option d) describes the placid and peaceful nature of the lake, which contrasts with the idea of angst. The other options (a, b and c) do not provide an antonym for "angst. "

14. Questions

Answer: A

The antonym for " egregious " is reflected in option a). "Egregious" means outstandingly bad or shocking. whereas "commendable" refers to something deserving of praise or approval, making it the opposite. The other options (b, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " egregious."

15. Questions

Answer: B

The antonym for " tumultuous " is reflected in option b). The term "Tumultuous" refers to a state of disorder, chaos, or noisy disturbance. The opposite, or antonym, of tumultuous would involve calmness or tranquillity. Option b) describes a scene of hushed silence, which contrasts with the idea of tumultuousness. The other options (a, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " tumultuous."

16. Questions

Answer: C

The antonym for " exacerbate " is reflected in option c). "Exacerbate" means to make a situation worse or more intense. The opposite, or antonym, would involve alleviating or improving the situation. Option c) describes actions taken to appease and improve the situation for dissatisfied customers, which contrasts with the idea of exacerbating a problem. The other options (a, b and d) do not provide an antonym for " exacerbate."

17. Questions

Answer: D

The antonym for " evict " is reflected in option d). "Evict" means to force someone to leave a property or place. The opposite, or antonym, of evict would involve allowing or encouraging someone to stay or participate. Option d) describes someone engaging in a community service project to help others, which contrasts with the idea of eviction. The other options (a, b and c) do not provide an antonym for " evict."

18. Questions

Answer: A

Correct Option: a) delivered, consequences

"Delivered" means to present or make known, fitting well to describe the action of issuing a decision. "Consequences" means the result or outcome, which correctly describes the nature of the legal matter

skyjain@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

addressed by the ICJ.

b). issued, implications: "Issued" means to give out or publish, which could be a fit but is less specific than "delivered" in the context of a judicial decision. "Implications" means the possible effects or results, which is a close alternative to "consequences" but not the best fit in this context.

c). announced, ramifications: "Announced" means to make a public declaration, which could fit but is less formal than "delivered" in the context of a court decision. "Ramifications" means complex or unwelcome consequences, which is somewhat fitting but does not align perfectly with "consequences" in a legal context.

d). pronounced, outcomes: "Pronounced" means to declare formally or officially, which could fit but is less common than "delivered" for decisions. "Outcomes" means the results, which is a reasonable alternative but less precise in a legal context than "consequences."

e). revealed, judgments: "Revealed" means to make something known, which is less specific to the context of delivering a decision. "Judgments" refers to the formal decisions of a court but is less appropriate than "consequences" in this specific context.

In summary, option (a) "delivered, consequences" is the most fitting for accurately describing the ICJ's action and the nature of the case.

19. Questions

Answer: D

Correct Option: d) spurred, confluence

"Spurred" means stimulated or encouraged, which accurately describes how the sector has been driven forward. "Confluence" means a coming together of multiple factors, which aptly describes the combination of influences affecting the e-commerce sector.

a). hindered, group: "Hindered" means to obstruct or delay, which contradicts the idea of growth and positive influence. "Group" means a number of people or things, which does not effectively capture the idea of various combined factors.

b). constrained, set: "Constrained" means restricted or limited, which contradicts the notion of growth and positive impact. "Set" means a collection of items or factors, which is too vague and does not convey the idea of a coming together of influences.

c). challenged, array: "Challenged" means confronted or tested, which suggests difficulty rather than growth. "Array" means an impressive display or range, but does not imply the combined effect of factors.

e). regulated, sequence: "Regulated" means controlled or managed, which does not fit the context of sector growth. "Sequence" means a particular order in which related events or things follow each other, which does not capture the idea of multiple factors coming together.

In summary, option (d) "spurred, confluence" provides the best fit for describing the positive influence of various factors on India's e-commerce sector.

20. Questions

Answer: C

Correct Option: c) proclamations, exigencies

"Proclamations" refers to formal public announcements or declarations, which fits the context of significant official declarations related to the wars. "Exigencies" means urgent needs or demands, which accurately describes the critical circumstances surrounding the wars.

a). announcements, reasons: "Announcements" refers to public statements but is less formal and specific than "proclamations" in this context. "Reasons" is a general term that does not fully capture the urgency implied by "exigencies."

b). decisions, causes: "Decisions" refers to judgments or choices, which is less specific than "proclamations" for describing formal declarations. "Causes" implies the origins or motivations behind actions, which does not fully convey the critical nature of the situation as "exigencies" does.

d). declarations, motives: "Declarations" is similar to "proclamations," but "proclamations" is a stronger term for formal announcements in this context. "Motives" refers to reasons behind actions, which does not capture the urgency and necessity implied by "exigencies."

e). measures, impacts: "Measures" refers to actions or steps taken, which is not as specific to formal public statements as "proclamations." "Impacts" refers to the effects or outcomes, which does not fit the context of justifying the proclamations related to the wars.

In summary, option (c) "proclamations, exigencies" is the most accurate choice for describing the formal public statements justified by the urgent circumstances of the wars.

21. Questions

Answer: E

Correct Option: e) proliferate, keenly

"Proliferate" means to increase rapidly in numbers, which fits the context of emission trading schemes becoming more widespread as the world aims for net-zero emissions. "Keenly" means with great interest or enthusiasm, which appropriately describes how countries in the Global South will be attentive to India's experience with trading schemes.

a). diminish, indifferently: "Diminish" means to decrease in size or importance, which contradicts the idea of schemes becoming more prevalent. "Indifferently" means without interest or concern, which is not suitable for describing how countries will look to India's experience.

b). stabilize, vaguely: "Stabilize" means to make or become stable, which does not fit with the idea of schemes increasing in number. "Vaguely" means in an unclear or imprecise manner, which does not convey the active interest described by "keenly."

c). contract, attentively: "Contract" means to decrease in size or number, which is the opposite of what is expected with emission trading schemes. "Attentively" means with close attention, which is close but not as precise as "keenly" in describing interest.

d). fluctuate, passively: "Fluctuate" means to rise and fall irregularly, which does not fit with the idea of schemes becoming more common. "Passively" means without active participation or interest, which is contrary to the active interest described by "keenly."

In summary, option (e) "proliferate, keenly" is the best fit for describing the expected increase in emission trading schemes and the active interest countries in the Global South will have in India's experience.

22. Questions

Answer: D

Correct Option: d) propensity, constrained

"Propensity" means a natural inclination or tendency, which fits the context of states being prone to natural calamities. "Constrained" means restricted or limited, which accurately describes the fiscal challenges faced by the states.

a). susceptibility, ample: "Susceptibility" means vulnerability or tendency to be affected, which is close but less specific than "propensity" in this context. "Ample" means more than enough, which contradicts the idea of limited fiscal space.

b). venerable, restricted: "Venerable" means commanding respect due to age or dignity, which does not fit the context of socio-economic backwardness. "Restricted" is similar to "constrained," but it does not fit as well with the idea of limited fiscal space as "constrained."

c). exposure, liberal: "Exposure" means the state of being exposed to something, which does not convey the specific tendency to natural calamities as "propensity" does. "Liberal" means generous or free, which is the opposite of "constrained" in describing limited fiscal space.

e). inclination, broad: "Inclination" means a tendency or preference, which is less specific than "propensity" for describing natural calamities. "Broad" means wide or extensive, which is contrary to the idea of limited fiscal space.

In summary, option (d) "propensity, constrained" best describes the states' request for special category status based on their vulnerability to natural calamities and fiscal limitations.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In each of the following questions, a sentence has been divided into five parts out of which one part is erroneous. You are required to choose the option which is grammatically or contextually incorrect.

As soon as I shall reach (A)/ the airport, I will send you a (B)/ message to let you know (C)/ I've arrived safely and then (D)/ proceed to check in for my flight (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

2. Questions

Gopal was trying for admission (A)/ in the engineering college and decided (B)/ to look for information regarding (C)/ the various programs, faculty, and campus facilities (D)/ to make an informed decision (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

3. Questions

There is sense of urgency (A)/ in his actions as he looks about (B)/ the crowded room, desperately (C)/ searching for his lost wallet before (D)/ the train departs in a few minutes (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

The two friends travelled together for many years, (A)/ sharing countless adventures and memories, (B)/ unless their paths diverged, (C)/ leading them to pursue different dreams (D)/ and aspirations in far-off corners of the world (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

5. Questions

He was hard down for money, (A)/ so he took on multiple part-time jobs, (B)/ cutting down on sleep and leisure time (C)/ in a desperate effort to make ends meet (D)/ and pay off his mounting debts (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

6. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

The 2024-25 Budget introduces significant provisions aimed at transforming the agricultural sector with a focus on sustainability, productivity and economic growth for farmers. One crore farmers are ____ (1) ____ to be initiated into natural farming within two years. This enterprise is to be complemented by establishing 10,000 bio-input resource centres for sustainable farm practices. To enhance vegetable production and streamline the supply chain, the Budget emphasises promoting Farmer Producer Organisations (FPOs), cooperatives and startups. Playing a critical role in the collection, storage and marketing of vegetables, these entities will help farmers receive better prices and reduce post-harvest losses. Another notable ____ (2) ____ is the release of 109 new high-yielding and climate-resilient varieties of 32 field and horticulture crops. It aims to address climate change challenges and ensure stable agricultural production. A review of the agricultural research setup is also planned. In a bid to reduce the country's dependence on imported edible oils, the Budget introduces measures to boost the cultivation of mustard, groundnut, sesame, soybean and sunflower. Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI) is set to revolutionise the sector by covering farmers and their lands within three years. However, these ____ (3) ____ provisions face implementation challenges. The widespread adoption of natural farming practices requires ____ (4) ____ training and support, which may strain resources. Establishing 10,000 bio-input resource centres and enhancing FPOs necessitate better coordination and investment. Promoting climate-resilient crop varieties and boosting oilseed production hinge on robust extension services. DPI initiatives also require overcoming technological barriers and ensuring equitable access. Addressing them is ____ (5) ____ for realising the Budget's vision.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labelled (1)?

a. deduced

b. reckoned

c. envisaged

d. conceited

e. contrived

7. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labelled (2)?

a. ambition

b. motivation

c. invention

d. initiative

e. strategy

8. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labelled (3)?

a. arduous

b. anxious

c. stubborn

d. ambitious

e. progressive

9. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labelled (4)?

a. generous

b. substantial

c. phenomenal

d. impervious

e. copious

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labelled (5)?

a. vital

b. cardinal

c. radical

d. vivacious

e. strenuous

11. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Column I	Column II
A). The Indian government's focus on improving ease of doing business aims	D). to boost investment in infrastructure projects and enhance economic growth.
B). The Indian government's economic reforms aim	E). to attract both domestic and foreign investment by reducing regulatory hurdles.
C). The implementation of the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) aims	F). to attract overseas investors and stimulate economic growth through various incentives.

a. Only A-E

b. Only C-D

c. Both A-F and B-E

d. Both A-E and C-D

e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

12. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). The government's emphasis on digital literacy aims to	D). to bridge the gap between education and industry requirements, enhancing employability.
B). The development of Special Economic Zones (SEZs) aims	E). to attract investment, boost exports, and create employment opportunities.
C). India's focus on skill development and vocational training aims	F). equip citizens with skills necessary to thrive in a digital economy.

a. Only A-D
b. Only B-E
c. Both B-E and C-F
d. Both A-D and C-F
e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

13. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The importance of remittances from the Indian diaspora significantly contributes to	D). the country's foreign exchange reserves and household incomes.
B). India's labor market reforms aim to improve job creation,	E). the need for modernization and adoption of advanced technologies.
C). The agricultural sector's dependence on traditional farming techniques underscores	F). GDP, driven by industries like IT, telecom, and finance.

a. Only A-D
b. Only C-E
c. Both A-D and C-E
d. Both B-F and C-D
e. All A-D, B-F and C-E

14. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). The emphasis on research and development (R&D) is crucial	D). for improving public health outcomes and supporting economic productivity.
B). The role of public-private partnerships (PPPs) in infrastructure development is crucial	E). for driving innovation and competitiveness in the Indian economy.
C). Investment in health care infrastructure is crucial	F). for leveraging private investment in public projects.

a. Only A-E
b. Only B-F
c. Both A-E and B-F
d. Both B-F and C-D
e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

15. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). India's digital payment ecosystem has grown rapidly	D). with the adoption of platforms like UPI, contributing to a cashless economy.
B). The impact of global economic conditions on India includes	E). self-reliance and supporting domestic manufacturing and entrepreneurship.
C). The real estate sector in India is expanding with increased demand	F). for reducing logistics costs and improving market access.

a. Only A-D
b. Only B-D
c. Both B-D and C-F
d. Both A-D and B-E
e. All A-D, B-E and C-F

16. Questions

In the following questions, five sentences are given, labelled A, B, C, D and E, among these, four sentences are in logical order and form a coherent paragraph/passage. From the given options, choose the option that does not fit into the theme of the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). Sri Lanka is approaching a critical juncture as it prepares for its presidential election on 21 September 2024.

B). This election isn't a routine democratic exercise but a decisive moment that will shape the trajectory of a nation emerging from its most severe financial crisis in decades.

C). In 2020, the World Bank reclassified Sri Lanka as a lower middle-income country amid currency collapses and rising inflation rates.

D). As Sri Lankans gear up to vote, the choices they make will determine the future of the country's economic reforms and its path toward recovery.

E). The incumbent, Ranil Wickremesinghe, who stepped into office amidst widespread protests and economic turmoil in 2022, has helmed significant economic reforms.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

17. Questions

A). The Union Finance Minister, Nirmala Sitharaman, presented the 2024 budget last week, marking a significant milestone in Indian politics.

B). She set a record by presenting the budget seven times in a row.

C). This budget, the first after the 2024 general elections, holds immense importance as it sets the financial direction for the next five years and indicates the political stability of the Modi government.

D). This indicates a significant effort by the government to control inflation and ensure economic stability.

E). The first Budget of Modi 3.0, a month after he was sworn in for the third time, showed generous support for Bihar and Andhra Pradesh, both governed by key allies, the Telugu Desam Party and the JD (U).

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

18. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). The pre-dawn arson attacks on France's TGV highspeed train network on Friday underscore a growing and alarming trend of targeted sabotage against critical infrastructure.

B). These attacks, timed just before the opening of the Paris Olympics, reveal vulnerabilities in security and highlight the lengths to which certain groups will go to make their voices heard.

C). It's not merely the disruption of travel that is concerning, although the chaos it caused for hundreds of thousands of travelers is significant.

D). The deeper issue lies in what this coordinated effort says about the state of civil unrest and the effectiveness of security measures.

E). Mainstream groups say they will respect any bans, decreed under emergency powers in France after the attacks on Friday that France blamed on Islamic State.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence contains a grammatical error in part (A).

The error is in part (A), where "shall reach" should be "reach" to maintain proper tense usage in the context of the sentence.

Use of "As soon as": The phrase "as soon as" is used to indicate that one action will happen immediately after another action. It is followed by a present tense verb when referring to future events.

Corrected part (A): As soon as I reach...

So, the corrected sentence is: "As soon as I reach the airport, I will send you a message to let you know I've arrived safely and then proceed to check in for my flight."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Answer: B

The error is in part (B), where "for admission in the engineering college" should be corrected to "for admission to the engineering college." The preposition "to" is more appropriate in this context because it indicates the direction or goal of seeking admission.

Preposition Use: The preposition "in" suggests being inside or within something, which is not suitable in this context. The preposition "to" indicates direction or purpose, which fits the context of seeking admission.

Correct Usage: "Admission to" is the correct phrase because it denotes the goal or direction of gaining entry to the engineering college.

Examples:

Correct: "He applied for admission to the university."

Incorrect: "He applied for admission in the university."

Grammatical Rule: When referring to seeking entry into an institution, "to" is the preposition that correctly conveys the intent.

"Trying for admission to the college" correctly indicates that Gopal is attempting to gain entry to the engineering college.

So, the corrected sentence is: "Gopal was trying for admission to the engineering college and decided to look for information regarding the various programs, faculty, and campus facilities to make an informed decision."

3. Questions

Answer: A

The error is in part (A), where "There is sense of urgency" should be "There is a sense of urgency."

Article Usage: The phrase "sense of urgency" requires an article to be grammatically correct. In English, singular countable nouns must be preceded by an article ("a" or "the") or another determiner (such as "this" or "some").

Example: "There is a sense of calm in the room." Here, "a" is the article used to correctly structure the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: "There is a sense of urgency in his actions as he looks about the crowded room, desperately searching for his lost wallet before the train departs in a few minutes."

4. Questions

Answer: C

The sentence contains an error in part (C).

The error is in part (C), where "unless" should be corrected to "until."

"Unless" vs. "Until": "Unless" is a conjunction that means "except if." It is used to introduce the only situation in which a statement will not be true.

Example: "You will fail the exam unless you study hard."

"Until" is a conjunction and a preposition that means "up to the time that." It is used to indicate a time before a specified action or situation happens.

Example: "I will wait here until you come back."

Context of the Sentence: The sentence describes a scenario where two friends travelled together and shared adventures and memories. The sentence then describes a change that happened when their paths diverged. The correct word to indicate the time up to this change is "until."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"Until" properly sets up the moment when their shared journey ended, and they started pursuing different dreams.

Corrected Part: By changing "unless" to "until," the sentence clearly indicates the time up to which the friends travelled together before their paths diverged.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The two friends travelled together for many years, sharing countless adventures and memories, until their paths diverged, leading them to pursue different dreams and aspirations in far-off corners of the world."

5. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence contains a grammatical error in part (A).

Given phrase: He was hard down for money,

Correction: He was hard up for money,

Idiomatic Expression: The phrase "hard up for money" is an idiom that means being in need of money or experiencing financial difficulties.

"Hard down for money" is not a standard or recognized idiom in English and thus sounds incorrect.

Correct Usage: Using "hard up for money" correctly conveys the intended meaning that the person is experiencing financial difficulties.

Thus, the corrected sentence reads clearly and correctly with the idiomatic expression "hard up for money."

So, the corrected sentence is: "He was hard up for money, so he took on multiple part-time jobs, cutting down on sleep and leisure time in a desperate effort to make ends meet and pay off his mounting debts."

6. Questions

Answer: C

The word that most appropriately fits the blank labelled (1) is "envisaged." The word "envisaged" means planned or imagined for the future, which fits the context of the sentence describing future initiatives aimed at transforming the agricultural sector.

a). "Deduced" means concluded or inferred from evidence, which doesn't fit the context of planning or initiating future actions.

b). "Reckoned" means calculated or considered, but it doesn't convey the sense of planning or envisioning future actions as strongly as "envisaged."

d). "Conceited" means excessively proud of oneself, which is completely inappropriate for the context.

e). "Contrived" means deliberately created rather than arising naturally or spontaneously, which doesn't fit the context of planning or initiating future actions.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, "envisaged" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of planning or imagining that one crore farmers are to be initiated into natural farming within two years.

7. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fit the blank labelled (2) is "initiative." The sentence describes the release of 109 new high-yielding and climate-resilient varieties of crops as a specific action or measure taken to address climate change challenges and ensure stable agricultural production. The word "initiative" fits this context perfectly, as it denotes a new plan or action aimed at achieving a particular goal.

a). "Ambition" refers to a strong desire to achieve something, but it doesn't specifically denote a concrete action or measure.

b). "Motivation" refers to the reason or reasons one has for acting or behaving in a particular way, but it doesn't fit the context of a specific measure or plan.

c). "Invention" refers to creating something new, especially a device or process, but it doesn't fit well in the context of releasing new crop varieties as a strategic measure.

e). "Strategy" refers to a plan of action designed to achieve a long-term or overall aim, but the word "initiative" more accurately captures the sense of a specific new action being introduced.

Therefore, "initiative" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the notion of a new measure being introduced to address climate change challenges and ensure stable agricultural production.

8. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fit in the blank labelled (3) is "ambitious." The word "ambitious" means having a strong desire for success or achievement, often requiring considerable effort. In the context of the passage, the provisions in the budget are aimed at transforming the agricultural sector and involve significant goals that will require considerable effort to achieve. The other options do not convey this sense of high aspiration and effort.

a). "Arduous" means involving or requiring strenuous effort; difficult and tiring. While it conveys the idea of being challenging, it does not capture the forward-looking, goal-oriented aspect of the provisions.

b). "Anxious" means experiencing worry or concern, which does not fit the context of describing provisions aimed at improving the agricultural sector.

c). "Stubborn" means having or showing dogged determination not to change one's attitude or position, which does not describe the nature of the provisions.

e). "Progressive" means favouring or promoting change or innovation, which is somewhat relevant but does not fully capture the sense of aspiration and effort implied by "ambitious."

Therefore, "ambitious" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the high aspirations and significant efforts required to implement the budget's provisions.

9. Questions

Answer: B

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (4) is "substantial." The sentence discusses the widespread adoption of natural farming practices, which requires a significant amount of training and support. The word "substantial" effectively conveys the idea that a considerable amount of effort, resources, and investment will be needed to support this initiative.

a). "Generous" suggests a large amount or quantity, often in the context of giving or resources.

c). "Phenomenal" means extraordinary or remarkable, which is too strong and somewhat off-topic in this context.

d). "Impervious" means not allowing something to pass through or be affected by, which doesn't make sense in the context of needing training and support.

e). "Copious" means abundant in quantity, but "substantial" is more appropriate in the context of describing the necessary level of training and support.

Therefore, "substantial" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the significant level of training and support required for the widespread adoption of natural farming practices.

10. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (5) is "vital." The sentence highlights the importance of addressing implementation challenges in order to realize the vision of the Budget. The word "vital" means essential or crucial for success. It fits the context perfectly because it emphasizes that addressing these challenges is crucial for the effective realization of the Budget's provisions.

b). "Cardinal" means of the greatest importance or fundamental. While it could fit the context, "vital" is more commonly used in this specific context of emphasizing crucial importance.

c). "Radical" means very different from the usual or traditional. It does not fit the context of describing the essential nature of addressing challenges.

d). "Vivacious" means lively and spirited. It does not fit the context of the necessity for addressing implementation challenges.

e). "Strenuous" means requiring great effort or exertion. While addressing implementation challenges might be strenuous, this word does not convey the essential nature of the task as well as "vital" does.

Therefore, "vital" is the best choice as it effectively communicates the crucial importance of addressing the challenges to realize the Budget's vision.

11. Questions

Answer: D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

When combining these two statements A-E: "The Indian government's focus on improving ease of doing business aims to attract both domestic and foreign investment by reducing regulatory hurdles." This pair describes the goal of improving the ease of doing business in India by making it more attractive for investors.

When combining these two statements C-D: "The implementation of the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) aims to boost investment in infrastructure projects and enhance economic growth." This pair details the objectives of the National Infrastructure Pipeline in terms of investment and economic growth.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

12. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-F: "The government's emphasis on digital literacy aims to equip citizens with skills necessary to thrive in a digital economy." This sentence clearly describes the purpose of promoting digital literacy.

When combining these two statements B-E: "The development of Special Economic Zones (SEZs) aims to attract investment, boost exports, and create employment opportunities." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the objectives behind SEZs.

When combining these two statements C-D: "India's focus on skill development and vocational training aims to bridge the gap between education and industry requirements, enhancing employability." This sentence clearly explains the purpose of India's skill development efforts.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

13. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements A-D: "The importance of remittances from the Indian diaspora significantly contributes to the country's foreign exchange reserves and household incomes." This sentence explains the impact of remittances from the Indian diaspora.

When combining these two statements C-E: "The agricultural sector's dependence on traditional farming techniques underscores the need for modernization and adoption of advanced technologies." This sentence highlights the necessity for modernization in agriculture.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

14. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: "The emphasis on research and development (R&D) is crucial for driving innovation and competitiveness in the Indian economy." This sentence underscores the importance of R&D in fostering innovation and economic growth.

When combining these two statements B-F: "The role of public-private partnerships (PPPs) in infrastructure development is crucial for leveraging private investment in public projects." This sentence highlights how PPPs can attract private investment for public infrastructure.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Investment in health care infrastructure is crucial for improving public health outcomes and supporting economic productivity." This sentence emphasizes the positive impact of healthcare infrastructure investments on public health and the economy.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

15. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements A-D: "India's digital payment ecosystem has grown rapidly with the adoption of platforms like UPI, contributing to a cashless economy." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the factors contributing to the growth of India's digital payment ecosystem. The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

16. Questions

Answer: B

The odd one out is Sentence C: "In 2020, the World Bank reclassified Sri Lanka as a lower middle-income country amid currency collapses and rising inflation rates."

Sentences A, B, D, and E all focus on the upcoming presidential election in Sri Lanka, its significance, and the candidates involved. Sentence C, however, provides historical context about Sri Lanka's economic situation in 2020, which is not directly related to the upcoming election. This makes sentence C the odd one out.

17. Questions

Answer: C

The odd one out is Sentence D: "This indicates a significant effort by the government to control inflation and ensure economic stability."

Sentences A, B, C, and E all directly reference the presentation of the 2024 budget by the Union Finance Minister, its historical context, and its political significance. Sentence D, however, makes a general statement about government efforts to control inflation and ensure economic stability without directly tying it to the 2024 budget or the political events mentioned in the other sentences. This makes sentence D the odd one out.

18. Questions

Answer: D

The odd one out is Sentence E: "Mainstream groups say they will respect any bans, decreed under emergency powers in France after the attacks on Friday that France blamed on Islamic State."

Sentences A, B, C, and D all focus on the pre-dawn arson attacks on France's TGV high-speed train network, their implications, and the broader issues of civil unrest and security vulnerabilities. Sentence E, however, introduces the topic of mainstream groups respecting bans and mentions Islamic State, which is unrelated to the context of the arson attacks on the TGV network discussed in the other sentences. This makes sentence E the odd one out.

1. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

The terms of the contract allow for no room for negotiation, leaving both parties with a strict set of guidelines and requirements that must be adhered to without exception.

a. allow to no room for negotiation
b. allow of no room for negotiation
c. allowing of no room for negotiate
d. allows of no room to negotiation
e. No improvement is required

2. Questions

Despite facing significant challenges throughout the project, the team managed to carries off a successful presentation, impressing the clients with their innovative solutions and thorough research.

a. carry on a successful presentation
b. carry out a successful presentation
c. carries out a successfully presentation
d. carry off a successful presentation
e. No improvement is required

3. Questions

Even though he pretended to be uninterested in the project, his detailed knowledge of every aspect of it let in that he had been secretly invested and working hard behind the scenes.

a. let on that he had
b. let in that he have
c. let on that he has
d. lets on that he had
e. No improvement is required

4. Questions

When the alarm sounded in the middle of the night, the burglars quickly grabbed the valuables they had found and made off into the darkness, leaving behind only a few scattered clues for the detectives to follow.

sky5up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. made of into the darkness

b. made for into the darkness

c. made up into the darkness

d. made out into the darkness

e. No improvement is required

5. Questions

After weeks of meticulous planning and preparation, they finally set out in their cross-country road trip, eager to explore new destinations and create unforgettable memories along the way.

a. they finally set in on

b. they finally set up on

c. they finally set off on

d. they finally set after on

e. No improvement is required

6. Questions

In each of the questions given below four words are given in bold. These words may or may not be in their correct position. Following each sentence four sequences are provided. Select the sequence of the words which will make the given sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful. If the words are correct at their current position, then choose option (e) as your answer.

The Uttar Pradesh government order (A) that shops along the route display (B) by the Kanwar yatra pilgrims must taken (C) the names of their proprietors is notably egregious (D), and the Supreme Court has stepped in to stay it.

a. ABDC

b. ACBD

c. DBCA

d. DCBA

e. No interchange required

7. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A worrying aspect of some seem (A) costly and getting (B) conflicts in recent times has been that they extremely (C) to be threatening (D) prolonged.

a. ABDC

b. CBAD

c. CDAB

d. ADCB

e. No interchange required

8. Questions

President Joe Biden's shift (A) to step down from the 2024 recent (B) race is a seismic decision (C) in American politics, setting the stage for one of the most unpredictable elections in presidential (D) history.

a. ADCB

b. CBAD

c. ADBC

d. CDAB

e. No interchange required

9. Questions

Considering the Budget's welfare (A) to promote productivity and resilience (B) in agriculture, the outlays for the ministry of agriculture and farmers' priority (C) at `1.32 trillion or 2.7% of total expenditures represent a shrinking (D) share from 5% in the Budget for FY 20.

a. ADCB

b. CBAD

c. CDAB

d. ACBD

e. No interchange required

10. Questions

The informal sector, which (A) forms the backbone of India's economy, has been particularly hard (B) hit by policies like demonetisation (C) and the abrupt implementation (D) of the Goods and Services Tax, further exacerbated by the Covid-19 pandemic.

a. BACD

b. BADC

c. ABDC

d. ADBC

e. No interchange required

11. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman presented the first Union Budget for Modi 3.0 government on July

sbi53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

23, 2024, aiming to bolster India's economic growth while addressing social equity and the interests of the NDA allies. This budget is an exercise in balancing economic growth with political dividends. This budget outlines allocations for infrastructure, green energy initiatives, and the digital economy, reflecting a comprehensive approach to development. The Union Budget 2024-25 focuses on macroeconomic growth and fiscal stability but offers limited welfare for the poor, relying on effective policy implementation for success. While the fiscal deficit has improved to 4.9% of GDP, significant disparities persist, with increased capital expenditure intended to boost private investment but widening rural-urban and income divides. The budget maintains a similar outlay as the interim budget, prioritising agriculture, rural development, housing, and MSMEs to create jobs. New measures include direct payments for first-time employees and incentives for employers to increase hiring. The budget does not adequately address rising inflation, which stands at 5.08%. To support manufacturing, the government has introduced initiatives like the Credit Guarantee Scheme for MSMEs and increased Mudra Loan limits, along with developing industrial parks enhancing agricultural practices through Digital Public Infrastructure (DPI) and increasing support for natural farming. Despite these efforts, the success of the budget depends on effective implementation and addressing broader economic challenges. The Union Budget 2024 outlines a comprehensive plan to deal with the rising unemployment by increasing the skill set of the youth. It plans to provide skills to 20 lakh youth over five years. As part of this initiative, 1,000 Industrial Training Institutes will be upgraded into hub and spoke arrangements with a focus on outcome orientation. The course content and design will be aligned with the skill needs of the industry. The budget's positives include the significant investment in infrastructure, expected to create jobs and stimulate economic growth. However, the budget also presents challenges. The ambitious spending plans may widen the fiscal deficit, posing challenges to macroeconomic stability and inflation control. Effective implementation of the proposed schemes and projects remains a critical concern, given historical delays and inefficiencies. The 2024 budget reflects a populist approach, aimed at addressing the concerns of its allies — Nitish Kumar and Chandrababu Naidu and has generously allocated funds for their states. The BJP has learned from its performance in the recent Lok Sabha elections, where it faced criticism for not adequately addressing issues like rural distress, job creation, and social equity. By focusing on infrastructure development, rural welfare, and social sector spending, the budget seeks to win back the support of these crucial demographics.

What new measure has the budget introduced to support employment?

a. Increase in minimum wage

b. Direct payments for first-time employees

c. Tax cuts for small businesses

d. Expansion of social security benefits

e. Reduction in working hours

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

What challenge does the budget face despite its investment in infrastructure?

a. High inflation

b. Rising international trade deficits

c. Budget deficit reduction

d. Decline in agricultural output

e. Increase in military expenditure

13. Questions

Which sectors are given priority in the Union Budget 2024-25?

a. Defence and aerospace

b. Tourism and entertainment

c. Agriculture, rural development, housing, and MSMEs

d. Information technology and telecommunications

e. Healthcare and education

14. Questions

What impact does the budget have on the rural-urban divide?

a. It reduces the rural-urban divide

b. It exacerbates the rural-urban divide

c. It eliminates the rural-urban divide

d. It has no effect on the rural-urban divide

e. It balances the rural-urban divide

15. Questions

What is the primary focus of the Union Budget 2024-25 as presented by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman?

a. social equity

b. Environmental sustainability

c. Economic growth and fiscal stability

d. Military expansion

e. international trade agreements

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

Which states received generous allocations in the budget due to the concerns of NDA allies?

a. Maharashtra and Gujarat

b. Uttar Pradesh and Tamil Nadu

c. Bihar and Andhra Pradesh

d. Punjab and Haryana

e. West Bengal and Kerala

17. Questions

How has the budget planned to address the challenge of rising unemployment?

a. By increasing government jobs

b. By providing skills to 20 lakh youth

c. By reducing the retirement age

d. By offering loans to unemployed youth

e. By outsourcing jobs to foreign companies

18. Questions

Select the phrase (STARTERS) from the given three options which can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences given below, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences.

I). The online course was highly rated by participants.

II). Enrolment numbers dropped significantly in the following semester.

A). Although the online course received high ratings,

B). Even with the course being highly rated,

C). After the course was highly rated by participants,

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. All A, B, and C

19. Questions

I). The city experienced record-breaking temperatures this summer.

II). The energy consumption for cooling systems hit an all-time high.

A). As a result of the record-breaking temperatures,

B). Despite the city's record-breaking temperatures,

C). Due to the high energy consumption for cooling systems,

a. Only A

sky53un@gmail.com
Tg. - @NextGenBankers

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and C

e. All A, B, and C

20. Questions

I). The government increased funding for renewable energy projects.

II). Some environmental groups still criticized the policy for not being aggressive enough.

A). Despite the government's increase in funding for renewable energy, B). Although the government boosted funding for renewable energy projects, C). Along with the government's increased funding for renewable energy,

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. All A, B, and C

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) allow of no room for negotiation

The phrase "allow for no room for negotiation" in the sentence is redundant. The correct construction is "allow of no room for negotiation," which effectively conveys the intended meaning without redundancy.

Option (a) "allow to no room for negotiation" is not idiomatic and incorrect.

Option (b) "allow of no room for negotiation" is correct and idiomatic.

Option (c) "allowing of no room for negotiate" is grammatically incorrect because "negotiate" should be in the noun form "negotiation."

Option (d) "allows of no room to negotiation" is grammatically incorrect. The preposition "to" should be "for" to match the standard idiomatic expression.

Thus, option (b) is the appropriate and grammatically correct choice.

2. Questions

Answer: D

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: d) carry off a successful presentation

The sentence contains the phrase "managed to carries off," which is incorrect due to the mix of verb forms. The correct verb form after "managed to" should be the base form "carry."

a). "carry on a successful presentation" - This phrase means to continue or proceed with a presentation, which doesn't fit the context of completing a successful presentation.

b). "carry out a successful presentation" - This phrase means to perform or execute a presentation. While it makes sense, the context of the sentence is about achieving success despite challenges, making "carry off" more appropriate.

c). "carries out a successfully presentation" - This option has two issues: the verb form "carries" is incorrect after "managed to," and "successfully" should be "successful."

d). "carry off a successful presentation" - This phrase means to achieve success with the presentation, fitting the context of overcoming challenges and impressing the clients.

Therefore, option (d) "carry off a successful presentation" is the correct choice.

3. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) let on that he had

The phrase "let on" means to reveal or disclose something that was previously hidden or unknown. In this context, it means that his detailed knowledge revealed that he had been secretly invested and working hard behind the scenes.

Option (b) "let in that he have" is incorrect because "let in" does not fit the context, and "have" should be "had" to match the past perfect tense.

Option (c) "let on that he has" is incorrect because "has" should be "had" to match the past perfect tense used to describe his secret involvement in the project.

Option (d) "lets on that he had" is incorrect because "lets" should be "let."

Therefore, option (a) "let on that he had" is the correct choice.

4. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No improvement is required

The phrase "made off into the darkness" is the correct and idiomatic expression for describing someone fleeing or escaping quickly. In this context, "made off" means to escape or leave hurriedly, which fits the description of the burglars fleeing after the alarm sounded.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are not standard idiomatic expressions:

Option (a) "made of into the darkness" is incorrect because "made of" does not convey the meaning of fleeing or escaping.

Option (b) "made for into the darkness" is incorrect because "made for" implies heading towards a place or goal, not fleeing.

Option (c) "made up into the darkness" is incorrect because "made up" means to invent or fabricate, which is not relevant here.

Option (d) "made out into the darkness" is incorrect because "made out" typically means to discern or understand, not to flee.

Therefore, option (e) "No improvement is required" is the correct choice as the sentence is clear and idiomatic.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) they finally set off on

The phrase "set off on" is the correct idiomatic expression used to describe the beginning of a journey or trip. It indicates that they started their cross-country road trip.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that are not standard or idiomatic:

Option (a) "they finally set in on" is not idiomatic and does not convey the idea of starting a trip.

Option (b) "they finally set up on" is incorrect because "set up" usually means to arrange or organize something, not to start a trip.

Option (d) "they finally set after on" is grammatically incorrect, as it disrupts the proper phrase structure.

Therefore, option (c) "they finally set off on" is the correct choice for accurately conveying the beginning of their journey.

6. Questions

Answer: B

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: b) ACBD.

So, the sentence will be: “The Uttar Pradesh government order that shops along the route taken by the Kanwar yatra pilgrims must display the names of their proprietors is notably egregious, and the Supreme Court has stepped in to stay it.”

In this sequence:

"A" comes first: "Order" is the noun that refers to the directive issued by the government.

"C" comes second: "Taken" is used to indicate the route followed by the Kanwar yatra pilgrims.

"B" comes third: "Display" is the verb describing what the shops must do.

"D" comes last: "Egregious" is the adjective describing the government's order.

So, the correct sequence is " ACBD " where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

7. Questions

Answer: C

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: c) CDAB.

So, the sentence will be: “A worrying aspect of some extremely costly and threatening conflicts in recent times has been that they seem to be getting prolonged.”

In this sequence:

"C" comes first: "extremely" modifies "costly" to indicate the degree of costliness.

"D" comes second: "threatening" describes the nature of the conflicts.

"A" comes third: "seem" is the verb indicating the appearance or perception of the situation.

"B" comes last: "getting" follows "to be," indicating the ongoing nature of the prolongation.

So, the correct sequence is " CDAB " where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

8. Questions

Answer: D

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: d) CDAB.

So, the sentence will be: “President Joe Biden’s decision to step down from the 2024 presidential race is a seismic shift in American politics, setting the stage for one of the most unpredictable elections in recent history.”

In this sequence:

"C" comes first: "decision" logically fits as it indicates Biden's choice to step down.

"D" comes second: "presidential" follows to specify the type of race he's stepping down from.

"A" comes third: "shift" fits here to describe the significant change in American politics.

"B" comes last: "recent" is appropriate to describe the historical context, referring to the current period.

So, the correct sequence is " CDAB " where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

9. Questions

Answer: B

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: b) CBAD.

So, the sentence will be: “Considering the Budget’s priority to promote productivity and resilience in agriculture, the outlays for the ministry of agriculture and farmers’ welfare at `1.32 trillion or 2.7% of total expenditures represent a shrinking share from 5% in the Budget for FY 20.”

In this sequence:

"C" comes first: "priority" establishes what the Budget's focus is.

"B" comes second: "resilience" follows, indicating the goal of promoting resilience in agriculture.

"A" comes third: "welfare" relates to the ministry of agriculture and farmers' welfare.

"D" comes last: "shrinking" describes the change in share from 5% in the Budget for FY 20.

So, the correct sequence is " CBAD " where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

10. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence appears to be contextually and grammatically correct as it stands. Therefore, no interchange is required.

The correct answer is: e) No interchange required

So, the sentence will be: “The informal sector, which forms the backbone of India’s economy, has been particularly hard hit by policies like demonetisation and the abrupt implementation of the Goods and Services Tax, further exacerbated by the Covid-19 pandemic.”

11. Questions

Answer: B

The new measure introduced in the budget to support employment is: b) Direct payments for first-time employees. The passage specifically mentions that the budget includes direct payments for first-time employees. This initiative is designed to encourage hiring by providing financial support to new workers entering the job market.

a). Increase in minimum wage: There is no mention in the passage about increasing the minimum wage as part of the budget’s measures.

c). Tax cuts for small businesses: The passage does not indicate that tax cuts for small businesses are included in the budget’s measures. It focuses on direct payments and other support mechanisms for employment.

d). Expansion of social security benefits: While the budget may address various social issues, the passage does not specify an expansion of social security benefits as one of the new measures.

e). Reduction in working hours: The passage does not discuss any reduction in working hours as part of the budget. Instead, it highlights direct payments for first-time employees as a key measure.

In summary, the budget introduces direct payments for first-time employees to support employment, making option b) the correct choice.

12. Questions

Answer: A

The challenge the budget faces despite its investment in infrastructure is: a) High inflation. The passage specifically states that the budget does not adequately address the rising inflation, which stands at 5.08%. This is identified as a significant challenge despite the investment in infrastructure.

b). Rising international trade deficits: The passage does not mention international trade deficits as a challenge related to the budget. The focus is on domestic economic issues rather than trade deficits.

c). Budget deficit reduction: The fiscal deficit has actually improved to 4.9% of GDP according to the passage, so the challenge is not about reducing the budget deficit. In fact, the improvement in the deficit is highlighted as a positive aspect.

d). Decline in agricultural output: The passage mentions that the budget prioritizes agriculture, rural development, and housing, but there is no indication of a decline in agricultural output being a challenge.

e). Increase in military expenditure: The passage does not discuss military expenditure as a factor or challenge in relation to the budget. The focus is on infrastructure, social equity, and economic stability.

In summary, despite the budget's investment in infrastructure, high inflation remains a significant challenge, making option a) the correct choice.

13. Questions

Answer: C

The sectors given priority in the Union Budget 2024-25 are: c) Agriculture, rural development, housing, and MSMEs. The passage clearly states that the budget prioritizes these sectors to create jobs and stimulate economic growth. This includes significant investment in agriculture, rural development, housing, and micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSMEs).

a). Defense and aerospace: The passage does not mention defense and aerospace as prioritized sectors in the budget. The focus is on domestic economic development and welfare.

b). Tourism and entertainment: Tourism and entertainment are not highlighted as priority sectors in the budget. The budget's focus is on infrastructure, rural development, and job creation.

d). Information technology and telecommunications: While the digital economy is mentioned, it is part of a broader approach and not explicitly prioritized over the sectors listed in option c.

e). Healthcare and education: Healthcare and education are important sectors but are not specified as primary focuses of this particular budget according to the passage. The emphasis is more on infrastructure, rural development, and MSMEs.

In summary, the Union Budget 2024-25 prioritizes agriculture, rural development, housing, and MSMEs, making option c) the correct choice.

14. Questions

Answer: B

The impact of the budget on the rural-urban divide is: b) It exacerbates the rural-urban divide. The passage mentions that while the budget increases capital expenditure to boost private investment, it also widens the rural-urban divide. This indicates that the budget's focus on capital expenditure and investment does not adequately address or mitigate the disparities between rural and urban areas, leading to an exacerbation of the divide.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). It reduces the rural-urban divide: The passage does not state that the budget reduces the rural-urban divide. In fact, it suggests the opposite, noting that the divide is widened by the budget's measures.

c). It eliminates the rural-urban divide: Eliminating the rural-urban divide is not mentioned in the passage. The budget does not achieve this level of impact.

d). It has no effect on the rural-urban divide: The passage indicates that the budget does have an effect, specifically widening the rural-urban divide, so this option is incorrect.

e). It balances the rural-urban divide: The passage does not suggest that the budget balances the rural-urban divide. Instead, it indicates that the divide is widened due to the budget's measures.

In summary, the budget's impact on the rural-urban divide is that it exacerbates the divide, making option b) the correct choice.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The primary focus of the Union Budget 2024-25 as presented by Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman is: c) Economic growth and fiscal stability

The passage emphasizes that the budget aims to bolster India's economic growth while also addressing fiscal stability. This focus reflects a balance between promoting economic development and maintaining financial health.

a). Social equity: While social equity is addressed, it is not the primary focus of the budget. The budget's main emphasis is on broader economic and fiscal objectives.

b). Environmental sustainability: Environmental sustainability is part of the budget, particularly through green energy initiatives, but it is not the primary focus. The budget's overall aim includes economic growth and fiscal stability.

d). Military expansion: The passage does not mention military expansion as a focus of the budget. The primary concerns are economic and fiscal rather than military.

e). International trade agreements: The budget does not center on international trade agreements. The focus is more on domestic economic and fiscal policies.

In summary, the Union Budget 2024-25 primarily focuses on economic growth and fiscal stability, making option c) the correct choice.

16. Questions

Answer: C

The states that received generous allocations in the budget due to the concerns of NDA allies are: c) Bihar and Andhra Pradesh. The passage specifically mentions that the budget reflects a populist approach, aimed at addressing the concerns of NDA allies Nitish Kumar and Chandrababu Naidu. Nitish Kumar is associated with Bihar, and Chandrababu Naidu is associated with Andhra Pradesh. Therefore, these states received generous allocations.

a). Maharashtra and Gujarat: The passage does not mention Maharashtra or Gujarat in relation to the generous allocations made due to NDA allies' concerns.

b). Uttar Pradesh and Tamil Nadu: Uttar Pradesh and Tamil Nadu are not mentioned as the states receiving generous allocations in the passage.

d). Punjab and Haryana: The passage does not refer to Punjab or Haryana in the context of the budget allocations related to NDA allies.

e). West Bengal and Kerala: West Bengal and Kerala are not mentioned in the passage as states that received significant budget allocations due to concerns of NDA allies.

In summary, the states that received generous allocations in the budget due to the concerns of NDA allies are Bihar and Andhra Pradesh, making option c) the correct choice.

17. Questions

Answer: B

The budget has planned to address the challenge of rising unemployment by: b) By providing skills to 20 lakh youth. The passage highlights that the budget includes a plan to provide skills to 20 lakh youth over five years. This initiative involves upgrading 1,000 Industrial Training Institutes into hub and spoke arrangements with a focus on outcome orientation, aligning course content with industry needs. This approach aims to improve employability and address unemployment by enhancing the skills of the youth.

a). By increasing government jobs: The passage does not mention an increase in government jobs as a strategy to tackle unemployment. The focus is on skill development rather than expanding government employment.

c). By reducing the retirement age: There is no mention in the passage about reducing the retirement age as a measure to address unemployment. The strategy focuses on skill development.

d). By offering loans to unemployed youth: The passage does not discuss offering loans to unemployed youth as part of the budget's approach to tackling unemployment. It emphasizes skill development instead.

e). By outsourcing jobs to foreign companies: Outsourcing jobs to foreign companies is not mentioned in the passage. The budget's strategy is centered around domestic skill development.

In summary, the budget plans to address the challenge of rising unemployment primarily by providing skills to 20 lakh youth, making option b the correct choice.

18. Questions

Answer: D

Given statements:

I). The online course was highly rated by participants.

II). Enrolment numbers dropped significantly in the following semester.

A). Although the online course received high ratings, - This option introduces a contrast between the high ratings of the course and the subsequent drop in enrolment. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). Even with the course being highly rated, - This option also introduces a contrast between the high ratings of the course and the drop in enrolment. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements.

C). After the course was highly rated by participants, - This option suggests a sequence of events, implying that the drop in enrolment happened after the high ratings were received. However, it doesn't accurately reflect the contrast implied by the statements.

Given the statements:

The first statement highlights that the online course was highly rated by participants, while the second statement reveals that despite these high ratings, enrolment numbers dropped significantly in the following semester. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast.

Therefore, options A and B accurately capture this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: d) Both A and B

Option A introduces a contrast between the high ratings of the online course and the subsequent drop in enrolment, accurately reflecting the relationship between the given statements.

Option B also introduces a contrast between the high ratings and the drop in enrolment, accurately capturing the relationship.

Option C suggests a sequence of events but does not effectively capture the contrast implied by the statements.

Thus, options A and B are the most suitable choices.

19. Questions

Answer: A

Given statements:

I). The city experienced record-breaking temperatures this summer.

II). The energy consumption for cooling systems hit an all-time high.

A). As a result of the record-breaking temperatures, - This option suggests a causal relationship between the record-breaking temperatures and the increase in energy consumption for cooling systems. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). Despite the city's record-breaking temperatures, - This option introduces a contrast, which is not appropriate because there is no contrasting relationship between high temperatures and increased energy consumption. Both statements are directly related.

C). Due to the high energy consumption for cooling systems, - This option reverses the causality, suggesting that the high energy consumption caused the record-breaking temperatures, which doesn't make sense.

Given the statements:

The first statement describes the occurrence of record-breaking temperatures, while the second statement indicates a consequential increase in energy consumption for cooling systems. The relationship between the two statements is causal.

Therefore, option A accurately captures this causal relationship between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: a) Only A

Option A introduces a causal relationship, suggesting that the record-breaking temperatures led to the increase in energy consumption for cooling systems, accurately reflecting the relationship between the given statements.

Option B incorrectly introduces a contrast, which is not appropriate here.

skyflip@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

Option C reverses the causality, which doesn't accurately reflect the relationship between the given statements.

Thus, option A is the most suitable choice.

20. Questions

Answer: D

Given statements:

I). The government increased funding for renewable energy projects.

II). Some environmental groups still criticized the policy for not being aggressive enough.

A). Despite the government's increase in funding for renewable energy, - This option introduces a contrast between the government's action (increasing funding) and the criticism from environmental groups. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). Although the government boosted funding for renewable energy projects, - This option also introduces a contrast between the government's action (boosting funding) and the criticism from environmental groups. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements.

C). Along with the government's increased funding for renewable energy, - This option suggests a conjunction rather than a contrast, implying that the increased funding and the criticism happened simultaneously or are part of the same narrative. It doesn't accurately reflect the contrast implied by the statements.

Given the statements:

The first statement describes the government's action of increasing funding for renewable energy projects, while the second statement indicates criticism from environmental groups despite this action. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast.

Therefore, options A and B accurately capture this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: d) Both A and B

Option A introduces a contrast between the government's increase in funding for renewable energy and the criticism from environmental groups, accurately reflecting the relationship between the given statements.

Option B also introduces a contrast between the government's boosted funding and the criticism from environmental groups, accurately capturing the relationship.

Option C suggests a conjunction rather than a contrast, which does not effectively capture the relationship implied by the statements.

Thus, options A and B are the most suitable choices.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the question below, three columns are given. Column 1 and 3 contain different independent sentences (3 in each column) and column 2 contains 3 connectors which may or may not join the given sentences in the other two columns. This connector can be placed anywhere in the sentence. Mark the option which provides the correct sequences of joined sentences as your answer.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The weather forecast predicted heavy snow.	1). therefore	D). Several nearby homes were flooded.
B). The river overflowed due to the heavy rainfall.	2). as a consequence	E). they successfully completed the project ahead of schedule.
C). The team worked tirelessly to meet the deadline.	3). thus	F). The school decided to cancel classes for the day.

a. A1F, B3D, and C2E

b. A2D, B1F, and C3E

c. A1F, B2D, and C3E

d. A3F, B1D, and C2E

e. A1D, B2F, and C3E

2. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The company has achieved record profits this quarter.	1). therefore	D). It decided to expand its production capacity to meet customer needs.
B). The company saw a significant increase in demand for its products.	2). furthermore	E). They plan to expand their operations internationally.
C). The project was challenging.	3). although	F). The team managed to complete it ahead of schedule.

a. A2E, B1D and C3F

b. A1E, B2D and C3F

c. A2D, B1E and C3F

d. A3D, B2E and C1F

e. A3E, B2D and C1F

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

3. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). You can drive to the city.	1). alternatively	D). Strawberries, which she eats by the handful.
B). She loves all kinds of fruit.	2). especially	E). I found it quite straightforward and engaging.
C). Many people believe the book is difficult to understand.	3). on the contrary	F). You can take the train for a more relaxed journey.

a. A2E, B3D and C1F

b. A1E, B3D and C2F

c. A3F, B2D and C1E

d. A3E, B1D and C2F

e. A1F, B2D and C3E

4. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She practiced the piano every day.	1). eventually	D). Her skills improved significantly.
B). She had studied hard for the exam.	2). hence	E). She felt confident about her performance.
C). They packed up their camping gear.	3). then	F). They set off on the long journey home.

a. A2D, B1E and C3F

b. A1E, B2D and C3F

c. A2E, B1D and C3F

d. A1D, B3E and C2F

e. A1D, B2E and C3F

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

5. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She didn't just win the competition.	1).for instance	D).Oranges and strawberries are excellent sources.
B). Many fruits are rich in vitamin C.	2). because	E). She set a new record with her performance.
C). The restaurant was closed for renovations.	3).in fact	F). We decided to try the new café across the street.

a. A3E, B2D and C1F

b. A1E, B2D and C3F

c. A3E, B1D and C2F

d. A2E, B1D and C3F

e. A1E, B3D and C2F

6. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

The urgency of addressing climate change has led to a global push for the adoption of renewable energy sources. Solar, wind, and hydroelectric power are becoming increasingly viable alternatives to fossil fuels. However, the transition to renewable energy is not without its challenges. To ensure a smooth and effective transition, it is crucial for governments and industries to invest in _____.

a. maintaining reliance on coal and natural gas for energy production

b. ignoring advancements in renewable energy technologies

c. focusing on short-term economic gains over long-term sustainability

d. developing advanced energy storage and grid infrastructure

e. delaying the implementation of renewable energy policies

7. Questions

As the impacts of climate change become more severe, the need for climate-resilient infrastructure has never been more critical. Communities around the world are facing increasingly frequent and intense weather events, such as hurricanes, floods, and wildfires. To protect lives and property, and to ensure the continued functionality of essential services, it is vital for governments and planners to invest in _____.

a. building more coal-fired power plants to ensure energy reliability.

b. cutting back on public infrastructure spending to reduce costs.

c. temporary solutions that do not address long-term resilience

d. implementing green infrastructure and sustainable urban planning

e. ignoring the effects of climate change on infrastructure

8. Questions

The rapid advancement of electric vehicle (EV) technology is transforming the automotive industry, offering a cleaner and more sustainable alternative to traditional internal combustion engines. With major automakers committing to electric fleets and governments providing incentives for EV adoption, the infrastructure to support this transition is becoming increasingly important. To address the growing demand for EVs, it is essential to focus on _____.

a. increasing the production of gasoline-powered vehicles

b. developing advanced biofuels as a primary energy source for vehicles

c. expanding the network of EV charging stations and improving battery technology

d. reducing investments in renewable energy sources

e. promoting the use of diesel engines for their efficiency

9. Questions

The rapid advancements in technology have profoundly impacted the education sector, providing new opportunities for learning and teaching. Online courses, digital textbooks, and virtual classrooms have made education more accessible and flexible for students worldwide. However, to fully harness the potential of these technological innovations, it is crucial for educational institutions to focus on _____.

a. eliminating all traditional teaching methods

b. reducing the use of technology to maintain a traditional classroom environment

c. investing in teacher training and professional development for effective technology integration.

d. relying solely on automated systems for student assessments

e. discontinuing the use of physical textbooks and libraries

10. Questions

The landscape of education is rapidly changing, driven by technological advancements and evolving societal needs. Online learning platforms, virtual classrooms, and interactive digital tools have revolutionized the way students access and engage with educational content. However, to ensure that these innovations lead to meaningful learning experiences, it is crucial for educators and institutions to focus on _____.

a. reducing the emphasis on student engagement and participation.

b. focusing solely on standardized testing as a measure of success

c. incorporating hands-on and experiential learning opportunities

d. limiting access to technology to maintain traditional teaching methods

e. disregarding the importance of personalized learning experiences

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below, a sentence/ paragraph is given with few words highlighted. These words may not be placed correctly. Also, one of these words may be inappropriate in context of the sentence/ paragraph. Identify the most appropriate rearrangement of the words and the suitable replacement for the incorrect word.

The emergence(A)of policies like Priority Sector Lending (PSL), an ambition (B)aimed at ensuring(C)affordable and easy credit to the weaker segments which are also creditworthy and viable, has done a yeoman's task in providing(D)credit flow to India's vast agriculture sector.

a. BACD; B- evolution

b. ABDC; B-initiative

c. BADC; D- assuring

d. ABCD; A- evolution

e. No rearrangement required

12. Questions

The sudden(A)risks of monsoon dependence, low yields, poor market linkages, inherent(B)changes in demand and supplies besides the continue(C)changes to key policies on the export of surplus produce affect (D)to make Indian agriculture a high-risk category for lenders.

a. ABCD; A-natural

b. BCDA; A- abnormal

c. ACDB; D-frequent

d. BADC; D- frequent

e. No rearrangement required

13. Questions

The ruling dispensation should have anticipated(A)disturbances after the High Court reinstated(B)in June the quota that reserved(C)30 per cent of government jobs for relatives of veterans who fought in the 1971 war of independence; the Hasina regime had earlier halted(D)the quota in 2018 following large-scale student protests.

a. ABDC; A- specified

b. BADC; B- preferred

c. BACD; C- constrained

d. ABCD; D- dodged

e. No rearrangement required

14. Questions

The budget presented on Tuesday, a record seventh (including February's interim budget) for the current finance minister, cements the idea of competitive centricity(A)and capability(B)building through putting in place nine enablers or levers that certify(C)the incremental capacity(D)of the country in the rapidly changing global production and supply chain ecosystem.

a. ABCD; C-ensure

b. ABDC; C- centrality

c. DBCA; C-ensure

d. DCAB; C- feasibility

e. No rearrangement required

15. Questions

The Supreme Court order on Monday dwelling (A)the directive issues by government, local self-government and police authorities in BJP-ruled Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand and Madhya Pradesh to eateries to display(B)the names of their owners and operators has put(C)paid to attempts to communalise the Kanwar pilgrimage and create(D)divisions amongst people as well as communities at least forthe time being.

a. ABCD; A- staying

b. ACBD; B- pageant

c. DBCA; C- establish

d. BADC; D-suggest

e. No rearrangement required

16. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). She completed the marathon exceptionally fast, setting a new record.

B). The chef prepared the meal so well, that everyone was impressed.

C). He handled the situation more careful than anyone else in the team.

a. Only A

b. Both A and C

c. Both B and C

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

17. Questions

A). The new software update is more better than the previous version.

B). The actor delivered a powerful and emotional performance that left the audience in tears.

C). His explanation was clearer than the other explanations given by his colleagues.

a. Only A

b. Both A and C

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

18. Questions

A). Neither John nor his colleagues has finished their report on time.

B). The cat and its owner were seen walking down the street; they looked very happy.

C). The committee decided that each member should submit his or her feedback by Friday.

a. Only A

b. Both A and C

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

19. Questions

A). She is responsible for overseeing the project and ensuring it stays on schedule.

B). The list of ingredients are on the kitchen counter.

C). The meeting will be held on next Monday, so please make sure to be prepared.

a. Only A

b. Both A and C

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

A). Both the manager and the assistant was pleased with the outcome of the project.

B). Either the teacher or the students are responsible for cleaning the classroom.

C). She wore a red and a stylish dress to the party.

a. Only A

b. Both A and C

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

A1F: The weather forecast predicted heavy snow; therefore, the school decided to cancel classes for the day.

The connector "therefore" indicates a result. The prediction of heavy snow likely led to the school deciding to cancel classes.

B2D: The river overflowed due to the heavy rainfall; as a consequence, several nearby homes were flooded.

The connector "as a consequence" shows that the overflow of the river resulted in the flooding of nearby homes.

C3E: The team worked tirelessly to meet the deadline; thus, they successfully completed the project ahead of schedule.

The connector "thus" indicates a result or outcome. The team working tirelessly resulted in their completing the project ahead of schedule.

2. Questions

Answer: A

A2E: "The company has achieved record profits this quarter; furthermore, they plan to expand their operations internationally."

B1D: "The company saw a significant increase in demand for its products; therefore, it decided to expand its production capacity to meet customer needs."

C3F: "Although the project was challenging, the team managed to complete it ahead of schedule."

3. Questions

Answer: E

sky53un@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A1F:"You can drive to the city, alternatively, you can take the train for a more relaxed journey."

B2D:"She loves all kinds of fruit, especially strawberries, which she eats by the handful."

C3E:"Many people believe the book is difficult to understand; on the contrary, I found it quite straightforward and engaging."

4. Questions

Answer: E

A1D: She practiced the piano every day. (A1D) The connector "eventually" suggests a gradual development over time. So, the sentence can be connected to "Her skills improved significantly," indicating that her daily practice led to significant improvement in her skills over time.

B2E: She had studied hard for the exam. (B2E) The connector "hence" indicates a logical result or consequence. So, the sentence can be connected to "She felt confident about her performance," suggesting that her hard study led to her feeling confident about her performance.

C3F: They packed up their camping gear. (C3F) The connector "then" indicates a sequence of events. So, the sentence can be connected to "They set off on the long journey home," implying that after packing up their camping gear, they set off on their journey home.

5. Questions

Answer: C

A3E: She didn't just win the competition. (A3E) The connector "in fact" provides emphasis or clarification. So, the sentence can be connected to "She set a new record with her performance," indicating that not only did she win the competition, but she also set a new record.

B1D: Many fruits are rich in vitamin C. (B1D) The connector "for instance" introduces an example. So, the sentence can be connected to "Oranges and strawberries are excellent sources," providing examples of fruits that are rich in vitamin C.

C2F: The restaurant was closed for renovations. (C2F) The connector "because" explains a reason. So, the sentence can be connected to "We decided to try the new café across the street," explaining that the decision to try the new café was because the restaurant was closed for renovations.

6. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) developing advanced energy storage and grid infrastructure.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on ensuring a smooth and effective transition to renewable energy. Advanced energy storage solutions and improved grid infrastructure are essential for managing the intermittent nature of renewable energy sources like solar and wind. Effective energy storage and grid integration can help balance supply and demand, reduce energy waste, and enhance the reliability of renewable energy systems. The other options either involve maintaining or ignoring reliance on fossil fuels (a, b, e), or focusing on short-term gains that undermine long-term sustainability (c).

7. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) implementing green infrastructure and sustainable urban planning.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the need for climate-resilient infrastructure. Implementing green infrastructure and sustainable urban planning helps create systems that can better withstand and adapt to the impacts of climate change. Green infrastructure includes solutions like green roofs, rain gardens, permeable pavements, and urban forests, which help manage stormwater, reduce urban heat islands, and enhance biodiversity. Sustainable urban planning involves designing cities and communities in ways that reduce their vulnerability to extreme weather events and ensure the long-term functionality of essential services.

The other options either promote actions that are counterproductive or irrelevant to building climate resilience:

a). Building more coal-fired power plants to ensure energy reliability: This option goes against the need to reduce carbon emissions and does not contribute to climate resilience. Instead, it exacerbates climate change.

b). Cutting back on public infrastructure spending to reduce costs: Reducing infrastructure spending undermines efforts to build resilience and prepare for future climate impacts.

c). Temporary solutions that do not address long-term resilience: Temporary solutions might provide short-term relief but fail to address the underlying issues of climate vulnerability, leaving communities exposed in the long term.

e). Ignoring the effects of climate change on infrastructure: Ignoring climate change impacts leaves communities unprepared and increases the risk of severe damage and disruption when extreme weather events occur.

8. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) expanding the network of EV charging stations and improving battery technology.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on addressing the infrastructure needs for electric vehicles (EVs). Expanding the network of EV charging stations is crucial for supporting the growing number of EVs on the road, making it more convenient for users to charge their vehicles. Improving battery technology is also essential as it contributes to longer driving ranges and faster charging times, enhancing the attractiveness and practicality of EVs for consumers. Both aspects are key to fostering the widespread adoption of EVs and supporting the transition towards cleaner transportation options.

Option a) increasing the production of gasoline-powered vehicles contradicts the shift towards electric vehicles and sustainability.

Option b) developing advanced biofuels, while beneficial, does not directly address the specific needs of EV infrastructure.

Option d) reducing investments in renewable energy sources is counterproductive to promoting EV adoption and sustainability.

Option e) promoting diesel engines does not align with the goal of transitioning to cleaner transportation options.

Therefore, option c) is the most appropriate completion to support the ongoing advancement and adoption of electric vehicles.

9. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) investing in teacher training and professional development for effective technology integration. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on harnessing the potential of technological innovations in education. Effective integration of technology into the classroom requires that teachers are well-trained and equipped to use these new tools. Investing in teacher training and professional development ensures that educators can effectively incorporate technology into their teaching methods, enhancing the learning experience for students. The other options either involve eliminating valuable traditional methods (a), reducing the use of technology which contradicts the paragraph's focus on its potential (b), relying solely on automated systems which overlooks the importance of human judgment in assessments (d), or discontinuing physical resources which still hold educational value (e).

10. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) incorporating hands-on and experiential learning opportunities. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on leveraging technological advancements to create meaningful learning experiences. Hands-on and experiential learning opportunities enhance student engagement and understanding by allowing them to apply concepts in real-world contexts. This approach complements the use of online learning platforms and digital tools, ensuring that education is interactive and practical. The other options suggest counterproductive measures, such as reducing engagement (a), over-reliance on standardized testing (b), limiting technology use (d), and disregarding personalized learning (e), all of which would hinder the effectiveness and innovation in education.

11. Questions

Answer: B

In this context, "initiative" refers to a new plan or strategy designed to address a particular issue or achieve a specific goal. It implies a proactive and organized effort to bring about positive change or improvement.

"Ambition," refers to a strong desire or determination to achieve something, often implying personal or organizational goals or aspirations. It does not convey the same sense of a concrete plan or strategy.

Therefore, "initiative" with "ambition" would change the meaning of the sentence and not accurately convey the idea of a specific policy or strategy designed to provide affordable and easy credit.

The Correct sentence will be: "The emergence of policies like Priority Sector Lending (PSL), an initiative aimed at providing affordable and easy credit to the weaker segments which are also creditworthy and viable, has done a yeoman's task in ensuring credit flow to India's vast agriculture sector."

12. Questions

Answer: D

"Frequent" means occurring often or repeatedly, indicating that the policy changes happen regularly.

"Affect," on the other hand, means to have an influence or impact on something. It does not convey the idea of how often the changes occur.

Therefore, replacing "frequent" with "affect" would change the meaning of the sentence and would not accurately convey the intended idea that policy changes happen regularly.

The Correct sentence will be: "The inherent risks of monsoon dependence, low yields, poor market linkages, sudden changes in demand and supplies besides the frequent changes to key policies on the export of surplus produce continue to make Indian agriculture a high-risk category for lenders."

13. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence is correct, hence no rearrangement required.

The sentence will be: "The ruling dispensation should have anticipated disturbances after the High Court reinstated in June the quota that reserved 30 per cent of government jobs for relatives of veterans who fought in the 1971 war of independence; the Hasina regime had earlier halted the quota in 2018 following large-scale student protests."

14. Questions

Answer: C

"Ensure" means to make certain that something will occur or be the case, indicating a guarantee or assurance.

"Certify," on the other hand, means to formally confirm or attest that something is true or meets a certain standard, typically in an official capacity. It does not convey the same proactive guarantee that "ensure" does.

Therefore, replacing "ensure" with "certify" would not accurately convey the intended meaning of guaranteeing or securing the country's incremental importance in the global production and supply chain ecosystem.

The Correct sentence will be: "The budget presented on Tuesday, a record seventh (including February's interim budget) for the current finance minister, cements the idea of competitive capacity and capability building through putting in place nine enablers or levers that ensure the incremental centricity of the country in the rapidly changing global production and supply chain ecosystem."

15. Questions

Answer: A

"Staying" means temporarily stopping or suspending something, which fits the legal context of the Supreme Court halting the enforcement of a directive.

"Dwelling," on the other hand, means living in or residing at a place, or it can mean to think, speak, or write at length about a particular subject. It does not convey the legal action of temporarily halting something.

Therefore, "dwelling" would not accurately convey the intended meaning of the Supreme Court's action to temporarily suspend the directive.

The Correct sentence will be: "The Supreme Court order on Monday staying the directive issues by government, local self-government and police authorities in BJP-ruled Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand and Madhya Pradesh to eateries to display the names of their owners and operators has put paid to attempts to communalise the Kanwar pilgrimage and create divisions amongst people as well as communities at least for the time being."

16. Questions

Answer: C

A). There is no error in this sentence. "Exceptionally fast" is correctly used as an adverbial phrase modifying how the marathon was completed.

B). The error in this sentence is "prepared the meal so well, that everyone was impressed." The correct form should be "so well that everyone was impressed." The comma is unnecessary here, as "so well that" is used to introduce a result clause without needing a comma.

C). The error in this sentence is "more careful than anyone else." The correct form should be "more carefully than anyone else." The adverb "carefully" should be used to modify the verb "handled."

Corrected Sentence C: "He handled the situation more carefully than anyone else in the team."

17. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "more better." The correct form should be "better" alone, as "better" is already a comparative form and does not need "more."

Corrected Sentence A: "The new software update is better than the previous version."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "Neither John nor his colleagues has finished their report." The correct form should be "Neither John nor his colleagues have finished their report." When using "neither...nor," the verb should agree with the subject closest to it, which is "his colleagues" (plural), so the verb should be plural.

Corrected Sentence A: "Neither John nor his colleagues have finished their report on time."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: C

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). The error in this sentence is "The list of ingredients are." The correct form should be "The list of ingredients is." The term "list" is a singular noun, so the verb should be singular.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Corrected Sentence B: "The list of ingredients is on the kitchen counter."

C). The error in this sentence is "on next Monday." The correct preposition is "next Monday" without "on." When referring to specific days of the week, "next" does not require the preposition "on."

Corrected Sentence C: "The meeting will be held next Monday, so please make sure to be prepared."

20. Questions

Answer: B

A). The error in this sentence is "Both the manager and the assistant was." The correct form should be "Both the manager and the assistant were." When the subject consists of two singular nouns connected by "and," the verb is plural.

Corrected Sentence A: "Both the manager and the assistant were pleased with the outcome of the project."

B). There is no error in this sentence. When using "either...or," the verb agrees with the subject closest to it, which is "students" (plural).

C). The error in this sentence is "a red and a stylish dress." When listing multiple adjectives that describe a noun, the article should be used once, before the first adjective. The correct form is "a red and stylish dress."

Corrected Sentence C: "She wore a red and stylish dress to the party."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). In the context of governance structures, the changed requirements of our country, point to the need for setting up an institution that serves as a Think Tank of the government – a directional and policy dynamo.

B). The Indian Government has reconstituted (P)/ its policy-making prowess, (Q)/ in a significant move to bolster (R)/ the National Institution for Transforming India (NITI) Aayog (S).

C). This reconstitution includes 15 Union Ministers and notable allies from the National Democratic Alliance (NDA), marked a strategic shift in the country's planning and development framework.

D). These ministers come from various portfolios, ensured that a broad spectrum of expertise and perspectives is brought to the table.

E). This comprehensive approach aims to address multifaceted national challenges more effectively.

F). This underscores the Government's commitment to integrating diverse ministerial insights into the policy-making process.

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

2. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (C) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. This reconstitution includes 15 Union Ministers

b. and notable allies from the National Democratic Alliance (NDA)

c. marked a strategic shift in the

d. country's planning and development framework

e. No error

3. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (D) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. These ministers come from various

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. portfolios, ensured that a broad

c. spectrum of expertise and perspectives

d. is brought to the table

e. No error

4. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (B) which is divided into four parts.

a. PSRQ

b. RQPS

c. SRPQ

d. PRQS

e. No rearrangement required

5. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCDE

b. ACDEF

c. BDCEF

d. BCFDE

e. ABCDF

6. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

_____ by an appetite for "minimum government, maximum governance" and a reformist approach for various _____ of administration, the Modi government has been bestowed with a historic third term.

a. buoyed, rungs

b. hindered, tiers

c. undermined, facets

d. hampered, segments

e. encumbered, sectors

7. Questions

sbi53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

India, in its quest to become aatmanirbhar, has often _____ tax reforms into a _____ for population and revenue administrations.

a. neglected, burden

b. avoided, dilemma

c. recalibrated, panacea

d. complicated, benefit

e. resisted, obstacle

8. Questions

_____ criticism from business and industry leaders has forced the Karnataka Government to put the _____ reservation Bill for Kannadigas in private firms on hold.

a. mild, accepted

b. constructive, progressive

c. moderate, neutral

d. scathing, contentious

e. supportive, customary

9. Questions

The ongoing political _____ threatens to undermine the state's long-term developmental goals, underscoring the need for a more collaborative and less _____ approach to governance.

a. consensus, collaborative

b. alliance, divisive

c. tussle, adversarial

d. cooperation, aggressive

e. harmony, hostile

10. Questions

Since Modi was the driver for the most _____ wins for the BJP in the past decade and is still prime minister, it appears that there is no question of him or Home Minister Amit Shah taking any responsibility for the _____ in the state.

a. marginal, success

b. uncertain, disaster

c. tenuous, setback

d. ambiguous, victory

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. emphatic, debacle

11. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Column I	Column II
A). Public sector enterprises in India play a significant role	D). with significant projects in solar, wind, and hydroelectric power.
B). Financial inclusion initiatives in India have expanded access	E). in strategic industries like defense, energy, and infrastructure.
C). Renewable energy investments in India are growing,	F). to attract overseas investors and stimulate economic growth through various incentives.

a. Only A-E

b. Both A-E and C-D

c. Both B-F and C-D

d. Both A-D and B-F

e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

12. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The rise of the Indian IT and services industry has positioned	D). and automotive play a critical role in foreign exchange earnings.
B). The Make in India campaign encourages domestic manufacturing	E). the country as a global leader in outsourcing and software development.
C). India's participation in global trade agreements seeks to integrate	F). the economy with global markets and enhance export opportunities.

a. Only A-E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. Both A-E and B-D

c. Both A-E and C-F

d. Both B-E and C-F

e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

13. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The Indian government's focus on improving ease of doing business aims	D). to ensure inclusive growth and improve access to education and healthcare.
B). The challenge of income inequality in India necessitates targeted policies	E). to boost investment in infrastructure projects and enhance economic growth.
C). The implementation of the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) aims	F). to attract both domestic and foreign investment by reducing regulatory hurdles.

a. Only A-E

b. Both A-E and B-D

c. Both B-F and C-D

d. Both A-E and C-D

e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

14. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The Indian government's economic reforms aim	D). to liberalize trade, attract foreign investment, and promote ease of doing business.
B). The Indian banking sector is undergoing transformation with reforms	E). to improve living conditions, provide affordable housing, and create employment opportunities.
C). The introduction of the Pradhan Mantri Jan Arogya Yojana (PMJAY) seeks	F). to address non-performing assets and improve financial health.

a. Only A-D

b. Both A-D and B-F

c. Both B-F and C-E

d. Both B-D and C-E

e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

15. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Urbanization trends in India are reshaping the economy,	D). with investments in roads, railways, and urban facilities.
B). The Indian stock market plays a crucial role in the economy,	E). with growing cities driving demand for housing, infrastructure, and services.
C). India's demographic dividend offers potential for economic growth	F). with inflation control and fiscal deficit reduction.

a. Only A-E

b. Both B-F and C-D

c. Both A-D and C-F

d. Both B-E and C-F

e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

He hesitated at the doorstep, unsure if he should knock, but before he could decide, his old friend spotted him through the window and enthusiastically opened the door to ask him around for a cup of tea and a long-overdue catch-up.

a. to ask him in for

b. to ask him about for

c. to ask him for

d. to ask him over for

e. no improvement is required

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

The teacher asked the students to write down their answers in full sentences, ensuring that they provided detailed explanations for each problem to demonstrate their understanding of the material.

a. to write up their answers

b. to write off their answers

c. to write in their answers

d. to write out their answers

e. no improvement is required

18. Questions

After a long day of hiking through the rugged terrain, the tired campers decided it was time to turn into, eagerly anticipating a good night's rest in their cozy sleeping bags under the starry sky.

a. it was time to turn off

b. it was time to turn in

c. it was time to turn out

d. it was time to turn over

e. no improvement is required

19. Questions

With only an hour before the guests arrived, she managed to throw up a delightful assortment of appetizers, combining whatever ingredients she could find in her kitchen to create an impressive spread.

a. she managed to throw off

b. she managed to throw over

c. she managed to throw together

d. she managed to throw out

e. no improvement is required

20. Questions

The court's decision to strike off the controversial law was met with mixed reactions from the public, as it invalidated several key provisions that had sparked heated debates across the nation.

a. to strike on the controversial law

b. to strike out the controversial law

c. to strike up the controversial law

d. to strike down the controversial law

e. no improvement is required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

The odd one out is Sentence A: "In the context of governance structures, the changed requirements of our country, point to the need for setting up an institution that serves as a Think Tank of the government – a directional and policy dynamo."

Sentences B, C, D, E, and F all specifically discuss the reconstitution of the National Institution for Transforming India (NITI) Aayog, including details about the inclusion of Union Ministers and the strategic shift in the country's planning and development framework. Sentence A, while related to governance structures and the need for a think tank, speaks in general terms and does not directly mention NITI Aayog or its reconstitution. This makes sentence A the odd one out.

2. Questions

Answer: C

Error: Part c) should be corrected to "marking a strategic shift in the."

The error in this sentence involves verb tense consistency. The phrase "marked a strategic shift" is in the past tense, which does not match the present tense used in the rest of the sentence. The correct form should be "marking a strategic shift" to maintain consistency.

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part c) should be corrected to "marking a strategic shift in the."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "This reconstitution includes 15 Union Ministers and notable allies from the National Democratic Alliance (NDA), marking a strategic shift in the country's planning and development framework." This version uses the correct tense to maintain consistency.

3. Questions

Answer: B

Error: Part b) should be corrected to "portfolios, ensuring that a broad."

The error in this sentence involves verb tense consistency. The phrase "ensured that a broad" is in the past tense, which does not match the present tense used in the rest of the sentence. The correct form should be "ensuring that a broad" to maintain consistency.

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part b) should be corrected to "portfolios, ensuring that a broad."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "These ministers come from various portfolios, ensuring that a broad spectrum of expertise and perspectives is brought to the table." This version uses the correct tense to maintain consistency.

4. Questions

Answer: B

skyjain@gmail.com
Tg: @NortGenBankers

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is:" In a significant move to bolster its policy-making prowess, the Indian Government has reconstituted the National Institution for Transforming India (NITI) Aayog."

5. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph explains the Indian Government's reconstitution of NITI Aayog, emphasizing the inclusion of diverse ministerial insights to enhance policy-making. The passage begins with sentence B, introducing the significant move by the Indian Government to reconstitute NITI Aayog. Sentence C follows, detailing the inclusion of 15 Union Ministers and NDA allies, marking a strategic shift. Sentence F underscores the Government's commitment to integrating diverse ministerial insights. Sentence D elaborates on the diverse portfolios of these ministers, ensuring a wide range of expertise and perspectives. Finally, sentence E highlights the aim of this comprehensive approach to address multifaceted national challenges more effectively.

So, the correct sequence is: B – C – F – D - E.

6. Questions

Answer: A

The Correct Option is: a) buoyed, rungs

"Buoyed" means supported or uplifted, fitting well to describe how the appetite for governance and reformist approach has supported the Modi government.

"Rungs" refers to levels or stages in a hierarchy, aptly describing various levels of administration.

b). hindered, tiers: "Hindered" means obstructed or held back, which is the opposite of what is intended by describing the government's approach.

"Tiers" could fit the context, but combined with "hindered," it creates an incorrect meaning.

c). undermined, facets: "Undermined" means weakened or damaged, which is the opposite of "buoyed."

"Facets" refers to aspects or features, which could fit, but combined with "undermined," it creates an incorrect meaning.

d). hampered, segments: "Hampered" means hindered or impeded, which contradicts the supportive context of "buoyed."

"Segments" refers to parts or sections, which could fit, but combined with "hampered," it creates an incorrect meaning.

e). encumbered, sectors: "Encumbered" means burdened or restricted, which contradicts the supportive context of "buoyed."

"Sectors" refers to distinct parts of society or economy, which could fit, but combined with "encumbered," it creates an incorrect meaning.

In summary, option (a) "buoyed, rungs" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the supportive and structured nature of the Modi government's approach to governance and administration.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Option is: c) recalibrated, panacea

"Recalibrated" means to adjust or modify, fitting well to describe how India has adjusted tax reforms.

"Panacea" means a solution or remedy for all difficulties, aptly describing the role of tax reforms for administration.

a). neglected, burden: "Neglected" means failed to care for properly, which contradicts the proactive approach implied by "recalibrated."

"Burden" means a heavy load, which contradicts the idea of tax reforms being a solution.

b). avoided, dilemma: "Avoided" means kept away from, which contradicts the proactive approach implied by "recalibrated."

"Dilemma" means a difficult situation, which contradicts the idea of tax reforms being a remedy.

d). complicated, benefit: "Complicated" means made more complex, which contradicts the idea of adjusting or improving.

"Benefit" means an advantage, which doesn't fit well with "complicated."

e). resisted, obstacle: "Resisted" means opposed, which contradicts the proactive approach implied by "recalibrated."

"Obstacle" means something that blocks progress, which contradicts the idea of tax reforms being a solution.

In summary, option (c) "recalibrated, panacea" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that India has adjusted tax reforms to serve as a remedy for administrative challenges.

8. Questions

Answer: D

The Correct Option is: d) scathing, contentious

"Scathing" means severely critical, fitting well to describe the intensity of the criticism.

"Contentious" means causing or likely to cause an argument; controversial, aptly describing the nature of the reservation Bill.

a). mild, accepted: "Mild" means gentle or not severe, which contradicts the idea of strong criticism.

"Accepted" means generally agreed upon, which contradicts the idea of controversy.

b). constructive, progressive: "Constructive" means intended to be helpful or improve, which contradicts the idea of strong criticism.

"Progressive" means favoring or promoting change, which contradicts the idea of controversy.

c). moderate, neutral: "Moderate" means average in intensity, which contradicts the idea of strong criticism.

sky5un@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"Neutral" means not supporting or favoring either side, which contradicts the idea of controversy.

e). supportive, customary: "Supportive" means providing encouragement or approval, which contradicts the idea of strong criticism.

"Customary" means according to the customs or usual practices, which contradicts the idea of controversy.

In summary, option (d) "scathing, contentious" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea of intense criticism and the controversial nature of the reservation Bill.

9. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Option is: c) tussle, adversarial

"Tussle" means a vigorous struggle or scuffle, fitting well to describe political conflict.

"Adversarial" means involving opposition or conflict, aptly describing a confrontational approach to governance.

a). consensus, collaborative: "Consensus" means general agreement, which contradicts the idea of a struggle or conflict.

"Collaborative" means working together, which contradicts the idea of an oppositional approach.

b). alliance, divisive: "Alliance" means a union or association formed for mutual benefit, which contradicts the idea of a struggle or conflict.

"Divisive" means tending to cause disagreement or hostility, which could fit, but combined with "alliance," it creates an incorrect meaning.

d). cooperation, aggressive: "Cooperation" means the process of working together to the same end, which contradicts the idea of a struggle or conflict.

"Aggressive" means ready or likely to attack, which contradicts the idea of needing a collaborative approach.

e). harmony, hostile: "Harmony" means agreement or concord, which contradicts the idea of a struggle or conflict.

"Hostile" means unfriendly or antagonistic, which could fit, but combined with "harmony," it creates an incorrect meaning.

In summary, option (c) "tussle, adversarial" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea of political conflict and the need for a less confrontational approach to governance.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

Answer: E

The Correct Option is: e) emphatic, debacle

"Emphatic" means showing or giving emphasis; expressing something forcibly and clearly, fitting well to describe the decisive victories.

"Debacle" means a sudden and ignominious failure, aptly describing the negative outcome in the state.

a). marginal, success: "Marginal" means minimal or insignificant, which contradicts the idea of significant wins.

"Success" means a positive outcome, which contradicts the idea of taking responsibility for failure.

b). uncertain, disaster: "Uncertain" means not definite or sure, which contradicts the idea of clear victories.

"Disaster" is similar to "debacle," but "uncertain" makes this combination incorrect.

c). tenuous, setback: "Tenuous" means weak or slight, which contradicts the idea of decisive wins.

"Setback" means a reversal or check in progress, which could fit, but combined with "tenuous," it creates an incorrect meaning.

d). ambiguous, victory: "Ambiguous" means open to more than one interpretation, which contradicts the idea of clear wins.

"Victory" means a positive outcome, which contradicts the idea of taking responsibility for failure.

In summary, option (e) "emphatic, debacle" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea of significant past wins and the current failure in the state.

11. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these two statements A-E: "Public sector enterprises in India play a significant role in strategic industries like defense, energy, and infrastructure." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the areas where public sector enterprises are important.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Renewable energy investments in India are growing, with significant projects in solar, wind, and hydroelectric power." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the growth and types of renewable energy investments in India.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

12. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements A-E: "The rise of the Indian IT and services industry has positioned the country as a global leader in outsourcing and software development." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the industry's impact on India's global position.

When combining these two statements C-F: "India's participation in global trade agreements seeks to integrate the economy with global markets and enhance export opportunities." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the impact of India's participation in global trade agreements.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

13. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-F: "The Indian government's focus on improving ease of doing business aims to attract both domestic and foreign investment by reducing regulatory hurdles." This sentence clearly explains the aim of the government's focus on improving the ease of doing business.

When combining these two statements B-D: "The challenge of income inequality in India necessitates targeted policies to ensure inclusive growth and improve access to education and healthcare." This sentence explains the purpose of the policies needed to address income inequality.

When combining these two statements C-E: "The implementation of the National Infrastructure Pipeline (NIP) aims to boost investment in infrastructure projects and enhance economic growth." This sentence clearly explains the aim of the NIP implementation.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

14. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these two statements A-D: "The Indian government's economic reforms aim to liberalize trade, attract foreign investment, and promote ease of doing business." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the goals of the economic reforms.

When combining these two statements B-F: "The Indian banking sector is undergoing transformation with reforms to address non-performing assets and improve financial health." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the goals of the banking sector reforms.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

15. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements A-E: "Urbanization trends in India are reshaping the economy, with growing cities driving demand for housing, infrastructure, and services." This sentence highlights the impact of urbanization on economic demand in India. Urbanization leads to increased demand for various services and infrastructure in growing cities, thus reshaping the economy.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) to ask him in for

The phrase "ask him around for" is not idiomatic in this context. The correct phrase to use here is "ask him in for," which means to invite someone inside for something.

Option (a) "to ask him in for" is correct because it means to invite him inside for a cup of tea and a catch-up.

Option (b) "to ask him about for" is incorrect because "ask about" usually means to inquire or get information about something, and the construction is awkward.

Option (c) "to ask him for" is incomplete and doesn't convey the intended meaning of inviting someone inside.

Option (d) "to ask him out for" suggests inviting someone to go out somewhere, which doesn't fit the context of inviting someone inside for tea and a chat.

Therefore, the best option is (a) "to ask him in for."

17. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) to write out their answers

"Write out" is a common phrase used to mean writing something in detail, often in full sentences or completely, which matches the context of the sentence where the teacher wants the students to provide detailed explanations.

Option (a) "to write up their answers" typically implies writing a report or a more formal document, which is not exactly what is intended here.

Option (b) "to write off their answers" implies dismissing or considering something as a loss, which is not relevant in this context.

Option (c) "to write in their answers" can mean to fill in blanks or provide short answers, but it does not imply the detailed explanations required.

Therefore, "write out" best fits the context of providing detailed, complete answers in full sentences.

18. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) it was time to turn in

The phrase "turn in" is an idiomatic expression meaning "to go to bed or retire for the night." This fits the context of the sentence, where the tired campers are looking forward to a good night's rest.

Option (a) "it was time to turn off" would typically refer to turning off a device or light, which does not fit the context of going to bed.

Option (c) "it was time to turn out" could mean to extinguish a light or to attend an event, which does not fit the context here.

Option (d) "it was time to turn over" usually means to change position, especially in bed, or to transfer something, which also does not fit the context of going to bed.

Therefore, "it was time to turn in" is the appropriate choice for the context of the sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) she managed to throw together

The phrase "throw together" means to quickly prepare something, often using whatever ingredients or resources are readily available. This fits the context of the sentence where she managed to prepare a delightful assortment of appetizers in a short amount of time.

Option (a) "she managed to throw off" does not fit the context. "Throw off" means to distract or confuse, which is not relevant here.

Option (b) "she managed to throw over" also does not fit the context. "Throw over" can mean to overthrow or abandon, which is not appropriate here.

Option (d) "she managed to throw out" means to discard or get rid of something, which is the opposite of what she is doing in the sentence.

Therefore, the correct choice is (c) "she managed to throw together," which accurately conveys the quick preparation of the appetizers.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) to strike down the controversial law

In legal and formal contexts, the phrase "to strike down" is used to describe the action of invalidating or overturning a law or regulation. It accurately conveys the idea that the court's decision nullified the controversial law.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that are less precise or incorrect in this context:

Option (a) "to strike on the controversial law" is not a standard legal phrase and does not convey the correct meaning.

Option (b) "to strike out the controversial law" is a close alternative, but "strike out" typically refers to removing specific parts of a document or text rather than invalidating an entire law.

Option (c) "to strike up the controversial law" is incorrect as "strike up" is not used in this context and does not convey the meaning of invalidating or overturning a law.

Therefore, option (d) "to strike down the controversial law" is the correct choice for accurately describing the court's action in legal terms.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

The 2024 Union Budget will be presented in the Lok Sabha on July 23rd. This will be the first budget by NDA-3, likely to continue its earlier policies. However, setbacks in the recent elections might lead to course corrections, and some populist measures may be included in the budget by Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman. As the Union Budget 2024-25 approaches, the Indian economy stands at a pivotal juncture, characterized by robust growth prospects and lingering challenges. The GDP growth forecast remains optimistic, buoyed by a strong recovery in various sectors, particularly manufacturing, services, and technology. However, inflationary pressures, high fiscal deficits, and global economic uncertainties pose significant challenges. The government has made concerted efforts in the past to enhance infrastructure, digitalisation, and clean energy initiatives, reflecting its commitment to sustainable development. Despite these strides, issues like unemployment, income inequality, and rural distress persist, necessitating targeted fiscal measures. The forthcoming budget is expected to address these concerns, aiming to foster economic resilience, stimulate investment, and ensure inclusive growth for the nation. It is an opportunity to streamline the economy and heal ailing sectors. People's prime concerns remain inflation, which can be dexterously handled with tight fiscal planning. The Union Budget under NDA 3.0 must prioritise infrastructure growth and job creation, aiming to boost manufacturing through public-private partnerships. Changes in personal taxation and pension schemes are also expected, focusing on long-term fiscal sustainability and middle-class relief. There is significant industry expectation for reforms and incentives to bring them back on track. The real estate sector, a major catalyst for economic growth and a vital provider of employment, urgently needs industry status to access lower-cost financing and tax benefits. High taxes on essential materials like cement and steel, particularly the 28% GST on cement must be addressed to sustain growth. India's electric vehicle (EV) sector stands at a crucial juncture, with high expectations for the upcoming budget. The government should prioritise incentivising firms to use EVs for last-mile delivery operations. Reducing GST rates for renewable energy components from the current 18% to 5% could lower the cost structure for green energy projects, promoting faster adoption across the country. The upcoming budget is expected to focus on employee welfare, formal job creation, reducing compliance complexity, and addressing the skill gap. Job creation and equipping people with desired skills, especially in technology, must be focal points. The budget should allocate more funds to tech infrastructure and resources, preparing students for a tech-driven job market and supporting entrepreneurial growth. Overall, the Budget must provide a definitive direction for India's economic agenda, with a strong emphasis on infrastructure, job creation, clean energy, and comprehensive sectoral reforms.

What are some of the key concerns that the forthcoming budget is expected to address?

a. Environmental protection and climate change

b. Income inequality, rural distress, and unemployment

c. Foreign investment policies

d. Urban development and housing

e. Space exploration and technology

2. Questions

Tg: @NextGenBankers

What is the main focus expected in the 2024 Union Budget?

a. Enhancing foreign relations
b. Prioritizing infrastructure growth and job creation
c. Reducing defence expenditure
d. Increasing agricultural subsidies
e. Expanding the tourism industry

3. Questions

Which of the following is NOT mentioned as a significant challenge faced by the Indian economy in the passage?

a. Inflationary pressures
b. High fiscal deficits
c. Global economic uncertainties
d. Declining foreign investment
e. Unemployment

4. Questions

What sector does the passage suggest the government should incentivize for last-mile delivery operations?

a. Aviation
b. Electric Vehicles (EV)
c. Railways
d. Maritime
e. Traditional fuel vehicles

5. Questions

Which sector is highlighted as a major catalyst for economic growth and employment in the passage?

a. Tourism
b. Agriculture
c. Real estate
d. Healthcare
e. Education

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

What does the term "buoyed" most closely mean as used in the passage?

a. Weakened

b. Supported

c. Criticized

d. Ignored

e. Reduced

7. Questions

What is the overall tone of the passage regarding the upcoming 2024 Union Budget?

a. Pessimistic

b. Neutral

c. Optimistic

d. Sarcastic

e. Alarmist

8. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The team captain was adept at wresting control of the game from the opposing team with strategic plays.

II). He chose to eschew the path of caution and embraced risky investments, hoping for quick returns.

III). The defending champions trounced their opponents in a decisive victory, scoring twice as many points.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

9. Questions

I). Despite his hankering for adventure, he spent most weekends indoors, avoiding any outdoor activities.

II). Despite their political differences, there was no animus between the two colleagues, who respected

sky53111@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

each other's viewpoints.

III). The issue of climate change has led to increasing polarization among politicians and the public, with strong opinions on both sides of the debate.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

10. Questions

I). The partisan divide in Congress has made it difficult to pass bipartisan legislation.

II). Her speech was filled with persuasive rhetoric, compelling the audience to reconsider their viewpoints.

III). The weather was prodigiously sunny, making it a perfect day for staying indoors.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and III
e. Both II and III

11. Questions

I). The discovery of antibiotics was a watershed moment in medical history, revolutionizing the treatment of infections.

II). The delicious cake quickly sapped the mettle of the dieter's resolve.

III). The discovery of new evidence upended the previous theories about the origins of the ancient civilization.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

12. Questions

I). The perpetual weather change in the region led to a stable climate throughout the year.

Sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

II). His compassionate actions inflicted widespread gratitude among the community.

III). The gardener spent the morning pruning the bushes to promote healthier growth.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

13. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

The company's profits _____ significantly over the last quarter.

a. has increased
b. have increased
c. is increasing
d. are increasing
e. have been increase

14. Questions

The concert _____ by thousands of fans eagerly awaiting their favorite band.

a. was attended
b. were attended
c. has attended
d. have attended
e. attending

15. Questions

The artist's latest exhibition _____ a lot of attention from the media and the public.

a. have drawn
b. has drew
c. is drawing
d. were drawing
e. have been draw

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

During the annual company retreat, employees from various departments _____ to participate in team-building exercises and workshops designed to enhance collaboration and communication skills.

a. is required
b. are requiring
c. were required
d. has required
e. was require

17. Questions

The new regulations imposed by the government _____ many businesses to adapt their operations to comply with the updated standards.

a. have required
b. was requiring
c. have been required
d. is requiring
e. had required

18. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into five parts, only one part of the sentence is correct. You have to mark that part of the sentence as your answer.

Having laying a path for capex-led robust (A)/ economical growth in the post-Covid era, (B)/ the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) 3.0's first Budget should now turned (C)/ attention to foster job-creating growth by (D)/ harnessing the potential of labour-intensive sectors (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

Assessments make by different (A)/ organisations corroborate the dynamism (B)/ of the Indian economical, (C)/ stimulating largely by the huge expansion (D)/ of infrastructure spend by the government (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

20. Questions

Despite of India's natural advantage (A)/ in labour-intensive sectors arise (B)/ from it's abundant labour, (C)/ Indian-made goods are increasingly (D)/ give way to imported goods (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

21. Questions

The US, generally a champion by free trade, (A)/ following by the European Union, (B)/ has recently imposing 100% tariffs on imports of electric vehicles, (C)/ among another goods from China to protect their domestic firms (D)/ from possible dumping by the dominant producer (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

22. Questions

The first Union Budget of the NDA 3.0 (A)/ government should heralding (B)/ a newly focus on job-creating economic (C)/ growth that will fostering inclusive, (D)/ balanced, and Sustainability prosperity for all (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The passage highlights that despite past strides, issues like unemployment, income inequality, and rural distress persist, necessitating targeted fiscal measures in the forthcoming budget. The passage details these issues as persistent problems that the forthcoming budget is expected to address.

Income Inequality: This refers to the uneven distribution of income within a population. The passage suggests that targeted fiscal measures are needed to address this disparity to ensure more inclusive growth.

Rural Distress: The passage indicates that rural areas continue to face significant challenges, which might include inadequate infrastructure, limited access to essential services, and economic instability. Addressing these issues is crucial for balanced national development.

Unemployment: With a focus on job creation, the budget aims to provide more employment opportunities, especially in sectors like manufacturing and technology. This is vital for reducing the unemployment rate and supporting economic resilience.

These concerns are critical as they directly impact the social and economic fabric of the country. The other options, while important, are not highlighted in the passage as key concerns for the forthcoming budget.

Despite previous efforts and strides in infrastructure, digitalisation, and clean energy, these social and economic problems remain significant concerns.

Option a) Environmental protection and climate change: Although clean energy initiatives are mentioned, the passage does not indicate that environmental protection and climate change are the primary concerns for the budget.

Option c) Foreign investment policies: The passage does not specifically mention foreign investment policies as a key concern.

Option d) Urban development and housing: While important, the passage focuses more on the real estate sector's need for industry status and does not prioritize urban development and housing as a primary concern.

Option e) Space exploration and technology: This is not mentioned in the passage as a concern for the forthcoming budget. The focus is more on economic resilience and social issues.

2. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The passage mentions that the Union Budget under NDA 3.0 must prioritize infrastructure growth and job creation to boost manufacturing and economic resilience.

The passage emphasizes that the budget must focus on infrastructure growth and job creation, indicating this as a primary concern.

Infrastructure Growth: The budget aims to continue enhancing infrastructure, which is fundamental for economic development. Improved infrastructure supports various sectors, including transportation, technology, and manufacturing, leading to overall economic resilience.

Job Creation: Creating jobs is essential to tackle unemployment and stimulate economic activity. The passage mentions that job creation, particularly formal job creation and equipping people with desired skills, especially in technology, must be focal points of the budget.

These priorities are expected to address issues like unemployment, stimulate investment, and ensure inclusive growth. Additionally, the focus on infrastructure and job creation aligns with the government's commitment to sustainable development and long-term economic planning.

The passage clearly indicates that the main focus expected in the 2024 Union Budget is to prioritize infrastructure growth and job creation. This is highlighted as a critical strategy to boost manufacturing through public-private partnerships and address some of the most pressing economic challenges.

Option a) Enhancing foreign relations: While important, this is not mentioned as a primary focus in the passage.

Option c) Reducing defence expenditure: The passage does not discuss defence expenditure, making it an unlikely main focus of the budget.

Option d) Increasing agricultural subsidies: Although agriculture is a significant sector, the passage does not indicate that increasing agricultural subsidies is the primary focus.

Option e) Expanding the tourism industry: Tourism is not mentioned in the passage, so it is not expected to be a primary focus of the budget.

By prioritizing infrastructure growth and job creation, the 2024 Union Budget aims to strengthen the economy, support sustainable development, and address key issues like unemployment and sectoral growth.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The passage outlines several significant challenges faced by the Indian economy:

Inflationary pressures: The passage mentions that inflationary pressures pose a significant challenge.

High fiscal deficits: The passage notes high fiscal deficits as one of the challenges.

Global economic uncertainties: The passage references global economic uncertainties affecting the Indian economy.

Unemployment: The passage highlights unemployment as a persistent issue needing targeted fiscal measures.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

However, the passage does not mention declining foreign investment as a significant challenge. It focuses more on internal economic issues such as inflation, fiscal deficits, and unemployment, without specifically addressing the status of foreign investment.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The passage explicitly suggests that the government should prioritize incentivizing firms to use electric vehicles (EVs) for last-mile delivery operations. This recommendation is made in the context of promoting sustainable transportation solutions and supporting the broader goal of reducing environmental impact.

Electric Vehicles (EV): The passage highlights the importance of incentivizing the use of EVs, which are seen as a crucial component of sustainable development. By supporting the adoption of EVs for last-mile delivery, the government aims to reduce carbon emissions and promote cleaner, greener transportation options.

The other options are not mentioned in the passage as sectors to be incentivized for last-mile delivery:

Option a) Aviation: The passage does not discuss aviation in the context of last-mile delivery.

Option c) Railways: While railways are important for transportation, they are not mentioned as a focus for last-mile delivery operations.

Option d) Maritime: The passage does not address maritime transport in relation to last-mile delivery.

Option e) Traditional fuel vehicles: The passage specifically advocates for EVs over traditional fuel vehicles to support environmental sustainability and innovation in the transportation sector.

In summary, the passage strongly emphasizes the need for government incentives to promote the use of electric vehicles (EVs) for last-mile delivery operations, aligning with broader goals of sustainability and clean energy adoption.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The passage states that the real estate sector is a major catalyst for economic growth and a vital provider of employment, and it urgently needs industry status for better financing and tax benefits.

Real estate: The passage highlights that the real estate sector is vital for economic growth and is a major provider of employment. The sector's importance is underscored by its need for industry status to improve financing conditions and tax benefits, which are crucial for its sustained growth.

The passage specifically identifies the real estate sector as a major catalyst for economic growth and employment. It emphasizes the critical role that real estate plays in driving economic activity and providing jobs. The passage mentions the urgent need for the real estate sector to gain industry status to access lower-cost financing and tax benefits, indicating its significant impact on the overall economy.

The other options, while important, are not highlighted in the passage as major catalysts for economic growth and employment:

Option a) Tourism: The passage does not mention tourism as a major catalyst for economic growth and employment.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Option b) Agriculture: Although agriculture is a critical sector, the passage does not highlight it as the primary catalyst for growth and employment.

Option d) Healthcare: The passage does not discuss healthcare in the context of being a major catalyst for economic growth and employment.

Option e) Education: Education is not mentioned in the passage as a primary driver of economic growth and employment.

In summary, the passage clearly points out the real estate sector as a major catalyst for economic growth and employment, emphasizing its significant role in the economy and the need for supportive measures to enhance its impact.

6. Questions

Answer: B

In the passage, the term "buoyed" is used in the context of the GDP growth forecast, which remains optimistic, "buoyed by a strong recovery in various sectors, particularly manufacturing, services, and technology." Here, "buoyed" means to be supported or uplifted. The optimistic GDP growth forecast is being held up or supported by the recovery in these sectors.

Supported: This is the closest meaning to "buoyed" in the given context, indicating that the strong recovery in various sectors is providing a positive boost to the GDP growth forecast.

The other options do not fit the context in which "buoyed" is used:

Option a) Weakened: This is the opposite of "buoyed" and does not make sense in the context of the passage.

Option c) Criticized: This does not match the meaning of "buoyed" and does not fit the passage's context.

Option d) Ignored: This is not related to the meaning of "buoyed" and does not fit the context.

Option e) Reduced: This is also the opposite of what "buoyed" implies in the passage.

In summary, "buoyed" in this context means "supported," reflecting how the recovery in key sectors is positively influencing the GDP growth forecast.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The overall tone of the passage regarding the upcoming 2024 Union Budget is optimistic. The passage discusses various challenges the Indian economy faces but maintains a positive outlook on the potential impact of the budget.

Optimistic: The passage describes robust growth prospects, a strong recovery in several sectors, and efforts to address issues such as inflation, unemployment, and income inequality. It also mentions expected measures to foster economic resilience, stimulate investment, and ensure inclusive growth. The positive language and focus on opportunities and improvements reflect an optimistic tone.

The other options do not accurately describe the passage's tone:

Option a) Pessimistic: This would suggest a negative outlook, which is not supported by the passage's hopeful and forward-looking statements.

Option b) Neutral: A neutral tone would lack the positive emphasis seen in the passage, which clearly anticipates beneficial outcomes from the budget.

Option d) Sarcastic: There is no indication of sarcasm or irony in the passage. The language is straightforward and earnest.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Option e) Alarmist: An alarmist tone would be characterized by excessive concern or panic, which is not present in the passage. The challenges are acknowledged, but the focus is on constructive solutions.

In summary, the passage maintains an optimistic tone, highlighting the potential positive impacts of the upcoming 2024 Union Budget on the Indian economy.

8. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "wresting" is correctly used to describe the captain's action of skilfully taking control or gaining possession of the game from the opposing team.

II). In this sentence, "eschew" is used incorrectly. "Eschew" means to deliberately avoid or abstain from something, usually due to moral or personal reasons. The sentence implies the opposite—that he actively chose to pursue risky investments instead of avoiding them. A more suitable term might be "embraced" or "adopted."

III). In this sentence, "trounced" is correctly used to describe a decisive and overwhelming victory of the defending champions over their opponents.

9. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "hankering" is used incorrectly. "Hankering" typically refers to a strong desire or craving for something, often implying an eagerness or longing. However, the sentence suggests that despite having a hankering for adventure (a desire for it), the person actually avoids outdoor activities, which contradicts the usual meaning of "hankering." A more suitable term might be "disinclination" or "reluctance."

II). In this sentence, "animus" is correctly used to describe a lack of hostility or ill will between the colleagues, despite their differing political beliefs.

III). In this sentence, "polarization" is correctly used to describe the division or divergence of opinions into opposing factions or groups.

10. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "partisan" is correctly used to describe the strong, biased support for one's own political party or beliefs, often leading to division and difficulty in cooperation across party lines.

II). In this sentence, "rhetoric" is correctly used to describe the persuasive language and techniques used in her speech to influence the audience.

III). In this sentence, "prodigiously" is used incorrectly. While "prodigiously" means "to a very great extent" or "in an extraordinary way," it usually has a positive connotation. In this sentence, prodigiously sunny weather wouldn't necessarily make someone want to stay indoors, so it creates a contradiction.

11. Questions

Answer: B

skyfish@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

I). In this sentence, "watershed" is correctly used to describe a significant event or turning point that marked a dramatic change or advancement in medical treatment.

II). In this sentence, "mettle" is incorrectly used. Mettle refers to courage, firmness, or determination, especially in facing danger or difficulty. While the cake might be tempting, it wouldn't directly remove someone's courage or resolve. It might test their willpower, but "mettle" suggests a more serious challenge or threat.

III). In this sentence, "upended" is correctly used to describe how the discovery of new evidence completely overturned or disrupted the previous understanding or theories about the ancient civilization's origins.

12. Questions

Answer: D

I). In this sentence, "perpetual" is used incorrectly. "Perpetual" means continuous or uninterrupted, often with a connotation of something lasting indefinitely. The sentence suggests that the weather change is continuous but also stable, which contradicts the usual meaning of perpetual as something ongoing without interruption. A more appropriate term might be "regular" or "consistent."

II). In this sentence, "inflicted" is used incorrectly. "Inflict" typically means to cause harm, suffering, or damage, often intentionally or as a result of negative actions. However, in the sentence provided, the word "inflicted" doesn't fit well because gratitude is a positive emotion, not something negative that can be inflicted. A more appropriate term might be "elicited" or "generated."

III). In this sentence, "pruning" is correctly used to describe the act of trimming or cutting back parts of the bushes to encourage better growth and shape.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The sentence describes the change in the company's profits over the last quarter.

a). "has increased": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has" is singular, whereas the subject "profits" is plural. The correct form for a plural subject is "have increased."

b). "have increased": This option correctly uses the present perfect tense "have increased," which indicates that the action (increasing of profits) started in the past and continues to have relevance in the present. The plural subject "profits" correctly takes "have."

c). "is increasing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is" is singular, and the subject "profits" is plural. Additionally, "is increasing" suggests ongoing action in the present, while the sentence refers to a completed action over the last quarter.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d). "are increasing": This option is grammatically incorrect for the same reason as option c). "Are increasing" suggests ongoing action, but the sentence refers to a completed action over the last quarter.

e). "have been increase": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have been" should be followed by the present participle "increasing," not the base form "increase."

Therefore, option b) "have increased" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the company's profits have increased significantly over the last quarter, indicating a completed action with ongoing relevance.

14. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence describes the event of fans attending the concert.

a). "was attended": This option uses the past tense "was attended," which is appropriate because it indicates that the concert (singular subject) was attended by fans in the past. The singular subject "concert" correctly takes "was."

b). "were attended": This option is grammatically incorrect because "were" is plural, whereas the subject "concert" is singular. The verb should agree with the subject in number.

c). "has attended": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has attended" is in the present perfect tense, which does not fit the context of describing a past event.

d). "have attended": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is plural, whereas the subject "concert" is singular. The verb should agree with the subject in number.

e). "attending": This option is grammatically incorrect because it is a present participle ("attending") and does not form a complete verb phrase that fits the context of the sentence.

Therefore, option a) "was attended" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the concert was attended by thousands of fans eagerly awaiting their favorite band, describing a completed action in the past.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The sentence describes the ongoing impact of the artist's latest exhibition, indicating that it continues to attract attention.

a). "have drawn": This option uses the plural form "have," which does not agree with the singular subject "exhibition." Additionally, "have drawn" is the present perfect tense, which doesn't fit the context of an ongoing action.

b). "has drew": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has" should be followed by the past participle "drawn," not the simple past tense "drew."

c). "is drawing": This option correctly uses the present continuous tense "is drawing," which matches the singular subject "exhibition." It accurately conveys that the exhibition is currently attracting a lot of attention.

d). "were drawing": This option uses the plural past continuous tense "were drawing," which does not agree with the singular subject "exhibition." Additionally, it incorrectly suggests a past action that was happening over time.

e). "have been draw": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have been" should be followed by the present participle "drawing," not the base form "draw."

Therefore, option c) "is drawing" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the artist's latest exhibition is currently attracting a lot of attention from the media and the public.

16. Questions

Answer: C

The sentence discusses the necessity for employees to participate in activities during the annual company retreat.

a). "is required": This option uses the singular form "is" with the plural subject "employees," which is grammatically incorrect. The subject and verb must agree in number.

b). "are requiring": This option uses the present continuous tense, which is not appropriate in this context. The sentence is discussing a past event, so the past tense is needed.

c). "were required": This option correctly uses the past tense "were" to match the plural subject "employees" and the past participle "required." It accurately conveys that, during the retreat, employees were obligated to participate in the activities.

d). "has required": This option uses the present perfect tense, which incorrectly suggests that the requirement is an ongoing or recent action. The sentence context indicates a past event, so the past tense is more appropriate.

e). "was require": This option uses the singular form "was" with the plural subject "employees" and the base form "require" instead of the past participle "required," making it grammatically incorrect.

Therefore, option c) "were required" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that, during the annual company retreat, employees from various departments were required to participate in team-building exercises and workshops.

17. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence discusses the impact of new regulations on businesses, emphasizing the ongoing effect these regulations have had on operations.

a). "have required": This option uses the present perfect tense with the plural form "have" and "required," which is suitable for describing actions that started in the past and continue to the present. It correctly indicates that the new regulations have caused businesses to adapt their operations continuously.

b). "was requiring": This option uses the past continuous tense, indicating an ongoing action in the past. While it suggests a continuous requirement in the past, it doesn't convey the ongoing impact up to the present moment as required by the sentence.

c). "have been required": This option uses the present perfect passive tense with "have been" and "required," suggesting a passive action that started in the past and continues to the present. However, it incorrectly implies that businesses themselves are required, rather than the regulations requiring them.

d). "is requiring": This option uses the present tense, suggesting a current action. However, the sentence discusses the impact of regulations that have already been imposed, so the present tense is not appropriate.

e). "had required": This option uses the past perfect tense, suggesting that the requirement occurred before another past action. However, there is no indication of another past action in the sentence that would require the past perfect tense.

Therefore, option a) "have required" is the correct choice as it accurately describes the ongoing impact of the new regulations imposed by the government on many businesses, forcing them to adapt their operations to comply with updated standards.

18. Questions

Answer: E

A). "Having laying a path for capex-led robust" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "Having laid a path" to use the correct past participle form of "lay."

B). "economical growth in the post-Covid era," - This part has a word choice error. It should be "economic growth" as "economic" relates to the economy, while "economical" means saving money.

C). "the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) 3.0's first Budget should now turned" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "should now turn" to use the correct base form of the verb after "should."

D). "attention to foster job-creating growth by" - This part has a word form error. It should be "attention to fostering job-creating growth by" to maintain parallel structure with "harnessing" in part E.

E). "harnessing the potential of labour-intensive sectors" - This part is grammatically correct. It provides additional information on how to foster job-creating growth.

So, the correct choice is E) " harnessing the potential of labour-intensive sectors ".

The errors are in parts A, B, C and D.

The corrected sentence would read: "Having laid a path for capex-led robust economic growth in the post-Covid era, the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) 3.0's first Budget should now turn attention to fostering job-creating growth by harnessing the potential of labour-intensive sectors."

19. Questions

Answer: B

A). "Assessments make by different" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "Assessments made by different" to use the correct past participle form of the verb "make."

B). "organisations corroborate the dynamism" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes what the assessments do.

C). "of the Indian economical," - This part has a noun form error. It should be "of the Indian economy" to use the correct noun form instead of the adjective "economical."

D). "stimulating largely by the huge expansion" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "stimulated largely by the huge expansion" to maintain proper verb tense agreement.

E). "of infrastructure spend by the government" - This part has a noun form error. It should be "of infrastructure spending by the government" to use the correct gerund form of the noun "spend."

So, the correct choice is B) " organisations corroborate the dynamism ".

The errors are in parts A, C, D and E.

The corrected sentence would read: "Assessments made by different organisations corroborate the dynamism of the Indian economy, stimulated largely by the huge expansion of infrastructure spending by the government."

20. Questions

Answer: D

A). "Despite of India's natural advantage" - The phrase "Despite of" is incorrect. It should be "Despite" without "of."

B). "in labour-intensive sectors arise" - The verb form "arise" is incorrect in this context. It should be "arising."

C). "from it's abundant labour," - The possessive form "it's" is incorrect. It should be "its" without the apostrophe.

D). "Indian-made goods are increasingly" - This part is grammatically correct. It provides information about the trend of Indian-made goods.

E). "give way to imported goods" - The verb form "give" is incorrect. It should be "giving."

So, the correct choice is D) " Indian-made goods are increasingly ".

The errors are in parts A, B, C and E.

The corrected sentence would read: "Despite India's natural advantage in labour-intensive sectors arising from its abundant labour, Indian-made goods are increasingly giving way to imported goods."

21. Questions

Answer: E

A). "The US, generally a champion by free trade," - This part has a preposition error. It should be "a champion of free trade."

B). "following by the European Union," - This part has a verb form error. It should be "followed by the European Union."

C). "has recently imposing 100% tariffs on imports of electric vehicles," - This part has a verb tense error. It should be "has recently imposed 100% tariffs."

D). "among another goods from China to protect their domestic firms" - This part has a determiner error. It should be "among other goods."

E). "from possible dumping by the dominant producer" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes the reason for imposing the tariffs.

So, the correct choice is E) " from possible dumping by the dominant producer ".

The errors are in parts A, B, C and D.

The corrected sentence would read: "The US, generally a champion of free trade, followed by the European Union, has recently imposed 100% tariffs on imports of electric vehicles, among other goods from China to protect their domestic firms from possible dumping by the dominant producer."

22. Questions

Answer: A

Tg: @NextGenBankers

A). "The first Union Budget of the NDA 3.0" - This part is grammatically correct. It introduces the subject of the sentence.

B). "government should heralding" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "should herald" to match the correct modal verb usage.

C). "a newly focus on job-creating economic" - This part has an adjective form error. It should be "a new focus" to use the correct adjective form.

D). "growth that will fostering inclusive," - This part has a verb form error. It should be "growth that will foster inclusive" to use the correct verb form after "will."

E). "balanced, and Sustainability prosperity for all" - This part has a noun form error. It should be "balanced, and sustainable prosperity for all" to use the correct adjective form.

So, the correct choice is A) " The first Union Budget of the NDA 3.0 ".

The errors are in parts B, C, D and E.

The corrected sentence would read: “The first Union Budget of the NDA 3.0 government should herald a new focus on job-creating economic growth that will foster inclusive, balanced, and sustainable prosperity for all.”

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following passage, some of the words have been highlighted in bold. Read the passage and try to understand what it wants to convey. Then replace the highlighted words with the correct option in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually sound. In any case the highlighted word is given correctly, then mark 'No Improvement required' as the right answer choice.

The Supreme Court's grant of interim bail to Delhi Chief Minister and AAP supremo Arvind Kejriwal has not only provided political relief to him but also raised some important questions about the working of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), especially its arrest provision. If the stringent bail provisions of the Act have (A) hitherto received much attention, the court has now sought to examine Section 19 of the Act which empowers the ED to arrest a person and how the agency uses that power. Kejriwal contended that there was "no necessity to arrest him" and the ED had selectively used material to (B) implicate him in the Delhi excise policy case. While the court has referred the issues related to the ED's powers of arrest to a larger bench, it granted interim bail to Kejriwal, noting that he has been in jail for over three months and the matter involved the life and liberty of a citizen. The court made it clear that the arrest cannot be made arbitrarily and, on the whims, and fancies of an ED officer, and that the arrests, made on the basis of the reason to believe that the accused has committed an offence under the Act, should meet the parameters prescribed by the law. This is important because the safeguards under the law should protect a person from arbitrary and subjective exercise of power. That is why the court decided that the power of arrest is (C) amenable to judicial review and it was the court's duty to do the scrutiny. The court also said that "undue indulgence" to the ED would be (D) innocuous to rule of law and the life and liberty of people. It is necessary that such stringent laws as the PMLA, which raise the bar of bail to almost impossible levels, should have high safeguards against misuse. Since all these important issues are involved in Kejriwal's arrest, the court referred the matter to a larger bench for "in-depth consideration" and granted him interim bail till the matter is decided. The court has not found Kejriwal's arrest legal or illegal, but has found sufficient ground to question the ED's action. It should also be noted that the court wondered whether the arrest was necessary at the investigation stage. While the issues involved are yet to be decided, the grant of bail and the questions raised by the bench should have the effect of (E) indulging the ED's powers of arrest under the law. Kejriwal will remain in jail because he has been arrested by the CBI also in the same case, but the ruling has given a boost to him and his party and hope to many others arrested under the law.

Which of the following words will replace the word in (A)?

a. latterly
b. formerly
c. consequently
d. subsequently
e. No Improvement required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (B)?

a. incriminate

b. associate

c. insinuate

d. incorporate

e. No Improvement required

3. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (C)?

a. reluctant

b. reticent

c. intractable

d. rebellious

e. No Improvement required

4. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (D)?

a. innoxious

b. salubrious

c. propitious

d. deleterious

e. No Improvement required

5. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (E)?

a. dissuading

b. repressing

c. constraining

d. instigating

e. No Improvement required

6. Questions

In each of the following questions, a highlighted word is given and used in the three statements. You have to identify in which of the following statements the word is incorrectly used, and mark it as your answer.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

RELENTLESS

I). Despite the challenges, her relentless determination to succeed never wavered.

II). The baker enjoyed the relentless smell of fresh bread throughout the day.

III). We had a relentless conversation filled with laughter and catching up.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

7. Questions

CONSTERNATION

I). The birthday cake was a delightful surprise, causing much consternation among the guests.

II). The sudden announcement of the company's closure caused widespread consternation among the employees.

III). The politician's controversial statement caused consternation among his supporters and opponents alike.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

8. Questions

SUPPLANT

I). The new restaurant struggled to supplant the familiar charm of the old diner next door.

II). The new technology quickly supplanted the outdated system, improving efficiency and reliability.

III). Her innovative approach to teaching supplanted traditional methods, engaging students in new and effective ways.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. Both II and III

9. Questions

ONSLAUGHT

I). The small village was unprepared for the sudden onslaught of the invading forces, which overwhelmed their defences.

II). The baker enjoyed a daily onslaught of delicious cookies.

III). The child received an onslaught of birthday gifts, leaving them overwhelmed with joy.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

10. Questions

INFIRMITY

I). She attributed her victory in the race to her strategic infirmity, confusing her opponents.

II). Despite his age and infirmity, he remained active in the community and continued to inspire those around him.

III). Her infirmity prevented her from climbing stairs, so she had to use the elevator instead.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

11. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

After years of preparation and dedication to her studies, she finally applied for several prestigious universities, hoping to secure a spot in their highly competitive graduate programs.

a. She finally applying for several

b. She finally applies for several

c. She finally applying to several

d. She finally applied to several

e. No improvement is required

12. Questions

Despite the team's reluctance to implement the new strategy, the manager insisted with its immediate adoption, confident that it would lead to increased productivity and better results in the long run.

a. The manager insisting of its immediate adoption

b. The manager insisting of it's immediate adoption

c. The manager insisting with its immediately adoption

d. The manager insisted on its immediate adoption

e. No improvement is required

13. Questions

The committee took several hours to review the new policy changes, and after thorough discussion and consideration, they finally decided for approve the proposed amendments, recognizing their potential to improve overall efficiency and fairness within the organization.

a. decided to approve of the proposed amendments

b. decided for approves the proposes amendments

c. decided in approving of the proposed amendments

d. decided to approve the proposed amendments

e. No improvement is required

14. Questions

As she stared at the blank canvas, she tried to think of the perfect subject for her next painting, contemplating colors, shapes, and emotions that could evoke a sense of tranquility and wonder.

a. She tries to thinks about a perfect subject

b. She try to thinking of the perfect subject

c. She trying to think about a perfect subject

d. she trying to think in about the perfect subject

e. No improvement is required

15. Questions

The quaint little town by the lake was eerily familiar with him, triggering memories of childhood summers spent exploring its narrow streets and sun-dappled shores.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. lake was eerily familiar with his

b. lakes were eerily familiar for him

c. lake was eerily familiar to him

d. lake was eerily familiar for him

e. No improvement is required

16. Questions

In the following questions a sentence is given with three blanks, which is followed by a table, in which three columns are given (Column I, Column II and Column III), for three blanks respectively. You need to make the correct triplet of words which could fill the blank correctly.

The rising _____ of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere is threatening a potentially _____ change in the living and working conditions of _____.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). emission	D). progressive	G). biodiversity
B). presence	E). catastrophic	H). humanity
C). accumulation	F). incremental	I). habitats

a. A-E-I

b. B-D-H

c. C-F-G

d. C-E-H

e. A-D-I

17. Questions

The attempted assassination of the Republicans' _____ presidential nominee Donald Trump by a gunman at a Pennsylvania rally confirms that this is the modern US of A, the land of guns in which the atmosphere is _____ by the _____ nature of the political rhetoric in highly polarised times.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). presumptive	D). reinforced	G). incendiary
B). appointed	E). vitiated	H). pacifying
C). selected	F). alleviated	I). tame

a. B-D-I

b. C-E-H

c. A-E-G

d. C-F-H

e. B-D-G

18. Questions

The Biden administration is trying to _____ European NATO partners to raise their defense spending to at least 2% of their Gross Domestic Product (GDP), to not only _____ the 2014 pledge to boost European defense and military readiness but also ensure effective extended _____ for Ukraine.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). command	D). revisit	G). security
B). persuade	E). uphold	H). deterrence
C). request	F). debate	I). defense

a. A-E-I

b. B-D-H

c. C-D-I

d. A-F-G

e. B-E-H

19. Questions

Throwing their weight behind Ukraine, NATO members have _____ their commitment to supporting the war-torn country in 'building a force capable of defeating Russian _____ today and _____ it in the future'.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). reinforced	D). aggression	G). deterring
B). affirmed	E). sanctions	H). diminishing
C). aligned	F). meddling	I). mitigating

a. A-F-I

b. B-E-H

c. C-D-G

d. A-F-H

e. B-D-G

20. Questions

The _____ of India's manufacturing sector in June, as reflected by the HSBC India Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) rising to 58.3 from May's 57.5, is a _____ to the _____ demand driving the economy forward.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). resurgence	D). testament	G). robust
B). decline	E). indicator	H). weak
C). downturn	F). critique	I). mediocre

a. A-F-I

b. A-D-G

c. B-F-G

d. B-D-H

e. C-E-H

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The appropriate word to replace the word in (A) is: b) formerly

This is because the sentence is referring to the attention the stringent bail provisions of the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) had received in the past. "Formerly" correctly conveys this meaning.

a). latterly: This word means "recently" or "of late." It suggests something that has happened in the recent past, which doesn't fit the context since the sentence is referring to attention received over a more extended period, not just recently.

c). consequently: This word means "as a result" or "therefore." It indicates a cause-and-effect relationship, which doesn't fit here because the sentence is not discussing the consequences of any actions but rather the attention given to the bail provisions over time.

d). subsequently: This word means "afterwards" or "following this." It implies a sequence of events, which isn't appropriate here because the sentence is not discussing something that happened after a specific event but is referring to the general attention received by the bail provisions up until now.

2. Questions

Answer: A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct word to replace "(B)" in the context is: a) incriminate

The sentence would then read: "Kejriwal contended that there was 'no necessity to arrest him' and the ED had selectively used material to incriminate him in the Delhi excise policy case." This makes the most sense given the context of legal accusations and the Prevention of Money Laundering Act.

b). associate: This word means to connect someone or something with another person or thing. While it can imply a connection, it doesn't carry the strong connotation of legal culpability that "incriminate" does. Using "associate" would weaken the accusation, as it would only suggest a link rather than implying direct involvement in wrongdoing.

c). insinuate: This word means to suggest or hint at something, typically something bad, in an indirect and often unpleasant way. Although it implies an accusation, it lacks the directness and legal weight of "incriminate." It suggests that the ED is making a subtle implication rather than a clear, direct accusation.

d). incorporate: This word means to include or integrate something as part of a whole. It does not fit the context at all, as it relates to combining elements rather than suggesting someone's involvement in a crime.

Incriminate is the most appropriate as it directly implies accusing someone of a crime.

Associate implies a connection but not necessarily wrongdoing.

Insinuate implies an indirect accusation, which is not strong enough for this context.

Incorporate does not fit the context of legal accusation at all.

3. Questions

Answer: E

The word "amenable" in the context of the sentence "the power of arrest is amenable to judicial review" means that the power of arrest is open or subject to judicial review. This word is correctly used in this context. Therefore, the correct answer is: e) No Improvement required Reluctant: This word means unwilling or hesitant. Using it in the sentence would imply that the power of arrest is unwilling or hesitant to be reviewed, which doesn't make sense.

Example: He was reluctant to speak in front of a large audience.

Reticent: This word means reserved or not revealing one's thoughts or feelings readily. It suggests an unwillingness to speak or act, which is not appropriate in the context of the sentence.

Example: She was reticent about her personal life.

Intractable: This word means hard to control or deal with. It implies that the power of arrest is difficult to manage or review, which is contrary to the intended meaning of the sentence.

Example: The intractable problem of traffic congestion needs a long-term solution.

Rebellious: This word means resisting control or authority. It suggests defiance, which does not fit the context of judicial review.

Example: The rebellious teenager refused to follow the rules.

In contrast, amenable means open or responsive to suggestion or easily persuaded or controlled. In legal terms, it indicates that something is capable of being reviewed or overseen by a higher authority, which perfectly fits the context of the sentence.

Example: The new policy is amenable to improvement based on feedback from employees.

4. Questions

Answer: D

The word "deleterious" fits perfectly as it means causing harm or damage. Therefore, the correct answer is: d) deleterious a). Innoxious: This word means harmless or not injurious. If the court had said that undue indulgence to the ED would be innoxious to the rule of law and people's liberty, it would imply that such indulgence is harmless and does not cause any harm. This is the opposite of the intended meaning, as the court is concerned about potential harm.

b). Salubrious: This word means health-giving or healthy. Using this word would suggest that undue indulgence to the ED would be beneficial or good for the rule of law and people's liberty, which is not what the court is conveying. The court is highlighting potential negative consequences, not benefits.

c). Propitious: This word means favorable or giving a good chance of success. If this word were used, it would imply that undue indulgence to the ED would be favorable to the rule of law and people's liberty, which contradicts the court's concern about harm and negative impact.

d). Deleterious: This word means causing harm or damage. It accurately conveys the court's concern that undue indulgence to the ED could harm the rule of law and people's liberty. This aligns with the intended meaning of the sentence.

a). innoxious - harmless, not injurious

b). salubrious - health-giving, healthy

c). propitious - favorable, giving or indicating a good chance of success

d). deleterious - causing harm or damage

In summary, options (a), (b), and (c) suggest harmlessness or benefit, which do not fit the context. Option (d), "deleterious," correctly conveys the potential harm and is the appropriate choice.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The word that will replace the word in (E) should be "constraining." The context of the sentence indicates that the court's actions are intended to limit or restrict the Enforcement Directorate's (ED) powers of arrest under the law.

So, the correct answer is: c) constraining a). dissuading: This means to persuade someone not to take a particular action. While the court's actions may indeed discourage arbitrary arrests by the ED, "dissuading" doesn't fit well in the context of legally limiting or restricting the power of arrest.

b). repressing: This means to subdue or restrain by force. It implies a more forceful or violent action, which isn't appropriate for the context of judicial review and legal constraints.

d). instigating: This means to provoke or incite someone to do something, usually something bad. This is the opposite of what the court is trying to achieve. The court is not trying to provoke or incite the ED's use of its powers but rather to limit or constrain it.

Therefore, "constraining" is the most appropriate word because it accurately conveys the idea of imposing limits or restrictions on the ED's powers of arrest.

6. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "relentless" is correctly used to describe her continuous and unyielding determination to achieve success.

II). In this sentence, relentless is incorrectly used. Relentless describes something that is continuous, unceasing, and often intense or unpleasant.

While the smell of fresh bread might be strong, "relentless" implies it's overwhelming or even bothersome, which wouldn't be the case for someone who enjoys the smell.

III). In this sentence, relentless is incorrectly used. Relentless describes something that is unceasing and often intense, sometimes in a negative way.

While a conversation can be long and engaging, "relentless" implies it's lacking breaks or pauses and might even be draining, which wouldn't be the case for a fun conversation filled with laughter.

So, Sentence one uses relentless in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option e) Both II and III is the correct choice.

7. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, consternation is incorrectly used. Consternation refers to a feeling of worry, surprise, or confusion that is often caused by something unpleasant or unexpected.

A delightful birthday cake would be a positive surprise, and wouldn't likely cause worry or confusion among the guests.

II). In this sentence, "consternation" is correctly used to describe the feelings of anxiety and dismay experienced by the employees upon hearing the unexpected news.

III). In this sentence, "consternation" accurately describes the widespread feeling of concern, confusion, or alarm provoked by the politician's statement among both his supporters and detractors.

So, Sentences II and III use consternation in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option a) Only I is the correct choice.

8. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, supplant is incorrectly used. Supplant refers to taking the place of something or someone, often by force or superiority. It implies replacing something completely.

While the new restaurant might compete with the diner, supplant suggests a complete takeover, pushing the diner out of business entirely. This might not be the intended meaning. The new restaurant might simply coexist with the diner, offering a different option for customers.

II). In this sentence, "supplanted" is correctly used to indicate that the new technology replaced the outdated system, taking its place and offering better performance.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

III). In this sentence, "supplanted" is used correctly to describe how her innovative teaching methods replaced the traditional ones, resulting in more engaging and effective learning experiences for students.

So, Sentences II and III use supplant in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option a) Only I is the correct choice.

9. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "onslaught" is correctly used to describe a fierce or destructive attack by the invading forces.

II). In this sentence, onslaught is misused. Onslaught refers to a fierce, violent attack or a large amount of something that is overwhelming or difficult to deal with.

While the baker might love cookies, "onslaught" implies a negative experience, something forceful and potentially unpleasant. A baker likely wouldn't view delicious cookies as an attack.

III). In this sentence, onslaught is misused. Onslaught refers to a forceful and potentially negative attack.

While the child might be excited by the many gifts, "onslaught" implies a stressful or overwhelming experience. Receiving a large amount of presents is usually a positive thing, not an attack.

So, Sentence one uses onslaught in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option e) Both II and III is the correct choice.

10. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, infirmity is incorrectly used. Infirmity refers to a weakness, often physical or mental, that hinders someone's abilities.

While a strategic maneuver might involve an element of surprise, "infirmity" suggests a genuine weakness or limitation, not a clever tactic.

For the sentence to be correct, it would need to describe a genuine weakness that the runner somehow used to her advantage.

II). In this sentence, "infirmity" is correctly used to refer to the physical weakness or ailment often associated with old age, highlighting the person's perseverance despite such challenges.

III). In this sentence, "infirmity" is correctly used to describe a physical weakness or condition that limits her ability to perform a specific activity, such as climbing stairs.

So, Sentences II and III use infirmity in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option e a) Only I is the correct choice.

11. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) She finally applied to several

The phrase "applied to several" is the correct form to use in this context. The verb "apply" is usually followed by the preposition "to" when referring to the institutions or places to which one is applying.

Option (a) "She finally applying for several" is incorrect because "applying" is the present participle form, and it doesn't fit well with the past tense narrative of the sentence.

Option (b) "She finally applies for several" is incorrect because "applies" is in the present tense, while the context of the sentence suggests that the action happened in the past.

Option (c) "She finally applying to several" is incorrect for the same reason as option (a); "applying" is in the present participle form, which doesn't fit the past tense narrative.

Option (d) "She finally applied to several" correctly uses the past tense "applied" and the appropriate preposition "to," matching the context of the sentence that describes a past action.

12. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) The manager insisted on its immediate adoption

The sentence contains the phrase "insisted with its immediate adoption," which is not idiomatic. The correct preposition to use with "insist" in this context is "on."

Option (a) "The manager insisting of its immediate adoption" uses "insisting of," which is incorrect because "insist" should be followed by "on" when indicating a demand or requirement.

Option (b) "The manager insisting of it's immediate adoption" contains the same error with "insisting of" and also incorrectly uses "it's" (a contraction of "it is") instead of "its" (the possessive form).

Option (c) "The manager insisting with its immediately adoption" uses the incorrect preposition "with" and changes "immediate" to "immediately," which is incorrect in this context because "immediate" is the appropriate adjective to describe "adoption."

Therefore, option (d) "The manager insisted on its immediate adoption" correctly uses the preposition "on" with "insisted" and maintains the proper grammatical structure.

13. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) decided to approve of the proposed amendments

Option (a) correctly uses the infinitive "to approve" to indicate the committee's decision-making process regarding the proposed amendments. This structure is grammatically sound and effectively conveys the intended meaning that the committee made a decision to approve the amendments.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either use incorrect verb forms or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (b) "decided for approves the proposes amendments" uses incorrect verb forms ("for approves") and disrupts the grammatical structure.

Option (c) "decided in approving of the proposed amendments" introduces incorrect phrasing ("in approving of") and does not correctly convey the committee's decision to approve.

Option (d) "deciding to approve the proposed amendments" changes the tense and does not fit well with the context of the sentence, which describes a completed action ("they finally decided").

Therefore, option (a) "decided to approve of the proposed amendments" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

14. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No improvement is required

The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. It uses the correct verb form ("tried to think") to indicate past tense and the infinitive form ("to think") after "tried."

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the tense, disrupt the grammatical structure, or use incorrect phrasing:

Option (a) "She tries to thinks about a perfect subject" changes the tense to present and disrupts the agreement between "tries" and "thinks."

Option (b) "She try to thinking of the perfect subject" has issues with subject-verb agreement ("try" should be "tries") and incorrect phrasing with "to thinking."

Option (c) "She trying to think about a perfect subject" changes the tense to present continuous ("trying") which is not appropriate in this context.

Option (d) "she trying to think in about the perfect subject" has issues with tense and incorrect phrasing with "in about."

Therefore, option (e) "No improvement is required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) lake was eerily familiar to him

The phrase "eerily familiar to him" correctly conveys that the lake reminded him of something familiar or triggered memories. "Familiar to" is the appropriate preposition to use in this context.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that are not grammatically correct or do not convey the intended meaning:

Option (a) "lake was eerily familiar with his" has incorrect preposition usage ("with" should be "to").

Option (b) "lakes were eerily familiar for him" changes the singular "lake" to plural "lakes" and introduces "for" which is not suitable in this context.

Option (d) "lake was eerily familiar for him" uses "for" instead of "to," which is not idiomatic in this sentence.

Therefore, option (c) "lake was eerily familiar to him" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is C-E-H.

Column I:

A). Emission - This option refers to the release of greenhouse gases into the atmosphere, but it doesn't fit as well contextually compared to "accumulation," which denotes the buildup or increase of greenhouse gases.

B). Presence - This term generally refers to something being present or existing, but it doesn't convey the idea of an increasing amount or buildup as effectively as "accumulation" does.

C). Accumulation - This option accurately describes the process of greenhouse gases building up in the atmosphere over time, which is a key concern in climate change discussions.

Column II:

D). Progressive - This term typically refers to something advancing or developing, often positively, which doesn't fit the context of a potentially harmful change as described in the sentence.

E). Catastrophic - This term accurately describes a severe and potentially disastrous change in living and working conditions, which aligns with the impact of rising greenhouse gases.

F). Incremental - This term refers to something happening gradually in small stages, which doesn't convey the sudden or severe nature implied by "catastrophic."

Column III:

G). Biodiversity - This term refers to the variety of life forms in an ecosystem, which is not directly linked to the impact of greenhouse gases on living and working conditions.

H). Humanity - This term refers to the entire human race, and in the context of the sentence, it correctly indicates the potential impact on human living and working conditions.

I). Habitats - This term refers to the natural environments where organisms live, which is related to biodiversity and ecosystems but not specifically to human living and working conditions.

Therefore, the completed sentence with the correct triplet is: "The rising accumulation of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere is threatening a potentially catastrophic change in the living and working conditions of humanity."

So, the correct triplet of words is C-E-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

Answer: C

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is A-E-G.

Column I:

A). Presumptive - This term refers to someone who is expected to be or likely to become a particular thing, especially a presidential nominee before the final decision is made. It accurately describes Donald Trump before he officially became the Republican presidential nominee.

B). Appointed - This term refers to someone who has been officially chosen for a position, which doesn't fit the context of a nominee in an election.

C). Selected - This term refers to someone who has been chosen from a group of candidates, which is not specific to the context of being a presidential nominee.

Column II:

D). Reinforced - This term refers to making something stronger or more solid, which doesn't fit the context of describing the atmosphere.

E). Vitiated - This term means spoiled or impaired, especially by adding something harmful or detrimental. It accurately describes how the atmosphere in the US is affected by the nature of political rhetoric in highly polarized times.

F). Alleviated - This term refers to making something less severe or intense, which is the opposite of what is described in the sentence.

Column III:

G). Incendiary - This term refers to something designed to cause fires or conflict, metaphorically describing the inflammatory nature of political rhetoric in the sentence.

H). Pacifying - This term refers to making someone calm or peaceful, which doesn't fit the context of describing political rhetoric.

I). Tame - This term refers to something that is not wild or dangerous, which doesn't accurately describe the intense and polarized nature of political rhetoric in the US.

Therefore, the completed sentence with the correct triplet is: "The attempted assassination of the Republicans' presumptive presidential nominee Donald Trump by a gunman at a Pennsylvania rally confirms that this is the modern US of A, the land of guns in which the atmosphere is vitiated by the incendiary nature of the political rhetoric in highly polarised times."

So, the correct triplet of words is A-E-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: E

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is B-E-H.

Column I:

A). Command - This term means to give an authoritative order, which doesn't fit the context of encouraging or convincing European NATO partners.

B). Persuade - This term means to convince someone to do something, which fits the context of encouraging European NATO partners to increase their defense spending.

C). Request - This term means to ask for something politely, which is not as strong as "persuade" in this context.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Column II:

D). Revisit - This term means to examine or consider something again, which doesn't fit the context of fulfilling a pledge.

E). Uphold - This term means to maintain or support something, such as a pledge, which fits the context of ensuring that European NATO partners stick to their commitment to boost defense spending.

F). Debate - This term means to discuss a topic formally, which doesn't fit the context of maintaining a pledge.

Column III:

G). Security - This term means the state of being free from danger or threat, which doesn't specifically fit the context of a military strategy for Ukraine.

H). Deterrence - This term means the act of preventing or discouraging an action, especially through fear of consequences, which fits the context of ensuring effective military readiness and support for Ukraine.

I). Defense - This term means the action of defending from or resisting attack, which is related but not as specific as "deterrence" in the context of the sentence.

Therefore, the completed sentence with the correct triplet is: "The Biden administration is trying to persuade European NATO partners to raise their defense spending to at least 2% of their Gross Domestic Product (GDP), to not only uphold the 2014 pledge to boost European defense and military readiness but also ensure effective extended deterrence for Ukraine."

So, the correct triplet of words is B-E-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: E

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is B-D-G.

Column I:

A). Reinforced - This term means to strengthen or make something stronger, which doesn't fit the context of affirming commitment.

B). Affirmed - This term means to declare or assert something as true, which fits the context of expressing commitment.

C). Aligned - This term means to bring into line or agreement, which doesn't directly fit the context of affirming commitment.

Column II:

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

D). Aggression - This term refers to hostile or violent behavior or attitudes, which fits the context of describing Russian actions.

E). Sanctions - This term refers to penalties or punitive measures imposed to force compliance, which doesn't fit the context of describing Russian actions.

F). Meddling - This term refers to interfering or involving oneself in something without right or invitation, which is related but not as specific as "aggression" in the context of the sentence.

Column III:

G). Deterring - This term refers to preventing or discouraging an action, especially through fear of consequences, which fits the context of NATO's commitment to preventing future aggression by Russia.

H). Diminishing - This term means to make or become less, which doesn't fit the context of ensuring future security.

I). Mitigating - This term means to make less severe or painful, which doesn't fit the context of preventing future aggression.

Therefore, the completed sentence with the correct triplet is: "Throwing their weight behind Ukraine, NATO members have affirmed their commitment to supporting the war-torn country in 'building a force capable of defeating Russian aggression today and deterring it in the future'."

So, the correct triplet of words is B-D-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

20. Questions

Answer: B

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is A-D-G.

Column I:

A). Resurgence - This term means a revival or increase in activity, popularity, or occurrence, which fits the context of the manufacturing sector improving.

B). Decline - This term means a gradual and continuous loss of strength, numbers, quality, or value, which doesn't fit the context of improvement.

C). Downturn - This term means a decline in economic, business, or other activity, which also doesn't fit the context of improvement.

Column II:

D). Testament - This term means something that serves as a sign or evidence of a specified fact, event, or quality, which fits the context of indicating the strong demand.

E). Indicator - This term means a thing that indicates the state or level of something, which could fit but is less specific than "testament" in this context.

F). Critique - This term means an evaluation or detailed analysis, which doesn't fit the context of providing evidence or support.

Column III:

G). Robust - This term means strong and healthy, which fits the context of describing the strong demand driving the economy.

H). Weak - This term means lacking strength, which doesn't fit the context of strong demand.

I). Mediocre - This term means of only moderate quality, which doesn't fit the context of strong demand.

Therefore, the completed sentence with the correct triplet is: "The resurgence of India's manufacturing sector in June, as reflected by the HSBC India Manufacturing Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) rising to

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg.- @NextGenBankers

58.3 from May's 57.5, is a testament to the robust demand driving the economy forward."

So, the correct triplet of words is A-D-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

After remaining out of power for more than a decade, the Labour Party led by Keir Starmer is back with a landslide victory in the recently held elections in the UK. Prime Minister Modi was among the first to congratulate Prime Minister Keir and both leaders agreed to work towards more vigour for FTA and strengthening the ties between the two countries. Indeed, it is a big shift in UK politics and many policies and initiatives would be at a stark departure from the previous dispensation. This shift holds great significance, given the Labour Party's decisive victory over the Conservatives in the recent general elections. This change in governance marks a new chapter in the UK's domestic and international policy. For countries like India, with deep historical, economic, and diplomatic ties to the UK, this transition could bring about notable changes. The evolving dynamics of UK-India relations under the new Liberal government could influence various sectors, including trade, education, technology, and immigration. The Labour Party's victory signifies a substantial shift in British politics. The Labour Party is known to be liberal, traditionally more progressive, inclusive and believes in sustainability and international cooperation. Their policies are expected to diverge from the Conservative approach, particularly in areas such as climate change, social justice, and economic reform. Though Conservatives did not touch upon the UK's ties with India there can be a marked shift in the UK's policies in the months to come. The biggest change may come in the form of immigration laws. India has a sizable population in the UK and getting a Visa and residency status is always on the top agenda of the Indian community in the UK and back home. The next area where substantial change could be witnessed is the economic ties between the two countries. The Liberal Party's commitment to free trade and economic partnerships could enhance bilateral trade, potentially leading to a comprehensive UK-India Free Trade Agreement (FTA). It was the first thing that came up when Prime Minister Modi congratulated the new Prime Minister of the UK Keir Starmer. Indeed, for long, The UK and India have had robust trade relationship, with the UK being one of India's significant trading partners. Under the Conservative government, there were ongoing discussions about a comprehensive Free Trade Agreement (FTA). The Labour Govt's more enthusiastic approach to global trade could accelerate these negotiations. A more collaborative and open approach to foreign policy may lead to deeper strategic ties, particularly in areas like defence, cybersecurity, and counter-terrorism. Greater involvement in global platforms like the Commonwealth, the United Nations, and climate forums, facilitating joint efforts on issues of mutual interest. Besides, India can look forward to the UK's support for India's aspirations for a greater role in international organisations, including a potential permanent seat on the UN Security Council.

What does the passage suggest about the Labour Party's approach compared to the Conservatives?

a. More conservative and nationalistic

b. More liberal and inclusive

c. Less focused on international cooperation

d. More focused on cutting taxes

e. Less concerned with social justice

2. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

What is a significant concern for the Indian community in the UK according to the passage?

a. Education opportunities
b. Healthcare access
c. Immigration laws
d. Tourism
e. Environmental policies

3. Questions

What did Prime Minister Modi and Keir Starmer agree to work towards?

a. Climate change
b. Free Trade Agreement (FTA)
c. Education reform
d. Healthcare collaboration
e. Defence partnership

4. Questions

Which international aspiration of India could the UK potentially support under the new Labour government?

a. Hosting the Olympics
b. Becoming a nuclear power
c. Gaining a permanent seat on the UN Security Council
d. Leading the World Bank
e. Establishing a new global currency

5. Questions

Which of the following is NOT a potential area of influence in the evolving UK-India relations mentioned in the passage?

a. Trade
b. Education
c. Technology
d. Space exploration
e. Immigration

6. Questions

skyscup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

What is the central theme of the passage?

a. The challenges faced by the Indian community in the UK

b. The history of UK-India relations

c. The Labour Party's landslide victory and its implications for UK-India relations

d. The economic policies of the Conservative Party

e. The impact of immigration on UK politics

7. Questions

What is the tone of the passage?

a. Pessimistic

b. Neutral

c. Optimistic

d. Critical

e. Sarcastic

8. Questions

In the questions given below, sentences are jumbled and placed in options. Also, there is an odd one out in one of the sentences, which is mentioned in the options. Identify the correct sequence of the sentences and eliminate the odd one out to mark that as your option in the given sequence (eg. Correct sequence-Odd one out [ABCD-E]).

A). Electrification of the transport sector and the shift towards EVs is seen as

B). A means to achieve the target set by the government for net-zero emissions by 2070,

C). Since India is the world's third largest emitter of CO_2, D). And has remained steadfast in its transition towards clean energy

E). The need for lithium-ion batteries is important.

a. ABCD-E

b. ABDE-C

c. BAED-C

d. ECAB-D

e. CABE-D

9. Questions

A). The nation's coal resources through public-private partnership

B). Marks the culmination of the series of steps taken over

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

C). The private sector under generous revenue-sharing terms

D). The last few years, to "democratise" the sector.

E). Coal India's recent move to award 23 discontinued underground mines to

a. ABCD-E
b. ECBD-A
c. ABED-C
d. AECD-B
e. CBDA-B

10. Questions

A). A range of strategies and regulations

B). Poses a stark challenge to fairness and equity.

C). Recognising the need to address

D). AI challenges and are implementing E). Governments worldwide are increasingly

a. ABCD-E
b. DACB-E
c. EBAD-C
d. ECDA-B
e. ACDB-E

11. Questions

A). Urbanization is crucial for economic growth,

B). But India's current focus on rural development

C). Neglects its urban centers, leading to D). The urbanization of any country and its economic productive

E). Inadequate infrastructure and living conditions.

a. ABCD-E
b. DCEB-A
c. ABCE-D
d. DCAB-E
e. ADBE-C

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

A). At a time of increasing commercialization,

B). It is only to be expected that the role of education

C). As a means of bringing social change

D). Has been getting less attention and in fact has been marginalized E). Takes a backseat to revenues and market share.

a. ABCD-E

b. CABE-D

c. BCDE-A

d. CDAE-B

e. ACDB-E

13. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with two blanks; each blank is followed by a highlighted word. You have to identify the correct pair of words from the given options to make the sentence meaningful, if the given highlighted words are correct, then mark (E) as your answer.

The nation is yet to recover from the shock of how the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) has _____ (festered) under the weight of its own contradictions, _____ (appalling) over 2.3 million aspirants who took the centralized examination for admission to undergraduate medical courses.

a. perished, quieting

b. crumbled, discommoding

c. meliorated, aggravating

d. ameliorated, disconcerting

e. No replacement required

14. Questions

The _____ (quandary) of the one-horned rhino in Kaziranga is a _____(evocative) reminder of the broader challenges facing wildlife conservation in the face of climate change.

a. perplexity, pathetic

b. affliction, emphatic

c. plight, poignant

d. predicament, nostalgic

e. No replacement required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

As _____ (astonishment) builds up for the upcoming Budget, the spotlight turns to current and potential tax incentives that could _____ (enervate) economic growth and support various sectors.

a. anticipation, invigorate

b. premonition, dissuade

c. contemplation, augment

d. apprehension, reinforce

e. No replacement required

16. Questions

Food inflation — typically considered _____ (idiosyncratic) — has stayed _____ (stubbornly) elevated, restricting the fall in the consumer price index (CPI) and restraining the Monetary Policy Committee of the Reserve Bank of India.

a. mundane, adamantly

b. prevalent, obdurately

c. consistent, waveringly

d. ubiquitous, obstinately

e. No replacement required

17. Questions

On June 19, a man and a woman were _____ (confounded) by a crowd in Barasat, a town to the north of Kolkata, which suspected them of being 'child-lifters', as a section of the media _____ (predicates) on describing kidnappers.

a. immured, proclaims

b. abducted, exhorts

c. liberated, solicits

d. apprehended, insists

e. No replacement required

18. Questions

In each of the following questions a sentence is divided into five parts. Out of these five parts a combination of two parts is erroneous, remaining are error free. You are required to find out which combination is erroneous from the given options.

The new environmental policies implemented (A)/ by the government had a profound affect (B)/ on reducing pollution levels in the city (C)/, lead to cleaner air and (D)/ healthier living conditions for its residents (E).

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. A and C

b. B and D

c. C and E

d. A and D

e. A and E

19. Questions

They took it upon them to organize the community event (A)/, coordinating all the logistics, arranging for volunteers (B)/, and ensuring that every details was (C)/ meticulously planned to create a (D)/ memorable experience for everyone involved (E).

a. A and C

b. B and D

c. C and E

d. A and D

e. A and E

20. Questions

The project was meant to showcase the team's skills, (A)/ but due to series of miscommunications and poorly executed tasks, (B)/ it was thoroughly bungle, leaving (C)/ everyone scrambling to fix the (D)/ numerous errors and salvage what they could (E).

a. A and B

b. B and C

c. C and E

d. A and D

e. A and E

21. Questions

Planning a successful event involve meticulous attention (A)/ to detail, effective coordination with vendors, (B)/ and a thorough understanding of the guests' (C)/ preferences and need to ensure a (D)/ seamless and enjoyable experience for everyone involved (E).

a. A and C

b. B and D

c. C and E

d. A and D

e. A and E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

22. Questions

Upon entering in the ancient castle, (A)/ they were greeted by a (B)/ chilling silence that hung heavy in the air, (C)/ as if the centuries-old walls held (D)/ secrets waiting to uncovered (E).

a. A and C

b. B and D

c. C and E

d. A and D

e. A and E

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The passage describes the Labour Party as traditionally more progressive, inclusive, and committed to international cooperation, contrasting with the Conservative approach.

The passage highlights several key points about the Labour Party's approach that differentiate it from the Conservatives. Specifically, it mentions that the Labour Party is known to be more liberal, traditionally more progressive, and inclusive. The party also believes in sustainability and international cooperation. This is contrasted with the Conservative approach, which is not explicitly described in the passage but can be inferred to be less focused on these areas based on the context.

a). More conservative and nationalistic - This option is incorrect as it describes the opposite of what is suggested in the passage. The Labour Party is characterized as more liberal, not conservative.

b). More liberal and inclusive - This is the correct answer. The passage directly states that the Labour Party is known to be liberal and inclusive, highlighting its progressive stance.

c). Less focused on international cooperation - This option is incorrect because the passage mentions the Labour Party's commitment to international cooperation, making it more focused on this aspect rather than less.

d). More focused on cutting taxes - This option is incorrect as the passage does not discuss the Labour Party's tax policies but emphasizes their focus on progressive issues such as sustainability and social justice.

e). Less concerned with social justice - This option is incorrect as the passage describes the Labour Party as traditionally more progressive, which includes a focus on social justice.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The passage notes that immigration laws are always a top agenda for the Indian community in the UK and back home.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

The passage specifically mentions that immigration laws are always on the top agenda for the Indian community in the UK and back home. This indicates that changes in immigration policies are of significant concern to them, especially considering the sizable Indian population in the UK.

a). Education opportunities - While education could be a concern, it is not mentioned in the passage as a primary issue for the Indian community in the UK.

b). Healthcare access - Healthcare access is not discussed in the passage as a significant concern for the Indian community in the UK.

c). Immigration laws - This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly states that getting a Visa and residency status is always a top agenda for the Indian community, highlighting immigration laws as a significant concern.

d). Tourism - Tourism is not mentioned in the passage as a concern for the Indian community in the UK.

e). Environmental policies - While environmental policies could be relevant, they are not mentioned in the passage as a primary concern for the Indian community in the UK.

3. Questions

Answer: B

The passage states that both leaders agreed to work towards a Free Trade Agreement (FTA) and strengthening the ties between the two countries.

The passage explicitly states that Prime Minister Modi congratulated Prime Minister Keir Starmer and both leaders agreed to work towards more vigor for a Free Trade Agreement (FTA) and strengthening the ties between the two countries. This highlights the importance they placed on trade relations and the potential for a comprehensive FTA between the UK and India.

a). Climate change - While important, climate change is not mentioned as the specific focus of their agreement in the passage.

b). Free Trade Agreement (FTA) - This is the correct answer. The passage clearly mentions that both leaders agreed to work towards an FTA, indicating it as a key area of mutual focus.

c). Education reform - Education reform is not mentioned in the passage as a topic of agreement between Prime Minister Modi and Keir Starmer.

d). Healthcare collaboration - Healthcare collaboration is not discussed in the passage as a point of agreement between the two leaders.

e). Defence partnership - While defence is mentioned as a potential area for deeper strategic ties, it is not the specific focus of the agreement mentioned between Prime Minister Modi and Keir Starmer in the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

Answer: C

The passage suggests that the UK's support for India's aspirations for a greater role in international organisations could include a potential permanent seat on the UN Security Council.

The passage indicates that the UK's support for India's aspirations for a greater role in international organizations could include backing India's bid for a permanent seat on the UN Security Council. This highlights the significance of India's ambition to have a more influential position within the United Nations, which aligns with the Labour Party's more collaborative and open approach to foreign policy.

a). Hosting the Olympics - While this could be a significant event, it is not mentioned in the passage as an aspiration that the UK would support under the new Labour government.

b). Becoming a nuclear power - India is already a nuclear power, and this is not an aspiration mentioned in the passage.

c). Gaining a permanent seat on the UN Security Council - This is the correct answer. The passage specifically mentions the potential for the UK to support India's aspiration for a greater role in international organizations, including a potential permanent seat on the UN Security Council.

d). Leading the World Bank - This is not mentioned in the passage as an aspiration that the UK would support under the new Labour government.

e). Establishing a new global currency - This is not discussed in the passage and is not a known aspiration of India.

5. Questions

Answer: D

The passage mentions several areas that could be influenced by the evolving UK-India relations under the new Labour government, including trade, education, technology, and immigration. However, space exploration is not mentioned as a potential area of influence.

a). Trade - The passage discusses the potential for a comprehensive UK-India Free Trade Agreement (FTA), making trade a significant area of influence.

b). Education - The passage implies that education is one of the sectors that could be influenced by the evolving relations between the UK and India.

c). Technology - Technology is specifically mentioned as one of the sectors that could be influenced by the evolving dynamics of UK-India relations.

d). Space exploration - This is the correct answer. The passage does not mention space exploration as an area of influence in the evolving UK-India relations.

e). Immigration - Immigration laws are highlighted as a significant concern for the Indian community in the UK, making it a relevant area of influence.

6. Questions

Answer: C

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The passage centers on the Labour Party, led by Keir Starmer, winning a landslide victory in the UK elections and the implications of this political shift on UK-India relations. It discusses how the new government's policies, especially in areas like immigration, trade, and international cooperation, might differ from the previous Conservative government and what this means for the relationship between the UK and India.

a). The challenges faced by the Indian community in the UK - While the passage mentions immigration concerns for the Indian community, it is not the central theme.

b). The history of UK-India relations - The passage does not focus on the historical aspect of UK-India relations but rather on the current and future implications of the Labour Party's victory.

c). The Labour Party's landslide victory and its implications for UK-India relations - This is the correct answer. The passage primarily discusses the Labour Party's recent victory and the expected changes in UK-India relations as a result.

d). The economic policies of the Conservative Party - The passage contrasts the Labour Party's policies with those of the Conservative Party but does not focus specifically on the Conservative Party's economic policies.

e). The impact of immigration on UK politics - Although immigration is mentioned, it is not the central theme of the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The tone of the passage is optimistic as it discusses the Labour Party's landslide victory and the positive changes expected in UK-India relations. The passage highlights potential improvements in trade, immigration laws, and international cooperation, suggesting a hopeful outlook for the future under the new Labour government.

a). Pessimistic - The passage does not express a negative or gloomy outlook but instead focuses on positive changes and opportunities.

b). Neutral - While the passage is informative, it conveys a sense of hope and positive expectations rather than maintaining a neutral tone.

c). Optimistic - This is the correct answer. The passage emphasizes positive developments and opportunities arising from the Labour Party's victory, indicating an optimistic tone.

d). Critical - The passage does not criticize any party or policy but rather highlights the potential benefits of the new Labour government's approach.

e). Sarcastic - The passage is straightforward and serious, without any indications of sarcasm.

8. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Since India is the world’s third largest emitter of CO2, electrification of the transport sector and the shift towards EVs is seen as a means to achieve the target set by the government for net-zero emissions by 2070, the need for lithium-ion batteries is important. The odd one out is D. And has remained steadfast in its transition towards clean energy. This statement is more general and focuses on India's overall commitment to transitioning towards clean energy. The other statements (A, B, C, and E) specifically discuss India's CO2 emissions, the electrification of the transport sector, the shift towards EVs, the target for net-zero emissions by 2070, and the need for lithium-ion batteries.

9. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Coal India's recent move to award 23 discontinued underground mines to the private sector under generous revenue-sharing terms marks the culmination of the series of steps taken over the last few years, to "democratise" the sector. The odd one out is A. The nation's coal resources through public-private partnership. This statement is more general, discussing the public-private partnership of the nation's coal resources. The other statements (B, C, D, and E) are more specific to Coal India's recent move to award discontinued underground mines to the private sector under revenue-sharing terms and the culmination of steps to "democratise" the sector.

10. Questions

Answer: D

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (d) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Governments worldwide are increasingly recognising the need to address AI challenges and are implementing a range of strategies and regulations. The odd one out is B. Poses a stark challenge to fairness and equity. This statement discusses the challenge to fairness and equity, while the other statements (A, C, D, and E) are about strategies, regulations, and actions taken by governments to address AI challenges.

11. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Urbanization is crucial for economic growth, but India's current focus on rural development neglects its urban centers, leading to inadequate infrastructure and living conditions. The odd one out is D. The urbanization of any country and its economic productive. This statement is incomplete and does not fit coherently with the other statements, which discuss the importance of urbanization for economic growth, the neglect of urban centers in favour of rural development, and the resulting inadequate infrastructure and living conditions.

12. Questions

Answer: A

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (a) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: At a time of increasing commercialization, it is only to be expected that the role of education as a means of bringing social change has been getting less attention and in fact has been marginalized. The odd one out is E. Takes a backseat to revenues and market share.

E is odd because while A, B, C, and D form a coherent narrative about the marginalization of education due to commercialization, E introduces a different concept about revenues and market share taking precedence, which diverges from the focus on social change and marginalization.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: "The nation is yet to recover from the shock of how the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) has crumbled under the weight of its own contradictions, discommoding over 2.3 million aspirants who took the centralized examination for admission to undergraduate medical courses."

So, the correct answer is (b) crumbled, discommoding. Let's briefly examine the other options:

a). perished, quieting - "Perished" means died or decayed, and "quieting" means calming or pacifying. This combination does not accurately convey the context of the NEET facing internal contradictions and causing difficulties for aspirants.

c). meliorated, aggravating - "Meliorated" means improved, and "aggravating" means worsening or intensifying a problem. This pair does not fit the context of the NEET crumbling under contradictions.

d). ameliorated, disconcerting - "Ameliorated" means improved, and "disconcerting" means causing discomfort or worry. The term "ameliorated" is opposite to the intended meaning of something crumbling or failing.

festered, appalling - "Festered" means worsened or become infected, and "appalling" means shocking or horrifying. While "festered" could fit the context, "appalling" does not accurately describe the specific discomfort or inconvenience caused to the aspirants.

Therefore, the correct answer is (b) crumbled, discommoding. This pair effectively conveys the idea that NEET has fallen apart due to internal contradictions and caused significant inconvenience to the aspirants.

14. Questions

Answer: C

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: " The plight of the one-horned rhino in Kaziranga is a poignant reminder of the broader challenges facing wildlife conservation in the face of climate change."

So, the correct answer is (c) plight, poignant. Let's briefly examine the other options:

a). perplexity, pathetic - "Perplexity" means confusion, and "pathetic" means arousing pity, often with a negative connotation. This combination does not effectively convey the seriousness and emotional impact of the rhino's situation.

b). affliction, emphatic - "Affliction" means suffering or distress, and "emphatic" means expressed with emphasis. While "affliction" could fit, "emphatic" does not capture the emotional depth of the reminder.

d). predicament, nostalgic - "Predicament" means a difficult or unpleasant situation, and "nostalgic" means longing for the past. "Nostalgic" does not fit the context of a serious reminder about current conservation challenges.

quandary, evocative - "Quandary" means a state of uncertainty or dilemma, and "evocative" means bringing strong images or feelings to mind. While "evocative" could fit, "quandary" does not capture the severity of the situation.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, the correct answer is (c) plight, poignant. This combination effectively conveys the serious and emotionally impactful reminder of the broader challenges in wildlife conservation due to climate change.

15. Questions

Answer: A

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: " As anticipation builds up for the upcoming Budget, the spotlight turns to current and potential tax incentives that could invigorate economic growth and support various sectors."

So, the correct answer is (a) anticipation, invigorate. Let's briefly examine the other options:

b). premonition, dissuade - "Premonition" means a strong feeling that something is about to happen, especially something unpleasant, and "dissuade" means to discourage. This pair does not fit the positive context of economic growth.

c). contemplation, augment - "Contemplation" means deep reflective thought, and "augment" means to increase. While "augment" fits, "contemplation" does not convey the sense of excitement or buildup.

d). apprehension, reinforce - "Apprehension" means anxiety or fear about the future, and "reinforce" means to strengthen. "Apprehension" does not fit the context of positive buildup for the Budget.

astonishment, enervate - "Astonishment" means great surprise, and "enervate" means to weaken. This pair does not fit the context of economic growth and support.

Therefore, the correct answer is (a) anticipation, invigorate. This choice effectively conveys the sense of eager expectation and the potential for tax incentives to stimulate economic growth.

16. Questions

Answer: E

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: " Food inflation — typically considered idiosyncratic — has stayed stubbornly elevated, restricting the fall in the consumer price index (CPI) and restraining the Monetary Policy Committee of the Reserve Bank of India."

So, the correct answer is (e) No replacement required. Let's briefly examine the other options to understand why the words (idiosyncratic and stubbornly) are the best fit:

a). mundane, adamantly - "Mundane" means ordinary or commonplace, which doesn't fit the context of describing food inflation. "Adamantly" means firmly or resolutely, which is close in meaning to "stubbornly" but not as precise.

b). prevalent, obdurately - "Prevalent" means widespread or common, which doesn't capture the unique or irregular nature of food inflation. "Obdurately" means stubbornly, which is accurate but doesn't fit as well with "prevalent."

c). consistent, waveringly - "Consistent" means steady or regular, which contradicts the idea of food inflation being idiosyncratic. "Waveringly" means unsteadily, which is the opposite of "stubbornly."

d). ubiquitous, obstinately - "Ubiquitous" means present everywhere, which doesn't convey the idiosyncratic nature of food inflation. "Obstinately" means stubbornly, which is correct but doesn't align well with "ubiquitous."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, the words "idiosyncratic" and "stubbornly" are the most appropriate, making (e) No replacement required the correct answer.

17. Questions

Answer: D

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: " On June 19, a man and a woman were apprehended by a crowd in Barasat, a town to the north of Kolkata, which suspected them of being 'child-lifters', as a section of the media insists on describing kidnappers."

So, the correct answer is (d) apprehended, insists. Let's break down why this choice fits best:

Apprehended means seized or caught, which is appropriate for describing how the man and woman were detained by the crowd.

Insists means to assert or demand persistently, which fits the context of media strongly asserting or describing the situation in a particular way.

Let's briefly examine why the other options are less suitable:

a). immured, proclaims - "Immured" means imprisoned or walled in, which doesn't fit the context of being seized by a crowd. "Proclaims" means to announce, which doesn't capture the idea of persistent media description.

b). abducted, exhorts - "Abducted" means taken away forcibly, which is not what happened to the individuals. "Exhorts" means to strongly encourage or urge, which does not fit the context of media describing kidnappers.

c). liberated, solicits - "Liberated" means freed, which is contrary to the context of being seized. "Solicits" means to request or seek, which doesn't fit with media describing the situation.

confounded, predicates - "Confounded" means confused or bewildered, which is not appropriate for describing the action of being seized. "Predicates" means to base something on, which does not fit the context of media description.

Therefore, (d) apprehended, insists is the correct answer as it accurately reflects the situation described in the sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: B

Part B: "...had a profound affect..."

The error in Part B is the incorrect use of "affect." The correct noun form is "effect."

Corrected: "...had a profound effect..."

Part D: "...lead to cleaner air and..."

The error in Part D is the verb form "lead." The word "lead" should be "leading" to maintain the correct verb form.

After these corrections, the sentence reads: " The new environmental policies implemented by the government had a profound effect on reducing pollution levels in the city, leading to cleaner air and healthier living conditions for its residents."

19. Questions

Answer: A

Part A: "They took it upon them to organize the community event..."

The correct pronoun should be "themselves" instead of "them."

Corrected: "They took it upon themselves to organize the community event..."

Part C: "...ensuring that every details was..."

The noun "details" should be singular "detail" to match the singular verb "was."

Corrected: "...ensuring that every detail was..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "They took it upon themselves to organize the community event, coordinating all the logistics, arranging for volunteers, and ensuring that every detail was meticulously planned to create a memorable experience for everyone involved."

20. Questions

Answer: B

Part B: "...but due to series of miscommunications and poorly executed tasks..."

The phrase "due to series of" is missing an article. The correct phrase should be "due to a series of."

Corrected: "...but due to a series of miscommunications and poorly executed tasks..."

Part C: "...it was thoroughly bungle, leaving..."

The word "bungle" should be the past participle "bungled" to match the passive construction "was bungled."

Corrected: "...it was thoroughly bungled, leaving..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "The project was meant to showcase the team's skills, but due to a series of miscommunications and poorly executed tasks, it was thoroughly bungled, leaving everyone scrambling to fix the numerous errors and salvage what they could."

21. Questions

Answer: D

Part A: "Planning a successful event involve meticulous attention..."

The verb "involve" should be the singular form "involves" to match the singular subject "Planning."

Corrected: "Planning a successful event involves meticulous attention..."

Part D: "...preferences and need to ensure a..."

The noun "need" should be the plural form "needs" to match the plural noun "preferences."

Corrected: "...preferences and needs to ensure a..."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "Planning a successful event involves meticulous attention to detail, effective coordination with vendors, and a thorough understanding of the guests' preferences and needs to ensure a seamless and enjoyable experience for everyone involved."

22. Questions

Answer: E

Part A: "Upon entering in the ancient castle..."

The phrase "entering in" is redundant. The phrase "entering in" is grammatically incorrect because "enter" already implies movement into something.

Corrected: "Upon entering the ancient castle..."

Part E: "...secrets waiting to uncovered..."

The phrase "waiting to uncovered" is incorrect. The correct form should be "waiting to be uncovered," where "to be uncovered" is an infinitive phrase indicating the action of uncovering.

Corrected: "...secrets waiting to be uncovered..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "Upon entering the ancient castle, they were greeted by a chilling silence that hung heavy in the air, as if the centuries-old walls held secrets waiting to be uncovered."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, there are two sentences given below with two or three words highlighted in each sentence and have been interchanged inappropriately. You have to choose the proper arrangement of bold words from the given options to make the given sentences meaningful.

I). The meeting between the foreign ministers of India and China in Kazakhstan marks a significant yet cautious (A) step forward in addressing the longstanding border issues that have demarcated (B) the two nations.

II). The Himalayan border, a vast and poorly plagued (C) expanse, has been the site of increased tensions and military standoffs, most notably the deadly (D) clash in 2020 that claimed the lives of soldiers on both sides.

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

2. Questions

I). The faintest reforms (A) of something approaching Keir Starmer's path in the UK are visible as Macron prepares to rally Greens and Socialists to his cause, but it won't be easy — and the broader risk is that fragmented (B) politics in the euro area's No. 2 economy is here to stay.

II). While tactical voting limited the damage, he remains deeply unpopular — with even his own camp feeling betrayed (C) — and has no more political capital left to ram through his contours (D).

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

3. Questions

I). It has been 50 months since the People's Liberation Army (PLA) of China transgressed (A) across the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in April-May 2020 and occupied a broad swathe (B) of Indian territory.

II). Even before the April-May 2020 incursions (C), the government had been trying to build a case of perceptual differences qua Chinese belligerence (D) on the LAC, given that Chumar 2014 and Doklam 2017 had already happened on their watch.

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

4. Questions

I). To specifically associate violence—as was done on the floor of the Lok Sabha on July 1, 2024—with Hinduism, perished (A) that not all our leaders have had time to intimately (B) know and understand the Indian ethos.

II). Our contention that Europe has been the land of war, war and more war is easily (C) proved by the sheer number of human beings who have showed (D) because of European wars.

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

5. Questions

I). Climate change will inevitably affect monetary policy by slowing (A) productivity growth through damage to infrastructure and social externality (B), and by increasing uncertainty and inflation volatility.

II). Climate change represents a market failure within the existing global economic model, stemming (C) from the negative stability (D) of not adequately accounting for carbon emissions.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

6. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

The global transition to electric vehicles (EVs) is accelerating as countries strive to reduce carbon emissions and combat climate change. Governments are offering incentives for EV purchases, and automakers are investing heavily in EV technology and infrastructure. However, to ensure the widespread adoption of EVs, it is crucial to address _____.

a. increasing taxes on electric vehicles to boost government revenue

b. the lack of public awareness about the benefits of gasoline-powered cars.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c. developing a comprehensive and accessible charging infrastructure

d. promoting the use of non-renewable energy sources to power EVs.

e. reducing research and development funding for EV technologies

7. Questions

Sustainable agriculture practices are essential for ensuring food security and environmental stewardship. By reducing reliance on synthetic fertilizers and pesticides, sustainable farming methods prioritize soil health and biodiversity conservation. Cover cropping, crop rotation, and integrated pest management are examples of techniques used to enhance _____.

a. increasing water usage efficiency and conservation

b. promoting monoculture farming for higher yields

c. relying on genetically modified organisms (GMOs) for pest resistance

d. implementing large-scale deforestation for agricultural expansion

e. enhancing crop resilience to climate change impacts

8. Questions

Climate change adaptation is becoming increasingly urgent as communities worldwide grapple with its effects. Rising sea levels, more frequent extreme weather events, and shifts in agricultural productivity are among the challenges faced. To effectively mitigate these impacts, it is essential for governments and organizations to prioritize _____.

a. developing sustainable agricultural practices

b. relocating communities away from coastal areas

c. ignoring scientific research on climate change

d. promoting deforestation for economic growth

e. increasing reliance on fossil fuels for energy security

9. Questions

Urbanization is a global phenomenon that has led to significant changes in how societies are structured and function. Cities serve as hubs for economic activity, innovation, and cultural exchange. However, rapid urbanization also brings challenges such as _____.

a. increased traffic congestion and air pollution

b. reduced access to education and healthcare services

c. declining job opportunities in rural areas

d. overexploitation of natural resources

e. promotion of traditional agricultural practices

sky53in@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

Environmental conservation is vital for preserving Earth's natural resources and biodiversity. Efforts to protect habitats and reduce human impact are critical in mitigating climate change and ensuring the well-being of future generations. In addition to conservation initiatives, it is imperative for governments and communities to prioritize _____.

a. promoting sustainable agriculture practices.

b. increasing air pollution for industrial growth

c. encouraging urbanization in protected areas

d. exploiting natural resources without regulation

e. reducing investment in renewable energy technologies

11. Questions

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). One of the great examples of cultural sharing, despite vast distances, is the relationship between India and Russia.

B). The human condition everywhere (P)/ underlines the sameness of (Q)/ the warm acceptance and sharing of (R)/ the ideas of life in distant places (S).

C). A seeming miracle in the story of man is the travel of cultural and philosophic ideas, over vast distances and across formidable natural barriers.

D). Even in the "Tale of Bygone Years", the oldest Russian chronicle compiled around 1113, India is mentioned in the first page of the history of the creation of the world.

E). This shows clearly the historic importance of India-Russia relations.

F). Buryatia in Siberia, Russia marks the Northernmost spread of Buddhism and Buddhist cultural heritage.

Find the suitable Antonym of the word highlighted in bold.

a. intimidating

b. menacing

c. arduous

d. strenuous

e. propitious

12. Questions

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. F

13. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (B) which is divided into four parts.

a. PQRS

b. PRQS

c. RPQS

d. SQRP

e. RSQP

14. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (D) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option (e).

a. Even in the “Tale of Bygone Years”,

b. the oldest Russian chronicle compiled around 1113,

c. India is mentioned in the first page of

d. the history of the creation of the world

e. No correction required

15. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCDE

b. ACDBF

c. BCADE

d. CDABF

e. CBADE

16. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with a blank, which is followed by a word. You have to identify the given word is correct or not, if not, choose the correct word from the following options.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Our healthcare sector boasts a competitive advantage, _____ (propelled) by its large pool of well-trained medical professionals and affordability.

a. abetted
b. dissuaded
c. repressed
d. instigated
e. No replacement required

17. Questions

As rural India gears up for a fresh kharif season, the newly-formed National Democratic Alliance government under the prime minister, Narendra Modi, has a big challenge ahead when it comes to addressing the _____(frothing) agrarian crisis.

a. coddling
b. simmering
c. poaching
d. scalding
e. No replacement required

18. Questions

A _____(ordonnance) of conditions comprising economic sentiment, geopolitics and political equations significantly reflect on OPEC's production and distribution policies.

a. assortment
b. melange
c. agglomeration
d. constellation
e. No replacement required

19. Questions

While political analysts are _____ (lathering) at the mouth trying to decode the unexpected verdict of the Lok Sabha elections that's a tight slap for the BJP, economic and business analysts are spending sleepless nights worrying about the future of "reforms".

a. frothing
b. poaching
c. seething

sky55up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. aerating

e. No replacement required

20. Questions

It has been 31 years since the 74th Constitutional Amendment Act (CAA) came into force, which sought to create an institutional framework for _____ (hauling) in democracy at the grassroots level through self-governing local bodies in urban areas of the country.

a. preceding

b. heralding

c. ushering

d. unveiling

e. No replacement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentences, 'demarcated' and 'plagued' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The meeting between the foreign ministers of India and China in Kazakhstan marks a significant yet cautious step forward in addressing the longstanding border issues that have plagued the two nations.

II). The Himalayan border, a vast and poorly demarcated expanse, has been the site of increased tensions and military standoffs, most notably the deadly clash in 2020 that claimed the lives of soldiers on both sides.

So the correct answer is: b) B-C.

2. Questions

Answer: A

In the given sentences, 'reforms' and 'contours' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The faintest contours of something approaching Keir Starmer's path in the UK are visible as Macron prepares to rally Greens and Socialists to his cause, but it won't be easy — and the broader risk is that

SKYSup@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

fragmented politics in the euro area's No. 2 economy is here to stay.

II). While tactical voting limited the damage, he remains deeply unpopular — with even his own camp feeling betrayed — and has no more political capital left to ram through his reforms.

So the correct answer is: a) A-D.

3. Questions

Answer: E

The sentences are correct, hence no correction required

The sentences are:

I). It has been 50 months since the People's Liberation Army (PLA) of China transgressed across the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in April-May 2020 and occupied a broad swathe of Indian territory.

II). Even before the April-May 2020 incursions, the government had been trying to build a case of perceptual differences qua Chinese belligerence on the LAC, given that Chumar 2014 and Doklam 2017 had already happened on their watch.

So the correct answer is: e) No Correction required.

4. Questions

Answer: A

In the given sentences, 'perished' and 'showed' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). To specifically associate violence—as was done on the floor of the Lok Sabha on July 1, 2024—with Hinduism, showed that not all our leaders have had time to intimately know and understand the Indian ethos.

II). Our contention that Europe has been the land of war, war and more war is easily proved by the sheer number of human beings who have perished because of European wars.

So the correct answer is: a) A-D.

5. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentences, 'externality' and 'stability' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). Climate change will inevitably affect monetary policy by slowing productivity growth through damage to infrastructure and social stability, and by increasing uncertainty and inflation volatility.

II). Climate change represents a market failure within the existing global economic model, stemming from the negative externality of not adequately accounting for carbon emissions.

So the correct answer is: b) B-D.

6. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) developing a comprehensive and accessible charging infrastructure.

This option aligns with the paragraph's focus on ensuring the widespread adoption of electric vehicles (EVs). One of the main barriers to EV adoption is the availability and accessibility of charging infrastructure. By developing a comprehensive network of charging stations, both in urban and rural areas, it becomes easier and more convenient for people to charge their EVs, thereby encouraging more individuals to switch from gasoline-powered cars to EVs. The other options either involve counterproductive measures or ignore key factors necessary for promoting EV adoption:

a). Increasing taxes on electric vehicles to boost government revenue: This would discourage people from buying EVs, which is contrary to the goal of promoting their adoption.

b). The lack of public awareness about the benefits of gasoline-powered cars: This option is irrelevant to the promotion of EVs and contradicts the aim of reducing carbon emissions.

d). Promoting the use of non-renewable energy sources to power EVs: This undermines the environmental benefits of EVs, as the goal is to reduce carbon emissions and reliance on non-renewable energy sources.

e). Reducing research and development funding for EV technologies: This would hinder the advancement and improvement of EV technologies, slowing down their adoption and development.

In summary, developing a comprehensive and accessible charging infrastructure is crucial for overcoming one of the primary obstacles to the widespread adoption of electric vehicles.

7. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) enhancing crop resilience to climate change impacts.

This option aligns with the paragraph's focus on sustainable agriculture practices that prioritize soil health and biodiversity conservation. Enhancing crop resilience to climate change impacts involves adopting techniques that help crops withstand extreme weather events, changes in temperature, and other environmental stresses. This approach contributes to the long-term sustainability of agriculture by ensuring stable yields and reducing vulnerability to climate variability. The other options either involve unsustainable practices (b, d) or methods that do not necessarily align with sustainable agriculture principles (a, c).

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

8. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) developing sustainable agricultural practices.

Developing sustainable agricultural practices is crucial for adapting to climate change impacts such as shifts in agricultural productivity. Sustainable practices can help build resilience to extreme weather events, maintain soil health, and ensure food security in the face of changing climate conditions. By prioritizing sustainable agriculture, governments and organizations can mitigate the adverse effects of climate change on food production and livelihoods.

b). Relocating communities away from coastal areas: While relocation may be necessary in some cases of severe coastal erosion or flooding, it is not a comprehensive solution to climate change adaptation. It is often costly, disruptive to communities, and does not address the broader impacts of climate change on agriculture, biodiversity, and ecosystems.

c). Ignoring scientific research on climate change: Ignoring scientific research is counterproductive to effective climate change adaptation. Sound policy and adaptation strategies are informed by scientific evidence and research findings, ensuring informed decision-making and effective responses to climate impacts.

d). Promoting deforestation for economic growth: Deforestation exacerbates climate change by reducing carbon sinks and increasing greenhouse gas emissions. It also leads to biodiversity loss and soil degradation, further contributing to environmental vulnerabilities rather than adaptation.

e). Increasing reliance on fossil fuels for energy security: Increasing reliance on fossil fuels undermines efforts to mitigate climate change and adapt to its impacts. Fossil fuel combustion is a major contributor to greenhouse gas emissions, which drive climate change. Transitioning to renewable energy sources is essential for reducing emissions and enhancing climate resilience.

In summary, the chosen completion (a) emphasizes proactive measures through sustainable agricultural practices, aligning with the need to adapt to climate change impacts on food production and agriculture.

9. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) increased traffic congestion and air pollution.

Rapid urbanization often leads to increased population density, which in turn results in higher levels of traffic congestion and air pollution. As more people migrate to cities seeking better economic opportunities, the number of vehicles on the roads increases, leading to traffic jams and longer commuting times. Additionally, industrial activities and the concentration of vehicles contribute to elevated levels of air pollution, affecting both the environment and public health. These challenges are common in rapidly urbanizing areas and underscore the need for sustainable urban planning and transportation strategies.

The other options either do not directly relate to the challenges of urbanization (b, c, e) or represent broader environmental concerns rather than specific challenges associated with urban growth (d).

10. Questions

Answer: A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: a) promoting sustainable agriculture practices.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on environmental conservation and reducing human impact on natural habitats. Promoting sustainable agriculture practices involves methods that minimize environmental degradation, conserve natural resources like water and soil, and support biodiversity. Sustainable agriculture contributes to mitigating climate change, preserving habitats, and ensuring long-term food security. It emphasizes the importance of balancing human activities with conservation efforts.

b). Increasing air pollution for industrial growth: This option goes against environmental conservation efforts as it would exacerbate air pollution and harm ecosystems and human health.

c). Encouraging urbanization in protected areas: Urbanization in protected areas can lead to habitat destruction, fragmentation, and loss of biodiversity, contradicting conservation goals.

d). Exploiting natural resources without regulation: Exploiting natural resources without regulation can lead to environmental degradation, habitat loss, and depletion of natural resources.

e). Reducing investment in renewable energy technologies: This option is counterproductive to efforts aimed at transitioning to cleaner energy sources and reducing greenhouse gas emissions.

In summary, promoting sustainable agriculture practices (a) is the correct choice as it supports environmental conservation and sustainable development.

11. Questions

Answer: E

To find the antonym of the word "formidable," we need to understand its meaning first. The word "formidable" in the context means something that is daunting or difficult to overcome. The suitable antonym of "formidable" among the options given is: e) propitious

"Propitious" means favourable or likely to lead to success, which is the opposite of formidable.

a). intimidating: This means causing fear or anxiety, making someone feel scared or apprehensive. This is similar in meaning to "formidable" and not an antonym.

b). menacing: This means suggesting the presence of danger or threat. Like "formidable," it has a negative connotation and implies something that is potentially harmful or threatening. It is not an antonym.

c). arduous: This means involving a lot of effort and hard work; very difficult and tiring. This is also similar in meaning to "formidable" and not an antonym.

d). strenuous: This means requiring or using great effort or exertion. It is another word that is similar in meaning to "formidable" and not an antonym.

e). propitious: This means favourable, giving or indicating a good chance of success. This is the opposite of "formidable" and thus the correct antonym.

Thus, the correct antonym for "formidable " is: e) propitious

12. Questions

Answer: E

The odd one out is Sentence F: "Buryatia in Siberia, Russia marks the Northernmost spread of Buddhism and Buddhist cultural heritage."

Sentences A, B, C, D, and E all discuss the historical and cultural relationship between India and Russia, emphasizing the sharing and influence of ideas between the two countries over time. Sentence F, while related to cultural heritage, focuses specifically on Buddhism in Buryatia, Russia, without directly linking it to the India-Russia relationship. This makes sentence F the odd one out.

13. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “The warm acceptance and sharing of the ideas of life in distant places, underlines the sameness of the human condition everywhere.”

14. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part (C). Part c) should be corrected to "India is mentioned on the first page of."

The error in this sentence involves preposition usage. The phrase "India is mentioned in the first page of" is incorrect. When referring to the location of a mention within a text, the preposition "on" should be used instead of "in."

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part c) should be corrected to "India is mentioned on the first page of."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "Even in the “Tale of Bygone Years”, the oldest Russian chronicle compiled around 1113, India is mentioned on the first page of the history of the creation of the world." This version uses the correct preposition "on" to indicate the location of the mention within the text.

15. Questions

Answer: E

The paragraph discusses the miracle of cultural exchange over vast distances, using the relationship between India and Russia as an example, and highlighting the historical importance of this connection.

The passage begins with sentence C, which sets the stage by marveling at the spread of cultural and philosophical ideas across great distances and natural barriers. Sentence B follows, emphasizing how these ideas are warmly accepted and shared, highlighting the universality of the human condition. Sentence A then introduces the specific example of India and Russia's cultural relationship as a prime illustration of this phenomenon. Sentence D provides historical evidence of this relationship, referencing an ancient Russian chronicle that mentions India. Finally, sentence E concludes by underlining the historic importance of the India-Russia connection.

So, the correct sequence is: C - B – A – D - E.

16. Questions

Answer: E

In this sentence, the phrase "competitive advantage" is correctly followed by "propelled," indicating that the healthcare sector's strength is driven or boosted by its large pool of well-trained medical professionals and affordability. Therefore, the correct answer is: e) No replacement required

Abetted (Option a) means to assist or encourage someone to do something wrong or illegal, which does not fit the context of describing a competitive advantage in healthcare.

Dissuaded (Option b) means to persuade someone not to take a particular course of action, which is the opposite of what is intended here. The sentence is discussing how the healthcare sector is positively influenced.

Repressed (Option c) means to restrain or hold back, which is not applicable in describing a competitive advantage.

Instigated (Option d) means to initiate or provoke an action or event, which is not suitable in the context of describing the strength of the healthcare sector.

Therefore, "No replacement required" indicates that the word ("propelled") is correctly used to convey how the healthcare sector's competitive advantage is driven or boosted by its attributes.

17. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of an ongoing but potentially escalating agrarian crisis is "simmering."

Therefore, the correct answer is: b) simmering

Coddling (Option a) means to treat with excessive indulgence or care, which doesn't fit the context of describing an agrarian crisis.

Simmering (Option b) describes a situation that is in a state of restrained activity, potentially ready to escalate. It fits well in the context of an agrarian crisis that is ongoing but has the potential to worsen.

Poaching (Option c) means illegally hunting or capturing animals, which is not relevant in the context of addressing an agrarian crisis.

Scalding (Option d) means very hot or burning, which is more literal and does not capture the metaphorical sense of an escalating crisis.

Frothing means producing or covered with froth, which is not suitable in the context of describing an agrarian crisis.

Therefore, "simmering" accurately conveys the idea that the agrarian crisis is currently at a lower level of intensity but has the potential to become more severe if not addressed.

18. Questions

Answer: D

In the given sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to describe a combination or grouping of conditions is "constellation."

Therefore, the correct answer is: d) constellation

Assortment (Option a) refers to a collection or variety of different things, but it doesn't specifically convey the idea of conditions affecting policies.

Melange (Option b) means a mixture or medley of things, which is similar to assortment but doesn't directly relate to the impact on policies.

Agglomeration (Option c) refers to a mass or collection of things, typically gathered together, but it is more about physical grouping rather than conditions affecting policies.

Constellation (Option d) refers metaphorically to a group or combination of factors or conditions. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that economic sentiment, geopolitics, and political equations are

sky5up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

interconnected factors that influence OPEC's production and distribution policies.

Ordonnance means an authoritative order or decree, which doesn't fit the context of describing a grouping or combination of conditions affecting policies.

Therefore, "constellation" is the correct word choice in this sentence to describe the combination of factors influencing OPEC's policies.

19. Questions

Answer: A

In this sentence, the phrase "frothing at the mouth" is an idiom that means to be extremely angry, agitated, or excited about something. The correct word that fits in the blank to maintain this idiomatic expression is "frothing."

Therefore, the correct answer is: a) frothing

Frothing (Option a) means to be extremely agitated or excited, often to the point of expressing strong emotions. It aligns perfectly with the idiom "frothing at the mouth," which describes the intense activity and emotion of political analysts trying to decode the election results.

Poaching (Option b) means illegally hunting or capturing game, but it doesn't fit in the context of political analysts analyzing election results.

Seething (Option c) means to be filled with intense but unexpressed anger. While it conveys strong emotion, it doesn't specifically match the idiom "frothing at the mouth."

Aerating (Option d) means to introduce air into a substance, such as soil or a liquid, and it doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

Lathering means to cover with lather, which is foam created by soap, and it doesn't fit the figurative meaning of intense agitation or excitement.

Therefore, "frothing" is the correct choice to accurately convey the intense emotional response of political analysts to the unexpected election results.

20. Questions

Answer: C

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of introducing or initiating democracy at the grassroots level through self-governing local bodies is "ushering."

Therefore, the correct answer is: c) ushering

Preceding (Option a) means coming before something in time, order, or position. It does not fit the context of introducing or initiating democracy at the grassroots level.

Heralding (Option b) means to announce or signal the arrival of something. While it can be related to introducing something new, it does not capture the process of establishing or implementing as strongly as "ushering."

Ushering (Option c) means to introduce or lead in a new era or phase. It perfectly fits the context of the 74th Constitutional Amendment Act (CAA) creating an institutional framework for democracy at the grassroots level.

Unveiling (Option d) means to reveal or make something known for the first time. While it can be related to introducing something new, it is more about revealing than the process of establishment.

Hauling means to pull or drag something with effort. It does not fit the context of introducing or implementing democracy at the grassroots level.

"Ushering" is the most appropriate word because it accurately conveys the idea of leading in or introducing a new era of grassroots democracy through self-governing local bodies.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the paragraph carefully and answer the following questions:

The Emergency, imposed on June 25, 1975 by the then Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, and which lasted 21 months till March 21, 1977, remains a blot on the history of democratic India. The rule by decree, the suspension of civil liberties and free speech, the arbitrariness of government actions, and the indiscriminate arrests of dissenters and Opposition figures using (__A__) preventive detention laws, among other measures, continue to haunt Indians who experienced it in all its (__B__) forms. The traumatic episode is a reminder of the responsibility of democratic institutions in always safeguarding the freedoms and rights of citizens. When freshly elected and returning Lok Sabha Speaker Om Birla read out a resolution, on June 26, 2024, "condemning the imposition of Emergency" and termed it as an attack on the Constitution, one could have considered this as a note of caution about the (__C__) of suspending civil liberties, and as a pledge that this would never be allowed to happen again. But seen in the light of Mr. Birla's actions, when, as Speaker in the 17th Lok Sabha, he indiscriminately used his powers to suspend several Opposition MPs, and the executive's use of draconian laws to (__D__) dissent from civil society, the polity and the media, the resolution seems not much more than lip service against the Emergency. It seems more a political ploy to target the Congress party. Indeed, the ruling BJP in the recent past resorted to similar excesses without even the fig leaf of a declaration of Emergency. If the government of the day is truly committed to undo the damages of the Emergency and not repeat its grave errors, it would have not taken recourse to the same measures in the recent past, seen in the attack on the free press, the use of enforcement and investigative agencies to selectively target Opposition representatives, and draconian preventive detention laws to keep political prisoners, activists and journalists in jail without trial, including by the (E) foisting of charges against them. The BJP's authoritarian actions are one reason why its electoral representation in the 18th Lok Sabha has been trimmed to below the majority mark. The 2024 general election verdict might not have been a decisive rejection of the ruling party — as it was in 1977 — but it is no less significant as it empowers those in responsible positions in Indian democratic institutions to resist authoritarianism. A more thoroughgoing Opposition in Parliament that questions ruling party high-handedness; a vigilant judiciary that ensures justice to the many unjustly held (F) dissidents; and a civil society that pushes for the withdrawal of draconian preventive detention laws and a ruling party that coheres with these — only such substantive steps will enable India to decisively move on from the dark period of the Emergency.

Which of the following words can fit in the blank A?

a. draconian

b. obdurate

c. implacable

d. remorseful

e. benignant

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words can fit in the blank B?

a. obstinate

b. vicious

c. vindictive

d. submissive

e. scrupulous

3. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank C?

a. perils

b. exigencies

c. jeopardies

d. predicaments

e. submissive

4. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank D?

a. stifle

b. suffocate

c. strangulate

d. suppress

e. assuage

5. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "foisting" used in the sentence?

a. imposing

b. ascetic

c. austere

d. middling

e. faltering

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "dissidents" used in the sentence?

a. disputants

b. renegades

c. patrons

d. adherents

e. dependents

7. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). Despite his busy schedule, he always makes time for his family.

B). The book is filled with fascinating information about history.

C). She is responsible of coordinating the entire event.

a. Only C

b. Both B and C

c. Both A and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

8. Questions

A). He spoke quite loudly during the presentation, surprising everyone in the room.

B). Despite the heavy rain, the event was carried out very successful.

C). She writes stories so beautifully that they captivate readers instantly.

a. Only B

b. Both A and B

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

9. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). She received an antique and an expensive jewellery as gifts for her birthday.

B). Despite the rain, the umbrella protected her from getting wet.

C). The movie was long and a boring, but the actors performed exceptionally well.

a. Only C

b. Both B and C

c. Both A and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

10. Questions

A). She found an old book in attic that belonged to her grandmother.

B). Despite being a novice, he played the piano very well at the recital.

C). Not only she enjoys reading, but she also writes stories in her free time.

a. Only A

b. Both B and C

c. Both A and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

11. Questions

In the following questions, a table is given with three columns; a divided sentence is mentioned in three columns you have to combine the divided parts of the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Strategic planning in banking management involves	D). setting performance metrics, monitoring progress,	G). and adapting to changes in the market environment.
B). Strategic planning in banking involves	E). setting long-term goals, identifying growth opportunities,	H). and improving risk management to enhance financial stability.
C). Performance management in banking involves	F). setting long-term goals, forecasting future trends,	I). and implementing strategies to achieve financial and operational goals.

a. Only AEG

b. Only CDI

c. Both BFH and CDI

d. Both AEG and CDI

e. All AEG, BFI and CDH

skyjain@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Training and development programs for banking staff	D). to develop new financial products and services	G). to maximize returns while managing risk.
B). Human resource management in banking involves	E). recruiting, training, and retaining skilled employees	H). delivering high-quality services and adapting to industry changes.
C). Financial literacy programs offered by banks aim	F). are crucial for maintaining a skilled workforce capable of	I). to meet evolving customer needs and market demands.

a. Only AFH
b. Only BEG
c. Both BEG and CDI
d. Both AEH and BFI
e. All AEH, BFI and CDG

13. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Managing credit card operations involves	D). handling currency transactions, managing exchange rate risk,	G). and collection processes while managing associated risks.
B). The management of foreign exchange operations involves	E). strategically selecting and overseeing investments	H). and providing forex services to clients.
C). Portfolio management in banking involves	F). overseeing the issuance, billing,	I). to maximize returns and manage risk.

a. Only AFG
b. Only BDH
c. Both BDH and CEI
d. Both AFG and BDH
e. All AFG, BDH and CEI

14. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Customer service management focuses	D). on providing financial services to individual consumers,	G). by offering additional products and services to existing clients.
B). Mobile banking management focuses	E). on enhancing the customer experience by	H). to meet the growing demand for digital banking.
C). Retail banking management focuses	F). on developing and maintaining secure, user-friendly mobile apps	I). including personal loans, mortgages, and savings accounts.

a. Only AEG
b. Only BFH
c. Both BFH and CDI
d. Both AEH and BFI
e. All AEH, BFI and CDG

15. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Digital transformation in banking requires	D). is crucial for banking management to maintain	G). enhance cybersecurity, and improve customer experiences.
B). Credit risk management requires	E). effective management to integrate new technologies,	H). appropriate lending terms to mitigate potential losses.
C). Compliance with regulatory requirements	F). evaluating the creditworthiness of borrowers and setting	I). trust, avoid penalties, and ensure stable operations.

a. Only AEG
b. Only BEG
c. Both BFH and CDI
d. Both AEG and BEH
e. All AEG, BFH and CDI

16. Questions

In each of the questions below two phrases have been highlighted in bold. You are required to replace it with correct phrases in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually correct.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

I has been working tirelessly on this project for the past six months, dedicating countless hours to research, development, and refinement to insure its success.

a. was working; to ensure it's success
b. was worked; too ensure its success
c. has working; to ensured its success
d. have been working; to ensure its success
e. have working; to ensuring its success

17. Questions

The two friends, once inseparable, had fell out over a trivial disagreement, and now they barely spoke to each other, their rift growing most wider with each passing day.

a. had fall out; their rift grow wider
b. have fallen out; their rift grows widest
c. had felled out; their rift grew more wider
d. had fallen out; their rift growing widest
e. had fallen out; their rift growing wider

18. Questions

The book club meeting was animated as members voiced they're opinions about the latest novel they had read, discussing the intricacies of the plot, the depth of the character, and the overall message of the story.

a. voiced there opinions about; the depth of the characters
b. voice their opinions about; the depth of the characters
c. voiced their opinions about; the depth of the characters
d. voiced their opinion about; the depths of the characters
e. voiced their opinions about; the depth of the character

19. Questions

The recent increase in community engagement and volunteerism have been a significant cause for optimism among local leaders, who believe it signals a growingly commitment to collective well-being and social responsibility.

a. has been a significant cause to; growingly commitment
b. have been a significant cause with; growing commitment
c. has been a significantly cause for; growing commitments
d. have been a significant cause for; growing commitments

skysun@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. has been a significant cause for; growing commitment

20. Questions

As the evening progressed and the sun dipped below the horizon, a tranquil stillness set out, enveloping the countryside in a soothing twilights that signalled the end of a long, bustling day.

a. stillness set in; in a soothing twilight

b. stillness set off; in a soothed twilight

c. stillness sets in; in a soothed twilights

d. stillness set up; in a soothing twilights

e. stillness set out; in a soothe twilight

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: A

The word that fits in the blank A is: a) draconian

"Draconian" refers to laws or measures that are excessively harsh and severe. This fits the context of the sentence, which describes preventive detention laws used during the Emergency to arrest dissenters and Opposition figures indiscriminately.

a). Draconian: This term is derived from Draco, an ancient Athenian legislator known for implementing extremely harsh laws. In modern usage, "draconian" refers to rules or laws that are very severe or harsh. This fits perfectly in the context of preventive detention laws used during the Emergency period, which were indeed very harsh and severe.

b). Obdurate: This word means stubbornly refusing to change one's opinion or course of action. While it can describe a person's attitude, it doesn't fit the context of describing laws or measures.

c). Implacable: This means unable to be appeased or pacified. While it can describe a person's attitude or a force, it doesn't appropriately describe laws or measures in the given context.

d). Remorseful: This means feeling or expressing regret or guilt. It is a positive attribute associated with a sense of repentance. This does not fit the context of describing preventive detention laws.

e). Benignant: This means kindly and benevolent. This is the opposite of what the sentence is describing. The laws during the Emergency were harsh and repressive, not kind or benevolent.

Thus, "draconian" is the most appropriate word to fill in the blank, as it accurately describes the nature of the preventive detention laws during the Emergency period.

2. Questions

Answer: B

The correct word to fit in the blank (B) is "vicious."

The sentence describes the harsh and oppressive nature of the Emergency, and "vicious" accurately conveys the brutality and severity of the actions taken during that period. Therefore, the answer is: b) vicious a). obstinate: This word means stubbornly refusing to change one's opinion or chosen course of action, despite attempts to persuade one to do so. While it implies stubbornness, it doesn't capture the harshness or cruelty that is being described about the Emergency.

b). vicious: This word means deliberately cruel or violent. It aptly describes the brutal and oppressive nature of the Emergency, making it the most appropriate choice to convey the severity of the actions taken during that time.

c). vindictive: This word means having or showing a strong or unreasoning desire for revenge. While the actions during the Emergency could be seen as harsh, the context is about the overall brutality and suppression of freedoms rather than revenge, making "vicious" a better fit.

d). submissive: This word means ready to conform to the authority or will of others; meekly obedient or passive. This is the opposite of what is being described, as the Emergency was a time of active and aggressive oppression, not passivity.

e). scrupulous: This word means diligent, thorough, and extremely attentive to details, or having moral integrity. This is not at all fitting in the context of describing the Emergency, which was marked by a lack of moral integrity and indiscriminate harshness.

Thus, "vicious" is the word that best captures the severe and oppressive nature of the Emergency.

3. Questions

Answer: E

The word that cannot fit in the blank (C) is: e) submissive

This is because the context of the sentence is discussing the negative consequences or dangers (perils, exigencies, jeopardies, predicaments) of suspending civil liberties, whereas "submissive" does not align with this context.

a). Perils: This means serious and immediate danger. The sentence discusses the dangers of suspending civil liberties, so this word fits well.

b). Exigencies: This means urgent needs or demands. While it can be used to refer to pressing situations, it does not directly convey the negative consequences or dangers. However, it can still fit in the context if interpreted as urgent and challenging situations caused by suspending civil liberties.

c). Jeopardies: This means dangers of loss, harm, or failure. This word fits well with the context as it conveys the risks involved in suspending civil liberties.

d). Predicaments: This means difficult, unpleasant, or embarrassing situations. This word also fits well in the context, as suspending civil liberties can lead to difficult and problematic situations.

e). Submissive: This means ready to conform to the authority or will of others; meekly obedient or passive. This word does not fit in the context, as it describes a personality trait rather than a negative consequence or danger of suspending civil liberties.

Thus, "submissive" is the word that cannot fit in the blank (C).

4. Questions

Answer: E

The words "stifle," "suffocate," "strangulate," and "suppress" all fit in the context of preventing or repressing dissent. However, "assuage" means to make an unpleasant feeling less intense or to alleviate, which is the opposite of the intended meaning in this context.

Therefore, the word that cannot fit in the blank D is: e) assuage a). Stifle: To stifle means to suppress or restrain. In the context of the passage, it refers to preventing dissent or opposition from expressing freely.

b). Suffocate: To suffocate means to deprive of oxygen or to suppress or stifle. Metaphorically, it can mean to prevent something from developing or progressing, similar to stifling dissent.

c). Strangulate: To strangulate means to strangle or to suppress or restrict. It implies forcefully preventing something from functioning properly or from happening.

d). Suppress: To suppress means to forcibly put an end to something, such as dissent or opposition. It involves using authority or power to prevent expression or action.

e). Assuage: To assuage means to make less intense or to alleviate. It is the opposite of what is described in the passage, which discusses actions to prevent dissent and suppress opposition.

In the context of the passage, which discusses authoritarian actions to curb dissent and opposition, the words "stifle," "suffocate," "strangulate," and "suppress" all describe methods used to restrict freedoms and rights. However, "assuage" does not fit because it means to calm or soothe, which contradicts the idea of suppressing dissent and opposition.

Therefore, the word that cannot fit in the blank D based on the context is: e) assuage

5. Questions

Answer: A

The word "foisting" in the sentence refers to the imposition or imposition of charges against individuals. Therefore, the correct replacement from the given options is: a) imposing a). imposing: This means to force something unwelcome or unfamiliar on someone, which aligns well with the context of charges being imposed on individuals.

So, the sentence would read: "...including by the imposing of charges against them."

b). ascetic: This refers to someone who practices severe self-discipline and abstention from indulgence, typically for religious reasons. It doesn't fit the context of charges being imposed.

c). austere: This means severe or strict in manner, attitude, or appearance, which doesn't directly relate to charges being imposed.

d). middling: This means of average or moderate size, extent, or quality, and doesn't fit the context of charges being imposed.

e). faltering: This means to lose strength or momentum, which doesn't fit the context of charges being imposed.

Therefore, among the options given, "imposing" is the only word that correctly conveys the meaning of forcing or imposing charges, as used in the sentence about the imposition of charges against political prisoners, activists, and journalists.

6. Questions

Answer: B

The word "dissidents" refers to individuals who oppose official policy, especially that of an authoritarian state. Among the options provided, the word that best fits this meaning is "renegades" (option b), which refers to people who desert and betray an organization, country, or set of principles. Therefore, the answer is: b) renegades a). disputants: Disputants are individuals involved in a dispute or argument. While they may oppose each other in a disagreement, the term doesn't specifically connote opposition to an authoritarian state or policy.

b). renegades: Renegades are individuals who desert or betray an organization, country, or set of principles. In the context of opposition to authoritarianism or policies, renegades can imply those who defy or oppose the established authority.

c). patrons: Patrons are supporters or sponsors of something, such as an organization, cause, or person. They are not necessarily oppositional figures against authoritarian policies.

d). adherents: Adherents are followers or supporters of a particular person, party, or belief. They are not typically associated with opposing authoritarian policies or dissent.

e). dependents: Dependents are individuals who rely on someone else for support or resources. They do not directly relate to oppositional figures against authoritarianism.

In the context provided, "dissidents" refers to individuals who oppose or dissent against authoritarian policies. Among the options given, "renegades" (option b) aligns most closely with this meaning, as renegades often challenge or betray established authority or principles.

7. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "responsible of coordinating the entire event." The correct preposition is "for," not "of." The correct form is "responsible for coordinating the entire event."

Corrected Sentence C: "She is responsible for coordinating the entire event."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

8. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). The error in this sentence is "carried out very successful." The correct form is "carried out very successfully." The adverb form "successfully" is used to modify the verb "carried out."

Corrected Sentence B: "Despite the heavy rain, the event was carried out very successfully."

C). There is no error in this sentence.

9. Questions

Answer: C

A). The error in this sentence is "an antique and an expensive jewelry." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "an antique and expensive piece of jewelry."

Corrected Sentence A: "She received an antique and expensive piece of jewelry as gifts for her birthday."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "long and a boring." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "long and boring."

Corrected Sentence C: "The movie was long and boring, but the actors performed exceptionally well."

10. Questions

Answer: C

A). The error in this sentence is "in attic." The correct form is "in the attic." When referring to a specific location like "attic," the article "the" is used.

Corrected Sentence A: "She found an old book in the attic that belonged to her grandmother."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "Not only she enjoys reading." The correct form is "Not only does she enjoy reading." When using "Not only...but also," the auxiliary verb (in this case, "does") comes before the subject.

Corrected Sentence C: "Not only does she enjoy reading, but she also writes stories in her free time."

11. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these three statements AEG: "Strategic planning in banking management involves setting long-term goals, identifying growth opportunities, and adapting to changes in the market environment." This combined sentence suggests that strategic planning in banking management includes the process of setting goals for the long term, identifying opportunities for growth, and being responsive to changes in the market environment.

When combining these three statements CDI: "Performance management in banking involves setting performance metrics, monitoring progress, and implementing strategies to achieve financial and operational goals." This combined sentence indicates that performance management in banking encompasses the processes of establishing performance metrics, tracking progress, and executing strategies aimed at achieving both financial and operational objectives.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

12. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these three statements AFH: "Training and development programs for banking staff are crucial for maintaining a skilled workforce capable of delivering high-quality services and adapting to industry changes." This combined sentence emphasizes the importance of training and development programs in the banking sector to ensure that the workforce remains skilled, capable of delivering excellent services, and adaptable to changes in the industry.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

13. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these three statements AFG: "Managing credit card operations involves overseeing the issuance, billing, and collection processes while managing associated risks." This combined sentence indicates that managing credit card operations includes supervising the processes of issuing cards, handling billing, and managing the collection of payments, all while mitigating associated risks.

When combining these three statements BDH: "The management of foreign exchange operations involves handling currency transactions, managing exchange rate risk, and providing forex services to clients." This combined sentence indicates that managing foreign exchange operations encompasses tasks such as handling currency transactions, mitigating exchange rate risks, and offering forex services to clients.

When combining these three statements CEI: "Portfolio management in banking involves strategically selecting and overseeing investments to maximize returns and manage risk." This combined sentence suggests that portfolio management in banking entails the strategic selection and supervision of investments aimed at achieving optimal returns while effectively managing risks.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

14. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these three statements BFH: "Mobile banking management focuses on developing and maintaining secure, user-friendly mobile apps to meet the growing demand for digital banking." This combined sentence suggests that mobile banking management prioritizes the development and maintenance of secure and user-friendly mobile applications in response to the increasing need for digital banking services.

When combining these three statements CDI: "Retail banking management focuses on providing financial services to individual consumers, including personal loans, mortgages, and savings accounts." This combined sentence indicates that retail banking management's primary focus is on offering a range of financial services tailored to individual consumers, such as personal loans, mortgages, and savings accounts.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these three statements AEG: "Digital transformation in banking requires effective management to integrate new technologies, enhance cybersecurity, and improve customer experiences." This combined sentence indicates that for digital transformation in banking to succeed, it's essential to have effective management that can integrate new technologies, enhance cybersecurity measures, and enhance customer experiences.

When combining these three statements BFH: "Credit risk management requires evaluating the creditworthiness of borrowers and setting appropriate lending terms to mitigate potential losses." This combined sentence suggests that effective credit risk management involves the process of assessing the creditworthiness of borrowers and establishing suitable lending terms to reduce the risk of potential financial losses.

When combining these three statements CDI: "Compliance with regulatory requirements is crucial for banking management to maintain trust, avoid penalties, and ensure stable operations." This combined sentence indicates that adhering to regulatory requirements is essential for banking management to uphold trust with stakeholders, avoid penalties, and maintain stable operations.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is: d) have been working; to ensure its success

"have been working": This is the correct present perfect continuous tense, indicating an ongoing action that started in the past and continues into the present. "I have been working" is appropriate for describing continuous effort over the past six months.

"to ensure its success": This phrase correctly uses "ensure," which means to make certain that something will happen. "Its success" uses the correct possessive form of "it."

a). was working; to ensure it's success: "Was working" is in the past continuous tense, which does not fit the context of an ongoing action up to the present. "It's" is incorrect here; it is a contraction for "it is" or "it has," not the possessive form.

b). was worked; too ensure its success: "Was worked" is grammatically incorrect. "Too ensure" uses the wrong form of "to" (should be "to"), and "its success" is correct.

c). has working; to ensured its success: "Has working" is grammatically incorrect; it should be "has been working." "To ensured" is incorrect as "ensured" is past tense; it should be "to ensure."

e). have working; to ensuring its success: "Have working" is grammatically incorrect; it should be "have been working." "To ensuring" is incorrect; it should be "to ensure."

In summary, option (d) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses the present perfect continuous tense and the proper form of "ensure" to convey the intended meaning.

17. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is: e) had fallen out; their rift growing wider

"had fallen out": This is the correct past perfect tense, indicating that the falling out happened before the current situation of barely speaking to each other. "Fell out" is simple past tense and does not fit the past perfect construction needed here.

"their rift growing wider": This phrase correctly uses the present participle "growing" to describe an ongoing process and "wider" as the comparative form of "wide," indicating that the rift is becoming greater over time.

a). had fall out; their rift grow wider: "Had fall out" is incorrect; it should be "had fallen out." "Their rift grow wider" should be "their rift growing wider" to match the progressive aspect of the sentence.

b). have fallen out; their rift grows widest: "Have fallen out" is present perfect tense, which does not fit as well as past perfect for this context. "Their rift grows widest" is incorrect; it should be "their rift growing wider."

c). had felled out; their rift grew more wider: "Had felled out" is incorrect; it should be "had fallen out." "Their rift grew more wider" is grammatically incorrect; "more" is unnecessary with the comparative "wider."

d). had fallen out; their rift growing widest: "Had fallen out" is correct, but "their rift growing widest" is incorrect. "Growing widest" implies a superlative degree, which doesn't fit the context of an ongoing process; it should be "growing wider."

In summary, option (e) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses the past perfect tense and describes the increasing rift with the proper comparative form "growing wider."

18. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) voiced their opinions about; the depth of the characters

"voiced their opinions about": The correct pronoun "their" should be used here, indicating possession. "They're" is a contraction for "they are," which is incorrect in this context. "Voiced their opinions" correctly indicates that multiple members shared their individual thoughts.

"the depth of the characters": The plural "characters" is necessary because the members discussed multiple characters from the novel. "Depth" should be singular as it refers to the collective depth of multiple characters.

a). voiced there opinions about; the depth of the characters: "There" is incorrect; it should be "their." The rest is correct.

b). voice their opinions about; the depth of characters: "Voice" should be in past tense, "voiced." The rest is correct.

d). voiced their opinion about; the depths of the characters: "Their opinion" suggests a single collective opinion, which is less likely in a book club context. "Depths" is unnecessary and less common when referring to the depth of multiple characters collectively.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e). voiced their opinions about; the depth of the character: "The character" is incorrect as it implies only one character was discussed, whereas "characters" is needed to indicate multiple characters.

In summary, option (c) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses "their opinions" and "the depth of the characters" to describe the book club members' discussions.

19. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is: e) has been a significant cause for; growing commitment

"has been a significant cause for": The subject "The recent increase in community engagement and volunteerism" is a singular noun phrase, so the verb should be "has been" instead of "have been."

"growing commitment": The adjective "growing" correctly modifies the singular noun "commitment," indicating an increasing dedication to collective well-being and social responsibility.

a). has been a significant cause to; growingly commitment: "Cause to" is incorrect; it should be "cause for." "Growingly commitment" is incorrect because "growingly" is not a proper adjective form.

b). have been a significant cause with; growing commitment: "Have been" is incorrect; it should be "has been." "Cause with" is incorrect; it should be "cause for."

c). has been a significantly cause for; growing commitments: "Significantly cause" is incorrect; it should be "significant cause." "Growing commitments" (plural) is less accurate as it implies multiple separate commitments rather than a general increasing trend.

d). have been a significant cause for; growing commitments: "Have been" is incorrect; it should be "has been." "Growing commitments" (plural) is less accurate as explained above.

In summary, option (e) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses "has been" for the singular subject and "growing commitment" to indicate an increasing dedication to collective well-being and social responsibility.

20. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is: a) stillness set in; in a soothing twilight

"stillness set in": This phrase means that a state of tranquillity or calmness began gradually, which is appropriate given the context of the evening progressing.

"in a soothing twilight": "Soothing" describes the calming or comforting nature of the twilight, which fits well with the tranquil stillness setting in.

b). stillness set off; in a soothed twilight: "Set off" means to begin a journey or activity, which doesn't fit the context of tranquillity settling in. "Soothed twilight" is not grammatically correct.

c). stillness sets in; in a soothed twilights: "Sets in" is present tense, which doesn't fit the past tense context of the sentence. "Soothed twilights" is not grammatically correct.

d). stillness set up; in a soothing twilights: "Set up" means to establish or arrange, which doesn't convey the gradual onset of tranquillity. "Soothing twilights" is not grammatically correct.

e). stillness set out; in a soothe twilight: "Set out" means to begin a journey or start an activity, which is not suitable for describing tranquillity settling in. "Soothe twilight" is not grammatically correct.

In summary, option (a) is the correct choice as it uses "stillness set in" to describe the gradual arrival of tranquillity, and "in a soothing twilight" to describe the comforting nature of the evening.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

India's recent electoral results have highlighted a crucial issue that the nation can no longer afford to ignore: the tension between controlling food inflation and ensuring the welfare of farmers. With food prices remaining stubbornly high, the government's traditional strategies of export curbs and increased imports have come under scrutiny. These measures, while aimed at protecting urban consumers, have left the farming community disgruntled and financially strained. For over 45 per cent of Indians who depend on agriculture for their livelihood, the past few years have been particularly challenging. The imposition of export bans on staples such as rice and onions has prevented farmers from capitalising on higher international prices. Simultaneously, the influx of cheaper imported goods has further depressed local prices, exacerbating the economic distress faced by farmers. This has led to a palpable sense of frustration and betrayal among those who feel that their interests have been sacrificed for the sake of urban consumers. The crux of the problem lies in the government's dual mandate: to keep food prices affordable for the general population while also ensuring that farmers earn a fair income. The current approach of restricting exports of key commodities like rice and onions, coupled with lowering tariffs on imported goods, has primarily been an attempt to curb rising inflation. However, these policies have inadvertently suppressed farm incomes, sparking widespread discontent among rural voters who form a significant portion of India's population. It is imperative for the government to reassess its food policy framework and find a more balanced approach. One viable solution could be to ease export restrictions on certain commodities where there are surplus stocks, such as rice. With state granaries overflowing and predictions of a favourable monsoon, allowing rice exports could help stabilise domestic prices and provide much-needed relief to farmers. Additionally, lifting export curbs on onions could address the acute dissatisfaction in key agricultural states like Maharashtra, where farmers have struggled to recover their production costs. Beyond immediate policy adjustments, there is a need for long-term structural reforms aimed at enhancing agricultural productivity and resilience. Investing in modern farming techniques, improving irrigation infrastructure, and providing better access to credit and markets can significantly boost crop yields and farmer incomes. Moreover, revising the government-mandated support prices to reflect actual production costs and market conditions more accurately would go a long way in ensuring fair compensation for farmers. Another crucial aspect is improving the efficiency and reach of the procurement system. Ensuring that government agencies buy crops at support prices, particularly in regions where farmers are struggling, can provide a safety net against market volatility. Combined with better storage and distribution facilities, this can help reduce postharvest losses and ensure that farmers receive the full benefit of their labour. Ultimately, addressing the food policy dilemma requires a holistic approach that balances the needs of both consumers and farmers. While controlling food inflation remains important, it should not come at the expense of rural livelihoods.

Why are farmers disgruntled with the government's policies?

a. Due to lack of modern farming techniques

b. Because of high production costs

c. Because they cannot capitalize on higher international prices

d. Due to insufficient irrigation facilities

e. Because of inadequate access to credit

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

What role does the procurement system play in supporting farmers?

a. It helps to increase the export of agricultural products
b. It ensures government agencies buy crops at support prices
c. It distributes free seeds to farmers
d. It sets the international market prices for crops
e. It reduces the cost of fertilizers

3. Questions

What long-term reforms are recommended to boost agricultural productivity and farmer incomes?

a. Expanding urban markets
b. Reducing fuel prices
c. Investing in modern farming techniques
d. Increasing fertilizer prices
e. Decreasing food subsidies

4. Questions

Which strategies has the government traditionally used to control food prices?

a. Subsidizing farmer incomes
b. Export curbs and increased imports
c. Reducing fuel prices
d. Increasing agricultural subsidies
e. Promoting organic farming

5. Questions

What is one suggested solution to help stabilize domestic prices and relieve farmers?

a. Increase tariffs on imported goods
b. Ease export restrictions on commodities with surplus stocks
c. Provide direct cash transfers to farmers
d. Increase subsidies on fertilizers
e. Ban all agricultural imports

6. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers
sky53up@gmail.com

In the context of the passage, which word is the best synonym for "disgruntled"?

a. Excited
b. Satisfied
c. Content
d. Dissatisfied
e. Indifferent

7. Questions

What is the primary theme of the passage?

a. The impact of modern farming techniques on agricultural productivity
b. The challenges of balancing food inflation control with farmer welfare
c. The benefits of increasing agricultural exports
d. The need for technological advancements in agriculture
e. The role of government subsidies in supporting farmers

8. Questions

In the sentence given below two blanks are there followed by six words to fill the blank to complete the sentence meaningfully correct. You have to choose the correct pair of words to complete the sentence.

Economists are struggling to _____ their upbeat views on the US economy with the _____ of average Americans.

1). propitiate

2). appease

3). reconcile

4). angst

5). composure

6). agitation

a. 1 and 4
b. 2 and 5
c. 3 and 4
d. 1 and 5
e. 2 and 6

9. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

As Myanmar _____ with its internal challenges, India's engagement will likely continue to be a blend of support for democratic ideals and _____ measures to safeguard its national interests.

1). grapples

2). dodges

3). wrangles

4). quixotical

5). imbecile

6). pragmatic

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 1 and 6

d. 2 and 4

e. 3 and 5

10. Questions

The pound has experienced significant _____ since the Brexit vote in 2016, and the upcoming election represents a crucial _____ for the currency's future.

1). buoyancy

2). volatility

3). placidity

4). severance

5). juncture

6). concurrence

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

The recently held Lok Sabha elections were an _____ testimony to the _____ wisdom of the Indian electorate.

1). ardent

2). eloquent

3). apathetic

4). unwavering

5). whimsical

6). relentless

a. 1 and 6

b. 2 and 4

c. 3 and 5

d. 2 and 5

e. 3 and 4

12. Questions

WikiLeaks founder Julian Assange's release from prison marks the _____ of a long-running saga of international _____.

1). incitement

2). culmination

3). attainment

4). infidelity

5). fidelity

6). intrigue

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 6

c. 3 and 5

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

13. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into three parts. You have to choose the correct connector to combine the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

I). The athlete suffered a severe injury during training, II). He was determined to compete in the upcoming championship, III). He had been preparing for it all year.

A). therefore, although

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg.- @NextGenBankers

B). yet, because

C). consequently, since

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. Both B and C

14. Questions

I). The city council proposed a new public transportation system, II). Some residents opposed the plan,

III). They preferred to invest in road infrastructure.

A). nevertheless, as B). although, because

C). however, since

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. Both A and C

15. Questions

I). The new software update promised improved performance, II). Some users reported bugs and glitches,

III). The company issued a patch quickly.

A). but, so

B). therefore, as

C). although, because

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. Both B and C

16. Questions

I). The weather forecast predicted heavy rain,

II). The outdoor concert was not cancelled,

III). Organizers were hopeful the rain would pass.

A). yet, because

B). so, as

C). although, since

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. Both B and C

17. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The surveyors used stakes and flags to demarcate the boundaries of the new property.

II). The authorities decided to impound the vehicles that were parked illegally on the city streets.

III). The teacher issued a decree to encourage students to participate actively in class discussions.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

18. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

I). He joked about the peril of eating too many vegetables, claiming it could lead to extreme happiness.

II). The memories of her childhood haunt her dreams, lingering vividly each night.

III). After much debate, the committee finally reached a consensus on the new policy.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

19. Questions

I). Despite their ideological differences, the two leaders found convergence in their views on economic policy, leading to a productive debate.

II). Despite being readily available in stores, the item was described as elusive due to its high demand and popularity.

III). The escalating hostility between the two nations led to heightened tensions along the border.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

20. Questions

I). The debate over the new policy became increasingly contentious as both sides fiercely argued their positions.

II). The ancient artifact was discovered in pristine condition, untouched by time or human III). The teacher spoke in an imperative tone throughout the lecture.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The passage explains that export bans prevent farmers from taking advantage of high international prices and cheaper imports depress local prices, worsening farmers' financial conditions. The passage highlights several reasons why farmers are unhappy with the government's policies, primarily focusing on the economic strain caused by these policies.

a). Due to lack of modern farming techniques: While the passage does mention the need for investing in modern farming techniques as a part of long-term reforms, it does not identify this as a primary reason for farmers' current discontent. Therefore, this is not the main reason for their disgruntlement.

b). Because of high production costs: Although high production costs are a general concern for farmers, the passage does not specifically cite this as a reason for their dissatisfaction with the government's current policies.

c). Because they cannot capitalize on higher international prices: This is the correct answer. The passage clearly states that the imposition of export bans on staples such as rice and onions has prevented farmers from taking advantage of higher international prices. Additionally, the influx of cheaper imported goods has further depressed local prices, exacerbating the economic distress faced by farmers. This situation leads to their frustration and sense of betrayal, as their potential earnings are significantly reduced by these government policies.

d). Due to insufficient irrigation facilities: Similar to modern farming techniques, the passage suggests improving irrigation infrastructure as a necessary reform. However, it does not cite this as a primary cause of the current dissatisfaction among farmers.

e). Because of inadequate access to credit: Inadequate access to credit is mentioned as an area for improvement to enhance agricultural productivity and resilience, but it is not stated as a direct cause of the farmers' current disgruntlement with the government's policies.

In summary, the primary reason for the farmers' discontent, as stated in the passage, is that the government's policies have prevented them from capitalizing on higher international prices and have further depressed local prices through the influx of cheaper imports. This has led to significant financial strain and frustration among the farming community.

2. Questions

Answer: B

The passage highlights that an efficient procurement system, where government agencies buy crops at support prices, provides a safety net for farmers against market volatility. The procurement system plays a crucial role in supporting farmers by offering them a stable and predictable source of income through government intervention.

a). It helps to increase the export of agricultural products: The procurement system is not primarily designed to increase exports. Its main function is to stabilize domestic agricultural markets and ensure farmers receive fair compensation for their produce.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). It ensures government agencies buy crops at support prices: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly mentions that ensuring government agencies buy crops at support prices can provide a safety net against market volatility. This means that when market prices are low, farmers can still sell their crops at a predetermined price to the government, protecting them from unpredictable market fluctuations and ensuring a minimum level of income.

c). It distributes free seeds to farmers: The distribution of free seeds is not a function of the procurement system. This task may fall under agricultural support programs, but it is not related to the procurement process described in the passage.

d). It sets the international market prices for crops: The procurement system does not influence international market prices. Instead, it focuses on stabilizing the domestic market by ensuring that farmers receive a fair price for their crops within the country.

e). It reduces the cost of fertilizers: Reducing fertilizer costs is not a role of the procurement system. Fertilizer subsidies or cost reductions are typically handled through separate agricultural support or subsidy programs.

In summary, the procurement system's role, as described in the passage, is to ensure that government agencies purchase crops at support prices. This mechanism helps to protect farmers from the adverse effects of market volatility by guaranteeing them a minimum price for their produce, thereby providing financial stability and security.

3. Questions

Answer: C

The passage recommends long-term reforms such as investing in modern farming techniques, improving irrigation infrastructure, and providing better access to credit and markets. The passage discusses several long-term reforms necessary to enhance agricultural productivity and improve farmer incomes.

a). Expanding urban markets: While expanding urban markets could potentially benefit some farmers by providing new sales channels, this is not mentioned in the passage as a recommended long-term reform for boosting agricultural productivity and farmer incomes. The focus is more on improving agricultural practices and infrastructure directly related to farming.

b). Reducing fuel prices: Although reducing fuel prices could lower the cost of agricultural operations, this specific measure is not highlighted in the passage. The long-term reforms suggested are more directly related to agricultural techniques and infrastructure rather than general cost reductions.

c). Investing in modern farming techniques: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly mentions the need for long-term structural reforms such as investing in modern farming techniques and improving irrigation infrastructure. These measures are aimed at enhancing agricultural productivity, which in turn would increase farmer incomes. By adopting modern farming techniques, farmers can achieve higher crop yields and better manage resources. Improved irrigation infrastructure ensures that water is used more efficiently, which is critical for consistent agricultural output.

d). Increasing fertilizer prices: This would actually harm farmers by increasing their input costs, making it counterproductive to the goal of boosting incomes. The passage does not suggest this as a reform.

e). Decreasing food subsidies: Reducing food subsidies would likely increase the cost of food for consumers, which is not a focus of the passage. The recommended reforms aim to support farmers directly through improvements in agricultural practices and infrastructure rather than altering subsidy policies.

In summary, the passage recommends investing in modern farming techniques and improving irrigation infrastructure as key long-term reforms. These initiatives are intended to directly enhance the efficiency and productivity of agricultural practices, thereby increasing farmer incomes and ensuring sustainable agricultural growth.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The passage states that the government's traditional strategies to control food prices involve curbing exports and increasing imports. The passage discusses the strategies that the government has traditionally employed to control food prices.

a). Subsidizing farmer incomes: The passage does not mention subsidizing farmer incomes as a traditional strategy used by the government to control food prices. Subsidies might support farmers, but they do not directly address food price control in the context described.

b). Export curbs and increased imports: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly states that the government has used export curbs (restrictions on exporting agricultural products) and increased imports to control food prices. These measures aim to keep more food within the domestic market and bring in cheaper goods from abroad to stabilize or lower food prices for urban consumers.

c). Reducing fuel prices: Reducing fuel prices could lower overall production and transportation costs, potentially impacting food prices indirectly. However, the passage does not mention this as a traditional strategy for controlling food prices.

d). Increasing agricultural subsidies: While subsidies can help farmers by reducing their production costs, the passage does not highlight increasing agricultural subsidies as a traditional strategy for controlling food prices.

e). Promoting organic farming: Promoting organic farming could impact food quality and farming practices but is not mentioned in the passage as a method for controlling food prices.

In summary, the passage identifies the traditional strategies used by the government to control food prices as imposing export curbs and increasing imports. These actions aim to keep domestic food supplies sufficient and prices stable by limiting the amount of food that leaves the country and by supplementing the market with imported goods.

5. Questions

Answer: B

The passage suggests easing export restrictions on surplus commodities like rice to help stabilize domestic prices and provide relief to farmers. The passage suggests several solutions to help stabilize domestic prices and relieve the financial strain on farmers.

a). Increase tariffs on imported goods: While increasing tariffs on imports could theoretically protect domestic farmers by making imported goods more expensive, this is not suggested in the passage. Instead, the passage discusses the negative impact of cheaper imported goods on local prices but does not recommend increasing tariffs as a solution.

b). Ease export restrictions on commodities with surplus stocks: This is the correct answer. The passage specifically mentions easing export restrictions on commodities where there are surplus stocks, such as rice, as a viable solution. By allowing these exports, the government can help stabilize domestic prices and provide much-needed relief to farmers. This approach could help farmers capitalize on higher international prices and reduce the oversupply in the domestic market, thus supporting their incomes.

c). Provide direct cash transfers to farmers: Direct cash transfers could support farmers financially, but this solution is not mentioned in the passage. The focus of the suggested solutions is more on policy adjustments related to trade and market dynamics.

d). Increase subsidies on fertilizers: While increasing fertilizer subsidies might reduce input costs for farmers, this specific measure is not recommended in the passage. The suggested solutions revolve around improving market conditions and structural reforms rather than increasing input subsidies.

e). Ban all agricultural imports: Banning all agricultural imports could lead to unintended consequences, such as food shortages and increased prices for consumers. The passage does not recommend this extreme measure. Instead, it suggests more balanced approaches that can benefit both farmers and consumers.

In summary, the passage suggests that easing export restrictions on commodities with surplus stocks is a practical solution to help stabilize domestic prices and provide financial relief to farmers. This measure allows farmers to benefit from higher international prices while reducing excess supply in the domestic market, thereby supporting their incomes and reducing economic distress.

6. Questions

Answer: D

In the passage, "disgruntled" is used to describe the feelings of the farming community in response to government policies that have negatively impacted their financial situation. The word "disgruntled" means unhappy, dissatisfied, or frustrated. The best synonym among the options provided is "dissatisfied," as it accurately captures the sense of frustration and discontent expressed by the farmers.

a). Excited: This implies a positive emotion, which is the opposite of disgruntled.

b). Satisfied: This also implies a positive emotion, contrary to the meaning of disgruntled.

c). Content: This means being happy or satisfied, which does not match the negative connotation of disgruntled.

e). Indifferent: This implies a lack of emotion or concern, which does not accurately reflect the frustration and dissatisfaction described in the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The primary theme of the passage revolves around the tension and challenges the government faces in balancing the need to control food inflation with ensuring the welfare of farmers. The passage discusses how traditional government measures, such as export curbs and increased imports, have aimed to protect urban consumers but have negatively impacted farmers, causing economic distress and frustration. It emphasizes the need for a more balanced approach to food policy that addresses both the needs of consumers and the livelihood of farmers. The other options, while related to agriculture, do not capture the central conflict and primary focus of the passage as accurately as option b.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). The impact of modern farming techniques on agricultural productivity: While the passage mentions the need for investing in modern farming techniques as part of long-term reforms, this is not the central theme. The focus is not primarily on how these techniques impact productivity but on the broader issue of balancing food prices and farmer welfare.

b). The challenges of balancing food inflation control with farmer welfare: This is the correct answer. The passage extensively discusses the tension between controlling food prices for consumers and ensuring that farmers can earn a fair income. It highlights the consequences of government policies aimed at curbing inflation, such as export curbs and increased imports, which have negatively impacted farmers. The central issue is finding a balance between these conflicting needs.

c). The benefits of increasing agricultural exports: Increasing agricultural exports is suggested as a potential solution to help farmers, particularly in the context of surplus stocks. However, the passage does not focus on the benefits of exports as the main theme. Instead, it is part of a broader discussion on resolving the tension between food prices and farmer incomes.

d). The need for technological advancements in agriculture: Technological advancements, such as modern farming techniques and improved irrigation infrastructure, are mentioned as necessary long-term reforms. However, these are not the central theme. The passage's primary focus is on the immediate policy issues and economic challenges faced by farmers due to current government strategies.

e). The role of government subsidies in supporting farmers: Government subsidies are not a major focus of the passage. While the text does touch on the need for fair compensation and support prices for farmers, the central theme is not about subsidies. It is more about the overall policy approach to balancing food inflation and farmer welfare.

In summary, while options (a), (c), (d), and (e) are related to aspects of agricultural policy and farmer support, they do not capture the main conflict described in the passage. Option (b) is the most accurate representation of the primary theme, as the passage is primarily concerned with the challenges of balancing the control of food inflation with ensuring the welfare of farmers.

8. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is c) 3 and 4, "reconcile" and "angst," respectively.

Reconcile: This term means to bring into agreement or harmony. Economists are trying to make their positive views on the US economy align with the actual feelings or experiences of average Americans.

Angst: This term refers to a feeling of deep anxiety or dread. It accurately captures the emotional state of average Americans who may be worried or stressed despite the economists' optimistic outlook.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Propitiate" means to appease or make someone less angry, which doesn't fit the context of aligning views.

"Appease" also means to calm or pacify someone, which isn't suitable in this context.

"Composure" means calmness or self-control, which contradicts the intended idea of average Americans' negative emotions.

"Agitation" means a state of anxiety or nervous excitement, which could fit the context, but "reconcile" is a better fit than "appease" for the first blank.

9. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is c) 1 and 6, "grapples" and "pragmatic," respectively.

Grapples: This term means to struggle with or try to deal with a difficult problem. In this context, it suggests that Myanmar is dealing with its internal challenges in a serious and determined manner.

Pragmatic: This term refers to a practical and realistic approach to dealing with issues. In this context, it suggests that India's engagement with Myanmar will be a balanced mix of supporting democratic ideals while also taking practical measures to protect its own national interests.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Dodges" suggests avoiding or evading challenges, which doesn't fit the context of a country dealing with its internal issues.

"Wrangles" suggests engaging in a long and complicated dispute, which is less appropriate than "grapples" in the context of internal challenges.

"Quixotical" means exceedingly idealistic or unrealistic, which doesn't fit the context of describing India's approach to engagement.

"Imbecile" means foolish or idiotic, which is not appropriate for describing measures taken to safeguard national interests.

10. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is b) 2 and 5, "volatility" and "juncture," respectively.

Volatility: This term refers to the degree of variation in the trading price of the pound over time. Since the Brexit vote in 2016, the pound has experienced significant fluctuations, making "volatility" the appropriate term.

Juncture: This term refers to a critical or important point in time. The upcoming election represents a crucial moment or turning point for the future of the currency, making "juncture" the fitting term.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Buoyancy" means resilience or the ability to recover quickly from setbacks, which does not describe the significant fluctuations in the pound's value.

"Placidity" means calmness or tranquillity, which is the opposite of the volatility experienced by the pound.

"Severance" means the action of ending a connection or relationship, which does not fit the context of the currency's fluctuations.

"Concurrence" means the simultaneous occurrence of events, which does not describe the critical point in time for the currency's future.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is b) 2 and 4:

Eloquent: This term suggests that the recently held Lok Sabha elections served as a powerful or persuasive testimony to something. Here, it implies that the elections effectively showcased or demonstrated the wisdom of the Indian electorate.

Unwavering: This term describes something steady, resolute, or steadfast. In this context, it implies that the wisdom demonstrated by the Indian electorate in the elections was consistent and firm.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Ardent" means passionate or enthusiastic, which doesn't fit the context of describing the testimony to the wisdom of the electorate.

"Apathetic" means showing or feeling no interest, enthusiasm, or concern, which contradicts the idea of the elections being a testimony to the electorate's wisdom.

"Whimsical" means playful or fanciful, often suggesting unpredictability or capriciousness, which doesn't fit the context of describing the wisdom of the electorate.

"Relentless" means persistent or unyielding, which doesn't accurately describe the nature of the testimony provided by the elections.

12. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) 2 and 6

Culmination: This term means the highest point or the end result of a series of events or actions. In this context, Julian Assange's release from prison marks the culmination or the conclusion of a long-running saga.

Intrigue: This term refers to the fascination or interest generated by something mysterious or complex. In the context of international affairs and Julian Assange's legal battles, there has been considerable intrigue or interest due to the complexities and controversies involved.

The other options do not accurately pair terms that fit the context:

"Incitement" and "infidelity" do not relate to the release from prison or international saga as described.

"Attainment" and "fidelity" do not capture the sense of culmination or intrigue associated with Julian Assange's situation.

"Infidelity" does not relate to the release from prison or international saga as described.

"Fidelity" does not capture the sense of intrigue associated with Julian Assange's situation.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is B. yet, because.

Combined Sentence: The athlete suffered a severe injury during training, yet he was determined to compete in the upcoming championship because he had been preparing for it all year.

"Yet" is used to introduce a contrast or contradiction. It indicates that despite the severe injury, the athlete's determination remained strong.

"Because" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why the athlete was determined to compete, attributing it to his year-long preparation for the championship.

sky53mg@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the athlete's injury and his determination to compete, providing a clear reason for his motivation despite the setback.

14. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is C. however, since.

Combined Sentence: The city council proposed a new public transportation system; however, some residents opposed the plan since they preferred to invest in road infrastructure.

"However," is used to introduce a contrast or contradiction. It indicates that despite the proposal for a new public transportation system, there was opposition from some residents.

"Since" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why some residents opposed the plan, attributing it to their preference for investing in road infrastructure.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the city council's proposal and the residents' opposition, providing a clear reason for their preference.

15. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is A. but, so.

Combined Sentence: The new software update promised improved performance, but some users reported bugs and glitches, so the company issued a patch quickly.

"But" is used to introduce a contrast or contradiction. It indicates that despite the promise of improved performance, there were negative reports from some users.

"So" is used to indicate a result or consequence. It explains the company's response to the reported bugs and glitches, leading to the quick issuance of a patch.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the promise of the software update and the issues reported by users, and it also provides the logical consequence of the company's action to address the problems.

16. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is A. yet, because.

Combined Sentence: The weather forecast predicted heavy rain, yet the outdoor concert was not cancelled because organizers were hopeful the rain would pass.

"Yet" is used to introduce a contrast or contradiction. It indicates that despite the forecast of heavy rain, the concert was not cancelled.

"Because" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why the concert was not cancelled, attributing it to the organizers' hope that the rain would pass.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the weather forecast and the decision to proceed with the concert, providing a clear reason for the organizers' optimism.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "demarcate" is correctly used to describe the act of setting or marking the boundaries of the property.

II). In this sentence, "impound" is correctly used to describe the action taken by authorities to seize and take legal custody of the illegally parked vehicles.

III). In this sentence, "decree" is used incorrectly. A decree is a formal and authoritative order or decision issued by someone in authority, such as a ruler or a court. It is not typically used in the context of encouraging or promoting student behavior in a classroom setting. A more suitable term might be "directive" or "policy."

18. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "peril" is used incorrectly. Peril typically refers to serious danger or risk, not a positive outcome like extreme happiness.

II). In this sentence, "haunt" is correctly used to describe how memories persistently and distressingly occupy her thoughts, particularly in her dreams.

III). In this sentence, "consensus" is correctly used to denote an agreement or a general understanding among the committee members regarding the new policy after thorough discussion and deliberation.

19. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "convergence" is used correctly. It means the process of coming together or the state of having common interests or goals. The sentence indicates that despite initial differences, the leaders found common ground in their views on economic policy.

II). In this sentence, "elusive" is used incorrectly. "Elusive" typically describes something that is difficult to find or capture, often due to being hard to understand, perceive, or achieve. However, in this context, the item is described as elusive because of its popularity and high demand, which suggests it is sought after but not necessarily difficult to obtain. A more suitable term might be "coveted" or "in demand."

III). In this sentence, "hostility" is correctly used to describe the state of conflict or animosity between the two nations.

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "contentious" is used correctly to describe a situation or topic that is causing or likely to cause disagreement or controversy.

II). In this sentence, "pristine" is correctly used to describe the artifact as being in immaculate, original condition, without any damage or signs of wear.

III). In this sentence, " imperative " is used incorrectly. Imperative refers to something that is absolutely necessary or critically important. It can also be used as a grammatical term for commands or instructions delivered in a forceful way.

While a teacher might use a commanding tone to deliver instructions, "imperative" itself doesn't describe the tone of voice. It describes the nature of the information being conveyed. For describing the teacher's speaking style, a better word would be something like "authoritative," "commanding," or "direct."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, a grammatically correct and meaningful sentence is given with First part of the sentence is fixed. You have to arrange the remaining part of the sentence which is divided into four parts (A), (B), (C) and (D) to make a contextually and grammatically meaningful sentence. If no rearrangement is required, mark (e) as your answer i.e. 'No rearrangement required.

The imposition of Emergency / is one such dark episode that continues (A)/ to guide present and future generations, (B)/ and the right of citizens to live with dignity (C)/ given its implications for democracy (D).

a. ABDC

b. ACBD

c. BDCA

d. ADBC

e. No rearrangement required

2. Questions

The Centre must urgently / reassess its spectrum selling policy (A)/ in purchasing airwaves (B)/ where operators showed limited interest (C)/ in light of recent auctions (D).

a. ABDC

b. ACBD

c. ACDB

d. ADCB

e. No rearrangement required

3. Questions

Presidential addresses to Parliament / because they usually outline the policies and plans (A)/ are more than a constitutional routine (B)/ ahead of a new Lok Sabha session (C)/ of the government for the five years ahead (D).

a. ACDB

b. DABC

c. CBAD

d. BADC

e. No rearrangement required

4. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Perhaps the most intractable / Indian policymakers today (A)/ economic problem facing (B)/ is how to translate India's high GDP (C)/growth into high employment growth (D).

a. ABDC
b. BACD
c. BCDA
d. DABC
e. No rearrangement required

5. Questions

The entire country is disturbed / by the inability of the system (A)/ to conduct crucial exams (B)/ that determine the lives (C)/ and careers of millions of students (D).

a. DABC
b. CDAB
c. ACDB
d. CDBA
e. No rearrangement required

6. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

In his second term, Prime Minister Modi had given a call to make India a 'five trillion economy.' Though the dream is still to be realised, it gave a sense of direction and hope to India's entrepreneurs and stakeholders. But every goal has a ____ (1) ____ path one must negotiate to reach it. Indeed, as the world's fifth-largest economy, India continues to capture the attention of global investors and economists alike. It is a key player in the global economic landscape. However, several ____ (2) ____ need to be done away with to reach the goal. Recently, Shaktikanta Das, the Governor of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), expressed confidence in India achieving a 7.2 per cent GDP growth rate for the current fiscal year. This assertion is significant from the policy point of view and needs scrutiny of the factors contributing to this optimistic outlook. No doubt, India's economy has shown ____ (3) ____ in the face of various challenges, including the aftermath of the COVID-19 pandemic and global geopolitical tensions. Several economic indicators reveal a mixed yet promising picture. In recent years, the Indian economy has been touted as the fastest-growing economy in the world. The Indian economy has demonstrated robust growth in recent years, recovering from the pandemic. Its GDP grew by 7.8 per cent in the first quarter of FY 2023-24, indicating a strong economic momentum. But on the downside, price rise and Inflation are a big cause of concern. Right now, the Consumer Price Index (CPI) inflation stood at 4.6 per cent in May 2024, within the RBI's comfort zone of 4%±2% which could be counted as a positive indication for the growth. Another grey area of the economy has been unemployment. The unemployment rate remains a critical issue, with urban unemployment at 7.8 per cent and rural unemployment at 7.4 per cent in June 2024. Despite improvements, job creation in key sectors like manufacturing and services remains low. Jobs are essential for sustaining growth which is a red flag for growth right now. Sincere efforts need to be made to tackle this ____ (4) ____ as it can mitigate all the positive indicators. On positive side, India continues to attract significant FDI, which totalled $55.3 billion in the first half of 2024. Besides, the growth of the digital economy has had a good impact on the ease of doing business. India's digital economy is booming, with a projected value of $1 trillion by 2025. Not to forget the contribution of India's young population which presents a significant ____ (5) ____ advantage. With over 50 per cent of its population under the age of 25, India has a large and dynamic workforce that can drive consumption and innovation. The confidence expressed by RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das in achieving a 7.2 per cent growth rate this year highlights the resilience and potential of the Indian economy. However, addressing the challenges of inflation, global economic uncertainties, and climate change will be crucial in ensuring sustainable and inclusive growth.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. ambulant
b. vagrant
c. compendious
d. laconic
e. meandering

7. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. privileges
b. impediments
c. allowances
d. predicaments
e. encumbrances

8. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. despair
b. tenacity
c. resilience
d. intrepidity
e. despondency

9. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. menace
b. innocuity
c. imminence
d. affliction
e. certainty

10. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. tranche
b. compeers
c. exponential
d. enumeration
e. demographic

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

The technology company announced that it _____ a groundbreaking new product next year.

a. has launched
b. will be launching
c. launches
d. have launched
e. none of the above

12. Questions

The city council _____ to build a new park to provide more green spaces for residents.

a. is planning
b. were planning
c. are planning
d. have planned
e. none of the above

13. Questions

The new software update _____ several critical security vulnerabilities.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. has patched

b. have patched

c. is patched

d. was patched

e. have been patched

14. Questions

The students _____ for their exams since last month.

a. has been preparing

b. have been preparing

c. is preparing

d. are preparing

e. have preparing

15. Questions

The manager _____ the team members to submit their reports by Friday.

a. has instructed

b. have instructed

c. are instructing

d. have been instructing

e. none of the above

16. Questions

In the following questions three words are highlighted and from the given options you have to identify the synonym for the highlighted word.

The protracted conflict, involving pro-democracy militias and Myanmar's military government, has spilled over into border regions, exacerbating security and humanitarian challenges.

a. prolonged, squandered, aggravating

b. lengthy, revealed, alleviating

c. extended, dragged, assuaging

d. enlarged, obscured, complicating

e. None of the above

17. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

While the House was grappling with an unprecedented attack on its chambers and the opposition was raising concerns regarding the incident, 146 members of parliament were arbitrarily suspended, allowing the bills to be passed without opposition or even a semblance of an informed critique of its provisions.

a. dodging, aimlessly, veracity
b. liberating, meticulously, guise
c. grabbing, indiscriminately, appearance
d. competing, coherently, discrepancy
e. None of the above

18. Questions

Chinese President Xi Jinping invoked the Five Principles of Peaceful Coexistence, termed as Panchasheel by India, at a conference here to mark its 70th anniversary and also sought to juxtapose them with his new concept of Global Security Initiative envisaging a shared future for mankind.

a. enforced, resemble, contemplating
b. executed, associate, conceiving
c. initiated, collocate, envisioning
d. implemented, connect, anticipating
e. None of the above

19. Questions

In a rapidly changing and fluid geopolitical landscape, the uncertainties unleashed by continuing and escalating wars in Europe and West Asia and the prospects of dramatic and deeply disruptive departures in the foreign policies of major powers as a fallout of impending elections will require an extraordinary agility and skilful diplomacy on the part of India.

a. released, disturbing, forthcoming
b. expressed, diverting, approaching
c. apprehended, soothing, preceding
d. abducted, obliging, encouraging
e. None of the above

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

Children are not only more susceptible than adults — they breathe more rapidly and absorb more pollutants — but breathing toxic air is also detrimental to children's development, impairing their learning process and leading to fatigue and, consequently, school absenteeism as well as attention deficiency.

a. vulnerable, benign, overhauling

b. impervious, innocuous, reviving

c. invincible, pernicious, debilitating

d. gullible, adverse, damaging

e. None of the above

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: A

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (a) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "The imposition of Emergency is one such dark episode that continues to guide present and future generations, given its implications for democracy and the right of citizens to live with dignity."

2. Questions

Answer: D

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (d) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "The Centre must urgently reassess its spectrum selling policy in light of recent auctions where operators showed limited interest in purchasing airwaves."

3. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "Presidential addresses to Parliament ahead of a new Lok Sabha session are more than a constitutional routine because they usually outline the policies and plans of the government for the five years ahead."

4. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "Perhaps the most intractable economic problem facing Indian policymakers today is how to translate India's high GDP growth into high employment growth."

5. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: E

The sentence is correct, hence no rearrangement required. The entire country is disturbed by the inability of the system to conduct crucial exams that determine the lives and careers of millions of students.

6. Questions

Answer: E

The word that most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1) is "meandering."

The sentence discusses the idea that achieving the goal of making India a 'five trillion economy' involves navigating a challenging and indirect path. The word "meandering" means winding or indirect, which fits well with the context of negotiating a complex and not straightforward journey towards the goal.

a). "Ambulant" means moving from place to place, typically used to describe someone who is able to walk around. It does not fit the context of describing a path.

b). "Vagrant" refers to a person who wanders without a fixed home. It does not fit the context of describing a path.

c). "Compendious" means containing or presenting the essential facts of something in a comprehensive but concise way. It does not fit the context of describing a path.

d). "Laconic" means using very few words, which does not fit the context of describing a path.

Therefore, "meandering" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of a winding and indirect path that must be negotiated to reach the goal.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (2) is "impediments."

The context of the sentence indicates that there are challenges or obstacles that need to be removed for India to achieve its goal of becoming a five trillion-dollar economy. "Impediments" accurately conveys the idea of obstacles or hindrances that need to be addressed.

a). "Privileges" refers to special rights or advantages, which does not fit the context of obstacles or challenges.

c). "Allowances" refers to permitted amounts or considerations, which again does not fit the context of obstacles or challenges.

d). "Predicaments" means difficult or unpleasant situations, which could be relevant but is not as specific as "impediments" in conveying the idea of obstacles that need to be removed.

e). "Encumbrances" means burdens or impediments, and while it is close in meaning, "impediments" is more commonly used in the context of obstacles to progress.

Therefore, "impediments" is the best choice as it precisely conveys the idea of obstacles that need to be addressed to achieve the goal of becoming a five trillion-dollar economy.

8. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (3) is "resilience."

In the context of the passage, the sentence mentions the various challenges India has faced, such as the aftermath of the COVID-19 pandemic and global geopolitical tensions. Despite these challenges, the Indian economy has shown strength and the ability to recover, which is best described by the word "resilience."

a). "Despair" means a complete loss of hope, which is the opposite of what is described in the context of India's economic performance.

b). "Tenacity" means the quality of being very determined; it is a positive trait but does not quite capture the idea of recovery and bouncing back from difficulties.

d). "Intrepidity" means fearless bravery, which is not directly relevant to the economic context described here.

e). "Despondency" means a state of low spirits caused by loss of hope or courage, which again, is the opposite of what is being described.

Therefore, "resilience" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of the Indian economy's ability to withstand and recover from challenges.

9. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fit in the blank labeled (4) is "menace" because it accurately conveys the idea that unemployment is a serious threat to economic growth that needs to be addressed.

The sentence is discussing the critical issue of unemployment and the need for efforts to address it because it negatively impacts economic growth.

a). Menace: This means a threat or danger, which fits the context of unemployment being a serious issue that needs addressing.

b). Innocuity: This means harmlessness, which does not fit the context of unemployment being a significant problem.

c). Imminence: This means something about to happen, which is not directly relevant to the issue of unemployment needing to be tackled.

d). Affliction: This means something that causes pain or suffering, which fits the context as unemployment is causing economic distress.

e). Certainty: This means something that is sure or guaranteed, which does not fit the context of unemployment being a problem.

Therefore, the correct answer is: a) menace

10. Questions

Answer: E

The word that most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5) is "demographic."

The context of the sentence is discussing India's young population and its potential benefits to the economy. The term "demographic advantage" refers to the economic benefits that can arise from having a large, young, and dynamic population. This demographic can drive consumption, innovation, and economic growth.

a). "Tranche" refers to a portion or installment, usually of money or investments. It does not fit the context of describing a characteristic of the population.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). "Compeers" means equals or peers, which is not relevant in the context of discussing the population advantage.

c). "Exponential" refers to rapid growth or increase. While it can be related to growth, it does not specifically describe the population advantage.

d). "Enumeration" means counting or listing, which is not relevant in the context of describing the population's impact on the economy.

e). "Demographic" relates to the structure of populations and fits perfectly in the context of discussing the economic advantages of a young population.

Therefore, the correct answer is: e) demographic

11. Questions

Answer: B

The sentence describes an announcement about a future event.

a). "has launched": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has launched" is in the present perfect tense, indicating an action completed in the recent past. It does not fit the context of an event that will happen next year.

b). "will be launching": This option uses the future continuous tense "will be launching," which is appropriate because it indicates a planned future action. The phrase "next year" specifies a future time, so the future continuous tense is suitable.

c). "launches": This option is grammatically incorrect because "launches" is in the simple present tense, which does not convey the sense of a future planned action. The context requires a future tense to match "next year."

d). "have launched": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have launched" is in the present perfect tense, which refers to an action completed at an unspecified time before now. It does not fit the context of a future event.

Therefore, option b) "will be launching" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the technology company announced a planned action (launching a new product) that will take place next year.

12. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence discusses the current intentions of the city council.

a). "is planning": This option correctly uses the present continuous tense, indicating an ongoing action or current intention. The singular collective noun "city council" correctly takes the singular verb form "is planning."

b). "were planning": This option uses the past continuous tense, which indicates an ongoing action in the past. It does not fit the context of the present intentions of the city council.

c). "are planning": This option uses the present continuous tense, which is correct in structure but is grammatically incorrect because "city council" is a singular collective noun, and it requires a singular verb form.

d). "have planned": This option uses the present perfect tense, indicating an action completed at some unspecified time before now. It does not fit the context of an ongoing or current intention.

Therefore, option a) "is planning" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the city council currently has the intention to build a new park to provide more green spaces for residents.

13. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence discusses the action taken by the new software update regarding security vulnerabilities.

"has patched": This option uses the present perfect tense "has patched," which is appropriate because it indicates that the action (patching several critical security vulnerabilities) started in the past and has been completed recently. The singular subject "The new software update" correctly takes "has."

b). "have patched": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is plural, whereas the subject "The new software update" is singular. The correct form for a singular subject is "has patched."

c). "is patched": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is" is in the present tense, suggesting that the action is ongoing or habitual. The sentence is discussing a specific action completed by the software update, not its ongoing state.

d). "was patched": This option is grammatically incorrect because "was" is in the past tense, suggesting that the action occurred at a specific point in the past. The present perfect tense "has patched" is more suitable here to indicate a recent action with present relevance.

e). "have been patched": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have been" is followed by the past participle "patched," which suggests ongoing action or completed action in the past, not a recent completion as indicated by the present perfect tense.

Therefore, option a) "has patched" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the new software update has recently patched several critical security vulnerabilities.

14. Questions

Answer: B

The sentence describes the ongoing action of the students preparing for their exams.

a). "has been preparing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has been" is singular, whereas the subject "students" is plural. The correct form for a plural subject is "have been preparing."

b). "have been preparing": This option correctly uses the present perfect continuous tense "have been preparing," which indicates that the action (preparing for exams) started in the past and has continued up to the present. The plural subject "students" correctly takes "have been."

c). "is preparing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is" is singular, whereas the subject "students" is plural. The verb should agree with the subject in number.

d). "are preparing": This option is grammatically correct because "are" is plural, matching the plural subject "students." However, the present continuous tense "are preparing" does not convey the ongoing nature of the action as effectively as the present perfect continuous tense in this context.

e). "have preparing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is not followed by a past participle ("preparing") to form a complete verb phrase. It lacks the necessary "been" to form the correct tense.

Therefore, option b) "have been preparing" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the students have been continuously preparing for their exams since last month, emphasizing the ongoing nature of their preparation.

15. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence describes an action performed by the manager regarding the team members' reports. Here's why option a) "has instructed" is the correct choice:

a). "has instructed": This option uses the present perfect tense "has instructed," which is appropriate because it indicates that the action (instructing the team members) occurred in the past and has relevance to the present (the deadline by Friday). The singular subject "The manager" correctly takes "has."

b). "have instructed": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is plural, whereas the subject "The manager" is singular. The correct form for a singular subject is "has instructed."

c). "are instructing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "are" is plural, and the subject "The manager" is singular. The verb should agree with the subject in number.

d). "have been instructing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have been" is followed by the present participle "instructing," suggesting ongoing action. The sentence does not convey ongoing action but rather a completed action in the recent past.

Therefore, option a) "has instructed" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the manager has instructed the team members to submit their reports by Friday, indicating a completed action with present relevance.

16. Questions

Answer: A

The word "protracted" means lasting for a long time or longer than expected. A synonym for "protracted" is "prolonged" (option a).

The word "spilled" means to spread or flow over an area. A synonym for "spilled" is "squandered" (option a).

The word "exacerbating" means making a problem, bad situation, or negative feeling worse. A synonym for "exacerbating" is "aggravating" (option a).

Therefore, option a) "Prolonged, Squandered, Aggravating" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

17. Questions

Answer: C

The word "grappling" means struggling or dealing with a difficult situation. A synonym for "grappling" is "grabbing" (option c).

The word "arbitrarily" means based on random choice or personal whim, rather than any reason or system. A synonym for "arbitrarily" is "indiscriminately" (option c).

The word "semblance" means the outward appearance or apparent form of something, especially when the reality is different. A synonym for "semblance" is "appearance" (option c).

Therefore, option c) "Grabbing, Indiscriminately, Appearance " provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: C

The word "invoked" means to call on or refer to something (often principles or ideas). A synonym for "invoked" is "initiated" (option c).

The word "juxtapose" means to place side by side for comparison or contrast. A synonym for "juxtapose" is "collocate" (option c).

The word "envisaging" means to contemplate or conceive of as a possibility or a desirable future event. A synonym for "envisaging" is "envisioning" (option c).

Therefore, option c) "Initiated, Collocate, Envisioning" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: A

The word "unleashed" means to release something, especially a violent force. A synonym for "unleashed" is "released" (option a).

The word "disruptive" means causing or tending to cause disruption. A synonym for "disruptive" is "disturbing" (option a).

The word "impending" means about to happen. A synonym for "impending" is "forthcoming" (option a).

Therefore, option a) "Released, Disturbing, Forthcoming" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The word "susceptible" means likely to be influenced or harmed by a particular thing. A synonym for "susceptible" is "vulnerable" (option d).

The word "detrimental" means tending to cause harm. A synonym for "detrimental" is "adverse" (option d).

The word "impairing" means weakening or damaging something. A synonym for "impairing" is " damaging " (option d).

Therefore, option d) "Gullible, Adverse, Damaging " provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg.- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, a grammatically correct and meaningful sentence is given with First part of the sentence is fixed. You have to arrange the remaining part of the sentence which is divided into four parts (A), (B),(C) and (D) to make a contextually and grammatically meaningful sentence. If no rearrangement is required, mark (e) as your answer i.e. 'No rearrangement required.

The Patna High Court judgment striking down / on total reservations by the judiciary (A) / enhanced reservation for various communities in employment (B) / and education marks yet another instance of (C)/ the strict application of the 50% ceiling (D).

a. ACDB

b. DACB

c. ADCB

d. BCDA

e. No rearrangement required

2. Questions

The push to increase wind-energy capacity / aiming to achieve 500 gigawatts of renewable-energy capacity by 2030, (A)/ aligns with India's commitment to combat (B)/ climate change and reduce global warming, (C)/ with wind energy contributing about 140 gigawatts (D).

a. ABDC

b. BCAD

c. DBCA

d. BDAC

e. No rearrangement required

3. Questions

Bangladesh remains India's most significant partner in the neighbourhood, / have laid the foundation for closer integration (A)/ and a raft of initiatives to bolster physical, energy, (B)/ and financial connectivity (C)/ of the economies of the two countries (D).

a. ACDB

b. BCDA

c. BCAD

d. ADBC

e. No rearrangement required

4. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Elon Musk may have the right vision / but there is no assurance that Tesla will deliver (A)/ and humanoid robots could, indeed, be the future, (B)/ and his bets on self-driving cars (C)/ that future to car buyers or company shareholders (D).

a. ACBD

b. BCDA

c. CBAD

d. DCBA

e. No rearrangement required

5. Questions

The government seeks big ticket / investments in infrastructure to transition (A)/ to a developed economy and also attract (B)/ investors who want to de-risk their (C)/ exposure to China due to Sino-US tensions (D).

a. ABDC

b. BDAC

c. ACDB

d. ACBD

e. No rearrangement required

6. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

The ____ (1) ____ fires, at a gaming centre in Rajkot, Gujarat and a newborn nursing clinic in Delhi within 24 hours of each other, which left over 30 dead, is another ____ (2) ____ reminder of one of India's insidious threats: the pervasive nature of the negligence of the fire safety of buildings by a whole range of stakeholders — from builders and proprietors to regulatory authorities. While the Bureau of Indian Standards has set detailed fire safety protocols in its National Building Code of India (NBC) 2016, it is a recommendatory document, as fire services is a State subject, and enforced at the municipality level. The sheer disregard for India's fire safety norms is apparent from the opening lines in the 'About Fire Service – Background' page of the Director General, Fire Services website under the Ministry of Home Affairs. It reads, "The fire services are not well organized in India", adding, "in recent years the requirements for fire safety cover have increased manifold whereas the development of fire service has not made much headway". The National Disaster Management Authority had recommended to the 13th Finance Commission, an allocation of Rs.7,000 crore to revamp India's fire and emergency services. But the Commission sought an allocation of almost Rs.90,000 crore at the municipality level, recognising the need for a tailor-made ____ (3) ____ and restructuring of fire and emergency preparedness. A 2019 Home Ministry response to the Rajya Sabha noted that India had only 3,377 fire stations, when a 2012 national report on fire hazards and risk analysis sought more than double that number. The staff shortage is even more ____ (4) ____. The entire country had only about 55,000 fire servicemen in 2019, when the requirement was about 5,60,000 seven years earlier. The Centre belatedly set aside Rs.5,000 crore last July asking States to cough up another Rs.1,400 crore to modernise emergency services. This follows the 15th Finance Commission's advice to set aside 12.5% of all allocations towards the National/State Disaster Response Funds. With rising heatwaves and extreme weather events nationwide, it is clear that a synchronisation of the 2016 NBC and the Energy Conservation Building Code is required to attempt a holistic approach to address fires, as standards for construction material, electrical wiring, air-conditioning, and a whole range of cooling materials have to be revamped. More importantly, India's polity, bureaucracy, policymakers and entrepreneurs must urgently address this ____ (5) ____. threat.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. quieting
b. appeasing
c. blistering
d. beguiling
e. devastating

7. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. savage
b. rapacious
c. assuaging
d. propitious
e. grim

8. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. overhauling
b. adorning
c. fancifying
d. revamping
e. deteriorating

9. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

a. solacing

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. appalling

c. petrifying

d. assuaging

e. inspiriting

10. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. astute

b. malignant

c. insidious

d. palpable

e. blatant

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

The proposal for the new shopping mall _____ by the city council.

a. is being consider

b. are being considered

c. has being considered

d. is being considered

e. have being considered

12. Questions

The manager and his team _____ the new project with great enthusiasm.

a. are approaching

b. is approaching

c. has approaching

d. have approaching

e. approaches

13. Questions

The latest model of the smartphone _____ a significant improvement in battery life compared to its predecessor.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. has seen

b. have seen

c. seen

d. seeing

e. has been seen

14. Questions

The new regulations _____ to ensure better safety standards in the workplace.

a. has been implemented

b. have been implemented

c. is implemented

d. have been implementing

e. none of the above

15. Questions

The new employee _____ an impressive job since joining the company.

a. has been doing

b. is doing

c. have been doing

d. does

e. had done

16. Questions

In the following questions three words are highlighted and from the given options you have to identify the synonym for the highlighted word.

In order to strike down the egregious claims made by one advertiser, Patanjali Ayurved, and to prevent further distorted claims by other advertisers in the future, the Supreme Court in an order on May 7, 2024, had directed broadcasters, and print and digital media to file self-declaration certificates (SDCs) that their ads comply with all extant rules.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. flagrant, crooked, extinct

b. atrocious, contorted, abiding

c. deplorable, blatant, enduring

d. enigmatic, warped, archaic

e. None of the above

17. Questions

With newly elected representatives, a burgeoning tech sector and several imminent digital-regulation frameworks, India has an opportunity to lead with workable solutions for the repercussions of Big Tech dominance and modes of governance that involve those who are impacted the most: the end users of social media platforms.

a. augmenting, looming, implication
b. expanding, impending, consequences
c. dwindling, brewing, impotence
d. deteriorating, menacing, aftermaths
e. None of the above

18. Questions

It is intriguing why the appointment of Lt Gen Upendra Dwivedi was not announced on 26 May but on 11 June which would have obviated a 30-day extension to COAS Gen Manoj Pande and the unnecessary speculation that followed.

a. interesting, avoided, conjecture
b. compelling, deterred, disdain
c. revolting, furthered, contemplation
d. beguiling, impeded, imprudence
e. None of the above

19. Questions

In the ever-present struggle between transparency and opaqueness in all democratic countries, Julian Assange, the Wikileaks founder, won a long and arduous victory, ending years of incarceration and mental agony on June 25, 2024.

a. facile, exoneration, rapture
b. placid, abduction, contentment
c. difficult, confinement, anguish
d. strenuous, acquittal, affliction
e. None of the above

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

After deficient rains last year in both the South-West and North-East monsoons which dampened agricultural output, a stalling monsoon this year has delayed sowing operations.

a. extravagant, diminished, inhibiting

b. profligate, suppressed, shelving

c. insufficient, reduced, wavering

d. inadequate, decreased, delaying

e. None of the above

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: D

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (d) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "The Patna High Court judgment striking down enhanced reservation for various communities in employment and education marks yet another instance of the strict application of the 50% ceiling on total reservations by the judiciary."

2. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "The push to increase wind-energy capacity aligns with India's commitment to combat climate change and reduce global warming, aiming to achieve 500 gigawatts of renewable-energy capacity by 2030, with wind energy contributing about 140 gigawatts."

3. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "Bangladesh remains India's most significant partner in the neighbourhood, and a raft of initiatives to bolster physical, energy, and financial connectivity have laid the foundation for closer integration of the economies of the two countries."

4. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "Elon Musk may have the right vision and his bets on self-driving cars and humanoid robots could, indeed, be the future, but there is no assurance that Tesla will deliver that future to car buyers or company shareholders."

5. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence is correct hence no re arrangement required. "The government seeks big ticket investments in infrastructure to transition to a developed economy and also attract investors who want to de-risk their exposure to China due to Sino-US tensions." So, the correct answer is: e) No rearrangement required.

Tgs @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: E

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (1) is "devastating."

The context of the sentence describes fires that resulted in the death of over 30 people, indicating a severe and destructive event. The word "devastating" accurately captures the seriousness and tragic nature of the fires.

a). "Quieting" means making something quieter or calming it down, which does not fit the context of destructive fires.

b). "Appeasing" means pacifying or satisfying someone, which is not relevant to describing the fires.

c). "Blistering" can mean very hot or intense, but it does not convey the full extent of destruction and loss of life implied by the sentence.

d). "Beguiling" means charming or enchanting in a deceptive way, which is not appropriate for describing deadly fires.

Therefore, "devastating" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the severe and destructive nature of the fires described in the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: E

The most appropriate word to fit in the blank labeled (2) is "grim."

In the context of the sentence, the word needed should convey the seriousness and alarming nature of the reminder about fire safety negligence. The fires leading to over 30 deaths are a stark and serious reminder of the issue at hand.

a). "Savage" means brutal or violent, but it doesn't quite capture the sense of a somber reminder.

b). "Rapacious" means aggressively greedy or grasping, which doesn't fit the context of describing a reminder about fire safety.

c). "Assuaging" means making an unpleasant feeling less intense, which is the opposite of what is needed here. The reminder is not meant to lessen the intensity but to highlight the severity.

d). "Propitious" means favorable or indicating a good chance of success, which is not suitable for describing a reminder of a tragic event.

e). "Grim" means very serious or gloomy, which fits perfectly as it conveys the sombre and severe nature of the reminder about fire safety negligence.

Therefore, "grim" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the seriousness and the sombre nature of the reminder regarding the pervasive negligence of fire safety in buildings.

8. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (3) is "revamping."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The sentence discusses the need for a significant change and improvement in fire and emergency services in India, recognizing the need for a tailor-made approach and restructuring. "Revamping" means to give new and improved form, structure, or appearance to something. This fits well with the context of overhauling and improving the fire and emergency preparedness systems.

a). "Overhauling" means thoroughly examining and repairing something, which could also fit the context. However, it is less commonly used in this specific sense compared to "revamping."

b). "Adorning" means decorating or adding beauty to something, which is not appropriate in this context as it does not imply the necessary improvements or restructuring.

c). "Fancifying" is an informal term meaning to make something fancy or elaborate, which is also not suitable for the serious context of improving fire safety and emergency services.

e). "Deteriorating" means becoming progressively worse, which is the opposite of what is needed in this context.

Therefore, "revamping" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the need for significant improvements and restructuring of fire and emergency preparedness.

9. Questions

Answer: B

The word that most appropriately fits the blank labelled (4) is "appalling".

The context describes a severe shortage in the number of fire servicemen in India compared to the required number. This shortage is described as significant and problematic, indicating a situation that causes shock or dismay. "Appalling" means causing shock or dismay; it fits this context perfectly.

a). Solacing: This means comforting or consoling, which is the opposite of what the context requires.

c). Petrifying: This means terrifying or causing someone to be so frightened that they are unable to move, which is stronger than what the context suggests. While it conveys fear, it doesn't fit as well as "appalling" in terms of expressing the shock and dismay at the shortage.

d). Assuaging: This means making an unpleasant feeling less intense, which doesn't fit the context of describing a severe shortage.

e). Inspiriting: This means encouraging or invigorating, which is also the opposite of what the context requires.

Therefore, "appalling" is the best choice as it accurately conveys the shock and dismay caused by the severe shortage of fire servicemen.

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fit the blank labeled (5) is "insidious."

The word "insidious" means proceeding in a gradual, subtle way, but with harmful effects. It effectively captures the nature of the threat described in the passage, which is pervasive and often goes unnoticed until it causes significant damage. This aligns well with the context of fire safety negligence in India, which is a serious issue that doesn't always receive the immediate attention it deserves but leads to catastrophic consequences.

a). "Astute" means having or showing an ability to accurately assess situations or people and turn this to one's advantage. This doesn't fit the context of describing a threat.

b). "Malignant" means very virulent or infectious, often used to describe diseases or tumors. While it conveys harm, it is not subtle or gradual, making it less suitable for this context.

d). "Palpable" means so intense as to seem almost tangible. While it indicates something noticeable, it doesn't capture the subtlety implied by the pervasive negligence described.

e). "Blatant" means done openly and unashamedly. This word suggests something that is obvious or conspicuous, which is not consistent with the gradual and often unnoticed nature of the described threat.

Therefore, "insidious" is the best choice, as it accurately describes the gradual and harmful nature of the negligence in fire safety.

11. Questions

Answer: D

The sentence discusses the current action being taken by the city council regarding the proposal for the new shopping mall.

a). "is being consider": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the base form "consider" instead of the past participle "considered." The correct form should be "is being considered."

b). "are being considered": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the plural form "are" with the singular subject "The proposal." The verb should agree with the singular subject.

c). "has being considered": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has" should be followed by a past participle to form the present perfect tense, but "being considered" does not fit that structure. The correct form would be "has been considered."

d). "is being considered": This option correctly uses the present continuous passive form "is being considered," which indicates that the action (considering the proposal) is currently ongoing. The subject "The proposal" is singular, so "is" is correctly used.

e). "have being considered": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is used for plural subjects and should be followed by a past participle to form the present perfect tense. "Being considered" does not fit that structure. The correct form would be "have been considered" if the subject were plural.

Therefore, option d) "is being considered" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the proposal for the new shopping mall is currently being considered by the city council.

12. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

The sentence describes the current action of the manager and his team towards the new project.

a). "are approaching": This option uses the present continuous tense "are approaching," which is appropriate because it indicates that the action (approaching the new project with great enthusiasm) is currently ongoing. The subject "The manager and his team" is plural, so "are" is the correct form of the verb.

b). "is approaching": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is" is singular, whereas the subject "The manager and his team" is plural. The verb should agree with the subject in number.

c). "has approaching": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has" is used for singular subjects with the past participle, but here "approaching" is not a past participle form. The correct form would be "have approached" for plural subjects in the present perfect tense.

d). "have approaching": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is used with plural subjects, but "approaching" is not a past participle form. The correct form would be "have approached" for plural subjects in the present perfect tense.

e). "approaches": This option is grammatically incorrect because it is a simple present tense form and does not fit with the plural subject "The manager and his team." It does not convey the ongoing action as indicated by the context.

Therefore, option a) "are approaching" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the manager and his team are currently approaching the new project with great enthusiasm.

13. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence describes the action of the latest model of the smartphone regarding its improvement in battery life.

a). "has seen": This option uses the present perfect tense "has seen," which is appropriate because it indicates that the action (seeing a significant improvement in battery life) started in the past and continues to have relevance in the present. The singular subject "The latest model of the smartphone" correctly takes "has."

b). "have seen": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is used for plural subjects. The subject here is singular, so "has" should be used instead.

c). "seen": This option is grammatically incorrect because it is not a complete verb form. It lacks a helping verb (like "has" or "have") to form a tense.

d). "seeing": This option is grammatically incorrect because it is a present participle and does not form a complete verb phrase that fits the context of the sentence.

e). "has been seen": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the passive voice ("has been seen") which implies that someone else has seen the improvement, not the smartphone itself.

Therefore, option a) "has seen" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the latest model of the smartphone has experienced or achieved a significant improvement in battery life compared to its predecessor.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

14. Questions

Answer: B

The sentence discusses the implementation of new regulations to ensure better safety standards in the workplace.

a). "has been implemented": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has" is singular, but the subject "The new regulations" is plural. The correct form for plural subjects would be "have been implemented."

b). "have been implemented": This option correctly uses the present perfect tense "have been implemented," indicating that the action (implementation of the regulations) started in the past and continues to have relevance in the present. The plural subject "The new regulations" correctly takes "have."

c). "is implemented": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is" is singular, whereas the subject "The new regulations" is plural. The verb should agree with the subject in number.

d). "have been implementing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have been" is followed by the present participle "implementing," which suggests ongoing action. The sentence discusses the completed action of implementation rather than ongoing action.

Therefore, option b) "have been implemented" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the new regulations have been implemented to ensure better safety standards in the workplace, emphasizing the ongoing impact of their implementation.

15. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence describes the performance of the new employee since joining the company, indicating ongoing action.

a). "has been doing": This option uses the present perfect continuous tense "has been doing," which is appropriate because it emphasizes the continuous nature of the action (doing an impressive job) from the past up to the present moment. The singular subject "The new employee" correctly takes "has been."

b). "is doing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is doing" is in the present continuous tense, which suggests ongoing action at the present moment. However, the sentence requires a tense that covers the period from the employee's start until now, indicating the need for the present perfect continuous tense.

c). "have been doing": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is plural, whereas the subject "The new employee" is singular. The correct form for a singular subject would be "has been doing."

d). "does": This option is grammatically incorrect because "does" is in the simple present tense, which does not convey the ongoing nature of the action since the new employee joined.

e). "had done": This option is grammatically incorrect because "had done" is in the past perfect tense, indicating an action completed before another past action. It does not fit the context of ongoing performance since joining the company.

Therefore, option a) "has been doing" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the new employee has been continuously doing an impressive job since joining the company.

16. Questions

Answer: B

The word "egregious" means outstandingly bad or shocking. A synonym for "egregious" is "atrocious" (option b).

The word "distorted" means twisted out of shape or misrepresented. A synonym for "distorted" is "contorted" (option b).

The word "extant" means still in existence, surviving. A synonym for "extant" is "abiding" (option b).

Therefore, option b) "Atrocious, Contorted, Abiding" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

17. Questions

Answer: B

The word "burgeoning" means beginning to grow or increase rapidly; flourishing. A synonym for "burgeoning" is "expanding" (option b).

The word "imminent" means about to happen. A synonym for "imminent" is "impending" (option b).

The word "repercussions" refers to unintended consequences, especially ones that are unwelcome. A synonym for "repercussions" is "consequences" (option b).

Therefore, option b) "Expanding, Impending, Consequences" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: A

The word "intriguing" means fascinating or arousing curiosity. A synonym for "intriguing" is "interesting" (option a).

The word "obviated" means to remove or avoid a need or difficulty. A synonym for "obviated" is "avoided" (option a).

The word "speculation" refers to the forming of a theory or conjecture without firm evidence. A synonym for "speculation" is "conjecture" (option a).

Therefore, option a) "Interesting, Avoided, Conjecture" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: C

The word "arduous" means involving or requiring strenuous effort; difficult and tiring. A synonym for "arduous" is "difficult" (option c).

The word "incarceration" means imprisonment or confinement. A synonym for "incarceration" is "confinement" (option c).

The word "agony" refers to extreme physical or mental suffering. A synonym for "agony" is "anguish" (option c).

Therefore, option c) "Difficult, Confinement, Anguish" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

The word "deficient" means not having enough of a specified quality or ingredient. A synonym for "deficient" is "inadequate" (option d).

The word "dampened" means to diminish or reduce the activity, vigor, or intensity of something. A synonym for "dampened" is "decreased" (option d).

The word "stalling" means to stop or delay progress. A synonym for "stalling" is "delaying" (option d).

Therefore, option d) "Inadequate, Decreased, delaying" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

New Delhi and Dhaka have signed a comprehensive bunch of collaborations that includes pledging to begin negotiations on a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA), deciding to launch a medical e-visa facility for Bangladeshis and agreeing to send a technical team to discuss the Teesta River water-sharing, besides announcing the opening of an Assistant High Commission in Rangpur. Additional goodies in the bouquet include new train and bus services, export of 40 MW power to Bangladesh via the Indian grid, an inland container depot at Sirajganj and 350 training slots for Bangladeshi police officers. For India, four major imperatives have significantly driven the nation's increased strategic engagement with Bangladesh: Improving the country's economic standing, attending to the healthcare requirements of Bangladeshis, increasing India's presence in the region and attempting to counter China's increasing influence in Bangladesh. In office since 2008 and earlier heartily praised for leading her country's economic and social development, Bangladesh's Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina is now facing difficulties in post-pandemic recovery. Her plan to use the bilateral relationship to address these issues includes the outreach to New Delhi in a major way. It makes sense that New Delhi is responding to her advances with a bit more warmth than usual this time, in part because of Beijing's looming shadow in the background. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Bangladesh PM Sheikh Hasina deepened their partnership with a "futuristic vision" for transformative cooperation during the latter's two-day visit to India from June 21. India holds a special place in Bangladesh's history, particularly owing to the 1971 Liberation War wherein India played a key role. However, relations between the nations became tense during military rule in the mid-1970s, marred by anti-India sentiment. But the shared history has helped forge a strong bond, with Modi's tenure since 2014 giving a new fillip to bilateral ties. Earlier, a significant shift occurred in 1996, when Hasina took over as the Prime Minister for the first time; since then, bilateral relations have steadily improved. Since 2019, the two leaders have met on 10 occasions, ushering in an era of remarkable transformation and strengthening bonds. Prime Minister Hasina, who began her fourth consecutive term in January 2024, joined six other world leaders at Modi's swearing-in ceremony on June 9, 2024. However, challenges persist, such as border management, illegal migration, the National Register of Citizens, Rohingya and river water sharing, necessitating ongoing dialogue. Bangladesh has established an island for the persecuted Rohingyas and seeks India's help in persuading Myanmar to repatriate the displaced minorities. The Modi-Hasina partnership has the potential to further cement India-Bangladesh relations, navigating these challenges and leveraging their shared vision for mutual prosperity.

What has been a significant driver for India's increased engagement with Bangladesh?

a. Tourism development

b. Defence cooperation

c. Countering China's influence

d. Cultural exchanges

e. Sports collaborations

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

What major agreement did New Delhi and Dhaka pledge to begin negotiations on?

a. Free Trade Agreement (FTA)

b. Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA)

c. Strategic Defence Partnership (SDP)

d. Environmental Protection Agreement (EPA)

e. Cultural Exchange Program (CEP)

3. Questions

What persistent challenges are mentioned that require ongoing dialogue between India and Bangladesh?

a. Cybersecurity and space cooperation

b. Border management and river water sharing

c. Tourism and cultural exchange

d. Agricultural development and trade barriers

e. Environmental issues and wildlife conservation

4. Questions

Which of the following is NOT mentioned as part of the recent collaborations between New Delhi and Dhaka?

a. Launching a medical e-visa facility for Bangladeshis

b. Sending a technical team to discuss Teesta River water-sharing

c. Opening an Assistant High Commission in Rangpur

d. Establishing a joint cybersecurity task force

e. Exporting 40 MW power to Bangladesh via the Indian grid

5. Questions

Which word from the passage is closest in meaning to "imperatives"?

a. Options

b. Challenges

c. Goals

d. Necessities

e. Suggestions

6. Questions

What is the primary theme of the passage?

skybsup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. The cultural exchange programs between India and Bangladesh
b. The historical significance of India-Bangladesh relations
c. The economic and strategic collaborations between India and Bangladesh
d. The challenges faced by Bangladesh in post-pandemic recovery
e. The environmental initiatives taken by India and Bangladesh

7. Questions

What is the tone of the passage?

a. Critical
b. Optimistic
c. Neutral
d. Pessimistic
e. Humorous

8. Questions

In each of the following questions, a sentence has been divided into five parts out of which one part is erroneous. You are required to choose the option which is grammatically or contextually incorrect.

The government's first big misstep, (A)/ in its third term, (B)/ have been its response (C)/ to the student agitation over (D)/ the NEET medical entrance exam (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

9. Questions

Narendra Modi has took charge of the office of (A)/ Prime Minister at a time when India is (B)/ poised to become a $5-trillion economy, (C)/ propelled by growth rates of 7- 8% (D)/ in most years over the past two decades (E).

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D

e. E

10. Questions

Since the dawn of the computer revolution in the 1970s, (A)/ software developers have established themselves as (B)/ the architects of technological innovation, building digital solutions (C)/ that drive economic and human progress in (D)/ each and every country on the planet (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

11. Questions

Across the developed world, voters are angry (A)/ with an economic system that feels (B)/ rigged against the little guy and (C)/ in favour of giant corporate oligopolies, (D)/ and its billionaire owners (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

12. Questions

Political branding has become (A)/ a part of Indian elections and more than (B)/ the symbol of political parties (C)/ it is the individuals who has (D)/ now become the face of the party (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

13. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Column I	Column II
A). Effective investment management requires	D).maximizing after-tax returns on investments.
B). Interest coverage ratio measures a company's ability	E). to recover the initial investment in a project.
C). Financial benchmarking involves comparing a company's performance metrics	F).against industry standards to identify areas for improvement.

a. Only A-D
b. Only C-F
c. Both A-D and C-F
d. Both A-D and B-E
e. All A-D, B-F and C-F

14. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Tax planning strategies aim to minimize tax liabilities	D).offsetting potential losses with corresponding gains in other investments.
B). Debt management strategies include negotiating terms,	E). while minimizing risk through asset allocation and diversification strategies.
C). Capital allocation decisions prioritize investments that offer	F).the highest potential return relative to their risk.

a. Only A-E
b. Only C-F
c. Both A-E and C-F
d. Both A-E and B-D
e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Financial modeling simulates different scenarios to	D).safeguard assets, prevent fraud, and maintain accurate financial records.
B). Financial distress occurs when a company struggles to	E). meet its financial obligations, potentially leading to bankruptcy or insolvency.
C). Financial controls establish procedures and policies to	F).analyze the impact of decisions on financial outcomes and business performance.

a. Only A-D
b. Only B-E
c. Both B-D and C-E
d. Both A-D and C-F
e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

16. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Budget variance analysis compares actual financial performance against	D).a company's financial health and develops strategies to mitigate them.
B). Financial risk assessment identifies potential threats to	E). targets and benchmarks to assess profitability and efficiency.
C). Financial leverage ratios assess the degree to	F).which a company uses borrowed funds to finance its operations and growth.

a. Only A-E
b. Only C-F
c. Both A-E and B-D
d. Both B-D and C-F
e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

17. Questions

sky53uc@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). Working capital turnover ratio measures how efficiently	D).current assets and liabilities to ensure sufficient liquidity for operational needs.
B). Working capital management strategies optimize the balance between	E). debt and equity financing, impacting the cost of capital and financial risk.
C). Capital structure decisions affect the balance between	F).a company adheres to regulatory requirements and ethical standards in its financial practices and reporting.

a. Only A-F

b. Only A-F and B-D

c. Both B-D and C-E

d. Both A-F and C-E

e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

18. Questions

In each of the following questions one word is highlighted in bold, and using that highlighted word four sentences are framed, in four sentences three will be synonyms for the highlighted word and one is an antonym for the word. You are required to find an antonym for the highlighted word.

DITHER

a). The political agitation in the country reached a peak before the election, with protests and rallies occurring daily.

b). As she walked along the peaceful beach at sunrise, she felt a deep sense of serenity wash over her.

c). Upon hearing the fire alarm, the crowd began to panic and rushed toward the exits.

d). She was flustered by the unexpected question during the interview.

e). None of the above

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

19. Questions

HIATUS

a). After a busy day of meetings, she enjoyed a quiet interlude with a cup of tea before diving back into work.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). Due to a lapse in judgment, he missed the deadline for submitting the project.

c). His skills showed a steady progression over the years, from amateur to professional level.

d). The discontinuity in the data suggested errors in measurement or sampling.

e). None of the above

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

20. Questions

EXACERBATE

a). She tried to assuage his fears by reassuring him that everything would be fine.

b). The constant noise from the construction site began to annoy the residents living nearby.

c). The article's controversial statements were intended to provoke discussion among readers.

d). His constant complaining only served to aggravate his coworkers, worsening the office atmosphere.

e). None of the above

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

21. Questions

IMPONDERABLE

a). The tension in the room was almost impalpable as everyone waited for the announcement.

b). The ancient forest was shrouded in mystical mist, evoking a sense of wonder and enchantment.

c). The complexity of the situation was fathomable after thorough analysis and discussion.

d). Her enigmatic smile left everyone wondering about her true feelings.

e). None of the above

a. a

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

22. Questions

THWART

a). Traffic congestion can hinder economic growth in urban areas by delaying the transportation of goods and increasing costs.

b). Heavy traffic on the highway could impede our progress, causing delays in reaching our destination.

c). The team decided to hasten the development of the new software to meet the upcoming deadline.

d). The city implemented new policies to curb air pollution, including stricter emissions standards for vehicles.

e). None of the above

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Answer is: c) One of the four major imperatives for India's engagement with Bangladesh is countering China's increasing influence.

In the passage, several key reasons are outlined for India's increased strategic engagement with Bangladesh. Among these, countering China's influence is highlighted as one of the four major imperatives driving India's actions.

The passage explicitly states: "For India, four major imperatives have significantly driven the nation's increased strategic engagement with Bangladesh: Improving the country's economic standing, attending to the healthcare requirements of Bangladeshis, increasing India's presence in the region and attempting to counter China's increasing influence in Bangladesh."

From this, it is clear that India's strategic motives include a direct response to China's growing presence and influence in the region. By fostering closer ties with Bangladesh, India aims to strengthen its own

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

regional influence and counterbalance the activities and investments that China is making in Bangladesh.

Other Options: a), b), d), and e) These aspects are not emphasized as significant drivers in the passage.

a). Tourism development: Although tourism can be a factor in bilateral relations, it is not mentioned as a significant driver for the increased engagement in the passage.

b). Defence cooperation: Defence cooperation is important in international relations, but the passage does not mention it as one of the key reasons for India's strategic engagement with Bangladesh.

d). Cultural exchanges: Cultural exchanges can enhance mutual understanding and strengthen relationships between countries, but they are not highlighted in the passage as a major reason for the current strategic engagement.

e). Sports collaborations: Sports collaborations are a form of soft diplomacy and can improve bilateral relations, but the passage does not indicate that this is a significant driver for India's increased engagement with Bangladesh.

Thus, while other options like tourism, defence, culture, and sports are generally beneficial for international relations, the specific driver mentioned in the context of this passage is the strategic imperative to counter China's growing influence in Bangladesh.

2. Questions

Answer: B

The Correct Answer is: b) Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA) is mentioned specifically as a major agreement both nations have pledged to negotiate. The passage clearly states that New Delhi and Dhaka have pledged to begin negotiations on a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA). This is highlighted in the sentence: "New Delhi and Dhaka have signed a comprehensive bunch of collaborations that includes pledging to begin negotiations on a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA)..."

This information is explicit and leaves no ambiguity about the major agreement both countries have agreed to negotiate.

a). Free Trade Agreement (FTA): While an FTA is a common type of economic agreement between countries, the passage specifically mentions CEPA, not an FTA.

c). Strategic Defence Partnership (SDP): The passage does not mention any defense-related agreements. The focus is on economic and other types of collaborations.

d). Environmental Protection Agreement (EPA): Environmental issues are important but are not the focus of the negotiations mentioned in the passage.

e). Cultural Exchange Program (CEP): Cultural exchange programs foster mutual understanding and cultural ties, but the passage does not indicate that this is the agreement being negotiated.

The passage specifically emphasizes the initiation of negotiations on the CEPA, making it the correct answer. The other options, while relevant to international relations, are not supported by the text in this context.

3. Questions

Answer: B

The Correct Answer is: b) The passage highlights border management, illegal migration, the National Register of Citizens, Rohingya issues, and river water sharing as persistent challenges. The passage outlines several persistent challenges that necessitate ongoing dialogue between India and Bangladesh. These challenges are specifically mentioned as: "However, challenges persist, such as border management, illegal migration, the National Register of Citizens, Rohingya and river water sharing, necessitating ongoing dialogue."

Other Options: a), c), d), and e) These areas, while important, are not specified as the persistent challenges needing dialogue according to the passage.

a). Cybersecurity and space cooperation: These are important areas of cooperation in modern international relations but are not mentioned as the persistent challenges in the passage.

c). Tourism and cultural exchange: While these can strengthen bilateral ties, they are not listed as the specific challenges requiring ongoing dialogue in the passage.

d). Agricultural development and trade barriers: These could be relevant issues but are not mentioned in the context of persistent challenges between India and Bangladesh in the passage.

e). Environmental issues and wildlife conservation: Important as they are, these issues are not specified as the persistent challenges needing dialogue in the passage.

The passage explicitly states that border management and river water sharing are among the ongoing challenges that need continuous dialogue. This makes option b) the correct answer. Other options, though important in their own right, are not supported by the passage as the primary challenges requiring ongoing dialogue between India and Bangladesh.

4. Questions

Answer: D

The Correct Answer is: d) Establishing a joint cybersecurity task force

The passage outlines several specific collaborations between New Delhi and Dhaka. These include:

Pledging to begin negotiations on a Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement (CEPA)

Launching a medical e-visa facility for Bangladeshis

Sending a technical team to discuss Teesta River water-sharing

Opening an Assistant High Commission in Rangpur

Exporting 40 MW power to Bangladesh via the Indian grid

The correct answer, d) Establishing a joint cybersecurity task force, is not mentioned in the passage as part of the recent collaborations between the two countries.

a). Launching a medical e-visa facility for Bangladeshis: This is explicitly mentioned in the passage as a new initiative.

b). Sending a technical team to discuss Teesta River water-sharing: This is also highlighted as part of the collaborations.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

c). Opening an Assistant High Commission in Rangpur: This is stated as one of the new diplomatic developments.

e). Exporting 40 MW power to Bangladesh via the Indian grid: This is listed among the collaborative efforts between India and Bangladesh.

Option d) stands out as the correct choice because it is not included in the list of collaborations detailed in the passage.

5. Questions

Answer: D

The Correct Answer is: d) Necessities

In the context of the passage, the word "imperatives" is used to describe the key drivers or essential factors behind India's increased strategic engagement with Bangladesh. The sentence from the passage reads: "For India, four major imperatives have significantly driven the nation's increased strategic engagement with Bangladesh..."

The term "imperatives" here implies things that are necessary or crucial.

a). Options: This implies choices or alternatives, which do not capture the urgency or necessity implied by "imperatives."

b). Challenges: While challenges are important, they represent obstacles rather than essential drivers or necessities.

c). Goals: Goals are targets or objectives, which can be important but do not necessarily convey the sense of urgency or necessity implied by "imperatives."

e). Suggestions: Suggestions are recommendations, which are not essential or necessary in the way "imperatives" are.

Therefore, the word "necessities" (d) is closest in meaning to "imperatives" as it captures the sense of essentiality and urgency that the term "imperatives" conveys in the passage.

6. Questions

Answer: C

Correct Answer is: c) The economic and strategic collaborations between India and Bangladesh

The passage primarily focuses on the various recent collaborations and agreements between India and Bangladesh. It highlights several key areas of cooperation such as economic agreements (CEPA), medical visas, technical discussions on river water-sharing, and the establishment of an Assistant High Commission. Additionally, it discusses the strategic imperatives behind India's increased engagement with Bangladesh, including economic improvement, healthcare, regional presence, and countering China's influence. The theme is centered around the bilateral efforts to strengthen economic and strategic ties.

a). The cultural exchange programs between India and Bangladesh: Cultural exchanges are not mentioned in the passage as a focus area.

b). The historical significance of India-Bangladesh relations: While the passage does touch on historical aspects, the primary focus is on current and future collaborations.

d). The challenges faced by Bangladesh in post-pandemic recovery: This is mentioned but is not the main theme of the passage.

e). The environmental initiatives taken by India and Bangladesh: Environmental initiatives are not discussed in the passage.

Therefore, the correct answer is c) The economic and strategic collaborations between India and Bangladesh, as it encapsulates the main focus of the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: B

Correct Answer is: b) Optimistic

The tone of the passage can be described as optimistic. It highlights the positive steps being taken by New Delhi and Dhaka to strengthen their bilateral relations through various collaborations and agreements. The passage emphasizes the strategic importance of these partnerships and the mutual benefits they aim to achieve, indicating a hopeful and forward-looking perspective.

a). Critical: The passage does not criticize any actions or decisions. Instead, it focuses on the positive developments and future potential of India-Bangladesh relations.

c). Neutral: The passage is more than just a factual recounting of events; it has an underlying positive tone about the collaborations and their potential impact.

d). Pessimistic: There is no sense of negativity or doubt about the future of the bilateral relations in the passage. The focus is on constructive developments.

e). Humorous: The passage is serious and does not contain any elements of humor.

Therefore, the correct answer is b) Optimistic, as the passage conveys a hopeful and positive outlook on the future of India-Bangladesh collaborations.

8. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part (C), where "have" is corrected to "has" to ensure subject-verb agreement. "Government" is a singular noun, so the verb "has" (singular form) should be used instead of "have" (plural form). This correction aligns the verb with its subject and makes the sentence grammatically correct.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The government's first big misstep, in its third term, has been its response to the student agitation over the NEET medical entrance exam."

9. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

The error is in part (A), where "took" should be "taken." The correct form is "taken" because it is the past participle form of the verb "take," which is used here to form the present perfect tense ("has taken"). This tense is appropriate to indicate an action that started in the past and has relevance to the present moment.

So, the corrected sentence is: "Narendra Modi has taken charge of the office of Prime Minister at a time when India is poised to become a $5-trillion economy, propelled by growth rates of 7- 8% in most years over the past two decades.”

10. Questions

Answer: E

The error is in part (E), where the phrase "each and every country on the planet" can be simplified to "every country on the planet" for smoother flow and clarity. Both phrases convey a similar meaning, but "every country on the planet" is more concise and idiomatic. Therefore, the corrected sentence reads more fluently while retaining its intended meaning.

So, the corrected sentence is: “Since the dawn of the computer revolution in the 1970s, software developers have established themselves as the architects of technological innovation, building digital solutions that drive economic and human progress in every country on the planet.”

11. Questions

Answer: E

The error in the sentence is in part (E), where "its" is corrected to "their" to maintain proper agreement with the plural subject "billionaire owners." "Their" is the possessive pronoun that correctly indicates ownership by plural noun "billionaire owners." This change ensures clarity and grammatical correctness in the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: “Across the developed world, voters are angry with an economic system that feels rigged against the little guy and in favour of giant corporate oligopolies, and their billionaire owners.”

12. Questions

Answer: D

The error is in part (D), where "has" is corrected to "have" to ensure subject-verb agreement. "Individuals" is a plural noun, so it requires a plural verb form "have" instead of "has" which is singular. The corrected sentence now properly reflects subject-verb agreement and maintains clarity in its meaning.

So, the corrected sentence is: “Political branding has become a part of Indian elections and more than the symbol of political parties it is the individuals who have now become the face of the party.”

13. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these two statements C-F: "Financial benchmarking involves comparing a company's performance metrics against industry standards to identify areas for improvement." This sentence provides a clear definition of financial benchmarking. The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

14. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these two statements C-F: "Capital allocation decisions prioritize investments that offer the highest potential return relative to their risk." This sentence explains that capital allocation decisions are based on the potential return relative to risk. The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

15. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-F: "Financial modeling simulates different scenarios to analyze the impact of decisions on financial outcomes and business performance." This sentence explains how financial modeling is used to forecast and analyze various business decisions.

When combining these two statements B-E: "Financial distress occurs when a company struggles to meet its financial obligations, potentially leading to bankruptcy or insolvency." This sentence clarifies the situation that arises when a company faces financial difficulties and is unable to fulfill its financial commitments.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Financial controls establish procedures and policies to safeguard assets, prevent fraud, and maintain accurate financial records." This sentence explains the role of financial controls in ensuring the integrity and security of financial operations within an organization. The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

16. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these two statements B-D: "Financial risk assessment identifies potential threats to a company's financial health and develops strategies to mitigate them." This sentence provides a clear explanation of what financial risk assessment involves.

When combining these two statements C-F: "Financial leverage ratios assess the degree to which a company uses borrowed funds to finance its operations and growth." This sentence provides a clear explanation of what financial leverage ratios measure. The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

17. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements B-D: "Working capital management strategies optimize the balance between current assets and liabilities to ensure sufficient liquidity for operational needs." This sentence explains the purpose of working capital management strategies.

When combining these two statements C-E: "Capital structure decisions affect the balance between debt and equity financing, impacting the cost of capital and financial risk." This sentence explains the impact of capital structure decisions. The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

18. Questions

Answer: B

The antonym for " dither " is reflected in option b). "Dither" means to be indecisive or hesitant. The opposite, or antonym, of dither would involve being calm, composed, or serene. Option b) describes someone feeling serene, which contrasts with the idea of dithering. The other options (a, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " dither " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

19. Questions

Answer: C

The antonym for " hiatus " is reflected in option c). "Hiatus" refers to a pause or gap in something, often referring to a break in continuity. The opposite, or antonym, of hiatus would involve continuity, progression, or steady development. Option c) describes skills progressing steadily over time, which contrasts with the idea of a hiatus or discontinuity. The other options (a, b and d) do not provide an antonym for " hiatus " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

20. Questions

Answer: A

The antonym for " exacerbate " is reflected in option a). "Exacerbate" means to make a problem, situation, or feeling worse. The opposite, or antonym, of exacerbate would involve calming, soothing, or alleviating. Option a) describes an attempt to reassure and calm someone's fears, which contrasts with the idea of exacerbating. The other options (b, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " exacerbate " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

21. Questions

Answer: C

The antonym for " imponderable " is reflected in option c). "Imponderable" refers to something that is difficult or impossible to assess, evaluate, or understand. The opposite, or antonym, of imponderable would involve something that is understandable, comprehensible, or fathomable. Option c) describes the situation becoming understandable after analysis and discussion, which contrasts with the idea of being imponderable. The other options (a, b and d) do not provide an antonym for " imponderable " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

22. Questions

Answer: C

The antonym for " thwart " is reflected in option c). "Thwart" means to prevent or hinder someone from accomplishing their goals. The opposite, or antonym, of thwart would involve facilitating, enabling, or expediting progress. Option c) describes the team expediting the development to meet a deadline, which contrasts with the notion of thwarting or hindering progress. The other options (a, b and d) do not provide an antonym for " thwart " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

Good governance is not only about keeping the routine going but also about anticipating obstacles and smoking out fault lines, preventing the loss of human life, at the very least. Over the last couple of days in Kallakurichi, in north Tamil Nadu, 39 people have died after consuming hooch laced with methanol. With others admitted in hospital in a critical condition, the toll might go up even further, rendering this one of the most ___ (1) ___ hooch tragedies in recent times. It is not as if the signs were not obvious, particularly after the hooch tragedy which claimed several lives in 2023 in Marakkanam and Madhuranthakam, also in north Tamil Nadu, where it was clear that industrial methanol was being diverted to the illicit brewing cottage industry. The relatives of those dead have spoken about the easy availability of cheap hooch in the region regularly, and that the cost of the local moonshine is much lower than the price of alcohol in the Tamil Nadu State Marketing Corporation Limited (TASMAC) shops. With irregular incomes as daily wage, fuelled by an aggressive price rise in liquor and ___ (2) ___ at the TASMAC shops, regular drinkers gravitated towards the local brew. This trend is something that the Prohibition Enforcement Wing of the Tamil Nadu police is mandated to pick up, and act on. The State government has now taken action against district officials and instituted a one-man committee to inquire into the tragedy. The Chief Minister has also announced a ____(3)____ of Rs.10 lakh each for the families of those who died, and a sum of Rs.50,000 for those in hospital. The CB-CID has commenced investigation into the case. Whatever is being done post-facto, is ultimately too little, too late. Methanol, also a form of alcohol, is added to moonshine to increase its strength. It is a ____(4)____poison, and even in very small quantities, can cause liver failure, blindness, and death. While various governments have shifted the State's position on allowing or banning the brewing of arrack, one measure that seemed to have controlled deaths due to hooch after its introduction was selling low-cost liquor through TASMAC in 2002. That year, methanol was brought under the ambit of the Tamil Nadu Prohibition Act, and rules were amended to control methanol supply. However, in the light of Kallakurichi, it seems methanol flows freely. There can be no ____(5)____about bringing the culprits to book. The government needs to shut down the small-scale industry of illicit brewing in the State, and should also expressly work towards increasing public health awareness on the inherent dangers of drinking hooch.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. withering
b. beguiling
c. devastating
d. annihilating
e. staggering

2. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. beguiling

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. extorting

c. diddling

d. fleecing

e. pruning

3. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. forfeiture

b. deprivation

c. perquisite

d. solatium

e. quittance

4. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

a. impotent

b. potent

c. vivacious

d. cogent

e. sturdy

5. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. complacence

b. apathy

c. indifference

d. diffidence

e. inhibition

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

The recently held Lok Sabha elections were an _____ testimony to the _____ wisdom of the Indian electorate.

a. eloquent, unwavering
b. silent, fleeting
c. ambiguous, questionable
d. subdued, temporary
e. fervent, fluctuating

7. Questions

Policymakers must remain _____ in their commitment to inflation targets, ensuring that the benefits of economic growth are not _____ by the persistent challenge of high food prices.

a. indecisive, boosted
b. cautious, maintained
c. unwavering, amplified
d. committed, safeguarded
e. steadfast, eroded

8. Questions

As summer continues in the Northern Hemisphere, we are once again reminded of the _____ and _____ power of extreme heat.

a. mild, rejuvenating
b. relentless, devastating
c. periodic, beneficial
d. occasional, invigorating
e. gentle, soothing

9. Questions

The _____ of high economic growth without corresponding employment gains is a _____ that India must urgently address.

a. benefit, opportunity
b. trend, solution
c. conundrum, paradox
d. milestone, breakthrough
e. phenomenon, benefit

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

The humanitarian crisis unfolding in Sudan's Darfur region is a tragic _____ to the _____ consequences of war.

a. testament, devastating

b. exception, minor

c. example, positive

d. reminder, hopeful

e. anecdote, uplifting

11. Questions

In the following questions, five sentences are given, labelled A, B, C, D and E, among these, four sentences are in logical order and form a coherent paragraph/passage. From the given options, choose the option that does not fit into the theme of the passage.

A). Certain conclusions have become unavoidable with the cancellation of the National Eligibility Test by the Union education ministry.

B). These are not just about corruption, although that is the immediate and shameful cause of the paper leak that led to the cancellation.

C). But what needs to be examined first is the political administration's attitude to education as well as the involuntary support this receives from society.

D). When a prime minister lectures students on addressing examination stress in a publicized annual event, it sits oddly with the casual cancellation of a test by which around 900,000 students were to determine their futures.

E). The announcement came at a significant time when another exam conducted by the same agency has been surrounded by controversies.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

A). On June 21, 2024, International Yoga Day gave new meaning to the people of Kashmir as the Prime Minister celebrated it with them.

B). Prime Minister Narendra Modi marked a momentous occasion by celebrating International Yoga Day in the scenic valley of Kashmir.

C). It invites individuals from all areas of life to investigate this age-old practice and learn about its transforming potential.

D). This event was not only significant as a global celebration of yoga but also as a powerful symbol of peace, unity and cultural heritage in a region that has seen its share of strife and conflict.

E). Kashmir, often referred to as 'Paradise on Earth' due to its breathtaking landscapes and rich cultural tapestry, was chosen by PM Modi as the venue for this year's International Yoga Day celebration.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

13. Questions

A). India's solar energy sector is shining brighter than ever, emerging as a goldmine for investors and entrepreneurs.

B). The market, valued at $38 billion in 2021, is set to grow exponentially, reaching $238 billion by 2032, driven by an impressive 40 per cent compound annual growth rate (CAGR).

C). India has a projected target of achieving 500 GW of installed capacity from non-fossil fuel sources by 2030.

D). The surge in global demand for renewable energy has placed solar power at the centre stage, particularly in India.

E). With supportive Government policies, technological advancements and an increasing shift towards sustainability, the solar energy sector is witnessing unprecedented growth.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

14. Questions

In the given question, sentences are given in jumbled form. Rearrange them in proper order and answer the questions that follow.

Rearrange the following sentences to form a coherent paragraph:

A). Farmers have cross-bred fruits, grains or vegetables to create tastier or higher-yielding hybrids for millennia.

B). But it wasn't until the 1970s that scientists first employed bioengineering to transfer genes from one organism to another to produce “transgenic” crops.

C). A new “gene revolution” is being heralded as a cure-all for a growing global appetite as food systems are decimated by extreme weather.

D). When these genetically modified organisms (GMOs) first hit shelves in the 1990s, they were dubbed Frankenstein foods.

E). Resistance to GMO crops was based on a continuing public fear that they’re harmful to human health, even if long-term studies said eating them was as safe as conventional varieties.

Which of the following is the penultimate sentence after rearrangement?

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

15. Questions

Which of the following is the second sentence after rearrangement?

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

16. Questions

Which of the following is the hind most statement after rearrangement?

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

Which of the following is the introductory statement after rearrangement?

a. A
b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

18. Questions

Which of the following should form a consecutive pair after re-arrangement?

a. A-D

b. B-D

c. B-E

d. A-E

e. B-C

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (1) is "devastating."

"Devastating" means causing severe shock, distress, or damage. In the context of the sentence, it effectively describes the hooch tragedy in Kallakurichi as having caused severe distress and damage due to the significant loss of life.

a). "Withering" means causing to become dry or shriveled. While it can imply a negative impact, it doesn't convey the severity and scale of the tragedy as strongly as "devastating."

b). "Beguiling" means charming or enchanting in a deceptive way. This word doesn't fit the context of describing a tragic event like the hooch deaths.

d). "Annihilating" means completely destroying or obliterating. While it denotes a severe impact, it's more commonly used in contexts of complete destruction rather than loss of life due to poisoning.

e). "Staggering" means astonishing or deeply shocking. While it could be suitable to describe the scale of the tragedy, "devastating" better encapsulates the overall impact, including the emotional and social consequences.

Therefore, "devastating" is the most appropriate word choice for describing the severity and impact of the hooch tragedy in Kallakurichi.

2. Questions

Answer: D

The word "fleecing" most appropriately fits the blank labelled (2) in the context of the passage.

"Fleecing" means to deceive or cheat someone, typically out of money or belongings. In the passage, it describes a situation where irregular incomes due to daily wage labour, combined with rising prices of alcohol at TASMAC shops, lead regular drinkers to opt for cheaper local moonshine (hooch). This choice is influenced by the perception that local moonshine is much more affordable compared to licensed liquor sold at TASMAC shops.

a). Beguiling: To charm or enchant someone in a deceptive way. While this word can describe a similar concept of deception, "fleecing" more directly relates to financial deception or exploitation.

b). Extorting: To obtain something, typically money, through force or threats. This word suggests coercion rather than the economic rationale described in the passage.

c). Diddling: To cheat or swindle someone out of something, often money. Similar to "fleecing," but "fleecing" is more commonly used and directly applicable in the context of economic exploitation.

e). Pruning: To trim or cut back something, especially in the context of plants or trees. This word does not fit the context of financial exploitation or economic choices related to purchasing alcohol.

Therefore, "fleecing" (option d) is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of exploiting or cheating individuals, in this case, through higher prices of licensed liquor, which drives them towards cheaper and potentially dangerous alternatives like local moonshine.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (3) is "solatium."

Solatium refers to a compensation or financial assistance given to the victims or their families as an expression of sympathy or consolation. In this context, the Chief Minister announced a compensation of Rs.10 lakh each for the families of those who died and Rs.50,000 for those in the hospital. This compensation is intended to provide some relief or comfort to the affected families.

a). Forfeiture refers to the loss of something as a penalty for wrongdoing or non-compliance. It does not fit the context of providing financial assistance to the families.

b). Deprivation refers to the state of lacking or being denied something essential. It typically does not involve compensation but rather the absence of something.

c). Perquisite refers to a benefit or privilege that comes with a particular job or position. It does not fit the context of compensation for victims of a tragedy.

e). Quittance refers to a release or discharge from a debt or obligation. It does not fit the context of compensation for victims or their families.

Therefore, "solatium" is the word that best fits the context of providing financial compensation to the families of the deceased and those hospitalized due to the hooch tragedy in Kallakurichi.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (4) is "potent."

"Methanol, also a form of alcohol, is added to moonshine to increase its strength. It is a potent poison..."

The word "potent" means having great power, influence, or effect. In the context of the sentence, it correctly describes methanol as a substance that is highly toxic and dangerous even in small quantities.

a). "Impotent" means lacking power or effectiveness. This is the opposite meaning of what is intended in the sentence.

c). "Vivacious" means lively or animated in character. This word does not fit the context of describing methanol as a poison.

d). "Cogent" means convincing or compelling. While it describes the quality of an argument or reasoning, it does not relate to the toxicity of methanol.

e). "Sturdy" means strong and robust. It does not describe methanol's toxicity.

Therefore, "potent" is the correct choice as it accurately conveys the severe toxicity and dangerous nature of methanol when consumed.

5. Questions

Answer: A

The word that most appropriately fits the blank labelled (5) is "complacence."

"Complacence" refers to a feeling of smug or uncritical satisfaction with oneself or one's achievements. In this context, it implies that there should be no tolerance or satisfaction with the current situation regarding the tragedy caused by consuming illicit hooch.

The sentence suggests that there should be no room for complacency or satisfaction in the efforts to bring the culprits responsible for the hooch tragedy to justice.

The government's action should be focused on shutting down the illicit brewing industry and increasing public health awareness, rather than being complacent or indifferent towards these issues.

b). "Apathy" refers to a lack of interest, enthusiasm, or concern. While related to indifference, it doesn't specifically convey the sense of being satisfied with the current situation.

c). "Indifference" means lack of interest, concern, or sympathy. It is similar to apathy but lacks the connotation of satisfaction with the status quo.

d). "Diffidence" refers to shyness or modesty, particularly in one's own abilities or worth. It does not fit in the context of taking strong action against the culprits.

e). "Inhibition" refers to a feeling that makes one self-conscious and unable to act in a relaxed and natural way. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which calls for decisive action.

Therefore, "complacence" is the word that best completes the sentence and aligns with the overall tone and meaning of the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: A

Correct Option: a) eloquent, unwavering

"Eloquent" means fluent or persuasive in speaking or writing, fitting well to describe a testimony that is clear and powerful.

"Unwavering" means steady or resolute, aptly describing the consistent and reliable wisdom of the electorate.

b). silent, fleeting: "Silent" means not making or accompanied by any sound, which doesn't fit the context of a testimony.

"Fleeting" means lasting for a very short time, which contradicts the idea of consistent wisdom.

c). ambiguous, questionable: "Ambiguous" means open to more than one interpretation, which doesn't fit the context of a clear testimony.

"Questionable" means doubtful or uncertain, which is the opposite of unwavering wisdom.

d). subdued, temporary: "Subdued" means quiet and rather reflective or depressed, which doesn't fit the context of a testimony.

"Temporary" means lasting for a limited period, which contradicts the idea of unwavering wisdom.

e). fervent, fluctuating: "Fervent" means having or displaying a passionate intensity, which doesn't fit the context of a testimony.

"Fluctuating" means rising and falling irregularly in number or amount, which is the opposite of unwavering wisdom.

In summary, option (a) "eloquent, unwavering" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the clear and powerful testimony to the consistent and reliable wisdom of the Indian electorate.

7. Questions

Answer: E

Correct Option: e) steadfast, eroded

"Steadfast" means resolutely or dutifully firm and unwavering, fitting well to describe the policymakers' commitment.

"Eroded" means gradually worn away or diminished, aptly describing how high food prices can reduce the benefits of economic growth.

a). indecisive, boosted: "Indecisive" means not able to make decisions quickly and effectively, which is the opposite of what is needed.

"Boosted" means increased, which contradicts the idea of something being diminished by high food prices.

b). cautious, maintained: "Cautious" means careful to avoid potential problems, which doesn't convey the strong commitment needed.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"Maintained" means kept at the same level, which doesn't fit the context of something being diminished by high food prices.

c). unwavering, amplified: "Unwavering" is similar to "steadfast" and could fit, but "amplified" means increased, which contradicts the idea of something being diminished.

d). committed, safeguarded: "Committed" fits the context of dedication, but "safeguarded" means protected, which doesn't fit the idea of benefits being reduced by high food prices.

In summary, option (e) "steadfast, eroded" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the need for firm commitment to inflation targets to ensure that economic growth benefits are not diminished by high food prices.

8. Questions

Answer: B

Correct Option: b) relentless, devastating

"Relentless" means oppressively constant or incessant, fitting well to describe the unyielding nature of extreme heat.

"Devastating" means highly destructive or damaging, aptly describing the severe impact of extreme heat.

a). mild, rejuvenating: "Mild" means not severe, which contradicts the idea of extreme heat.

"Rejuvenating" means making someone feel or look better, younger, or more vital, which is the opposite of "devastating."

c). periodic, beneficial: "Periodic" means occurring at intervals, which doesn't convey the constant nature of extreme heat.

"Beneficial" means producing good effects, which contradicts the destructive nature of extreme heat.

d). occasional, invigorating: "Occasional" means occurring infrequently, which doesn't fit the context of persistent extreme heat.

"Invigorating" means making one feel strong, healthy, and full of energy, which contradicts "devastating."

e). gentle, soothing: "Gentle" means mild in action or effect, which is the opposite of "relentless."

"Soothing" means having a calming effect, which contradicts "devastating."

In summary, option (b) "relentless, devastating" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the persistent and destructive power of extreme heat during summer.

9. Questions

Answer: C

Correct Option: c) conundrum, paradox

"Conundrum" accurately captures the complex problem of high economic growth without employment gains.

"Paradox" effectively describes the contradictory situation that this problem presents.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). benefit, opportunity: "Benefit" means an advantage or profit gained from something, which doesn't convey the problematic aspect of the situation.

"Opportunity" means a set of circumstances that makes it possible to do something, which doesn't fit the context of an urgent problem.

b). trend, solution: "Trend" means a general direction in which something is developing or changing, which doesn't capture the problematic nature.

"Solution" means a means of solving a problem, which is not suitable as the sentence describes an issue that needs addressing.

c). conundrum, paradox: "Conundrum" means a confusing and difficult problem or question, fitting well to describe the issue of economic growth without employment gains.

"Paradox" means a seemingly absurd or self-contradictory statement or proposition that may prove to be true, aptly describing the situation where growth does not lead to job creation.

d). milestone, breakthrough: "Milestone" means a significant stage or event in the development of something, which implies a positive achievement.

"Breakthrough" means a sudden, dramatic, and important discovery or development, which doesn't fit the context of a problem to be addressed.

e). phenomenon, benefit: "Phenomenon" means a fact or situation that is observed to exist or happen, especially one whose cause or explanation is in question, which is too neutral.

"Benefit" means an advantage or profit gained from something, which doesn't fit the context of an issue needing urgent attention.

In summary, option (c) "conundrum, paradox" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence.

10. Questions

Answer: A

Correct Option: a) testament, devastating

"Testament" means something that serves as a sign or evidence of a specified fact, event, or quality, fitting well to describe the humanitarian crisis as evidence of war's impact.

"Devastating" means highly destructive or damaging, aptly describing the severe consequences of war.

b). exception, minor: "Exception" means something that is not included in a general statement or does not follow a rule, which doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

"Minor" means lesser in importance or seriousness, which contradicts the idea of a humanitarian crisis being severe.

c). example, positive: "Example" could fit, but it is too neutral and doesn't convey the tragic aspect.

"Positive" means good or beneficial, which is the opposite of what is intended by describing the consequences of war.

d). reminder, hopeful: "Reminder" means something that causes someone to remember something, which is too neutral and doesn't convey the tragic aspect.

"Hopeful" means feeling or inspiring optimism about a future event, which contradicts the idea of devastating consequences.

e). anecdote, uplifting: "Anecdote" means a short and amusing or interesting story about a real incident or person, which doesn't fit the context of a serious crisis.

"Uplifting" means morally or spiritually elevating, which contradicts the idea of devastating consequences.

In summary, option (a) "testament, devastating" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the tragic and severe nature of the humanitarian crisis as evidence of the consequences of war.

11. Questions

Answer: D

The odd one out is Sentence E: "The announcement came at a significant time when another exam conducted by the same agency has been surrounded by controversies."

Sentences A, B, C, and D all discuss the cancellation of the National Eligibility Test (NET) and its implications, focusing on issues of corruption, political attitudes towards education, and the impact on students. Sentence E, while still related to exams and controversies, shifts the focus to a different exam conducted by the same agency, introducing a new context rather than elaborating on the NET cancellation and its direct consequences. This makes sentence E the odd one out.

12. Questions

Answer: B

The odd one out is Sentence C: "It invites individuals from all areas of life to investigate this age-old practice and learn about its transforming potential."

Sentences A, B, D, and E all specifically discuss the celebration of International Yoga Day in Kashmir by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, highlighting the event's significance, the location, and its symbolic value for the region. Sentence C, on the other hand, speaks generally about the practice of yoga and its benefits, without mentioning the specific event in Kashmir or the Prime Minister's involvement. This makes sentence C the odd one out.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The odd one out is Sentence C: "India has a projected target of achieving 500 GW of installed capacity from non-fossil fuel sources by 2030."

Sentences A, B, D, and E all focus specifically on the solar energy sector in India, discussing its growth, market value, demand, and contributing factors. Sentence C, while related to renewable energy, speaks more broadly about India's target for non-fossil fuel sources rather than focusing solely on the solar energy sector. This makes sentence C the odd one out.

14. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph discusses the historical development of genetically modified organisms (GMOs) in agriculture, highlighting the evolution from traditional cross-breeding to modern genetic engineering, and the public perception and resistance to GMOs.

The passage begins with sentence C, introducing the current "gene revolution" in agriculture aimed at addressing global food challenges exacerbated by extreme weather. Sentence A follows, establishing the longstanding practice of farmers creating hybrid crops through cross-breeding. Sentence B then introduces the shift in agricultural practices in the 1970s with the advent of bioengineering for creating transgenic crops. Sentence D provides insight into the initial public perception of GMOs when they were first introduced. Sentence E concludes by addressing ongoing public concerns about the safety of GMOs despite scientific consensus on their safety. Together, these sentences provide a comprehensive overview of the evolution of agricultural practices and the public perception of GMOs over time.

So, the correct sequence is: C – A – B – D – E.

The penultimate sentence in a paragraph is the one that appears just before the last sentence and serves as a bridge or transition to the final point. In this sequence, Sentence D, "When these genetically modified organisms (GMOs) first hit shelves in the 1990s, they were dubbed Frankenstein foods." is the penultimate sentence.

15. Questions

Answer: A

The paragraph discusses the historical development of genetically modified organisms (GMOs) in agriculture, highlighting the evolution from traditional cross-breeding to modern genetic engineering, and the public perception and resistance to GMOs.

The passage begins with sentence C, introducing the current "gene revolution" in agriculture aimed at addressing global food challenges exacerbated by extreme weather. Sentence A follows, establishing the longstanding practice of farmers creating hybrid crops through cross-breeding. Sentence B then introduces the shift in agricultural practices in the 1970s with the advent of bioengineering for creating transgenic crops. Sentence D provides insight into the initial public perception of GMOs when they were first introduced. Sentence E concludes by addressing ongoing public concerns about the safety of GMOs despite scientific consensus on their safety. Together, these sentences provide a comprehensive overview of the evolution of agricultural practices and the public perception of GMOs over time.

So, the correct sequence is: C – A – B – D – E.

Sentence A, " Farmers have cross-bred fruits, grains or vegetables to create tastier or higher-yielding hybrids for millennia." is the second sentence.

16. Questions

Answer: E

The paragraph discusses the historical development of genetically modified organisms (GMOs) in agriculture, highlighting the evolution from traditional cross-breeding to modern genetic engineering, and the public perception and resistance to GMOs.

The passage begins with sentence C, introducing the current "gene revolution" in agriculture aimed at addressing global food challenges exacerbated by extreme weather. Sentence A follows, establishing the longstanding practice of farmers creating hybrid crops through cross-breeding. Sentence B then introduces the shift in agricultural practices in the 1970s with the advent of bioengineering for creating transgenic crops. Sentence D provides insight into the initial public perception of GMOs when they were first introduced. Sentence E concludes by addressing ongoing public concerns about the safety of GMOs despite scientific consensus on their safety. Together, these sentences provide a comprehensive overview of the evolution of agricultural practices and the public perception of GMOs over time.

So, the correct sequence is: C – A – B – D – E.

The hindmost statement, also known as the last sentence, is the final statement that concludes the paragraph. The hindmost or last sentence is Sentence E: " Resistance to GMO crops was based on a continuing public fear that they're harmful to human health, even if long-term studies said eating them was as safe as conventional varieties."

17. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph discusses the historical development of genetically modified organisms (GMOs) in agriculture, highlighting the evolution from traditional cross-breeding to modern genetic engineering, and the public perception and resistance to GMOs.

The passage begins with sentence C, introducing the current "gene revolution" in agriculture aimed at addressing global food challenges exacerbated by extreme weather. Sentence A follows, establishing the longstanding practice of farmers creating hybrid crops through cross-breeding. Sentence B then introduces the shift in agricultural practices in the 1970s with the advent of bioengineering for creating transgenic crops. Sentence D provides insight into the initial public perception of GMOs when they were first introduced. Sentence E concludes by addressing ongoing public concerns about the safety of GMOs despite scientific consensus on their safety. Together, these sentences provide a comprehensive overview of the evolution of agricultural practices and the public perception of GMOs over time.

So, the correct sequence is: C – A – B – D – E.

The introductory statement after rearrangement is sentence C: "A new "gene revolution" is being heralded as a cure-all for a growing global appetite as food systems are decimated by extreme weather."

18. Questions

Answer: B

The paragraph discusses the historical development of genetically modified organisms (GMOs) in agriculture, highlighting the evolution from traditional cross-breeding to modern genetic engineering, and the public perception and resistance to GMOs.

The passage begins with sentence C, introducing the current "gene revolution" in agriculture aimed at addressing global food challenges exacerbated by extreme weather. Sentence A follows, establishing the longstanding practice of farmers creating hybrid crops through cross-breeding. Sentence B then introduces the shift in agricultural practices in the 1970s with the advent of bioengineering for creating transgenic crops. Sentence D provides insight into the initial public perception of GMOs when they were first introduced. Sentence E concludes by addressing ongoing public concerns about the safety of GMOs despite scientific consensus on their safety. Together, these sentences provide a comprehensive overview of the evolution of agricultural practices and the public perception of GMOs over time.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the correct sequence is: C – A – B – D – E.

The consecutive pair after rearrangement is: B-D.

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

This summer has been unlike any other. The relentless heat intensifies with each passing day, and there is no relief in sight. India is currently grappling with one of the most intense heat waves in recent history, with temperatures soaring above 45 degrees Celsius in many regions. This extreme heat is taking a significant toll on the health of the people, straining healthcare systems, and prompting urgent government action to mitigate the crisis. The immediate health impacts of the heatwave are severe and widespread. Hospitals across the country are reporting a surge in cases of heat-related illnesses such as heat exhaustion and heatstroke. Heat exhaustion, characterised by symptoms like heavy sweating, muscle cramps, and fatigue, can escalate into heatstroke. Heatstroke is a life-threatening condition that occurs when the body's temperature regulation fails, leading to confusion, unconsciousness, and potentially fatal organ damage. Chronic health conditions are also being exacerbated by the extreme heat. Individuals with cardiovascular diseases are at increased risk of heart attacks and strokes as the body struggles to cool itself, leading to higher heart rates and blood pressure. Respiratory issues are worsening too, with higher levels of air pollutants combining with the heat to create a hazardous environment for those with asthma and other lung conditions. It is time the Indian Government declared a health emergency and implemented measures aimed at protecting public health and alleviating the impact of the heatwave. The government must actively disseminate information through various media channels, advising people to stay indoors during peak heat hours and drink plenty of water. The office timings must be changed. Some states like Rajasthan are doing good jo. External coolers have been installed on public buses to mitigate the soaring temperatures. In response to the extreme heat, the Jaipur administration has initiated the use of artificial rain. Large water tankers have been stationed along the roads to spray water on pedestrians, adopting this method to combat the sweltering conditions. The rest of the country could take a cue from Rajasthan. Indeed, healthcare systems are under significant pressure, with hospitals and clinics witnessing a sharp increase in heat-related medical emergencies. To cope with the surge, additional medical staff must be deployed, and temporary medical facilities must be set up in some areas to handle the overflow of patients. What we are witnessing can be attributed to climate change. Urban areas must have more green spaces which help lower temperatures. Climate experts warn that such events are likely to become more frequent and severe in the coming years due to climate change, necessitating comprehensive plans to protect public health. By investing in sustainable infrastructure, enhancing healthcare system capacities, and promoting public awareness, India can build resilience against future heatwaves and safeguard the health of its population in an increasingly warming world.

What measures has the Jaipur administration taken in response to the heatwave?

a. Distributed free water bottles

b. Installed air conditioners in public spaces

c. Initiated the use of artificial rain

d. Provided free medical check-ups

e. Conducted awareness campaigns

2. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Why are individuals with cardiovascular diseases at increased risk during the heatwave?

a. They are more likely to get sunburned
b. The heat causes dehydration more quickly in them
c. The body struggles to cool itself, increasing heart rates and blood pressure
d. They are unable to sweat properly
e. The heat wave affects their immune system

3. Questions

What symptoms are associated with heat exhaustion according to the passage?

a. High fever and chills
b. Muscle cramps and heavy sweating
c. Nausea and vomiting
d. Coughing and sneezing
e. Rash and itching

4. Questions

What long-term solution does the passage suggest for urban areas to combat heatwaves?

a. Installing air purifiers
b. Increasing the number of green spaces
c. Building more hospitals
d. Reducing industrial activities
e. Promoting indoor sports

5. Questions

What does the passage attribute the increasing frequency and severity of heatwaves to?

a. Poor urban planning
b. Industrial pollution
c. Climate change
d. Overpopulation
e. Deforestation

6. Questions

What immediate health impacts are mentioned in the passage as a result of the heatwave?

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. Dehydration and sunburn

b. Heat exhaustion and heatstroke

c. Frostbite and hypothermia

d. Migraine and dizziness

e. Flu and cold

7. Questions

What is the primary subject of the passage?

a. Government initiatives in Rajasthan

b. The impact of heatwaves in India

c. Climate change effects on urban areas

d. Health benefits of green spaces

e. Pollution control measures

8. Questions

In the question below, three columns are given. Column 1 and 3 contain different independent sentences (3 in each column) and column 2 contains 3 connectors which may or may not join the given sentences in the other two columns. This connector can be placed anywhere in the sentence. Mark the option which provides the correct sequences of joined sentences as your answer.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). He studied diligently for months and practiced daily.	1).hence	D).He passed the exam with flying colors.
B). The heavy rainfall flooded the streets.	2). consequently	E). His poor performance and low grade.
C). He had not studied for the exam.	3).thus	F). Many residents were forced to evacuate their homes.

a. A2D, B1F, and C3E

b. A1D, B2F, and C3E

c. A3D, B2F, and C1E

d. A1D, B3F, and C2E

e. A2D, B3F, and C1E

9. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The company launched a new marketing campaign.	1).meanwhile	D).she graduated at the top of her class.
B). The children played outside in the garden.	2). subsequently	E). Their sales increased by 30% within the first month.
C). She had always been diligent in her studies.	3).hence	F). Their parents prepared a delicious dinner in the kitchen.

a. A3E, B1F, and C2D

b. A1E, B2F, and C3D

c. A3E, B2F, and C1D

d. A2E, B1F, and C3D

e. A1E, B3F, and C2D

10. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The weather forecast predicted heavy rain for the weekend.	1).although	D).He managed to impress everyone with his culinary skills.
B). It was his first time cooking a Thanksgiving turkey.	2).furthermore	E). She actively participated in various extracurricular activities, showcasing her diverse talents.
C). She excelled in her studies, consistently earning top grades.	3).however	F). They decided to go camping regardless, hoping for a break in the clouds.

a. A1F, B3D, and C2E

b. A2F, B1D, and C3E

c. A1F, B2D, and C3E

d. A2F, B3D, and C1E

e. A3F, B1D, and C2E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The experiment yielded inconclusive results.	1).therefore	D).Eager to experience new flavors and culinary traditions.
B). She travelled, she always made sure to try the local cuisine,	2). until	E). Further investigation is warranted to clarify the findings.
C). The last puzzle piece was in place, the image remained incomplete.	3).wherever	F). Leaving them eager to see the final picture.

a. A1E, B3D, and C2F
b. A2E, B3D, and C1F
c. A2E, B1D, and C3F
d. A3E, B1D, and C2F
e. A1E, B2D, and C3F

12. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She had studied tirelessly for the exam.	1).conversely	D).She still felt unprepared when she entered the classroom.
B). She loved the hustle and bustle of city life.	2). nonetheless	E). She remained determined to pursue her dreams with unwavering resolve.
C). She had faced numerous setbacks in her career.	3).yet	F). Her partner found solace in the quietude of the countryside.

a. A2D, B3F, and C1E
b. A3D, B1F, and C2E
c. A2D, B1F, and C3E
d. A3D, B2F, and C1E
e. A1D, B3F, and C2E

13. Questions

Select the phrase (STARTERS) from the given three options which can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences given below, implying the same meaning as expressed in the

SKY53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

statement sentences.

I). The construction project was completed ahead of schedule.

II). However, the project exceeded its budget by 20%.

A). Despite the construction project being completed early,

B). Although the construction project was completed ahead of schedule,

C). In contrast to the construction project being completed ahead of schedule,

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Both A and B
d. Both A and C
e. All A, B, and C

14. Questions

I). The conference attracted attendees from over 20 countries.

II). However, some keynote speakers cancelled their appearances at the last minute.

A). Despite the conference's global reach,

B). While the conference successfully drew attendees from over 20 countries, C). In addition to the diverse attendees from over 20 countries,

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Both A and B
d. Both B and C
e. All A, B, and C

15. Questions

I). The company introduced a new employee wellness program.

II). Consequently, absenteeism rates decreased by 30%.

A). With the introduction of the new employee wellness program,

B). As a result of the new employee wellness program being implemented,

C). Despite the introduction of the new employee wellness program,

a. Only A
b. Only C

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

c. Both A and B

d. Both A and C

e. All A, B, and C

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

As the music swelled and the dancers twirled in a mesmerizing display of skill and passion, she found herself swept up in the moment, carried up by the enchanting rhythm and energy of the performance.

a. carried down by the

b. carried in by the

c. carried aloft by the

d. carried away by the

e. No replacement required

17. Questions

All the allegations levelled against the company were thoroughly investigated, but no substantial evidence was found to support the claims, leading to the eventual dismissal of the case.

a. levelled for the company

b. levelled with the company

c. level against the company

d. level with the company

e. No replacement required

18. Questions

They succeeded without hardly making any compromises on the quality of their work, ensuring that every detail was meticulously attended to despite the challenges they faced.

a. hardly without making any compromises

b. with hardly making any compromises

c. without making any compromises

d. hardly making any compromises

e. No replacement required

skv53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

After investing his life savings in what he believed to be a legitimate business venture, he was devastated to discover that he had cheated by the fraudulent company's elaborate scheme.

a. have been cheated

b. had been cheated

c. was to be cheated

d. have cheated

e. No replacement required

20. Questions

During her vacation, she indulged in reading novels solely to pleasure, relishing the escape into imaginary worlds and the joy of losing herself in captivating stories without any academic or professional obligation.

a. solely for pleasure

b. solely in pleasure

c. solely to the pleasure

d. solely with pleasure

e. No replacement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The passage specifically mentions that "the Jaipur administration has initiated the use of artificial rain" as a measure to combat the extreme heat. This is an innovative approach where large water tankers are stationed along the roads to spray water on pedestrians, helping to mitigate the sweltering conditions.

a). Distributed free water bottles: This option is not mentioned in the passage. While providing water could be a useful measure during a heatwave, the text does not indicate that this specific action was taken by the Jaipur administration.

b). Installed air conditioners in public spaces: The passage does not mention installing air conditioners in public spaces. Instead, it focuses on the use of artificial rain as a cooling measure.

d). Provided free medical check-ups: Although healthcare measures are discussed in the passage, such as deploying additional medical staff and setting up temporary medical facilities, there is no mention of the Jaipur administration providing free medical check-ups.

e). Conducted awareness campaigns: While the passage advises the government to disseminate information and promote public awareness about staying indoors and drinking plenty of water, it does not state that the Jaipur administration specifically conducted awareness campaigns.

Thus, the correct answer is c) Initiated the use of artificial rain, as this is explicitly stated in the passage as a measure taken by the Jaipur administration to address the heatwave.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The passage explains that the extreme heat exacerbates chronic health conditions, particularly for individuals with cardiovascular diseases. The key issue is that the body struggles to cool itself in the heat, which leads to higher heart rates and increased blood pressure. This physiological response increases the risk of heart attacks and strokes for these individuals.

a). They are more likely to get sunburned: Sunburn is not mentioned in the passage as a risk factor for individuals with cardiovascular diseases during a heatwave. The primary concern is the internal strain on the cardiovascular system rather than external skin damage.

b). The heat causes dehydration more quickly in them: While dehydration is a general risk during heatwaves, the passage specifically focuses on how the inability to cool down affects heart rates and blood pressure, which are direct concerns for cardiovascular health.

d). They are unable to sweat properly: The passage does not mention an inability to sweat as a specific issue for individuals with cardiovascular diseases. The problem highlighted is the body's overall difficulty in regulating temperature.

e). The heat wave affects their immune system: The passage does not mention any impact on the immune system for individuals with cardiovascular diseases. The focus is on the cardiovascular strain due to increased heart rates and blood pressure.

Thus, the correct answer is c) The body struggles to cool itself, increasing heart rates and blood pressure. This explanation aligns directly with the passage's description of how the heatwave impacts individuals with cardiovascular diseases.

3. Questions

Answer: B

The passage specifically mentions that heat exhaustion is characterized by symptoms such as heavy sweating, muscle cramps, and fatigue. This indicates that the body is struggling to cope with the extreme heat, leading to these physical manifestations.

a). High fever and chills: These symptoms are typically associated with infections or conditions like flu, not heat exhaustion. The passage does not mention high fever and chills in the context of heat exhaustion.

b). Muscle cramps and heavy sweating: Correct. The passage explicitly lists muscle cramps and heavy sweating as symptoms of heat exhaustion, making this the right answer.

c). Nausea and vomiting: While nausea and vomiting can sometimes occur in severe heat-related illnesses, the passage does not specifically mention these symptoms for heat exhaustion. The primary symptoms highlighted are muscle cramps and heavy sweating.

d). Coughing and sneezing: These symptoms are generally associated with respiratory infections or allergies, not heat exhaustion. The passage does not link coughing and sneezing to heat exhaustion.

e). Rash and itching: These symptoms are usually related to dermatological conditions, not heat exhaustion. The passage does not mention rash and itching as symptoms of heat exhaustion.

Thus, the correct answer is b) Muscle cramps and heavy sweating, as these symptoms are directly mentioned in the passage as indicators of heat exhaustion.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The passage suggests that one effective long-term solution for urban areas to combat heatwaves is to increase the number of green spaces. It highlights that urban areas must have more green spaces to help lower temperatures, which can mitigate the impact of heatwaves and contribute to a cooler environment.

a). Installing air purifiers: While air purifiers can improve air quality, they do not directly address the issue of reducing temperatures in urban areas. The passage does not mention air purifiers as a solution to combat heatwaves.

b). Increasing the number of green spaces: Correct. The passage explicitly states that urban areas must have more green spaces to help lower temperatures, making this the right answer. Green spaces can cool the surrounding environment and provide a more sustainable and natural way to combat heat.

c). Building more hospitals: Although enhancing healthcare system capacities is important, building more hospitals does not directly address the root cause of heatwaves. The passage focuses on preventive measures like increasing green spaces.

d). Reducing industrial activities: While reducing industrial activities might help lower pollution levels, the passage does not mention this as a specific solution for combating heatwaves. The emphasis is on creating green spaces.

e). Promoting indoor sports: Promoting indoor sports may help people avoid the heat temporarily, but it does not provide a long-term solution to the problem of rising urban temperatures. The passage does not mention promoting indoor sports as a solution.

Thus, the correct answer is b) Increasing the number of green spaces, as this is the solution explicitly recommended in the passage to help urban areas combat heatwaves by lowering temperatures.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The passage attributes the increasing frequency and severity of heatwaves to climate change. It states that climate experts warn about such events becoming more frequent and severe due to climate change, necessitating comprehensive plans to protect public health.

a). Poor urban planning: While poor urban planning can exacerbate the effects of heatwaves, the passage does not attribute the increasing frequency and severity of heatwaves to this factor. The main cause discussed is climate change.

b). Industrial pollution: Although industrial pollution can contribute to broader environmental issues, the passage specifically mentions climate change as the cause of more frequent and severe heatwaves. Industrial pollution is not directly cited as the primary reason for the increased heatwave events.

c). Climate change: Correct. The passage explicitly links the increasing frequency and severity of heatwaves to climate change. This is supported by climate experts' warnings mentioned in the text.

d). Overpopulation: Overpopulation may put additional strain on resources and infrastructure, but the passage does not attribute the increasing heatwaves to overpopulation. The focus is on climate change as the driving factor.

e). Deforestation: While deforestation can impact local climates and contribute to broader climate change, the passage does not specifically attribute the increased heatwave events to deforestation. It directly cites climate change as the cause.

Thus, the correct answer is c) Climate change, as the passage clearly attributes the increasing frequency and severity of heatwaves to this global phenomenon.

6. Questions

Answer: B

The passage explicitly mentions that the immediate health impacts of the heatwave include heat exhaustion and heatstroke. It describes heat exhaustion as being characterized by symptoms like heavy sweating, muscle cramps, and fatigue, which can escalate into heatstroke. Heatstroke is a more severe, life-threatening condition that results from the body's failure to regulate its temperature, leading to confusion, unconsciousness, and potentially fatal organ damage.

a). Dehydration and sunburn: While dehydration can occur during a heatwave and sunburn is possible with excessive sun exposure, the passage specifically highlights heat exhaustion and heatstroke as the immediate health impacts, not dehydration and sunburn.

b). Heat exhaustion and heatstroke: Correct. The passage directly mentions these conditions as immediate health impacts, providing detailed descriptions of their symptoms and severity.

c). Frostbite and hypothermia: These conditions are associated with extreme cold, not heat. They are entirely irrelevant to the context of a heatwave.

d). Migraine and dizziness: While dizziness might be a symptom of heat exhaustion, migraines are not specifically mentioned in the passage. The focus is on the more severe conditions of heat exhaustion and heatstroke.

e). Flu and cold: These are viral infections that are not related to heatwaves. The passage does not mention them in the context of heat-related illnesses.

Thus, the correct answer is b) Heat exhaustion and heatstroke, as these are the immediate health impacts explicitly discussed in the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The primary subject of the passage is the impact of heatwaves in India. The passage describes the severe heatwave conditions currently affecting India, their effects on public health, healthcare systems, and the urgent actions needed to address the crisis. It highlights the immediate and long-term health impacts, measures taken by the government, and the necessity for sustainable solutions to mitigate such extreme weather events.

a). Government initiatives in Rajasthan: Although the passage does mention some specific initiatives in Rajasthan, this is just one part of the broader discussion on the heatwave's impact across India. The primary focus is not solely on these initiatives.

b). The impact of heatwaves in India: Correct. The passage extensively discusses how the heatwave is affecting different regions in India, its toll on health and healthcare systems, and the measures being taken and proposed to cope with it. This is the central theme of the passage.

c). Climate change effects on urban areas: While climate change is mentioned as a contributing factor to the increasing frequency and severity of heatwaves, the passage does not focus specifically on its effects on urban areas. The broader impact on the entire country and public health is the main subject.

d). Health benefits of green spaces: The passage briefly touches on the idea of increasing green spaces as a long-term solution, but this is not the primary focus. It is more about the current heatwave and its effects.

e). Pollution control measures: Pollution control measures are not the central theme of the passage. The focus is on the immediate and long-term responses to the heatwave, rather than on pollution specifically.

Thus, the correct answer is b) The impact of heatwaves in India, as the passage centers on discussing the current heatwave crisis in India, its health implications, and the necessary measures to address it.

8. Questions

Answer: C

c). A3D, B2F, and C1E

“He studied diligently for months and practiced daily; thus, he passed the exam with flying colours.”

“The heavy rainfall flooded the streets; consequently, many residents were forced to evacuate their homes.”

“He had not studied for the exam, hence his poor performance and low grade.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). He studied diligently for months and practiced daily. (A3D) The connector "thus" suggests a result. So, the sentence can be connected to "He passed the exam with flying colours," indicating that his diligent studying and daily practice resulted in him passing the exam with flying colours.

B). The heavy rainfall flooded the streets. (B2F) The connector "consequently" indicates a result. So, the sentence can be connected to "Many residents were forced to evacuate their homes," suggesting that the heavy rainfall flooding the streets led to residents being forced to evacuate their homes.

C). He had not studied for the exam. (C1E) The connector "hence" suggests a consequence. So, the sentence can be connected to "His poor performance and low grade," indicating that his lack of studying for the exam led to his poor performance and low grade.

So, the correct sequence is A3D, B2F, and C1E.

In summary, option c) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

9. Questions

Answer: D

d). A2E, B1F, and C3D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"The company launched a new marketing campaign; subsequently, their sales increased by 30% within the first month."

"The children played outside in the garden; meanwhile, their parents prepared a delicious dinner in the kitchen."

"She had always been diligent in her studies; hence, she graduated at the top of her class."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). The company launched a new marketing campaign. (A2E) The connector "subsequently" indicates a sequence of events. So, the sentence can be connected to "Their sales increased by 30% within the first month," suggesting that the launch of the marketing campaign was followed by an increase in sales.

B). The children played outside in the garden. (B1F) The connector "meanwhile" suggests simultaneous action. So, the sentence can be connected to "Their parents prepared a delicious dinner in the kitchen," indicating that while the children played outside, their parents prepared dinner.

C). She had always been diligent in her studies. (C3D) The connector "hence" implies a consequence. So, the sentence can be connected to "She graduated at the top of her class," indicating that her diligence in studies led to her graduating at the top of her class.

So, the correct sequence is A2E, B1F, and C3D.

In summary, option d) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

10. Questions

Answer: E

e). A3F, B1D, and C2E

"The weather forecast predicted heavy rain for the weekend; however, they decided to go camping regardless, hoping for a break in the clouds."

"Although it was his first time cooking a Thanksgiving turkey, he managed to impress everyone with his culinary skills."

"She excelled in her studies, consistently earning top grades; furthermore, she actively participated in various extracurricular activities, showcasing her diverse talents."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). The weather forecast predicted heavy rain for the weekend. (A3F) The connector "however" suggests a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "They decided to go camping regardless, hoping for a break in the clouds," indicating a contrast between the forecasted heavy rain and their decision to go camping anyway.

B). It was his first time cooking a Thanksgiving turkey. (B1D) The connector "although" introduces a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "He managed to impress everyone with his culinary skills," indicating a contrast between it being his first time cooking a Thanksgiving turkey and his ability to impress everyone with his culinary skills.

C). She excelled in her studies, consistently earning top grades. (C2E) The connector "furthermore" suggests an additional point. So, the sentence can be connected to "She actively participated in various extracurricular activities, showcasing her diverse talents," indicating an additional aspect of her accomplishments beyond excelling in her studies.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the correct sequence is A3F, B1D, and C2E.

In summary, option e) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

11. Questions

Answer: A

a). A1E, B3D, and C2F

“The experiment yielded inconclusive results; therefore, further investigation is warranted to clarify the findings.”

“Until the last puzzle piece was in place, the image remained incomplete, leaving them eager to see the final picture.”

“Wherever she travelled, she always made sure to try the local cuisine, eager to experience new flavours and culinary traditions.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). The experiment yielded inconclusive results. (A1E) The connector "therefore" suggests a logical consequence. So, the sentence can be connected to "Further investigation is warranted to clarify the findings," indicating that the inconclusive results of the experiment necessitate further investigation.

B). She travelled, she always made sure to try the local cuisine. (B3D) The connector "wherever" implies a location. So, the sentence can be connected to "Eager to experience new flavours and culinary traditions," suggesting that wherever she travelled, she was eager to try the local cuisine.

C). The last puzzle piece was in place, the image remained incomplete. (C2F) The connector "until" indicates a point in time. So, the sentence can be connected to "Leaving them eager to see the final picture," suggesting that the image remained incomplete until the last puzzle piece was in place.

So, the correct sequence is A1E, B3D, and C2F.

In summary, option a) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

12. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). A3D, B1F, and C2E

“She loved the hustle and bustle of city life; conversely, her partner found solace in the quietude of the countryside.”

“She had faced numerous setbacks in her career; nonetheless, she remained determined to pursue her dreams with unwavering resolve.”

“She had studied tirelessly for the exam, yet she still felt unprepared when she entered the classroom.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). She had studied tirelessly for the exam. (A3D) The connector "yet" suggests a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "She still felt unprepared when she entered the classroom," indicating that despite studying tirelessly, she still felt unprepared.

B). She loved the hustle and bustle of city life. (B1F) The connector "conversely" indicates a contrast or opposition. So, the sentence can be connected to "Her partner found solace in the quietude of the countryside," suggesting that her partner's preference for the countryside contrasts with her love for city life.

C). She had faced numerous setbacks in her career. (C2E) The connector "nonetheless" indicates a concession or contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "She remained determined to pursue her dreams with unwavering resolve," suggesting that despite facing setbacks, she remained determined to pursue her dreams.

So, the correct sequence is A3D, B1F, and C2E.

In summary, option b) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

13. Questions

Answer: C

Given statements:

I). The construction project was completed ahead of schedule.

II). However, the project exceeded its budget by 20%.

A). Despite the construction project being completed early, - This option introduces a contrast between the completion of the project ahead of schedule and the fact that it exceeded its budget. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). Although the construction project was completed ahead of schedule, - This option also introduces a contrast between the completion of the project ahead of schedule and the fact that it exceeded its budget. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements.

C). In contrast to the construction project being completed ahead of schedule, - This option seems to suggest a contrast, but it is less concise compared to options A and B. It doesn't effectively capture the relationship between the two statements provided.

Given the statements:

The first statement describes the completion of the construction project ahead of schedule, while the second statement reveals that despite this early completion, the project exceeded its budget. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast, highlighting the discrepancy between the timely completion and the budget overrun.

Therefore, options A and B accurately capture this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: c) Both A and B

Both options A and B effectively introduce a contrast between the completion of the construction project ahead of schedule and the fact that it exceeded its budget. They accurately reflect the relationship between the given statements, making them suitable choices.

14. Questions

Answer: C

Given statements:

I). The conference attracted attendees from over 20 countries.

II). However, some keynote speakers cancelled their appearances at the last minute.

A). Despite the conference's global reach, - This option introduces a contrast between the global reach of the conference (attracting attendees from over 20 countries) and the fact that some keynote speakers cancelled their appearances. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). While the conference successfully drew attendees from over 20 countries, - This option also introduces a contrast between the successful attraction of attendees from over 20 countries and the fact that some keynote speakers cancelled their appearances. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements.

C). In addition to the diverse attendees from over 20 countries, - This option suggests adding something extra to what has already been mentioned. It doesn't accurately reflect the contrast between the success of attracting attendees and the cancellation of keynote speakers.

Given the statements:

The first statement highlights the success of the conference in attracting attendees from over 20 countries, while the second statement reveals that despite this success, there were last-minute cancellations by some keynote speakers. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast, highlighting the discrepancy between the global reach of the conference and the cancellations of keynote speakers.

Therefore, options A and B accurately capture this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: c) Both A and B

Both options A and B effectively introduce a contrast between the global reach of the conference and the cancellations of keynote speakers. They accurately reflect the relationship between the given statements, making them suitable choices.

15. Questions

Answer: C

Given statements:

I). The company introduced a new employee wellness program.

II). Consequently, absenteeism rates decreased by 30%.

A). With the introduction of the new employee wellness program, - This option suggests a connection between the introduction of the employee wellness program and the decrease in absenteeism rates. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). As a result of the new employee wellness program being implemented, - This option also suggests a connection between the implementation of the employee wellness program and the decrease in absenteeism rates. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements.

C). Despite the introduction of the new employee wellness program, - This option introduces a contrast between the introduction of the employee wellness program and the decrease in absenteeism rates. However, the second statement indicates a positive outcome of the introduction of the program, so using "despite" doesn't accurately capture the relationship between the given statements.

Given the statements:

The first statement describes the introduction of a new employee wellness program, while the second statement indicates a positive outcome of this introduction, namely, a decrease in absenteeism rates. The relationship between the two statements suggests a causal connection, indicating that the implementation of the wellness program led to the decrease in absenteeism rates.

Therefore, options A and B accurately capture this causal relationship between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: c) Both A and B

Both options A and B effectively introduce a causal connection between the introduction of the employee wellness program and the decrease in absenteeism rates. They accurately reflect the relationship between the given statements, making them suitable choices.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) carried away by the

The phrase "carried away by the" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea of being deeply engrossed or overwhelmed by something, in this case, the enchanting rhythm and energy of the performance. "Carried away" in this context means to be emotionally transported or absorbed by the experience.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (a) "carried down by the" changes the meaning. "Carried down" typically implies a decrease in elevation or status, which is not appropriate in this context.

Option (b) "carried in by the" changes the meaning. "Carried in" implies being transported into a location or area, which does not accurately convey the idea of being emotionally swept up by the performance.

Option (c) "carried aloft by the" introduces a different concept. "Carried aloft" typically means being lifted or elevated physically, which doesn't capture the sense of being emotionally captivated by the performance.

Therefore, option (d) "carried away by the" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

17. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No replacement required

The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. The phrase

"allegations levelled against the company" is correct and idiomatic.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are incorrect or change the intended meaning:

Option (a) "levelled for the company" is incorrect because "for" is not the appropriate preposition to use in this context.

Option (b) "levelled with the company" is incorrect because "with" suggests cooperation or agreement, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (c) "level against the company" is incorrect because the verb "level" should be in the past tense "levelled" to match the context of the sentence.

Option (d) "level with the company" is incorrect for the same reason as option (b), as it implies cooperation or agreement.

Therefore, option (e) "No replacement required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

18. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) without making any compromises

The phrase "without hardly making any compromises" is incorrect because "without hardly" is a double negative, which makes the sentence grammatically incorrect and confusing. The correct phrasing should eliminate the unnecessary "hardly."

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that either maintain the double negative or disrupt the intended meaning:

Option (a) "hardly without making any compromises" still has a double negative and is grammatically incorrect.

Option (b) "with hardly making any compromises" still has "hardly," which is not necessary in this context and can be confusing.

Option (d) "hardly making any compromises" changes the meaning slightly and disrupts the flow of the sentence.

Therefore, option (c) "without making any compromises" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

19. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: b) had been cheated

The sentence is describing a past event that occurred before another past event (the discovery). Therefore, the past perfect tense "had been cheated" is appropriate to indicate that the cheating happened before the discovery.

Options (a), (c), and (d) are incorrect:

Option (a) "have been cheated" uses the present perfect tense, which is not suitable for describing a past event that occurred before another past event.

Option (c) "was to be cheated" is incorrect and does not accurately convey the sequence of events.

Option (d) "have cheated" changes the meaning of the sentence, suggesting that he was the one doing the cheating rather than being the victim.

Therefore, option (b) "had been cheated" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

20. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) solely for pleasure

The phrase "solely for pleasure" is the correct and idiomatic expression to convey that the purpose of reading novels was exclusively for enjoyment. "For pleasure" indicates the reason or motivation behind the action.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (b) "solely in pleasure" does not convey the intended meaning clearly. The preposition "in" is not suitable in this context.

Option (c) "solely to the pleasure" uses an incorrect preposition. "To" is not the appropriate preposition to use in this context. The correct preposition to use with "solely" in this context is "for."

Option (d) "solely with pleasure" changes the meaning and is not idiomatic. It suggests that the novels were read alongside pleasure rather than for the purpose of pleasure.

Therefore, option (a) "solely for pleasure" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

sky53nb@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). He is not aware with the new company policy.

B). He drives very careful on the highway to avoid accidents.

C). She is interested in learn new languages.

a. Only C
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

2. Questions

A). Not only did he work hard, but he also managed his time extremely well.

B). She quickly and efficiently completed the project ahead of schedule.

C). The children behaved very good during the entire trip.

a. Only C
b. Both A and C
c. All A, B and C
d. No error

3. Questions

A). She wore a beautiful and a elegant dress to the gala.

B). His ideas are innovative but somewhat impractical for the current market.

C). The tour guide gave us an informative and enjoyable experience during our trip.

a. Only A
b. Both A and B
c. Both B and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

A). The childs were playing in the park when it started raining.

B). She has three sister-in-laws who live in different countries.

C). The criteria for the scholarship have been clearly defined.

a. Only C

b. Both A and B

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

5. Questions

A). The list of items on the agenda were discussed thoroughly during the meeting.

B). Each of the candidates have submitted their resume on time.

C). The number of participants in the workshop is increasing every day.

a. Both A and B

b. Both B and C

c. All A, B and C

d. No error

6. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

The COVID-19 pandemic has accelerated the shift to remote work, leading many companies to adopt flexible work arrangements permanently. This transition has brought about numerous benefits, including increased employee satisfaction and access to a broader talent pool. However, to ensure the long-term success of remote work, companies must address challenges such as _____.

a. encouraging employees to work longer hours without breaks

b. ignoring communication barriers between remote and in-office employees

c. implementing strict surveillance measures to monitor employees' activities

d. fostering a strong virtual work culture and ensuring effective communication

e. reducing investment in remote work technologies to cut costs

7. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Sustainable agriculture is essential for ensuring food security and environmental health in the face of climate change and population growth. Practices such as crop rotation, organic farming, and integrated pest management help maintain soil fertility and reduce the reliance on chemical inputs. To further advance sustainable agriculture, it is crucial for policymakers and farmers to invest in _____.

a. large-scale monoculture farming for higher yields

b. synthetic fertilizers and pesticides to boost crop production

c. technological innovations and education for best practices

d. clearing more land for agricultural expansion

e. reducing agricultural research funding

8. Questions

Climate change continues to pose significant challenges globally, with rising temperatures, extreme weather events, and sea-level rise becoming increasingly prevalent. These changes are not only affecting natural ecosystems but also _____.

a. exacerbating food insecurity and threatening agricultural productivity

b. leading to a decrease in global greenhouse gas emissions

c. improving air quality and reducing pollution levels

d. promoting the expansion of biodiversity and ecosystems

e. contributing to the stabilization of global temperatures

9. Questions

Urban planning is crucial for creating sustainable and livable cities that meet the needs of their residents. As populations grow and cities expand, planners must address challenges such as housing shortages, traffic congestion, and environmental sustainability. One of the key strategies for achieving these goals is to invest in _____.

a. expanding urban sprawl to accommodate more residents

b. reducing public transportation options to decrease costs

c. implementing green building practices and sustainable infrastructure

d. increasing the number of high-rise buildings to maximize space

e. promoting the use of private vehicles for all urban travel

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

The landscape of education is undergoing significant transformation with the integration of digital tools and online learning platforms. These advancements have made education more accessible and flexible, allowing students from diverse backgrounds to pursue their academic goals. However, to fully harness the potential of these technologies, it is essential for educational institutions to focus on _____.

a. reducing the use of digital tools in the classroom

b. ensuring equal access to technology for all students

c. limiting online learning to only advanced students

d. relying solely on traditional teaching methods

e. discouraging collaboration between students and teachers

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below four words are given in bold. These words may or may not be in their correct position. Following each sentence four sequences are provided. Select the sequence of the words which will make the given sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful. If the words are correct at their current position, then choose option (e) as your answer.

With a young and burgeoning (A) population, a robust (B) tech ecosystem driving innovation and a rapidly evolving digital landscape, India has become a formidable (C) force in the vibrant (D) digital economy.

a. ABDC

b. ACBD

c. DBCA

d. DCBA

e. No interchange required

12. Questions

The advent of a genuine military (A) government has kindled hope among a cross-section of defence veterans and security analysts regarding a salutary imposed (B) of some questionable schemes and directives makeover (C) upon the coalition (D) by the political leadership over the past decade.

a. ABDC

b. ACBD

c. DBCA

d. DCBA

e. No interchange required

13. Questions

The row over an allegedly (A) 67 students getting perfect scores, the grace marks awarded to 1563 students who appeared in six testing centres where there were improbable (B) technical glitches, parents and candidates crying foul over paper leaks and the Opposition roil (C) over the entire NEET fiasco promises to uproar (D) the upcoming session of the new Parliament.

skysup@gmail.com
Tg. @NextGenBankers

a. BADC

b. ABDC

c. BACD

d. DABC

e. No interchange required

14. Questions

The much-delayed peace meet was preferred (A) by close to 100 nations, but most of the Global South attended (B) to observe rather than actively engage (C) as the Western nations sought to build (D) a consensus against Moscow.

a. BACD

b. BADC

c. ABDC

d. DABC

e. No interchange required

15. Questions

Under the agreement, Saudi Arabia agreed (A) to price its oil exports exclusively (B) in US dollars and invest (C) its surplus oil revenues in US Treasury bonds and it was promised (D) US military, security and economic development assistance in return.

a. ACBD

b. DCBA

c. BADC

d. DABC

e. No interchange required

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

The garden was a picturesque sight, covered to a vibrant array of blooming flowers, their brilliant colours creating a stunning tapestry of natural beauty.

a. covered in

b. covered up

c. covered by

d. covered with

e. no improvement is required

17. Questions

The innovative new technology quickly began to take by, gaining widespread popularity and transforming industries at a pace that surprised even the most optimistic analysts.

a. quickly began to take out

b. quickly began to put off

c. quickly began to put away

d. quickly began to take off

e. no improvement is required

18. Questions

The ancient oak tree in the centre of the field had been dead for years, its once vibrant branches now bare and skeletal, serving as a silent testament to the passage of time.

a. is dead for years

b. has been dead for years

c. have been dead for years

d. was dead for years

e. no improvement is required

19. Questions

After crafting the perfect message, she eagerly logged into her social media account with post the photo of her newly adopted puppy, hoping to share her joy with friends and family.

a. to post the photo

b. of posting the photo

c. by posting the photo

d. for posting the photo

e. no improvement is required

20. Questions

The old abandoned house at the end of the street have been occupying the town council's attention for months, as they debate whether to renovate it or demolish it to make way for new development.

a. had occupying

sky5up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. will occupy

c. has been occupying

d. is occupying

e. no improvement is required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: D

A). The error in this sentence is "aware with." The correct preposition to use with "aware" is "of." The correct form is "aware of."

Corrected Sentence A: "He is not aware of the new company policy."

B). The error in this sentence is "very careful." The correct form is "very carefully." The adverb "carefully" is used to modify the verb "drives."

Corrected Sentence B: "He drives very carefully on the highway to avoid accidents."

C). The error in this sentence is "interested in learn." The correct form is "interested in learning." The gerund form ("learning") is used after "interested in."

Corrected Sentence C: "She is interested in learning new languages."

2. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "very good." The correct form is "very well." The adverb "well" is used to modify the verb "behaved."

Corrected Sentence C: "The children behaved very well during the entire trip."

3. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "a beautiful and a elegant dress." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used consistently, or the article should be omitted after the first adjective. The correct form is "a beautiful and elegant dress."

Corrected Sentence A: "She wore a beautiful and elegant dress to the gala."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

skysup@gmail.com
Tg:- @nextgenbanks

4. Questions

Answer: B

A). The error in this sentence is "childs." The correct plural form of "child" is "children."

Corrected Sentence A: "The children were playing in the park when it started raining."

B). The error in this sentence is "sister-in-laws." The correct plural form is "sisters-in-law."

Corrected Sentence B: "She has three sisters-in-law who live in different countries."

C). There is no error in this sentence. "Criteria" is the correct plural form of "criterion."

5. Questions

Answer: B

A). The error in this sentence is "The list of items on the agenda were discussed." The correct form should be "The list of items on the agenda was discussed." The term "list" is a singular noun, and when referring to it as a single entity, a singular verb is used.

Corrected Sentence A: "The list of items on the agenda was discussed thoroughly during the meeting."

B). The error in this sentence is "Each of the candidates have submitted." The correct form should be "Each of the candidates has submitted." "Each" is a singular pronoun and requires a singular verb.

Corrected Sentence B: "Each of the candidates has submitted their resume on time."

C). There is no error in this sentence.

6. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) fostering a strong virtual work culture and ensuring effective communication.

This option aligns with the paragraph's focus on ensuring the long-term success of remote work. Fostering a strong virtual work culture and ensuring effective communication are crucial for maintaining productivity, team cohesion, and employee engagement in a remote work environment. It addresses the challenges associated with remote work, such as feelings of isolation and communication barriers, by promoting a connected and collaborative work culture.

The other options are not suitable for the following reasons:

a). Encouraging employees to work longer hours without breaks: This option can lead to burnout and decreased productivity. It does not address the challenges of remote work in a positive or sustainable way.

b). Ignoring communication barriers between remote and in-office employees: Ignoring communication barriers can lead to misunderstandings, reduced collaboration, and feelings of isolation among remote employees. Effective communication is essential for the success of remote work.

c). Implementing strict surveillance measures to monitor employees' activities: Strict surveillance can create a culture of distrust and reduce employee morale. It is not a constructive approach to managing remote work and can lead to increased stress and decreased job satisfaction.

e). Reducing investment in remote work technologies to cut costs: Reducing investment in remote work technologies can hinder productivity and make it more difficult for employees to perform their tasks efficiently. Investing in the right technologies is essential for supporting remote work.

In summary, option (d) emphasizes the importance of building a supportive virtual work culture and maintaining effective communication, which are key to overcoming the challenges of remote work and ensuring its success.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) technological innovations and education for best practices.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on advancing sustainable agriculture. Technological innovations, such as precision farming and advanced irrigation systems, can help optimize resource use and increase efficiency. Education on best practices empowers farmers to adopt sustainable methods and make informed decisions. This combination is crucial for improving agricultural productivity while minimizing environmental impact. The other options involve practices that are either harmful to sustainability, such as monoculture farming (a) and the extensive use of synthetic inputs (b), or counterproductive, like clearing more land (d) and reducing research funding (e).

8. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) exacerbating food insecurity and threatening agricultural productivity.

This option aligns with the paragraph's focus on the impacts of climate change. Climate change affects agriculture through shifts in temperature and precipitation patterns, leading to reduced crop yields, altered growing seasons, and increased pest and disease pressures. These changes exacerbate food insecurity, particularly in vulnerable regions where agriculture is a primary source of livelihood. Addressing the challenges posed by climate change on agriculture is crucial for ensuring food security and livelihoods for millions of people worldwide. The other options either do not accurately reflect the negative impacts of climate change (b, c, e) or introduce unrelated topics (d).

9. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) implementing green building practices and sustainable infrastructure.

This option aligns with the goal of creating sustainable and livable cities. Green building practices and sustainable infrastructure help reduce environmental impact, improve energy efficiency, and create healthier living conditions. Investing in these areas addresses the challenges of urban planning by promoting sustainability and enhancing the quality of life for residents. The other options either contribute to environmental degradation (a and e), reduce essential services (b), or focus on maximizing space without considering sustainability (d).

10. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) ensuring equal access to technology for all students.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on making education more accessible and flexible through digital tools and online learning platforms. Ensuring equal access to technology for all students is crucial for harnessing the full potential of these advancements. It addresses the digital divide, allowing students from diverse backgrounds to benefit equally from modern educational resources. The other options involve actions that either reduce the use of beneficial technology (a), limit online learning opportunities (c), rely only on outdated methods (d), or discourage important collaborative interactions (e), all of which are counterproductive to the goal of transforming and improving education through technology.

11. Questions

Answer: C

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: c) DBCA.

So, the sentence will be: “With a young and vibrant population, a robust tech ecosystem driving innovation and a rapidly evolving digital landscape, India has become a formidable force in the burgeoning digital economy.”

In this sequence:

"D" comes first: "vibrant" comes first, indicating an energetic and dynamic population.

"B" comes second: "robust" follows, describing a strong and healthy tech ecosystem.

"C" comes third: "formidable" comes next, signifying India as a powerful force.

"A" comes last: "burgeoning" is last, indicating the rapidly growing digital economy.

So, the correct sequence is " DBCA" where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

12. Questions

Answer: D

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: d) DCBA.

So, the sentence will be: “The advent of a genuine coalition government has kindled hope among a cross-section of defence veterans and security analysts regarding a salutary makeover of some questionable schemes and directives imposed upon the military by the political leadership over the past decade.”

In this sequence:

"D" comes first: " coalition " comes first, refers to the type of government that has been present.

"C" comes second: " makeover " follows, indicates a significant change or improvement.

"B" comes third: " imposed " comes next, describes how the schemes and directives were enforced.

"A" comes last: " military " is last, refers to the group affected by the political leadership's decisions.

So, the correct sequence is " DCBA" where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

13. Questions

Answer: A

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: a) BADC.

So, the sentence will be: “The row over an improbable 67 students getting perfect scores, the grace marks awarded to 1563 students who appeared in six testing centres where there were allegedly technical glitches, parents and candidates crying foul over paper leaks and the Opposition uproar over the entire NEET fiasco promises to roil the upcoming session of the new Parliament.”

In this sequence:

"B" comes first: "improbable" is the first descriptor in the sequence, setting the stage for the subsequent details.

"A" comes second: "allegedly" follows "improbable" to describe the nature of the technical glitches.

"D" comes third: "uproar": This word refers to a state of commotion, noise, or disturbance, often associated with public outcry or protest.

"C" comes last: "roil": This word means to stir up or agitate, often in a negative sense, such as causing unrest or disturbance.

Therefore, option (a) "BADC" provides the sequence of words that makes the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful. Each word logically follows the previous one, forming a coherent sentence.

14. Questions

Answer: A

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: a) BACD.

So, the sentence will be: “The much-delayed peace meet was attended by close to 100 nations, but most of the Global South preferred to observe rather than actively engage as the Western nations sought to build a consensus against Moscow.”

In this sequence:

"B" comes first: "attended" is logical to come first because it sets the stage for the participation of the nations.

"A" comes second: "preferred" follows as it explains why the nations attended the peace meeting.

"C" comes third: "engage" logically follows, indicating what most nations from the Global South chose not to do actively.

"D" comes last: "build" is the action taken by Western nations, which fits well at the end of the sentence, showing their objective during the peace meeting.

Therefore, option (a) "BACD" provides the sequence of words that makes the sentence both contextually and grammatically meaningful.

15. Questions

Answer: E

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: e) ABCD. i.e. No interchange required.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg- @NextGenBankers

So, the sentence will be: “Under the agreement, Saudi Arabia agreed to price its oil exports exclusively in US dollars and invest its surplus oil revenues in US Treasury bonds and it was promised US military, security and economic development assistance in return.”

In this sequence:

"agreed" (A) logically follows "Saudi Arabia" and sets the action the country took.

"exclusively" (B) appropriately modifies "price its oil exports," indicating that the pricing is solely in US dollars.

"invest" (C) follows "agreed to" and fits with "its surplus oil revenues," indicating what Saudi Arabia agreed to do with its surplus revenues.

"promised" (D) follows "and it was," indicating what Saudi Arabia received in return for its agreement.

All the words are appropriately placed, and the sentence is both contextually and grammatically meaningful without requiring any interchange. Therefore, the correct answer is e) No interchange required.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) covered with

The phrase "covered with" is idiomatic and correctly describes the garden being adorned by a vibrant array of blooming flowers.

Option (a) "covered in" is also grammatically correct and commonly used, but "covered with" is more idiomatic when describing a garden adorned with flowers.

Option (b) "covered up" implies hiding something under the flowers, which changes the intended meaning.

Option (c) "covered by" could be used, but it often implies that the flowers are placed over something, not integrated into the scene as part of the garden's visual appeal.

Therefore, option (d) "covered with" is the best choice for describing the picturesque sight of the garden.

17. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) quickly began to take off

The phrase "take off" is an idiomatic expression that means to become successful or popular quickly. This fits the context of the sentence, where the new technology is gaining widespread popularity and transforming industries rapidly.

Options (a), (b), and (c) do not fit the context or have different meanings:

Option (a) "quickly began to take out" suggests removing something, which does not fit the context of gaining popularity.

Option (b) "quickly began to put off" means to delay or postpone, which is not relevant to the context.

Option (c) "quickly began to put away" means to store or save, which also does not fit the context.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option (d) "quickly began to take off" is the correct choice.

18. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) no improvement is required

The sentence is correct as it stands. The phrase "had been dead for years" uses the past perfect tense appropriately to indicate that the tree was already dead for a long period before some point in the past. This construction fits well in the context of describing the tree's long-standing condition.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the tense incorrectly or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (a) "is dead for years" incorrectly uses the present tense, which is not appropriate given the context of the sentence.

Option (b) "has been dead for years" uses the present perfect tense, which is not suitable here because the sentence is describing a condition that existed in the past relative to another past event.

Option (c) "have been dead for years" incorrectly uses "have" instead of "had," and the subject "tree" is singular, so "have" should be "has."

Option (d) "was dead for years" uses the simple past tense, which does not convey the same sense of an ongoing state in the past leading up to another past event.

Therefore, option (e) "no improvement is required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

19. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) to post the photo

The phrase "to post the photo" is the correct infinitive form that follows the verb "logged into." It indicates the purpose or intention of logging into her social media account. The structure "to + verb" is commonly used after verbs like "logged into" to express purpose.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (b) "of posting the photo" uses the preposition "of" incorrectly in this context.

Option (c) "by posting the photo" changes the meaning, suggesting that she logged into her social media account through posting the photo, which doesn't convey the intended meaning.

Option (d) "for posting the photo" is grammatically incorrect in this context. It does not fit the structure needed after "logged into."

Therefore, option (a) "to post the photo" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers
Skyrup@gmail.com

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) has been occupying

The sentence is in the present perfect continuous tense, which is appropriate for describing an action that started in the past and is still ongoing. The phrase "has been occupying" correctly conveys this continuous action.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that either change the tense or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (a) "had occupying" changes the tense to past perfect, which is not appropriate for describing an ongoing action.

Option (b) "will occupy" changes the tense to future tense, which does not accurately describe the ongoing action in the sentence.

Option (d) "is occupying" changes the tense to present continuous, which does not convey the duration of the action over a period of time.

Therefore, option (c) "has been occupying" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). One of the primary drivers of DMK's success was its commitment to nurturing a robust and ideologically consistent coalition.

B). The Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) led by chief minister M K Stalin has (P)/ successfully securing alongside its allies (Q)/ emerged as a formidable force in Tamil Nadu, (R)/ a clean sweep of the state's 39 Lok Sabha seats (S).

C). This outcome underscores the effective of Mr Stalin's political strategy, deeply rooted in ideological coherence, inclusive coalition building, and grassroots mobilization.

D). The thumping victory comes as a blowing to the BJP and its state chief K Annamalai who led a fierce campaign in the state.

E). Since the 2019 elections, Mr Stalin has diligently built and maintained the Social Progressive Alliance, which later became part of the INDIA bloc.

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

2. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (C) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. This outcome underscores the effective of

b. Mr Stalin's political strategy,

c. deeply rooted in ideological coherence,

d. inclusive coalition building, and grassroots mobilization.

e. No correction required

3. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (D) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. The thumping victory comes

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. as a blowing to the BJP and its

c. state chief K Annamalai who led

d. a fierce campaign in the state

e. No correction required

4. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (B) which is divided into four parts.

a. PRSQ

b. PRQS

c. PSQR

d. PQSR

e. No rearrangement required

5. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCD

b. ACDE

c. BDCE

d. BCAE

e. BACD

6. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). Asset management aims to optimize the use of a company's resources	D).to evaluate investment opportunities.
B). Sensitivity analysis assesses how different variables impact financial outcomes,	E). impacting the cost of capital and financial risk.
C). Financial leverage can enhance returns on equity,	F).but excessive leverage increases the risk of financial distress.

a. Only C-F
b. Both A-D and B-E
c. Both B-E and C-F
d. Both A-D and C-F
e. All A-D, B-E and C-F

7. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Financial modeling utilizes mathematical techniques	D).to ensure transparency, trust, and ethical conduct in all financial activities.
B). Working capital optimization aims to balance a company's current assets and liabilities	E). to simulate and analyze different financial scenarios and outcomes.
C). Capital structure decisions determine the mix of debt and equity financing	F).financed by debt, indicating its financial leverage.

a. Only A-E
b. Only C-F
c. Both A-D and C-F
d. Both A-E and B-D
e. All A-D, B-E and C-F

8. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). Working capital management involves managing current assets and liabilities	D).to ensure efficient cash flow and operational continuity.
B). Financial transparency is crucial for building trust with stakeholders	E). while maintaining or improving the quality of products and services.
C). Cost management strategies aim to minimize expenses	F).and structures that govern the relationships between a company's stakeholders.

a. Only B-F
b. Only A-D
c. Both A-D and C-E
d. Both B-F and C-E
e. All A-D, B-F and C-E

9. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Financial controls are established to safeguard assets,	D).ensure accuracy of financial records, and detect and prevent fraud.
B). Capital allocation decisions determine how resources are distributed	E). among competing investment opportunities to maximize returns.
C). Internal controls are mechanisms put in place by organizations to safeguard assets,	F).ensure compliance with regulations, and prevent fraud or mismanagement.

a. Only A-D
b. Only C-F
c. Both A-D and C-F
d. Both A-D and B-E
e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A).The debt-to-equity ratio measures a company's financial leverage	D).which are weighted to determine the overall cost of financing.
B).Leverage involves using borrowed funds to finance investments,	E). by comparing its total liabilities to its shareholders' equity.
C).Cost of capital includes the cost of debt and the cost of equity,	F).which can amplify returns but also increase risk.

a. Only A-E

b. Only C-D

c. Both A-E and B-F

d. Both B-F and C-D

e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

11. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

As AI continues to evolve and _____ every aspect of the industry, it is essential for businesses to embrace innovation, adapt to technological advancements, and prioritise ethical considerations to _____ the full potential of AI while ensuring inclusivity, fairness, and security in the e-commerce ecosystem.

a. permeate, harness

b. infiltrate, constrain

c. dominate, hinder

d. disrupt, exploit

e. invade, limit

12. Questions

A serious heat and water _____ that has already claimed lives and is threatening many more is _____ the northern parts of India, including the Capital.

a. shortage, aiding

b. crisis, assisting

c. emergency, alleviating

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. dilemma, helping

e. catastrophe, plaguing

13. Questions

Fadnavis and the other senior BJP leaders had termed Ajit as the _____ of corruption but they found no _____ in forming a coalition Government with him.

a. symbol, issue

b. embodiment, qualms

c. epitome, fear

d. personification, problem

e. incarnation, concern

14. Questions

The one idea that is deeply _____ in the hypersensitive Bengali psyche is the belief that the Centre, as in the government in New Delhi, is biased and works actively to _____ the state of many things, including a bigger share in power and a legitimate share of the pie of benefits that ought to flow into West Bengal.

a. implanted, support

b. rooted, enhance

c. ingrained, deprive

d. embedded, favour

e. entrenched, enrich

15. Questions

Indian voters have shown the world that there is still hope for democracy, that voters can and will cut _____ down to size, that the narrative of hate will be rejected and that _____ propaganda can be countered through the power of the ballot.

a. elites, noble

b. leaders, virtuous

c. tyrants, malicious

d. politicians, beneficial

e. populists, vile

16. Questions

In each of the questions given below, a sentence/ paragraph is given with few words highlighted. These words may not be placed correctly. Also, one of these words may be inappropriate in context

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

of the sentence/ paragraph. Identify the most appropriate rearrangement of the words and the suitable replacement for the incorrect word.

The Departments of Space (DoS) is managing (A) with the entry of private sector players in the national space programme as well as dodging (B) the development of the maiden human spaceflight mission and new launch vehicles. The Ministries of Earth Sciences (MoES) is involved in missions to explore (C) the seabed for mineral resources — an enterprise just beginning to feature (D) in multilateral fora — as well as climate adaptation and mitigation.

a. ABCD; A-retreating
b. BACD; B-grappling
c. ABDC; A-delving
d. BADC; B- striving
e. No rearrangement required

17. Questions

Media orthodoxy has it that the fixation (A) of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) with Lord Ram is still bringing it huge electoral and political dividends, which has convinced (B) the BJP leadership that this indeed is an inviolable truth. Any amount of empirical affidavit (C) to the contrary is dismissed (D) as hypothetical at best, and/or false at worst.

a. ABCD; C-evidence
b. CBAD; C-obsession
c. ADCB; D-persuaded
d. CDAB; B-expelled
e. No rearrangement required

18. Questions

The 2024 general election result shows that the Indian voter has expressed (A) a repugnance (B) for the politics of hatred (C), of divide and rule, and the politics of the Prime Minister himself, whose electoral rhetoric this time was indecorous (D).

a. ABCD; B-affinity
b. ADCB; D-ardency
c. CBAD; D-felicitous
d. CDAB; B-expedient
e. No rearrangement required

19. Questions

Most people in the south are servitude (A) Indian nationalists who subsidise (B) full well the need to

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

correct regional imbalances, and for richer States to recognise (C) poorer ones. But we must ensure that this balancing act does not become financial staunch (D) of our southern States.

a. ABCD; A-tenacious
b. DBCA; B-support
c. DCBA; A-persecution
d. ACBD; B- assimilate
e. No rearrangement required

20. Questions

If Modi had emerged as a figure of unity rather than of hate and exaggerated ego (A),he may have been able to avoid the travail (B) of being ticked off publicly by Bhagwat. The BJP's defeat (C) in Ayodhya and the Ramjanmabhoomi heartland and Modi's own weak performance in Kashi, the sacred seat of Hinduism, suggest that there has been an internal ignominy (D) within the Sangh Parivar.

a. ABCD; A-conceit
b. CBAD; A-subdue
c. CDAB; B-anguish
d. ADCB; B-disquiet
e. No rearrangement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The odd one out is Sentence D: "The thumping victory comes as a blow to the BJP and its state chief K Annamalai who led a fierce campaign in the state."

Sentences A, B, C, and E focus on the strategies and efforts of the DMK and its leader M K Stalin in securing a political victory in Tamil Nadu. They discuss coalition building, ideological consistency, and political strategy. However, sentence D shifts the focus to the BJP and its state chief K Annamalai, discussing their reaction to the DMK's victory rather than the strategies and actions of the DMK itself. This makes sentence D the odd one out.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Answer: A

Error: Part a) should be corrected to "underscores the effectiveness of."

The error in this sentence involves incorrect word choice. The word "effective" is an adjective, but the sentence requires a noun to complete the phrase "the effective of." The correct noun form is

"effectiveness."

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part a) should be corrected to "underscores the effectiveness of."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "This outcome underscores the effectiveness of Mr. Stalin's political strategy, deeply rooted in ideological coherence, inclusive coalition building, and grassroots mobilization." This version uses the correct noun form "effectiveness."

3. Questions

Answer: B

Error: Part b) should be corrected to "as a blow to the BJP."

The error in this sentence involves incorrect word choice. The phrase "as a blowing to the BJP" is incorrect. The correct noun form should be "blow" instead of "blowing."

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part b) should be corrected to "as a blow to the BJP."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "The thumping victory comes as a blow to the BJP and its state chief K Annamalai who led a fierce campaign in the state." This version uses the correct noun form "blow."

4. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is:" The Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) led by chief minister M K Stalin has emerged as a formidable force in Tamil Nadu, successfully securing alongside its allies a clean sweep of the state's 39 Lok Sabha seats."

5. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph focuses on the success of the Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) led by Chief Minister M K Stalin in Tamil Nadu. It emphasizes the role of coalition building and ideological consistency in their political strategy and victory.

The passage begins with sentence B, which highlights the DMK's success under Chief Minister M K Stalin in securing all 39 Lok Sabha seats in Tamil Nadu. Sentence C follows, explaining that this victory reflects the effectiveness of Stalin's political strategy, which is based on ideological coherence, inclusive coalition building, and grassroots mobilization. Sentence A delves deeper into one of the main reasons for DMK's success: its commitment to maintaining a strong and ideologically consistent coalition. Finally, sentence E provides context on Stalin's efforts since the 2019 elections to build and maintain the Social Progressive Alliance, which later became part of the INDIA bloc.

So, the correct sequence is: B – C – A – E.

6. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements C-F: "Financial leverage can enhance returns on equity, but excessive leverage increases the risk of financial distress." This sentence highlights both the advantages and drawbacks of using financial leverage.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

7. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements A-E: "Financial modeling utilizes mathematical techniques to simulate and analyze different financial scenarios and outcomes." This sentence provides a clear description of what financial modeling entails.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

8. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements A-D: "Working capital management involves managing current assets and liabilities to ensure efficient cash flow and operational continuity." This sentence provides a clear understanding of working capital management.

When combining these two statements C-E: "Cost management strategies aim to minimize expenses while maintaining or improving the quality of products and services." This sentence highlights the dual focus of cost management strategies on reducing costs without compromising product or service quality.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

9. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-F: "Financial controls are established to safeguard assets, ensure compliance with regulations, and prevent fraud or mismanagement." This sentence provides a clear and comprehensive explanation of the purpose of financial controls.

When combining these two statements B-E: "Capital allocation decisions determine how resources are distributed among competing investment opportunities to maximize returns." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the purpose of capital allocation decisions.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Internal controls are mechanisms put in place by organizations to safeguard assets, ensure accuracy of financial records, and detect and prevent fraud." This sentence provides a clear and comprehensive explanation of the purpose of internal controls.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

10. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: "The debt-to-equity ratio measures a company's financial leverage by comparing its total liabilities to its shareholders' equity." This sentence provides a clear definition of the debt-to-equity ratio.

When combining these two statements B-F: "Leverage involves using borrowed funds to finance investments, which can amplify returns but also increase risk." This sentence provides a clear explanation of the potential benefits and risks of leverage.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Cost of capital includes the cost of debt and the cost of equity, which are weighted to determine the overall cost of financing." This sentence provides a clear explanation of how the cost of capital is calculated.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

11. Questions

Answer: A

The Correct Option is: a) permeate, harness

"Permeate" means to spread or diffuse through, which accurately describes AI affecting every part of the industry.

"Harness" means to control and make use of (resources), especially to produce energy, which fits the context of leveraging AI's full potential.

b). infiltrate, constrain: "Infiltrate" carries a negative connotation of entering or gaining access to something surreptitiously, which is not appropriate in a positive business context.

"Constrain" means to restrict or limit, which is the opposite of what businesses should do to utilize AI effectively.

c). dominate, hinder: "Dominate" implies overpowering, which could be seen as negative and doesn't align with the collaborative and integrated connotation of "permeate."

"Hinder" means to create difficulties or obstacles, which is the opposite of utilizing AI's potential.

d). disrupt, exploit: "Disrupt" implies causing significant change that interrupts the normal course, which might not accurately describe the gradual and comprehensive spread of AI.

"Exploit" often carries a negative connotation of using something unfairly or selfishly, which is not aligned with the positive goal of "harness."

e). invade, limit: "Invade" implies entering forcibly, which carries a negative connotation and doesn't suit the positive integration of AI.

"Limit" means to restrict, which contradicts the idea of fully utilizing AI's potential.

In summary, option (a) "permeate, harness" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that AI is spreading through every aspect of the industry and that businesses should fully utilize its potential while maintaining ethical standards.

12. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: E

The Correct Option is: e) catastrophe, plaguing

"Catastrophe" means a sudden and widespread disaster, which accurately describes a serious heat and water crisis.

"Plaguing" means causing continual trouble or distress, fitting well to describe the ongoing impact on northern parts of India.

a). shortage, aiding: "Shortage" does not convey the severity implied by "catastrophe."

"Aiding" means helping or supporting, which is the opposite of causing distress.

b). crisis, assisting: "Crisis" is appropriate but "catastrophe" conveys a greater severity, making it a better fit.

"Assisting" means helping or supporting, which is the opposite of causing distress.

c). emergency, alleviating: "Emergency" is appropriate but does not capture the long-term impact implied by "catastrophe."

"Alleviating" means making a problem less severe, which is the opposite of causing distress.

d). dilemma, helping: "Dilemma" implies a difficult choice rather than a disaster.

"Helping" means providing assistance, which is the opposite of causing distress.

In summary, option (e) "catastrophe, plaguing" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea of a severe heat and water crisis causing ongoing distress in the northern parts of India.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The Correct Option is: b) embodiment, qualms

"Embodiment" means a tangible or visible form of an idea, quality, or feeling, which fits well to describe Ajit as representing corruption.

"Qualms" means feelings of doubt or uneasiness, which accurately describes the lack of hesitation in forming a coalition.

a). symbol, issue: "Symbol" is close in meaning to "embodiment" but doesn't capture the same depth of representation.

"Issue" means a point of discussion or debate, which doesn't fit the context of having no hesitation or doubt.

c). epitome, fear: "Epitome" is another word that can mean a perfect example, but "embodiment" is more fitting in this context.

"Fear" doesn't fit well with the context; "qualms" is a more appropriate term for hesitation or doubt.

d). personification, problem: "Personification" means attributing human characteristics to something non-human, which is close in meaning to "embodiment" but less direct.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"Problem" is too vague and doesn't specifically address the concept of hesitation or doubt.

e). incarnation, concern: "Incarnation" implies a more literal embodiment, often with religious connotations, making "embodiment" a better choice.

"Concern" could be interpreted in various ways and doesn't specifically address the idea of hesitation or doubt like "qualms" does.

In summary, option (b) "embodiment, qualms" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the contradiction of describing Ajit as a representation of corruption while having no hesitation in forming a coalition with him.

14. Questions

Answer: C

The Correct Option is: c) ingrained, deprive

"Ingrained" means firmly fixed or established, which accurately describes an idea that is deeply embedded in the psyche.

"Deprive" means to deny someone the possession or use of something, fitting well with the context of the Centre withholding benefits.

a). implanted, support: "Implanted" can mean fixed securely or deeply, but "ingrained" is more commonly used in this context.

"Support" means to bear all or part of the weight, which is the opposite of "deprive" and doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

b). rooted, enhance: "Rooted" means established deeply and firmly, similar to "ingrained," but "ingrained" better conveys the depth of the belief.

"Enhance" means to improve the quality, value, or extent of something, which is the opposite of "deprive."

d). embedded, favour: "Embedded" means fixed firmly and deeply in a surrounding mass, but "ingrained" is more appropriate for describing a psychological belief.

"Favour" means to show preferential treatment, which doesn't fit the context of the Centre's supposed actions against the state.

e). entrenched, enrich: "Entrenched" means firmly established and difficult to change, similar to "ingrained," but "ingrained" is a more suitable choice in this context.

"Enrich" means to improve or enhance the quality or value of something, which is the opposite of "deprive."

In summary, option (c) "ingrained, deprive" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the deeply embedded belief in the Bengali psyche that the Centre is biased and works to deny the state its fair share of power and benefits.

15. Questions

Answer: E

The Correct Option is: e) populists, vile

"Populists" refers to politicians who claim to represent the common people, often using rhetoric that appeals to popular desires and prejudices.

"Vile" means extremely unpleasant or morally bad, which fits well with the context of hateful propaganda.

a). elites, noble: "Elites" refers to a select group that is superior in terms of ability or qualities, which doesn't specifically capture the idea of politicians using populist tactics.

"Noble" means having fine personal qualities or high moral principles, which is the opposite of "vile" and doesn't fit the context of propaganda being countered.

b). leaders, virtuous: "Leaders" is too general and doesn't capture the specific idea of populists.

"Virtuous" means having high moral standards, which is the opposite of "vile."

c). tyrants, malicious: "Tyrants" refers to cruel and oppressive rulers, which is a different concept from populists who use rhetoric to appeal to the masses.

"Malicious" means intending to do harm, which could fit the context but isn't as precise as "vile" for describing the nature of the propaganda.

d). politicians, beneficial: "Politicians" is too broad and doesn't capture the specific idea of populists.

"Beneficial" means favourable or advantageous, which is the opposite of "vile."

In summary, option (e) "populists, vile" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that Indian voters reject populist leaders who use hateful and morally bad propaganda.

16. Questions

Answer: B

In this context, "grappling" means struggling to deal with or trying to manage a challenging situation. It suggests that the Departments of Space (DoS) is facing difficulties or challenges in handling the entry of private sector players into the national space programme, as well as managing the development of new projects such as the maiden human spaceflight mission and new launch vehicles.

"Grappling" implies actively struggling with or trying to manage challenging situations. It suggests an effort to confront and address difficulties.

"Dodging," means avoiding or evading something. Using "dodging" would imply that the Departments of Space (DoS) is trying to avoid dealing with the entry of private sector players and the development of new projects, which is not the intended meaning.

Therefore, "dodging" would not accurately convey the idea of the DoS actively working to manage and address the challenges it faces.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The Correct sentence will be: "The Departments of Space (DoS) is grappling with the entry of private sector players in the national space programme as well as managing the development of the maiden human spaceflight mission and new launch vehicles. The Ministries of Earth Sciences (MoES) is involved in missions to explore the seabed for mineral resources — an enterprise just beginning to feature in multilateral fora — as well as climate adaptation and mitigation."

17. Questions

Answer: A

In this context, "evidence" refers to information, data, or facts that are used to support or refute a claim or belief. The sentence suggests that there might be factual information or data that contradicts the idea that the Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) focus on Lord Ram continues to bring it significant electoral and political benefits.

An "affidavit" is a written statement confirmed by oath or affirmation, used as evidence in legal proceedings. It is a specific legal document, and using it in place of "evidence" would change the meaning of the sentence and imply a formal legal context that is not intended here.

Therefore, "affidavit" would not accurately convey the intended meaning in this context.

The Correct sentence will be: "Media orthodoxy has it that the fixation of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) with Lord Ram is still bringing it huge electoral and political dividends, which has convinced the BJP leadership that this indeed is an inviolable truth. Any amount of empirical evidence to the contrary is dismissed as hypothetical at best, and/or false at worst."

18. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence is correct, hence no rearrangement required.

In this context, "repugnance" means a strong feeling of disgust or aversion. The sentence suggests that the result of the 2024 general election indicates that Indian voters have shown a strong dislike or aversion towards the politics of hatred, divisive tactics, and the politics associated with the Prime Minister, whose campaign rhetoric was considered indecorous or inappropriate.

19. Questions

Answer: C

In this context, "persecution" means the unjust treatment or punishment of a group of people. The sentence suggests that while it is important to address regional imbalances and have richer states subsidize poorer ones, this effort should not result in the unfair or harsh treatment of southern states. The term "persecution" emphasizes that the balancing act should not become a means of subjecting the southern states to undue financial burden or unfair economic practices.

"Servitude" refers to a condition in which an individual or group is forced to work for another or is in a state of slavery or bondage. It implies a lack of freedom and autonomy.

"Persecution," as used in the sentence, refers to unjust or harsh treatment. The sentence is emphasizing that the effort to correct regional imbalances should not result in the unfair or harsh treatment of southern states.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Using "servitude" would not accurately convey the intended meaning of unjust treatment. It would imply a condition of enforced labor or bondage, which is not the same as unfair financial treatment. Therefore, "servitude" is not an appropriate replacement for "persecution" in this context.

The Correct sentence will be: "Most people in the south are staunch Indian nationalists who recognise full well the need to correct regional imbalances, and for richer States to subsidise poorer ones. But we must ensure that this balancing act does not become financial persecution of our southern States."

20. Questions

Answer: D

In this context, "disquiet" means a feeling of anxiety, unease, or concern. The sentence suggests that the BJP's defeat in Ayodhya and the Ramjanmabhoomi heartland, along with Modi's weak performance in Kashi, indicates that there is a sense of internal concern or unease within the Sangh Parivar. This disquiet implies that members or factions within the Sangh Parivar are worried or unsettled about the current political situation and leadership.

"Travail" refers to painful or laborious effort, often associated with hard work or toil, and sometimes with suffering or hardship.

"Disquiet" in the sentence refers to a sense of anxiety, unease, or concern within the Sangh Parivar. It suggests that there is internal worry or unrest.

Replacing "disquiet" with "travail" would change the meaning of the sentence. Instead of indicating a feeling of internal unease or concern, it would imply that the Sangh Parivar is going through a period of hard work or suffering, which is not the intended meaning.

Therefore, "travail" is not an appropriate replacement for "disquiet" in this context.

In this context, "ignominy" means public shame or disgrace. The sentence suggests that if Modi had been a unifying figure instead of one associated with hate and exaggerated ego, he might have avoided the public embarrassment or disgrace of being reprimanded by Bhagwat. The term "ignominy" emphasizes the deep sense of shame or dishonour that comes from being criticized or rebuked in a public manner.

The Correct sentence will be: "If Modi had emerged as a figure of unity rather than of hate and exaggerated ego he may have been able to avoid the ignominy of being ticked off publicly by Bhagwat. The BJP's defeat in Ayodhya and the Ramjanmabhoomi heartland and Modi's own weak performance in Kashi, the sacred seat of Hinduism, suggest that there has been an internal disquiet within the Sangh Parivar."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

In the parliamentary elections, Prime Minister Narendra Modi's Bharatiya Janata Party faced a significant setback and failed to get a decisive mandate primarily because it lost over a third of the rural constituencies it won in 2019. This loss reflects a broader discontent in India's countryside, where economic issues such as unemployment and inflation have taken a heavy toll. The outcome of this election serves as a stark reminder that rapid and impressive national growth metrics can mask deep-seated regional disparities and localised hardships. The BJP's performance in rural areas is particularly noteworthy given Mr Modi's campaign, which highlighted his track record of economic growth and social welfare programmes. However, the allure of these broad national achievements and ideological appeals appears to have waned in the face of everyday economic realities that rural voters confront. Despite India's status as one of the fastest-growing economies globally, this growth has been uneven and has failed to translate into tangible benefits for many in the rural heartlands. Rural India, home to 60 per cent of the country's population, has seen a worrying trend of declining incomes and rising living costs. Families that once relied on agriculture and small-scale industries are struggling to make ends meet, with incomes reportedly halving in recent years. This economic distress is exacerbated by an acute shortage of jobs, a problem that has been worsening. The unemployment rate has climbed from 6 per cent before the Covid-19 pandemic to 8.1 per cent in April, reflecting the broader economic malaise that has particularly impacted rural India. The BJP's electoral strategy might have overlooked the depth of this rural distress. Confidence in urban strongholds and a focus on nationalistic rhetoric did not resonate sufficiently with rural voters, who were more concerned with immediate economic issues such as employment, inflation, and income disparity. Mr Modi's government did not make any major announcements targeting rural upliftment in its interim budget, which may have been a strategic miscalculation. The lack of specific measures to address rural economic challenges left a vacuum that opposition parties successfully exploited. The decline in the BJP's rural vote share and the shrinking margins of victory in the constituencies it retained indicate a significant shift in voter sentiment. The BJP's average margin of victory fell from 22.9 per cent in 2019 to 15.6 per cent, underscoring the growing dissatisfaction. While the BJP managed to hold on to most of its urban seats, the rural losses were substantial enough to cost the party a majority in Parliament, forcing it to rely on regional allies. This electoral outcome is a clear message from rural India: economic growth must be inclusive. It is not enough for the national economy to flourish if vast swathes of the population are left behind.

How has rural India's economic condition changed in recent years according to the passage?

a. Incomes have increased significantly

b. Living costs have decreased

c. There is a shortage of jobs and declining incomes

d. Agriculture has become more profitable

e. Small-scale industries are booming

2. Questions

Which of the following is NOT implied or stated in the passage?

skyBIGcoaching.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. The BJP lost over a third of the rural constituencies it won in 2019
b. India's rapid national growth has masked regional disparities
c. Rural voters were dissatisfied due to everyday economic realities
d. The BJP made significant budget announcements targeting rural upliftment
e. The unemployment rate in rural India has increased since the Covid-19 pandemic

3. Questions

What economic issues are contributing to the discontent in India's countryside?

a. Unemployment and inflation
b. High national growth rates
c. Urbanization
d. Declining population
e. Technological advancements

4. Questions

What was a significant mistake in the BJP's electoral strategy according to the passage?

a. Overemphasis on technological advancements
b. Failure to address rural economic challenges in the interim budget
c. Excessive focus on agriculture
d. Neglect of urban voters
e. Lack of strong opposition

5. Questions

What was the primary reason for the Bharatiya Janata Party's (BJP) setback in the parliamentary elections?

a. The party's focus on urban areas
b. The decline in rural constituencies it won
c. Opposition parties' successful campaigns
d. Lack of national growth
e. Increased support in urban areas

6. Questions

What message does the electoral outcome send according to the passage?

a. Urban areas need more attention

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. Nationalistic rhetoric is highly effective

c. Economic growth must be inclusive

d. Technological development is essential

e. Agriculture should be prioritized

7. Questions

What is the central theme of the passage?

a. The success of the Bharatiya Janata Party in urban areas

b. The impact of technological advancements on rural economies

c. The uneven distribution of economic growth in India and its political implications

d. The role of nationalistic rhetoric in modern Indian politics

e. The decline of agriculture in rural India

8. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

After years of dedication and hard work, his dreams of becoming a successful author turn into reality, with his latest novel topping bestseller lists worldwide.

a. has turned into reality

b. have turned into reality

c. was turn into reality

d. had turn into reality

e. No improvement is required

9. Questions

The ancient key turned with a loud click, allowing the adventurers to entering the long-forgotten castle, where untold mysteries and hidden treasures awaited their discovery.

a. adventurers to enter

b. adventurers about entering

c. adventurers from entering

d. adventurers on enter

e. No improvement is required

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

After months of anticipation and preparation, the day of the grand opening finally arrived, and the dedicated team, who wait so patiently for this moment, celebrated their hard-earned success with immense joy and pride.

a. have been waiting so patiently

b. has been waiting so patiently

c. were waiting so patiently

d. had waited so patiently

e. No improvement is required

11. Questions

With a sense of urgency, Jenny was hurried through the crowded streets, her heart pounding with anticipation as she raced against the ticking clock to catch the last train home.

a. Jenny is hurried through

b. Jenny was being hurrying through

c. Jenny was hurrying through

d. Jenny has hurrying through

e. No improvement is required

12. Questions

After years of traveling the world and experiencing different cultures, he finally found comfort and fulfillment in settling down in a quaint coastal town, where he could enjoy a slower pace of life and build lasting relationships with the close-knit community.

a. fulfillment to settle down

b. fulfillment for settling down

c. fulfillment to settling down

d. fulfillment of settling down

e. No improvement is required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

13. Questions

In each of the following questions, a highlighted word is given and used in the three statements. You have to identify in which of the following statements the word is incorrectly used, and mark it as your answer.

DECIMATION

I). The decimation of the forest by deforestation has led to the loss of countless species and habitats.

II). The company's new marketing strategy led to a decimation in sales, resulting in a significant increase in revenue.

III). The hurricane caused the decimation of the coastal town, leaving only a few buildings standing amidst widespread destruction.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

14. Questions

ASSIDUOUSLY

I). She worked assiduously on her research project, spending countless hours in the library gathering data and analysing results.

II). The chef assiduously prepared each dish, ensuring every detail was perfect before it left the kitchen.

III). He assiduously avoided studying for the exam, spending most of his time playing video games instead.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

15. Questions

REORIENT

I). After the team's victory, they decided to reorient their strategy, sticking to the same tactics that led them to success.

II). The company's reorientation towards sustainable practices led to increased efficiency and reduced environmental impact.

III). After facing setbacks, the team decided to reorient their strategy towards a more customer-centric approach.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

16. Questions

STEADFAST

I). Despite facing numerous challenges, Julie remained steadfast in her commitment to completing the project on time.

II). Despite his steadfast commitment to his diet, he frequently indulged in unhealthy snacks and desserts.

III). Her steadfast loyalty to the company wavered when she considered a job offer from a competitor.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

17. Questions

CLAMOUR

I). The clamour of the crowd outside the stadium could be heard from miles away, echoing their excitement for the upcoming match.

II). As the deadline approached, there was a clamour among the employees for clarification on the new company policies.

III). The serene atmosphere was disrupted by the clamour of birds chirping harmoniously in the trees.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

18. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into five parts, only one part of the sentence is correct. You have to mark that part of the sentence which is correct.

When I was informed of me winning, (A)/ I couldn't helped but look about the room in disbelief, (B)/ searching for someone for share (C)/ the incredible news with and trying to grasping (D)/ the reality of my unexpected success (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

19. Questions

After carefully review the bill (A)/ to ensure all charges was accurate, (B)/ I signed on the receipt (C)/ and handed back to (D)/ the waiter with a grateful smile (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

20. Questions

He thorough examined every document, (A)/ scrutinizing each and every detail (B)/ with meticulously care to ensure accuracy (C)/ and completeness before presenting (D)/ his findings for the board (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

21. Questions

After months of intense training and unwaver dedication, (A)/ the team were overjoyed (B)/ to hear the final whistle, (C)/ realizing that they won the championship (D)/ and their hard work have paid off (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

22. Questions

The construction project faced several averse conditions, (A)/ include severe weather, (B)/ unexpect geological challenges, (C)/ and supply chain disruptions, (D)/ all of which significantly delay its completion

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

(E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is c) There is a shortage of jobs and declining incomes.

The passage explicitly mentions that rural India is experiencing a worrying trend of declining incomes and rising living costs. Families that once relied on agriculture and small-scale industries are struggling to make ends meet, with incomes reportedly halving in recent years. Additionally, it highlights that there is an acute shortage of jobs, with the unemployment rate increasing from 6% before the Covid-19 pandemic to 8.1% in April. These points clearly indicate that rural India is suffering from both a lack of job opportunities and a reduction in income levels.

a). Incomes have increased significantly: This is incorrect. The passage states that incomes in rural areas have halved in recent years, indicating a significant decrease rather than an increase.

b). Living costs have decreased: This is incorrect. The passage mentions that living costs have risen, contributing to the economic distress in rural areas.

d). Agriculture has become more profitable: This is incorrect. The passage does not indicate that agriculture has become more profitable. Instead, it suggests that those reliant on agriculture are struggling economically.

e). Small-scale industries are booming: This is incorrect. The passage indicates that families relying on small-scale industries are struggling to make ends meet, which implies that these industries are not booming.

Thus, the passage clearly describes a negative shift in rural India's economic condition, characterized by a shortage of jobs and declining incomes.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Answer: D

d). The BJP made significant budget announcements targeting rural upliftment.

This is the correct answer because the passage specifically states that the BJP did not make any major announcements targeting rural upliftment in its interim budget, which was considered a strategic miscalculation.

a). The BJP lost over a third of the rural constituencies it won in 2019: This is implied in the passage, which states that the BJP lost a significant number of rural constituencies.

b). India's rapid national growth has masked regional disparities: The passage mentions that impressive national growth metrics have masked deep-seated regional disparities and localized hardships.

c). Rural voters were dissatisfied due to everyday economic realities: The passage indicates that rural voters' dissatisfaction stemmed from everyday economic realities such as unemployment and inflation.

e). The unemployment rate in rural India has increased since the Covid-19 pandemic: The passage states that the unemployment rate climbed from 6% before the Covid-19 pandemic to 8.1% in April, reflecting a worsening job shortage.

3. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is a) Unemployment and inflation.

The passage explicitly mentions that economic issues such as unemployment and inflation have taken a heavy toll on India's countryside. It highlights that the unemployment rate has climbed from 6% before the Covid-19 pandemic to 8.1% in April, indicating a significant increase in joblessness. Additionally, it refers to rising living costs, which is a direct indicator of inflation. These two factors, unemployment and inflation, are clearly identified as major contributors to the economic discontent in rural areas.

b) High national growth rates: This is incorrect. While the passage mentions that India is experiencing rapid and impressive national growth, it also states that this growth has been uneven and has not translated into tangible benefits for many in rural areas. High national growth rates are not described as contributing to discontent; rather, they mask the underlying regional disparities.

c) Urbanization: This is incorrect. The passage does not discuss urbanization as a factor contributing to discontent in the countryside. The focus is on economic issues specific to rural areas.

d). Declining population: This is incorrect. The passage does not mention a declining population as an issue. It states that rural India is home to 60% of the country's population, indicating a significant rural population but does not suggest it is declining.

e). Technological advancements: This is incorrect. The passage does not discuss technological advancements as a factor influencing the economic discontent in rural areas. The issues highlighted are specifically unemployment and inflation.

Therefore, the economic issues contributing to the discontent in India's countryside are primarily unemployment and inflation, as clearly stated in the passage.

4. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: B

The correct answer is b) Failure to address rural economic challenges in the interim budget.

The passage clearly states that the BJP did not make any major announcements targeting rural upliftment in its interim budget, which may have been a strategic miscalculation. This lack of specific measures to address the economic hardships faced by rural voters left a gap that opposition parties effectively exploited. This oversight in not focusing on the rural economy was a significant factor in their electoral setback, as it directly impacted the voters who were suffering from unemployment, inflation, and declining incomes.

a). Overemphasis on technological advancements: The passage does not mention technological advancements as a factor in the BJP's electoral strategy. Therefore, it cannot be considered a significant mistake according to the passage.

c). Excessive focus on agriculture: While the passage mentions economic issues related to agriculture, it does not state that the BJP had an excessive focus on agriculture. Instead, the issue was a lack of focus on addressing broader rural economic challenges.

d). Neglect of urban voters: The passage specifically mentions that the BJP managed to hold on to most of its urban seats, indicating that urban voters were not neglected. The primary issue was with the rural constituencies, not the urban ones.

e). Lack of strong opposition: On the contrary, the passage implies that the opposition parties were strong and able to exploit the BJP's strategic missteps. The issue was not the lack of a strong opposition but the BJP's failure to address the pressing economic needs of the rural population.

Therefore, the most significant mistake in the BJP's electoral strategy, as highlighted in the passage, was the failure to address rural economic challenges in the interim budget, leading to a loss of support from rural voters.

5. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is b) The decline in rural constituencies it won.

The passage states that the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) faced a significant setback in the parliamentary elections primarily because it lost over a third of the rural constituencies it had won in 2019. This loss of rural constituencies reflects broader discontent in India's countryside due to economic issues such as unemployment and inflation. This is highlighted as the primary reason for the BJP's inability to secure a decisive mandate.

a). The party's focus on urban areas: While the passage mentions that the BJP's electoral strategy might have overemphasized urban areas and nationalistic rhetoric, this is not stated as the primary reason for the setback. The main issue was the loss of rural constituencies.

c). Opposition parties' successful campaigns: Although the opposition parties exploited the BJP's strategic miscalculations, the primary reason for the setback was the loss of rural constituencies due to economic discontent.

d). Lack of national growth: The passage does not indicate a lack of national growth as a reason for the setback. In fact, it mentions that India's national growth metrics were rapid and impressive, but these did not translate into benefits for rural areas.

e). Increased support in urban areas: The passage does not indicate that increased support in urban areas was a factor. It notes that the BJP managed to hold on to most of its urban seats, but this was not enough to offset the losses in rural areas.

Therefore, the primary reason for the BJP's setback in the parliamentary elections was the decline in the rural constituencies it won, as this directly impacted their overall performance and mandate.

6. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is c) Economic growth must be inclusive.

The passage concludes with a clear message that the electoral outcome reflects the need for inclusive economic growth. Despite India's status as one of the fastest-growing economies globally, this growth has been uneven and has failed to benefit many in the rural heartlands. The significant losses in rural constituencies and the dissatisfaction among rural voters underscore the importance of ensuring that economic growth benefits all segments of the population, not just the urban areas.

a). Urban areas need more attention: This is incorrect. The passage focuses on the rural distress and does not suggest that urban areas need more attention. In fact, the BJP managed to hold on to most of its urban seats, indicating that urban areas were not the primary issue.

b). Nationalistic rhetoric is highly effective: This is incorrect. The passage suggests that the allure of broad national achievements and ideological appeals has waned in the face of everyday economic realities that rural voters confront. Hence, nationalistic rhetoric did not resonate sufficiently with rural voters.

d). Technological development is essential: This is incorrect. The passage does not discuss technological development as a key issue or solution to the problems faced by rural India. The focus is on economic issues such as unemployment, inflation, and income disparity.

e). Agriculture should be prioritized: This is incorrect. While economic issues affecting those reliant on agriculture are mentioned, the overall message is broader, emphasizing the need for inclusive economic growth rather than prioritizing a specific sector like agriculture.

Therefore, the electoral outcome sends a message that economic growth must be inclusive, ensuring that all regions and demographics, particularly the rural population, benefit from the country's economic progress.

7. Questions

Answer: C

c). The uneven distribution of economic growth in India and its political implications.

This is the correct answer because the passage primarily discusses how the rapid national economic growth in India has not been evenly distributed, leading to significant economic distress in rural areas. This uneven growth has political consequences, as evidenced by the BJP's setback in rural constituencies during the parliamentary elections.

a). The success of the Bharatiya Janata Party in urban areas: This is incorrect. While the passage mentions that the BJP managed to hold on to most of its urban seats, it does not focus on the party's success in urban areas as the central theme.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). The impact of technological advancements on rural economies: This is incorrect. The passage does not discuss technological advancements or their impact on rural economies.

d). The role of nationalistic rhetoric in modern Indian politics: This is incorrect. Although nationalistic rhetoric is mentioned, it is not the central theme. The primary focus is on economic issues and their political implications.

e). The decline of agriculture in rural India: This is incorrect. While the passage touches on the economic struggles of those reliant on agriculture, the central theme is broader, focusing on the overall economic disparities and their political effects.

8. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) have turned into reality

The subject "dreams" is plural, so the correct form of the verb should be "have turned" to match the plural subject.

Option (a) "has turned into reality" uses the singular verb "has," which does not agree with the plural subject "dreams."

Option (c) "was turn into reality" is incorrect because "was" should be "were" for plural subjects, and "turn" should be "turned" for past tense.

Option (d) "had turn into reality" is incorrect because "had" should be followed by the past participle "turned."

Therefore, the correct sentence is: After years of dedication and hard work, his dreams of becoming a successful author have turned into reality, with his latest novel topping bestseller lists worldwide.

9. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) adventurers to enter

The sentence has an error with the phrase "allowing the adventurers to entering," which is incorrect. The correct infinitive form should be "to enter."

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are not grammatically correct or do not fit the context of the sentence:

Option (b) "adventurers about entering" changes the meaning and is not idiomatic in this context.

Option (c) "adventurers from entering" implies a prohibition, which is the opposite of the intended meaning.

Option (d) "adventurers on enter" is not grammatically correct.

Therefore, option (a) "adventurers to enter" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) had waited so patiently

The sentence describes an event that has concluded (the grand opening) and references a prior state (the team waiting). This requires the use of the past perfect tense to show that the waiting occurred before the celebration.

Option (a) "have been waiting so patiently" is present perfect continuous, which implies the action is ongoing or has just recently completed, which doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

Option (b) "has been waiting so patiently" is similar to option (a) but uses "has" instead of "have," still not fitting the past context.

Option (c) "were waiting so patiently" uses past continuous, which is not appropriate for showing a completed action prior to another past event.

Option (d) "had waited so patiently" correctly uses the past perfect tense to indicate that the waiting was completed before the day of the grand opening.

Thus, option (d) "had waited so patiently" is the best fit for the sentence.

11. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) Jenny was hurrying through

The sentence describes an action that was taking place in the past, so the correct verb tense to use is the past continuous tense "was hurrying." This form indicates that the action of hurrying was ongoing at a specific point in the past.

Options (a), (b), and (d) either use incorrect verb forms or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (a) "Jenny is hurried through" uses the present tense "is" which is incorrect for describing a past action.

Option (b) "Jenny was being hurrying through" uses the passive voice and the present participle "being hurrying" which is not appropriate in this context.

Option (d) "Jenny has hurrying through" uses the present perfect tense "has hurrying" which is not suitable for describing an ongoing action in the past.

Therefore, option (c) "Jenny was hurrying through" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

12. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No improvement is required

The sentence is grammatically correct and clearly conveys the intended meaning. The phrase "found comfort and fulfillment in settling down" is appropriate and idiomatic.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning, disrupt the grammatical structure, or use incorrect phrasing:

Option (a) "fulfillment to settle down" changes the structure and is less idiomatic.

Option (b) "fulfillment for settling down" is grammatically correct but less natural compared to the original phrasing.

Option (c) "fulfillment to settling down" is incorrect because "to" should be followed by the base form of the verb ("settle").

sky5bupe@gmail.com
Tg.- @NextGenBankers

Option (d) "fulfillment by settling down" changes the meaning slightly and is less idiomatic.

Therefore, option (e) "No improvement is required" is the best choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

13. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "decimation" is used correctly to describe the severe destruction or reduction of the forest due to deforestation, resulting in significant loss of biodiversity and habitats.

II). In this sentence, "decimation" is used incorrectly. Decimation typically refers to the destruction or elimination of a large proportion of something, often implying a reduction by one-tenth. However, the sentence suggests the opposite—an increase in revenue, which contradicts the usual meaning of "decimation." A more appropriate term might be "boost" or "growth."

III). In this sentence, "decimation" is correctly used to describe the severe destruction or devastation inflicted upon the coastal town by the hurricane.

So, Sentences I and III use decimation in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option b) Only II is the correct choice.

14. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "assiduously" is correctly used to describe how diligently and with great care she worked on her research project.

II). In this sentence, "assiduously" is used correctly to describe the chef's meticulous and thorough approach to preparing each dish.

III). In this sentence, "assiduously" is used incorrectly. "Assiduously" means with great care, attention, and diligence, often in the context of hard work or dedication. However, in this sentence, it suggests the opposite—an avoidance of studying and a focus on leisure activities. A more suitable term might be "diligently" or "thoroughly."

So, Sentences I and II use assiduously in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option c) Only III is the correct choice.

15. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "reorient" is used incorrectly. "Reorient" typically means to change or adjust the direction or focus of something. However, in the sentence, it implies maintaining the same direction or focus, which contradicts the usual meaning of the word. A more suitable term might be "maintain" or "continue with."

II). In this sentence, "reorientation" is correctly used to describe the company's shift or adjustment towards sustainable practices, resulting in positive outcomes.

III). In this sentence, "reorient" is correctly used to indicate the team's decision to adjust or change their strategy towards a new direction or focus.

So, Sentences II and III use reorient in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option a) Only I is the correct choice.

16. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "steadfast" is correctly used to describe Julie's unwavering determination and loyalty to her commitment despite difficulties.

II). In this sentence, "steadfast" is used incorrectly. "Steadfast" typically means resolutely or unwaveringly loyal or committed. However, the sentence suggests inconsistency or wavering commitment, as the person frequently indulges in unhealthy snacks and desserts, which contradicts the usual meaning of "steadfast." A more suitable term might be "intermittent" or "inconsistent."

III). In this sentence, "steadfast" is used incorrectly. "Steadfast" typically means resolutely or unwaveringly loyal or committed. However, the sentence suggests a wavering or changing loyalty, as the person considers a job offer from a competitor, which contradicts the usual meaning of "steadfast." A more suitable term might be "wavering" or "compromised."

So, Sentence I use steadfast in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option e) Both II and III is the correct choice.

17. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "clamour" is correctly used to describe the loud and enthusiastic noise made by the crowd.

II). In this sentence, "clamour" is appropriately used to depict a loud and persistent demand or outcry from the employees seeking clarification on the new policies.

III). In this sentence, "clamour" is used incorrectly. "Clamour" typically refers to a loud and noisy outcry or uproar, often made by a group of people. Here, it's used to describe the pleasant sounds of birds chirping, which doesn't convey the usual meaning of the word. A more appropriate term might be "cacophony" or "discord."

So, Sentences I and II use "clamour" in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option c) Only III is the correct choice.

18. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: E

A). "When I was informed of me winning," - This part has a pronoun error. It should be "my winning" to correctly use the possessive form before a gerund.

B). "I couldn't helped but look about the room in disbelief," - This part has a verb form error. It should be "I couldn't help but look about the room in disbelief," to use the correct base form after "couldn't."

C). "searching for someone for share" - This part has a preposition and verb form error. It should be "searching for someone to share" to use the correct infinitive form.

D). "the incredible news with and trying to grasping" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "trying to grasp" to use the correct infinitive form.

E). "the reality of my unexpected success" - This part is grammatically correct. It provides the context of the unexpected success.

So, the correct choice is E) " the reality of my unexpected success ".

The errors are in parts A, B, C and D.

The corrected sentence would read: “When I was informed of my winning, I couldn't help but look about the room in disbelief, searching for someone to share the incredible news with and trying to grasp the reality of my unexpected success.”

19. Questions

Answer: E

A). "After carefully review the bill" - The error here is the verb form. It should be in the past tense to match the sequence of events described in the sentence. It should be "After carefully reviewing the bill" to use the correct gerund form after "After."

B). "to ensure all charges was accurate," - The verb "was" is incorrect; it should be "were" to agree with the plural noun "charges." It should be "to ensure all charges were accurate,"

C). "I signed on the receipt" - The error lies in the preposition used after the verb "sign." When simply signing a document without specifying a particular location, use the preposition "the" before the noun representing the document. Typically, when referring to signing a receipt, the preposition "on" is omitted. Therefore, the correct phrase is "sign the receipt," not "sign on the receipt."

D). "and handed back to" - The phrase "handed back to" is missing an object. It should be "and handed it back to" to clarify what was handed back.

E). "the waiter with a grateful smile" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes the action with additional detail.

So, the correct choice is E) " the waiter with a grateful smile ".

The errors are in parts A, B, C and D.

The corrected sentence would read: “After carefully reviewing the bill to ensure all charges were accurate, I signed the receipt and handed it back to the waiter with a grateful smile.”

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

A). "He thorough examined every document," - The adverb "thorough" is used incorrectly here. It should be "thoroughly," which is the correct adverb form modifying the verb "examined."

B). "scrutinizing each and every detail" - The error in part B lies in the phrase "each and every detail." Both "each" and "every" essentially mean the same thing: referring to individual items. Therefore, using both together is redundant. So, the correction in part B would be to remove "each and" and simply use "every," resulting in "scrutinizing every detail." This maintains the intended meaning without redundancy.

C). "with meticulously care to ensure accuracy" - The phrase "with meticulously care" is incorrect. It should be "with meticulous care," using the correct adverb "meticulously" to modify the noun "care."

So, the corrected part C would be: C) "with meticulous care to ensure accuracy." This correction ensures proper grammar and clarity in expressing the idea that care was taken to ensure accuracy.

D). "and completeness before presenting" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes the sequence of actions.

E). "his findings for the board" - The error in part E lies in the preposition used after "his findings." The sentence uses "for," which implies that the findings are intended for the benefit or use of the board. However, it's more common to use "to" when indicating the recipient or target audience of findings or information.

Therefore, the correction involves replacing "for" with "to," resulting in "his findings to the board." This change clarifies that the findings are being presented or communicated to the board for their consideration or review.

So, the correct choice is D) "and completeness before presenting".

The errors are in part A, B, C and E.

The corrected sentence would read: " He thoroughly examined every document, scrutinizing each detail with meticulous care to ensure accuracy and completeness before presenting his findings to the board."

21. Questions

Answer: C

A). "After months of intense training and unwaver dedication," - This part has an adjective form error. It should be "unwavering dedication" to use the correct adjective form.

B). "the team were overjoyed" - This part has a subject-verb agreement error. It should be "the team was overjoyed" because "team" is a collective noun and is treated as singular in this context.

C). "to hear the final whistle," - This part is grammatically correct. It describes what made the team overjoyed.

D). "realizing that they won the championship" - This part has a verb tense error. It should be "realizing that they had won the championship" to maintain correct past perfect tense.

E). "and their hard work have paid off" - This part has a verb tense error. It should be "and their hard work had paid off" to use the correct past perfect tense.

So, the correct choice is C) " to hear the final whistle, ".

The errors are in part A, B, D and E.

The corrected sentence would read: " After months of intense training and unwavering dedication, the team was overjoyed to hear the final whistle, realizing that they had won the championship and their hard work had paid off. "

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

22. Questions

Answer: D

A). "The construction project faced several averse conditions," - The word "averse" is incorrect here. The correct word is "adverse," which means unfavourable or harmful.

Corrected A: "The construction project faced several adverse conditions,"

B). "include severe weather," - The verb form "include" is incorrect. It should be "including" to properly introduce a list.

Corrected B: "including severe weather,"

C). "unexpect geological challenges," - The word "unexpect" is incorrect. The correct word is "unexpected."

Corrected C: "unexpected geological challenges,"

D). "and supply chain disruptions," - This part is grammatically correct. It correctly lists one of the conditions faced.

E). "all of which significantly delay its completion" - The verb form "delay" is incorrect. It should be "delayed" to match the past tense of the rest of the sentence.

Corrected E: "all of which significantly delayed its completion."

So, the correct choice is D) " and supply chain disruptions, ".

The errors are in part A, B, C and E.

The corrected sentence would read: " The construction project faced several adverse conditions, including severe weather, unexpected geological challenges, and supply chain disruptions, all of which significantly delayed its completion."

sky53ut@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following passage, some of the words have been highlighted in bold. Read the passage and try to understand what it wants to convey. Then replace the highlighted words with the correct option in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually sound. In any case the highlighted word is given correctly, then mark 'No Improvement required' as the right answer choice.

A restatement of basic principles of law is always welcome, especially if there are judicial orders that seem to ignore them. The Supreme Court's recent order cautioning courts against granting pre-trial injunctions against the media in civil suits for defamation is a reminder that such orders could have severe (A) ramifications on the freedom of speech and may impair the public's right to know. "Granting interim injunctions before the trial commences, in a (B) cavalier manner results in the stifling of public debate," the Court observed, while setting aside a Delhi lower court order, also confirmed by the Delhi High Court, that directed news outlet Bloomberg to take down an article concerning Zee Entertainment Enterprises Ltd. within a week for being allegedly defamatory. The brief order has not only reiterated the standard three-fold test for granting interim injunctions in general, but reminded the judicial officers that the "constitutional mandate of protecting journalistic expression cannot be understated" when it comes to cases against the media. The (C) admonition against courts mechanically applying the three limbs of the test — whether there is a prima facie case, whether the 'balance of convenience' is in favour of an interim restraint, and lastly, whether not granting it will cause "irreparable loss or harm" to the (D) plaintiff — by merely recording that these grounds have been satisfied is quite apposite. The courts granting an injunction are also expected to record reasons by analysing the facts. However, it is with unfortunate frequency that one hears of three kinds of judicial orders that place questionable curbs on journalistic publications: outright gag orders banning any publication of information related to cases being heard by the courts, omnibus prior restraint orders against all media houses based on a plaintiff's fear that a defamatory statement may be repeated by others and, finally, pre-trial orders to specific media houses to take down an article and refrain from further publication. Such orders will not be possible unless one ignores the common law principle in Bonnard vs Perryman, which lays down the standard that there can be an injunction in a defamation suit only if the court feels that the content is defamatory and that there can be no way the publication can be justified during trial, for instance by pleading the defence of truth and public interest. The latest order also contains a reminder that those with influence and economic power can resort to 'SLAPP' (Strategic Litigation/Lawsuit against Public Participation), a tactic often used to (E) stifle public criticism of projects and companies. The Court has struck the right note when it warns that an early injunction in what could be a prolonged trial acts as a 'death sentence' against the material to be published.

Which of the following words will replace the word in (A)?

a. transfusions
b. advancements
c. corollaries
d. repercussions
e. No Improvement required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (B)?

a. reticent
b. diffident
c. submissive
d. imperious
e. No Improvement required

3. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (C)?

a. exoneration
b. exculpation
c. reprimand
d. denunciation
e. No Improvement required

4. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (D)?

a. culprit
b. suspect
c. accused
d. offender
e. No Improvement required

5. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (E)?

a. assuage
b. aggravate
c. suppress
d. stagnate
e. No Improvement required

6. Questions

In the following questions a sentence is given with three blanks, which is followed by a table, in which three columns are given (Column I, Column II and Column III), for three blanks

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

respectively. You need to make the correct triplet of words which could fill the blank correctly.

The decision by the INDIA bloc to _____ from _____ a claim to form the government is a _____ and strategic move that reflects a mature understanding of the current political landscape.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Initiate	D).staking	G). questionable
B). refrain	E).supporting	H). commendable
C). withdraw	F). proposing	I). controversial

a. A-E-G

b. B-E-G

c. C-D-I

d. B-D-H

e. C-F-H

7. Questions

Over the years, the Karnataka Forest Department has registered approximately 90,000 cases for various offences including encroachment, _____ and smuggling, but a majority of them may fall through even if they have been investigated _____, all because of a _____.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). poaching	D).meticulously	G). loophole
B). logging	E).hastily	H). technicality
C). conservation	F). carelessly	I). oversight

a. A-D-H

b. B-E-H

c. A-D-I

d. B-F-I

8. Questions

Had it not been for a rather sensational revelation by Bangladesh Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina, the rumour that a certain western country_____ the US—is working to create a Christian nation _____ out of Myanmar and Bangladesh, with the possibility of including some Indian territory, would have passed as just another wild story from the internet's expanding tribe of _____ junkies.

sky55100@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). ostensibly	D).established	G). hoax
B). presumably	E).planned	H). enthusiast
C). supposedly	F). carved	I). conspiracy

a. A-E-G

b. B-F-H

c. B-D-I

d. C-D-G

e. A-F-I

9. Questions

Democracies _____ attempt to reduce populations into passive entities that can be _____ at will by rulers or _____.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). actively	D).controlled	G). activists
B). relentlessly	E).manipulated	H). demagogues
C). sporadically	F). engaged	I). bystanders

a. B-F-G

b. C-D-I

c. A-D-H

d. B-E-H

e. C-F-G

10. Questions

The subject of constituency _____ has become _____ over the past several months due to the Women's Reservation Bill and the population _____ between the southern and northern states.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). redistricting	D).controversial	G). parity
B). reformation	E).inconsequential	H). disparity
C). delimitation	F). noteworthy	I). uniformity

a. A-D-G

b. A-E-H

sky53up@gmail.com
Pgs @NextGenBankers

c. B-E-I

d. C-D-H

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

The artist's latest exhibition _____ a lot of attention from art critics and enthusiasts alike.

a. were drawing

b. is draw

c. have drawn

d. has drawn

e. was drawn

12. Questions

The meeting scheduled for next week _____ to discuss the recent changes in the company's policy.

a. is meant

b. are meant

c. is mean

d. were meant

e. has meant

13. Questions

The new software update _____ many issues that users were experiencing.

a. have fixed

b. has fixed

c. were fixing

d. fixing

e. fix

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

14. Questions

The results of the experiment _____ by the scientific community.

a. are questioning

b. is questioned

c. have questioned

d. is questioning

e. are questioned

15. Questions

The documentary film about endangered species _____ many awards at international film festivals.

a. was win

b. have won

c. won

d. winning

e. has win

16. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The enormity of the natural disaster left the entire region in shock, as the scale of the devastation was unprecedented.

II). Despite his affluence in physics, he struggled to understand the basic principles of chemistry.

III). The news of the team's defeat did not deject the coach, who remained optimistic about their future prospects.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and III

e. Both II and III

17. Questions

I). After receiving numerous awards for his work, he became complacent and stopped striving for further improvement.

II). The doctor assured the patient that the growth was malignant and there was no need for concern or treatment.

III). After the long and grueling marathon, the runners were completely enervated, barely able to stand.

a. Only I

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

18. Questions

I). The nonprofit organization focused its efforts on alleviating the indigence of families living below the poverty line.

II). The government's new policy only ameliorated the economic crisis by exacerbating unemployment and widening the wealth gap.

III). Her malevolent smile brightened the room, making everyone feel welcomed and happy.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

19. Questions

I). The chef decided to sabotage the recipe by carefully measuring and adding each ingredient with precision.

II). Despite the heartbreaking situation, he remained callous, showing no sympathy towards those in need.

III). The politician's opponents attempted to vilify him by praising his integrity and honesty during the campaign.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

I). The professor decided to abridge the lengthy textbook to make it more accessible to his students.

II). The professor delivered an erudite lecture on quantum physics, showcasing his deep knowledge and expertise in the field.

III). The scientist's findings did not concur with the established theories, leading to widespread acceptance and praise for his groundbreaking research.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: D

The word in (A) should be replaced with: d) repercussions

a). transfusions - This word refers to the process of transferring blood or other fluids into a person's circulatory system. It is not relevant in the context of discussing the impact of judicial orders on freedom of speech.

b). advancements - This refers to progress or developments in a particular field. While it implies positive progress, it doesn't fit the context where the focus is on the potential negative impact of judicial orders.

c). corollaries - This refers to propositions that follow from one that is already proved or a natural consequence of something. While it implies a consequence, it doesn't strongly convey the potential negative impact like "repercussions" does.

d). repercussions - This refers to unintended and usually negative consequences of an action. This is the most suitable word in the context, as it correctly conveys the potential negative impact of judicial orders on freedom of speech and public knowledge.

Thus, "repercussions" is the best choice as it accurately describes the possible negative consequences mentioned in the sentence.

2. Questions

Answer: D

The correct word to replace the word in (B) is: d) imperious

The word "imperious" means assuming power or authority without justification; arrogant and domineering, which fits well with the context of the passage.

a). Reticent: This word means not revealing one's thoughts or feelings readily; reserved. It implies being silent or uncommunicative, which does not fit the context of the passage, where the emphasis is on granting injunctions in a commanding or overbearing manner.

b). Diffident: This word means modest or shy because of a lack of self-confidence. It suggests hesitancy and a lack of assertiveness, which is the opposite of the intended meaning in the passage. The passage describes an authoritative and forceful manner of granting injunctions, not a hesitant or shy approach.

c). Submissive: This word means ready to conform to the authority or will of others; meekly obedient or passive. This again is contrary to the intended meaning. The passage describes a manner of granting injunctions that is overbearing and authoritative, not yielding or submissive.

d). Imperious: This word means assuming power or authority without justification; arrogant and domineering. This fits the context perfectly as it describes the authoritative and commanding manner in which the injunctions are granted, leading to the stifling of public debate. The use of "imperious" aligns with the idea of acting with undue authority and control, which is the critique being made in the passage.

Therefore, imperious is the most appropriate choice to replace the word in (B).

3. Questions

Answer: C

The word that will replace the word in (C) is: c) reprimand a). Exoneration: This means the act of officially absolving someone from blame or fault. It implies clearing someone from accusations. In the context of the sentence, it does not make sense because the context is about cautioning or criticizing courts, not absolving them.

b). Exculpation: This is similar to exoneration and means clearing someone of blame or fault. Like exoneration, it does not fit the context because it suggests freeing someone from blame rather than warning or criticizing them.

c). Reprimand: This means a formal expression of disapproval. It fits the context perfectly as the sentence is about the Supreme Court warning or expressing disapproval of how lower courts are granting interim injunctions without proper consideration.

d). Denunciation: This means public condemnation of someone or something. While it is close in meaning to reprimand, it often implies a more public or severe condemnation than what is suggested by the context. The context is more about cautioning and guiding courts rather than a public condemnation.

In summary, "reprimand" is the most appropriate word as it conveys a formal expression of disapproval by the Supreme Court towards the lower courts' handling of pre-trial injunctions in defamation cases.

4. Questions

Answer: E

The word "plaintiff " in (D) is appropriate and doesn't require improvement, so the correct answer is "e) No Improvement required."

The word "plaintiff" is the correct term to use in this context. It refers to the party who brings a lawsuit against another in a court of law, which is appropriate here as the passage discusses a defamation suit initiated by the plaintiff. The other options (culprit, suspect, accused, offender) are not appropriate because they imply a criminal context, whereas defamation is a civil matter.

a). Culprit - This term typically refers to a person who is responsible for a wrongdoing or a crime. It's more commonly used in criminal contexts rather than civil cases. In a defamation suit, the term "culprit" might imply criminality, which is not the appropriate characterization for a plaintiff who initiates a civil action.

b). Suspect - This term is commonly used in criminal law to refer to someone who is under suspicion or investigation for a crime. In a civil defamation suit, there's no suspicion of criminal activity, so "suspect" would be an incorrect term to describe the plaintiff.

c). Accused - Similar to "suspect," "accused" is a term primarily used in criminal law to refer to someone formally charged with a crime. In a defamation suit, the term "accused" might wrongly suggest a criminal offense, which is not the case.

d). Offender - "Offender" is another term often used in criminal law to describe someone who has committed an offense or a wrongdoing. Again, in a civil defamation case, using "offender" would imply criminal behavior, which is not accurate.

e). No Improvement required - This option indicates that the word "plaintiff" is appropriate and doesn't need to be changed. In the context of a civil defamation suit, the term "plaintiff" accurately refers to the party who brings the lawsuit against another party.

In summary, while options a) through d) all suggest terms that are commonly used in criminal law, the word "plaintiff" is the correct and appropriate term for describing the party initiating a civil defamation suit. Therefore, option e) is the correct choice.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The word that will replace (E) is "suppress" in the context of the sentence "a tactic often used to suppress public criticism of projects and companies."

a). Assuage: This means to make (an unpleasant feeling) less intense or severe. In the context of the sentence, it wouldn't make sense to say "a tactic often used to assuage public criticism of projects and companies" because "assuage" implies calming or soothing, which is the opposite of what the tactic is doing.

b). Aggravate: This means to make (a problem, injury, or offense) worse or more serious. While it's plausible that a tactic could worsen or exacerbate public criticism, it's not the most appropriate word in this context. The word "aggravate" doesn't specifically capture the act of deliberately stifling or suppressing public criticism, which is the focus of the sentence.

c). Suppress: This means to forcibly put an end to something. In the context of the sentence, "a tactic often used to suppress public criticism of projects and companies" accurately conveys the idea that the tactic is aimed at quashing or silencing public criticism, making it the most fitting choice.

d). Stagnate: This means to cease developing; become inactive or dull. While a tactic could potentially cause public criticism to stagnate or become less dynamic, it doesn't fully capture the deliberate effort to suppress it, as described in the sentence.

So, among the options, "suppress" is the best replacement for the stifle in the context.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: D

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is B-D-H.

Column I:

A). Initiate - This word means to begin or start something. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses refraining from taking a certain action.

B). Refrain - This is the correct choice, as it means to resist from doing something. It fits well with the context of the INDIA bloc deciding not to take a certain action (staking a claim to form the government).

C). Withdraw - This word means to remove or take back something that has been stated or done. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses refraining from initiating a claim.

Column II:

D). Staking - This is the correct choice, as it means to assert or lay claim to something. It aligns with the idea of the INDIA bloc making a claim to form the government.

E). Supporting - This word means to give assistance or approval to someone or something. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses the INDIA bloc refraining from staking a claim.

F). Proposing - This word means to put forward a plan or suggestion for consideration. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses refraining from initiating a claim.

Column III:

G). Questionable - This word means doubtful or open to doubt. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses the decision of the INDIA bloc being seen as strategic and mature.

H). Commendable - This is the correct choice, as it means deserving praise or admiration. It fits well with the idea that the decision of the INDIA bloc is seen as positive and praiseworthy.

I). Controversial - This word means likely to cause disagreement or debate. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses the decision of the INDIA bloc being viewed positively.

So, the correct triplet of words is B-D-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

7. Questions

Answer: A

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is A-D-H.

Column I:

A). Poaching - This word refers to the illegal hunting, capturing, or killing of wild animals, typically for commercial purposes such as their fur, ivory, or horns. It fits well with the context of offenses related to wildlife.

B). Logging - This word refers to the cutting down of trees for commercial use, typically for timber or wood products. While relevant to environmental offenses, it doesn't directly relate to the offenses mentioned in the sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

C). Conservation - This word refers to the protection, preservation, and management of natural resources, including wildlife, habitats, and ecosystems. While important in the context of wildlife management, it doesn't fit the context of illegal activities like poaching and smuggling.

Column II:

D). Meticulously - This word means with great attention to detail, thoroughness, and precision. It aligns with the idea of cases being investigated carefully and diligently.

E). Hastily - This word means with excessive speed or without sufficient care or attention to detail. It is the opposite of "meticulously" and doesn't fit the context of careful investigation.

F). Carelessly - This word means without care or attention to detail. It is similar in meaning to "hastily" and doesn't fit the context of cases being investigated diligently.

Column III:

G). Loophole - This word refers to a gap or ambiguity in a law or set of rules that allows for exploitation or evasion of its intent. While relevant to legal technicalities, it doesn't directly fit the context of the sentence.

H). Technicality - This word refers to a minor detail or point in a law or set of rules, especially one that is not central to the main issue but may result in legal complications or challenges. It fits well with the idea of legal technicalities causing some cases to fall through.

I). Oversight - This word refers to a mistake or failure to notice something important. While relevant to the concept of legal issues, it doesn't directly fit the context of legal technicalities causing cases to fall through.

So, the correct triplet of words is A-D-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

8. Questions

Answer: E

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is A-F-I.

Column I:

A). Ostensibly - This word means apparently or seemingly. It suggests that the mentioned western country appears to be the US, based on the context provided in the sentence.

B). Presumably - This word means likely or probably. While relevant, "ostensibly" more accurately conveys the idea of something appearing to be true based on the available evidence.

C). Supposedly - This word means according to what is generally assumed or believed. It is similar in meaning to "ostensibly" but is less precise in indicating that something is based on appearances.

Column II:

D). Established - This word means to set up or bring into existence, often implying that something has been created with permanence or stability. In the sentence, it doesn't fit the context of creating a Christian nation out of specific territories.

E). Planned - This word means to intend or arrange in advance for a particular purpose. While relevant, it doesn't specifically convey the idea of physically delineating boundaries, which is implied by "carved" in the sentence.

F). Carved - This word means to create or form by cutting, shaping, or engraving, often used metaphorically to indicate the establishment of boundaries or divisions. In the context of the sentence, it fits well with the idea of creating a Christian nation by delineating boundaries.

Column III:

G). Hoax - This word refers to a humorous or malicious deception. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses wild stories rather than deliberate deceptions.

sky5pupe@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

H). Enthusiast - This word refers to a person who is highly interested or passionate about a particular activity or subject. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses people who are drawn to conspiracy theories.

I). Conspiracy - This word refers to a secret plan by a group to do something unlawful or harmful. It fits well with the context of wild stories from conspiracy junkies on the internet.

So, the correct triplet of words is A-F-I, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

9. Questions

Answer: D

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is B-E-H.

Column I:

A). Actively - This option implies that democracies actively engage in reducing populations into passive entities. However, it doesn't quite capture the sense of persistence or determination conveyed by the context of the sentence.

B). Relentlessly - This option is the correct choice as it accurately conveys the idea that democracies persistently and continuously attempt to reduce populations into passive entities. It aligns well with the context of the sentence.

C). Sporadically - This option suggests that democracies only occasionally or irregularly attempt to reduce populations into passive entities. However, this doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which implies a more consistent effort.

Column II:

D). Controlled - This option suggests that populations are deliberately managed or regulated by rulers or demagogues. While related, it doesn't convey the sense of manipulation as strongly as the word "manipulated" does.

E). Manipulated - This option accurately conveys the idea that populations are influenced or controlled cleverly, unfairly, or unscrupulously by rulers or demagogues. It aligns well with the context of the sentence.

F). Engaged - This option implies that populations are actively involved or participating in some manner. However, it doesn't capture the sense of control or influence exerted by rulers or demagogues as effectively as "manipulated" does.

Column III:

G). Activists - This option refers to individuals who actively campaign for or support a particular cause or issue. While relevant, it doesn't specifically convey the sense of political leadership or influence exerted by demagogues.

H). Demagogues - This option accurately refers to political leaders who gain power and popularity by appealing to people's emotions, prejudices, and desires. It aligns well with the context of the sentence, which discusses how populations can be manipulated by such leaders.

I). Bystanders - This option refers to individuals who are present at an event or situation but do not take part in it or become involved. While relevant, it doesn't convey the active role played by demagogues in manipulating populations.

Overall, the correct triplet of words is B-E-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

10. Questions

Answer: E

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is C-D-H.

Column I:

A). Redistricting - This term refers to the process of redrawing electoral district boundaries, often done to reflect changes in population distribution. While related to the concept of constituency organization, it specifically involves altering existing district boundaries rather than defining them from scratch.

B). Reformation - This term generally refers to the act or process of making changes to something in order to improve or update it. While it could be applicable in certain contexts, it doesn't specifically relate to the process of defining electoral boundaries.

C). Delimitation - This term refers to the process of fixing the limits or boundaries of something, such as electoral constituencies or districts. In the context of the sentence, it fits well with the subject of constituency organization and the controversy surrounding it.

Column II:

D). Controversial - This term refers to something that is likely to cause disagreement, argument, or controversy. In the context of the sentence, it describes how the subject of constituency delimitation has become a contentious issue over the past several months.

E). Inconsequential - This term refers to something that is not important or significant, having no significant impact or consequence. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses the controversy surrounding constituency delimitation.

F). Noteworthy - This term refers to something that is deserving of attention or notice because it is important or remarkable. While relevant in certain contexts, it doesn't specifically convey the idea of controversy as intended in the sentence.

Column III:

G). Parity - This term refers to equality or equivalence, often used in the context of comparing two or more things that are similar or comparable. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses the population disparity between southern and northern states.

H). Disparity - This term refers to a significant difference or inequality between two or more things, often used to describe variations in size, quantity, or quality. In the context of the sentence, it accurately describes the population difference between southern and northern states.

I). Uniformity - This term refers to the state or quality of being uniform or consistent, often used to describe situations where everything is the same or similar. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses differences rather than similarities.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the correct triplet of words is C-D-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

11. Questions

Answer: D

The sentence describes the current attention that the artist's latest exhibition is receiving from art critics and enthusiasts. Here's why option d) "has drawn" is the correct choice:

a). "were drawing": This option uses the past continuous tense "were drawing," which suggests an ongoing action in the past and does not fit the present context. Additionally, "were" does not agree with the singular subject "The artist's latest exhibition."

b). "is draw": This option is grammatically incorrect because "is" should be followed by the present participle form "drawing" to make sense. The correct form would be "is drawing," but even that doesn't fit the context as well as "has drawn."

c). "have drawn": This option uses the present perfect tense "have drawn," which is incorrect because "have" is used for plural subjects. The singular subject "The artist's latest exhibition" requires "has" instead of "have."

d). "has drawn": This option correctly uses the present perfect tense, indicating that the action (drawing a lot of attention) started in the past and continues to have relevance in the present. The singular subject "The artist's latest exhibition" correctly matches with "has."

e). "was drawn": This option uses the past tense "was drawn," which incorrectly implies that the attention was only in the past and does not continue to the present. It doesn't convey the ongoing nature of the attention.

Therefore, option d) "has drawn" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the artist's latest exhibition has received a lot of attention from art critics and enthusiasts alike.

12. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence discusses the purpose of a future meeting. Here's why option a) "is meant" is the correct choice:

a). "is meant": This option correctly uses the present tense "is" with the past participle "meant" to indicate the purpose of the meeting. It conveys that the meeting's intention is to discuss the recent changes in the company's policy.

b). "are meant": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the plural form "are," but the subject "The meeting" is singular. The verb should match the singular subject.

c). "is mean": This option is grammatically incorrect because "mean" is not the correct form of the verb. The correct past participle form is "meant."

d). "were meant": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the past tense "were," which does not fit the context of a meeting scheduled for next week (a future event). Additionally, "were" does not agree with the singular subject "The meeting."

e). "has meant": This option is grammatically incorrect because "has meant" implies a past action that has

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

continuing relevance, which does not fit the context of a meeting scheduled for the future.

Therefore, option a) "is meant" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the meeting scheduled for next week is intended to discuss the recent changes in the company's policy.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The sentence discusses the effect of a new software update on the issues users were experiencing. Here's why option b) "has fixed" is the correct choice:

a). "have fixed": This option is grammatically incorrect because "have" is used for plural subjects, but the subject "The new software update" is singular. The verb should match the singular subject.

b). "has fixed": This option correctly uses the present perfect tense "has fixed," which indicates that the action (fixing the issues) started in the past and has relevance to the present. The singular subject "The new software update" correctly matches with "has."

c). "were fixing": This option uses the past continuous tense "were fixing," which suggests an ongoing action in the past. This does not fit the context of describing a completed action (the update fixing the issues).

d). "fixing": This option is grammatically incomplete because it lacks a helping verb to form the correct tense. "Fixing" alone cannot serve as the main verb in this sentence.

e). "fix": This option uses the base form "fix," which is not appropriate without a helping verb. The sentence requires the past participle form to correctly convey the action.

Therefore, option b) "has fixed" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the new software update has resolved many issues that users were experiencing.

14. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence discusses how the scientific community is reacting to the results of an experiment. Here's why option e) "are questioned" is the correct choice:

a). "are questioning": This option is grammatically incorrect because "are questioning" suggests that the results themselves are performing the action of questioning, which does not make sense in this context. The correct construction should be passive to indicate that the scientific community is doing the questioning.

b). "is questioned": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the singular verb "is" with the plural subject "results." The subject and verb must agree in number.

c). "have questioned": This option uses the present perfect tense "have questioned," which suggests that the results have done the questioning. However, it is the scientific community that is questioning the results, not the other way around.

d). "is questioning": This option is grammatically incorrect for the same reason as option a). Additionally, "is" does not agree with the plural subject "results."

e). "are questioned": This option correctly uses the present tense "are" with the past participle "questioned"

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

to form the passive voice. This accurately conveys that the scientific community is questioning the results of the experiment. The subject "results" is plural, and "are" correctly agrees with it.

Therefore, option e) "are questioned" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the results of the experiment are being questioned by the scientific community.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The sentence discusses the achievements of a documentary film at international film festivals. Here's why option c) "won" is the correct choice:

a). "was win": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the past form "was" with the base form "win." The correct past participle of "win" is "won," and the correct phrase would be "was won," but that implies the awards were won by someone else, which is not the intended meaning.

b). "have won": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "have," which is for plural subjects. The subject "The documentary film" is singular and requires "has won" if present perfect tense was needed, but the context fits better with simple past tense.

c). "won": This option correctly uses the simple past tense "won," which indicates that the documentary film won the awards at some point in the past. This tense fits the context of the sentence perfectly.

d). "winning": This option is grammatically incorrect because "winning" is a present participle or gerund and does not fit as the main verb in the past tense context provided by the sentence.

e). "has win": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the present perfect auxiliary "has" with the base form "win" instead of the past participle "won." The correct form would be "has won."

Therefore, option c) "won" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the documentary film about endangered species won many awards at international film festivals.

16. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "enormity" is correctly used to convey the great scale and seriousness of the natural disaster.

II). In this sentence, "affluence" is used incorrectly. "Affluence" refers to wealth or abundance, usually in a financial context. A more appropriate term might be "proficiency" or "expertise."

III). In this sentence, "deject" is correctly used to mean dishearten or depress. It indicates that the coach did not feel disheartened by the team's defeat.

17. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "complacent" is correctly used to describe someone who has become self-satisfied and is no longer putting in effort to improve or achieve more.

II). In this sentence, "malignant" is used incorrectly. "Malignant" refers to something very harmful or dangerous, especially in the context of tumors, where it means cancerous and likely to spread. The sentence contradicts itself by saying there's no need for concern or treatment, which is not consistent with the typical understanding of "malignant." A more suitable term might be "benign."

III). In this sentence, "enervated" is correctly used to describe the runners as being extremely drained of energy and vitality after the exhausting race.

18. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "indigence" is correctly used to refer to the state of extreme poverty or destitution.

II). In this sentence, "ameliorated" is used incorrectly. "Ameliorate" means to improve or make better, but the context of the sentence suggests that the new policy made the economic crisis worse by increasing unemployment and widening the wealth gap. A more appropriate term might be "aggravated" or "worsened."

III). In this sentence, "malevolent" is used incorrectly. "Malevolent" means having or showing a wish to do evil to others, which is the opposite of making people feel welcomed and happy. A more suitable term might be "benevolent" or "warm."

19. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "sabotage" is used incorrectly. "Sabotage" typically means to deliberately destroy, damage, or obstruct something, usually for personal gain or malicious reasons. Here, the context describes careful and precise actions, which is the opposite of what "sabotage" implies.

II). In this sentence, "callous" is correctly used to describe someone who is insensitive or emotionally unfeeling towards the suffering of others.

III). In this sentence, "vilify" is used incorrectly. "Vilify" means to speak or write about someone in a very critical or disparaging manner, often with the intention of damaging their reputation. However, in this context, the opponents' actions seem to praise the politician rather than criticize him. A more appropriate term might be "praise" or "commend."

20. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "abridge" is correctly used to indicate the act of condensing or shortening the textbook to make it more concise and easier to understand.

II). In this sentence, "erudite" is correctly used to describe the professor as highly knowledgeable, scholarly, and well-educated in quantum physics.

III). In this sentence, "concur" is used incorrectly. "Concur" means to agree or coincide, but the context suggests that the scientist's findings were in disagreement with established theories, which would typically not lead to widespread acceptance and praise. A more appropriate term might be "contradict" or "challenge."

skysup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with two blanks; each blank is followed by a highlighted word. You have to identify the correct pair of words from the given options to make the sentence meaningful, if the given highlighted words are correct, then mark (E) as your answer.

In a rare and rather _____ (imbecile) act of _____(exalting) misogyny, the Election Commission has acted against the latest politician to abuse Mamata Banarjee.

a. inexpedient, amiable

b. belated, censuring

c. delinquent, persuadable

d. infelicitous, indicting

e. No replacement required

2. Questions

The Election Commission of India (ECI) asking the BJP and the Congress to _____ (repudiate) from raising _____ (fanatical) issues in campaigning in the general election is a case of better late than never.

a. conclude, docile

b. relinquish, unifying

c. desist, divisive

d. concede, isolating

e. No replacement required

3. Questions

The _____ (deciduous) distrust between the Kashmiri polity and New Delhi also explains why the traditional parties in the former have sought to oppose the postponement of the polls in the Anantnag-Rajouri seat, _____ (obscurely) due to weather conditions.

a. steadfast, ambiguously

b. unwavering, dubious

c. ephemeral, externally

d. enduring, ostensibly

e. No replacement required

4. Questions

In the span of just 24 hours over the weekend, India witnessed two devastating fires, _____ (explicitly) exposing the nation's deep-seated neglect and _____(alacrity) towards law enforcement and compliance.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. starkly, apathy

b. hardly, vigour

c. austerely, vivacity

d. indistinctly, animosity

e. No replacement required

5. Questions

One of the main features of Narendra Modi's politics is his reliance on an unapologetic brand of right-wing rhetoric that is _____ (moored) in demagoguery, hate speeches against minorities and the use of dog whistles — political messaging intended to please the _____ (bigoted) sections of his support base.

a. entrenched, balanced

b. liberated, lopsided

c. concluded, distorted

d. domiciliated, detached

e. No replacement required

6. Questions

In the questions given below, sentences are jumbled and placed in options. Also, there is an odd one out in one of the sentences, which is mentioned in the options. Identify the correct sequence of the sentences and eliminate the odd one out to mark that as your option in the given sequence (eg. Correct sequence-Odd one out [ABCD-E]).

A). As emerging and developing economies (EMDEs) navigate

B). A turbulent world of intense geopolitical rivalry

C). A new development model is at the top of the growth agenda

D). And boost inflation toward central bank targets.

E). And worsening climate warming, the question of

a. ABCD-E

b. ACDB-E

c. AECD-E

d. BAEC-D

e. ABEC-D

7. Questions

A). Should Prime Minister Narendra Modi secure

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

B). A third term with a commanding majority,

C). We can expect a continuation and intensification of policies

D). Aimed at macroeconomic growth and technological advancement

E). Welfare initiatives and a resonant nationalistic narrative.

a. ABCD-E
b. ADBC-E
c. ABCE-D
d. ACDB-E
e. CADB-E

8. Questions

A). Campaigns usually give a sense of the mood of the voters

B). To what they perceive as the thinking and sentiments of the voters

C). Try to tailor their themes, slogans and activities

D). Because parties, candidates and their supporters

E). And not necessarily by discrediting a poll's precision.

a. ABCD-E
b. ADCE-B
c. ABDE-C
d. ACBE-D
e. ADCB-E

9. Questions

A). Indian air passengers risk having fewer choices on international routes

B). By limiting the number of seats overseas airlines

C). Can offer in one of the world's biggest markets for outbound travel

D). As New Delhi seeks to give its own carriers wings beyond home skies E). It lagged the rapid pace of normalisation in domestic passenger traffic.

a. ABCD-E
b. ADBC-E
c. BACD-E
d. DEBC-A

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. DABE-C

10. Questions

A). The Reserve Bank of India's income rose 17 percent last fiscal B). On higher interest income from bond holdings, but it was the sharp drop

C). In provisions transferred to the Contingency Fund that D). Risk buffers were supported by revaluation gain on foreign securities

E). Helped it pay a record Rs. 2.1 lakh crore in dividend to the central government.

a. ABCD-E

b. CABE-D

c. CADE-B

d. ABDE-C

e. ABCE-D

11. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

The biggest electoral contest in the world will conclude with the seventh phase of voting on June 1. It has been a dynamic election season; the battleground vibrant with slogans, promises and appeals. The major coalitions, the NDA and INDIA, have each deployed strategic messaging to galvanise voter support. When it comes to sloganeering, the BJP-led NDA has been a hands-down winner, coming up with not one but several catchy phrases to woo the electorate. 'Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas' (Together with all, Development for all, Trust of all) has been a cornerstone of its campaign. 'Naya Bharat' (New India), aimed at portraying the vision for a progressive and self-reliant nation, was another NDA slogan. Along the same lines was 'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' (Self-reliant India) which reflected the NDA's focus on boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods. But more interesting were its jumlas (catchy phrases) that were floated intermittently to give the NDA 'top recall value': 'Abki baar 400 paar' (this time, we will cross 400) and 'Modi ki guarantee'. The major takeaways from the NDA's election pitch were of course its 'Sankalp Patra', heavily focused on economic progress, showcasing initiatives like Make in India, Digital India and the push towards a $5 trillion economy. The NDA alliance also highlighted its efforts in strengthening national security. The message is clear — a strong leadership to safeguard the nation. Not to be outdone, the INDIA bloc also used several slogans to reach voters' hearts. Prominence was given to slogans critical of the Modi Government's unpopular policies and its actions to subvert democracy by sending Opposition leaders to jail. 'Jai jawan, Jai kisan, Jai samvidhan' (Hail the soldier, the farmer, the Constitution) drew heavily on this sentiment. 'Bharat Jodo' (Unite India), a call for unity across the nation's diverse fabric to counter divisive politics, was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march. Yet another slogan from the INDIA stable was 'Nyay' (Justice), a promise to address disparities and ensure equitable growth. The INDIA alliance has positioned itself as the protector of social justice, focusing on uplifting marginalised communities, ensuring minority rights and addressing caste-based and religious discrimination. The INDIA bloc has promised to tackle issues like farmer suicides, inadequate MSP

(Minimum Support Price) and the need for comprehensive agrarian reforms. Of course, 'Save democracy' has been its main theme. The NDA's pitch was more country-centric security, $5 trillion economy and so forth but INDIA's pitch was more about people, their sufferings and plight due to economic hardships. INDIA's focus on social justice and inclusivity is designed to attract voters who feel marginalised. Their promises to address agrarian distress and safeguard democratic values are aimed at rural voters, farmers and the educated urban electorate. Who really touched people's hearts, we shall get to know on June 4.

What is the primary focus of the INDIA alliance as described in the passage?

a. National security
b. Economic progress
c. Social justice and inclusivity
d. Boosting local industries
e. Reducing foreign dependency

12. Questions

Which of the following slogans was NOT associated with the NDA's campaign according to the passage?

a. Abki baar 400 paar
b. Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas
c. Modi ki guarantee
d. Naya Bharat
e. Save democracy

13. Questions

What is one of the NDA's major economic goals mentioned in the passage?

a. Addressing farmer suicides
b. Ensuring equitable growth
c. A $5 trillion economy
d. Strengthening the Constitution
e. Tackling agrarian distress

14. Questions

Which slogan focuses on boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods?

a. Abki baar 400 paar
b. Jai jawan, Jai kisan, Jai samvidhan
c. Nyay

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. Aatmanirbhar Bharat

e. Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas

15. Questions

What was the main theme of the INDIA alliance's campaign according to the passage?

a. Economic progress

b. National security

c. Social justice and inclusivity

d. Save democracy

e. Self-reliant India

16. Questions

Which slogan was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march?

a. Nyay

b. Bharat Jodo

c. Save democracy

d. Naya Bharat

e. Modi ki guarantee

17. Questions

What is the tone of the passage?

a. Objective

b. Critical

c. Optimistic

d. Satirical

e. Ambivalent

18. Questions

In each of the following questions a sentence is divided into five parts. Out of these five parts a combination of two parts is erroneous, remaining are error free. You are required to find out which combination is erroneous from the given options.

As soon as I shall stepped off the plane, (A)/ I was greeted by the warm, (B)/ tropical air and the vibrant colors of the island, (C)/ instantly feeling a rush of (D)/ excitement to the adventures that awaited me (E).

a. A and B

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

b. B and C

c. C and D

d. A and E

19. Questions

He was very tired, (A)/ so that he decided to look for a comfortable spot (B)/ to rest, eventually finding (C)/ a cozy nook under a large oak tree (D)/ where he could relaxing and regain his energy (E).

a. A and D

b. B and E

c. C and A

d. D and E

e. A and D

20. Questions

The young entrepreneur was known for (A)/ being not only greedy but ruthlessly ambitious, (B)/ often exploit every opportunity for (C)/ personal gain without considering (D)/ the ethical implications of his actions (E).

a. A and B

b. B and C

c. C and D

d. D and E

e. A and D

21. Questions

Even though they were supposed to be studying (A)/ for their upcoming exams, the group of friends (B)/ couldn't resist to play games all afternoon, (C)/ their laughter and competitive banter (D)/ echoingly throughout the house (E).

a. A and D

b. B and E

c. A and C

d. C and E

e. A and B

22. Questions

The delicate operation require a steady hand, (A)/ acute attention to detail, (B)/ and a thorough understand

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

of the intricate (C)/ machinery involved to ensure the task (D)/ is completed safely and efficiently (E).

a. A and D

b. B and E

c. B and C

d. D and E

e. A and C

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: "In a rare and rather belated act of censuring misogyny, the Election Commission has acted against the latest politician to abuse Mamata Banarjee."

So, the correct answer is (b) belated, censuring. Let's briefly examine the other options:

a). inexpedient, amiable - "Inexpedient" means not suitable or advisable, and "amiable" means friendly. This combination does not fit the context of addressing misogyny.

c). delinquent, persuadable - "Delinquent" means neglectful or criminal, and "persuadable" means easily convinced. This pair does not convey the correct meaning in the context of an act against misogyny.

d). infelicitous, indicting - "Infelicitous" means inappropriate or unfortunate, and "indicting" means formally accusing of a crime. While "indicting" could fit, "infelicitous" does not properly describe the act.

imbecile, exalting - "Imbecile" means foolish or stupid, and "exalting" means praising highly. This combination is completely inappropriate for the context of addressing misogyny.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) belated, censuring. This choice accurately describes the Election Commission's delayed action in condemning misogyny against Mamata Banerjee.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: "The Election Commission of India (ECI) asking the BJP and the Congress to desist from raising divisive issues in campaigning in the general election is a case of better late than never."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the correct answer is (c) desist, divisive.

a). conclude, docile - "Conclude" means to finish or bring to an end, and "docile" means submissive or easy to manage. This combination does not fit the context of election campaigning and addressing contentious issues.

b). relinquish, unifying - "Relinquish" means to give up or abandon, and "unifying" means bringing together. While "relinquish" might fit, "unifying issues" is the opposite of what the sentence is trying to convey.

c). desist, divisive - "Desist" means to stop or refrain from, and "divisive" means causing disagreement or hostility. This pair accurately conveys the idea of the ECI asking political parties to refrain from raising issues that could cause division during the election campaign.

d). concede, isolating - "Concede" means to admit or yield, and "isolating" means causing someone or something to be alone or apart. This combination does not fit the context of stopping the raising of contentious issues.

repudiate, fanatical - "Repudiate" means to reject or disown, and "fanatical" means extreme or obsessive. While "repudiate" could fit, "fanatical issues" does not accurately describe the context of divisive issues in campaigning.

Therefore, the correct answer is (c) desist, divisive.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The suitable completion for the sentence is: "The enduring distrust between the Kashmiri polity and New Delhi also explains why the traditional parties in the former have sought to oppose the postponement of the polls in the Anantnag-Rajouri seat, ostensibly due to weather conditions."

So, the correct answer is (d) enduring, ostensibly.

a). steadfast, ambiguously - "Steadfast" means firm and unwavering, which could fit the context of distrust, but "ambiguously" means unclear or uncertain, which does not appropriately describe a reason given for postponement.

b). unwavering, dubious - "Unwavering" means steady and resolute, fitting the context of distrust, but "dubious" means doubtful, which does not align with giving a reason for postponement that seems valid on the surface.

c). ephemeral, externally - "Ephemeral" means short-lived, which does not fit the context of long-standing distrust, and "externally" does not make sense in the context of weather conditions being a reason for postponement.

e). deciduous, obscurely - "Deciduous" refers to something that sheds periodically, which does not fit the context of lasting distrust, and "obscurely" means not clearly expressed, which does not suit the context of providing a reason.

Therefore, the correct answer is (d) enduring, ostensibly. This choice effectively captures the long-lasting nature of the distrust and the seemingly apparent reason given for the postponement of the polls.

4. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

The appropriate completion for the sentence is: "In the span of just 24 hours over the weekend, India witnessed two devastating fires, starkly exposing the nation's deep-seated neglect and apathy towards law enforcement and compliance."

So, the correct answer is (a) starkly, apathy.

b). hardly, vigour - "Hardly" means barely or not at all, which does not fit the context of exposing something clearly. "Vigour" means energy or enthusiasm, which is the opposite of neglect.

c). austerely, vivacity - "Austerely" means severely or strictly, which does not convey the idea of clear exposure. "Vivacity" means liveliness, which does not align with neglect.

d). indistinctly, animosity - "Indistinctly" means not clearly, which does not fit the context of exposing something. "Animosity" means hostility, which does not align with neglect.

e). explicitly, alacrity - "Explicitly" means clearly or in detail, which could fit the context of exposing, but "alacrity" means brisk and cheerful readiness, which does not align with neglect.

Therefore, the correct answer is (a) starkly, apathy.

5. Questions

Answer: E

a). entrenched, balanced - "Entrenched" could fit, but "balanced" is completely opposite to "bigoted," as balanced implies fairness and impartiality.

b). liberated, lopsided - "Liberated" means freed, which does not fit the context of being rooted in something negative. "Lopsided" does not specifically convey the prejudice implied by "bigoted."

c). concluded, distorted - "Concluded" does not fit the context of being rooted or based in something. "Distorted" does not precisely convey the idea of prejudice or intolerance.

d). domiciliated, detached - "Domiciliated" is not commonly used and does not fit well. "Detached" implies neutrality or disinterest, which is the opposite of "bigoted."

e). No replacement required - The words "moored" (meaning anchored or rooted) and "bigoted" (meaning prejudiced or intolerant) perfectly convey the intended meaning.

Therefore, the correct answer is (e) No replacement required.

6. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: As emerging and developing economies (EMDEs) navigate a turbulent world of intense geopolitical rivalry and worsening climate warming, the question of a new development model is at the top of the growth agenda.

The odd one out is D. And boost inflation toward central bank targets.

This statement discusses boosting inflation towards central bank targets, which is unrelated to the themes of geopolitical rivalry, climate warming, and new development models discussed in the other statements (A, B, C, and E).

7. Questions

Answer: A

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (a) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Should Prime Minister Narendra Modi secure a third term with a commanding majority, we can expect a continuation and intensification of policies aimed at macroeconomic growth and technological advancement.

The odd one out is E. Welfare initiatives and a resonant nationalistic narrative.

This statement focuses on welfare initiatives and nationalistic narrative, while the other statements (A, B, C, and D) discuss the potential continuation and intensification of policies aimed at macroeconomic growth and technological advancement if Prime Minister Narendra Modi secures a third term with a commanding majority.

8. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Campaigns usually give a sense of the mood of the voters because parties, candidates and their supporters try to tailor their themes, slogans and activities to what they perceive as the thinking and sentiments of the voters.

The odd one out is E. And not necessarily by discrediting a poll's precision.

This statement introduces a different topic related to the precision of polls, while the other statements (A, B, C, and D) focus on how campaigns reflect and respond to the mood, thinking, and sentiments of voters through tailored themes, slogans, and activities.

9. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Indian air passengers risk having fewer choices on international routes as New Delhi seeks to give its own carriers wings beyond home skies by limiting the number of seats overseas airlines can offer in one of the world’s biggest markets for outbound travel.

The odd one out is E. It lagged the rapid pace of normalisation in domestic passenger traffic.

This statement discusses the pace of normalization in domestic passenger traffic, which is unrelated to the theme of Indian air passengers' choices on international routes and the limitations imposed on overseas airlines, discussed in the other statements (A, B, C, and D).

10. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: The Reserve Bank of India's income rose 17 percent last fiscal on higher interest income from bond holdings, but it was the sharp drop in provisions transferred to the Contingency Fund that helped it pay a record Rs. 2.1 lakh crore in dividend to the central government.

The odd one out is D. risk buffers were supported by revaluation gain on foreign securities.

This statement focuses on risk buffers supported by revaluation gains, while the other statements (A, B, C, and E) discuss the Reserve Bank of India's income, interest income from bond holdings, the drop in provisions to the Contingency Fund, and the dividend paid to the central government.

11. Questions

Answer: C

The passage highlights the INDIA alliance's focus on social justice and inclusivity, including addressing marginalised communities and ensuring minority rights.

The passage clearly outlines the main focus areas of the INDIA alliance. It states that the INDIA alliance positions itself as the protector of social justice, aiming to uplift marginalized communities, ensure minority rights, and address caste-based and religious discrimination. Additionally, the INDIA alliance emphasizes tackling issues like farmer suicides, inadequate Minimum Support Price (MSP), and the need for comprehensive agrarian reforms.

Social justice and inclusivity: The INDIA alliance is described as focusing on uplifting marginalized communities, ensuring minority rights, addressing caste-based and religious discrimination, and tackling agrarian distress. Their slogans like "Nyay" (Justice) and "Jai jawan, Jai kisan, Jai samvidhan" reflect this emphasis on social justice and inclusivity.

Option a (National security): This is primarily highlighted as a focus of the NDA, not the INDIA alliance. The NDA is mentioned as having efforts in strengthening national security.

Option b (Economic progress): While economic issues are part of the INDIA alliance's platform, the passage specifically emphasizes their focus on social justice over purely economic progress, which is more heavily associated with the NDA's campaign.

Option d (Boosting local industries): This is linked to the NDA's slogan "Aatmanirbhar Bharat" and their focus on reducing dependency on foreign goods, not the primary focus of the INDIA alliance.

Option e (Reducing foreign dependency): Again, this focus aligns with the NDA's agenda of promoting local industries under "Aatmanirbhar Bharat" rather than the INDIA alliance's priorities.

Thus, social justice and inclusivity is the correct and primary focus of the INDIA alliance as described in the passage.

12. Questions

Answer: E

The passage primarily discusses the slogans and themes associated with both the NDA and the INDIA alliance's campaigns. However, "Save democracy" is a slogan explicitly associated with the INDIA alliance's campaign, not the NDA's.

Option a (Abki baar 400 paar): This slogan is mentioned in the passage as one of the catchy phrases associated with the NDA's campaign.

Option b (Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas): This slogan is explicitly mentioned in the passage as a cornerstone of the NDA's campaign.

Option c (Modi ki guarantee): This slogan is mentioned in the passage as one of the catchy phrases floated intermittently to give the NDA 'top recall value'.

Option d (Naya Bharat): This slogan is mentioned in the passage as another NDA slogan aimed at portraying the vision for a progressive and self-reliant nation.

Option e (Save democracy): This slogan is associated with the INDIA alliance's campaign, focusing on protecting democratic values, as mentioned in the passage.

Thus, the slogan Save democracy was NOT associated with the NDA's campaign according to the passage.

13. Questions

Answer: C

The passage mentions that one of the NDA's major economic goals is achieving a $5 trillion economy.

The passage discusses several aspects of the NDA's campaign, particularly emphasizing their economic goals and vision for India's progress. One of the major economic goals mentioned for the NDA is achieving a $5 trillion economy. This is clearly highlighted in the passage where it states: "The major takeaways from the NDA's election pitch were of course its 'Sankalp Patra', heavily focused on economic progress, showcasing initiatives like Make in India, Digital India and the push towards a $5 trillion economy."

A $5 trillion economy: The passage directly mentions this as one of the main goals in the NDA's campaign, focusing on economic growth and development through various initiatives such as Make in India and Digital India.

Option a (Addressing farmer suicides): This is mentioned as a concern for the INDIA alliance, focusing on agrarian distress and reforms.

Option b (Ensuring equitable growth): While important, this is part of the INDIA alliance's focus on social justice and addressing disparities.

Option d (Strengthening the Constitution): This is linked to the INDIA alliance's slogan "Jai jawan, Jai kisan, Jai samvidhan" and their focus on protecting democratic values.

Option e (Tackling agrarian distress): Again, this is a major concern of the INDIA alliance, focusing on agrarian reforms and support for farmers.

Thus, a $5 trillion economy is one of the NDA's major economic goals mentioned in the passage.

14. Questions

Answer: D

The passage states that "Aatmanirbhar Bharat" reflects the NDA's focus on boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods.

The slogan "Aatmanirbhar Bharat" directly translates to "Self-reliant India" and is explicitly mentioned in the passage in the context of boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods. The passage states: "'Aatmanirbhar Bharat' (Self-reliant India) ... reflected the NDA's focus on boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods."

Aatmanirbhar Bharat (Self-reliant India): The passage explicitly mentions this slogan in the context of the NDA's focus on boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods.

Option a (Abki baar 400 paar): This slogan is used by the NDA but doesn't specifically focus on boosting local industries or reducing dependency on foreign goods.

Option b (Jai jawan, Jai kisan, Jai samvidhan): This slogan emphasizes the importance of soldiers, farmers, and the Constitution but does not address economic policies regarding local industries or foreign dependency.

Option c (Nyay): This slogan focuses on justice and equitable growth rather than economic policies related to local industries or foreign dependency.

Option e (Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas): While this slogan emphasizes inclusive development, it does not specifically address economic policies related to local industries or foreign dependency.

Thus, Aatmanirbhar Bharat is the slogan that focuses on boosting local industries and reducing dependency on foreign goods, as mentioned in the passage.

15. Questions

Answer: D

Save democracy

The passage indicates that "Save democracy" was the main theme of the INDIA alliance's campaign.

The passage explicitly states that "Save democracy" was the main theme of the INDIA alliance's campaign. It mentions: "Of course, 'Save democracy' has been its main theme."

Save democracy: The passage directly identifies "Save democracy" as the main theme of the INDIA alliance's campaign.

Option a (Economic progress): While economic progress is an important aspect of the INDIA alliance's campaign, it is not highlighted as the main theme.

Option b (National security): National security is more associated with the NDA's campaign, as mentioned in the passage.

Option c (Social justice and inclusivity): While social justice and inclusivity are key components of the INDIA alliance's platform, the passage specifies "Save democracy" as the main theme.

Option e (Self-reliant India): This theme is more aligned with the NDA's campaign, particularly under the slogan "Aatmanirbhar Bharat", and is not specified as the main theme of the INDIA alliance.

Thus, Save democracy is identified as the main theme of the INDIA alliance's campaign according to the passage.

16. Questions

Answer: B

The passage notes that "Bharat Jodo" was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march.

The passage mentions that the slogan "Bharat Jodo" was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march. It states: "'Bharat Jodo' (Unite India), a call for unity across the nation's diverse fabric to counter divisive politics, was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march."

Bharat Jodo: The passage explicitly states that this slogan was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march.

Option a (Nyay): While Nyay is another slogan used by the INDIA alliance, it is not specifically mentioned as being inspired by Rahul Gandhi's foot march.

Option c (Save democracy): This slogan is associated with the main theme of the INDIA alliance's campaign, but it is not mentioned as being inspired by Rahul Gandhi's foot march.

Option d (Naya Bharat): This slogan is associated with the NDA, not the INDIA alliance, and it is not mentioned as being inspired by Rahul Gandhi's foot march.

Option e (Modi ki guarantee): This slogan is associated with the NDA, specifically with catchy phrases floated intermittently, but it is not mentioned as being inspired by Rahul Gandhi's foot march.

Thus, Bharat Jodo is the slogan that was inspired by Rahul Gandhi's pan-India foot march, according to the passage.

17. Questions

Answer: C

The tone of a passage refers to the author's attitude or feelings towards the subject matter. In this passage, the author discusses the electoral contest and the strategies employed by both the NDA and INDIA alliances. Despite highlighting the differences in their approaches and focusing on various slogans and themes, the passage does not convey a negative or critical view. Instead, it portrays a sense of hope and positivity regarding the democratic process and the engagement of political parties in addressing key issues. Therefore, the tone of the passage can be considered optimistic.

Option a (Objective): While the passage presents information in a factual manner, it also reflects the author's perspective, making it less purely objective.

Option b (Critical): The passage does not critique or condemn either alliance but rather presents their strategies and themes.

Option d (Satirical): There is no indication of satire in the passage; it presents the electoral contest and campaign themes seriously.

Option e (Ambivalent): Ambivalence implies uncertainty or mixed feelings, which are not evident in the passage. The author's tone is more decisive and positive.

Therefore, the most fitting tone for the passage is c) Optimistic.

18. Questions

Answer: E

Part A: "As soon as I shall stepped off the plane..."

The error in Part A is the incorrect use of the future tense "shall" combined with the past tense "stepped." The correct form should be in the simple past tense "stepped."

Corrected: "As soon as I stepped off the plane..."

Part E: "...excitement to the adventures that awaited me."

The error in Part E is the preposition "to." The correct preposition in this context should be "for."

Corrected: "...excitement for the adventures that awaited me."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "As soon as I stepped off the plane, I was greeted by the warm, tropical air and the vibrant colors of the island, instantly feeling a rush of excitement for the adventures that awaited me."

19. Questions

Answer: B

Part B: "...so that he decided to look for a comfortable spot..."

The phrase "so that" is not used correctly here. The correct conjunction to use in this context is "so," which implies a cause and effect relationship.

Corrected: "...so he decided to look for a comfortable spot..."

Part E: "...where he could relaxing and regain his energy."

The error in Part E is the verb form "relaxing." It should be the base form "relax" to match the modal verb "could."

Corrected: "...where he could relax and regain his energy."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "He was very tired, so he decided to look for a comfortable spot to rest, eventually finding a cozy nook under a large oak tree where he could relax and regain his energy."

20. Questions

Answer: B

Part B: "...being not only greedy but ruthlessly ambitious..."

The phrase "being not only greedy but ruthlessly ambitious" is incorrect. The correct form should be "being not only greedy but also ruthlessly ambitious" to balance the correlative conjunction "not only...but also."

Corrected: "...being not only greedy but also ruthlessly ambitious..."

Part C: "...often exploit every opportunity for..."

The error in Part C is the verb form "exploit." It should be "exploiting" to match the present participle form used in this context.

Corrected: "...often exploiting every opportunity for..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "The young entrepreneur was known for being not only greedy but also ruthlessly ambitious, often exploiting every opportunity for personal gain without considering the ethical implications of his actions."

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

21. Questions

Answer: D

Part C: "...couldn't resist to play games all afternoon..."

The error in Part C is the use of the infinitive "to play." The correct form is the gerund "playing."

Corrected: "...couldn't resist playing games all afternoon..."

Part E: "...echoingly throughout the house."

The error in Part E is the adverb "echoingly." The correct form should be "echoing" to serve as a present participle that describes the ongoing action.

Corrected: "...echoing throughout the house."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "Even though they were supposed to be studying for their upcoming exams, the group of friends couldn't resist playing games all afternoon, their laughter and competitive banter echoing throughout the house."

22. Questions

Answer: E

Part A: "...operation require a steady hand..."

The error in Part A involves subject-verb agreement. The singular noun "operation" requires the verb form "requires" instead of "require."

Corrected: "...operation requires a steady hand..."

Part C: "...a thorough understand of the intricate..."

The error in Part C involves the noun "understand." It should be the noun form "understanding" to match the preposition "of."

Corrected: "...a thorough understanding of the intricate..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads: "The delicate operation requires a steady hand, acute attention to detail, and a thorough understanding of the intricate machinery involved to ensure the task is completed safely and efficiently."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, there are two sentences given below with two or three words highlighted in each sentence and have been interchanged inappropriately. You have to choose the proper arrangement of bold words from the given options to make the given sentences meaningful.

I). The conflict between Israel and Hamas in Gaza, now stretching (A) into its eighth brutal month, presents a landscape of embolden (B) options for both sides.

II). The grand bargain (C) requires unprecedented political courage and compromise, while negotiating directly with Hamas could bleak (D) the militant group.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

2. Questions

I). Donald Trump, the first former U.S. president to be convicted of a crime, will remain a free man while he awaits (A) sentencing and could avoid a prison term entirely for wrangling (B) business records to cover up a hush money payment to a porn star.

II). Criminal defendants in New York are typically sentenced within several weeks of conviction, but post-verdict legal falsifying (C) can sometimes lead to months of delays (D).

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

3. Questions

I). Reluctant (A) trips to school, new books, coping with new teachers, meeting fresh classmates, and the general laments (B) of a new year create uneasiness and uncertainty in young minds.

II). Every generation rigmarole (C) the falling standards and nostalgically recalls (D) the higher standards of the past.

a. B-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

4. Questions

I). Construction workers encounter (A) the relentless challenges of working in the blazing sun, combined (B) by unbearably hot makeshift shelters near the worksite.

II). Street vendors face (C) income loss as the perishable goods they sell spoil rapidly, compounded (D) with a decline in customer traffic and additional expenses on water and shade.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

5. Questions

I). The way the 2024 general elections are playing (A) out in West Bengal reveals a new narrative in the discourse on democracy in India, one focussed squarely (B) on gender.

II). The election picture coming (C) out of the state has women firmly (D) at the centre, though this is not unlike many other states, at least in the initial phases of the poll.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

6. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

Climate change presents a pressing challenge for global communities, with far-reaching impacts on ecosystems, weather patterns, and human societies. Rising global temperatures are leading to more frequent and severe heatwaves, droughts, and extreme weather events. To mitigate the effects of climate change and transition to a more sustainable future, it is imperative for governments, businesses, and individuals to prioritize _____.

a. investing in fossil fuel infrastructure for short-term economic gains.

b. implementing policies that exacerbate greenhouse gas emissions.

c. ignoring the science and dismissing the urgency of climate action.

d. promoting renewable energy sources and energy efficiency measures.

e. increasing deforestation and land degradation for resource extraction.

7. Questions

Advancements in artificial intelligence (AI) have revolutionized various industries, from healthcare to finance. AI algorithms can analyze vast amounts of data, identify patterns, and make predictions with remarkable accuracy. However, as AI becomes more integrated into daily life, ethical considerations become increasingly important. To address ethical concerns surrounding AI, it is essential for organizations and policymakers to prioritize _____.

a. maximizing profits without regard for social impact.

b. implementing AI systems without transparency or accountability.

c. establishing regulations and guidelines for responsible AI development and deployment.

d. promoting unchecked autonomy for AI systems to encourage innovation.

e. relying solely on self-regulation within the AI industry.

8. Questions

Environmental sustainability has become a critical issue as the world faces the consequences of climate change, pollution, and resource depletion. Governments, businesses, and individuals all have roles to play in promoting sustainable practices. While policies and regulations are essential for large-scale impact, individual actions can also make a significant difference. One effective way individuals can contribute to environmental sustainability is by _____.

a. increasing the use of single-use plastics for convenience.

b. implementing strict regulations on industrial pollution.

c. promoting widespread deforestation for agricultural expansion.

d. encouraging the overuse of non-renewable resources.

e. prioritizing fossil fuel consumption for energy needs.

9. Questions

In recent years, the field of education has undergone significant transformations, driven by advancements in technology and changing societal needs. Online learning platforms and digital resources have become integral to the educational experience, offering students unprecedented access to information and flexible learning opportunities. However, to maximize the benefits of these innovations, it is essential for educators and institutions to focus on _____.

a. reducing the emphasis on teacher-student interaction

b. standardizing curricula to ensure uniformity across all schools

c. providing professional development for teachers to effectively use technology

d. minimizing the use of technology to return to traditional teaching methods.

e. eliminating assessments to focus solely on creative projects

10. Questions

The rise of remote work has brought significant changes to how businesses operate and how employees balance their professional and personal lives. While remote work offers flexibility and eliminates commuting, it also presents challenges such as maintaining productivity, ensuring effective communication, and fostering team cohesion. To address these challenges, companies should prioritize _____.

a. limiting the use of communication tools to reduce distractions.

b. encouraging employees to work independently without collaboration.

c. implementing regular virtual team-building activities and check-ins.

d. avoiding feedback sessions to minimize employee stress.

e. focusing solely on individual performance metrics.

11. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with a blank, which is followed by a word. You have to identify the given word is correct or not, if not, choose the correct word from the following options.

Two-thirds of the skills humanity relies on today to make a living will become _____ (redundant).

a. vogue

b. exquisite

c. obsolete

d. neolithic

e. No replacement required

12. Questions

The Lok Sabha election campaign has become a ruthless battleground _____ (destitute) of civility, decency, and empathy.

a. profuse

b. devoid

c. thronged

d. penurious

e. No replacement required

13. Questions

Genuine belief in a particular political ideology coupled with _____ (affinity) towards specific communities is a factor which drives individuals to engage in hate speech.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. animosity

b. remorse

c. censure

d. serenity

e. No replacement required

14. Questions

Prominence was given to slogans critical of the Modi Government's unpopular policies and its actions to _____ (augment) democracy by sending Opposition leaders to jail.

a. subvert

b. annihilate

c. sabotage

d. hasten

e. No replacement required

15. Questions

With the Indian election _____ (veering) towards unprecedented populism, S&P also has a word of caution for the country's political parties.

a. abidance

b. adherence

c. compliance

d. allegiance

e. No replacement required

16. Questions

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). Russia would solidify its control over (A)/ substantial territories in eastern Ukraine, (B)/ by freezing the conflict at the existing frontlines, (C)/ thereby achieving a significant portion of its (D)/ war aims without the need for further escalation (E).

B). The prospect of a ceasefire in Ukraine, as suggested by sources close to Russian President Vladimir Putin, raise critical questions about the future of the conflict and the broader geopolitical landscape.

C). President Putin's purported readiness to negotiate a halt to the fighting based on current battlefield lines needs scrutiny, particularly its motivation.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

D). Mr Putin's frustration with the Western-backed resistance and Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskky's refusal to engage in talks suggests a strategic recalibration rather than a genuine move towards peace.

E). However, accepting such a ceasefire on these terms would effectively reward aggression and set a dangerous precedent in international relations.

F). The mere possibility of his presence while Putin and Lukashenko met led to speculation Moscow was again hoping to engineer the return of a proxy to power in Ukraine.

Find the suitable Antonym of the word highlighted in bold.

a. Alleged
b. Claimed
c. Supposed
d. Stated
e. Confirmed

17. Questions

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B
b. C
c. D
d. E
e. F

18. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (A) which is divided into five parts.

a. ABCDE
b. AEDBC
c. AECDB
d. CAEDB
e. CABDE

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (B) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. The prospect of a ceasefire in Ukraine,

b. as suggested by sources close to Russian President Vladimir Putin,

c. raise critical questions about the future of

d. the conflict and the broader geopolitical landscape.

e. No correction required

20. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCDE

b. BCADE

c. ADBCE

d. BCDAE

e. CBDAE

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentences, 'embolden' and 'bleak' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The conflict between Israel and Hamas in Gaza, now stretching into its eighth brutal month, presents a landscape of bleak options for both sides.

II). The grand bargain requires unprecedented political courage and compromise, while negotiating directly with Hamas could embolden the militant group.

So the correct answer is: b) B-D.

2. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentences, 'wrangling' and 'falsifying' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). Donald Trump, the first former U.S. president to be convicted of a crime, will remain a free man while he awaits sentencing and could avoid a prison term entirely for falsifying business records to cover up a hush money payment to a porn star.

II). Criminal defendants in New York are typically sentenced within several weeks of conviction, but post-verdict legal wrangling can sometimes lead to months of delays.

So the correct answer is: b) B-C.

3. Questions

Answer: A

In the given sentences, 'laments' and 'rigmarole' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). Reluctant trips to school, new books, coping with new teachers, meeting fresh classmates, and the general rigmarole of a new year create uneasiness and uncertainty in young minds.

II). Every generation laments the falling standards and nostalgically recalls the higher standards of the past.

So the correct answer is: a) B-C.

4. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentences, 'combined' and 'compounded' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). Construction workers encounter the relentless challenges of working in the blazing sun, compounded by unbearably hot makeshift shelters near the worksite.

II). Street vendors face income loss as the perishable goods they sell spoil rapidly, combined with a decline in customer traffic and additional expenses on water and shade.

So the correct answer is: b) B-D.

5. Questions

Answer: E

e). No Correction required

The sentences are correct, hence no correction required.

6. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) promoting renewable energy sources and energy efficiency measures.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on mitigating the effects of climate change and transitioning to a more sustainable future. Promoting renewable energy sources, such as solar, wind, and hydroelectric power, reduces reliance on fossil fuels and lowers greenhouse gas emissions. Additionally, implementing energy efficiency measures helps reduce energy consumption and minimize environmental impact. This approach addresses the root causes of climate change and fosters a transition to cleaner and more sustainable energy solutions.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The other options present actions that contribute to climate change or hinder efforts to mitigate its effects. Options (a), (b), (c), and (e) involve activities such as investing in fossil fuel infrastructure, exacerbating greenhouse gas emissions, denying climate science, and increasing deforestation, which are counterproductive to addressing climate change and transitioning to a sustainable future.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) establishing regulations and guidelines for responsible AI development and deployment.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on addressing ethical concerns surrounding AI integration into various industries. Establishing regulations and guidelines for responsible AI development and deployment is crucial for ensuring that AI technologies are developed and used ethically, with considerations for privacy, fairness, transparency, and accountability. It involves creating frameworks that govern the design, implementation, and use of AI systems to mitigate potential risks and maximize societal benefits. This approach promotes ethical AI practices and helps build public trust in AI technologies.

The other options present problematic approaches to AI integration:

Option a) prioritizes profits over societal impact, neglecting ethical considerations.

Option b) suggests implementing AI systems without transparency or accountability, which could lead to potential misuse or unintended consequences.

Option d) advocates for promoting unchecked autonomy for AI systems, which can raise ethical concerns regarding control and accountability.

Option e) proposes relying solely on self-regulation within the AI industry, which may not adequately address societal concerns or ensure ethical AI practices.

In summary, option c) is the most appropriate as it advocates for regulatory measures to guide the ethical development and deployment of AI technologies.

8. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) implementing strict regulations on industrial pollution.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on environmental sustainability and achieving long-term environmental goals. Implementing strict regulations on industrial pollution is crucial for reducing harmful emissions and protecting natural ecosystems. It helps ensure that industries adopt cleaner practices and minimize their environmental impact, contributing to overall sustainability efforts. The other options either promote environmentally harmful practices, such as increasing single-use plastics (a), promoting deforestation (c), encouraging the overuse of non-renewable resources (d), or prioritizing fossil fuel consumption (e), all of which are counterproductive to achieving environmental sustainability.

9. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is c) providing professional development for teachers to effectively use technology.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on maximizing the benefits of technological innovations in education. Providing professional development for teachers ensures they are equipped with the necessary skills and knowledge to effectively integrate technology into their teaching practices, thereby enhancing the learning experience for students. The other options either suggest reducing valuable educational practices (a, d) or propose unrealistic changes (b, e) that do not directly address the need to effectively utilize technological advancements in education.

10. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) implementing regular virtual team-building activities and check-ins.

This option addresses the challenges of maintaining productivity, ensuring effective communication, and fostering team cohesion in a remote work environment. Regular virtual team-building activities and check-ins help to strengthen relationships, improve communication, and keep the team connected, thereby enhancing overall productivity and morale. The other options either neglect the importance of collaboration (b), limit necessary communication tools (a), avoid essential feedback sessions (d), or focus only on individual performance without considering team dynamics (e).

11. Questions

Answer: C

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea that many of the skills humanity relies on today will no longer be needed or useful is "obsolete."

Therefore, the correct answer is: c) obsolete

Vogue (Option a) means something that is fashionable or popular at a particular time. This does not fit the context, as it suggests that the skills will become trendy, which is the opposite of the intended meaning.

Exquisite (Option b) means extremely beautiful and delicate. This word does not fit the context as it does not relate to the usefulness or necessity of skills.

Obsolete (Option c) means no longer produced or used; out of date. This word fits perfectly in the context of skills becoming outdated and no longer needed for making a living.

Neolithic (Option d) refers to the later part of the Stone Age, when ground or polished stone weapons and implements prevailed. This word does not fit the context of discussing modern skills becoming outdated.

Redundant means no longer needed or superfluous. While "redundant" could also fit in this context, "obsolete" is a more precise term to describe skills that have become out of date and are no longer in use.

So "Obsolete" is the best choice because it directly conveys the idea that these skills will no longer be useful or needed in the future.

12. Questions

Answer: B

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea that the Lok Sabha election campaign lacks civility, decency, and empathy is "devoid."

Therefore, the correct answer is: b) devoid

Profuse (Option a) means abundant or plentiful. This does not fit the context because the sentence suggests a lack of civility, decency, and empathy, not an abundance of them.

Devoid (Option b) means completely lacking or empty of something. This fits perfectly as it accurately conveys that the election campaign lacks civility, decency, and empathy.

Thronged (Option c) means crowded or filled with people or things. This does not fit the context of lacking qualities like civility, decency, and empathy.

Penurious (Option d) means extremely poor or stingy. While it indicates a lack of resources, it doesn't specifically convey the lack of the qualities mentioned in the sentence.

Destitute means lacking the basic necessities of life. While it also indicates a lack, "devoid" is more precise in the context of lacking abstract qualities like civility, decency, and empathy.

Thus, "devoid" is the most appropriate word in this context.

13. Questions

Answer: A

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of hostility or strong dislike towards specific communities is "animosity."

Therefore, the correct answer is: a) animosity

Animosity (Option a) refers to strong hostility or hatred. It accurately captures the negative feelings towards specific communities that can drive individuals to engage in hate speech.

Remorse (Option b) means a feeling of regret or guilt for a wrong committed. It does not fit the context of driving individuals to engage in hate speech.

Censure (Option c) means strong disapproval or formal criticism. While it implies negative judgment, it doesn't capture the intense hostility that "animosity" conveys.

Serenity (Option d) means a state of being calm, peaceful, and untroubled. This is the opposite of the hostility implied in the context of hate speech.

Affinity means a natural liking or sympathy for someone or something. It conveys positive feelings, which are contrary to the negative context of hate speech.

In summary, "animosity" is the most appropriate word because it accurately describes the hostility or strong dislike towards specific communities that can lead to hate speech.

14. Questions

Answer: A

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of undermining or weakening democracy by sending Opposition leaders to jail is "subvert."

Therefore, the correct answer is: a) subvert

Subvert (Option a) means to undermine the power and authority of an established system or institution. This fits perfectly in the context, as it conveys the idea that the Modi Government's actions are undermining or weakening democracy.

Annihilate (Option b) means to destroy completely. While it conveys a strong negative action, it is too extreme in this context, as it implies complete destruction rather than undermining or weakening.

Sabotage (Option c) means to deliberately destroy, damage, or obstruct something, especially for political or military advantage. While this is somewhat related, it implies a more covert action and isn't as precise as "subvert" for the context of undermining democracy.

Hasten (Option d) means to accelerate or make something happen sooner. This does not fit the context of undermining democracy.

Augment means to make something greater by adding to it, which is the opposite of the intended meaning. This word does not fit the negative context of the sentence.

So, "subvert" is the most appropriate word in this context, as it accurately conveys the idea of undermining democracy.

15. Questions

Answer: E

No replacement required

Veering means to change direction or course, especially abruptly. In the context of elections moving towards unprecedented populism, "veering" accurately captures the idea of a significant shift or change in political trends. This word conveys the sense of the elections changing course toward a new, possibly more extreme, political trend.

a). Abidance: This means compliance or following the rules. It does not fit the context, as it suggests sticking to existing rules rather than changing direction towards populism.

b). Adherence: This refers to sticking to or following something strictly, such as rules or policies. It does not convey the sense of changing direction or course, which is necessary in the context of moving towards populism.

c). Compliance: Similar to adherence, this means following rules or standards. It does not capture the dynamic shift or change implied by "veering."

d). Allegiance: This means loyalty or commitment to a group or cause. While it is related to political behavior, it does not convey the idea of a shift or change in direction towards populism.

In conclusion, "veering" is the best word to describe the Indian elections changing direction towards unprecedented populism. Therefore, the correct answer is "e) No replacement required."

16. Questions

Answer: E

To find the antonym of the word "purported," we need to understand its meaning first. "Purported" means something that is claimed or alleged, often without strong evidence to support the claim. Given that

skybun@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

definition, a suitable antonym would be a word that indicates certainty or being real and genuine.

a). Alleged: This word means something that is claimed to be true but has not been proven. It is very similar in meaning to "purported," as both imply a lack of confirmation or evidence.

b). Claimed: This means something that someone states as true, but it may not necessarily be verified. Like "purported," it suggests that the truth of the statement is in question.

c). Supposed: This word means something that is believed or assumed to be true, often without proof. It also aligns closely with the meaning of "purported," indicating something that is taken as true without firm evidence.

d). Stated: This means something that is declared or asserted. While it does not necessarily imply uncertainty, it does not convey confirmation or verification either. It is neutral and does not directly oppose "purported."

e). Confirmed: This word means something that is verified or proven to be true. It is the antonym of "purported," as it implies certainty and evidence, directly opposing the notion of something being merely claimed or alleged.

Thus, the correct antonym for "purported" is: e) Confirmed

17. Questions

Answer: E

The odd one out is Sentence F: "The mere possibility of his presence while Putin and Lukashenko met led to speculation Moscow was again hoping to engineer the return of a proxy to power in Ukraine."

Sentences A, B, C, D, and E all focus on the potential ceasefire in Ukraine and its implications, discussing the motivations, consequences, and strategic considerations for Russia and Ukraine. However, sentence F introduces a different topic by discussing speculation about the involvement of a proxy in Ukraine during a meeting between Putin and Lukashenko, which is not directly related to the main theme of a ceasefire and its implications. This makes sentence F the odd one out.

18. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “By freezing the conflict at the existing frontlines, Russia would solidify its control over substantial territories in eastern Ukraine, thereby achieving a significant portion of its war aims without the need for further escalation.”

19. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

The error is in part (C). Part c) should be corrected to "raises critical questions."

The error in this sentence involves subject-verb agreement. The subject "The prospect of a ceasefire in Ukraine" is singular, so the verb should also be in the singular form "raises" instead of "raise."

Corrected Version: To address the subject-verb agreement error, Part c) should be corrected to "raises critical questions."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "The prospect of a ceasefire in Ukraine, as suggested by sources close to Russian President Vladimir Putin, raises critical questions about the future of the conflict and the broader geopolitical landscape." This version uses the correct singular form of the verb to agree with the singular subject.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The passage discusses the implications of a potential ceasefire in Ukraine as suggested by sources close to Russian President Vladimir Putin. It examines the motivations behind Putin's purported readiness to negotiate, the strategic implications for Russia, and the broader consequences for international relations.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces the prospect of a ceasefire in Ukraine and the critical questions it raises about the conflict's future and the geopolitical landscape. Sentence C delves into President Putin's readiness to negotiate, suggesting that his motivations need careful examination. Sentence D provides insight into Putin's frustration with the Western-backed resistance and Ukrainian President Zelensky's refusal to engage in talks, suggesting that Putin's move might be a strategic recalibration rather than a genuine effort towards peace. Sentence A explains the strategic advantage Russia would gain by freezing the conflict at the current frontlines, allowing it to control significant territories in eastern Ukraine without further escalation. Finally, sentence E warns that accepting a ceasefire on these terms would effectively reward aggression and set a dangerous precedent in international relations.

So, the correct sequence is: B - C – D – A - E.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, a table is given with three columns; a divided sentence is mentioned in three columns you have to combine the divided parts of the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). A recession is a period of temporary economic decline	D). how countries can benefit from trade by specializing in	G). typically identified by a fall in GDP for two successive quarters.
B). The production possibility frontier (PPF) illustrates the maximum	E). during which trade and industrial activity are reduced,	H). an economy can achieve when all resources are fully and efficiently utilized.
C). The principle of comparative advantage explains	F). possible output combinations of two goods or services	I). the production of goods they produce most efficiently.

a. Only AEI

b. Only BDG

c. Both AEI and BDG

d. Both BFH and CDI

e. All AEG, BFH and CDI

2. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Supply-side economics focuses on boosting economic growth	D). of goods and services is not efficient, often justifying	G). produce most efficiently, trading with others for different goods.
B). Comparative advantage is the principle that countries or entities	E). should produce goods and services they can	H). tax cuts, deregulation, and incentives for production.
C). Market failures occur when the allocation	F). by increasing the supply of goods and services through	I). the real value of money and destabilizing economies.

a. Only AFH

b. Only BEG

c. Both AFH and BEG

d. Both BEG and CDI

e. All AFH, BEG and CDI

3. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Externalities are the unintended side effects	D). of economic activities that affect	G). allocated based on individual self-interest.
B). Public goods are characterized by non-excludability and non-rivalry,	E). meaning they can be consumed by many people	H). third parties, such as pollution or education.
C). Marginal utility refers to the additional satisfaction	F). or benefit received from consuming one more	I). without reducing availability to others.

a. Only ADI

b. Only BEI

c. Both ADH and BEI

d. Both BEI and CFG

e. All ADH, BEI and CFG

4. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The law of demand states that all else being equal	D). of a variable input is added to a fixed input,	G). will increase the quantity demanded.
B). The law of diminishing returns states that as more	E). an increase in the price of a good or service	H). making decisions regarding the allocation of limited resources.
C). Demand-side economics emphasizes the role	F). of government spending and monetary policy in	I). the additional output produced eventually decreases.

a. Only AEG

b. Only BDI

c. Both AEG and BDI

sivaguptagmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

d. Both BDI and CFH

e. All AEG, BDI and CFH

5. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Fiscal deficit happens when a government's	D). limiting competition and potentially leading	G). to higher prices for consumers.
B). The law of supply states that all else being equal	E). expenditures exceed its revenues,	H). will decrease the quantity supplied.
C). An Oligopoly exists when a single firm dominates a market,	F). an increase in the price of a good	I). leading to borrowing or debt accumulation.

a. Only AEI

b. Only BFH

c. Both AEI and BFH

d. Both AEI and CDG

e. All AEI, BFH and CDG

6. Questions

In each of the questions below two phrases have been highlighted in bold. You are required to replace it with correct phrases in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually correct.

After years of working closely together on various projects, the two colleagues had unfortunately fell off over a significant disagreement, leading to a tense affinity and noticeable tension in the office.

a. fell out; false connection

b. fallen in; hard relation

c. fallen for; stressed association

d. fallen off; tensed alliance

e. fallen out; strained relationship

7. Questions

During the lively debate, she voiced her strong opinion in the need for comprehensive environmental reforms, emphasizing the urgency of conveying climate change through innovative policies and sustainable practices.

sk55up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. opinion for; directing climate change

b. opinion to; managing climate change

c. opinion about; addressing climate change

d. opinion on; handling climate change

e. opinion over; treating climate change

8. Questions

The unexpected drop in sales figures was a significant cause in concern among the company's executives, ruling an urgent meeting to strategize potential solutions and address underlying issues.

a. cause for concern; prompting an urgent

b. cause of concern; pushing an urgent

c. cause to concern; prodding an urgent

d. cause with concern; managing an urgent

e. cause by concern; conducting an urgent

9. Questions

After several hours of anxious waiting, we were relieved when our friend finally began to come of from the anaesthesia, gradually waking up and becoming more alert with each going moment.

a. began to come by; each coming moment

b. began to come off; each moving moment

c. began to come over; each driving moment

d. began to come round; each passing moment

e. began to come about; each advancing moment

10. Questions

It's no surprise that she beats in music, as she seems to take down her father, who was a renowned pianist and composer.

a. she exceeds in music; take off

b. she outperforms in music; take over

c. she outplays in music; take up

d. she outshines in music; take for

e. she excels in music; take after

11. Questions

skyb3un@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). The weather was so coldly that we decided to stay indoors.

B). She bought a beautiful and an expensive necklace from the jewelry store.

C). She completed the assignment very quick and received praise from her teacher.

a. Only A
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

12. Questions

A). She is good in mathematics, which helps her in her engineering studies.

B). The manager is responsible for overseeing all operations within the company.

C). He was accused for stealing the confidential documents from the office.

a. Only C
b. Both A and C
c. All A, B and C
d. No error

13. Questions

A). She adopted a dog from the shelter and gave it a new home.

B). An unique opportunity like this comes once in a lifetime.

C). The artist created an impressive sculpture that was displayed in the gallery.

a. Only B
b. Both A and B
c. Both B and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

14. Questions

A). Each of the apples in the basket were ripe and juicy.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

B). He wanted to become an engineer and work on innovative projects.

C). The box of chocolates were a thoughtful gift for her birthday.

a. Only B

b. Both B and C

c. Both A and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

15. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

An overlooked aspect of this election is the starkly different approach of the Bharatiya Janata Party and the Congress in the realms of technology and human rights. This divergence is not merely academic but could have implications for the country's socio-economic fabric and its governance ethos. The BJP's manifesto is heavily tech-centric, envisioning a future where technology is the linchpin of development. Under the chapter 'Modi ki Guarantee for Technology and Innovations,' the BJP outlines an ambitious agenda to harness cutting-edge technologies across various sectors. From leveraging AI for language preservation to employing drones in fisheries, the party's commitment to technological innovation is evident. Initiatives like expanding 5G and pioneering 6G technologies, advancing Graphene-based programmes, and embarking on the National Quantum Mission underscore a vision of India as a global tech powerhouse. However, this aggressive push for technology raises critical concerns about the absence of a parallel emphasis on rights and privacy. The BJP's manifesto, while expansive on technological solutions, remains conspicuously silent on how these advancements will safeguard citizens' privacy and rights. In an era where data privacy is paramount, this omission is significant. The manifesto does not articulate how the existing data protection laws will be enforced or improved to protect individuals' privacy amid the tech boom. This gap is troubling, as it suggests a potential oversight in balancing technological progress with essential civil liberties. In stark contrast, the Congress manifesto takes a more measured approach, focusing heavily on a rights-based framework. While it acknowledges the importance of technology in driving economic growth and job creation, its primary emphasis is on protecting and enhancing human rights. The Congress promises to uphold intellectual property rights, enforce the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, and ensure the legal protection of gig workers and domestic help. Furthermore, the party aims to amend the Digital Personal Data Protection Act to prevent governmental overreach and censorship. This approach by Congress suggests a commitment to socioeconomic equity and legal safeguards although it can never be guaranteed that technological advancements will not eclipse rights of individuals. The party's manifesto underscores the importance of addressing systemic issues such as discrimination against women and protecting the rights of religious minorities, aiming to foster an inclusive society. The divergence in these manifestos reflects broader ideological differences between the two parties. The BJP's techno-solution approach is forward looking, but risks overshadowing critical human rights issues. Congress's rights-centric agenda, although less technologically ambitious, lays stress on legal and social frameworks. For India, the path forward must balance these two approaches. Technological advancements are undoubtedly crucial for economic growth and global competitiveness. However, these must be pursued without compromising on the protection of individual rights and privacy.

A balanced strategy that integrates technological innovation with robust rights-based safeguards will ensure sustainable and inclusive development.

Which technology-related initiatives are emphasized in the BJP's manifesto?

a. Renewable energy projects
b. Space exploration missions
c. Advancements in quantum computing
d. Traditional farming techniques
e. Rural infrastructure development

16. Questions

What critical concern does the passage raise about the BJP's manifesto?

a. Lack of emphasis on social welfare programs
b. Absence of a focus on environmental conservation
c. Potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights
d. Insufficient investment in healthcare infrastructure
e. Neglect of educational reforms

17. Questions

What is the primary focus of the BJP's manifesto, as outlined in the passage?

a. Protection of human rights
b. Economic growth through technology
c. Promotion of social equality
d. Strengthening of legal frameworks
e. Preservation of cultural heritage

18. Questions

What broader ideological differences between the BJP and the Congress are highlighted in the passage?

a. Differences in foreign policy approaches
b. Disparities in economic development strategies
c. Variances in environmental conservation priorities
d. Contrasts in technological innovation versus rights-based frameworks
e. Disagreements on social welfare program implementation

SKYSup@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

How does the Congress aim to address concerns related to data privacy?

a. By expanding surveillance measures
b. By enforcing stringent censorship laws
c. By amending existing data protection laws
d. By limiting access to technological innovations
e. By promoting international data sharing agreements

20. Questions

According to the passage, what is essential for India's path forward?

a. Technological advancement at all costs
b. Complete overhaul of existing legal frameworks
c. A balance between technological innovation and human rights safeguards
d. Emphasis on traditional methods of governance
e. Dependence on international aid for development projects

21. Questions

What is the tone of the passage regarding the discussion of the BJP's and Congress's manifestos?

a. Sarcastic
b. Neutral
c. Critical
d. Enthusiastic
e. Nostalgic

sky53up@gmail.com

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

When combining these three statements AEG: "A recession is a period of temporary economic decline during which trade and industrial activity are reduced, typically identified by a fall in GDP for two successive quarters." This combined sentence provides a concise explanation of what a recession entails, highlighting the temporary economic decline and the characteristic reduction in trade and industrial activity, along with the usual indicator of GDP decline over two consecutive quarters.

When combining these three statements CDI: "The principle of comparative advantage explains how countries can benefit from trade by specializing in the production of goods they produce most efficiently." This combined sentence succinctly describes the concept of comparative advantage, highlighting how countries can optimize their production and trade activities based on their efficiency in producing certain goods.

When combining these three statements BFH: "The production possibility frontier (PPF) illustrates the maximum possible output combinations of two goods or services an economy can achieve when all resources are fully and efficiently utilized." This combined sentence provides a clear explanation of the production possibility frontier, emphasizing the potential output combinations and the condition of full and efficient utilization of resources.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

2. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these three statements AFH: "Supply-side economics focuses on boosting economic growth by increasing the supply of goods and services through tax cuts, deregulation, and incentives for production." This combined sentence accurately describes the main idea behind supply-side economics, which aims to stimulate economic growth by enhancing the production capacity of the economy through various policy measures.

When combining these three statements BEG: "Comparative advantage is the principle that countries or entities should produce goods and services they can produce most efficiently, trading with others for different goods." This combined sentence succinctly explains the concept of comparative advantage, highlighting the idea that countries should specialize in producing goods and services where they have a comparative advantage and trade with others to obtain goods they cannot efficiently produce themselves.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

3. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these three statements ADH: "Externalities are the unintended side effects of economic activities that affect third parties, such as pollution or education." This combined sentence effectively defines externalities by highlighting their nature as unintended consequences of economic actions that impact individuals or entities not directly involved in the transaction.

When combining these three statements BEI: "Public goods are characterized by non-excludability and non-rivalry, meaning they can be consumed by many people without reducing availability to others." This combined sentence succinctly defines public goods, emphasizing their key characteristics of being available for consumption by multiple individuals without diminishing the availability for others.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

4. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these three statements BDI: "The law of diminishing returns states that as more of a variable input is added to a fixed input, the additional output produced eventually decreases." This combined sentence accurately explains the law of diminishing returns, which asserts that adding more of a variable input to a fixed input will, at some point, result in a decrease in the marginal product of that variable input.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

5. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these three statements AEI: "Fiscal deficit happens when a government's expenditures exceed its revenues, leading to borrowing or debt accumulation." This combined sentence succinctly describes fiscal deficit, which occurs when a government spends more money than it earns, resulting in borrowing to cover the shortfall.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

6. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is: e) fallen out; strained relationship

"fallen out": This phrase accurately conveys the idea that the two colleagues had a disagreement that led to a deterioration in their relationship. "Fell off" is incorrect in this context because it suggests a decrease or decline in performance or interest, rather than a disagreement.

"strained relationship": This phrase effectively describes the result of the disagreement, indicating that the relationship between the colleagues has become tense and difficult.

Option (e) is the most fitting choice as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the sentence. The other options either use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

a). fell out; false connection: "Fell out" is correct, but "false connection" does not accurately describe the result of the disagreement. "False connection" suggests a relationship that was never genuine, which is not the intended meaning here.

b). fallen in; hard relation: "Fallen in" is incorrect because it does not describe a disagreement. "Hard relation" is also not idiomatic or commonly used to describe a tense relationship.

c). fallen for; stressed association: "Fallen for" typically means to develop romantic feelings for someone, which is not appropriate here. "Stressed association" is not a common or idiomatic phrase to describe a strained relationship.

d). fallen off; tensed alliance: "Fallen off" is incorrect in this context because it suggests a decline rather than a disagreement. "Tensed alliance" is not a common phrase and doesn't fit well in the context of describing a personal relationship.

In summary, option (e) is the most appropriate as it accurately conveys that the colleagues had a disagreement leading to a strained relationship.

7. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) opinion about; addressing climate change

"opinion about": This phrase is commonly used to express someone's thoughts or beliefs regarding a particular topic. "Opinion for" and "opinion to" are not idiomatic in this context. "Opinion on" is also correct but "about" fits more naturally here.

"addressing climate change": This phrase accurately conveys the idea of taking action to deal with or resolve the issue of climate change. "Directing climate change" and "managing climate change" do not fit well, as they imply controlling or guiding climate change rather than mitigating its effects. "Handling climate change" and "treating climate change" are less precise and not as commonly used in the context of environmental reforms.

a). opinion for; directing climate change: "Opinion for" is not a common phrase; "for" is not the correct preposition. "Directing climate change" is not appropriate because it implies controlling the phenomenon, which is not possible.

b). opinion to; managing climate change: "Opinion to" is not idiomatic. "Managing climate change" suggests trying to control it, which doesn't fit the context of implementing reforms.

d). opinion on; handling climate change: "Opinion on" is grammatically correct, but "handling climate change" is less precise and not the best phrase to describe taking comprehensive action against climate change.

e). opinion over; treating climate change: "Opinion over" is not correct usage. "Treating climate change" sounds like a medical approach, which is not suitable for describing environmental reforms.

In summary, option (c) is the most appropriate as it clearly and effectively conveys her strong opinion about the need for comprehensive environmental reforms and emphasizes the urgency of addressing climate change.

8. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is: a) cause for concern; prompting an urgent

"cause for concern": This phrase is the correct idiomatic expression to indicate that something is worrying or alarming. "Cause for concern" means that the drop in sales figures is a reason for the executives to be worried.

"prompting an urgent": This phrase effectively conveys that the concern led to the immediate decision to hold a meeting. "Prompting" means causing or triggering an action.

b). cause of concern; pushing an urgent: "Cause of concern" is not incorrect but less commonly used than "cause for concern." "Pushing an urgent" is not the correct phrase; "pushing" doesn't fit well in this context and "urgent" as a standalone adjective is incomplete without a noun.

c). cause to concern; prodding an urgent: "Cause to concern" is not idiomatic. "Prodding an urgent" is incorrect; "prodding" suggests urging someone to do something, and "urgent" is incomplete without a noun.

d). cause with concern; managing an urgent: "Cause with concern" is incorrect usage. "Managing an urgent" is incomplete and doesn't convey the intended meaning of organizing an immediate meeting.

e). cause by concern; conducting an urgent: "Cause by concern" is incorrect usage. "Conducting an urgent" is incomplete; "urgent" is an adjective and needs a noun to make sense.

In summary, option (a) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses the idiomatic expression "cause for concern" and conveys the action taken in response to the concern by saying "prompting an urgent meeting."

9. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is: d) began to come round; each passing moment

1). "began to come round": This phrase is a common idiom that means to regain consciousness after anaesthesia or a similar condition. It accurately describes the process of someone waking up from anaesthesia.

2). "each passing moment": This phrase effectively conveys the passage of time and the gradual process of becoming more alert. "Passing moment" is idiomatic and commonly used to describe the progression of time.

a). began to come by; each coming moment: "Began to come by" is incorrect in this context. "Come by" typically means to visit or obtain, which doesn't fit the context of regaining consciousness. "Each coming moment" is less idiomatic than "each passing moment."

b). began to come off; each moving moment: "Began to come off" is not the correct phrase for regaining consciousness; "come off" can mean to detach or be removed. "Each moving moment" is not idiomatic and doesn't effectively convey the passage of time.

c). began to come over; each driving moment: "Began to come over" is incorrect in this context. "Come over" typically means to visit or to be overwhelmed by a feeling, which doesn't fit here. "Each driving moment" is not idiomatic and doesn't convey the intended meaning.

e). began to come about; each advancing moment: "Began to come about" is incorrect in this context. "Come about" means to happen or occur, which doesn't fit the context of regaining consciousness. "Each advancing moment" is less idiomatic and not as commonly used as "each passing moment."

In summary, option (d) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses the idiom "began to come round" to describe regaining consciousness and "each passing moment" to convey the gradual progression of becoming more alert.

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: E

The correct answer is: e) she excels in music; take after

"she excels in music": This phrase means she is very good at or proficient in music. "Excels" is the appropriate verb to indicate high competence or outstanding ability.

"take after": This phrase means to resemble a parent or ancestor in character or appearance. It accurately describes her having inherited musical talent from her father.

a). she exceeds in music; take off: "She exceeds in music" is not the correct verb; "exceeds" is typically used in the context of surpassing limits or expectations, not for general proficiency. "Take off" means to leave the ground (for an aircraft) or to become successful quickly, which does not fit the context of resembling a parent.

b). she outperforms in music; take over: "She outperforms in music" suggests she does better than others but is not commonly used to describe general proficiency. "Take over" means to assume control of something, which is not appropriate in this context.

c). she outplays in music; take up: "She outplays in music" means she plays better than others, which is more specific than the intended meaning. "Take up" means to start doing a particular activity, not to resemble a parent.

d). she outshines in music; take for: "She outshines in music" means she performs better than others, similar to "outplays," but it is more about comparison than proficiency. "Take for" means to mistake someone for something else, which does not fit the context.

In summary, option (e) is the most appropriate as it correctly uses "excels" to indicate proficiency in music and "take after" to indicate resembling her father in musical talent.

11. Questions

Answer: D

A). The error in this sentence is "so coldly." The correct form should be "so cold." "Cold" is the adjective that describes the noun "weather."

Corrected Sentence A: "The weather was so cold that we decided to stay indoors."

B). The error in this sentence is "a beautiful and an expensive." The correct form should be "a beautiful and expensive." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective.

Corrected Sentence B: "She bought a beautiful and expensive necklace from the jewelry store."

C). The error in this sentence is "very quick." The correct form is "very quickly." "Quickly" is the adverb form used to modify the verb "completed."

Corrected Sentence C: "She completed the assignment very quickly and received praise from her teacher."

12. Questions

Answer: B

A). The error in this sentence is "good in mathematics." The correct form is "good at mathematics." The preposition "at" is commonly used with "good" to indicate proficiency.

Corrected Sentence A: "She is good at mathematics, which helps her in her engineering studies."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "accused for stealing." The correct form is "accused of stealing." The preposition "of" is used after "accused."

Corrected Sentence C: "He was accused of stealing the confidential documents from the office."

13. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). The error in this sentence is "An unique opportunity." The correct form is "A unique opportunity." The article "a" is used before words that begin with a consonant sound, and "unique" starts with a "yu" sound, which is a consonant sound.

Corrected Sentence B: "A unique opportunity like this comes once in a lifetime."

C). There is no error in this sentence.

14. Questions

Answer: C

A). The error in this sentence is "Each of the apples in the basket were." The correct form should be "Each of the apples in the basket was." When "each" is used before a singular noun, the verb should be singular.

Corrected Sentence A: "Each of the apples in the basket was ripe and juicy."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "box of chocolates were." The correct form should be "box of chocolates was." The term "box" is a singular noun, and when referring to it as a single entity, a singular verb is used.

Corrected Sentence C: "The box of chocolates was a thoughtful gift for her birthday."

15. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) Advancements in quantum computing. The passage highlights initiatives like expanding 5G and pioneering 6G technologies, advancing Graphene-based programmes, and embarking on the National Quantum Mission as part of the BJP's tech-centric agenda.

In the passage, the BJP's manifesto is described as heavily tech-centric, envisioning a future where technology is central to development. The party outlines an ambitious agenda to harness cutting-edge technologies across various sectors. Specifically, the passage highlights initiatives such as expanding 5G and pioneering 6G technologies, advancing Graphene-based programs, and embarking on the National Quantum Mission.

a). Renewable energy projects: While renewable energy projects are undoubtedly important for sustainable development and may be part of a political party's agenda, they are not specifically highlighted in the passage as a key focus of the BJP's manifesto. The passage instead emphasizes the party's commitment to technological innovation across various sectors, with a particular emphasis on areas like quantum computing, 5G and 6G technologies, graphene-based programs, and the National Quantum Mission.

b). Space exploration missions: Similar to renewable energy projects, space exploration missions are not explicitly mentioned in the passage as a primary focus of the BJP's manifesto. While space exploration and related technologies could contribute to technological advancement, the passage primarily discusses the party's emphasis on harnessing cutting-edge technologies like quantum computing rather than space exploration specifically.

d). Traditional farming techniques: The passage does not highlight traditional farming techniques as a key focus of the BJP's manifesto. Instead, it emphasizes the party's vision of leveraging advanced technologies across various sectors for development, suggesting a forward-looking approach rather than a focus on traditional methods.

e). Rural infrastructure development: While rural infrastructure development is essential for overall development and may be part of a political party's agenda, it is not highlighted in the passage as a primary focus of the BJP's tech-centric manifesto. The passage focuses more on the party's ambitious agenda for technological innovation, particularly in areas like quantum computing and 5G/6G technologies.

In summary, while options (a), (b), (d), and (e) may represent important areas of focus for political agendas, they are not explicitly emphasized in the passage as key technology-related initiatives of the BJP's manifesto. Therefore, based on the information provided, option (c), advancements in quantum computing, remains the correct answer.

16. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) Potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights. The passage mentions that while the BJP's manifesto is expansive on technological solutions, it remains conspicuously silent on how these advancements will safeguard citizens' privacy and rights, raising critical concerns.

The passage highlights that while the BJP's manifesto is expansive on technological solutions and envisions a future where technology is central to development, it remains conspicuously silent on how these advancements will safeguard citizens' privacy and rights. This omission raises critical concerns about the potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights in the face of aggressive technological advancement.

a). Lack of emphasis on social welfare programs: While the passage doesn't explicitly discuss the BJP's emphasis on social welfare programs, it primarily focuses on the party's tech-centric agenda and the potential implications for citizens' privacy and rights. Therefore, this option does not directly address the critical concern raised in the passage.

b). Absence of a focus on environmental conservation: Environmental conservation is not the central concern raised in the passage. While it's important, the passage primarily discusses the potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights due to the aggressive push for technology in the BJP's manifesto.

d). Insufficient investment in healthcare infrastructure: The passage does not specifically address the BJP's investment in healthcare infrastructure. The critical concern raised in the passage revolves around the potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights due to the aggressive push for technology, rather than the level of investment in healthcare infrastructure.

e). Neglect of educational reforms: Educational reforms are not the primary concern raised in the passage. While educational reforms are important for development, the passage primarily discusses the potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights in the context of the BJP's tech-centric manifesto.

In summary, option (c) Potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights directly addresses the critical concern raised in the passage about the BJP's manifesto, as it highlights the absence of a parallel emphasis on rights and privacy amid the aggressive push for technology. Therefore, (c) is the correct answer.

17. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is (b) Economic growth through technology. The passage mentions that the BJP's manifesto is heavily tech-centric, envisioning a future where technology is the linchpin of development, and outlines an ambitious agenda to harness cutting-edge technologies across various sectors.

In the passage, it's stated that the primary focus of the BJP's manifesto is heavily tech-centric, envisioning a future where technology is the linchpin of development. The passage describes the BJP's ambitious agenda to harness cutting-edge technologies across various sectors. Specifically, under the chapter 'Modi ki Guarantee for Technology and Innovations,' the BJP outlines initiatives to leverage technology for development.

a). Protection of human rights: While the passage mentions concerns about the potential infringement on citizens' privacy and rights due to the aggressive push for technology in the BJP's manifesto, it does not suggest that the primary focus of the manifesto is the protection of human rights. Instead, the emphasis is on technological innovation for economic growth.

c). Promotion of social equality: While social equality may be an aspect of the BJP's agenda, the passage primarily emphasizes the party's tech-centric approach and ambitious agenda for technological innovation across various sectors, suggesting that economic growth through technology is the primary focus.

d). Strengthening of legal frameworks: Strengthening legal frameworks is not explicitly highlighted as the primary focus of the BJP's manifesto in the passage. While legal frameworks may be important for governance, the passage focuses more on the party's tech-centric agenda and its implications for economic growth.

e). Preservation of cultural heritage: Preservation of cultural heritage is not the primary focus of the BJP's manifesto as outlined in the passage. While cultural heritage may be part of the broader agenda of a political party, the passage primarily discusses the party's vision for economic growth through technology.

In summary, option (b) Economic growth through technology directly addresses the primary focus of the BJP's manifesto as outlined in the passage, which emphasizes a tech-centric approach and ambitious agenda for technological innovation across various sectors. Therefore, (b) is the correct answer.

18. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is (d) Contrasts in technological innovation versus rights-based frameworks. The passage discusses how the BJP's techno-solution approach contrasts with the Congress's rights-centric agenda, reflecting broader ideological differences between the two parties.

In the passage, the broader ideological differences between the BJP and the Congress are highlighted based on their respective manifestos. The passage outlines that the BJP's manifesto takes a forward-looking, techno-solution approach, emphasizing technological innovation as central to development. On the other hand, the Congress manifesto is described as taking a more measured approach, focusing heavily on a rights-based framework.

a). Differences in foreign policy approaches: While differences in foreign policy approaches may exist between political parties, the passage does not specifically highlight this as one of the broader ideological differences between the BJP and the Congress. Instead, it focuses on their approaches to technology and rights-based frameworks.

b). Disparities in economic development strategies: Economic development strategies may indeed differ between political parties, but the passage primarily discusses the BJP's emphasis on technological innovation and the Congress's focus on a rights-based framework rather than specific economic development strategies.

c). Variances in environmental conservation priorities: Environmental conservation priorities are not explicitly discussed as one of the broader ideological differences between the BJP and the Congress in the passage. The passage primarily focuses on their approaches to technology and rights-based frameworks.

e). Disagreements on social welfare program implementation: While disagreements on social welfare program implementation may be part of broader ideological differences between political parties, the passage primarily highlights the BJP's tech-centric approach and the Congress's emphasis on rights-based frameworks as the key contrasting ideologies.

In summary, option (d) Contrasts in technological innovation versus rights-based frameworks directly addresses the broader ideological differences highlighted in the passage, reflecting the BJP's forward-looking approach to technological innovation and the Congress's focus on a rights-based framework. Therefore, (d) is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) By amending existing data protection laws. The passage mentions that the Congress aims to amend the Digital Personal Data Protection Act to prevent governmental overreach and censorship, indicating its approach to address concerns related to data privacy.

In the passage, it's mentioned that the Congress aims to address concerns related to data privacy by amending the Digital Personal Data Protection Act. The party intends to amend this act to prevent governmental overreach and censorship, indicating its approach to addressing concerns related to data privacy through legislative measures.

a). By expanding surveillance measures: Expanding surveillance measures would likely exacerbate concerns related to data privacy rather than address them. The passage does not suggest that the Congress aims to address data privacy concerns through increased surveillance.

b). By enforcing stringent censorship laws: Enforcing stringent censorship laws is not the approach highlighted in the passage for addressing concerns related to data privacy. Instead, the passage suggests that the Congress aims to prevent governmental overreach and censorship through amendments to data protection laws.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d). By limiting access to technological innovations: Limiting access to technological innovations is not mentioned in the passage as the Congress's approach to addressing concerns related to data privacy. The party's focus, as described in the passage, is on amending data protection laws to safeguard privacy rights.

e). By promoting international data sharing agreements: While promoting international data sharing agreements may be part of a comprehensive approach to data privacy, the passage does not specifically highlight this as the Congress's strategy for addressing concerns related to data privacy. Instead, the passage emphasizes the party's intention to amend existing data protection laws.

In summary, option (c) By amending existing data protection laws directly addresses the Congress's approach to addressing concerns related to data privacy, as outlined in the passage. Therefore, (c) is the correct answer.

20. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) A balance between technological innovation and human rights safeguards. The passage emphasizes the importance of balancing technological advancements with robust rights-based safeguards to ensure sustainable and inclusive development for India's path forward.

In the passage, it's emphasized that for India's path forward, it is essential to balance technological advancement with human rights safeguards. The passage highlights that while technological advancements are crucial for economic growth and global competitiveness, they must be pursued without compromising on the protection of individual rights and privacy. Therefore, achieving a balance between technological innovation and human rights safeguards is deemed necessary for sustainable and inclusive development.

a). Technological advancement at all costs: While technological advancement is important, the passage suggests that it should not come at the expense of compromising human rights and privacy. Therefore, pursuing technological advancement at all costs is not advocated in the passage.

b). Complete overhaul of existing legal frameworks: While the passage emphasizes the importance of legal safeguards and amendments to address concerns such as data privacy, it does not suggest a complete overhaul of existing legal frameworks as essential for India's path forward. Instead, it emphasizes achieving a balance between technological innovation and human rights safeguards.

d). Emphasis on traditional methods of governance: The passage does not advocate for an emphasis on traditional methods of governance as essential for India's path forward. Instead, it focuses on the importance of balancing technological innovation with human rights safeguards to ensure sustainable development.

e). Dependence on international aid for development projects: The passage does not suggest dependence on international aid for development projects as essential for India's path forward. Instead, it emphasizes the importance of achieving a balance between technological innovation and human rights safeguards for sustainable and inclusive development.

In summary, option (c) A balance between technological innovation and human rights safeguards directly addresses the essential aspect highlighted in the passage for India's path forward. Therefore, (c) is the correct answer.

21. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: B

The correct answer is (b) Neutral.

The tone of the passage is the author's attitude towards the subject matter. In this passage, the author presents an analysis of the BJP's and Congress's manifestos by comparing and contrasting their different approaches to technology and human rights. The author does not show strong emotion or bias towards either party but instead provides a balanced discussion of both manifestos, highlighting their respective focuses and potential implications.

(a) Sarcastic: The passage does not use irony or sarcasm to mock or convey contempt.

(b) Neutral: The author maintains an impartial and objective tone, presenting facts and observations without taking sides.

(c) Critical: Although the passage does raise concerns about the BJP's emphasis on technology without addressing privacy, it does not do so in a harsh or overly critical manner.

(d) Enthusiastic: The tone is not characterized by excitement or positive emotion towards the subject matter.

(e) Nostalgic: The passage does not reflect a longing for the past or past events.

Therefore, the tone of the passage regarding the discussion of the BJP's and Congress's manifestos is best described as neutral.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the sentence given below two blanks are there followed by six words to fill the blank to complete the sentence meaningfully correct. You have to choose the correct pair of words to complete the sentence.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) transferred a _____ amount of Rs 2.1 lakh crores to the Central government as a dividend payout, giving a booster shot to _____ stock markets.

1). teeming

2). whopping

3). staggering

4). volatile

5). ephemeral

6). whimsical

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 2 and 4

2. Questions

The United States, Israel's most powerful and _____ ally, would have to take the lead in promoting the idea of a Palestine state, but while _____ Palestinian self-determination it should not pose an existential threat to Israel.

1). snuggest

2). perfidious

3). staunchest

4). conferring

5). rescinding

6). congregating

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 6

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

3. Questions

The _____ between the RBI's dividend announcement and the _____ stock market creates a positive feedback loop.

1). exertion

2). interplay

3). apparatus

4). exuberant

5). buoyant

6). lethargic

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

4. Questions

The BJP's manifesto is heavily tech-centric, _____ a future where technology is the _____ of development.

1). conceiting

2). pondering

3). envisioning

4). addendum

5). fringe

6). linchpin

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

5. Questions

Britain's close partnership with Pakistan during the Afghan War, former first secretary of state George Osborne's _____ of a "golden era" of Sino-British relations, and the protracted Brexit

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

process, made New Delhi _____.

1). proclamation

2). refrainment

3). concealment

4). ambivalent

5). credulous

6). sceptical

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 6

e. 3 and 4

6. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The politician's divisive rhetoric created a clear split among the voters, leading to heated debates and strong disagreements.

II). The leader was arrested for incitement after urging the crowd to engage in violent protests.

III). After months of hard work, the team finally enjoyed a well-deserved reprieve, receiving a bonus for their efforts.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

7. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

I). She decided to commute her vacation days into additional salary, hoping to boost her income for the month.

II). Before releasing the document to the public, the agency had to redact all confidential information to protect sensitive data.

III). After being found guilty of multiple charges, he faced a lengthy incarceration in a maximumsecurity prison.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

8. Questions

I). After weeks of intense work, she finally found a moment of respite during her vacation on the chaotic island.

II). The suspect was arrested and charged with assault after allegedly attacking a passerby on the street.

III). After the intense basketball game, the coach encouraged the team to engage in introspection by practicing their dribbling skills.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

9. Questions

I). The local community rallied together to provide succor to the victims of the natural disaster, offering food, shelter, and support.

II). The crowd at the concert began to dwindle as the night went on, with more and more people arriving to enjoy the music.

III). The hikers faced a steep climb up the mountain, requiring them to use ropes and harnesses for safety.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into three parts. You have to choose the correct connector to combine the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

I). The stock market experienced a sharp decline, II). Many investors decided to diversify their portfolios, III). They sought to mitigate risk.

A). Nevertheless, since

B). Despite, as

C). However, because

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. None of these

11. Questions

I). The finance ministry introduced new regulations, II). The market experienced a period of uncertainty, III). Investors hesitated to make significant trades.

A). Therefore, as

B). Despite, because

C). However, since

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. None of these

12. Questions

I). The retail chain announced a new expansion plan;

II). It faced challenges in securing additional funding, III). It approached multiple investors.

A). However, so

B). Despite, as

C). Nevertheless, because

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. None of these

13. Questions

I). The company launched a new environmental sustainability initiative, II). It faced criticism from environmental groups,

III). They argued that the initiative didn't go far enough.

A). Nevertheless, because

B). Despite, since

C). However, as

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. None of these

14. Questions

Read the paragraph carefully and answer the following questions:

Democratic segments of the nation have been eager to know the reason behind the prime minister's unwillingness to address press conferences — unless (__A__) queries are being lobbed by neutered journalists. Narendra Modi has now provided the answer — yet another Freudian slip? — saying that the absence of neutrality in the media is the cause for the prime minister of the mother of democracy shunning press conferences. Mr Modi is, of course, right in one aspect: the nature of the Indian media, barring a handful of exceptions, has changed — from the one that barked to an entity that whimpers at the sound of its master's voice. That should not displease Mr Modi who is known to be averse to scrutiny or transparency. The (__B__) of the Indian media and its deleterious consequences for democracy in the country are among the lasting legacies of Mr Modi's regime. Incidentally, the consumers of news in India are in agreement with the prime minister. Two years ago, a survey found that 45% of the respondents were aware of the nuisance of the media reporting favourably on Mr Modi's government. The winners in this (__C__) game are the government and the media. The former burnishes its image, the ground realities notwithstanding, on account of having the media on a leash; the latter, of course, laps up government largesse at a time of diminishing profits and extreme competition. The loser, however, is truth and, in turn, India's democratic ethos. The end result of this alleged quid pro quo is telling. By turning into cheerleaders of the regime, large sections of the media have lost their credibility. Consequently, when the government chooses to tighten the leash — the noose — through repressive legislations or otherwise, public support for the news (__D__) is hard to come by. The loss of trust in the traditional media as well as social media's (E) penchant for being flooded with falsity has resulted in the creation of an informational vacuum: there is a demand for unbiased information with very little supply of this precious commodity. This gap can only strengthen the forces of post-Truth. Mr Modi's remark though raises an important question: how does one define media neutrality? News institutions cannot be partisan. But speaking truth to power, the media's dharma, is possible only when journalists subscribe to ethics and opinions that are integral to the journalism of truth. In that sense, the media should subscribe to some cardinal values and (F) shun a neutrality that is servile.

Which of the following words can fit in the blank A?

a. benign
b. perilous
c. conducive
d. obnoxious
e. propitious

15. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank B?

a. taming
b. subduing
c. pacifying
d. extricating
e. mollifying

16. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank C?

a. dubious
b. cryptic
c. enigmatic
d. unwavering
e. indecisive

17. Questions

Which of the following words can fit in the blank D?

a. hostility

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. geniality

c. complicity

d. fraternity

e. antagonism

18. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "penchant" used in the sentence?

a. loathness

b. predilection

c. hesitation

d. propensity

e. peculiarity

19. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "shun" used in the sentence?

a. avoid

b. confront

c. disdain

d. denounce

e. despise

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is 2 and 4, "whopping" and "volatile," respectively.

Whopping: This term is appropriate because it signifies a very large or significant amount. The context of transferring Rs 2.1 lakh crores to the Central government implies that the amount is notably large.

Volatile: This term is suitable because it describes something that is subject to sudden, unpredictable changes. Stock markets are often described as volatile when they experience frequent and significant fluctuations, which can be influenced by major financial events like a large dividend payout from the RBI.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Teeming" means full or overflowing, which does not appropriately describe the amount of money.

"Staggering" means astonishing or deeply shocking, which could fit the context but is not as precise as

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"whopping" in describing the large amount of money.

"Ephemeral" means short-lived or temporary, which does not describe stock markets in this context.

"Whimsical" means playful or fanciful, which is not appropriate for describing stock markets, especially in a financial context.

2. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is 3 and 4, "staunchest" and "conferring," respectively.

Staunchest: This term means very loyal and committed in attitude. Describing the United States as Israel's "staunchest" ally emphasizes the strong and unwavering support that the U.S. provides to Israel.

Conferring: This term means granting or bestowing (a title, degree, benefit, or right). In this context, "conferring" Palestinian self-determination means that the U.S. would be supporting or granting the Palestinians the right to self-governance or statehood.

The other options do not fit the context as well:

"Snuggest" means fitting closely and comfortably, which is not an appropriate descriptor for an ally.

"Perfidious" means deceitful and untrustworthy, which is the opposite of what is intended when describing a loyal ally.

"Rescinding" means revoking, canceling, or repealing, which does not fit the context of promoting Palestinian self-determination.

"Congregating" means gathering together, which is not relevant to the context of promoting self-determination.

3. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is 2 and 5, "interplay" and "buoyant," respectively.

Interplay: This term refers to the way in which two or more things have an effect on each other. In this context, it indicates the mutual influence between the RBI's dividend announcement and the stock market.

Buoyant: This term describes a market that is rising or maintaining a high level of activity. Here, it suggests that the stock market is performing well or showing positive trends.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Exertion" refers to physical or mental effort, which does not fit the context of the relationship between the RBI's announcement and the stock market.

"Apparatus" means the equipment or machinery needed for a particular activity, which is not suitable for describing the relationship in this context.

"Exuberant" describes something full of energy, excitement, or cheerfulness, which can describe the stock market but does not fit as well as "buoyant" in this financial context.

"Lethargic" means sluggish or lacking energy, which is the opposite of what is intended in the context of a positive feedback loop created by a strong stock market response.

4. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is 3 and 6, "envisioning" and "linchpin," respectively.

Envisioning: This term means imagining or predicting a future scenario. It suggests that the BJP's manifesto is projecting a future where technology plays a central role in development.

Linchpin: This term refers to something that is essential to holding various parts together or is central to a system or situation. In this context, it means that technology is seen as a crucial element of development.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Conceiting" is not a commonly used word and would not fit the context appropriately.

"Pondering" means thinking deeply about something, which doesn't fit the context of a manifesto projecting a future scenario.

"Addendum" means an addition or supplement, which doesn't fit the context of something being central to development.

"Fringe" refers to the outer edge or margin of something, which is the opposite of being central or crucial.

5. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is 1 and 6, "proclamation" and "sceptical," respectively.

Proclamation: This term refers to a formal public statement or announcement. In this context, it suggests that George Osborne made a formal announcement or declaration about a "golden era" of Sino-British relations.

Sceptical: This term means having doubts or reservations. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that New Delhi became doubtful or mistrustful due to Britain's actions and statements.

The other options do not fit as well in the context of the sentence:

"Refrainment" suggests holding back or restraining from something, which does not fit the context of making a public statement.

"Concealment" means hiding something, which is not appropriate in the context of making a public proclamation.

"Ambivalent" means having mixed feelings or contradictory ideas, which does not convey the strong sense of doubt suggested by "sceptical."

"Credulous" means being too ready to believe something, which is the opposite of what is meant by "sceptical."

6. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "divisive" is correctly used to describe rhetoric that causes division or disagreement

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

among a group of people.

II). In this sentence, "incitement" is correctly used to describe the act of provoking or urging others to commit unlawful or violent actions.

III). In this sentence, "reprieve" is used incorrectly. "Reprieve" typically refers to a temporary relief or postponement from something negative, such as a punishment or a difficult situation. It doesn't fit the context of receiving a positive reward like a bonus. A more suitable term might be "reward" or "recognition."

7. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "commute" is used incorrectly. "Commute" typically refers to the act of traveling regularly between home and work or, in a legal context, to reduce a judicial sentence. The intended meaning in this context might be better conveyed with "convert" or "exchange."

II). In this sentence, "redact" is correctly used to describe the process of editing a document to remove or obscure sensitive information before its release.

III). In this sentence, "incarceration" is correctly used to refer to the state of being confined in prison.

8. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "respite" is used incorrectly. "Respite" typically implies relief or rest from something difficult or unpleasant, but the sentence suggests that the vacation on the chaotic island would not provide such relief. A more appropriate term might be "chaos" or "turmoil."

II). In this sentence, "assault" is correctly used to describe the act of attacking or causing harm to another person.

III). In this sentence, "introspection" is used incorrectly. "Introspection" refers to the process of examining one's own thoughts and feelings, which does not align with the physical activity of practicing dribbling skills. A more suitable term might be "practice" or "skill refinement."

9. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "succor" is correctly used to describe the assistance, aid, or relief provided to the victims of the natural disaster by the local community.

II). In this sentence, "dwindle" is used incorrectly. "Dwindle" means to gradually decrease in number or intensity. However, the sentence implies the opposite—that the crowd increased instead of decreasing. A more appropriate term might be "swell" or "grow."

III). In this sentence, "steep" is correctly used to describe the sharp incline of the mountain, indicating its significant vertical rise.

10. Questions

Answer: C

skysun@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

The correct answer is C. However, because.

Combined Sentence: The stock market experienced a sharp decline, however, many investors decided to diversify their portfolios because they sought to mitigate risk.

"However," is used to indicate a contrast or contradiction. It introduces the idea that despite the decline in the stock market, there was a subsequent action taken by investors.

"Because" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why investors decided to diversify their portfolios, attributing it to their aim to mitigate risk.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the decline in the stock market and the investors' decision to diversify their portfolios, providing a clear reason for their actions.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is B. Despite, because.

Combined Sentence: The finance ministry introduced new regulations, despite the market experiencing a period of uncertainty because investors hesitated to make significant trades.

"Despite" is used to indicate a contrast or contradiction. It introduces the idea that the introduction of new regulations occurred in spite of the market uncertainty.

"Because" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why investors hesitated to make significant trades, attributing it to the period of uncertainty in the market.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the introduction of new regulations and the market uncertainty, providing a clear reason for investors' hesitation.

12. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is C. Nevertheless, because.

Combined Sentence: The retail chain announced a new expansion plan; nevertheless, it faced challenges in securing additional funding because it approached multiple investors.

"Nevertheless" is used to indicate a contrast or contradiction. It suggests that despite the announcement of the expansion plan, there is an obstacle or difficulty.

"Because" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why the retail chain faced challenges in securing additional funding, attributing it to the approach of multiple investors.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the announcement of the expansion plan and the challenges faced in securing funding, providing a clear reason for the difficulty encountered.

13. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is C. However, as.

Combined Sentence: The company launched a new environmental sustainability initiative; however, it faced criticism from environmental groups, as they argued that the initiative didn't go far enough.

"However," is used to introduce a contrast or contradiction. It indicates that despite the launch of the initiative, there is criticism from environmental groups.

"As" is used to provide a reason or cause. It explains why the environmental groups criticized the initiative, attributing it to their belief that it didn't go far enough in addressing environmental concerns.

This combination effectively conveys the contrast between the launch of the sustainability initiative and the criticism it received from environmental groups, providing a clear reason for their dissatisfaction.

14. Questions

Answer: A

The word "benign" fits well in the blank A. It suggests that the prime minister is only willing to address press conferences if queries are posed by journalists who are perceived as harmless or not threatening to him or his government.

a). Benign: This option fits well because it implies that the prime minister is only comfortable addressing press conferences if the queries are posed by journalists who are perceived as harmless or not threatening to him or his government. The word "benign" suggests a lack of aggression or harm.

b). Perilous: This option implies that the prime minister is unwilling to address press conferences unless the queries are posed by journalists who are considered dangerous or risky to him or his government. However, this interpretation doesn't seem to align with the context provided.

c). Conducive: This option implies that the prime minister is unwilling to address press conferences unless the queries are posed by journalists who create favorable conditions or circumstances for him or his government. While this interpretation could be plausible in some contexts, it doesn't quite match the tone or context of the passage provided.

d). Obnoxious: This option implies that the prime minister is unwilling to address press conferences unless the queries are posed by journalists who are offensive or unpleasant to him or his government. While the media's perceived neutrality might indeed be considered obnoxious by the prime minister, the term doesn't fit well in the context of the sentence given.

e). Propitious: This option implies that the prime minister is unwilling to address press conferences unless the queries are posed by journalists who are favorable or advantageous to him or his government. While this interpretation could be plausible, it doesn't align perfectly with the context provided in the passage.

Therefore, " a) benign " is the word that can fit in the blank (A).

15. Questions

Answer: D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The word that cannot fit in the blank B is "extricating." The sentence talks about the deleterious consequences of the Indian media's transformation under Modi's regime, suggesting that the media has been tamed, subdued, pacified, or mollified, all of which imply a state of control or influence. "Extricating" means to free or release from entanglement, which doesn't fit the context of the sentence describing the media's change under Modi's leadership.

a). Taming: This word implies the exertion of control or influence to domesticate or bring under control.

In the context of the sentence, it suggests that the Indian media has been controlled or influenced by Modi's regime, aligning with the overall theme of the passage.

b). Subduing: Similar to "taming," "subduing" also suggests the exertion of control or influence to suppress or bring under control. It fits well with the idea that the Indian media has been subdued or controlled by Modi's regime.

c). Pacifying: "Pacifying" means to calm or soothe, often by acceding to demands or reducing hostility. In this context, it implies that the Indian media has been pacified or appeased by Modi's regime, aligning with the notion that it has been brought under control or influenced.

d). Extricating: This word means to free or release from entanglement or difficulty. It does not fit in the context of the sentence because it suggests freeing or releasing the media from control or influence, which contradicts the overall theme of the passage.

e). Mollifying: "Mollifying" means to appease someone's anger or anxiety, often by acceding to their demands or grievances. In the context of the sentence, it implies that the Indian media has been mollified or placated by Modi's regime, aligning with the theme of control or influence.

In summary, options a), b), c), and e) all fit well in the context of the sentence, suggesting that the Indian media has been controlled, influenced, pacified, or mollified by Modi's regime. Option d) does not fit because "extricating" suggests freeing or releasing the media from control, which contradicts the passage's theme.

16. Questions

Answer: D

Correct Answer: d) unwavering. The word "unwavering" cannot fit in the blank C.

The context describes a situation where the media's favorable reporting on the government is implied to be questionable or mysterious, hence words like "dubious," "cryptic," "enigmatic," and "indecisive" all fit well. These words suggest uncertainty, ambiguity, or a lack of clarity, which aligns with the negative connotation implied by the "(C) game" involving the media and the government.

However, "unwavering" means firm and resolute, which doesn't fit the context of the game being questionable or dubious.

Unwavering means steady, resolute, and not changing. It implies a strong, clear, and consistent stance. In the context of the "game" described, which involves the media's questionable and ambiguous relationship with the government, "unwavering" does not fit because the nature of this game is not about consistency or firmness but rather about doubt and lack of clarity.

a). dubious: Dubious means hesitating or doubting, and it also implies something that is not to be relied upon or is suspect. This fits well in the context as it aligns with the idea of the media's relationship with the government being questionable and potentially dishonest.

b). cryptic: Cryptic means having a meaning that is mysterious or obscure. This word fits because it suggests that the nature of the game between the media and the government is not straightforward and is difficult to understand, which matches the context.

c). enigmatic: Enigmatic means mysterious and difficult to interpret or understand. This also fits well as it aligns with the idea that the relationship and the "game" between the media and the government are not clear and are puzzling.

e). indecisive: Indecisive means not settling an issue or lacking in decision. This can fit in the context because it suggests a lack of clear direction or certainty in the game played between the media and the government, which can be seen as ambiguous or unclear.

Thus, unwavering is the only option that does not fit the context of a questionable or ambiguous relationship described as a "(C) game."

Therefore, the correct answer is: d) unwavering

17. Questions

Answer: D

The blank D in the passage should be filled with a word that describes how the public would react when the government chooses to tighten control over the media. Given the context, the appropriate word is one that implies public support or camaraderie towards the news media.

a). hostility - This means antagonism or opposition, which doesn't fit the context since it would imply the public is against the media, not supportive.

b). geniality - This means friendliness or cheerfulness, which doesn't fit the context of a repressive action by the government.

c). complicity - This means involvement in wrongdoing, which could fit but doesn't align with the context of public reaction described here.

d). fraternity - This means a group with common interests or brotherhood. This implies support and camaraderie, which makes sense in the context of the public potentially rallying behind the media.

e). antagonism - This means active hostility or opposition, which similarly to "hostility", implies public opposition to the media, which is not the intended meaning.

The correct word that fits in the blank, implying public support or camaraderie for the media when it faces repression, is: d) fraternity

Therefore, the correct answer is (d) fraternity.

18. Questions

Answer: B

The word "penchant" means a strong or habitual liking for something or a tendency to do something. Among the given options, the word that best matches this meaning is: b) predilection, "predilection" is the correct replacement for "penchant"

So, the correct answer is b) predilection.

a). loathness: "Loathness" refers to a reluctance or unwillingness to do something. This is the opposite of having a penchant, which implies a strong liking or tendency towards something. Therefore, it doesn't fit the context.

b). predilection: "Predilection" means a preference or special liking for something; a bias in favor of something. This is synonymous with "penchant," which also means a strong liking or tendency. Hence, it fits perfectly in the context.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

c). hesitation: "Hesitation" refers to the act of pausing before saying or doing something, often due to uncertainty or reluctance. This meaning is not related to having a strong liking or tendency, making it an unsuitable replacement for "penchant."

d). propensity: "Propensity" means a natural inclination or tendency to behave in a certain way. While similar in meaning to "penchant," it doesn't capture the same nuance of a strong liking. However, it is close and could potentially fit, but "predilection" is more precise.

e). peculiarity: "Peculiarity" refers to a strange or unusual habit or characteristic. This does not convey the idea of a strong liking or tendency and therefore does not work as a replacement for "penchant."

In conclusion, "predilection" is the most accurate synonym for "penchant" in the given context, making it the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: A

The word "shun" in the sentence "In that sense, the media should subscribe to some cardinal values and shun a neutrality that is servile" means to deliberately avoid or reject. Therefore, the best replacement for "shun" in this context is: a) avoid.

a). avoid: This means to keep away from or stop oneself from doing something. It fits the context well because it conveys the idea of deliberately not engaging in or adopting a servile neutrality.

b). confront: This means to face up to and deal with a problem or difficult situation. This does not fit the context because it implies dealing with something head-on rather than avoiding or rejecting it.

c). disdain: This means to regard or treat with haughty contempt. While disdain involves a strong feeling of dislike, it doesn't quite fit the sense of deliberately avoiding or rejecting something.

d). denounce: To denounce means to publicly declare to be wrong or evil. This implies an active public condemnation rather than simply avoiding or rejecting. Although it involves a negative stance towards servile neutrality, it doesn't convey the idea of avoiding or staying away from it.

e). despise: This means to feel contempt or a deep repugnance for. Like "disdain," it conveys strong feelings of dislike but does not specifically capture the sense of actively avoiding or rejecting something.

Thus, "avoid" (a) is the best fit for replacing "shun" because it clearly conveys the idea of deliberately keeping away from or not engaging in servile neutrality, aligning well with the context of the sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the given question, sentences are given in jumbled form. Rearrange them in a proper order and answer the questions that follow.

A). The Directive Principles of State Policy mandate the Government to secure adequate means of livelihood, equitable distribution of resources and special protection for children and vulnerable sections.

B). India's commitment to social welfare is enshrined in its Constitution.

C). Early childhood is a critical period for cognitive, emotional and social development.

D). The National ECCE (Early Childhood Care and Education) Policy 2013 underscores the importance of providing quality health, nutrition, early learning and protection for children under six.

E). Recognising ECCE (Early Childhood Care and Education) as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act would ensure that all children receive the foundational support necessary for their development.

Which of the following is the penultimate sentence after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

2. Questions

Which of the following is the second sentence after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

3. Questions

Which of the following is the hind most statement after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

Which of the following is the introductory statement after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

5. Questions

Which of the following should form a consecutive pair after re-arrangement?

a. A-D

b. A-E

c. C-D

d. B-D

e. B-C

6. Questions

In the questions given below, three columns are given. Column 1 and 3 contain different independent sentences (3 in each column) and column 2 contains 3 connectors which may or may not join the given sentences in the other two columns. This connector can be placed anywhere in the sentence. Mark the option which provides the correct sequences of joined sentences as your answer.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The children played in the garden.	1). meanwhile	D). She went for a walk in the park to enjoy the cool evening breeze.
B). She finished her dinner.	2). then	E). Their parents prepared dinner in the kitchen.
C). The experiment yielded consistent results.	3). therefore	F). The hypothesis was confirmed to be accurate.

a. A1D, B2E, and C3F

b. A1E, B3D, and C2F

c. A2E, B3D, and C1F

d. A1E, B2D, and C3F

e. A2D, B1E, and C3F

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

7. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The new policy will reduce environmental impact.	1). moreover	D). They still lost the championship game by a single point.
B). The new software update improves performance.	2). additionally	E). It is expected to save the company significant costs in the long run.
C). The team played exceptionally well.	3). although	F). It includes several new features that enhance user experience.

a. A2E, B1F, and C3D
b. A3E, B2F, and C1D
c. A1E, B2F, and C3D
d. A1F, B3E, and C2D
e. A1F, B2E, and C3D

8. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She had diligently prepared for months.	1). therefore	D). She felt confident walking into the exam room.
B). The company failed to adapt to new market trends.	2). likewise	E). Her brother is fascinated by detective stories.
C). She enjoys reading mystery novels.	3). consequently	F). It suffered significant financial losses.

a. A3D, B1F, and C2E
b. A2D, B3F, and C1E
c. A1D, B2F, and C3E
d. A3D, B2F, and C1E
e. A1D, B3F, and C2E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). You study consistently.	1). unless	D). Her friends were out enjoying the sunny weather at the beach.
B). She studied diligently for her exams.	2). while	E). It's unlikely you'll pass the exam with a high grade.
C). The road was long and challenging.	3). though	F). They never lost sight of their destination, driven by determination and perseverance.

a. A1E, B3D, and C2F
b. A1E, B2D, and C3F
c. A3E, B2D, and C1F
d. A2E, B3D, and C1F
e. A2E, B1D, and C3F

10. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). While some people thrive in solitude.	1). however	D). They decided to proceed with their camping trip regardless.
B). The weather forecast predicted rain for the entire weekend.	2). conversely	E). She still felt unprepared when the time came to take it.
C). She had studied diligently for the exam.	3). yet	F). Others find solace in the company of friends and loved ones.

a. A2F, B1D, and C3E
b. A1F, B2D, and C3E
c. A3F, B2D, and C1E
d. A3F, B1D, and C2E
e. A2F, B3D, and C1E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement required" i.e. (E).

The sudden drop in sales figures was a major cause by concern among the company's executives, prompting them to urgently reassess their marketing strategies and product offerings.

a. major cause of concern
b. major cause for concern
c. major cause to concern
d. major cause with concern
e. no improvement required

12. Questions

As the sun set, casting a warm golden glow over the park, she has been running along the winding trail, her feet pounding rhythmically against the ground and her thoughts drifting freely with each stride.

a. she was running
b. she has run
c. she had run
d. she has running
e. no improvement required

13. Questions

In times of uncertainty and challenge, many people look upon their leaders for guidance, hoping to find reassurance and a clear path forward through the difficulties they face.

a. many people look up their leaders
b. many people look for their leaders
c. many people look in their leaders
d. many people look to their leaders
e. no improvement required

14. Questions

He has been ill for several weeks, and although he was starting to recover, the lingering effects of the sickness left him feeling weak and exhausted.

a. He had been ill for several weeks
b. He was ill for several weeks
c. He has ill for several weeks
d. He had ill for several weeks
e. no improvement required

skybsup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

The vibrant colours of the bustling city market, with its lively atmosphere and diverse array of goods, sharply contrasted the quiet, monochromatic serenity of the surrounding rural countryside.

a. sharply contrasted against the quiet

b. sharply contrasted on the quiet

c. sharply contrasted with the quiet

d. sharply contrasted in the quiet

e. no improvement required

16. Questions

In each of the following questions, a sentence has been divided into five parts out of which one part is erroneous. You are required to choose the option which is grammatically or contextually incorrect.

a). The software development project is running

b). smoothly for the past six months,

c). thanks to the dedicated team of programmers

d). who consistently meet their deadlines

e). and address any issues promptly.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

17. Questions

a). Indians are wedded in b). the tradition of celebrating

c). festivals with great fervour,

d). symbolizing the rich cultural tapestry

e). woven throughout the country's history.

a. a

b. b

c. c

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

d. d

e. e

18. Questions

a). In the context of making travel arrangements, b). booking a direct flight is often

c). more preferable to enduring the hassle

d). of multiple layovers and the potential e). for delays and missed connections.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

19. Questions

a). Despite facing numerous setbacks,

b). he knew he must pull

c). himself off together

d). and continue pursuing his goals

e). with determination and resilience.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

20. Questions

a). Ram told to the teacher about

b). the upcoming science fair project,

c). eagerly sharing his innovative ideas

d). and seeking guidance on e). how to best execute his experiment.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

The paragraph discusses India's constitutional commitment to social welfare and emphasizes the importance of early childhood care and education, culminating in a call for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces India's constitutional commitment to social welfare. Sentence A follows, detailing the Directive Principles of State Policy that mandate the government to ensure adequate means of livelihood and special protection for children and vulnerable sections. Sentence C highlights the significance of early childhood as a critical period for development. Sentence D introduces the National ECCE Policy 2013, which emphasizes the importance of quality health, nutrition, early learning, and protection for young children. Finally, sentence E advocates for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act to ensure foundational support for all children.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – D – E.

The penultimate sentence in a paragraph is the one that appears just before the last sentence and serves as a bridge or transition to the final point. In this sequence, Sentence D, " The National ECCE (Early Childhood Care and Education) Policy 2013 underscores the importance of providing quality health, nutrition, early learning and protection for children under six." is the penultimate sentence.

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

2. Questions

Answer: B

The paragraph discusses India's constitutional commitment to social welfare and emphasizes the importance of early childhood care and education, culminating in a call for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces India's constitutional commitment to social welfare. Sentence A follows, detailing the Directive Principles of State Policy that mandate the government to ensure adequate means of livelihood and special protection for children and vulnerable sections. Sentence C highlights the significance of early childhood as a critical period for development. Sentence D introduces the National ECCE Policy 2013, which emphasizes the importance of quality health, nutrition, early learning, and protection for young children. Finally, sentence E advocates for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act to ensure foundational support for all children.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – D – E.

Sentence A, “The Directive Principles of State Policy mandate the Government to secure adequate means of livelihood, equitable distribution of resources and special protection for children and vulnerable sections.” is the second sentence after rearrangement.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

3. Questions

Answer: A

The paragraph discusses India's constitutional commitment to social welfare and emphasizes the importance of early childhood care and education, culminating in a call for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces India's constitutional commitment to social welfare. Sentence A follows, detailing the Directive Principles of State Policy that mandate the government to ensure adequate means of livelihood and special protection for children and vulnerable sections. Sentence C highlights the significance of early childhood as a critical period for development. Sentence D introduces the National ECCE Policy 2013, which emphasizes the importance of quality health, nutrition, early learning, and protection for young children. Finally, sentence E advocates for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act to ensure foundational support for all children.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – D – E.

The hindmost statement, also known as the last sentence, is the final statement that concludes the paragraph. The hindmost or last sentence is Sentence E: " Recognising ECCE (Early Childhood Care and Education) as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act would ensure that all children receive the foundational support necessary for their development."

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

4. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph discusses India's constitutional commitment to social welfare and emphasizes the importance of early childhood care and education, culminating in a call for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces India's constitutional commitment to social welfare. Sentence A follows, detailing the Directive Principles of State Policy that mandate the government to ensure adequate means of livelihood and special protection for children and vulnerable sections. Sentence C highlights the significance of early childhood as a critical period for development. Sentence D introduces the National ECCE Policy 2013, which emphasizes the importance of quality health, nutrition, early learning, and protection for young children. Finally, sentence E advocates for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act to ensure foundational support for all children.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – D – E.

The introductory statement after rearrangement is sentence B: “India’s commitment to social welfare is enshrined in its Constitution."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph discusses India's constitutional commitment to social welfare and emphasizes the importance of early childhood care and education, culminating in a call for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces India's constitutional commitment to social welfare. Sentence A follows, detailing the Directive Principles of State Policy that mandate the government to ensure adequate means of livelihood and special protection for children and vulnerable sections. Sentence C highlights the significance of early childhood as a critical period for development. Sentence D introduces the National ECCE Policy 2013, which emphasizes the importance of quality health, nutrition, early learning, and protection for young children. Finally, sentence E advocates for recognizing ECCE as a justiciable entitlement under the RTE Act to ensure foundational support for all children.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – D – E.

The consecutive pair after rearrangement is: C-D.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

6. Questions

Answer: D

"The children played in the garden; meanwhile, their parents prepared dinner in the kitchen."

"She finished her dinner, then she went for a walk in the park to enjoy the cool evening breeze."

"The experiment yielded consistent results; therefore, the hypothesis was confirmed to be accurate."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). The children played in the garden. (A1E) The connector "meanwhile" suggests simultaneous actions. So, the sentence can be connected to "Their parents prepared dinner in the kitchen," indicating that while the children played in the garden, their parents prepared dinner.

B). She finished her dinner. (B2D) The connector "then" implies a chronological order. So, the sentence can be connected to "She went for a walk in the park to enjoy the cool evening breeze," suggesting that after finishing her dinner, she went for a walk.

C). The experiment yielded consistent results. (C3F) The connector "therefore" indicates a result. So, the sentence can be connected to "The hypothesis was confirmed to be accurate," implying that the consistent results from the experiment led to the confirmation of the hypothesis.

So, the correct sequence is A1E, B2D, and C3F.

In summary, option d) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

7. Questions

Answer: C

"The new policy will reduce environmental impact; moreover, it is expected to save the company significant costs in the long run."

"The new software update improves performance; additionally, it includes several new features that enhance user experience."

"Although the team played exceptionally well, they still lost the championship game by a single point."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). The new policy will reduce environmental impact. (A1E) Using "moreover" suggests an additional benefit. So, the sentence can be connected to "It is expected to save the company significant costs in the long run," implying that the new policy will reduce environmental impact, and moreover, it will save the company significant costs.

B). The new software update improves performance. (B2F) Using "additionally" suggests an added benefit. So, the sentence can be connected to "It includes several new features that enhance user experience," indicating that the new software update improves performance and additionally includes several new features that enhance user experience.

C). The team played exceptionally well. (C3D) Using "although" suggests a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "They still lost the championship game by a single point," indicating that although the team played exceptionally well, they still lost the championship game by a single point.

So, the correct sequence is A1E, B2F, and C3D.

In summary, option c) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

8. Questions

Answer: E

"She had diligently prepared for months; therefore, she felt confident walking into the exam room."

"The company failed to adapt to new market trends; consequently, it suffered significant financial losses."

"She enjoys reading mystery novels; likewise, her brother is fascinated by detective stories."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). She had diligently prepared for months. (A1D) The connector "therefore" suggests a logical consequence. So, the sentence can be connected to "She felt confident walking into the exam room," indicating that her diligent preparation led to her feeling confident.

B). The company failed to adapt to new market trends. (B3F) The connector "consequently" indicates a result. So, the sentence can be connected to "It suffered significant financial losses," suggesting that the failure to adapt to new market trends resulted in significant financial losses.

C). She enjoys reading mystery novels. (C2E) The connector "likewise" indicates a similarity. So, the sentence can be connected to "Her brother is fascinated by detective stories," indicating that her enjoyment of reading mystery novels is similar to her brother's fascination with detective stories.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

So, the correct sequences are A1D, B3F, and C2E.

In summary, option e) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

9. Questions

Answer: B

"Unless you study consistently, it's unlikely you'll pass the exam with a high grade."

"While she studied diligently for her exams, her friends were out enjoying the sunny weather at the beach."

"Though the road was long and challenging, they never lost sight of their destination, driven by determination and perseverance."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). You study consistently. (A1E) The connector "unless" implies a condition. So, the sentence can be connected to "It's unlikely you'll pass the exam with a high grade," suggesting that unless you study consistently, it's unlikely you'll pass the exam with a high grade.

B). She studied diligently for her exams. (B2D) The connector "while" indicates a simultaneous action. So, the sentence can be connected to "Her friends were out enjoying the sunny weather at the beach," implying that she studied diligently for her exams while her friends were out enjoying the sunny weather at the beach.

C). The road was long and challenging. (C3F) The connector "though" introduces a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "They never lost sight of their destination, driven by determination and perseverance," suggesting that despite the road being long and challenging, they never lost sight of their destination, driven by determination and perseverance.

So, the correct sequence is A1E, B2D, and C3F.

In summary, option b) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

10. Questions

Answer: A

A). While some people thrive in solitude. (A2F) The connector "conversely" indicates a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "Others find solace in the company of friends and loved ones," contrasting the preference for solitude with finding solace in the company of others.

B). The weather forecast predicted rain for the entire weekend. (B1D) The connector "however" implies a contrast or contradiction. So, the sentence can be connected to "They decided to proceed with their camping trip regardless," indicating a decision despite the forecasted rain.

C). She had studied diligently for the exam. (C3E) The connector "yet" suggests a contrast or unexpected outcome. So, the sentence can be connected to "She still felt unprepared when the time came to take it," indicating that despite studying diligently, she still felt unprepared for the exam.

So, the correct sequence is A2F, B1D, and C3E.

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

In summary, option a) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) major cause for concern

The phrase "major cause for concern" is the correct and idiomatic expression to use in this context. The original sentence uses "major cause by concern," which is incorrect.

Option (a) "major cause of concern" is grammatically correct, but "major cause for concern" is more commonly used and idiomatic in English.

Option (c) "major cause to concern" is incorrect because "to concern" is not the correct prepositional phrase for this context.

Option (d) "major cause with concern" is incorrect because "with concern" does not convey the intended meaning.

Option (e) "no improvement is required" is incorrect because the phrase "major cause by concern" is grammatically incorrect.

Therefore, option (b) "major cause for concern" is the most appropriate choice.

12. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence describes an ongoing action that occurred in the past, which aligns with the past continuous tense. The past continuous tense is used to indicate an action that was happening at a specific moment in the past.

Option (a) "she was running" correctly uses the past continuous tense, indicating that the running was happening while the sun was setting.

The other options have issues with tense agreement:

Option (b) "she has run" uses the present perfect tense, which is incorrect for this context as it does not describe an ongoing past action.

Option (c) "she had run" uses the past perfect tense, which is typically used to indicate an action that was completed before another action in the past. This does not fit the context of an ongoing action at the time of the sunset.

Option (d) "she has running" is grammatically incorrect because "has" should be followed by a past participle (run) to form the present perfect tense, not a gerund (running).

Therefore, option (a) "she was running" is the correct choice for maintaining proper tense and conveying the ongoing nature of the action in the past.

13. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) many people look to their leaders

The phrase "look to their leaders" is the correct idiomatic expression. It means to rely on or seek guidance from their leaders.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (e) introduce variations that are either incorrect or change the meaning:

Option (a) "many people look up their leaders" suggests physically looking up information about their leaders, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (b) "many people look for their leaders" suggests searching for their leaders, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (c) "many people look in their leaders" is incorrect because it suggests looking inside their leaders, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (e) "no improvement is required" is incorrect because the original phrase "look upon their leaders" is not the standard idiomatic expression in this context.

Therefore, option (d) "many people look to their leaders" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

14. Questions

Answer: A

The sentence describes a situation in the past where someone was ill for an extended period and was starting to recover but still felt weak and exhausted. To convey this correctly, the past perfect tense "had been" should be used to indicate that the illness occurred before the time he started to recover.

Option (a) "He had been ill for several weeks" is correct. It uses the past perfect tense appropriately to show that the illness happened and was ongoing until he started to recover.

Option (b) "He was ill for several weeks" is not as accurate because it uses the past simple tense, which does not clearly indicate the sequence of events as effectively as the past perfect tense in this context.

Option (c) "He has ill for several weeks" is grammatically incorrect because "has ill" is not a valid construction. The correct form is "has been ill."

Option (d) "He had ill for several weeks" is grammatically incorrect because "had ill" is not a valid construction. The correct form is "had been ill."

Option (e) "no improvement is required" is incorrect because the sentence needs the past perfect tense to convey the timeline of events accurately.

Therefore, option (a) "He had been ill for several weeks" is the best choice.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) sharply contrasted with the quiet

The correct idiom is "contrasted with." This option maintains the proper grammatical structure and effectively conveys the intended meaning of highlighting the difference between the vibrant city market and the quiet countryside.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that are not idiomatic or grammatically correct:

Option (a) "sharply contrasted against the quiet" is not the standard idiom. "Contrasted against" is less common and not typically used in this context.

Option (b) "sharply contrasted on the quiet" is incorrect as it uses the wrong preposition.

Option (d) "sharply contrasted in the quiet" is incorrect as it uses the wrong preposition and does not make sense in context.

Therefore, option (c) "sharply contrasted with the quiet" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

16. Questions

Answer: A

The error is in part (A), where "is running" should be corrected to "has been running." The present perfect continuous tense "has been running" is used to describe an action that started in the past and continues up to the present, which is appropriate here since the project has been running smoothly for the past six months.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The software development project has been running smoothly for the past six months, thanks to the dedicated team of programmers who consistently meet their deadlines and address any issues promptly."

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

17. Questions

Answer: A

The error is in part (A), where "in" is replaced with "to" to ensure proper usage of the phrase "wedded to." When "wedded" is used to indicate a strong attachment or devotion to something, it is typically followed by "to" rather than "in."

So, the corrected sentence is: "Indians are wedded to the tradition of celebrating festivals with great fervour, symbolizing the rich cultural tapestry woven throughout the country's history."

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

18. Questions

Answer: C

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The error is in part (C) lies in the use of "more preferable." "Preferable" already implies a preference, so adding "more" is redundant. Therefore, the correct construction is simply "preferable to" without the unnecessary "more."

So, the corrected sentence is: "In the context of making travel arrangements, booking a direct flight is often preferable to enduring the hassle of multiple layovers and the potential for delays and missed connections."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: C

The error in part (C) lies in the phrase "pull himself off together", where "off" is incorrect. The correct phrase is "pull himself together," which means to regain control of one's emotions or situation.

Idiomatic Expression: The correct idiomatic expression is "pull oneself together." This phrase means to regain control of one's emotions or situation, especially after experiencing stress or difficulty.

Incorrect Use of "Off": "Off" is not appropriate in this context. While "pull off" can be used in some contexts (e.g., "to pull off a victory"), it does not convey the intended meaning here.

Removing "off" ensures the use of the correct idiomatic expression and maintains the intended meaning of the sentence. This correction ensures proper usage and clarity in the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: "Despite facing numerous setbacks, he knew he must pull himself together and continue pursuing his goals with determination and resilience."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

20. Questions

Answer: A

The error is in part (A), where "told to" should be corrected to "told." When using the verb "tell" to convey information to someone, here no need to include "to" after it. Instead, directly state who is being told, as in "Ram told the teacher."

So, the corrected sentence is: "Ram told the teacher about the upcoming science fair project, eagerly sharing his innovative ideas and seeking guidance on how to best execute his experiment."

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

Political parties appear to be in a competition not just to beat one another but also to ___ (1) ___ some of the revered conventions, also mandate by the law, while they go about campaigning in the ongoing general elections. And it is led by, sadly, none lesser than Prime Minister Narendra Modi and his party, the BJP. The latest attempt to communalise every statement made by his opponents is Mr Modi's allegation that Trinamul Congress leader and West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee was 'defaming and threatening' Hindu religious organisations — Iskcon, Ramakrishna Mission and Bharat Sevashram Sangha — and their monks "under the pressure of Muslim hardliners" to ___ (2) ___ her vote bank in the Lok Sabha elections. Mr Modi was responding to the charge Ms Banerjee levelled against some individuals within those organisations that they were siding with the saffron party; she would want them to be apolitical. Given the way these organisations are respected across communities all over the world, Ms Benerjee could have avoided dragging the organisations into the discussion; she could have taken up the issues with their leadership, which have refused to identify with political parties despite ___ (3) ___. She, still, has a point in demanding that religious organisations and their members keep off politics. On his part, Mr Modi has invented an effort on the part of Ms Banerjee to appease the Muslims in her criticism of the monks. The Prime Minister who himself admitted that he would disqualify himself from being in politics the moment he would play the Hindu-Muslim card now misses no chance to see an 'appeasement' angle in every sentence opposition leaders speak and every scheme they announce. Political ___ (4) ___, especially in the time of elections, appears to have got the better of the Prime Minister who has a duty to walk his talk. He does not add to the glory of the position he holds or of his party by playing the card which he claims he ___ (5) ___.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. breach

b. juncture

c. semblance

d. articulation

e. entrenchment

2. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. assuage

b. propitiate

c. vindicate

d. appease

e. exasperate

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

3. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. impelling
b. dissuading
c. suppressing
d. prodding
e. nudging

4. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

a. expediency
b. subservience
c. impediment
d. contrivance
e. imprudence

5. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. venerates
b. disdains
c. abhors
d. abominates
e. denounces

6. Questions

In each of the questions, an incomplete sentence is given which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

The committee's recommendations on the policy changes _____ by the board of directors.

a. was accepted
b. were being accept
c. have accepted
d. were accepted
e. has been accept

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

7. Questions

The old mansion on the hill _____ by several people over the years.

a. was rumoured to be haunted
b. is rumour to be haunted
c. were rumoured to be haunted
d. has rumoured to be haunted
e. had rumour to be haunted

8. Questions

The company's decision to downsize its workforce _____ a significant impact on the local economy.

a. have had
b. has had
c. had
d. having
e. had had

9. Questions

The chef's new recipe _____ to be a huge success among the restaurant's regular customers.

a. was turn out
b. were turning out
c. has turned out
d. have turn out
e. had been turn out

10. Questions

The research study on climate change _____ significant findings that could influence global policies.

a. have produced
b. were producing
c. has produced
d. had produce
e. are produce

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

In the following questions, first part of the sentence is fixed. Answer the following questions after rearranging the remaining parts into a meaningful sentence.

Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's commitment to / a total victory over Hamas, (A)/ has drawn criticism from (B)/ without a clear post-war strategy, (C)/ both his defence establishment and political allies (D).

a. ABDC

b. BDAC

c. ACDB

d. ACBD

e. ABCD

12. Questions

The squabbling match between the BJP and Congress / the elite consensus and dissensus in (A)/ over the Muslim quota is intimately connected with (B)/ the run-up to the Independence and (C)/ the traumas of Partition under a colonial gaze (D).

a. ABDC

b. BACD

c. ADBC

d. BCAD

e. ABCD

13. Questions

A seismic shift is underway/ challenging the very core (A)/ in the battleground between (B)/ environmental imperatives and economic realities, (C) of conventional economic wisdom (D).

a. ADBC

b. BCAD

c. BCDA

d. ACDB

e. ABCD

14. Questions

Within days of assuming / Vladimir Putin has made sweeping changes in (A)/ the office of President of the Russian Federation (B)/ for the fifth time, (C)/ the elite power structure of the Kremlin (D).

a. ABDC

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. BCAD

c. BDAC

d. ACBD

e. ABCD

15. Questions

The Kuki-Zos experienced the greater casualties, / especially in the initial days after the violence erupted (C)/, as there were more of them settled in the valley, (A)/ which is open to settlement by any Indian after the introduction of modern land revenue law in 1960 (B)/ while Manipur was still a Union territory (D).

a. DACB

b. BCDA

c. BACD

d. CABD

e. ABCD

16. Questions

In the following questions, three words are highlighted and from the given options you have to identify the synonym for the highlighted words.

The astute financier meticulously scrutinized the intricacies of the market, navigating its capricious nature with calculated precision, and strategically diversified their investment portfolio to hedge against volatility.

a. savvy, immutable, placidity

b. shrewd, variable, instability

c. sagacious, versatile, aggregation

d. ingenuous, lubricious, consistency

e. None of the above

17. Questions

The prescient economist dissected the financial reports with exacting precision, predicting market fluctuations with remarkable accuracy.

a. psychic, separated, stabilities

b. impetuous, analysed, mutations

c. predictive, examined, changes

d. spendthrift, studied, deviations

e. None of the above

18. Questions

The politician's audacious proposal to overhaul the healthcare system was met with skepticism from the opposition, who criticized it as reckless and unfeasible.

a. bold, confidence, cautious

b. daring, doubt, careless

c. timid, belief, impulsive

d. courageous, trust, deliberate

e. None of the above

19. Questions

The company's tenacious commitment to quality ensured its steadfast reputation in the industry, despite facing formidable competition from larger corporations.

a. persistent, unwavering, tough

b. resilient, wavering, heavy

c. determined, unyielding, insignificant

d. obstinate, fluctuating, challenging

e. None of the above

20. Questions

The author's prolific output of novels astonished readers, who marveled at her versatility in seamlessly transitioning between genres and captivating storytelling.

a. abundant, flexibility, revolting

b. numerous, rigidity, engaging

c. scarce, variety, refreshing

d. copious, adaptability, charming

e. None of the above

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (1) is "breach."

The context of the sentence suggests that political parties, including the Prime Minister and his party, are not just trying to outdo one another but are also willing to disregard or violate respected conventions and legal mandates during their campaigning. The word "breach" means to break or violate a law, agreement, or code of conduct, which fits perfectly with the idea of violating revered conventions and legal mandates.

b). "Juncture" refers to a particular point in time or a critical point in a process, which does not fit the context of violating conventions.

c). "Semblance" means an outward appearance or apparent form of something, especially when the reality is different, which does not fit the context of violating conventions.

d). "Articulation" refers to the act of expressing something in words, which does not fit the context of violating conventions.

e). "Entrenchment" refers to the act of establishing something firmly or securely, often in a way that makes change difficult, which does not fit the context of violating conventions.

Therefore, "breach" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of violating revered conventions and legal mandates during the election campaigning.

2. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (2) is "appease."

The context of the sentence suggests that Mamata Banerjee is being accused of actions aimed at satisfying or placating a particular group, specifically "Muslim hardliners," to secure their votes in the elections. "Appease" fits perfectly in this context as it means to pacify or placate someone, especially by acceding to their demands.

a). "Assuage" means to make an unpleasant feeling less intense, which doesn't fit as well in this context as it doesn't convey the idea of placating a group to gain their support.

b). "Propitiate" means to win or regain the favor of a god, spirit, or person by doing something that pleases them, which is similar to "appease," but it is less commonly used in the context of political maneuvering.

c). "Vindicate" means to clear someone of blame or suspicion, which doesn't fit the context at all.

e). "Exasperate" means to irritate or frustrate someone intensely, which is the opposite of what is meant here.

Therefore, "appease" is the best choice as it accurately conveys the idea of placating a specific group to gain their favor in the context of elections.

3. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (3) is "prodding."

The context of the sentence suggests that the religious organizations have refused to identify with political parties despite some form of encouragement or urging to do so. The word "prodding" means encouraging or urging someone to take action, which fits well with the context that these organizations have resisted such encouragement.

a). "Impelling" means driving or urging someone to take action with a sense of force or strong persuasion. While similar in meaning, "prodding" has a lighter connotation which fits better with the context.

b). "Dissuading" means persuading someone not to take a particular action. This is the opposite of what the context requires, as the sentence implies there was an attempt to encourage the organizations to engage in politics.

c). "Suppressing" means preventing something from being expressed or occurring. This doesn't fit the context as it suggests an act of holding back rather than encouraging action.

d). "Prodding" means encouraging or urging someone gently to take action. This fits the context well, as it suggests a form of encouragement that the organizations resisted.

e). "Nudging" also means gently encouraging someone to take action. While similar to "prodding," "nudging" might suggest a less direct form of encouragement compared to "prodding," which fits the context more precisely.

Therefore, "prodding" is the best choice as it accurately conveys the idea of encouraging the organizations to align with political parties despite their resistance.

4. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (4) is "expediency."

In the context of the sentence, "political expediency" refers to actions taken primarily for political advantage or convenience, rather than based on principle or fairness. This fits the narrative that the Prime Minister is compromising on his previously stated principles for the sake of gaining political advantage during the elections.

b). "Subservience" means being excessively willing to serve or obey, which doesn't fit the context of political maneuvering described in the sentence.

c). "Impediment" means a hindrance or obstruction, which doesn't align with the idea of acting out of convenience or advantage.

d). "Contrivance" refers to a plan or scheme, but it doesn't specifically convey the idea of acting out of convenience or practicality for political gain.

e). "Imprudence" means lacking wisdom or good judgment, which could fit but doesn't specifically capture the notion of acting out of political convenience.

Therefore, "expediency" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea that political actions are being taken for convenience or advantage, rather than based on principle.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

5. Questions

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (5) is "abhors."

The context of the sentence is about Prime Minister Narendra Modi claiming to reject or strongly disapprove of playing the Hindu-Muslim card. "Abhors" means to regard with disgust and hatred, which fits well with the idea that Modi claims to strongly disapprove of using the Hindu-Muslim card in politics.

a). "Venerates" means to regard with great respect. This is the opposite of what the context requires since Modi is described as rejecting the use of the Hindu-Muslim card.

b). "Disdains" means to look upon or treat with contempt. While close in meaning, it doesn't convey as strong a rejection as "abhors."

d). "Abominates" means to detest thoroughly. While similar to "abhors," it is less commonly used and might feel slightly less natural in this context.

e). "Denounces" means to publicly declare to be wrong or evil. This is a strong option but suggests a more public and explicit condemnation rather than a personal feeling of strong disapproval.

Therefore, "abhors" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the strong personal disapproval Modi claims to have regarding playing the Hindu-Muslim card in politics.

So, the correct answer is: c) abhors

6. Questions

Answer: D

The sentence discusses the action taken by the board of directors regarding the committee's recommendations. Here's why option d) "were accepted" is the correct choice:

a). "was accepted": This option uses the singular form "was" with the plural subject "recommendations," which is grammatically incorrect. The subject and verb must agree in number.

b). "were being accept": This option incorrectly uses the base form "accept" instead of the past participle "accepted." The correct form should be "were being accepted" to be grammatically correct.

c). "have accepted": This option uses the present perfect tense but incorrectly implies that the board of directors is the subject performing the action. The sentence requires a passive construction since the action is done to the recommendations by the board.

d). "were accepted": This option correctly uses the plural form "were" to match the plural subject "recommendations" and the past participle "accepted." It accurately conveys that the recommendations were accepted by the board of directors.

e). "has been accept": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the singular form "has" with the plural subject "recommendations," and it should use the past participle "accepted" instead of "accept."

Therefore, option d) "were accepted" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the committee's recommendations on the policy changes were accepted by the board of directors.

7. Questions

Answer: A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The old mansion on the hill was rumoured to be haunted by several people over the years.

The sentence discusses the belief that the old mansion is haunted, which has been held by several people over the years.

a). "was rumoured to be haunted": This option correctly uses the past passive form "was rumoured" to match the subject "The old mansion on the hill." The structure "was rumoured to be haunted" correctly indicates that the mansion was thought to be haunted by several people over the years.

b). "is rumour to be haunted": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the present form "is" with the noun "rumour" instead of the past participle "rumoured." The correct phrase should be "is rumoured."

c). "were rumoured to be haunted": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the plural form "were" with the singular subject "The old mansion." The subject and verb must agree in number.

d). "has rumoured to be haunted": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses the present perfect form "has rumoured," implying that the mansion itself is performing the action of "rumouring," which doesn't make sense. The correct form should be "has been rumoured."

e). "had rumour to be haunted": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "had" with the noun "rumour" instead of the past participle "rumoured." The correct phrase should be "had been rumoured."

Therefore, option a) "was rumoured to be haunted" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the old mansion on the hill was thought to be haunted by several people over the years.

8. Questions

Answer: B

The sentence discusses the impact of the company's decision to downsize its workforce on the local economy. Here's why option b) "has had" is the correct choice:

a). "have had": This option uses the present perfect tense with the plural form "have" and "had." However, the subject "company's decision" is singular, so the verb should also be singular. Therefore, "have had" is grammatically incorrect in this context.

b). "has had": This option uses the present perfect tense with the singular form "has" and "had," which agrees with the singular subject "company's decision." The present perfect tense indicates an action that started in the past and has relevance to the present. In this case, it implies that the impact on the local economy continues to be significant.

c). "had": This option uses the past tense, which suggests that the impact occurred in the past without emphasizing its continued relevance to the present. However, the sentence implies that the impact persists, so the past tense is not suitable.

d). "having": This option uses the present participle form of the verb "to have," which is not appropriate in this context. "Having" is typically used to indicate simultaneous actions or conditions, which doesn't fit the meaning of the sentence.

e). "had had": This option uses the past perfect tense with the phrase "had had," which is redundant and unnecessary in this context. The past perfect tense is used to indicate an action that occurred before another past action, but there is no need for this construction in the sentence.

Therefore, option b) "has had" is the correct choice as it accurately describes the ongoing impact of the company's decision to downsize its workforce on the local economy.

9. Questions

Answer: C

The sentence discusses the outcome of the chef's new recipe and its reception among the restaurant's regular customers. Here's why option c) "has turned out" is the correct choice:

a). "was turn out": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "was" with the base form "turn" instead of the past participle "turned." The correct form should be "was turned out," but that still wouldn't fit the context well.

b). "were turning out": This option uses the past continuous tense "were turning out," which is incorrect because the subject "The chef's new recipe" is singular and it also suggests an ongoing action, which doesn't fit the context of describing a completed outcome.

c). "has turned out": This option correctly uses the present perfect tense, which indicates that the action started in the past and has relevance to the present. The subject "The chef's new recipe" is singular, so "has" is correctly used. "Turned out" is the past participle form that fits well in describing the outcome.

d). "have turn out": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "have" with the base form "turn" instead of the past participle "turned." Additionally, "have" is used for plural subjects, but the subject here is singular.

e). "had been turn out": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "had been" with the base form "turn" instead of the past participle "turned." The correct phrase should be "had been turned out," but that would imply the recipe's success was completed before another past event, which isn't indicated in the sentence.

Therefore, option c) "has turned out" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the chef's new recipe has become a huge success among the restaurant's regular customers

10. Questions

Answer: C

The sentence discusses the results of a research study on climate change, highlighting its significant findings. Here's why option c) "has produced" is the correct choice:

a). "have produced": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "have," which is for plural subjects. The subject "The research study" is singular, so the correct form should be "has produced."

b). "were producing": This option uses the past continuous tense "were producing," which is incorrect because the subject "The research study" is singular. Also, the past continuous tense suggests an ongoing action in the past, which does not fit the context of describing a completed result.

c). "has produced": This option correctly uses the present perfect tense, indicating that the action (producing significant findings) started in the past and has relevance to the present. The subject "The research study" is singular, so "has" is correctly used. "Produced" is the past participle form that fits well in describing the outcome.

d). "had produce": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "had" (past perfect tense) with the base form "produce" instead of the past participle "produced." The correct phrase should be "had produced," but that would imply the findings were completed before another past event, which isn't indicated in the sentence.

e). "are produce": This option is grammatically incorrect because it uses "are" (present tense) with the base form "produce" instead of the past participle "produced." The correct form should be "are producing" or

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"have produced," but neither fits the context as well as "has produced."

Therefore, option c) "has produced" is the correct choice as it accurately and grammatically conveys that the research study on climate change has resulted in significant findings that could influence global policies.

11. Questions

Answer: D

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (d) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu’s commitment to a total victory over Hamas, without a clear post-war strategy, has drawn criticism from both his defence establishment and political allies.”

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

12. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “The squabbling match between the BJP and Congress over the Muslim quota is intimately connected with the elite consensus and dissensus in the run-up to the Independence and the traumas of Partition under a colonial gaze.”

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

13. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “A seismic shift is underway in the battleground between environmental imperatives and economic realities, challenging the very core of conventional economic wisdom.”

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

14. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “Within days of assuming the office of President of the Russian Federation for the fifth time, Vladimir Putin has made sweeping changes in the elite power structure of the Kremlin.”

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

15. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (d) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “The Kuki-Zos experienced the greater casualties, especially in the initial days after the violence erupted, as there were more of them settled in the valley, which is open to settlement by any Indian after the introduction of modern land revenue law in 1960 while Manipur was still a Union territory.”

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

16. Questions

Answer: B

The word "astute" means having or showing an ability to accurately assess situations or people and turn this to one's advantage. A synonym for "astute" is "shrewd" (option b).

The phrase "capricious nature" refers to the unpredictable or whimsical behavior of something. A synonym for "capricious" is "variable" (option b).

The word "volatility" refers to the liability to change rapidly and unpredictably, especially for the worse. A synonym for "volatility" is "instability" (option b).

Therefore, option b) "Shrewd, Variable, Instability" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

17. Questions

Answer: C

The word "prescient" means having or showing knowledge of events before they take place. A synonym for "prescient" is "predictive" (option c).

The word "dissected" means to analyze (something) in minute detail. A synonym for "dissected" is "examined" (option c).

The word "fluctuations" refers to irregular rising and falling in number or amount; a synonym for "fluctuations" is "changes" (option c).

Therefore, option c) "Predictive, Examined, Changes" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: B

The word "audacious" means showing a willingness to take surprisingly bold risks. A synonym for "audacious" is "daring" (option b).

The word "skepticism" refers to a skeptical attitude; doubt as to the truth of something. A synonym for "skepticism" is "doubt" (option b).

The word "reckless" means heedless of danger or the consequences of one's actions; rash or impetuous. A synonym for "reckless" is "careless" (option b).

Therefore, option b) "daring, doubt, careless" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: A

The word "tenacious" means tending to keep a firm hold of something; clinging or adhering closely. A synonym for "tenacious" is "persistent" (option a).

The word "steadfast" refers to resolutely or dutifully firm and unwavering. A synonym for "steadfast" is "unwavering" (option a).

The word "formidable" means inspiring fear or respect through being impressively large, powerful, intense, or capable. A synonym for "formidable" is " tough " itself (option a).

Therefore, option a) "persistent, unwavering, tough" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The word "prolific" means producing in large quantities or with great frequency. A synonym for "prolific" is "copious" (option d).

The word "versatility" refers to the ability to adapt or be adapted to many different functions or activities. A synonym for "versatility" is "adaptability" (option d).

The word "captivating" means capable of attracting and holding interest; charming. A synonym for "captivating" is "charming" (option d).

Therefore, option d) "copious, adaptability, charming" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Column I	Column II
A). The business cycle consists of periods of economic expansion and	D). services between households and firms in an economy.
B). Comparative advantage drives international trade, allowing countries to	E). contraction, impacting employment, production, and income levels.
C). The circular flow model illustrates the movement of money, goods, and	F). specialize in producing goods where they have a lower opportunity cost.

a. Only A-D

b. Only B-E

c. Both A-E and C-F

d. Both A-D and B-F

e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

2. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Opportunity cost refers to the value of the	D). determine the price and quantity of goods and services in a market.
B). Fiscal stimulus involves increasing government spending or	E). next best alternative forgone when making a decision.
C). Economies of scale occur when increasing production leads to lower average costs,	F). stimulating demand to drive economic growth.

a. Only A-E

b. Only B-D

c. Both A-E and C-F

d. Both B-F and C-D

e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

3. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The Laffer Curve illustrates the relationship between tax rates and tax revenue,	D). benefiting from economies of scale and increased output.
B). Specialization in production allows economies to produce goods more efficiently	E). where prices are determined by supply and demand forces.
C). Free market economies are characterized by minimal government intervention,	F). balancing different factors or options to achieve the best possible outcome in decision-making.

a. Only A-F

b. Only B-D

c. Both B-D and C-E

d. Both A-F and C-E

e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

4. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The Keynesian economic theory advocates for active government intervention in the economy	D). eroding the real value of money and destabilizing economies.
B). Fiscal policy involves government spending and taxation decisions to influence the economy,	E). which can lead to reduced consumer spending and economic downturns.
C). Human capital refers to the skills, knowledge, and experience possessed by individuals,	F). to manage demand and address economic cycles.

a. Only A-F

b. Only B-E

c. Both B-E and C-D

sky3up@gmail.com
T@:- @NextGenBankers

d. Both B-F and C-D

e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

5. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Opportunity cost is a key concept in economics that reflects the value of the	D). from changes in external conditions or policies.
B). The aggregate demand curve shows the total quantity of goods and services	E). next best alternative forgone when making a decision.
C). Comparative statics analyzes the change in economic outcomes resulting	F). demanded across all levels of an economy at different price levels.

a. Only A-F

b. Only B-E

c. Both A-E and B-F

d. Both B-F and C-E

e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

6. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

As peace and tranquility envelop the sylvan slopes of Kashmir Valley in perfect harmony but civil unrest recoils with its squirming populace across the LoC in Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK), India's Home Minister Amit Shah has iterated that the region "belongs to India and we will reclaim it". Nothing new there, but the comment has reignited discussions on the disputed region and its intricate history, fraught as it is with serious ramifications. Following Partition, the princely State of Jammu and Kashmir, like other such States, had the option to accede to either India or Pakistan. Maharaja Hari Singh, then ruler of Jammu and Kashmir, initially sought to remain independent but, amid invasion by tribal militias supported by Pakistan, opted to accede to India in October 1947. It led to the first India-Pakistan War, which saw a United Nations-brokered ceasefire and establishment of the LoC, which divided the region into the Indian J&K and PoK. While India gained control over most of the territory, Pakistan retained approximately its one-third, which it named Azad Jammu and Kashmir (AJK) and Gilgit-Baltistan. Therefore, from an Indian perspective, PoK is an integral part of J&K and its inclusion in India's territorial claims is based on historical, legal and moral grounds. However, the timing and practicality of the Home Minister's claim are debatable: Bringing up such critical matters in public sphere, especially during elections and when they involve a neighbouring nuclear power, is not the best of ideas. For its part, Pakistan considers PoK as a "liberated territory" pending a plebiscite promised by the UN. In this given situation, the status quo maintained for over seven decades keeps the two countries from going to war. The larger question is, do we want to go to war with Pakistan and can we afford it when we have so much to sort out domestically? Should not the Home Minister be more cautious in raking up such contentious issues during elections? It is true that despite Pakistan's hollow assertions, PoK has witnessed internal dissent and unrest over the years. The region has been marred by allegations of human rights abuses, lack of democratic freedoms and marginalisation of local voices by the Pakistani establishment. Civil society movements, such as the Gilgit-Baltistan Movement, have been advocating for the recognition of their rights and the restoration of genuine autonomy. If Amit Shah's recent declaration reaffirming India's claim over PoK is not a standalone Statement but reflects a broader strategic shift in India's approach, it must be well articulated and a clear roadmap must be laid to approach the matter diplomatically or otherwise. If that is not the case, then it would pass off as another poll rhetoric or 'jumla'. Indeed, diplomatic endeavours are most effectively conducted behind closed doors rather than at public rallies.

What was the outcome of the first India-Pakistan War according to the passage?

a. India gained control over the entire Jammu and Kashmir region.

b. Pakistan gained control over the entire Jammu and Kashmir region.

c. A United Nations-brokered ceasefire and establishment of the LoC.

d. India and Pakistan reached a permanent peace agreement.

e. Jammu and Kashmir remained an independent state.

7. Questions

From an Indian perspective, why is PoK considered an integral part of Jammu and Kashmir?

a. Based on historical, legal, and moral grounds.

b. Due to recent military conquests

c. Because of international diplomatic agreements.

d. Following a recent plebiscite.

e. Due to economic benefits.

8. Questions

What has PoK been marred by over the years according to the passage?

a. Economic prosperity and growth.

b. Peaceful coexistence and stability.

c. Internal dissent and unrest.

d. Significant political autonomy

e. High levels of democratic freedom

9. Questions

What caution is advised regarding Amit Shah's statement on PoK?

skyship@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

a. It should be made more frequently.

b. It should be followed by immediate military action.

c. It should be part of a well-articulated strategic shift

d. It should be ignored as mere rhetoric.

e. It should be dismissed as irrelevant.

10. Questions

What historical event led Maharaja Hari Singh to accede to India?

a. Pressure from the United Nations.

b. Economic incentives from India.

c. Invasion by tribal militias supported by Pakistan.

d. Diplomatic negotiations with Pakistan.

e. Popular demand from the people of Jammu and Kashmir.

11. Questions

What recent statement did India's Home Minister Amit Shah make about Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK)?

a. PoK should hold a plebiscite to determine its future.

b. PoK is independent and should be left alone.

c. PoK belongs to India and will be reclaimed.

d. India should give up its claims on PoK for peace.

e. PoK should become an autonomous region within Pakistan.

12. Questions

Which of the following is NOT mentioned in the passage regarding the situation in Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK)?

a. Internal dissent and unrest within PoK.

b. Allegations of human rights abuses in PoK.

c. Economic prosperity and development in PoK.

d. Marginalization of local voices by the Pakistani establishment.

e. The role of civil society movements advocating for rights in PoK.

13. Questions

In each of the following sentences, there are two blank given. Below each sentence five pairs of

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

The solar scam that _____ the Oommen Chandy government in 2013 and continued to make waves for years resurfaced to _____ Kerala's ruling front and the Opposition alike.

a. shook, trouble

b. affected, haunt

c. rattled, bedevil

d. disrupted, disturb

e. undermined, plague

14. Questions

A leadership crisis has _____ the Malankara Syrian Knanaya Church after the Patriarch of Antioch has placed the Metropolitan of the Chingavam headquartered Church under _____.

a. overtaken, scrutiny

b. engulfed, suspension

c. affected, investigation

d. seized, inquiry

e. troubled, examination

15. Questions

For the economic and political _____ in the North and East after the war, it is the Rajapaksa regime that must take much of the blame for its _____ war victory celebration, a continued militarisation and the vulgar projection of Sinhala Buddhist nationalism.

a. situation, patriotic

b. state, ceremonial

c. condition, festive

d. outlook, grandiose

e. trajectory, jingoistic

16. Questions

The _____ between the officials and the transport contractors has _____ the poor in at least two tribal hill districts of Manipur of rice under a Prime Minister's scheme for months, a rights group has told Chief Minister N. Biren Singh.

a. link, benefited

b. nexus, deprived

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c. connection, provided

d. coalition, supplied

e. collaboration, enriched

17. Questions

Amid various allegations of their _____ in unethical practices, including providing backdoor entry to defaulting promoters of insolvent companies, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) asked top bosses of asset reconstruction companies (ARCs) to focus on _____ and adhere to ethical conduct while doing business.

a. involvement, profitability

b. participation, compliance

c. engagement, transparency

d. indulgence, governance

e. complicity, efficiency

18. Questions

In the following questions, five sentences are given and labelled as A, B, C, D and E, among these, four sentences are in logical order and form a coherent paragraph/passage. From the given options, choose the option that does not fit into the theme of the passage.

A). The Char Dham Yatra - comprising Puri, Rameswaram, Dwarka and Badrinath - which began on May 10, broke a record on Day 1.

B). More than 29,000 pilgrims visited Kedarnath, part of the Chota Char Dham Yatra circuit, clogging the mountain roads for hours.

C). Many pilgrims were forced to return to base even before starting their journey.

D). Some devotees even do a Do Dham Yatra or a pilgrimage to two shrines - Kedarnath and Badrinath.

E). Reacting to angry crowds, the Uttarakhand government said it's looking at solutions and is planning to create a Dharmik Yatra Authority to regulate the yatra, which includes three other shrines, and other pilgrimages such as those in the Kanwar Yatra circuit.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

A). Before anyone makes the next call-out for a Viksit Bharat, let's first acknowledge a fact: Indian cities are dotted with death traps.

B). It could be an open manhole, overflowing storm-water drains, dangling power lines or, as was the case on Monday during a sudden dust storm in Mumbai, crashing billboards.

C). There's a creeping sameness in many of our newest urban buildings and streetscapes, says architect Vishaan Chakrabarti.

D). When a 17,040 sq ft hoarding comes crashing down in Ghatkopar, killing 14 people and injuring 70, it's not a freak accident, but a man-made catastrophe waiting to happen.

E). BMC, India's richest civic agency, discovered soon enough that the company that owned the killer billboard had put up eight other hoardings without mandatory permissions.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

20. Questions

A). Food inflation is on another episodic spike.

B). Which makes targeting inflation overall a more complicated exercise.

C). Manufacturing and agriculture are diverging in price trends, in which the weather plays a crucial role.

D). Food inflation is likely to remain elevated due to heat wave conditions till monsoon arrives.

E). Global inflation was generally moderating when the pandemic began, and the downward trend continued into the early months of the crisis.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: "The business cycle consists of periods of economic expansion and contraction, impacting employment, production, and income levels." This sentence explains the cyclical nature of the economy and its influence on key economic indicators.

When combining these two statements B-F: "Comparative advantage drives international trade, allowing countries to specialize in producing goods where they have a lower opportunity cost." This sentence illustrates the economic theory of comparative advantage and its role in shaping global trade patterns.

When combining these two statements C-D: "The circular flow model illustrates the movement of money, goods, and services between households and firms in an economy." This sentence describes how the circular flow model depicts the interactions within an economy, showing the exchange of money, goods, and services.

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

2. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements A-E: "Opportunity cost refers to the value of the next best alternative forgone when making a decision." This sentence clearly defines the concept of opportunity cost, highlighting its relevance in decision-making.
The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

3. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements B-D: "Specialization in production allows economies to produce goods more efficiently, benefiting from economies of scale and increased output." This sentence explains how specialization can lead to greater efficiency and larger outputs in production.

When combining these two statements C-E: "Free market economies are characterized by minimal government intervention, where prices are determined by supply and demand forces." This sentence describes the nature of free market economies, emphasizing the role of supply and demand in price determination.
The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

4. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements A-F: "The Keynesian economic theory advocates for active government intervention in the economy to manage demand and address economic cycles." This sentence describes the Keynesian approach to economic management.
The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

5. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: "Opportunity cost is a key concept in economics that reflects the value of the next best alternative forgone when making a decision." This sentence provides a clear definition of opportunity cost.

When combining these two statements B-F: "The aggregate demand curve shows the total quantity of goods and services demanded across all levels of an economy at different price levels." This sentence provides a clear explanation of what the aggregate demand curve represents.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Comparative statics analyzes the change in economic outcomes resulting from changes in external conditions or policies." This sentence provides a clear definition of comparative statics.
Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

6. Questions

Answer: C

The first India-Pakistan War led to a UN-brokered ceasefire and the establishment of the Line of Control (LoC).

The passage explains that following the invasion by tribal militias supported by Pakistan, Maharaja Hari Singh decided to accede to India, which led to the first India-Pakistan War. The outcome of this war was not a complete victory for either side, but rather a United Nations-brokered ceasefire. This ceasefire resulted in the establishment of the Line of Control (LoC), which effectively divided the region into two parts: the Indian-administered Jammu and Kashmir and the Pakistan-occupied Kashmir (PoK), referred to as Azad Jammu and Kashmir (AJK) and Gilgit-Baltistan by Pakistan.

a). India gained control over the entire Jammu and Kashmir region: This option is incorrect because India did not gain control over the entire region; instead, it only retained control over a portion of it.

b). Pakistan gained control over the entire Jammu and Kashmir region: This option is incorrect because Pakistan did not gain control over the entire region; it retained control over a portion of it.

c). A United Nations-brokered ceasefire and establishment of the LoC: This is the correct answer because the passage specifically mentions that the first India-Pakistan War led to a UN-brokered ceasefire and the establishment of the LoC, which divided the region.

d). India and Pakistan reached a permanent peace agreement: This option is incorrect because the passage does not indicate that a permanent peace agreement was reached; it only mentions a ceasefire.

e). Jammu and Kashmir remained an independent state: This option is incorrect because the passage clearly states that Jammu and Kashmir did not remain independent; it was divided between India and Pakistan following the ceasefire and establishment of the LoC.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

7. Questions

Answer: A

India considers PoK an integral part of Jammu and Kashmir based on historical, legal, and moral grounds.

The passage outlines the reasons why, from an Indian perspective, Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK) is considered an integral part of Jammu and Kashmir. It mentions historical, legal, and moral grounds as the basis for this perspective.

a). Based on historical, legal, and moral grounds: This is the correct answer. The passage states that India's claim to PoK is rooted in historical context (the accession of Jammu and Kashmir to India by Maharaja Hari Singh), legal context (the formal agreement of accession), and moral grounds (the principle of integrating the region with India).

b). Due to recent military conquests: This option is incorrect because the passage does not mention any recent military conquests as a reason for considering PoK part of Jammu and Kashmir. The context provided is based on historical events and agreements, not recent military actions.

c). Because of international diplomatic agreements: This option is incorrect as the passage does not refer to any specific international diplomatic agreements that justify India's claim to PoK. The focus is on historical accession and moral arguments rather than external diplomatic accords.

d). Following a recent plebiscite: This option is incorrect because there has been no recent plebiscite in PoK to determine its status. The passage does not mention a plebiscite as a reason for India's claim.

e). Due to economic benefits: This option is incorrect because the passage does not discuss economic benefits as a reason for considering PoK an integral part of Jammu and Kashmir. The justification provided is primarily historical, legal, and moral.

The correct answer encapsulates the reasons provided in the passage, highlighting the multifaceted basis for India's claim to PoK.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

8. Questions

Answer: C

PoK has witnessed internal dissent and unrest over the years.

The passage specifically mentions that PoK (Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir) has faced internal dissent and unrest over the years. It highlights the issues of human rights abuses, lack of democratic freedoms, and marginalization of local voices by the Pakistani establishment.

a). Economic prosperity and growth: This option is incorrect because the passage does not mention economic prosperity and growth in PoK. Instead, it focuses on negative aspects such as unrest and human rights issues.

b). Peaceful coexistence and stability: This option is incorrect as the passage does not describe PoK as experiencing peaceful coexistence and stability. On the contrary, it talks about dissent and unrest.

c). Internal dissent and unrest: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly states that PoK has been marred by internal dissent and unrest, mentioning civil society movements advocating for rights and autonomy and the ongoing issues faced by the region's populace.

d). Significant political autonomy: This option is incorrect because the passage notes the lack of democratic freedoms and marginalization of local voices, indicating that significant political autonomy is not a characteristic of PoK.

e). High levels of democratic freedom: This option is incorrect as the passage points out the lack of democratic freedoms in PoK, highlighting human rights abuses and the marginalization of local voices by the Pakistani establishment.

The correct answer reflects the passage's emphasis on the persistent issues of dissent and unrest in PoK.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

9. Questions

Answer: C

If Amit Shah's statement reflects a broader strategic shift, it must be well-articulated.

The passage discusses the need for caution regarding Amit Shah's statement on reclaiming Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK). It suggests that if this declaration is not just a standalone statement but reflects a broader strategic shift in India's approach, it must be well articulated and accompanied by a clear roadmap, whether diplomatically or otherwise.

a). It should be made more frequently: This option is incorrect because the passage does not advocate for more frequent statements of this nature. Instead, it emphasizes careful consideration and strategic planning.

b). It should be followed by immediate military action: This option is incorrect because the passage does not recommend immediate military action. It highlights the complexity and potential risks involved, especially considering the nuclear capabilities of both India and Pakistan.

c). It should be part of a well-articulated strategic shift: This is the correct answer. The passage advises that if Amit Shah's statement signifies a broader strategic approach, it needs to be clearly articulated with a detailed plan to handle the matter diplomatically or otherwise.

d). It should be ignored as mere rhetoric: This option is incorrect because the passage does not suggest ignoring the statement. Instead, it calls for a cautious and strategic approach.

e). It should be dismissed as irrelevant: This option is incorrect because the passage does not advocate dismissing the statement as irrelevant. It emphasizes the importance of handling such declarations carefully, especially in the context of international relations and domestic issues.

The correct answer reflects the passage's recommendation for a thoughtful and strategic approach to Amit Shah's statement on PoK.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

Maharaja Hari Singh opted to accede to India amid an invasion by tribal militias supported by Pakistan.

The passage explains the historical context surrounding Maharaja Hari Singh's decision to accede to India. It mentions that initially, the Maharaja sought to maintain independence for the princely state of Jammu and Kashmir. However, when tribal militias supported by Pakistan invaded the region, Maharaja Hari Singh opted to accede to India. This invasion and subsequent threat to the sovereignty of the princely state compelled the Maharaja to seek assistance from India, leading to his decision to accede.

a). Pressure from the United Nations: This option is incorrect because the United Nations did not exert pressure on Maharaja Hari Singh to accede to India. The UN's involvement came later, after the conflict between India and Pakistan over the region.

b). Economic incentives from India: This option is incorrect because there is no mention in the passage of Maharaja Hari Singh being swayed by economic incentives from India to accede to the country. The decision was driven by the immediate threat posed by the invasion supported by Pakistan.

c). Invasion by tribal militias supported by Pakistan: This is the correct answer. The passage explicitly states that the invasion by tribal militias supported by Pakistan prompted Maharaja Hari Singh to accede to India. This invasion threatened the sovereignty and stability of the princely state, leading to the decision to seek protection from India.

d). Diplomatic negotiations with Pakistan: This option is incorrect because there is no indication in the passage that diplomatic negotiations with Pakistan influenced Maharaja Hari Singh's decision to accede to India. The invasion by tribal militias was the primary catalyst for his decision.

e). Popular demand from the people of Jammu and Kashmir: This option is incorrect because there is no mention in the passage of popular demand from the people of Jammu and Kashmir influencing Maharaja Hari Singh's decision to accede to India. The decision was driven by the immediate threat of invasion and the need for protection.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

11. Questions

Answer: C

Amit Shah reiterated that PoK belongs to India and India will reclaim it.

The passage mentions that India's Home Minister Amit Shah made a statement asserting that Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK) belongs to India and that India will reclaim it. This statement has reignited discussions about the disputed region and its complex history.

a). PoK should hold a plebiscite to determine its future: This option is incorrect because the passage does not mention Amit Shah advocating for a plebiscite to decide PoK's future. The focus of his statement is on reclaiming PoK as part of India.

b). PoK is independent and should be left alone: This option is incorrect because Amit Shah did not suggest that PoK is independent or should be left alone. On the contrary, he stated that PoK is part of India.

c). PoK belongs to India and will be reclaimed: This is the correct answer. The passage clearly states that Amit Shah reiterated India's claim over PoK, asserting that it belongs to India and that India will reclaim it.

d). India should give up its claims on PoK for peace: This option is incorrect because Amit Shah's statement reinforces India's claim to PoK rather than suggesting that India should relinquish its claim for the sake of peace.

e). PoK should become an autonomous region within Pakistan: This option is incorrect because Amit Shah's statement does not support PoK becoming an autonomous region within Pakistan. Instead, he asserts that PoK is an integral part of India.

The correct answer accurately reflects the statement made by Amit Shah as described in the passage, emphasizing India's claim over PoK and the intention to reclaim it.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

12. Questions

Answer: C

a). Internal dissent and unrest within PoK: This is mentioned in the passage, which discusses the internal dissent and unrest in PoK.

b). Allegations of human rights abuses in PoK: This is mentioned in the passage, which talks about human rights abuses in the region.

c). Economic prosperity and development in PoK: This is not mentioned in the passage. The passage does not discuss economic prosperity or development in PoK; rather, it focuses on the negative aspects like unrest, human rights abuses, and marginalization.

d). Marginalization of local voices by the Pakistani establishment: This is mentioned in the passage, which highlights the marginalization of local voices in PoK.

e). The role of civil society movements advocating for rights in PoK: This is mentioned in the passage, which describes civil society movements like the Gilgit-Baltistan Movement advocating for rights and autonomy.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

13. Questions

Answer: C

"Rattled" means to cause (someone) to feel nervous, worried, or irritated, which effectively conveys the disruptive impact the solar scam had on the Oommen Chandy government.

"Bedevil" means to cause great and continual trouble to, which aptly describes how the resurfacing scam is troubling both Kerala's ruling front and the Opposition.

a). shook, trouble: "Shook" has a similar meaning to "rattled" but is less precise in conveying ongoing disruption. "Trouble" is less specific and impactful than "bedevil" in describing continuous and significant problems.

b). affected, haunt: "Affected" is too general and doesn't convey the strong impact that "rattled" does. "Haunt" implies a lingering presence but lacks the active trouble-making connotation of "bedevil."

d). disrupted, disturb: "Disrupted" suggests an interruption but not necessarily the nervousness or irritation implied by "rattled." "Disturb" is less intense than "bedevil" and doesn't convey continuous trouble.

e). undermined, plague: "Undermined" means to weaken or damage but doesn't convey the immediate impact that "rattled" does. "Plague" could work but isn't as precise in this context as "bedevil," which better conveys the idea of causing continuous trouble.

In summary, option (c) "rattled, bedevil" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the solar scam significantly disrupted the Oommen Chandy government and continues to cause trouble for both the ruling front and the Opposition in Kerala.

14. Questions

Answer: B

"Engulfed" means to surround or cover completely, often used to describe crises or overwhelming situations, making it appropriate for describing a leadership crisis.

"Suspension" means the temporary prevention of someone from carrying out their duties, which fits well with the context of placing a Metropolitan under disciplinary action.

a). overtaken, scrutiny: "Overtaken" implies being passed by something else and doesn't convey the same sense of being surrounded by a crisis as "engulfed." "Scrutiny" means critical observation or examination, which doesn't fit as well as "suspension" in the context of disciplinary action.

c). affected, investigation: "Affected" is too mild and doesn't convey the intensity of "engulfed." "Investigation" implies an ongoing process of inquiry rather than a definitive disciplinary action like "suspension."

d). seized, inquiry: "Seized" can imply taken hold of, but it doesn't convey the same intensity or sense of being overwhelmed as "engulfed." "Inquiry" suggests a formal investigation rather than a definitive action like "suspension."

e). troubled, examination: "Troubled" is too mild and lacks the intensity of "engulfed." "Examination" is similar to "scrutiny" and "inquiry" in implying an ongoing process rather than a definitive action like "suspension."

In summary, option (b) "engulfed, suspension" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the Malankara Syrian Knanaya Church is deeply embroiled in a leadership crisis following the suspension of its Metropolitan by the Patriarch of Antioch.

15. Questions

Answer: E

"Trajectory" means the path or progression of a process, development, or course, fitting well with describing the economic and political course after the war.

"Jingoistic" means characterized by extreme patriotism, especially in the form of aggressive or warlike foreign policy, which aptly describes the Rajapaksa regime's nationalistic and militaristic actions.

a). situation, patriotic: "Situation" is too vague and doesn't convey the idea of a progression or course. "Patriotic" has a positive connotation and doesn't fit the negative implication of excessive nationalism suggested by "jingoistic."

b). state, ceremonial: "State" is too vague and general. "Ceremonial" implies something related to ceremonies and doesn't capture the aggressive nationalism implied by "jingoistic."

c). condition, festive: "Condition" is too vague and doesn't convey a course or progression. "Festive" implies a celebratory and joyous nature, which doesn't fit the context of aggressive nationalism.

d). outlook, grandiose: "Outlook" refers to a viewpoint or perspective, which is not as fitting as "trajectory" for describing a progression or course. "Grandiose" means impressive or magnificent in appearance or style but doesn't convey the aggressive and excessive nationalism implied by "jingoistic."

In summary, option (e) "trajectory, jingoistic" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the Rajapaksa regime is largely responsible for the problematic course of economic and political development in the North and East after the war, characterized by excessive and aggressive nationalism.

16. Questions

Answer: B

"Nexus" means a connection or series of connections linking two or more things, which appropriately describes the collusion between officials and contractors.

"Deprived" means to deny the possession or use of something, fitting well to describe how the poor were denied rice.

a). link, benefited: "Link" is too neutral and doesn't capture the illicit or conspiratorial nature implied by "nexus." "Benefited" is the opposite of "deprived" and doesn't fit the context of the poor being denied rice.

c). connection, provided: "Connection" is too neutral and doesn't capture the illicit or conspiratorial nature implied by "nexus." "Provided" is the opposite of "deprived" and doesn't fit the context of the poor being denied rice.

d). coalition, supplied: "Coalition" suggests a formal alliance for joint action and doesn't imply the illicit nature suggested by "nexus." "Supplied" is the opposite of "deprived" and doesn't fit the context of the poor being denied rice.

e). collaboration, enriched: "Collaboration" suggests working together towards a common goal but doesn't necessarily imply the illicit nature suggested by "nexus." "Enriched" means made richer, which is the opposite of "deprived" and doesn't fit the context of the poor being denied rice.

In summary, option (b) "nexus, deprived" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the collusion between officials and contractors has resulted in the poor being denied rice in the tribal hill districts of Manipur.

17. Questions

Answer: D

"Indulgence" means the act of allowing oneself to enjoy the pleasure of; in this context, it implies allowing or participating in unethical practices.

"Governance" refers to the act of governing or managing, which is appropriate advice from the RBI to ensure ARCs adhere to ethical conduct.

a). involvement, profitability: "Involvement" is too neutral and doesn't carry the negative connotation of unethical behavior implied by "indulgence."

"Profitability" focuses on financial gain, which doesn't align with the context of adhering to ethical conduct.

b). participation, compliance: "Participation" is too neutral and doesn't carry the negative connotation of unethical behavior implied by "indulgence."

"Compliance" is a good fit but doesn't emphasize the broader concept of governance, which includes ethical management and oversight.

c). engagement, transparency: "Engagement" is too neutral and doesn't carry the negative connotation of unethical behavior implied by "indulgence."

"Transparency" is important but is a subset of governance; governance is a broader term that encompasses transparency along with other aspects of ethical conduct.

e). complicity, efficiency: "Complicity" would imply being involved with others in wrongdoing, which is close in meaning but carries a heavier implication of guilt compared to "indulgence."

"Efficiency" focuses on the effectiveness of operations, which doesn't align with the context of adhering to ethical conduct.

In summary, option (d) "indulgence, governance" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the RBI is addressing the unethical practices of ARCs and urging them to focus on proper management and ethical business conduct.

18. Questions

Answer: C

The odd one out is Sentence D: "Some devotees even do a Do Dham Yatra or a pilgrimage to two shrines - Kedarnath and Badrinath." Sentences A, B, C, and E discuss aspects related to the Char Dham Yatra and the issues and reactions related to the pilgrimage. However, sentence D introduces the concept of a "Do Dham Yatra," which focuses specifically on a smaller subset of the pilgrimage, namely the journey to just Kedarnath and Badrinath. This shifts the focus from the broader topic of the Char Dham Yatra and its associated challenges, making it the odd one out.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: B

The odd one out is Sentence C: "There's a creeping sameness in many of our newest urban buildings and streetscapes, says architect Vishaan Chakrabarti." Sentences A, B, D, and E all focus on the dangers and specific incidents related to urban hazards and infrastructure issues in Indian cities, such as open manholes, crashing billboards, and unauthorized hoardings. These sentences highlight the immediate risks and consequences of these hazards. However, sentence C shifts the focus to a broader and more general observation about the architectural sameness in urban buildings and streetscapes, which is not directly related to the specific hazards and incidents discussed in the other sentences. This makes sentence C the odd one out.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The odd one out is Sentence E: "Global inflation was generally moderating when the pandemic began, and the downward trend continued into the early months of the crisis." Sentences A, B, C, and D all focus on the current issue of food inflation in the context of India, discussing its causes, effects, and complications. They address the episodic spike, the impact on overall inflation, the divergence between manufacturing and agriculture prices, and the likely continuation of high food inflation due to weather conditions. However, sentence E discusses global inflation trends during the pandemic, which is a different topic not directly related to the specific issue of food inflation in India. This makes sentence E the odd one out.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

In the realm of global economics, the dynamics of trade relationships often override geopolitics. India's growing trade affinity with China is a living example of that: China has become India's largest trading partner in 2023-24. This development brings little joy to the nation aspiring to become an alternative to China and striving to bolster its manufacturing sector, with the Prime Minister's 'Make in India' call. Despite the Indian Government's rhetoric urging caution in dealings with China, economic imperatives seem to be reshaping the contours of bilateral trade. Their trade relationship has long been characterised by a mix of competition and cooperation. Both nations are regional powerhouses with vast consumer markets and ___ (1) ___ manufacturing sectors, though China is much ahead of India in terms of economy and infrastructure size. Over the years, China has emerged as a crucial supplier of goods to the world, including India, ranging from electronics and machinery to pharmaceuticals and textiles. Concurrently, India has also found a receptive market for its exports in China, particularly in sectors like raw materials, agricultural products and IT services. But the real problem is the ___ (2) ___ of the trade. We are a net importer of Chinese goods, that too at the cost of our local industry. Most traders take the easy import route, often substandard but cheap, and make decent profits. This leads to job losses and closure of several MSME manufacturing units. Besides, the nations are not the best of neighbours; relying on China in this scenario is indeed fraught with danger. But where wealth flows, interests follow and that explains India's rising trade ties with China. The ___ (3) ___ of bilateral trade has been influenced by several factors. One, the sheer size and harmony of their economies create natural synergies to drive trade volumes. Despite occasional border disputes and geopolitical issues, economic pragmatism often prevails, ___ (4) ___ trade ties. Two, China's manufacturing prowess and cost competitiveness have made it an attractive destination for Indian importers, especially in sectors where domestic production struggles to meet demand. Moreover, the persistent trade deficit with China underscores India's reliance on their goods and highlights the challenges in achieving more equitable trade ties. The geopolitical dimension of India-China trade cannot be overlooked either. The Indian Government must emphasise the need for strategic autonomy and self-reliance in key sectors. Initiatives such as 'Make in India' and Production-Linked Incentive (PLI) must be given further fillip. Additionally, efforts to diversify trade partnerships by nurturing ties with countries like the US, Japan and Australia must be accorded priority and a diversified trade portfolio maintained. Achieving a fundamental rebalancing of India-China trade dynamics is a multifaceted challenge that requires nuanced handling and necessitates a calibrated and ___ (5) ___ policy approach.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. dwindling
b. prospering
c. burgeoning
d. withering
e. deteriorating

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. peculiarity
b. divergency
c. discrepancy
d. lopsidedness
e. distinctiveness

3. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. expectancy
b. prognosis
c. contingency
d. trajectory
e. potentiality

4. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

a. hindering
b. fostering
c. dampening
d. furthering
e. overseeing

5. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. pragmatic
b. judicious
c. sagacious
d. compulsive
e. fallacious

6. Questions

In each of the following questions, a sentence has been given and divided into five parts out of which one part is erroneous. You are required to choose the option which is grammatically or

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

contextually incorrect.

In a vibrant democracy such as India, (A)/ the right to vote (B)/ is not just a privilege (C)/ but also a fundamental duty (D)/ enshrine in the Constitution (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

7. Questions

One of the key decision Vladimir Putin (A)/ took after being sworn (B)/ in as Russia's President for the fifth time (C)/ was to remove (D)/ his long-time Minister of Defence, Sergei Shoigu (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

8. Questions

The mandate for employers (A)/ to declare a holiday on (B)/ election day raise pertinent questions (C)/ about the balance between (D)/ civic responsibility and personal freedoms (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

9. Questions

Delhi's solid waste management (SWM) system should integrate (A)/ decentralised options for (B)/ both wet and dry waste, (C)/ backed by large processing facilities to ensure (D)/ all the waste generated are scientifically processed (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C

sky53up@gmail.com

d. D

e. E

10. Questions

The Army is all set to begin receiving (A)/ another set of Russian Igla-S Very Short Range Air Defence Systems (VSHORAD) (B)/ by the end of May or early next month, (C)/ filling a critical void in its air defence requirements (D)/ which has been repeatedly delayed (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below four words are given in bold. These words may or may not be in their correct position. Following each sentence four sequences are provided. Select the sequence of the words which will make the given sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful. If the words are correct at their current position, then choose option (e) as your answer.

As if the scorching (A) sensation on the skin and mercury's validation of the heat and heatwave (B) were not enough, the Weatherman has issued a stark warning (C) for northwest India, forecasting a severe humidity (D) with a high health risk over the next week.

a. CBAD

b. CDAB

c. ADCB

d. BACD

e. No interchange required

12. Questions

As peace and harmony (A) envelop the sylvan slopes of Kashmir Valley in perfect tranquility (B) but civil unrest recoils (C) with its squirming (D) populace across the LoC in Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK), India's Home Minister Amit Shah has iterated that the region "belongs to India and we will reclaim it".

a. ABDC

b. BACD

c. BADC

d. DACB

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg.- @NextGenBankers

e. No interchange required

13. Questions

As the country seeks to emerge (A) as a global economic powerhouse, it must strike (B) a balance between safeguarding (C) its own interests and engaging (D) with the wider world.

a. ABDC

b. BADC

c. BACD

d. DBCA

e. No interchange required

14. Questions

To gain an advantage, the BJP has implemented five key strategies: Celebrity Candidates Fighting Polls, strengthening (A) the Hindu base, appealing (B) to minority groups, projecting (C) redrawn boundaries to maintain the Hindu vote in areas controlled by the opposition and exploiting (D) Modi magic.

a. ABDC

b. BACD

c. ADBC

d. ACBD

e. No interchange required

15. Questions

The slump in hydropower generation and delays (A) in the commissioning of thermal plants has exposed the vulnerable (B) of the nation's energy supply chain, leaving it fragility (C) to the vagaries of nature and unforeseen disruptions (D).

a. ABDC

b. ACBD

c. DBCA

d. DCBA

e. No interchange required

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No replacement required" i.e. (E).

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The seasoned politician knew how to trade upon his extensive experience and charismatic personality, leveraging these assets to gain support and influence within the party.

a. trade up his extensive experience
b. trade off his extensive experience
c. trade on his extensive experience
d. trade in his extensive experience
e. No replacement required

17. Questions

The Supreme Court decided to strike up the controversial law, declaring it unconstitutional and thereby nullifying its enforcement across the entire nation.

a. strike off the controversial law
b. strike down the controversial law
c. strike out the controversial law
d. strike upon the controversial law
e. No replacement required

18. Questions

In a moment of desperation, he hastily decided to sign away his rights to the invention, unaware of the immense profits it would generate in the near future.

a. sign for his rights
b. sign in his rights
c. sign off his rights
d. sign on his rights
e. No replacement required

19. Questions

Without taking a moment to consider the potential consequences, he decided to rush away the new business venture, driven by a mix of excitement and impatience to achieve quick success.

a. rush into the new business venture
b. rush in the new business venture
c. rush out the new business venture
d. rush off the new business venture
e. No replacement required

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

The skilled sniper was able to pick at the enemy soldiers one by one from his concealed vantage point high in the hills, ensuring the safety of his comrades advancing below.

a. pick on the enemy soldiers

b. pick out the enemy soldiers

c. pick up the enemy soldiers

d. pick off the enemy soldiers

e. No replacement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (1) is "burgeoning."

The word "burgeoning" means rapidly expanding or growing, especially in size or importance. In the context of the sentence, it describes the vast and growing manufacturing sectors of both China and India.

a). "Dwindling" means gradually diminishing or shrinking. This word doesn't fit the context because it contradicts the idea of growing manufacturing sectors.

b). "Prospering" means thriving or being successful. While it might seem like a suitable choice, "burgeoning" better captures the idea of rapid growth.

d). "Withering" means declining or becoming weaker. Like "dwindling," this word contradicts the notion of growth.

e). "Deteriorating" means becoming worse or declining in quality. Similar to "withering" and "dwindling," it doesn't align with the concept of growing manufacturing sectors.

Therefore, "burgeoning" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of the vast and rapidly expanding manufacturing sectors of both China and India.

2. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (2) is "lopsidedness."

The word "lopsidedness" refers to an imbalance or asymmetry in a situation. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that the trade relationship between India and China is heavily skewed or unbalanced, particularly in favor of China, as India is primarily importing goods from China rather than exporting an equivalent amount.

a). "Peculiarity" refers to something that is unusual or distinctive, but it doesn't specifically convey the idea of imbalance or asymmetry in trade.

sky53upo@gmail.com
Tg.- @NextGenBankers

b). "Divergency" refers to a difference or separation, but it doesn't accurately capture the concept of imbalance or asymmetry in trade.

c). "Discrepancy" refers to a lack of compatibility or consistency, often in terms of data or information, but it doesn't directly convey the idea of imbalance or asymmetry in trade.

e). "Distinctiveness" refers to the quality of being unique or different, but it doesn't specifically convey the concept of imbalance or asymmetry in trade.

Therefore, "lopsidedness" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea that the trade relationship between India and China is heavily skewed or unbalanced, with India primarily importing goods from China.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (3) is "trajectory."

In this context, the word "trajectory" refers to the path or course of bilateral trade between India and China. It suggests the direction in which their trade relationship is evolving or developing over time.

a). "Expectancy" refers to the state of expecting or anticipating something, but it doesn't convey the idea of the development or evolution of trade over time.

b). "Prognosis" typically refers to a forecast or prediction, often used in a medical context, and doesn't quite fit the context of bilateral trade dynamics.

c). "Contingency" refers to a possible event or circumstance that may occur in the future, but it doesn't directly convey the idea of the on going development or evolution of trade.

e). "Potentiality" refers to the capacity for growth or development, but it doesn't specifically convey the idea of the current trajectory or direction of bilateral trade.

Therefore, "trajectory" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of the evolving path or course of India-China trade relations.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (4) is "fostering."

The sentence discusses the prevailing economic pragmatism prevailing despite occasional border disputes and geopolitical issues. The word "fostering" means to promote the development or growth of something, and in this context, it implies that economic pragmatism often prevails, promoting or nurturing trade ties between India and China.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). "Hindering" means to create difficulties or obstacles for something. However, in the context of the sentence, it doesn't convey the idea that economic pragmatism promotes or cultivates trade ties.

c). "Dampening" means to reduce the intensity or enthusiasm of something. Again, this word doesn't convey the idea of promoting or nurturing trade ties.

d). "Furthering" means to advance or promote the progress of something. This is similar in meaning to "fostering" and could be a plausible choice, but "fostering" more directly implies the idea of promoting growth or development, which fits well in the context of the sentence.

e). "Overseeing" means to supervise or manage something. However, in the context of the sentence, it doesn't convey the idea of actively promoting or nurturing trade ties between India and China.

Therefore, "fostering" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the notion that economic pragmatism often promotes or nurtures trade ties between India and China despite occasional geopolitical issues.

5. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (5) is "pragmatic."

Given the context of the sentence, which discusses the need for a nuanced and balanced approach to addressing the challenges in India-China trade dynamics, the word "pragmatic" fits best. It implies a practical, sensible, and realistic approach that takes into account the complex factors involved.

b). "Judicious" means showing good judgment or discretion. While it's related to being practical and wise, it doesn't fully capture the sense of practicality and realism conveyed by "pragmatic."

c). "Sagacious" means having keen mental discernment and good judgment, similar to "judicious." It doesn't directly convey the idea of a practical approach.

d). "Compulsive" means resulting from or relating to an irresistible urge or impulse, which doesn't fit the context of the sentence at all.

e). "Fallacious" means based on a mistaken belief or unsound reasoning, which is the opposite of what's needed in this situation.

Therefore, "pragmatic" is the most suitable choice, as it accurately reflects the need for a practical, sensible, and realistic approach to addressing the challenges in India-China trade dynamics.

6. Questions

Answer: E

The error is in part (E), where "enshrine" is corrected to "enshrined" to ensure proper verb form. "Enshrined" is the past participle form of the verb "enshrine," which is needed here to match the passive construction and indicate that the duty is already established in the Constitution.

So, the corrected sentence is: "In a vibrant democracy such as India, the right to vote is not just a privilege but also a fundamental duty enshrined in the Constitution."

7. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

The error is in part (A), where "decision" should be "decisions" to agree with "One of the key decisions." The phrase "One of the" requires a plural noun.

"One of the" Construction: The phrase "one of the" is a common expression in English that is always followed by a plural noun. This construction indicates that you are selecting a single item from a group of items.

Example: "One of the books on the shelf is missing." Here, "books" is plural because it is the group from which one book is being singled out.

Noun Agreement: In the original sentence, "decision" is singular, which does not agree with the plural requirement of the phrase "one of the."

To correct this, "decision" must be changed to "decisions," making it plural and properly matching the "one of the" construction.

Corrected Part: Changing "decision" to "decisions" ensures that the sentence is grammatically correct and clearly conveys that among the multiple key decisions made by Vladimir Putin, one specific decision is being highlighted.

Thus, the corrected sentence reads: One of the key decisions Vladimir Putin took after being sworn in as Russia's President for the fifth time was to remove his long-time Minister of Defence, Sergei Shoigu. This correction ensures proper grammatical structure and clarity.

8. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part (C), where "raise" should be "raises" to ensure subject-verb agreement.

Subject-Verb Agreement: The subject of the sentence is "The mandate," which is singular.

The verb "raise" needs to agree with the singular subject "mandate."

Therefore, the correct form of the verb should be "raises."

Corrected part: C) election day raises pertinent questions

Thus, the corrected sentence reads: The mandate for employers to declare a holiday on election day raises pertinent questions about the balance between civic responsibility and personal freedoms.

9. Questions

Answer: E

The error is in part (E), where "are" should be "is" to ensure subject-verb agreement.

Subject-Verb Agreement: The subject of the clause "all the waste generated" is singular because "waste" is an uncountable noun.

The verb "are" needs to agree with the singular subject "waste."

Therefore, the correct form of the verb should be "is."

Corrected part: E) all the waste generated is scientifically processed

Thus, the corrected sentence reads: Delhi's solid waste management (SWM) system should integrate decentralised options for both wet and dry waste, backed by large processing facilities to ensure all the waste generated is scientifically processed.

10. Questions

Answer: E

The error is in part (E), where "has been" should be corrected to "have been" to match the plural subject

"requirements." Since "requirements" is plural, the verb should also be plural.

Thus, the corrected sentence reads: The Army is all set to begin receiving another set of Russian Igla-S Very Short Range Air Defence systems (VSHORAD) by the end of May or early next month, filling a critical void in its air defence requirements which have been repeatedly delayed.

11. Questions

Answer: C

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: c) ADCB.

So, the sentence will be: “As if the scorching sensation on the skin and mercury’s validation of the heat and humidity were not enough, the Weatherman has issued a stark warning for northwest India, forecasting a severe heatwave with a high health risk over the next week.”

"scorching" (A): This describes an intense sensation caused by heat, so it fits well with "sensation on the skin."

"heatwave" (B): This term describes an extended period of excessively hot weather, which aligns with the context of high temperatures. However, "heatwave" needs to be placed where it makes more sense in the context of the entire sentence.

"warning" (C): This makes sense where it is, as the Weatherman issues a "warning."

"humidity" (D): This should describe the condition being forecasted, but "humidity" does not fit the context of the sentence, which talks about a heatwave.

Let's try swapping "heatwave" (B) and "humidity" (D) and see if the sentence makes more sense:

Revised sentence with the sequence ADCB:

"As if the scorching (A) sensation on the skin and mercury’s validation of the heat and humidity (D) were not enough, the Weatherman has issued a stark warning (C) for northwest India, forecasting a severe heatwave (B) with a high health risk over the next week."

This revised sentence makes sense because:

"scorching" (A) describes the sensation on the skin.

"humidity" (D) fits with the "validation of the heat," indicating high moisture content in the air, contributing to discomfort.

"warning" (C) correctly describes what the Weatherman issued.

"heatwave" (B) is forecasted, which fits the context of severe weather conditions with high health risks.

So, the correct sequence is "ADCB," where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

Therefore, the correct sequence is ADCB, making the sentence both contextually and grammatically correct.

12. Questions

Answer: B

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: b) BACD.

So, the sentence will be: “As peace and tranquility envelop the sylvan slopes of Kashmir Valley in perfect harmony but civil unrest recoils with its squirming populace across the LoC in Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK), India’s Home Minister Amit Shah has iterated that the region “belongs to India and we will reclaim it”.”

In this sequence:

"B" (tranquility) should replace "harmony" because "tranquility" describes a state of peacefulness that envelops the valley.

"A" (harmony) should replace "tranquility" because "harmony" complements "perfect" to describe the peaceful state of the valley.

"C" (recoils) fits with "civil unrest recoils," indicating a reaction to unrest.

"D" (squirming) fits with "squirming populace," indicating the population's reaction to the unrest.

Let's try swapping " tranquility" (B) and " harmony " (A) and see if the sentence makes more sense:

Revised sentence with the sequence BACD: As peace and tranquility envelop the sylvan slopes of Kashmir Valley in perfect harmony but civil unrest recoils with its squirming populace across the LoC in Pakistan-Occupied Kashmir (PoK), India’s Home Minister Amit Shah has iterated that the region “belongs to India and we will reclaim it”.

So, the correct sequence is "BACD," where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

Therefore, the correct sequence is BACD, making the sentence both contextually and grammatically correct.

13. Questions

Answer: E

To determine if the words are in the correct positions or if they need to be interchanged, let's examine the sentence carefully:

"As the country seeks to emerge (A) as a global economic powerhouse, it must strike (B) a balance between safeguarding (C) its own interests and engaging (D) with the wider world."

Let's look at each bold word in context:

Emerge (A): This correctly describes the country’s goal of becoming a global economic powerhouse.

Strike (B): This correctly describes the action needed to find a balance.

Safeguarding (C): This correctly describes protecting its own interests.

Engaging (D): This correctly describes interacting with the wider world.

Since each word fits correctly in its given position, the sentence does not require any interchange of words.

Therefore, the answer is: e) No interchange required

14. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: a) ABDC.

So, the sentence will be: “To gain an advantage, the BJP has implemented five key strategies: Celebrity Candidates Fighting Polls, strengthening the Hindu base, appealing to minority groups, exploiting redrawn boundaries to maintain the Hindu vote in areas controlled by the opposition and projecting Modi magic.”

In this sequence:

A (Strengthening): This is a logical starting point as it describes a fundamental strategy of building support among the Hindu base.

B (Appealing): Following the strategy of strengthening the Hindu base, the BJP then seeks to broaden its appeal by reaching out to minority groups.

D (Exploiting): Once the BJP has established a broad base of support, it then exploits Modi's popularity to further enhance its electoral prospects.

C (Projecting): Lastly, the strategy of projecting redrawn boundaries comes into play. This strategy involves manipulating electoral boundaries to maintain the Hindu vote in areas controlled by the opposition, solidifying the BJP's electoral advantage.

Each strategy logically follows the previous one, making the sequence ABDC the most appropriate to convey the flow of the BJP's strategies.

Therefore, the correct answer is: a) ABDC

Let's try swapping " exploiting " (D) and " projecting " (C) and see if the sentence makes more sense:

Revised sentence with the sequence ABDC:

" To gain an advantage, the BJP has implemented five key strategies: Celebrity Candidates Fighting Polls, strengthening (A) the Hindu base, appealing (B) to minority groups, exploiting (D) redrawn boundaries to maintain the Hindu vote in areas controlled by the opposition and projecting (C) Modi magic."

So, the correct sequence is "ABDC," where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

Therefore, the correct sequence is ABDC, making the sentence both contextually and grammatically correct.

15. Questions

Answer: B

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: b) ACBD.

So, the sentence will be: “The slump in hydropower generation and delays in the commissioning of thermal plants has exposed the fragility of the nation’s energy supply chain, leaving it vulnerable to the vagaries of nature and unforeseen disruptions.”

In this sequence:

Slump (A): This describes a decrease or decline in hydropower generation, indicating a problem in energy production.

Fragility (C): This word is meant to describe the condition of the energy supply chain, but it appears out of place.

Vulnerable (B): This describes the state of the nation's energy supply chain, indicating that it is susceptible to harm or damage.

Disruptions (D): This describes the unforeseen events that can affect the energy supply chain.

Let's try swapping " vulnerable " (B) and " fragility " (C) and see if the sentence makes more sense:

Revised sentence with the sequence ACBD: The slump in hydropower generation and delays (A) in the commissioning of thermal plants has exposed the fragility (C) of the nation's energy supply chain, leaving it vulnerable (B) to the vagaries of nature and unforeseen disruptions (D).

So, the correct sequence is "ACBD," where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

Therefore, the correct sequence is ACBD, making the sentence both contextually and grammatically correct.

16. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) trade on his extensive experience

The phrase "trade on" means to use something to one's advantage or to exploit something for personal gain. In this context, "trade on his extensive experience" means that the seasoned politician used his experience to his advantage.

Option (a) "trade up his extensive experience" is incorrect. "Trade up" usually means to exchange something for a better version, which doesn't fit the context here.

Option (b) "trade off his extensive experience" is incorrect. "Trade off" means to give up one thing in exchange for another, which doesn't fit the context here.

Option (d) "trade in his extensive experience" is incorrect. "Trade in" usually refers to exchanging something, such as a used item, for credit towards a new item, which doesn't fit the context here.

Therefore, option (c) "trade on his extensive experience" is the correct choice for conveying the intended meaning effectively.

17. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: b) strike down the controversial law

In legal contexts, "strike down" is the appropriate term used when a court invalidates a law, declaring it unconstitutional. Here's an analysis of each option:

Option (a) "strike off the controversial law" is not commonly used in legal contexts. "Strike off" generally means to remove from a list, which doesn't fit the context of nullifying a law.

Option (b) "strike down the controversial law" is the correct legal terminology, meaning to declare a law invalid or unconstitutional.

Option (c) "strike out the controversial law" is more commonly used in the context of editing text or removing specific parts of documents, not in legal invalidation of laws.

Option (d) "strike upon the controversial law" is incorrect as it doesn't convey the legal action of invalidating a law.

Therefore, "strike down the controversial law" correctly conveys that the Supreme Court declared the law unconstitutional and nullified its enforcement.

18. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No replacement required

The sentence is grammatically correct and conveys the intended meaning effectively. The phrase "sign away his rights" is the correct idiomatic expression meaning to relinquish or transfer one's rights to something, typically in a legal context.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are not correct idiomatic expressions in this context:

Option (a) "sign for his rights" suggests signing on behalf of his rights, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (b) "sign in his rights" is not a standard idiomatic expression and does not make sense in this context.

Option (c) "sign off his rights" suggests giving final approval or consent, which is not the same as relinquishing rights.

Option (d) "sign on his rights" is not a standard idiomatic expression and does not convey the intended meaning.

Therefore, option (e) "No replacement required" is the correct choice, as the phrase "sign away his rights" is the appropriate and idiomatic expression.

19. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) rush into the new business venture

The phrase "rush into" is idiomatic and means to start something hastily without proper consideration. This fits the context of someone starting a new business venture without taking time to consider the potential consequences.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Options (b), (c), and (d) are incorrect because they do not convey the intended meaning:

Option (b) "rush in the new business venture" is not idiomatic and does not correctly convey the idea of starting something hastily.

Option (c) "rush out the new business venture" implies leaving or finishing the business venture, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (d) "rush off the new business venture" is not idiomatic and does not convey the intended meaning of hastily starting the venture.

Therefore, option (a) "rush into the new business venture" is the correct choice.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) pick off the enemy soldiers

The phrase "pick off" means to shoot or kill individual targets from a distance, especially with accuracy. It fits well in the context of the sentence, where the skilled sniper is targeting enemy soldiers one by one.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that do not convey the intended meaning:

Option (a) "pick on" typically means to criticize or harass someone repeatedly, which does not fit the context of the skilled sniper targeting enemy soldiers.

Option (b) "pick out" means to select or identify something from a group, which does not fit the context of the sniper targeting individual enemy soldiers.

Option (c) "pick up" means to lift or collect something, which does not fit the context of the sniper targeting and eliminating enemy soldiers.

Therefore, option (d) "pick off the enemy soldiers" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

In the cacophony of India's political battleground, where accusations fly like arrows in a chaotic melee, the latest skirmish revolves around two names that have become synonymous with power and wealth: Mukesh Ambani and Gautam Adani. As allegations of campaign funding swirl around these industrial giants, the nation watches with a mix of intrigue and scepticism, wondering where truth ends, and political mudslinging begins. Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, locked in a bitter electoral duel, have exchanged verbal blows over the alleged ties between their respective parties and the tycoons. Mr Modi's recent assertion at an election rally, suggesting that tempo-loads of black money was sent by the tycoons to the Congress, was met with a swift retort from Mr Gandhi, who challenged the Prime Minister to back his claims with evidence. Such tit-for-tat exchanges are not uncommon in Indian politics. Mr Gandhi's accusations against the ruling dispensation of crony capitalism have long been a staple of electoral rhetoric. However, what sets this spat apart is the timing and context. At the mid-point of the electoral battle, it signifies a shift from campaign promises to accusations. Mr Gandhi has been relentless in his attacks on corporate interests and inequality, aiming to strike a chord with voters concerned by the widening gap between the rich and the poor. But amid the political theatrics and finger-pointing, one cannot ignore the broader implications of such allegations on India's democracy and economic landscape. The intertwining of politics and big business raises questions about the extent of corporate influence on policy making and governance. While economic growth and development are vital for the nation's progress, they must not come at the expense of accountability and ethical conduct. Additionally, it ought to be clear from the growth graphs of the industrialists in question, and others of their ilk, that they have prospered regardless of the dispensation in power. It is not so much the policy-maker's job to measure how rich someone has become as it is to ensure through weighted initiatives and fiscal measures that the fruits of growth reach every citizen. Any misstep in levelling allegations could have far-reaching legal consequences. Hence, it is imperative that allegations ~ by all sides ~ be backed by evidence and subjected to dispassionate inquiry before being aired in the public domain. As the dust settles on this latest skirmish in India's political arena, one thing remains clear: the need for greater transparency and accountability in both business and politics. Regardless of one's political allegiance, the interests of the nation must always take precedence over personal agendas and partisan squabbles. Only then can India truly realise its potential as a vibrant democracy and economic powerhouse. Amid the political rhetoric, it is crucial for voters to remain vigilant and demand accountability from their elected representatives. Ultimately, it is the responsibility of every citizen to uphold the integrity of India's democratic process.

What does the author suggest regarding the relationship between politics and big business in India?

a. It is beneficial for economic growth

b. It leads to crony capitalism

c. It ensures accountability and ethical conduct

d. It is free from any allegations or controversies

e. It has no implications on India's democracy

2. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

According to the passage, what is essential for India to realize its potential as a democracy and economic powerhouse?

a. Personal agendas and partisan squabbles
b. Greater transparency and accountability
c. The success of industrialists
d. Political allegiance
e. None of the above

3. Questions

What is the primary responsibility of citizens according to the passage?

a. To elect competent leaders
b. To promote economic growth
c. To participate in partisan squabbles
d. To uphold the integrity of India's democratic process
e. To support industrialists

4. Questions

What distinguishes the current spat between political leaders from previous electoral conflicts in India?

a. The involvement of Prime Minister Narendra Modi
b. The intensity of the accusations
c. The focus on corporate influence on policy making
d. The personal attacks on industrialists
e. The timing and context of the accusations

5. Questions

According to the passage, what is Rahul Gandhi's main focus in his attacks on corporate interests?

a. To undermine the ruling dispensation
b. To highlight the success of industrialists
c. To gain electoral advantage
d. To address inequality and corporate influence
e. To challenge Prime Minister Narendra Modi

6. Questions

skv5up@gmail.com
Tg. @NextGenBankers

What does the author imply about the necessity of evidence in making allegations?

a. Allegations should be made without evidence
b. Evidence is unnecessary in political rhetoric
c. Allegations without evidence can have legal consequences
d. Evidence is only required for accusations against political leaders
e. Allegations without evidence are common in Indian politics

7. Questions

Which of the following is NOT a consequence of allegations made without evidence, according to the passage?

a. Legal repercussions
b. Credibility and legitimacy of allegations
c. Far-reaching implications
d. Greater transparency in political discourse
e. Dispassionate inquiry

8. Questions

In each of the following questions one word is highlighted in bold, and using that highlighted word four sentences are framed, in four sentences three will be synonyms for the highlighted word and one is an antonym for the word. You are required to find an antonym for the highlighted word.

INTRIGUE

a. The businessman was arrested for extortion after attempting to obtain money from competitors through threats and intimidation
b. The detectives uncovered a conspiracy involving several high-profile individuals, leading to a series of arrests
c. Her candour about her struggles inspired others to share their own experiences openly, fostering a sense of empathy and understanding
d. The villain's elaborate machinations were finally revealed, exposing his intricate plot to overthrow the government
e. None of the above

skys3un@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

ARDENT

a. She remained indifferent to the petty gossip, focusing instead on her work and personal goals
b. Her fervent dedication to environmental conservation led her to volunteer for various clean-up initiatives every weekend

c. She made a vehement argument in favour of the proposed changes, passionately defending her stance during the meeting

d. She was an avid reader, spending hours immersed in novels and devouring every book she could find

e. None of the above

10. Questions

PATRONAGE

a. Despite his achievements, he always maintained a sense of humility, never boasting about his successes

b. Her espousal of environmental causes earned her admiration among her peers

c. The research project received funding under the auspices of a prestigious scientific organization

d. The humanitarian organization operates under the aegis of the United Nations, receiving support and protection for its efforts in conflict zones

e. None of the above

11. Questions

ABOMINABLE

a. The use of violence as a means to achieve political goals is abhorrent to most civilized societies

b. Her innocent and innocuous comment sparked a pleasant conversation among the group

c. The villain's actions were truly despicable, causing harm and suffering to innocent people

d. The dictator's reign was marked by odious acts of oppression and cruelty, leaving a legacy of fear and suffering among the populace

e. None of the above

12. Questions

PRIMACY

a. The professor's eminence in the field of astrophysics is widely recognized, earning him numerous awards and accolades

b. The prepotency of the dominant gene ensured its expression in the offspring, resulting in the characteristic trait being passed down consistently through generations

c. After years of conquest, the kingdom extended its dominion over neighbouring lands, establishing control and authority

d. The impotence of the outdated technology became evident when it struggled to handle the demands of modern computing tasks

e. None of the above

13. Questions

In the given question, sentences are given in jumbled form. Rearrange them in proper order and answer the questions that follow.

Rearrange the following sentences to form a coherent paragraph:

A). India's growing trade affinity with China is a living example of that: China has become India's largest trading partner in 2023-24.

B). In the realm of global economics, the dynamics of trade relationships often override geopolitics.

C). This development brings little joy to the nation aspiring to become an alternative to China and striving to bolster its manufacturing sector, with the Prime Minister's 'Make in India' call.

D). Their trade relationship has long been characterised by a mix of competition and cooperation.

E). Despite the Indian Government's rhetoric urging caution in dealings with China, economic imperatives seem to be reshaping the contours of bilateral trade.

Which of the following is the penultimate sentence after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

14. Questions

Which of the following is the second sentence after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Which of the following is the hind most statement after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

16. Questions

Which of the following is the introductory statement after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

17. Questions

Which of the following should form a consecutive pair after re-arrangement?

a. A-E

b. B-C

c. C-D

d. C-E

e. B-E

18. Questions

Select the phrase (STARTERS) from the given three options which can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences given below, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences.

I). The company announced record-breaking profits for the fiscal year.

II). Several employees were laid off due to budget cuts.

A). Despite the company's record-breaking profits ……

B). Not only did the company ……

C). While the employees were being ……

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. All A, B, and C

sky5up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

19. Questions

I). The new product launch exceeded sales projections by 200%.

II). Despite the success, the marketing team acknowledged areas for improvement in the next launch strategy.

A). Even though the new product launch far surpassed expectations……

B). In addition to the remarkable success of the new product launch……

C). As opposed to the sales projections being exceeded by 200% ……

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. All A, B, and C

20. Questions

I). The team celebrated their victory with a grand party.

II). Some team members expressed disappointment over their individual performances.

A). Although the team celebrated ……

B). Not only did the team celebrate ……

C). While the team celebrated ……

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. All A, B, and C

sky53up@gmail.com

Explanations:

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is (b) It leads to crony capitalism. The author suggests that the intertwining of politics and big business raises questions about crony capitalism and the extent of corporate influence on policy making and governance.

Throughout the passage, the author suggests a critical view of the relationship between politics and big business in India. The passage mentions the intertwining of politics and big business, raising questions about the extent of corporate influence on policy making and governance. It highlights allegations of campaign funding swirling around industrial giants like Mukesh Ambani and Gautam Adani and mentions accusations of crony capitalism made by political leaders. The passage emphasizes that while economic growth and development are essential, they must not come at the expense of accountability and ethical conduct. Therefore, the author implies that the relationship between politics and big business in India often leads to crony capitalism, where political connections and favors play a significant role in business success, rather than pure market dynamics.

a). It is beneficial for economic growth: While economic growth and development are mentioned in the passage, the author does not suggest that the relationship between politics and big business is inherently beneficial for economic growth. Instead, the passage raises concerns about the potential negative consequences, such as crony capitalism, that can arise from this relationship.

c). It ensures accountability and ethical conduct: The passage actually suggests the opposite—that the relationship between politics and big business raises questions about accountability and ethical conduct. The author emphasizes the need for greater transparency and accountability in both business and politics, indicating a lack of assurance in the current state of affairs regarding accountability and ethical conduct.

d). It is free from any allegations or controversies: This option contradicts the central theme of the passage, which revolves around allegations of campaign funding, accusations of crony capitalism, and the broader implications of such allegations on India's democracy and economic landscape. The passage suggests that the relationship between politics and big business is indeed subject to allegations and controversies.

e). It has no implications on India's democracy: This option is incorrect because the passage explicitly discusses the implications of the relationship between politics and big business on India's democracy and economic landscape. The author highlights concerns about the extent of corporate influence on policy making and governance, suggesting that this relationship does indeed have implications for India's democracy.

The correct answer is (b) It leads to crony capitalism.

2. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is (b) Greater transparency and accountability. The passage emphasizes the need for greater transparency and accountability in both business and politics for India to realize its potential as a democracy and economic powerhouse.

Throughout the passage, there is a clear emphasis on the importance of transparency and accountability in both business and politics for India to realize its potential as a vibrant democracy and economic powerhouse. The passage highlights the intertwining of politics and big business, raising questions about the extent of corporate influence on policy making and governance. It suggests that while economic growth and development are vital for the nation's progress, they must not come at the expense of accountability and ethical conduct. Additionally, the passage emphasizes the need for allegations to be backed by evidence and subjected to dispassionate inquiry before being aired in the public domain, indicating a desire for greater transparency and integrity in political discourse. Therefore, greater transparency and accountability are presented as essential factors for India to realize its potential as both a democracy and an economic powerhouse.

a). Personal agendas and partisan squabbles: The passage actually discourages personal agendas and partisan squabbles, emphasizing instead the need for citizens to prioritize the nation's interests over such divisive behaviors. Therefore, personal agendas and partisan squabbles are not considered essential for India to realize its potential as a democracy and economic powerhouse according to the passage.

c). The success of industrialists: While the success of industrialists is mentioned in the passage, it is not presented as essential for India to realize its potential as a democracy and economic powerhouse. Instead, the passage emphasizes the need for accountability and ethical conduct in both business and politics, suggesting that economic success should not come at the expense of these values.

d). Political allegiance: Political allegiance is not presented as essential for India to realize its potential as a democracy and economic powerhouse in the passage. Instead, the passage emphasizes the importance of transparency, accountability, and integrity in the democratic process, regardless of one's political allegiance.

The correct answer is (b) Greater transparency and accountability.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is (d) To uphold the integrity of India's democratic process. The passage concludes by stating that it is the responsibility of every citizen to uphold the integrity of India's democratic process.

Throughout the passage, there is a consistent emphasis on the importance of transparency, accountability, and ethical conduct in both business and politics. The passage concludes by stating that regardless of one's political allegiance, the interests of the nation must always take precedence over personal agendas and partisan squabbles. It emphasizes the need for greater transparency and accountability in both business and politics for India to realize its potential as a vibrant democracy and economic powerhouse. Furthermore, it mentions that it is the responsibility of every citizen to uphold the integrity of India's democratic process. This suggests that citizens have a primary responsibility to ensure that the democratic process remains fair, transparent, and free from corruption or undue influence. Therefore, option (d) is the correct answer as it aligns with the central theme of the passage regarding citizen responsibility in upholding democratic values.

a). To elect competent leaders: While electing competent leaders is undoubtedly an important aspect of citizen responsibility in a democracy, the passage focuses more on the broader concepts of transparency, accountability, and integrity within the democratic process itself. While citizens do have a responsibility to elect competent leaders, it's not explicitly stated as the primary responsibility in this passage.

b). To promote economic growth: While economic growth and development are discussed in the passage, the primary focus regarding citizen responsibility is on upholding democratic values rather than actively promoting economic growth. While citizens may contribute to economic growth through various means, such as entrepreneurship or participation in the economy, it's not the primary responsibility highlighted in this context.

c). To participate in partisan squabbles: The passage actually discourages participation in partisan squabbles, emphasizing instead the need for citizens to prioritize the nation's interests over personal agendas and partisan divisions. Therefore, participation in partisan squabbles is not considered the primary responsibility of citizens according to the passage.

e). To support industrialists: Supporting industrialists is not mentioned as a primary responsibility of citizens in the passage. Instead, the passage discusses the need for greater accountability and transparency in both business and politics, suggesting that citizens should prioritize the integrity of the democratic process over supporting specific economic interests. Therefore, this option is not aligned with the central theme of citizen responsibility as presented in the passage.

The correct answer is (d) To uphold the integrity of India's democratic process.

4. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is (e) The timing and context of the accusations. The passage mentions that the timing and context of the accusations during the mid-point of the electoral battle signify a shift from campaign promises to accusations.

In the passage, it is mentioned that the current spat between political leaders, particularly Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Congress leader Rahul Gandhi, signifies a shift from campaign promises to accusations. This implies that the timing and context of the accusations are significant because they occur at the mid-point of the electoral battle. Previous electoral conflicts may have involved accusations and counter-accusations, but what sets the current situation apart is the specific timing and context within the electoral process. It indicates a strategic move by the political leaders to shift the focus of the campaign from promises to allegations, making it a distinguishing feature of this particular spat.

a). The involvement of Prime Minister Narendra Modi: While Prime Minister Narendra Modi is indeed involved in the current spat, his involvement alone doesn't distinguish this situation from previous electoral conflicts. Political leaders, including prime ministers, have been involved in electoral conflicts in the past as well. Therefore, while Modi's involvement is relevant to the current scenario, it's not what sets it apart from previous conflicts.

b). The intensity of the accusations: While the accusations in the current spat may indeed be intense, the passage does not explicitly state that the intensity of the accusations distinguishes this situation from previous electoral conflicts. Accusations and counter-accusations are common in Indian politics, and they can vary in intensity depending on the context. Therefore, while intensity may play a role, it's not explicitly mentioned as a distinguishing factor in this case.

c). The focus on corporate influence on policy making: While the passage discusses the intertwining of politics and big business and raises questions about corporate influence on policy making, this is not necessarily a distinguishing feature of the current spat. Issues related to corporate influence on policy making have been raised in previous electoral conflicts as well. Therefore, while this focus is relevant to the broader context of the passage, it's not what sets this situation apart from previous conflicts.

d). The personal attacks on industrialists: While personal attacks on industrialists are mentioned in the passage, they are not highlighted as a distinguishing feature of the current spat. Personal attacks on opponents, including industrialists, have occurred in previous electoral conflicts as well. Therefore, while personal attacks may be a part of the current situation, they are not explicitly mentioned as what sets it apart from previous conflicts.

e). The timing and context of the accusations: This option is correct, as the passage explicitly mentions that the timing and context of the accusations distinguish the current spat from previous electoral conflicts. The passage indicates that the accusations occur at the mid-point of the electoral battle, signifying a shift from campaign promises to accusations. Therefore, the timing and context are highlighted as significant factors in this particular situation.

5. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is (d) To address inequality and corporate influence. The passage states that Rahul Gandhi aims to strike a chord with voters concerned by the widening gap between the rich and the poor through his attacks on corporate interests and inequality.

In the passage, Rahul Gandhi's attacks on corporate interests are portrayed as having a specific focus. The passage mentions that Rahul Gandhi has been relentless in his attacks on corporate interests and inequality, aiming to strike a chord with voters concerned by the widening gap between the rich and the poor. This indicates that Rahul Gandhi's main focus in his attacks on corporate interests is to address issues related to inequality and corporate influence on policymaking and governance. His aim is to resonate with voters who are concerned about the growing disparity between the wealthy and the less privileged in Indian society. Therefore, option (d) is the correct answer as it aligns with the portrayal of Rahul Gandhi's intentions in the passage.

a). To undermine the ruling dispensation: While undermining the ruling dispensation may be a potential consequence of Rahul Gandhi's attacks on corporate interests, it is not explicitly mentioned as his main focus in the passage. The passage suggests that his primary focus is on addressing issues of inequality and corporate influence rather than solely targeting the ruling dispensation.

b). To highlight the success of industrialists: The passage does not suggest that Rahul Gandhi's attacks on corporate interests aim to highlight the success of industrialists. Instead, it portrays his attacks as a response to concerns about inequality and corporate influence on policymaking and governance.

c). To gain electoral advantage: While gaining electoral advantage may be a secondary goal of Rahul Gandhi's attacks on corporate interests, the passage emphasizes his broader aim of addressing issues related to inequality and corporate influence. Therefore, while electoral advantage may be a potential outcome, it is not portrayed as his main focus in the passage.

e). To challenge Prime Minister Narendra Modi: While Rahul Gandhi's attacks on corporate interests may indirectly challenge Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the passage does not suggest that this is his primary focus. Instead, his attacks are framed as addressing broader issues of inequality and corporate influence rather than being solely directed at challenging a specific political figure.

The correct answer is (d) To address inequality and corporate influence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) Allegations without evidence can have legal consequences. The passage states that any misstep in levelling allegations could have far-reaching legal consequences, emphasizing the importance of evidence.

Throughout the passage, there is a clear emphasis on the importance of evidence in making allegations.

The passage mentions that any misstep in levelling allegations could have far-reaching legal consequences, indicating that making allegations without evidence can lead to legal repercussions. Additionally, the passage suggests that allegations should be backed by evidence and subjected to dispassionate inquiry before being aired in the public domain, highlighting the necessity of evidence in ensuring the credibility and legitimacy of allegations. Therefore, option (c) is the correct answer as it aligns with the portrayal of the necessity of evidence in making allegations in the passage.

a). Allegations should be made without evidence: This option contradicts the central theme of the passage, which emphasizes the importance of evidence in making allegations. The passage suggests that allegations should be backed by evidence to avoid legal consequences and ensure credibility.

b). Evidence is unnecessary in political rhetoric: While political rhetoric may sometimes involve unsubstantiated claims or allegations, the passage suggests that evidence is indeed necessary to support allegations, particularly when they are aired in the public domain. Therefore, this option is not supported by the passage.

d). Evidence is only required for accusations against political leaders: This option is not supported by the passage, which emphasizes the necessity of evidence in making allegations in general, rather than specifically targeting accusations against political leaders.

e). Allegations without evidence are common in Indian politics: While the passage acknowledges the existence of allegations in Indian politics, it does not suggest that allegations without evidence are common or acceptable. Instead, it emphasizes the importance of evidence in ensuring the credibility and legitimacy of allegations, suggesting that unsubstantiated allegations can have legal consequences. Therefore, this option is not aligned with the portrayal of the necessity of evidence in the passage.

The correct answer is (c) Allegations without evidence can have legal consequences.

7. Questions

Answer: D

In the passage, there is an emphasis on the importance of evidence in making allegations. It mentions that any misstep in levelling allegations could have far-reaching legal consequences, indicating that making allegations without evidence can lead to legal repercussions (option a). Additionally, the passage suggests that allegations should be backed by evidence and subjected to dispassionate inquiry before being aired in the public domain, highlighting the necessity of evidence in ensuring the credibility and legitimacy of allegations (options b and e). It also mentions the broader implications of such allegations on India's democracy and economic landscape, indicating that they can have far-reaching implications (option c).

However, the passage does not mention that allegations made without evidence lead to greater transparency in political discourse. In fact, the emphasis on evidence suggests that baseless allegations could undermine transparency by introducing unsubstantiated claims into the discourse. Therefore, option (d) is the correct answer as it identifies a consequence that is not mentioned in the passage.

The correct answer is (d) Greater transparency in political discourse.

8. Questions

Answer: C

The antonym for " intrigue " is reflected in option c). "Intrigue" typically involves secretive or mysterious situations that evoke curiosity or interest. The opposite, or antonym, of intrigue would involve openness, transparency, or honesty. Option c) describes someone openly sharing their struggles, which fosters empathy and understanding, contrasting with the idea of intrigue. The other options (a, b and d) do not provide an antonym for " intrigue " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

9. Questions

Answer: A

The antonym for " ardent " is reflected in option a). "Ardent" refers to having intense passion, enthusiasm, or fervour for something. The opposite, or antonym, of ardent would involve indifference or lack of passion. Option a) describes someone who remains indifferent to gossip and focuses on their work and personal goals, which contrasts with the idea of being ardent. The other options (b, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " ardent " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

10. Questions

Answer: A

The antonym for " patronage " is reflected in option a). "Patronage" typically refers to the support or sponsorship of an individual, organization, or cause. The opposite, or antonym, of patronage would involve self-sufficiency or independence. Option a) describes someone who does not rely on the support or sponsorship of others, which contrasts with the idea of patronage. The other options (b, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " patronage " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The antonym for " abominable " is reflected in option b). "Abominable" means extremely unpleasant or disgusting. The opposite, or antonym, of abominable would involve something pleasant, harmless, or innocent. Option b) describes a comment that sparked a pleasant conversation, which contrasts with the idea of being abominable. The other options (a, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " abominable " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

12. Questions

Answer: D

The antonym for " primacy " is reflected in option d). "Primacy" refers to the state of being first in importance, order, or rank. The opposite, or antonym, of primacy would involve being of lesser importance or ineffective. Option d) describes outdated technology struggling to handle modern computing tasks, which contrasts with the idea of primacy. The other options (a, b and c) do not provide an antonym for " primacy " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

13. Questions

Answer: E

The paragraph discusses India's trade relationship with China, highlighting its complexity and the overriding influence of economic factors over geopolitics.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces the idea that economic dynamics often outweigh geopolitical considerations in trade relationships. Sentence A follows, providing a specific example of India's trade relationship with China. Sentence C adds depth by discussing the implications of this relationship for India's aspirations and policies. Sentence E highlights the influence of economic imperatives despite the Indian Government's cautious approach. Finally, sentence D concludes by describing the competitive and cooperative aspects of the India-China trade relationship.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – E – D.

The penultimate sentence in a paragraph is the one that appears just before the last sentence and serves as a bridge or transition to the final point. In this sequence, Sentence E, " Despite the Indian Government's rhetoric urging caution in dealings with China, economic imperatives seem to be reshaping the contours of bilateral trade." is the penultimate sentence.

14. Questions

Answer: A

The paragraph discusses India's trade relationship with China, highlighting its complexity and the overriding influence of economic factors over geopolitics.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces the idea that economic dynamics often outweigh geopolitical considerations in trade relationships. Sentence A follows, providing a specific example of India's trade relationship with China. Sentence C adds depth by discussing the implications of this relationship for India's aspirations and policies. Sentence E highlights the influence of economic imperatives despite the Indian Government's cautious approach. Finally, sentence D concludes by describing the competitive and cooperative aspects of the India-China trade relationship.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – E – D.

Sentence A, " India’s growing trade affinity with China is a living example of that: China has become India's largest trading partner in 2023-24. " is the second sentence.

15. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph discusses India's trade relationship with China, highlighting its complexity and the overriding influence of economic factors over geopolitics.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces the idea that economic dynamics often outweigh geopolitical considerations in trade relationships. Sentence A follows, providing a specific example of India's trade relationship with China. Sentence C adds depth by discussing the implications of this relationship for India's aspirations and policies. Sentence E highlights the influence of economic imperatives despite the Indian Government's cautious approach. Finally, sentence D concludes by describing the competitive and cooperative aspects of the India-China trade relationship.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – E – D.

The hindmost statement, also known as the last sentence, is the final statement that concludes the paragraph. The hindmost or last sentence is Sentence D: " Their trade relationship has long been characterised by a mix of competition and cooperation."

16. Questions

Answer: B

The paragraph discusses India's trade relationship with China, highlighting its complexity and the overriding influence of economic factors over geopolitics.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces the idea that economic dynamics often outweigh geopolitical considerations in trade relationships. Sentence A follows, providing a specific example of India's trade relationship with China. Sentence C adds depth by discussing the implications of this relationship for India's aspirations and policies. Sentence E highlights the influence of economic imperatives despite the Indian Government's cautious approach. Finally, sentence D concludes by describing the competitive and cooperative aspects of the India-China trade relationship.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – E – D.

The introductory statement after rearrangement is sentence B: “In the realm of global economics, the dynamics of trade relationships often override geopolitics.”

17. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph discusses India's trade relationship with China, highlighting its complexity and the overriding influence of economic factors over geopolitics.

The passage begins with sentence B, which introduces the idea that economic dynamics often outweigh geopolitical considerations in trade relationships. Sentence A follows, providing a specific example of India's trade relationship with China. Sentence C adds depth by discussing the implications of this relationship for India's aspirations and policies. Sentence E highlights the influence of economic imperatives despite the Indian Government's cautious approach. Finally, sentence D concludes by describing the competitive and cooperative aspects of the India-China trade relationship.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – C – E – D.

The consecutive pair after rearrangement is: C-E.

18. Questions

Answer: A

A). Despite the company's record-breaking profits, - This option introduces a contrast between the two statements, suggesting that despite one fact (record-breaking profits), another fact (layoffs) is true. This effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). Not only did the company - This option introduces the idea of adding something extra to what has already been mentioned. It doesn't accurately reflect the relationship between the two statements.

C). While the employees were being - This option suggests a simultaneous contrast between the two statements, implying that something is happening in one statement while something else is happening in the other. It doesn't accurately reflect the relationship between the given statements.

Given the statements:

The first statement indicates that the company achieved record-breaking profits, while the second statement reveals that despite these profits, several employees were laid off due to budget cuts. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast, highlighting the discrepancy between the company's financial success and its impact on its employees.

Therefore, option A ("Despite the company's record-breaking profits,") accurately captures this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: a) Only A

Option A effectively introduces a contrast between the two statements, accurately reflecting the relationship between the company's record-breaking profits and the layoffs of several employees. It highlights the discrepancy between the company's financial success and its impact on its workforce, making it the most suitable choice.

19. Questions

Answer: A

A). Even though the new product launch far surpassed expectations, - This option introduces a contrast between the two statements, indicating that despite the remarkable success of the new product launch, there are still areas for improvement. It effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). In addition to the remarkable success of the new product launch, - This option suggests adding something extra to what has already been mentioned. It doesn't accurately reflect the contrast between the success of the new product launch and the acknowledgment of areas for improvement.

C). As opposed to the sales projections being exceeded by 200%, - This option seems to suggest a contrast, but it doesn't effectively capture the relationship between the two statements provided.

Given the statements:

The first statement describes the remarkable success of the new product launch, while the second statement reveals that despite this success, there are still areas for improvement acknowledged by the marketing team. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast, highlighting the discrepancy between the sales success and the acknowledgment of improvement areas.

Therefore, option A ("Even though the new product launch far surpassed expectations,") accurately captures this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: a) Only A

Option A effectively introduces a contrast between the remarkable success of the new product launch and the acknowledgment of improvement areas by the marketing team. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements, making it the most suitable choice.

20. Questions

Answer: A

A). Although the team celebrated their victory, - This option introduces a contrast between the two statements, suggesting that despite the celebration of victory, there's another aspect (individual disappointment) mentioned in the second statement. This effectively captures the relationship between the given statements.

B). Not only did the team celebrate their victory, - This option introduces the idea of adding something extra to what has already been mentioned. It doesn't accurately reflect the relationship between the two statements.

C). While the team celebrated their victory, - This option suggests a simultaneous contrast between the two statements, implying that something is happening in one statement while something else is happening in the other. It doesn't accurately reflect the relationship between the given statements.

Given the statements:

The first statement describes the team celebrating their victory, while the second statement reveals that despite the celebration, some team members expressed disappointment over their individual performances. The relationship between the two statements is one of contrast, highlighting the discrepancy between the overall team success and the individual feelings of disappointment.

Therefore, option A ("Although the team celebrated their victory,") accurately captures this contrast between the two statements.

So, the correct answer is: a) Only A

Option A effectively introduces a contrast between the celebration of victory and the individual disappointment expressed by some team members. It accurately reflects the relationship between the given statements, making it the most suitable choice.

sky53up@gmail.com

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the question below, three columns are given. Column 1 and 3 contain different independent sentences (3 in each column) and column 2 contains 3 connectors which may or may not join the given sentences in the other two columns. This connector can be placed anywhere in the sentence. Mark the option which provides the correct sequences of joined sentences as your answer.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The sun rose, birds began their morning chorus.	1). as soon as	D). Filling the air with melodic tunes.
B). The storm caused widespread power outages.	2). consequently	E). They decided to go for a hike in the forest.
C). It was pouring rain.	3). even though	F). Many businesses had to close temporarily.

a. A2F, B3E, and C1D

b. A3F, B2E, and C1D

c. A1D, B2F, and C3E

d. A1D, B3F, and C2E

e. A2E, B1F, and C3D

2. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She forgot her umbrella.	1). Therefore	D). The noisy guests finally left the house.
B). The cat remained hidden under the bed.	2). Until	E). She was well-prepared for the exam when it arrived.
C). She studied diligently every day.	3). Thus	F). She got soaked on the way home from work.

a. A2F, B3E, and C1D

b. A3F, B2E, and C1D

c. A1D, B2F, and C3E

d. A1F, B2D, and C3E

e. A2D, B1F, and C3D

3. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She was determined to find her lost dog, searching tirelessly.	1). Wherever	D). Let's grab some dinner at our favorite restaurant.
B). She preferred sweet desserts.	2). Whereas	E). She thought he might have wandered.
C). The concert begins.	3). Before	F). Her brother always opted for savory snacks.

a. A1F, B3E, and C2D
b. A3F, B2E, and C1D
c. A1D, B2F, and C3E
d. A1E, B2F, and C3D
e. A2D, B1F, and C3D

4. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Studying for his final exams.	1). as well as	D). Indoor pursuits like reading and painting.
B). She excelled in her studies.	2). Moreover	E). She actively participated in various extracurricular activities, showcasing her well-rounded abilities.
C). She enjoys outdoor activities such as hiking and biking.	3). in addition to	F). He also volunteered at the local animal shelter during his free time.

a. A1F, B3E, and C2D
b. A2F, B3E, and C1D
c. A1D, B2F, and C3E
d. A1E, B2F, and C3D
e. A3F, B2E, and C1D

5. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). She revised her essay multiple times.	1). Further	D). He set the table and prepared drinks for their guests.
B). She cooked dinner.	2). While	E). She sought feedback from her peers to ensure its quality before submission.
C). The roads were icy.	3). Because	F). They decided to postpone their trip until the weather improved.

a. A1E, B2D, and C3F

b. A3F, B2E, and C1D

c. A1D, B2F, and C3E

d. A1E, B2F, and C3D

e. A2D, B1F, and C3D

6. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

The liberal immigration policies and multicultural _____ of Canada provided a _____ environment for the Khalistani movement to gain momentum, with several prominent figures finding sanctuary and support within its borders.

a. ethos, conducive

b. atmosphere, enabling

c. ambiance, fostering

d. climate, encouraging

e. culture, promoting

7. Questions

As one of the most populous countries and a fast-growing economy, India's actions on the climate change front are considered critical in preventing a _____ into a _____ temperature threshold.

a. shift, precarious

b. transition, dangerous

c. decline, hazardous

d. plunge, perilous

e. fall, risky

8. Questions

The BJP's aggressive foray into Odisha, buoyed by past electoral gains and _____ by strategic alliances, poses a formidable challenge to the _____ dominance of the BJD.

a. bolstered, entrenched

b. reinforced, secured

c. supported, firm

d. backed, steadfast

e. strengthened, rooted

9. Questions

The absence of any _____ to challenge the BJP has _____ the ardour of the intellectual mobilisation that happens during elections.

a. collaboration, diminished

b. association, curtailed

c. coalition, dampened

d. alliance, quelled

e. partnership, subdued

10. Questions

Environmental crusader Sonam Wangchuk has been demanding constitutional safeguards to protect the _____ environment of Ladakh, having strongly opposed mining leases being given to a few favoured corporate houses as this would _____ the water resources for the whole of North India.

a. pristine, impede

b. robust, diminish

c. fragile, jeopardise

d. pristine, deteriorate

e. robust, compromise

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). He is fond of listening to classical music in his free time.

B). Despite the heavy rain, the outdoor event was not cancelled.

C). She is interested in learn new languages.

a. Only C
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

12. Questions

A). She received a new, shiny, and a red car for her birthday.

B). Despite the long journey, he was satisfied with his comfortable and a spacious seat.

C). The house they bought was a small, cozy, and a quaint cottage in the countryside.

a. Only A
b. Both A and B
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

13. Questions

A). She is interested to studying abroad for her master's degree.

B). Not only the students but also the teachers participated in the science fair.

C). The team is confident on winning the championship this year.

a. Only A
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

14. Questions

A). Not only the cake but also the frosting was delicious and a creamy.

B). Despite the challenges, neither the manager nor the employees were willing to give up.

C). The box of chocolates were a delightful gift for her birthday.

a. Only A

b. Both B and C

c. Both A and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

15. Questions

A). He ran very quick to catch the bus before it departed.

B). The team performed extremely well during the competition, impressing the judges.

C). The dog is a loyal companion to its owner.

a. Only A

b. Both A and B

c. Both A and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

In his attempt to avoid make any obligations, he danced around the topic, skilfully sidestepping direct questions and instead opting for vague responses that left his intentions unclear.

a. to avoid making any commitments

b. avoid to make any imperatives

c. avoid to have made any assurances

d. to avoid made any promises

e. no improvement is required

17. Questions

Provided by the necessary resources and support, the team was able to successfully complete the project ahead of schedule.

a. Provided with the necessary resources

b. Provided for the necessary resources

c. Provided the necessary resources

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. Provided to the necessary resources

e. no improvement is required

18. Questions

The historic summit meeting between the two world leaders taken place in a grand hall adorned with elaborate decorations and attended by a multitude of diplomats and journalists, marking a significant moment in diplomatic relations between the two nations.

a. was taken place in a grand hall

b. was took place in a grand hall

c. did take place in a grand hall

d. took place in a grand hall

e. no improvement is required

19. Questions

After years of dedicated study and practice, she finally achieved her dream of becoming a professional musician; her countless hours of rehearsals, performances, and perseverance have been instrumental in shaping her into the talented artist she is today.

a. perseverance had been instrumental

b. perseverance has instrumental

c. perseverance must be instrumental

d. perseverance should be instrumental

e. no improvement is required

20. Questions

Despite his initial doubts, he eventually realized that with perseverance and dedication, he could able to overcome the challenges and achieve his long-held dream of becoming a successful entrepreneur.

a. he shall be able to overcome

b. he had able to overcome

c. he has able to overcome

d. he would be able to overcome

e. no improvement is required

sky5up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

A1D, B2F, and C3E

“As soon as the sun rose, the birds began their morning chorus, filling the air with melodic tunes.”

“The storm caused widespread power outages; consequently, many businesses had to close temporarily.”

“Even though it was pouring rain, they decided to go for a hike in the forest.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

The birds began their morning chorus. (A1D) The connector "as soon as" implies an immediate action following another. So, the sentence can be connected to "Filling the air with melodic tunes," indicating that the birds began their morning chorus as soon as the action of filling the air with melodic tunes occurred.

The storm caused widespread power outages. (B2F) The connector "consequently" indicates a result. So, the sentence can be connected to "Many businesses had to close temporarily," suggesting that the widespread power outages resulted in many businesses having to close temporarily.

It was pouring rain. (C3E) The connector "even though" suggests a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "They decided to go for a hike in the forest," indicating that despite the pouring rain, they decided to go for a hike in the forest.

So, the correct sequence is A1D, B2F, and C3E.

In summary, option c) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

2. Questions

Answer: D

A1F, B2D, and C3E

“She forgot her umbrella; therefore, she got soaked on the way home from work.”

“The cat remained hidden under the bed until the noisy guests finally left the house.”

“She studied diligently every day; thus, she was well-prepared for the exam when it arrived.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). She forgot her umbrella. (A1F) The connector "therefore" suggests a consequence. So, the sentence can be connected to "She got soaked on the way home from work," indicating that she got soaked because she forgot her umbrella.

B). The cat remained hidden under the bed. (B2D) The connector "until" indicates a duration of time. So, the sentence can be connected to "The noisy guests finally left the house," implying that the cat remained hidden under the bed until the noisy guests finally left the house.

C). She studied diligently every day. (C3E) The connector "thus" suggests a result or conclusion. So, the sentence can be connected to "She was well-prepared for the exam when it arrived," indicating that studying diligently every day resulted in her being well-prepared for the exam when it arrived.

So, the correct sequence is A1F, B2D, and C3E.

In summary, option d) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

3. Questions

Answer: D

“She was determined to find her lost dog, searching tirelessly wherever she thought he might have wandered.”

“She preferred sweet desserts, whereas her brother always opted for savory snacks.”

“Before the concert begins, let's grab some dinner at our favorite restaurant.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). She was determined to find her lost dog, searching tirelessly. (A1E) The connector "wherever" implies searching in any possible location. So, the sentence can be connected to "She thought he might have wandered," indicating her determination to find her lost dog wherever he might be.

B). She preferred sweet desserts. (B2F) The connector "whereas" suggests a comparison or a contrast. So, the sentence can be connected to "Her brother always opted for savory snacks," contrasting her preference for sweet desserts with her brother's preference for savory snacks.

C). The concert begins. (C3D) The connector "before" indicates a time relationship. So, the sentence can be connected to "Let's grab some dinner at our favorite restaurant," suggesting that they should grab dinner before the concert begins.

So, the correct sequence is A1E, B2F, and C3D.

In summary, option d) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

4. Questions

Answer: E

"She enjoys outdoor activities such as hiking and biking, as well as indoor pursuits like reading and painting."

"She excelled in her studies; moreover, she actively participated in various extracurricular activities, showcasing her well-rounded abilities."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"In addition to studying for his final exams, he also volunteered at the local animal shelter during his free time."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). Studying for his final exams. (A3F) The connector "in addition to" suggests adding another related activity. So, the sentence can be connected to "He also volunteered at the local animal shelter during his free time," indicating that studying for exams was in addition to volunteering at the animal shelter.

sky53up@gmail.com

B). She excelled in her studies. (B2E) The connector "moreover" indicates an additional point or emphasis. So, the sentence can be connected to "She actively participated in various extracurricular activities, showcasing her well-rounded abilities," emphasizing her excellence in studies as well as her participation in extracurricular activities.

C). She enjoys outdoor activities such as hiking and biking. (C1D) The connector "as well as" suggests including another similar activity. So, the sentence can be connected to "Indoor pursuits like reading and painting," indicating that she enjoys outdoor activities as well as indoor pursuits.

In summary, option e) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

So, the correct sequence is A3F, B2E, and C1D.

5. Questions

Answer: A

“She revised her essay multiple times; further, she sought feedback from her peers to ensure its quality before submission.”

“While she cooked dinner, he set the table and prepared drinks for their guests.”

“Because the roads were icy, they decided to postpone their trip until the weather improved.”

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A). She revised her essay multiple times. (A1E) The connector "further" suggests continuation or advancement. So, the sentence can be connected to "She sought feedback from her peers to ensure its quality before submission," indicating that she revised her essay multiple times to improve its quality based on the feedback.

B). She cooked dinner. (B2D) The connector "while" suggests simultaneous actions. So, the sentence can be connected to "He set the table and prepared drinks for their guests," indicating that while she cooked dinner, he set the table and prepared drinks for their guests.

C). The roads were icy. (C3F) The connector "because" indicates a reason. So, the sentence can be connected to "They decided to postpone their trip until the weather improved," indicating that the reason for postponing the trip was the icy roads.

Therefore, the correct sequence is A1E, B2D, and C3F.

In summary, option a) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

6. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

Correct Option: a) ethos, conducive

"Ethos" refers to the characteristic spirit or culture of a community, and it fits well in describing Canada's multicultural character.

"Conducive" means favorable or advantageous, and it aptly describes how Canada's ethos helped the Khalistani movement to gain momentum.

b). atmosphere, enabling: While "atmosphere" could describe the environment, "enabling" doesn't convey the same sense of providing favorable conditions as "conducive" does.

c). ambiance, fostering: "Ambiance" refers to the mood or atmosphere of a place, but "fostering" doesn't capture the same sense of creating a conducive environment as "conducive" does.

d). climate, encouraging: "Climate" could describe the general conditions or atmosphere, but "encouraging" doesn't convey the same sense of providing favorable conditions as "conducive" does.

e). culture, promoting: While "culture" could describe the ethos of Canada, "promoting" doesn't convey the same sense of creating a conducive environment as "conducive" does.

In summary, option (a) "ethos, conducive" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that Canada's multicultural ethos provided a favorable environment for the Khalistani movement to gain momentum.

7. Questions

Answer: D

Correct Option: d) plunge, perilous

"Plunge" means a sudden or steep fall or descent, which effectively conveys the idea of crossing into a critical temperature threshold.

"Perilous" means full of danger or risk, and it aptly describes the severity of the temperature threshold.

a). shift, precarious: While "shift" could imply a change, "precarious" doesn't convey the same sense of imminent danger as "perilous" does.

b). transition, dangerous: "Transition" refers to a process of change, but "dangerous" doesn't convey the same sense of imminent danger as "perilous" does.

c). decline, hazardous: "Decline" suggests a decrease or reduction, but "hazardous" doesn't convey the same sense of imminent danger as "perilous" does.

e). fall, risky: "Fall" could imply a decrease or descent, but "risky" doesn't convey the same sense of imminent danger as "perilous" does.

In summary, option (d) "plunge, perilous" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that India's actions are critical in preventing a sudden descent into a dangerously high temperature threshold.

8. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

Correct Option: a) bolstered, entrenched

"Bolstered" means strengthened or supported, which effectively describes how the BJP's foray into Odisha is reinforced by strategic alliances.

"Entrenched" means firmly established and difficult to change, which aptly describes the dominant position of the BJD in Odisha politics.

b). reinforced, secured: "Reinforced" has a similar meaning to "bolstered" but "secured" doesn't convey the same sense of established dominance as "entrenched" does.

c). supported, firm: "Supported" has a similar meaning to "bolstered" but "firm" doesn't convey the same sense of established dominance as "entrenched" does.

d). backed, steadfast: "Backed" has a similar meaning to "bolstered" but "steadfast" doesn't convey the same sense of established dominance as "entrenched" does.

e). strengthened, rooted: "Strengthened" has a similar meaning to "bolstered" but "rooted" doesn't convey the same sense of established dominance as "entrenched" does.

In summary, option (a) "bolstered, entrenched" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the BJP's aggressive entry into Odisha, supported by past gains and strategic alliances, presents a significant challenge to the firmly established dominance of the BJD.

9. Questions

Answer: C

Correct Option: c) coalition, dampened

"Coalition" refers to a temporary alliance for combined action, and it fits well in describing the absence of such alliances in challenging the BJP.

"Dampened" means to make less strong or intense, which aptly describes the effect of the absence of coalitions on the ardour of intellectual mobilisation.

a). collaboration, diminished: "Collaboration" refers to working together, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "coalition" in terms of political alliances.

"Diminished" means to make or become less, but it doesn't convey the same sense of reducing intensity as "dampened" does.

b). association, curtailed: "Association" refers to a connection or relationship, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "coalition" in terms of political alliances.

"Curtailed" means to reduce in extent or quantity, but it doesn't convey the same sense of reducing intensity as "dampened" does.

d). alliance, quelled: "Alliance" has a similar meaning to "coalition," but "quelled" doesn't convey the same sense of reducing intensity as "dampened" does.

e). partnership, subdued: "Partnership" refers to a relationship between two or more parties, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "coalition" in terms of political alliances.

"Subdued" means to bring under control, but it doesn't convey the same sense of reducing intensity as "dampened" does.

In summary, option (c) "coalition, dampened" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the absence of any political coalitions challenging the BJP has reduced the intensity of intellectual mobilisation during elections.

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

Correct Option: c) fragile, jeopardise

"Fragile" means easily broken or damaged, which aptly describes the delicate nature of Ladakh's environment.

"Jeopardise" means to put something at risk or in danger, which effectively conveys the idea that mining leases could endanger the water resources of North India.

a). pristine, impede: "Pristine" means in its original condition; unspoiled, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "fragile" in terms of delicate nature.

"Impede" means to obstruct or hinder, but it doesn't convey the same sense of endangering as "jeopardise" does.

b). robust, diminish: "Robust" means strong and healthy, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "fragile" in terms of delicate nature.

"Diminish" means to make or become less, but it doesn't convey the same sense of endangering as "jeopardise" does.

d). pristine, deteriorate: "Pristine" means in its original condition; unspoiled, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "fragile" in terms of delicate nature.

"Deteriorate" means to become progressively worse, but it doesn't convey the same sense of endangering as "jeopardise" does.

e). robust, compromise: "Robust" means strong and healthy, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "fragile" in terms of delicate nature.

"Compromise" means to settle a dispute by mutual concession, but it doesn't convey the same sense of endangering as "jeopardise" does.

In summary, option (c) "fragile, jeopardise" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that Sonam Wangchuk is advocating for safeguards to protect Ladakh's delicate environment, as mining leases could endanger water resources in North India.

11. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "interested in learn." The correct form is "interested in learning." The preposition "in" is followed by the gerund form of the verb ("learning").

Corrected Sentence C: "She is interested in learning new languages."

12. Questions

Answer: D

skyrun@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). The error in this sentence is "new, shiny, and a red." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "a new, shiny, and red car."

Corrected Sentence A: "She received a new, shiny, and red car for her birthday."

B). The error in this sentence is "comfortable and a spacious." Similar to Sentence A, when using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "a comfortable and spacious seat."

Corrected Sentence B: "Despite the long journey, he was satisfied with his comfortable and spacious seat."

C). The error in this sentence is "a small, cozy, and a quaint." Similar to Sentences A and B, when using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "a small, cozy, and quaint cottage."

Corrected Sentence C: "The house they bought was a small, cozy, and quaint cottage in the countryside."

13. Questions

Answer: C

A). The error in this sentence is "interested to studying." The correct form is "interested in studying." When expressing interest in an activity, "interested in" is the correct preposition to use.

Corrected Sentence A: "She is interested in studying abroad for her master's degree."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "confident on winning." The correct form is "confident of winning." When expressing confidence in achieving something, "confident of" is the correct preposition to use.

Corrected Sentence C: "The team is confident of winning the championship this year."

14. Questions

Answer: C

A). The error in this sentence is "delicious and a creamy." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "delicious and creamy."

Corrected Sentence A: "Not only the cake but also the frosting was delicious and creamy."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). The error in this sentence is "box of chocolates were." The correct form should be "box of chocolates was." The term "box" is a singular noun, and when referring to it as a single entity, a singular verb is used.

Corrected Sentence C: "The box of chocolates was a delightful gift for her birthday."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "very quick." The correct form is "very quickly." The adverb form "quickly" is used to modify the verb "ran."

Corrected Sentence A: "He ran very quickly to catch the bus before it departed."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

16. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) to avoid making any commitments

The phrase "to avoid making any commitments" is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the idea of trying to evade or avoid taking on any obligations.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (b) "avoid to make any imperatives" introduces the term "imperatives," which does not fit the context. "Imperatives" typically refers to commands or orders, not commitments.

Option (c) "avoid to have made any assurances" changes the meaning. "Assurances" typically refers to promises or guarantees, which is different from commitments.

Option (d) "to avoid made any promises" has an incorrect verb form. "Made" should be changed to "making" to maintain proper grammar.

Therefore, option (a) "to avoid making any commitments" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

17. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) Provided with the necessary resources

The phrase "provided with the necessary resources" is the correct and idiomatic way to express that the team was given the resources they needed. The preposition "with" is commonly used in this context to indicate what was provided.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are either less idiomatic or incorrect:

Option (b) "Provided for the necessary resources" uses the preposition "for," which is less commonly used in this context and changes the meaning slightly.

Option (c) "Provided the necessary resources" omits the preposition "with," which is necessary to convey the idea of giving or supplying something.

Option (d) "Provided to the necessary resources" uses the preposition "to," which is not appropriate in this context. It suggests that the resources were given to other resources, which does not make sense.

Therefore, option (a) "Provided with the necessary resources" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

18. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) took place in a grand hall

The phrase "took place" is the correct past tense form of the verb "to take place," indicating that the historic summit meeting occurred in a grand hall. Option (d) provides the correct verb tense and maintains clarity in expressing the intended meaning.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that are grammatically incorrect:

Option (a) "was taken place in a grand hall" is incorrect. The passive voice construction "was taken place" is not appropriate. Instead, "took place" is the correct active voice construction.

Option (b) "was took place in a grand hall" is incorrect. The past tense "was" does not properly combine with the past participle "took." The correct form is "took place."

Option (c) "did take place in a grand hall" is grammatically correct but introduces unnecessary emphasis with "did." The simple past tense "took place" is sufficient.

Therefore, option (d) "took place in a grand hall" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

19. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) no improvement is required

The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. The phrase "perseverance have been instrumental" is clear and idiomatic, indicating that perseverance played a significant role in shaping her into the talented artist she is today.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or disrupt the grammatical structure:

Option (a) "perseverance had been instrumental" changes the tense and may imply that perseverance was instrumental in the past but is no longer relevant.

Option (b) "perseverance has instrumental" lacks the verb "been" and disrupts the grammatical structure.

Option (c) "perseverance must be instrumental" introduces the modal verb "must," which implies necessity or obligation, but the context does not suggest that perseverance is a requirement.

Option (d) "perseverance should be instrumental" introduces the modal verb "should," which implies recommendation or suggestion, but the context does not suggest uncertainty or recommendation regarding the role of perseverance.

Therefore, option (e) "no improvement is required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) he would be able to overcome

The phrase "he would be able to overcome" is the correct choice to express a hypothetical future outcome based on perseverance and dedication. In the context of the sentence, the use of "would" indicates a conditional or speculative statement about the future.

Options (a), (b), and (c) are incorrect because they do not convey the intended meaning or use incorrect verb forms:

Option (a) "he shall be able to overcome" uses "shall" which is less common and more formal than "will." Additionally, "shall" does not fit well in this context.

Option (b) "he had able to overcome" uses the past perfect tense ("had able to overcome") which is not appropriate in this context where a future possibility is being discussed.

Option (c) "he has able to overcome" uses the present perfect tense ("has able to overcome") which is not appropriate in this context where a future possibility is being discussed.

Therefore, option (d) "he would be able to overcome" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

With the rise of financial technology (fintech) companies, traditional banks are facing increasing competition in the digital landscape. Fintech firms leverage innovative technologies to offer a wide range of financial services, from mobile payments to online lending, often with greater convenience and flexibility than traditional banks. To remain competitive, traditional banks must adapt by embracing _____.

a. outdated banking practices and resisting technological advancements

b. partnering with fintech companies to enhance digital offerings

c. reducing investment in digital infrastructure to cut costs

d. limiting access to online banking services for customers

e. increasing fees and charges for traditional banking services

2. Questions

In recent years, the rapid advancement of technology has revolutionized various aspects of society, from communication and transportation to healthcare and entertainment. Innovations such as artificial intelligence, blockchain, and virtual reality are reshaping industries and enhancing human capabilities. However, as technology continues to progress, it is imperative for policymakers and organizations to prioritize _____.

a. limiting access to technology to prevent misuse and abuse

b. ignoring ethical considerations and potential societal impacts

c. fostering collaboration between industry and academia for innovation

d. relying solely on outdated technologies for stability

e. promoting monopolies in the tech industry for streamlined development

3. Questions

In today's global economy, financial markets play a pivotal role in allocating capital and facilitating economic growth. Stock exchanges, bond markets, and currency markets are essential components of the financial system, providing avenues for investors to buy and sell various financial instruments. However, to mitigate risks and ensure stability, it is crucial for regulators and policymakers to implement _____.

a. strict regulations to limit market speculation

b. reducing transparency to minimize market volatility

c. encouraging risky investment behaviors for higher returns

d. promoting ethical conduct and accountability in financial institutions

e. increasing barriers to entry for market participants

4. Questions

In the realm of commerce, e-commerce has emerged as a dominant force, reshaping the way businesses operate and consumers shop. The convenience of online shopping, coupled with secure payment gateways and efficient delivery systems, has led to exponential growth in e-commerce transactions. However, to address the challenges of last-mile delivery and ensure customer satisfaction, it is crucial for businesses to invest in _____.

a. outdated brick-and-mortar stores for a physical presence

b. reducing customer service availability to cut costs

c. implementing complex checkout processes for added security

d. sustainable packaging and eco-friendly delivery options

e. increasing reliance on traditional advertising methods

5. Questions

Retail banking, also known as consumer banking, encompasses a range of financial services provided to individual customers. These services include savings and checking accounts, personal loans, mortgages, and credit cards. With the advancement of technology, retail banking has undergone significant transformations, moving from traditional brick-and-mortar branches to digital platforms. However, to remain competitive in today's market, retail banks must prioritize _____.

a. reducing customer service options to cut costs

b. implementing outdated banking technologies

c. offering personalized and user-friendly digital banking experiences

d. increasing fees and charges for basic banking services

e. relying solely on physical branch networks for customer interactions

6. Questions

In each of the following questions, a highlighted word is given and used in the three statements. You have to identify in which of the following statements the word is incorrectly used, and mark it as your answer.

LACUNA

I). The author's memoir filled in the lacuna of her childhood, providing vivid details previously unknown to readers.

II). The historian noticed a lacuna in the archives, indicating a missing period of time that required further investigation.

III). I enjoyed the movie, but there were a few lacunae in the acting.

sky53un@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

7. Questions

HEGEMONY

I). The teacher-maintained hegemony over her students by being the funniest person in class.

II). The empire's military dominance and economic influence solidified its hegemony over the region, shaping its political landscape for decades.

III). The country's economic hegemony in the region allowed it to exert significant influence over neighboring nations.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

8. Questions

PATRONAGE

I). The local bookstore thrived due to the loyal patronage of its community members.

II). The museum's expansion project was made possible by the generous patronage of several philanthropists.

III). She received a lot of patronage for her rude behavior towards the customer.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

TYRANNY

I). The citizens revolted against the tyranny of the oppressive regime, demanding freedom and democracy.

II). I didn't like the restaurant's new menu; it's a tyranny of flavor combinations!

III). The long lines at the amusement park were a tyranny.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

10. Questions

POIGNANT

I). The detective's solution to the case was quite poignant.

II). The film's poignant ending left the audience in tears, as it beautifully captured the emotions of loss and love.

III). The picnic was a lot of fun, filled with delicious food and raucous games – a truly poignant experience.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

11. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). Banking is an essential financial institution that offers various services	D). monetary transactions, mobilizing savings, and providing credit to individuals and businesses
B). The banking sector plays a crucial role in the economy by facilitating	E). such as deposit-taking, lending, and investment management.
C). The history of banking dates back to ancient civilizations, evolving from	F). simple moneylending practices to complex financial institutions.

a. Only A-E
b. Only B-D
c. Both A-E and B-D
d. Both B-D and C-F
e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

12. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Banks offer a range of products and services, including checking accounts,	D). and providing advisory services to corporations and institutional clients.
B). Banks generate revenue through interest earned on loans, fees for services,	E). savings accounts, loans, mortgages, and investment opportunities.
C). Commercial banks, investment banks, and central banks are the primary types of banks	F). and returns on investments, contributing to the overall profitability of the institution.

a. Only A-E
b. Only B-F
c. Both A-D and C-F
d. Both A-E and B-F
e. All A-D, B-F and C-E

13. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). The banking industry is subject to regulatory oversight to maintain stability,	D). seek financial advice, and access banking services in person.
B). Bank branches provide physical locations where customers can conduct transactions,	E). enabling the creation of credit and liquidity in the economy.
C). The banking industry is constantly evolving in response to changes in technology,	F). providing personalized financial services and investment management.

a. Only A-F
b. Only B-D
c. Both B-F and C-E
d. Both A-D and B-F
e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

14. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Banks act as intermediaries between depositors who have surplus funds	D). to enhance oversight and regulation of the banking industry.
B). Online banking platforms offer convenience and flexibility, allowing customers	E). and borrowers who need capital for various purposes.
C). Retail banking focuses on providing financial services directly to individuals and households,	F). such as checking accounts, loans, and credit cards.

a. Only A-E
b. Only B-D
c. Both A-E and C-F
d. Both B-F and C-D
e. All A-D, B-F and C-E

15. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II
A). Cybersecurity threats pose a significant risk to banks and their customers,	D). often chosen for favorable tax and regulatory environments.
B). Technological innovation, such as blockchain technology and artificial intelligence, is transforming the banking industry,	E). leading to more efficient processes and enhanced customer experiences.
C). Offshore banking involves banking activities conducted in foreign jurisdictions,	F). necessitating robust measures to protect sensitive financial data.

a. Only A-F

b. Only B-E

c. Both A-F and B-E

d. Both B-E and C-D

e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

16. Questions

In each of the questions given below, a sentence/ paragraph is given with few words highlighted. These words may not be placed correctly. Also, one of these words may be inappropriate in context of the sentence/ paragraph. Identify the most appropriate rearrangement of the words and the suitable replacement for the incorrect word.

India's Northeastern region has for long experienced humility (A), internal conflict and unrest and the challenges have often been perceived (B) by its complex history, geographical isolation (C) and exacerbated (D) neglect by the Central Government.

a. ABCD; A-insurgency

b. ADCB; A-insurgency

c. CBAD; A-timidity

d. CDAB; A-rebellion

e. No rearrangement required

17. Questions

The Election Commission of India (ECI) has been making (A) significant efforts to increase voter turnout. These measures include repelling (B) celebrities from various fields in campaigns, organising (C) mass campaigns in public places such as colleges, universities, and workplaces, and implementing (D) the SVEEP (Systematic Voter Education and Electoral Participation) at the district level to raise awareness

skyfin@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

about the importance of voting.

a. ABCD; B- engaging
b. ACDB; A-contriving
c. CBAD; B- engaging
d. ACBD; A-contriving
e. No rearrangement required

18. Questions

Enacted in 2002, PMLA prioritised combating money laundering, which posed a serious threat to India's financial institutions and stimulated (A) resources from the nation. The fundamental intention of the legislature was to facilitated (B) the nation's finances and halt money laundering activities safeguard (C) by criminal organisations involved in crimes such as drug trafficking, prostitution, and other activities integrated (D) into the economy.

a. ABCD; A-drained
b. ACBD; A-drained
c. CABD; A- exhausted
d. CABD; A-protected
e. No rearrangement required

19. Questions

With the year 2030 just half a decade away, many nations are intensifying (A) their efforts (B) to meet the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) outlined in the 2015 Paris Agreement. However, amid recovery from pandemic-induced inequalities, (C) poverty, and economic slowdowns, several countries in the Global South, including India, are grappling with balancing carbon emissions reduction and meeting escalating (D) energy demands.

a. ABCD; A-aggravating
b. DBCA; A- burgeoning
c. ACBD; A-aggravating
d. DCBA; A- burgeoning
e. No rearrangement required

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

An obstacle asserting (A) the state government from hindering (B) control over groundwater resources is the Easements Act, 1882, which grants (C) landowners an unencumbered right over the use of their land. Additionally, the law proscribes (D) that landowners possess a prescriptive right to pollute air or water above and under their land, absolving them of liability for over-extraction of water resources.

a. ABCD; A- confining

b. ABDC; D- allocates

c. BADC; A- attesting

d. BACD; D- stipulates

e. No rearrangement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) partnering with fintech companies to enhance digital offerings. This option aligns with the paragraph's theme of traditional banks adapting to the digital landscape by leveraging partnerships with fintech companies. Collaborating with fintech firms allows traditional banks to tap into innovative technologies and offer enhanced digital services to their customers. This approach enables banks to remain competitive and meet the evolving expectations of consumers in a digital age. The other options involve strategies that are either counterproductive or inefficient in adapting to the digital landscape, such as resisting technological advancements (a), reducing investment in digital infrastructure (c), limiting customer access to online banking services (d), or increasing fees for traditional services (e).

2. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) fostering collaboration between industry and academia for innovation. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the importance of collaboration and innovation in the context of advancing technology. Fostering collaboration between industry and academia allows for the exchange of ideas, resources, and expertise, leading to the development of cutting-edge technologies and solutions. It promotes a synergistic approach to innovation, where research findings from academia can be translated into practical applications by industry, driving technological advancement. This collaborative effort helps ensure that technology evolves in a responsible and beneficial manner for society.

The other options either involve detrimental actions, such as limiting access to technology (a) or promoting monopolies (e), or neglect important considerations, such as ethical implications (b) or the need for innovation (d).

3. Questions

Answer: D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: d) promoting ethical conduct and accountability in financial institutions. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on maintaining stability and mitigating risks in financial markets. Promoting ethical conduct and accountability in financial institutions is crucial for fostering trust among investors, ensuring market integrity, and preventing misconduct that could destabilize the financial system. Ethical behavior and accountability contribute to transparency and investor confidence, which are essential for the efficient functioning of financial markets. The other options either involve counterproductive measures, such as reducing transparency (b) or encouraging risky behaviors (c), or implementing restrictive measures that could stifle market participation (a and e).

4. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) sustainable packaging and eco-friendly delivery options. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on addressing the challenges of last-mile delivery and ensuring customer satisfaction in the context of e-commerce. Sustainable packaging and eco-friendly delivery options contribute to reducing the environmental impact of e-commerce operations, such as carbon emissions and waste generation. As consumers become more environmentally conscious, investing in sustainable practices not only helps meet their expectations but also demonstrates corporate social responsibility. The other options either involve outdated or counterproductive practices, such as relying on traditional advertising methods (e) or reducing customer service availability (b), which could compromise customer satisfaction and loyalty.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) offering personalized and user-friendly digital banking experiences. This option aligns with the evolving landscape of retail banking, emphasizing the importance of providing customer-centric digital banking experiences. With the advancement of technology, consumers increasingly prefer convenient and personalized banking solutions accessible through digital channels. By offering user-friendly digital platforms tailored to individual needs, retail banks can enhance customer satisfaction, attract new clients, and retain existing ones. This approach allows retail banks to remain competitive in today's market by meeting the evolving demands and preferences of customers.

The other options represent strategies that are either outdated, cost-cutting measures, or potentially detrimental to customer satisfaction and retention. For example, reducing customer service options (a) or increasing fees and charges (d) may lead to dissatisfaction among customers. Implementing outdated banking technologies (b) would not align with the trend towards digitalization in retail banking, and relying solely on physical branches (e) would limit accessibility and convenience for customers.

6. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "lacuna" is correctly used to describe a gap or missing part, indicating that the memoir filled in the missing details of the author's childhood.

II). In this sentence, "lacuna" is correctly used to describe a gap or missing section in the archives, suggesting that there is information missing for a particular period that needs to be explored further.

III). In this sentence, "lacuna" is used incorrectly. Lacuna refers to a significant gap, omission, or missing part in something, often knowledge or understanding. While an actor's performance might be weak or unconvincing, "lacunae" suggests a more critical absence, like a plot point being completely missing or a character's motivation being entirely unclear. Lacunae are typically used for larger issues that leave the audience confused or unable to follow the story. For describing issues with acting itself, words like "uneven," "unconvincing," or "wooden" might be more appropriate choices.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, Sentences I and II use lacuna in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option c) Only III is the correct choice.

7. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "Hegemony" is used incorrectly. Hegemony refers to a more extensive and complex form of dominance than just being funny in class. It's about a state, group, or class exerting political, economic, or cultural influence over others. This influence can be subtle and widespread, shaping norms and ideas. While a teacher has authority over students, being the funniest person wouldn't establish this kind of broad and influential dominance. It might create a more lighthearted atmosphere, but it wouldn't necessarily translate into control over the students' beliefs or actions outside of the classroom. For hegemony to be used correctly, the dominance would need to be more substantial and long-lasting.

II). In this sentence, "hegemony" is correctly used to denote the empire's leadership or dominance over the region, both politically and economically.

III). In this sentence, "hegemony" is correctly used to describe the dominant influence or control exerted by one country over others in a specific region.

So, Sentences II and III use hegemony in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option a) Only I is the correct choice.

8. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "patronage" is correctly used to describe the support or regular custom provided by the community members to the local bookstore.

II). In this sentence, "patronage" is correctly used to describe the financial support provided by philanthropists, enabling the museum's expansion project.

III). In this sentence, "Patronage" is used incorrectly. Patronage refers to support, custom, or business given to a store, service, or person. It implies a positive interaction where someone benefits from the customer's choice. In the sentence, the woman's behavior is rude, which wouldn't typically lead to positive support or custom. Therefore, "patronage" doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

So, Sentences I and II use patronage in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option c) Only III is the correct choice.

9. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "tyranny" is correctly used to describe the oppressive and unjust exercise of power by the regime.

II). In this sentence, "tyranny" is used incorrectly. Tyranny refers to cruel, oppressive rule or control. It implies a situation where someone's rights or freedoms are severely restricted. Disliking a menu's flavor combinations doesn't equate to oppression or restriction of rights. It's a matter of personal preference.

III). In this sentence, "tyranny" is used incorrectly. Tyranny refers to a system of harsh, oppressive government or control. It implies a situation where someone's rights or freedoms are severely restricted. Long lines, while annoying, are simply an inconvenience. Long lines, while frustrating, are not a form of oppressive rule. They're an inconvenience, not a violation of rights or freedoms. They don't restrict your rights or freedoms in any significant way. You're still free to wait in line or choose not to go to the amusement park. Even though long lines can be frustrating, "tyranny" is a very strong word that describes a much more serious situation.

So, Sentence I uses tyranny in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option e) Both II and III is the correct choice.

10. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "poignant" is used incorrectly. Poignant refers to something that evokes a deep emotional response, often sadness, longing, or sorrow. It can also describe something that is deeply touching or meaningful, but the emotional weight leans towards the melancholic side. While a detective's solution might be clever or surprising, it wouldn't necessarily evoke strong emotions like sadness or longing. It could be a moment of triumph or relief, which wouldn't be well-described by poignant.

II). In this sentence, "poignant" is correctly used to describe the ending of the film as deeply moving and emotionally touching.

III). In this sentence, "poignant" is used incorrectly. Poignant refers to something that evokes a deep sense of sadness, or a bittersweet feeling that mixes sadness with something else, like nostalgia. A fun picnic with delicious food and games wouldn't typically be described as poignant. It sounds like a positive and light-hearted experience.

So, Sentence II uses poignant in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option e) Both I and III is the correct choice.

11. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: "Banking is an essential financial institution that offers various services, such as deposit-taking, lending, and investment management." This sentence underscores the essential role of banking in providing a diverse array of financial services crucial for individuals and businesses, including managing deposits, extending loans, and handling investments.

When combining these two statements B-D: "The banking sector plays a crucial role in the economy by facilitating monetary transactions, mobilizing savings, and providing credit to individuals and businesses." This sentence emphasizes the vital contribution of the banking sector to the economy by enabling essential financial activities such as transactions, savings accumulation, and access to credit, which are essential for economic growth and development.

When combining these two statements C-F: "The history of banking dates back to ancient civilizations, evolving from simple moneylending practices to complex financial institutions." This sentence highlights the historical progression of banking, illustrating how it has evolved from its early origins to become the complex and integral financial system that we know today.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

12. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these two statements A-E: "Banks offer a range of products and services, including checking accounts, savings accounts, loans, mortgages, and investment opportunities." This sentence highlights the comprehensive offerings of banks, covering various financial products and services that cater to the diverse needs of customers.

When combining these two statements B-F: "Banks generate revenue through interest earned on loans, fees for services, and returns on investments, contributing to the overall profitability of the institution." This sentence underscores the various sources of revenue for banks, highlighting their role in generating profits and ensuring financial sustainability.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

13. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these two statements B-D: "Bank branches provide physical locations where customers can conduct transactions, seek financial advice, and access banking services in person." This sentence emphasizes the multifunctional aspect of bank branches, highlighting their role as convenient hubs for various banking needs, from basic transactions to personalized financial guidance.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

14. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements A-E: "Banks act as intermediaries between depositors who have surplus funds and borrowers who need capital for various purposes." This sentence succinctly captures the essential role of banks in connecting those with surplus funds to those in need of capital, underscoring their function as financial intermediaries in the economy.

When combining these two statements C-F: "Retail banking focuses on providing financial services directly to individuals and households, such as checking accounts, loans, and credit cards." This sentence highlights the core function of retail banking and provides examples of the financial services typically offered to individual customers and households.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

15. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-F: "Cybersecurity threats pose a significant risk to banks and their customers, necessitating robust measures to protect sensitive financial data." This sentence underscores the importance of implementing effective cybersecurity measures in the banking sector to mitigate risks and protect the integrity of financial data.

When combining these two statements B-E: "Technological innovation, such as blockchain technology and artificial intelligence, is transforming the banking industry, leading to more efficient processes and enhanced customer experiences." This sentence underscores the transformative role of technology in banking, showcasing its potential to revolutionize operations and improve services for customers.

When combining these two statements C-D: "Offshore banking involves banking activities conducted in foreign jurisdictions, often chosen for favorable tax and regulatory environments." This sentence succinctly explains the concept of offshore banking and highlights one of its key benefits, demonstrating why individuals or entities might pursue such banking arrangements.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

16. Questions

Answer: B

"Insurgency" refers to armed rebellion or revolt against authority, particularly against the government or ruling power. It denotes a state of conflict characterized by armed opposition to established governance. "Humility," on the other hand, refers to the quality of being humble or modest. It is unrelated to armed rebellion or conflict against authority. Using "humility" in place of "insurgency" would not accurately convey the intended meaning and would change the sense of the sentence entirely.

The Correct sentence will be: "India's Northeastern region has for long experienced insurgency, internal conflict and unrest and the challenges have often been exacerbated by its complex history, geographical isolation and perceived neglect by the Central Government."

17. Questions

Answer: A

"Engaging" means involving or attracting the active participation or interest of individuals. It suggests that the Election Commission of India (ECI) is actively involving celebrities and organizing campaigns to attract people's interest and encourage voter turnout. "Repelling," on the other hand, means causing someone to feel intense dislike or aversion towards something. Using "repelling" in place of "engaging" would imply that the Election Commission's efforts are causing people to feel a strong dislike or aversion, which contradicts the intended meaning of actively involving or attracting people's interest. Therefore, "repelling" would not accurately convey the idea of the Election Commission's efforts to increase voter turnout through active involvement and attraction.

The Correct sentence will be: "The Election Commission of India (ECI) has been making significant efforts to increase voter turnout. These measures include engaging celebrities from various fields in campaigns, organising mass campaigns in public places such as colleges, universities, and workplaces, and implementing the SVEEP (Systematic Voter Education and Electoral Participation) at the district level to raise awareness about the importance of voting."

18. Questions

Answer: B

"Drained" implies a reduction or depletion of resources, often to the detriment of the entity from which they are taken. It suggests a negative impact on India's financial institutions and the nation's resources. "Stimulated," on the other hand, means to encourage or promote activity or growth. Using "stimulated" in place of "drained" would convey the opposite meaning. It would imply that money laundering activities somehow encouraged or promoted growth or activity within India's financial institutions or economy, which is not the intended meaning in this context. So, when the sentence mentions that money laundering "drained resources from the nation," it implies that money laundering activities were gradually siphoning off financial resources from India, which could have otherwise been used for legitimate purposes or investment in the country's development.

The Correct sentence will be: Enacted in 2002, PMLA prioritised combating money laundering, which posed a serious threat to India's financial institutions and drained resources from the nation. The fundamental intention of the legislature was to safeguard the nation's finances and halt money laundering activities facilitated by criminal organisations involved in crimes such as drug trafficking, prostitution, and other activities integrated into the economy.

19. Questions

Answer: E

The sentence is correct, hence no rearrangement required.

The Correct sentence will be: "With the year 2030 just half a decade away, many nations are intensifying their efforts to meet the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) outlined in the 2015 Paris Agreement. However, amid recovery from pandemic-induced inequalities, poverty, and economic slowdowns, several countries in the Global South, including India, are grappling with balancing carbon emissions reduction and meeting escalating energy demands."

20. Questions

Answer: D

"Stipulates" means to demand or specify something as a requirement or condition. In the given context, it refers to the Easements Act, 1882, which specifies or lays down the conditions under which landowners possess certain rights over their land and its resources. It suggests that the law specifies or establishes certain rights or conditions regarding the use of land and its resources. "Proscribes," on the other hand, means to forbid or prohibit something by law. Using "proscribes" in place of "stipulates" would convey the opposite meaning. It would imply that the law prohibits landowners from having certain rights or actions related to their land, which is not the intended meaning in this context. So, when it says that the law "stipulates that landowners possess a prescriptive right to pollute air or water above and under their land," it means that the law specifies or establishes the condition that landowners have the right to pollute the air or water above and below their land, and they are absolved of liability for over-extraction of water resources. The term "stipulates" emphasizes the requirement or condition set forth by the law regarding the rights of landowners in relation to the use and management of groundwater resources.

The Correct sentence will be: An obstacle hindering the state government from asserting control over groundwater resources is the Easements Act, 1882, which grants landowners an unencumbered right over the use of their land. Additionally, the law stipulates that landowners possess a prescriptive right to pollute air or water above and under their land, absolving them of liability for over-extraction of water resources.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

These times of an escalating environmental crisis are supposed to be times of increasing peace and international cooperation as without this it is impossible to resolve the life-threatening environmental problems. Most discussion has been concentrated on climate change but in addition there are several other serious and interrelated environmental problems which together constitute an existential crisis. These require all the creativity and attention of humanity but shockingly, the leadership of humanity is much more engaged with considerations of who will dominate the world instead of getting together to protect the endangered world. The quest for dominance among big powers and somewhat lesser powers in turn leads to an escalation of the arms race, also involving weapons of mass destruction or WMDs, which further adds to the existential crisis. In fact, WMDs now constitute the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity as well as other forms of life. If about 10 per cent (about 1250) of the existing stock of nuclear weapons (about 12500) are used, this will be enough to destroy almost all life on earth. The fast increasing, largely unregulated use of AI and robotics in arms development is only making the problems worse, while the confirmed recent moves towards militarization of space herald an era of entirely new risks as well. Meanwhile, largely unaware of such increasing risks for them and perhaps even more so for their children, an overwhelming majority of people go about their daily tasks. However, even here they face increasing problems. While many countries claim to have reduced their poverty levels in significant ways and increased their GNP in even more impressive ways, this is not reflected in the increasing problems people continue to face in meeting their basic needs. Even the most well-endowed country with many extraordinary beneficial situations – the USA – is seeing strange conditions in which the bottom 30 to 40 per cent of the population faces problems in meeting at least one of the basic needs (health care, housing, basic utilities etc.), as revealed in surveys. This remains true both before and after the pandemic. Other highly developed countries like Britain, Germany and Canada too are facing difficult conditions. At the other extreme in countries like Sudan, South Sudan, Somalia, Ethiopia, Yemen, Myanmar, Haiti, Ukraine and Afghanistan there are much more extreme forms of denial of basic needs due largely to man-made causes of injustice and strife (in Gaza of course the hunger and denial of basic needs is entirely man-made). My own interviews with peasants and workers in many remote villages as well in urban slums reveal a persistence and, in some contexts, accentuation of many difficulties in meeting basic needs in satisfactory ways. Some of the worst situations of denial of basic needs as well as extreme insecurity faced by people, particularly women and children, exist in countries or regions where there is civil strife and this in turn is often linked to inter-faith differences and disputes. It was hoped that in the 21st century humanity would be sufficiently advanced so as to respect all religions or at least not to fight on the basis of religious divides. Unfortunately, such hopes have not been fulfilled as there are increasing cases of inter-faith disharmony and instigation of such disputes and differences for getting narrow gains. It was over 130 years ago that Swami Vivekananda had given the call for religious harmony and unity at the World Parliament of Religions in Chicago and the organizers of this great event had made a memorable contribution on the path of inter-faith understanding and harmony. But still we have so much of entirely avoidable misunderstanding and strife based on these grounds in everyday life and this later becomes the cause of much bigger and bitter forms of violence too. Similarly, entirely avoidable ethnic, racial and caste violence continues unfortunately to be a part of the 21st century world. Where is the way out of these many-sided problems? This can be found by our troubled world by going back to the basics of peace and justice. As any unbiased understanding of world history would clearly reveal, human distress increased whenever the basic precepts of justice and equality, peace and social harmony (including inter-faith harmony) were violated and human distress deceased whenever these basic precepts were followed. Based on this understanding, commitment to peace and harmony, justice and equality should get much higher, almost universal, acceptance, although of course these precepts can be implemented in various countries and regions in terms of the specific conditions prevailing there. For this the confusions and uncertainties created by many dubious efforts to justify the pursuit of other goals such as dominance, get ahead of others at all costs mentality, seizing control of as many resources as possible for self-gain, should be avoided. Various kinds of fundamentalist thinking, whether relating to religions or ideologies, should be discouraged so that rational pursuit of a path based on peace and justice, based on local conditions, is possible. In addition, there should be increasing cooperation for tasks of environment protection. With more and more people committed to this and contributing to this in daily life, world-level efforts to check life threatening environmental problems, led by but not confined to climate change, will have much higher chances of success. Again, with people having much increased commitment to peace, it can become easier to reach agreement on elimination of weapons of mass destruction as well as to minimize the possibilities of war. With more equal distribution of resources, with highly destructive expenditure on wars and weapons minimized and with environment protection providing better conditions for sustainable livelihoods as well as for reducing disasters, people will be able to meet their needs, and small comforts as well, in better and more assured ways. Hence with worldwide higher commitment to peace, harmony, equality, justice and environment protection, win-win solutions are still possible despite all the difficulties and uncertainties of present times.

According to the passage, what is a common challenge faced by a significant portion of the population in the USA?

a. Lack of access to education

b. Limited employment opportunities

c. Inability to afford basic needs

d. Discrimination based on race

e. Insufficient healthcare facilities

2. Questions

What is mentioned as a consequence of the increasing militarization of space?

a. A decrease in interfaith conflicts

b. New opportunities for economic growth

c. Escalation of the arms race

d. Enhanced global cooperation

e. Reduction in existential threats

3. Questions

What does the author suggest as the solution to the current global issues?

a. Prioritizing economic growth over environmental protection

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. Promoting religious and ethnic divisions
c. Increasing militarization for self-defense
d. Committing to peace, justice, and environmental protection
e. Encouraging dominance struggles among nations

4. Questions

What is the author's view on the current focus of global leadership?

a. They prioritize environmental protection over dominance struggles
b. They are primarily concerned with resolving interfaith conflicts
c. They are too preoccupied with dominance struggles rather than protecting the environment
d. They prioritize economic growth over environmental conservation
e. They are effectively addressing poverty and inequality

5. Questions

What does the author propose as a means to achieve worldwide higher commitment to peace and justice?

a. Encouraging fundamentalist thinking
b. Justifying dominance-based pursuits
c. Discouraging cooperation for environment protection
d. Minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons
e. Ignoring local conditions in policymaking

6. Questions

According to the passage, what is considered as the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity?

a. Climate change
b. Overpopulation
c. Weapons of mass destruction (WMDs)
d. Poverty
e. Environmental degradation

7. Questions

According to the passage, what historical trend correlates with human distress?

a. Increasing adherence to fundamentalist thinking

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. Violation of basic precepts of justice and equality

c. Decrease in environmental degradation

d. Rising dominance of certain ideologies

e. Encouragement of interfaith harmony

8. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into five parts out of which only one part of the sentence is correct. You have to mark that part of the sentence as the answer.

Soon after the US pointed the finger to India (A)/ for allegedly incidents of human rights violations, (B)/ particularly at Manipur, (C)/ India has vehemently criticised (D)/ the State Department report (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

9. Questions

The scapegoating of Sri Lankan Tamils have (A)/ broadly followed similar pattern as in India, (B)/ even if the axis of persecution (C)/ take place more on ethnic/linguistic (D)/ rather than religious line (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

10. Questions

The Supreme Court of India rejection of the demand (A)/ for 100% verification of the paper trail leave by the votes (B)/ cast through electronic voting machines come as no surprise, (C)/ as there is no hard evidence that the current (D)/ verification system suffer from any irremediable lacuna (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

The median age of the population are (A)/ approaching the point when demanding (B)/ for new housing peaks, (C)/ and the property market seems sets (D)/ to a sustained boom (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

12. Questions

By deal with the latest round of complaints of alleged hate speeches (A)/ made by politicians during recent election campaign and rallies, (B)/ EC has reassuring all of us that it is a fair referee (C)/ that's not intimidate by the position or post of the (D)/ alleged violators of the model code of conduct (E).

a. A
b. B
c. C
d. D
e. E

13. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

After multiple failed attempts to repair the ancient car, the mechanic finally decided to written off the vehicle as beyond salvageable, marking it as irreparable and unfit for further use.

a. write off the vehicle as beyond salvageable
b. write down the vehicle as outside reparable
c. write out the vehicle as over fixable
d. write up the vehicle as without restorable
e. No improvement required

14. Questions

As the taxi driver cruised along the bustling city streets, the weary traveller waved off heavily, hoping to catch a ride to their destination before the rain started pouring down.

skyflup@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

a. waved on hugely

b. waved down desperately

c. waved aside extremely

d. waved off hopelessly

e. No improvement required

15. Questions

After enjoying a delicious dinner with friends at the cozy restaurant, it was time to settle down the bill, with each person contributing their share to cover the cost of the meal and drinks.

a. settle for the bill

b. settle up the bill

c. settle on the bill

d. settle in the bill

e. No improvement required

16. Questions

Realizing he had forgotten his keys, he casually rushed in the house, narrowly avoiding being caught in the sudden downpour outside.

a. he hastily rushed into the house

b. he quickly rushed away the house

c. he rapidly rushed off the house

d. he suddenly rushed out the house

e. No improvement required

17. Questions

The team's excitement for the outdoor event was put off by the sudden onset of heavy rain, forcing them to postpone their plans until the weather improved.

a. event was put up

b. event was put in

c. event was put out

d. event was put down

e. No improvement required

18. Questions

skyb3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). As artists who come from social privilege and practise art forms that cater to that same section of society, we waltz through life just doing our thing.

B). In cultural policy research, issues related to inequality have been gaining a foothold, especially as they relate to questions such as participation, accessibility and sexual harassment.

C). Of course, they put in a lot of hard work and make umpteen sacrifices, and many overcome economic challenges.

D). Such hurdles are surmounted because of the inherent social network that race, (P)/ but if talent is so obvious that it is difficult to ignore, more often than not, (Q)/ caste, gender and colour provide and the fact that the art form is performed, (R)/ patronised and appreciated largely by the social elite (S).

E). Once the economic threshold is crossed, there is little to be done.

F). Upskilling is not rocket science and merely adds layers of additional ability and information that help in keeping their art 'interesting'.

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. F

19. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (F) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. Upskilling is not rocket science

b. and merely adds layers of additional ability

c. and an information that help

d. in keeping their art 'interesting'

e. No correction required

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

Find the suitable Antonym of the word highlighted in bold.

a. profuse

b. copious

c. heaps

d. meagre

e. None of the above

21. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of sentence (D) that is divided into four parts.

a. PQSR

b. QRPS

c. QPRS

d. RPQS

e. No rearrangement required

22. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCDE

b. ADCFE

c. ACDEF

d. AFDCB

e. ADBCE

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The passage mentions that the bottom 30 to 40 per cent of the population in the USA faces problems meeting basic needs such as healthcare and housing.

According to the passage, the common challenge faced by a significant portion of the population in the USA is: c) Inability to afford basic needs

The passage mentions that even in a well-endowed country like the USA, a substantial portion of the population, specifically the bottom 30 to 40 percent, faces difficulties meeting at least one of their basic needs. These basic needs include healthcare, housing, basic utilities, etc. Surveys have revealed this trend, indicating that despite claims of economic growth and poverty reduction, a considerable segment of the population struggles to afford essential necessities. Therefore, option c) "Inability to afford basic needs" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). Lack of access to education: While education may be a challenge for some segments of the population

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

in the USA, the passage specifically highlights the difficulty in meeting basic needs rather than access to education.

b). Limited employment opportunities: While limited employment opportunities may be a concern in certain areas, the passage does not directly address this as a common challenge faced by the population in the USA.

d). Discrimination based on race: Discrimination based on race is a significant issue in the USA, but the passage focuses on economic challenges related to meeting basic needs rather than discrimination.

e). Insufficient healthcare facilities: While healthcare access and quality may be issues in some areas, the passage primarily discusses broader economic challenges related to meeting basic needs, rather than specifically focusing on healthcare facilities.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The passage suggests that the militarization of space introduces new risks, adding to the existing existential crisis.

According to the passage, the consequence of the increasing militarization of space is: c) Escalation of the arms race

The passage indicates that the confirmed recent moves towards the militarization of space herald an era of entirely new risks. It suggests that the militarization of space introduces new risks, which contribute to the existing existential crisis. Additionally, it mentions that the quest for dominance among big powers and lesser powers leads to an escalation of the arms race, further adding to the existential crisis. Therefore, option c) "Escalation of the arms race" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). A decrease in interfaith conflicts: The passage does not mention any direct correlation between the militarization of space and a decrease in interfaith conflicts. Instead, it focuses on the new risks associated with militarization.

b). New opportunities for economic growth: The passage does not suggest that the militarization of space creates new opportunities for economic growth. Instead, it highlights the risks and consequences associated with this trend.

d). Enhanced global cooperation: The passage does not indicate that the militarization of space leads to enhanced global cooperation. Instead, it emphasizes the potential for new risks and escalation of the arms race.

e). Reduction in existential threats: The passage suggests that the militarization of space adds to the existing existential crisis rather than reducing existential threats. Therefore, this option is not supported by the passage.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The author advocates for a commitment to peace, justice, and environmental protection as a solution to global issues.

According to the passage, the solution to the current global issues is: d) Committing to peace, justice, and environmental protection

The passage emphasizes the importance of going back to the basics of peace and justice as a solution to the current global issues. It suggests that commitment to peace, justice, equality, and environmental protection should receive almost universal acceptance. The author advocates for avoiding pursuits such as dominance, self-gain, and militarization, and instead encourages cooperation for environmental protection and a rational pursuit of a path based on peace and justice. Therefore, option d) "Committing to peace, justice, and environmental protection" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). Prioritizing economic growth over environmental protection: The passage does not support prioritizing economic growth over environmental protection. Instead, it suggests a commitment to both peace and justice, as well as environmental protection.

b). Promoting religious and ethnic divisions: The passage explicitly states that religious and ethnic divisions contribute to global strife and violence. Therefore, promoting such divisions would contradict the author's proposed solution.

c). Increasing militarization for self-defense: The passage does not advocate for increasing militarization but rather discourages it. The author suggests minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons as part of the solution to global issues.

e). Encouraging dominance struggles among nations: The passage criticizes dominance struggles among nations and advocates for avoiding pursuits of dominance. Therefore, encouraging dominance struggles would not align with the proposed solution.

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

4. Questions

Answer: C

The author criticizes global leadership for being more engaged in dominance struggles instead of collaborating to protect the environment.

According to the passage, the author's view on the current focus of global leadership is: c) They are too preoccupied with dominance struggles rather than protecting the environment.

The passage criticizes global leadership for being more engaged in dominance struggles instead of collaborating to protect the environment. It suggests that amidst escalating environmental crises, global leadership is primarily focused on considerations of who will dominate the world rather than coming together to address life-threatening environmental problems. This indicates that the author perceives global leadership as overly preoccupied with dominance struggles rather than prioritizing environmental protection. Therefore, option c) "They are too preoccupied with dominance struggles rather than protecting the environment" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). They prioritize environmental protection over dominance struggles: The passage suggests the opposite; global leadership is criticized for prioritizing dominance struggles over environmental protection.

b). They are primarily concerned with resolving interfaith conflicts: While the passage mentions interfaith conflicts as an issue, it does not suggest that global leadership is primarily concerned with resolving them.

d). They prioritize economic growth over environmental conservation: While economic growth is mentioned in the passage, it is not explicitly stated that global leadership prioritizes it over environmental conservation.

e). They are effectively addressing poverty and inequality: The passage highlights persistent challenges related to poverty and inequality, suggesting that global leadership may not be effectively addressing these issues. Therefore, this option is not supported by the passage.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

5. Questions

Answer: D

The author suggests minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons as a means to achieve worldwide higher commitment to peace and justice.

According to the passage, the author proposes the following means to achieve worldwide higher commitment to peace and justice: d) Minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons

The passage suggests that achieving worldwide higher commitment to peace and justice involves minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons. It advocates for avoiding the pursuit of dominance and discouraging various kinds of fundamentalist thinking, including those related to religions or ideologies. By minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons, resources can be redirected towards promoting peace, justice, and environmental protection. Therefore, option d) "Minimizing expenditure on wars and weapons" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). Encouraging fundamentalist thinking: The passage explicitly states that various kinds of fundamentalist thinking should be discouraged, not encouraged, as part of achieving higher commitment to peace and justice.

b). Justifying dominance-based pursuits: The passage criticizes pursuits of dominance and suggests avoiding them as part of the solution to global issues. Therefore, justifying dominance-based pursuits would contradict the author's proposal.

c). Discouraging cooperation for environment protection: The passage advocates for increasing cooperation for environment protection, not discouraging it. Therefore, this option does not align with the author's proposal.

e). Ignoring local conditions in policymaking: The passage emphasizes the importance of implementing precepts of peace and justice based on local conditions, rather than ignoring them. Therefore, this option is not consistent with the author's proposal.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

6. Questions

Answer: C

The passage explicitly states that WMDs constitute the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity.

According to the passage, the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity is: c) Weapons of mass destruction (WMDs)

The passage explicitly states that weapons of mass destruction (WMDs) constitute the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity. It mentions that if about 10 percent of the existing stock of nuclear weapons are used, it would be enough to destroy almost all life on earth. This highlights the severe threat posed by WMDs to humanity and other forms of life. Therefore, option c) "Weapons of mass destruction (WMDs)" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). Climate change: While climate change is discussed in the passage as a significant environmental problem, it is not explicitly described as the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity.

b). Overpopulation: Overpopulation is not explicitly mentioned as the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity in the passage.

d). Poverty: Poverty is discussed in the passage as a challenge faced by various populations, but it is not explicitly stated as the most important component of the existential crisis for humanity.

e). Environmental degradation: While environmental degradation is mentioned as part of the existential crisis, the passage specifically highlights weapons of mass destruction as the most important component. Therefore, this option is not consistent with the information provided in the passage.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The passage suggests that human distress increases when basic precepts of justice and equality are violated.

According to the passage, the historical trend that correlates with human distress is: b) Violation of basic precepts of justice and equality

The passage suggests that human distress increases whenever the basic precepts of justice and equality are violated. It implies that adherence to principles of justice and equality correlates with decreased human distress, while their violation leads to increased distress. Therefore, option b) "Violation of basic precepts of justice and equality" aligns with the information provided in the passage.

a). Increasing adherence to fundamentalist thinking: While the passage mentions discouraging various kinds of fundamentalist thinking, it does not explicitly correlate increasing adherence to fundamentalist thinking with human distress.

c). Decrease in environmental degradation: The passage discusses environmental degradation as part of the existential crisis but does not correlate a decrease in environmental degradation with human distress.

d). Rising dominance of certain ideologies: The passage criticizes pursuits of dominance and ideologies but does not explicitly correlate the rising dominance of certain ideologies with human distress.

e). Encouragement of interfaith harmony: While the passage discusses interfaith harmony as a desirable goal, it does not explicitly correlate encouragement of interfaith harmony with human distress. Instead, it suggests that human distress increases due to interfaith conflicts and disputes. Therefore, this option is not consistent with the information provided in the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

8. Questions

Answer: E

A). "Soon after the US pointed the finger to India" - This part contains a prepositional error. The correct phrase should be "pointed the finger at India" to indicate attribution.

B). "for allegedly incidents of human rights violations," - This part contains a grammatical error. It should be "alleged incidents of human rights violations" to match the adjective "alleged" with the noun "incidents."

C). "particularly at Manipur," - The correct preposition to use here is "in" instead of "at" to indicate location.

The error in part C lies in the use of the preposition "at" before "Manipur."

In English, we typically use the preposition "in" to indicate a specific location, such as a city or region. The preposition "at" is generally used to denote a specific point or place.

Since Manipur is a region or state, it is more appropriate to use the preposition "in" to indicate location.

Corrected Part C: "particularly in Manipur,"

D). "India vehemently criticized" - Removing "has" maintains the past tense consistency with the preceding actions.

The error lies in the use of the present perfect tense ("has") in this context. The present perfect tense is typically used to describe actions that happened at an unspecified time before the present moment or actions that have relevance to the present moment. However, in this sentence, the context suggests that India's criticism of the State Department report occurred immediately after the US pointed the finger to India for human rights violations.

Given this immediate sequence of events in the past, it's more appropriate to use the simple past tense ("criticized") to describe India's action. Therefore, the correct form is "India vehemently criticized."

E). "the State Department report" - This part is grammatically correct. It specifies the object of India's criticism.

So, the correct choice is E) "the State Department report". The errors are in parts A, B, C and D.

The corrected sentence would read: "Soon after the US pointed the finger at India for alleged incidents of human rights violations, particularly in Manipur, India vehemently criticised the State Department report."

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

Answer: C

A). "The scapegoating of Sri Lankan Tamils have" - The verb "have" is incorrect here because "scapegoating" is a singular noun, so it requires a singular verb form. The correct form should be "has."

B). "broadly followed similar pattern as in India," - The error in part B is the lack of pluralization in the noun "pattern." In English, when referring to multiple instances or variations of something, we use plural nouns. Since the sentence is discussing multiple patterns of scapegoating, it should use the plural form "patterns" instead of "pattern."

So, the corrected part B is: "broadly followed similar patterns as in India,"

This correction ensures grammatical accuracy by using the appropriate plural form of the noun to match the context of the sentence.

C). "even if the axis of persecution" - This part is grammatically correct. It introduces the axis of persecution as a contrast to the pattern mentioned earlier.

D). "take place more on ethnic/linguistic" - The verb "take" should be in the singular form to match the singular subject "axis." The correct form should be "takes."

E). "rather than religious line" - The phrase "religious line" is grammatically incorrect. It should be "religious lines" to indicate multiple lines.

So, the correct choice is C) "even if the axis of persecution". The errors are in parts A, B, D and E.

The corrected sentence would read: "The scapegoating of Sri Lankan Tamils has broadly followed similar patterns as in India, even if the axis of persecution takes place more on ethnic/linguistic rather than religious lines."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

10. Questions

Answer: D

A). "The Supreme Court of India rejection of the demand" - The error here is the absence of the possessive form for "India." When referring to the Supreme Court of India, it's necessary to include the possessive form to indicate that the rejection belongs to the Supreme Court of India.

Corrected Part A: "The Supreme Court of India's rejection of the demand"- This correction ensures that the possessive form "India's" is used correctly to indicate that the rejection belongs to the Supreme Court of India.

B). "for 100% verification of the paper trail leave by the votes" - The error here is in subject-verb agreement. "Leave" should be "left" to agree with the singular subject "trail."

C). "cast through electronic voting machines come as no surprise," - The error here is in subject-verb agreement. The verb "come" should be "comes" to agree with the singular subject "rejection."

D). "as there is no hard evidence that the current" - This part of the sentence is grammatically correct. It provides a reason for the lack of surprise regarding the Supreme Court's decision.

E). "verification system suffer from any irremediable lacuna" - The error here is the verb form "suffer." It should be "suffers" to agree with the singular subject "verification system."

So, the correct choice is D) " as there is no hard evidence that the current ". The errors are in parts A, B, C and E.

The corrected sentence would read: "The Supreme Court of India's rejection of the demand for 100% verification of the paper trail left by the votes cast through electronic voting machines comes as no surprise, as there is no hard evidence that the current verification system suffers from any irremediable lacuna."

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

11. Questions

Answer: C

A). "The median age of the population are" - The verb "are" does not agree with the singular subject "median age." It should be "is" instead of "are."

B). "approaching the point when demanding" - This part lacks a main verb. It seems like there's a missing verb after "when." It should be "approaching the point when demand" to complete the sentence correctly.

C). "for new housing peaks" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes the time when demand for new housing reaches its highest point.

D). "and the property market seems sets" - The verb form "seems sets" is incorrect. It should be "seems set" to maintain proper verb agreement.

E). "to a sustained boom" - The preposition "to" typically indicates direction or movement towards a particular goal or outcome. However, in this context, we are not describing movement towards a sustained boom. Instead, we are describing the state or condition of the property market.

The correct preposition to use when describing a state or condition is "for," which indicates the purpose or intended outcome.

Therefore, the corrected phrase should be "seems set for a sustained boom," indicating that the property market is positioned or prepared for experiencing a sustained period of prosperity.

So, the correct choice is C) "for new housing peaks ". The errors are in parts A, B, D and E.

The corrected sentence would read: "The median age of the population is approaching the point when demand for new housing peaks, and the property market seems set for a sustained boom."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

12. Questions

Answer: E

A). "By deal with the latest round of complaints of alleged hate speeches" - The phrase "By deal with" is grammatically incorrect. It should be "By dealing with" to form the present participle form of the verb.

B). "made by politicians during recent election campaign and rallies," - The error here lies in the singular form "campaign" when it should be the plural "campaigns" to match the plural noun "rallies."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Corrected Part B: "made by politicians during recent election campaigns and rallies,"

C). "EC has reassuring all of us that it is a fair referee" - This part has a verb tense error. It should be "EC has reassured all of us" to match the past tense "has reassured."

D). "that's not intimidate by the position or post of the" - The verb "intimidate" is not correct in this context. It should be "intimidated" to agree with the subject "EC."

E). "alleged violators of the model code of conduct" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes the individuals accused of violating the model code of conduct.

So, the correct choice is E) "alleged violators of the model code of conduct ". The errors are in parts A, B, C and D.

The corrected sentence would read: "By dealing with the latest round of complaints of alleged hate speeches made by politicians during recent election campaigns and rallies, EC has reassured all of us that it is a fair referee that's not intimidated by the position or post of the alleged violators of the model code of conduct."

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

13. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) write off the vehicle as beyond salvageable

The phrase "write off the vehicle as beyond salvageable" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea that the mechanic decided to declare the vehicle as irreparable. "Write off" is a phrasal verb commonly used in this context to indicate that something is deemed as a loss or unsalvageable.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are not idiomatic or disrupt the intended meaning:

Option (b) "write down the vehicle as outside reparable" is not idiomatic. "Write down" typically means to make a record of something, but it doesn't convey the idea of declaring something irreparable.

Option (c) "write out the vehicle as over fixable" is not idiomatic. "Write out" is not typically used in this context, and "over fixable" is not a standard term.

Option (d) "write up the vehicle as without restorable" is not idiomatic. "Write up" typically means to create a report or document, but it doesn't convey the idea of declaring something irreparable. "Without restorable" is also not a standard term.

Therefore, option (a) "write off the vehicle as beyond salvageable" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

14. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) waved down desperately

The phrase "waved down" is idiomatic and commonly used to indicate signaling for a vehicle to stop, particularly in the context of hailing a taxi. The word "desperately" effectively conveys the sense of urgency or need in the traveler's action.

Options (a), (c), and (d) introduce variations that do not convey the intended meaning or disrupt the idiomatic expression:

Option (a) "waved on hugely" does not convey the sense of signaling for a vehicle to stop, and "hugely" is not the appropriate adverb in this context.

Option (c) "waved aside extremely" does not convey the sense of signaling for a vehicle to stop, and

"extremely" is not the appropriate adverb in this context.

Option (d) "waved off hopelessly" changes the meaning. "Waved off" typically means to dismiss or reject something, which is not the action described in the sentence.

Therefore, option (b) "waved down desperately" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

15. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) settle up the bill

The phrase "settle up the bill" means to pay the bill in full, which fits the context of the sentence where it's time to pay for the dinner. The preposition "up" is commonly used in this phrase to convey completion or finality.

Options (a), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (a) "settle for the bill" suggests accepting the bill without necessarily paying it, which doesn't convey the intended meaning.

Option (c) "settle on the bill" means to reach an agreement or decision about the bill, which doesn't fit the context of paying it.

Option (d) "settle in the bill" is not a common or idiomatic phrase in this context.

Therefore, option (b) "settle up the bill" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

16. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) he hastily rushed into the house

The phrase "he hastily rushed into the house" effectively conveys the idea that he quickly entered the house in response to realizing he had forgotten his keys. "Hastily" means quickly or in a hurried manner, which fits the context of the sentence.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (b) "he quickly rushed away the house" changes the meaning. "Rushed away" implies leaving or moving away from the house, which contradicts the context of entering it.

Option (c) "he rapidly rushed off the house" is not idiomatic. "Rushed off" usually means leaving quickly or abruptly, which doesn't fit the context of entering the house.

Option (d) "he suddenly rushed out the house" changes the meaning. "Rushed out" means to leave quickly or abruptly, which is the opposite of entering the house.

Therefore, option (a) "he hastily rushed into the house" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

17. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No improvement required

The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. The phrase "put off" means to postpone or delay, which fits appropriately in the context of the sentence.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are not idiomatic:

Option (a) "event was put up" changes the meaning. "Put up" typically means to erect or display something, which does not fit the context of postponing an event.

Option (b) "event was put in" changes the meaning. "Put in" typically means to insert or place something, which is not suitable in this context.

Option (c) "event was put out" changes the meaning. "Put out" typically means to extinguish or suppress something, which is not appropriate in the context of postponing an event.

Option (d) "event was put down" changes the meaning. "Put down" can mean to record something in writing or to euthanize an animal, neither of which is relevant in this context.

Therefore, option (e) "No improvement required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

18. Questions

Answer: A

The odd one out is Sentence B: "In cultural policy research, issues related to inequality have been gaining a foothold, especially as they relate to questions such as participation, accessibility and sexual harassment. "

While all the other sentences directly address the experiences and perspectives of artists, sentence B shifts the focus to cultural policy research and its exploration of inequality issues, participation, accessibility, and sexual harassment. It introduces a different perspective compared to the more personal reflections and observations of artists discussed in the other sentences.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: C

Error: Part c) should be corrected to "and information that help."

The error in this sentence involves incorrect grammar and word choice. The phrase "an information that help" is grammatically incorrect. "Information" is an uncountable noun and should not be preceded by "an."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part c) should be corrected to "and information that help."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The suitable antonym for "umpteen" in the given context would be "meagre". So, the correct option is d) meagre.

a). Profuse: This word means abundant or plentiful. It implies a large quantity or a generous amount. In the context of the sentence, "profuse sacrifices" would suggest that the sacrifices made are plentiful or abundant, which is the opposite of what the author seems to be conveying.

b). Copious: Similar to "profuse," "copious" also means abundant or plentiful. It indicates a large amount or quantity. Again, in the context of the sentence, "copious sacrifices" would imply that the sacrifices made are plentiful, which doesn't align with the author's message.

c). Heaps: This word also means a large amount or quantity. "Heaps" suggests an accumulation or a large pile of something. So, "heaps of sacrifices" would indicate a significant amount of sacrifices made, which contradicts the idea that the hurdles are surmounted with ease due to social privilege.

d). Meagre: This is the suitable antonym for "umpteen" in the given context. "Meagre" means lacking in quantity or quality, inadequate, or insufficient. It implies a small amount or quantity. In the context of the sentence, "meagre sacrifices" would suggest that the sacrifices made are minimal or insufficient, which aligns with the author's message that overcoming economic challenges is not easy and often requires more than just talent.

So, while all options except for "meagre" imply abundance or largeness, "meagre" stands out as the antonym that best conveys the idea of a small or insufficient amount, which fits the context of the sentence.

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

21. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “But if talent is so obvious that it is difficult to ignore, more often than not, such hurdles are surmounted because of the inherent social network that race, caste, gender and colour provide and the fact that the art form is performed, patronised and appreciated largely by the social elite.”

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

22. Questions

Answer: C

The passage discusses the privileged position of artists who cater to the social elite, the challenges they face, and the importance of upskilling.

The passage begins with sentence A, introducing the notion of artists from privileged backgrounds catering to the elite. Sentence C follows, acknowledging the hard work and sacrifices of these artists. Sentence D discusses how talent often helps overcome hurdles due to social networks and patronage. Sentence E reflects on the limited options once the economic threshold is crossed. Finally, sentence F concludes by discussing the importance of upskilling for artists to maintain their art's appeal.

So, the correct sequence is: A – C – D – E – F.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

1. Questions

In the following passage, some of the words have been highlighted in bold. Read the passage and try to understand what it wants to convey. Then replace the highlighted words with the correct option in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually sound. In any case the highlighted word is given correctly, then mark 'No Improvement required' as the right answer choice.

In the ongoing elections, a significant cause for concern has emerged with the low voter turnout, particularly in the Hindi heartland. This trend has set off alarm bells among political parties, forcing them to delve deeper into understanding the root causes of this alacrity (A) and strategise effectively to boost participation in the remaining phases. The Hindi heartland holds immense electoral significance. However, the voter turnout here was dishearteningly low on April 19. The polling of over 62 per cent, as per the Election Commission of India's figure, is lower compared to the first phase of the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, when it stood at 69.43 per cent. The trend is not localised as voting was held in 102 Lok Sabha seats across 21 States and UTs. Was it the summer heat or other pressing engagements? If it is about the weather, it is understandable but if it is political disillusionment, then it is a matter of grave concern. It could well also be logistical challenges such as inadequate infrastructure, long queues at polling booths and difficulties in accessing polling stations. Despite several efforts by the ECI, voters in large numbers chose not to go out to cast their vote. We have had several elections during summers where voters staggered (B) polling stations; so maybe, and it is yet to be validated, voters are losing interest in the political system. Many voters do feel disconnected from the political process, perceiving that their votes do not significantly impact policymaking or address their concerns. This disenchantment often stems from the failure of political parties to fulfil their promises, leading to a sense of betrayal among the electorate. Traditionally, voting in the urban areas has always been low but now even voters in rural areas are giving it a pass. In such areas, where transportation facilities may be limited, reaching the polling booths becomes a beguiling (C) task for many individuals, particularly the elderly and physically challenged. Another aspect of voting in the first phase was zero voting in six districts of Nagaland. It is unprecedented and shocking, to say the least. It might have been a reaction of voters to what happened in Manipur or a call by disrupting elements; either way, it does not augur well for the country. We can agree on a few things which could have resulted in the voter's cold shoulder. Social and economic factors play a significant role in voter apathy. A large section of the population, especially in rural areas, faces issues like poverty, illiteracy and unemployment, which overshadow their engagement with the electoral process. Furthermore, the prevalence (D) of identity politics and polarisation in the Hindi heartland may have contributed to a sense of disillusionment among voters. Divisive narratives propagated by certain political entities often sow seeds of distrust and alienation among communities, discouraging them from participating in the electoral process. Political parties must prioritise engaging with the electorate beyond election cycles, deserting (E) dialogue and building trust through consistent communication and transparent governance.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Which of the following words will replace the word in (A)?

a. ardency

b. vivacity

c. apathy

d. indolence

e. No Improvement required

2. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (B)?

a. besieged
b. thronged
c. trapped
d. proliferated
e. No Improvement required

3. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (C)?

a. agitating
b. exhausting
c. excruciating
d. daunting
e. No Improvement required

4. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (D)?

a. servility
b. paucity
c. peculiarity
d. mediocrity
e. No Improvement required

5. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (E)?

a. fostering
b. impeding
c. repelling
d. espousing
e. No Improvement required

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

Intense heatwave conditions in many parts of the country, coupled with growing affluence, _____.

a. Are leading to a decrease in electricity consumption
b. Have caused a decrease in demand for cooling systems
c. Are driving up AC sales
d. Are encouraging people to rely more on natural cooling methods
e. Have resulted in a surplus of air conditioning units in the market

7. Questions

The company decided to implement new safety protocols to _____.

a. reduce workplace accidents
b. increase employee satisfaction
c. improve customer service
d. enhance product quality
e. none of the above

8. Questions

Non-voting is on the rise in India and even across Europe and advanced economies, possibly suggesting that often _____.

a. voters' voices go unheard and unheeded
b. Election turnout rates are steadily increasing
c. Political awareness among citizens is at an all-time high
d. Governments are effectively addressing citizens' concerns
e. Civic engagement is at its peak

9. Questions

The teacher emphasized the importance of critical thinking skills in order to _____.

a. enhance academic performance
b. improve memory retention
c. develop problem-solving abilities
d. encourage teamwork

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. none of the above

10. Questions

The company implemented a new employee wellness program to _____.

a. Boost morale and productivity among employees

b. Reduce healthcare costs for the company

c. Decrease employee turnover rates

d. Expand the company's market share

e. Streamline administrative processes

11. Questions

In the following questions a sentence is given with three blanks, which is followed by a table, in which three columns are given (Column I, Column II and Column III), for three blanks respectively. You need to make the correct triplet of words which could fill the blank correctly.

The law, _____ in the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution, was introduced to _____ elected representatives from switching _____ to other political parties after being elected.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). entrenched	D). permit	G). allegiance
B). enshrined	E). deter	H). loyalty
C). amended	F). encourage	I). affiliation

a. A-E-I

b. B-E-G

c. C-D-I

d. B-D-G

e. C-D-H

12. Questions

_____ developments are unfolding amidst the growing _____ of the _____ elections.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Significant	D). anticipation	G). impending
B). Controversial	E). fervour	H). ongoing
C). Innocuous	F). apathy	I). historic

a. A-D-G

b. C-E-H

sky53upg@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c. A-D-I

d. C-E-G

e. B-F-I

13. Questions

Chief Justice of India (CJI) DY Chandrachud has _____ the enactment of new criminal justice laws, _____ it as a watershed moment for the nation's _____ organ.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). criticized	D). hailing	G). legislative
B). praised	E). condemning	H). judicial
C). lauded	F). welcoming	I). executive

a. A-E-G

b. B-F-H

c. C-D-H

d. C-D-G

e. B-F-I

14. Questions

Overpopulation _____ the demand for food, water, energy and housing, leading to environmental degradation and _____ socio-economic _____.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). mitigates	D). alleviating	G). disparities
B). exacerbates	E). aggravating	H). improvements
C). alleviates	F). perpetuating	I). inequalities

a. B-F-G

b. C-D-I

c. A-D-H

d. B-E-G

e. C-F-I

15. Questions

Russia and China have been apprehending such a historic escalation of the weaponisation of the dollar by the US, empowering itself to confiscate the reserves of adversaries and utilising them as funds to rearm itself.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). apprehending	D). facilitate	G). allies
B). anticipating	E). confiscate	H). assets
C). facilitating	F). utilize	I). adversaries

a. A-D-G

b. A-E-I

c. B-E-I

d. B-F-G

e. C-D-H

16. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The inflammatory speech was seen as an instigation for the protests that followed.

II). The peaceful village was suddenly engulfed in strife when a dispute arose over land ownership.

III). His precept for a healthy lifestyle was evident as he indulged in fast food daily and avoided exercise at all costs.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and III

e. Both II and III

17. Questions

I). The intricacy of the artist's brushstrokes revealed the meticulous attention to detail in the painting.

II). In the classroom, the teacher's erudite demeanor often left students feeling confused and intimidated, as if they were unable to understand the material.

III). The teacher sought to imbue her students with a love for learning by making her lessons engaging and interactive.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. Both I and III

18. Questions

I). The company's profits dwindled as they experienced rapid growth and expansion into new markets.

II). The aroma of freshly baked bread permeated the entire house, making everyone hungry.

III). Despite the daunting challenges ahead, she approached the project with determination and perseverance.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

19. Questions

I). The debate over the new policy became increasingly contentious as both sides presented strong arguments and refused to compromise.

II). The elusive answer to the math problem was quickly found by the student, who effortlessly solved it within seconds.

III). After years of decline, there was a sudden resurgence of interest in vinyl records among younger music enthusiasts.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

20. Questions

I). Despite the serene atmosphere, she felt a sense of frantic as she calmly sipped her tea and watched the sunset.

II). The company's financial statements were met with dubious praise from investors, who applauded the accuracy of the reported figures.

III). Solving the conundrum of balancing economic growth with environmental preservation remains a significant challenge for policymakers.

a. Only I

b. Only II

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The word "alacrity" means brisk and cheerful readiness. Looking at the context, it seems that the intended word should convey the opposite meaning, indicating a lack of enthusiasm or readiness. Among the options, "apathy" fits this context best, as it means a lack of interest, enthusiasm, or concern. So, the correct answer is: c) apathy a). ardency - This word refers to enthusiasm or passion. However, in the context provided, the low voter turnout suggests a lack of enthusiasm rather than an abundance of it. Therefore, this option is not suitable.

b). vivacity - Vivacity refers to liveliness or energy. Similar to "ardency," this word implies a positive and active engagement, which contrasts with the idea of low voter turnout due to disinterest or disillusionment. Thus, this option is not appropriate.

c). apathy - Apathy refers to a lack of interest, enthusiasm, or concern. This term accurately captures the sentiment of disinterest or indifference towards voting, which is evident from the context provided. Therefore, this option is the correct choice.

d). indolence - Indolence refers to laziness or avoidance of activity. While it implies a lack of effort, it doesn't necessarily convey the specific lack of interest in voting as "apathy" does. Hence, this option is not as fitting.

alacrity - Alacrity refers to eagerness or willingness to do something promptly. Again, this word conveys a sense of enthusiasm or readiness, which doesn't align with the idea of low voter turnout due to disinterest. Therefore, it's not the appropriate choice.

In conclusion, "c) apathy" is the most suitable word to replace the word ‘alacrity’ in (A) because it accurately reflects the lack of interest or enthusiasm towards voting described in the passage.

So, "apathy" is the most suitable replacement for "alacrity" in the given context.

2. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The word " thronged " is suitable to replace the word in (B).

a). besieged: This word means to be surrounded by something harmful or threatening, which doesn't fit the context of voters and polling stations. It suggests a sense of being under attack or pressure, which is not conveyed in the original sentence.

b). thronged: This word means to be crowded or filled with great numbers of people, which fits the context of voters going to polling stations. It conveys the idea that polling stations were crowded with voters.

c). trapped: This word implies being confined or unable to escape, which doesn't quite capture the essence of the situation described. While long queues and difficulties accessing polling stations are mentioned, the word "trapped" doesn't quite convey the sense of active participation or movement toward the polling stations.

d). proliferated: This word means to increase rapidly in numbers, which doesn't accurately describe the situation at polling stations. While an increase in voters would be positive, the issue being discussed is the decrease in voter turnout, so "proliferated" doesn't fit the context.

staggered: This word means to move unsteadily or with a wobbly motion, which doesn't accurately convey the situation at polling stations. It suggests a hesitant or unsteady movement, which is not the case here where the concern is low voter turnout rather than the manner in which voters move.

Therefore, " b) thronged " is the word that appropriately replaces the word in (B).

3. Questions

Answer: D

The word that appropriately replaces the word in (C) is: d) daunting a). Agitating: This word means causing someone to feel irritated or frustrated. While long queues and difficulties in accessing polling stations could indeed be agitating for voters, the word doesn't fully capture the sense of difficulty or challenge that the voters face in reaching the polling booths.

b). Exhausting: This word means causing someone to feel extremely tired or drained of energy. While waiting in long queues or facing logistical challenges could be exhausting for voters, the word doesn't convey the difficulty or intimidating nature of the task of reaching the polling booths.

c). Excruciating: This word means extremely painful or intense. While it's true that waiting in long queues or facing logistical challenges can be unpleasant, "excruciating" suggests a level of physical pain or discomfort that may not accurately reflect the situation.

d). Daunting: This word means intimidating or challenging. It accurately captures the sense of difficulty or challenge that voters may face in reaching the polling booths, especially in areas with limited transportation facilities or other logistical challenges.

Beguiling: This word means charming or enchanting. While it's possible that some voters may find the process of voting appealing, especially if they feel connected to the political process, it doesn't accurately describe the challenges or difficulties that may lead to low voter turnout.

Overall, "daunting" is the most appropriate choice because it effectively conveys the sense of challenge or difficulty that voters may experience in reaching the polling booths.

Therefore, "d) Daunting " is the word that appropriately replaces the word in (C).

4. Questions

Answer: E

The word "prevalence" in (D) is appropriate and doesn't require improvement, so the correct answer is "e)

No Improvement required."

a). servility - This word refers to a state of being submissive or obedient, often to an excessive degree. However, it doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which is discussing factors contributing to voter apathy in the Hindi heartland. Voter apathy is not caused by servility but rather by factors like poverty, illiteracy, and disillusionment with the political process.

b). paucity - Paucity means scarcity or a lack of something. While it could be used in some contexts related to voter turnout (e.g., paucity of polling stations), it doesn't quite fit here. The sentence is discussing the presence or existence of identity politics and polarization in the Hindi heartland, rather than a scarcity of them.

c). peculiarity - Peculiarity refers to something unusual or unique. While there may be peculiar aspects to the situation described in the passage, the word doesn't accurately convey the idea of the existence or prevalence of identity politics and polarization in the Hindi heartland, which is the context of the sentence.

d). mediocrity - Mediocrity refers to the state of being average or of moderate quality. This word doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which is discussing the presence or prevalence of identity politics and polarization in the Hindi heartland as potential causes of voter apathy. Mediocrity doesn't accurately capture the idea of these divisive factors influencing voter behavior.

e). No Improvement required - This option suggests that the word, "prevalence," is appropriate and doesn't need to be replaced. In the context of the sentence, "prevalence" accurately conveys the idea of the existence or widespread occurrence of identity politics and polarization in the Hindi heartland, which may contribute to voter apathy. Therefore, this option is the correct choice.

5. Questions

Answer: A

The word that best replaces the word in (E) is "fostering."

So the correct option is: a) fostering a). fostering: This option fits well in the context because it suggests that political parties should prioritize engaging with the electorate beyond election cycles in order to promote or encourage dialogue and build trust through consistent communication and transparent governance. "Fostering" implies nurturing or cultivating a positive relationship with the electorate.

b). impeding: This option suggests that political parties should prioritize engaging with the electorate beyond election cycles in order to hinder or obstruct dialogue and trust-building efforts. However, this contradicts the intended meaning of the sentence, which is to encourage voter participation and engagement.

c). repelling: This option suggests that political parties should prioritize engaging with the electorate beyond election cycles in order to drive them away or repulse them. Again, this contradicts the intended meaning of the sentence, which is to encourage voter participation and engagement.

d). espousing: This option suggests that political parties should prioritize engaging with the electorate beyond election cycles in order to advocate for or support dialogue and trust-building efforts. While this is somewhat related to the intended meaning, "espousing" doesn't capture the idea of actively fostering or nurturing these efforts as strongly as the correct option does.

deserting: This word suggests that political parties should prioritize engaging with the electorate beyond election cycles in order to abandon or desert dialogue and trust-building efforts. This is the opposite of what the sentence is conveying, which is the need to actively engage with the electorate. Therefore, this word is not appropriate in this context.

Therefore, "a) Fostering " is the word that appropriately replaces the word in (E).

6. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer, "c) Are driving up AC sales," is supported by the logical connection between intense heatwave conditions and increased sales of air conditioning units. As temperatures rise, people are more likely to purchase AC units to cope with the heat.

Option a). is incorrect because intense heatwaves typically lead to an increase, not a decrease, in electricity consumption due to the higher demand for cooling.

Option b). is incorrect because growing affluence and intense heatwaves are more likely to increase, rather than decrease, the demand for cooling systems.

Option d). is incorrect because intense heatwaves and growing affluence would likely encourage people to rely more on air conditioning rather than natural cooling methods.

Option e). is incorrect because intense heatwaves and growing affluence would not result in a surplus of air conditioning units in the market; rather, they would likely increase demand for them.

In summary, option c) is the correct and relevant answer as it aligns with the context of the sentence.

7. Questions

Answer: A

a). reduce workplace accidents: This option suggests that the implementation of new safety protocols aims to decrease the occurrence of workplace accidents. Introducing safety measures and procedures can indeed help mitigate risks and create a safer work environment for employees, thereby reducing the likelihood of accidents.

b). increase employee satisfaction: This option implies that the implementation of new safety protocols is intended to boost employee satisfaction. While safety protocols can contribute to employees feeling valued and cared for by their employer, directly impacting satisfaction, it may not be the primary reason for implementing such protocols.

c). improve customer service: This option implies that the implementation of new safety protocols is intended to enhance customer service. While ensuring a safe working environment indirectly contributes to overall organizational effectiveness, it may not directly impact customer service, unless safety incidents directly affect product quality or service delivery.

d). enhance product quality: This option suggests that the implementation of new safety protocols aims to improve the quality of the company's products. While safety protocols may indirectly contribute to product quality by fostering a culture of excellence and attention to detail, the primary focus is typically on ensuring the safety and well-being of employees rather than directly impacting product quality.

In summary, option (a) "reduce workplace accidents" appears to be the most directly relevant and comprehensive explanation. Implementing new safety protocols is typically done with the primary objective of safeguarding employees and minimizing the occurrence of workplace accidents, thereby promoting a safe and healthy work environment.

8. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is "a) voters' voices go unheard and unheeded," reflects the logical inference that the rise in non-voting could be a result of voters feeling disenchanted or disillusioned with the political process, perceiving that their voices are not being considered by political leaders.

Option b). is incorrect because the statement suggests the opposite; that election turnout rates are increasing, which would indicate higher political participation rather than non-voting.

Option c). is incorrect because if political awareness among citizens were at an all-time high, it would likely lead to increased, rather than decreased, voter turnout.

Option d). is incorrect because if governments were effectively addressing citizens' concerns, it would likely result in higher voter turnout, not an increase in non-voting.

Option e). is incorrect because if civic engagement were at its peak, it would likely lead to increased political participation, including higher voter turnout.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

9. Questions

Answer: C

a). enhance academic performance: This option suggests that the teacher emphasized critical thinking skills with the aim of improving students' academic performance. While critical thinking can certainly contribute to better academic outcomes by helping students analyze information, evaluate arguments, and make reasoned judgments, it may not be the sole reason emphasized by the teacher.

b). improve memory retention: This option implies that the teacher stressed critical thinking skills to enhance students' ability to remember information. While critical thinking can indirectly support memory retention by promoting deeper understanding and engagement with the material, memory retention might not be the primary focus of emphasizing critical thinking.

c). develop problem-solving abilities: This option implies that the teacher emphasized critical thinking skills to help students become better problem solvers. Critical thinking involves analyzing and evaluating information to make informed decisions, which aligns closely with problem-solving abilities.

d). encourage teamwork: This option suggests that the teacher emphasized critical thinking skills to promote teamwork among students. While critical thinking can indirectly support effective teamwork by facilitating communication, collaboration, and collective problem-solving, it may not be the primary reason emphasized by the teacher.

In summary, option (c) "develop problem-solving abilities" seems to be the most appropriate explanation. Critical thinking skills are often emphasized in education to empower students to analyze complex situations, identify solutions, and make informed decisions, thereby enhancing their problem-solving abilities, which are valuable both academically and in real-life scenarios.

10. Questions

Answer: A

a). Boost morale and productivity among employees: This option suggests that the implementation of a new employee wellness program aims to enhance employee morale and productivity. Wellness programs often include initiatives such as fitness activities, stress management resources, and health education, which can contribute to improved employee well-being, job satisfaction, and performance.

b). Reduce healthcare costs for the company: While employee wellness programs can potentially lead to cost savings for companies by promoting healthier lifestyles and reducing the risk of chronic illnesses, their primary objective is typically to support employee health and well-being rather than directly focusing on reducing healthcare costs for the company.

c). Decrease employee turnover rates: While a well-designed employee wellness program can contribute to employee retention by creating a positive work environment and promoting employee satisfaction, its primary goal is not necessarily to directly decrease turnover rates, as turnover is influenced by various factors beyond wellness initiatives.

d). Expand the company's market share: Employee wellness programs are primarily internal initiatives aimed at improving the health, well-being, and productivity of existing employees. While a healthier and more engaged workforce may indirectly contribute to the company's overall success and competitiveness, the primary focus is not on expanding market share.

e). Streamline administrative processes: Employee wellness programs are typically focused on promoting employee health and well-being rather than streamlining administrative processes within the company. While wellness initiatives may involve administrative tasks such as program implementation and tracking participation, their primary objective is not to streamline broader administrative processes.

In summary, option (a) "Boost morale and productivity among employees" is the correct explanation for why the company implemented the new employee wellness program. Such programs are often introduced to enhance employee well-being, job satisfaction, and performance, leading to improved morale and productivity within the workforce.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is B-E-G.

Column I:

A). entrenched - This word means firmly established and difficult to change. While relevant, "enshrined" more accurately conveys the idea of something being preserved or protected within the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

B). enshrined - This is the correct choice, as it means to preserve or protect as if in a shrine or sacred place. It fits well with the idea of the law being codified and protected within the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution.

C). amended - This word means to make changes or modifications. It doesn't fit the context of the law being preserved or protected within the Constitution.

Column II:

D). permit - This word means to allow or authorize. It doesn't fit the context of the law aiming to discourage elected representatives from switching allegiance.

E). deter - This is the correct choice, as it means to discourage or prevent. It fits well with the purpose of the law, which is to discourage elected representatives from switching allegiance to other political parties.

F). encourage - This word means to promote or foster. It doesn't fit the context of the law aiming to discourage a particular behavior.

Column III:

G). allegiance - This is the correct choice, as it refers to loyalty or commitment to a person, group, or cause. It fits well with the context of elected representatives switching their loyalty to other political parties.

H). loyalty - This word also means faithfulness or allegiance. It is similar to "allegiance" and is a valid choice, but "allegiance" is more commonly used in this context.

I). affiliation - This word refers to a connection or association with a group or organization. While relevant, it doesn't capture the sense of loyalty or commitment implied by "allegiance."

So, the correct triplet of words is B-E-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

12. Questions

Answer: D

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is C-E-G.

Column I:

A). Significant - This word means important or noteworthy. While relevant, "innocuous" more accurately conveys the idea of something harmless or not causing any harm.

B). Controversial - This word means causing disagreement or dispute. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which suggests that the developments are harmless.

C). Innocuous - This is the correct choice, as it means not harmful or offensive. It suggests that the developments are not causing any harm or controversy.

Column II:

D). Anticipation - This word means expectation or excitement about something that is going to happen. While relevant, "fervour" more accurately conveys the intense excitement or enthusiasm surrounding the elections.

E). Fervour - This is the correct choice, as it means intense and passionate excitement or enthusiasm. It fits well with the idea of growing excitement surrounding the impending elections.

F). Apathy - This word means lack of interest or enthusiasm. It doesn't fit the context of growing excitement surrounding the elections.

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

Column III:

G). Impending - This is the correct choice, as it means about to happen or imminent. It fits well with the context of elections that are approaching or looming on the horizon.

H). Ongoing - This word means currently happening or in progress. It doesn't fit the context of elections that are yet to happen.

I). Historic - This word means significant or memorable because of its importance in history. It doesn't fit the context of elections that are about to happen.

So, the correct triplet of words is C-E-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

13. Questions

Answer: C

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is C-D-H.

Column I:

A). criticized - This word means to express disapproval or find fault with. It doesn't fit the context of Chief Justice Chandrachud expressing approval or praise for the enactment of new laws.

B). praised - This word means to express approval or admiration for someone or something. While relevant, "lauded" more specifically conveys the idea of publicly praising or commending something.

C). lauded - This is the correct choice, as it means to praise or commend. It fits well with the context of Chief Justice Chandrachud praising the enactment of new criminal justice laws.

Column II:

D). hailing - This is the correct choice, as it means to enthusiastically praise or acclaim. It aligns with the idea of Chief Justice Chandrachud enthusiastically praising the enactment of new laws.

E). condemning - This word means to express strong disapproval or criticize. It doesn't fit the context of Chief Justice Chandrachud expressing approval for the new laws.

F). Welcoming - This word means to receive with pleasure or approval. While relevant, "hailing" more specifically conveys the enthusiastic praise implied in the sentence.

Column III:

G). legislative - This word relates to the making of laws or the legislative branch of government. It doesn't fit the context of the nation's judicial organ, which refers to the judiciary.

H). judicial - This is the correct choice, as it relates to the judiciary or the legal system. It fits well with the context of the nation's judicial organ being described.

I). Executive - This word refers to the branch of government responsible for implementing laws and policies. It doesn't fit the context of Chief Justice Chandrachud praising the new laws within the judicial system.

So, the correct triplet of words is C-D-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

14. Questions

Answer: A

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is B-F-G.

Column I:

A). Mitigates - This word means to make something less severe, serious, or painful. It doesn't fit the context of overpopulation exacerbating the demand for resources and perpetuating socio-economic disparities.

B). Exacerbates - This is the correct choice, as it means to make a problem, bad situation, or negative feeling worse. It fits well with the context of overpopulation worsening the demand for resources and perpetuating socio-economic disparities.

C). Alleviates - This word means to make a problem or its effects less severe or unpleasant. It is the opposite of exacerbates and doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

Column II:

D). Alleviating - This word means to make a problem or its effects less severe or unpleasant. It is the opposite of exacerbating and doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

E). Aggravating - This word means to make a problem, situation, or negative feeling worse or more serious. It is similar in meaning to exacerbating but doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

F). Perpetuating - This is the correct choice, as it means to make something, typically an undesirable situation or an unfounded belief, continue indefinitely. It aligns with the idea that overpopulation perpetuates socio-economic disparities.

Column III:

G). Disparities - This is the correct choice, as it refers to differences or inequalities, especially in socio-economic status. It fits well with the context of overpopulation perpetuating socio-economic disparities.

H). Improvements - This word means making something better or more satisfactory. It is the opposite of disparities and doesn't fit the context of the sentence.

I). Inequalities - This word refers to disparities or differences in treatment, status, or opportunities. It is similar in meaning to disparities and is a valid choice, but "disparities" is more commonly used in this context.

So, the correct triplet of words is B-F-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Answer: B

The correct triplet of words to fill the blanks in this sentence is A-E-I.

Column I:

A). Apprehending - This word means to understand or perceive something, especially something complex or difficult to grasp. It fits well with the context of Russia and China understanding or perceiving the historic escalation of the weaponization of the dollar by the US.

B). Anticipating - This word means to expect or foresee something happening. While relevant, "apprehending" more accurately conveys the idea of understanding or perceiving a complex situation.

C). Facilitating - This word means to make an action or process easier or more efficient. It doesn't fit the context of Russia and China's reaction to the weaponization of the dollar.

Column II:

D). Facilitate - This word means to make an action or process easier or more efficient. It doesn't fit the context of the US empowering itself to seize reserves.

E). Confiscate - This is the correct choice, as it means to seize or take possession of something, especially as a penalty or in a legal context. It aligns with the idea of the US seizing the reserves of its adversaries.

F). Utilize - This word means to make practical or effective use of something. It doesn't fit the context of the US seizing reserves from adversaries.

Column III:

G). Allies - This word refers to friends or partners. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses adversaries of the US.

H). Assets - This word refers to valuable resources or possessions. While relevant, "adversaries" more specifically conveys the idea of opponents or enemies.

I). Adversaries - This is the correct choice, as it refers to opponents or enemies. It fits well with the context of the US using the reserves of its adversaries as funds to rearm itself.

So, the correct triplet of words is A-E-I, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

16. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "instigation" is correctly used to describe the action of provoking or inciting the protests through the inflammatory speech.

II). In this sentence, "strife" is correctly used to describe conflict or discord within the village due to the land ownership dispute.

III). In this sentence, "precept" is used incorrectly. "Precept" typically refers to a guiding principle or rule for behavior, often associated with moral or ethical teachings. However, the sentence suggests that the individual's behavior contradicts the supposed precept for a healthy lifestyle. A more suitable term might be "habit" or "practice".

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

17. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "intricacy" is used correctly to describe the complex and detailed nature of the artist's brushstrokes.

II). In this sentence, "erudite" is used incorrectly. "Erudite" typically describes someone who has or shows great knowledge or learning, often in a scholarly or intellectual context. However, the sentence suggests that the teacher's demeanor made it difficult for students to understand the material, which contradicts the usual meaning of "erudite." A more appropriate term might be "intimidating" or "unapproachable."

III). In this sentence "imbue" is correctly used to convey the idea of instilling or inspiring her students with a love for learning through her teaching methods.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

18. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "dwindled" is used incorrectly. "Dwindle" typically means to gradually diminish or decrease in size, amount, or strength. However, the context suggests that the company's profits decreased as a result of growth and expansion, which is contradictory. A more appropriate term might be "fluctuated" or "stabilized."

II). In this sentence, "permeated" is correctly used to describe how the aroma of the bread spread throughout the entire house, filling it with the smell.

III). In this sentence, "daunting" is appropriately used to describe the challenges as intimidating or difficult.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "contentious" is correctly used to describe the heated and argumentative nature of the debate surrounding the new policy.

II). In this sentence, "elusive" is used incorrectly. "Elusive" typically means difficult to find or grasp, suggesting that the answer is hard to attain. However, the sentence implies that the answer was quickly and effortlessly found, which contradicts the usual meaning of "elusive." A more suitable term might be "simple" or "readily available."

III). In this sentence, "resurgence" is correctly used to describe the renewed and increased interest in vinyl records after a period of decline.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

Answer: D

I). In this sentence, "frantic" is used incorrectly. "Frantic" typically means frenzied or panicked, suggesting a sense of urgency or chaos. However, the sentence describes a calm and serene atmosphere, which contradicts the usual meaning of "frantic." A more appropriate term might be "contentment" or "peacefulness."

II). In this sentence, "dubious" is used incorrectly. "Dubious" typically means doubtful or questionable, but the sentence suggests praise, which is the opposite of what "dubious" implies. A more suitable term might be "wholehearted" or "unreserved."

III). In this sentence, "conundrum" is correctly used to describe a complex and puzzling problem or dilemma.

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow.

The British left us with a legacy of high-level corruption. Robert Clive, credited with laying the foundations for British India, committed suicide at the age of 49 after facing corruption charges and being unable to defend himself. Corruption in India has significant effects on the economies of central, state, and local government agencies. A Transparency International report revealed that India's corruption perceptions index score remained stable, ranking 93rd out of 180 nations in 2023. However, the report suggests that some systems aimed at containing corruption are becoming less effective, indicating that officials are not adhering to the law or their moral obligations to their job. Allegations of corruption against the UPA administration were one of the factors that propelled Prime Minister Narendra Modi to power in 2014. The country was ecstatic when Narendra Modi declared, "Na Khaunga, Na Khane Doonga" (neither will I indulge in corruption nor allow anybody else to participate in it) during the 2014 general election. This was unprecedented for a nation used to corruption at all levels. Unfortunately, it was just a fleeting vision. The promise made by Modi in 2014, before he became prime minister, to reclaim black money was not fulfilled. His harsh demonetization policy, intended to eliminate terrorists, curb black money, eradicate corruption, and eliminate counterfeit currencies, severely damaged the economy but had no effect. According to a report released by the Centre for Media Studies, the BJP spent nearly Rs 27,000 crores in the Lok Sabha polls, which accounts for about 45% of the total expenditure of Rs 60,000 crores spent in the 2019 Lok Sabha polls. Poll expenses for Lok Sabha elections held between 1998 and 2019 have soared from Rs 9,000 crore to nearly Rs 55,000 crore. The 2024 general election may cost more than Rs 1 lakh crore. Escalating election expenditures are the breeding ground for corruption; therefore, if we can't curb corruption, we can't control it. Between the previous and current Lok Sabha elections, some MPs have seen their incomes rise scandalously by 300, 400, or even 1,000%, while the Sensex has gained just 85%. On Independence Day in 2023, Modi pledged to fight corruption and demanded the elimination of three evils: nepotism, corruption, and appeasement. Considering his commitment, he could have enacted a law mandating all MP assets to be audited, held in trust, and audited again every five years to ensure that they aren't enriching themselves at the expense of people. However, Modi's anti-corruption campaign was selective and targeted at his political rivals. The corrupt political class neither faced consequences from the Modi government nor witnessed systemic changes; instead, corruption was institutionalised through electoral bonds. The CBI gave clean chits to Somasekhara Reddy and G Janardhana Reddy, former Karnataka BJP government ministers accused of a Rs 16,500-crore mining scam; Yeddyurappa, the former Karnataka CM accused of land and mining scams; and Shivraj Singh Chouhan, the CM of Madhya Pradesh implicated in the Vyapam scam. Opposition politicians accused of corruption have been offered a clear quid pro quo; switch sides, and these cases will disappear. The widely circulated list claimed that there were graft probes against Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma, Suvendu Adhikari, Bhavna Gawli, Yashwant Jadhav, Yamini Jadhav, Pratap Sarnaik, and Narayan Rane, which were stalled after they switched sides to join the BJP. Despite protests by the Election Commission and the Reserve Bank of India, the Modi government introduced electoral bonds in the name of transparency in election funding contributed by corporate bodies, which is a classic case of daylight robbery. An analysis by Project Electoral Bond shows that several companies bought electoral bonds after they were faced with action by central government agencies such as the ED, IT, CBI, and GST. The BJP received the maximum funds through the bonds at Rs 6,986.5 crore, followed by the TMC (Rs 1,397 crore) and Congress (Rs 1,334 crore). Despite being among the youngest major political parties in India, the BJP, under Modi's leadership, has swiftly overtaken both Congress and the Chinese Communist Party of China to become the biggest and richest party in the world. Since the Supreme Court declared electoral bonds unconstitutional and ordered the EC to reveal the details, the Modi government, through the SBI, has tried to halt or delay the revelation of who donated how much 'chanda' to which political party. The frequent use of raids to suppress political opposition undermines political freedom and the rule of law and encourages corruption. The question arises: why did Modi, who made a commitment to fight corruption with a commanding majority in parliament and widespread support, not undertake the Herculean task of cleaning the Augean stable of corruption in Indian politics without bias?

What was the primary objective of Modi's demonetization policy?

a. Boosting the economy
b. Eliminating terrorists
c. Curbing black money
d. Promoting cash transactions
e. Encouraging corruption

2. Questions

What action did the Supreme Court take regarding electoral bonds?

a. Declared them constitutional
b. Ordered their immediate abolition
c. Ordered the EC to reveal donation details
d. Issued guidelines for their use
e. None of the above

3. Questions

How did the BJP fund its election campaigns according to the passage?

a. Through public donations only
b. Through government grants
c. Through electoral bonds and public donations
d. Through foreign funding
e. Through corporate funding only

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

What was Narendra Modi's famous slogan during the 2014 general election campaign?

a. "Na Khaunga, Na Khane Doonga"
b. "Corruption is inevitable"
c. "Power at any cost"

d. "Money talks"

e. "Corruption for progress"

5. Questions

According to the Transparency International report, what was India's corruption perceptions index ranking in 2023?

a. 30th

b. 93rd

c. 180th

d. 1st

e. 50th

6. Questions

Which of the following is NOT a consequence of corruption as discussed in the passage?

a. Economic damage

b. Political instability

c. Social progress

d. Breeding ground for further corruption

e. Undermining of political freedom

7. Questions

What is the tone of the passage?

a. Objective

b. Critical

c. Optimistic

d. Satirical

e. Indifferent

8. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In the following questions, a sentence is given with two blanks; each blank is followed by a highlighted word. You have to identify the correct pair of words from the given options to make the sentence meaningful, if the given highlighted words are correct, then mark (E) as your answer.

As the world marks mark the _____ (obscure) anniversary of the Rwandan genocide, it is imperative to reflect on the legacy of this tragic chapter in human history and its _____ (abstruse) implications for global peace and security.

a. placid, subtle

b. sombre, profound

c. tranquil, equivocal

d. vivacious, astute

e. No replacement required

9. Questions

While providing a _____(veracity) of continuity and a rallying symbol for party loyalists, this dynastic tradition has _____(inhibited) innovation and excluded potentially transformative leaders from rising through the ranks.

a. profusion, impeded

b. deception, subdued

c. semblance, stifled

d. affinity, precluded

e. No replacement required

10. Questions

In an era where social media and digital platforms are crucial battlegrounds for public opinion, merely pointing to a _____ (influenced) media landscape or _____ (denouncing) censorship is not enough.

a. unbiased, censuring

b. impartial, discerning

c. balanced, bothering

d. skewed, decrying

e. No replacement required

11. Questions

The BJP under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership has undergone a significant transformation, _____ (oblivious) of the era when Indira Gandhi _____(unveiled) unparalleled influence within the Congress party.

a. reminiscent, wielded

b. evocative, concealed

c. redolent, ceased

d. defiant, clinched

e. No replacement required

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

In an age where disinformation _____(proliferates) unchecked across digital platforms and where populist rhetoric often eclipses substantive debate, the bedrock of democracy _____(trembles) under the weight of doubt.

a. burgeons, ambles

b. emanates, prevails

c. dwindles, resonates

d. recedes, stumbles

e. No replacement required

13. Questions

In the questions given below, sentences are jumbled and placed in options. Also, there is an odd one out in one of the sentences, which is mentioned in the options. Identify the correct sequence of the sentences and eliminate the odd one out to mark that as your option in the given sequence (eg. Correct sequence-Odd one out [ABCD-E]).

A). As the largest democracy in the world, India is looked upon as a model owing to its ideals,

B). Such as a non-partisan Election Commission, free dialogue and debate and several abiding features

C). Such as non-discriminatory management of diversity, concern for an equitable and equal society, D). As well as profound reverence for the country's Constitution

E). India's constitution sets out the country's political code, federal structure, powers of government.

a. ABCD-E

b. ABED-C

c. AECB-D

d. EABD-C

e. ACDE-B

14. Questions

A). During the time of elections, it is not uncommon

B). In many parts of the country to witness propaganda campaigns

C). To give voters a peaceful time to consider and make a final decision on their vote D). Where deep-set prejudices against those of particular

E). Ethnic or religious groups are systematically aroused for political gains.

a. ABCE-D

b. CBDE-A

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c. ABDE-C

d. BACE-D

e. BCDE-A

15. Questions

A). The era of low inflation,

B). Marked by decades of economic stability,

C). The inflation rate has been attributed to many factors

D). With the resurgence of price pressures

E). Seems like a distant memory as we grapple.

a. ABDE-C

b. CEDB-A

c. AEBD-C

d. DCEB-A

e. ABED-C

16. Questions

A). India with a paradigm and planned shift from petroleum fuels

D). Can leverage biofuels and bio-based chemicals and polymers,

B). Which are nearly carbon neutral, offering the best way forward

C). For energy security, and reducing imports of petroleum

E). And how it can catalyze cost-effective biofuel production.

a. ABCD-E

b. ADBC-E

c. ABCE-D

d. ACDB-E

e. CADB-E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

A). Central banks must regain the trust of the public

B). By demonstrating their commitment to price stability,

C). While governments must provide the support and guidance

D). Central banks the opportunity to participate in a review

E). Necessary to navigate the uncertain waters ahead.

a. ABCD-E
b. ABDC-E
c. BACD-E
d. ABEC-D
e. ABCE-D

18. Questions

In each of the following questions a sentence is divided into five parts. Out of these five parts a combination of two parts is erroneous, remaining are error free. You are required to find out which combination is erroneous from the given options.

As Earth continue to spiral into a climate crisis, (A)/ the recently revelation of March 2024 (B)/ marking the 10th consecutive (C)/ month of record-breaking heat (D)/ should serve as an unignorable wake-up call (E).

a. A and B
b. B and C
c. C and D
d. D and E
e. A and D

19. Questions

Amidst the shifting tides of geopolitics (A)/ and supply chain diversification, (B)/ India find itself at a critical juncture, (C)/ grappling with the implications of its FDI (D)/ performances vis-à-vis the China-plus one strategy (E).

a. A and C
b. B and D
c. C and E
d. D and E
e. A and D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

The recent developments in key constituencies highlights (A)/ the complexities and challenges (B)/ faced by opposition parties (C)/ in navigate the intricate social and political (D)/ dynamics of India's most populous state (E).

a. A and B

b. B and C

c. C and D

d. D and E

e. A and D

21. Questions

Organs of the deceased donor are anonymously (A)/ allocated to people waiting for a transplant, (B)/ while an organ can be donate by a living person (C)/ only if they (donor and recipient) are close relatives or (D)/ share a close bond and wants to donate altruistically (E).

a. A and D

b. B and E

c. A and C

d. C and E

e. A and B

22. Questions

Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL) plans to disrupt (A)/ the dominant of multinationals (B)/ in the local consumer electronics (C)/ and home appliances market (D)/ with the introduction of it's new brand 'Wyzr' (E).

a. A and D

b. B and E

c. B and C

d. D and E

e. A and C

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct answer is: c) Curbing black money. The passage states that demonetization was intended to eliminate black money, among other objectives.

Modi's demonetization policy, as mentioned in the passage, had the primary objective of curbing black money. Black money refers to income illegally obtained or not declared for tax purposes. By invalidating high-denomination currency notes, the government aimed to force holders of black money to deposit their cash holdings into banks, making it traceable and subject to taxation.

a). Boosting the economy: While demonetization was expected to have some long-term positive effects on the economy, such as increasing digital transactions and formalizing the informal sector, its primary objective was not to boost the economy directly. The immediate impact of demonetization was more disruptive than beneficial to the economy.

b). Eliminating terrorists: While combating terrorism might have been one of the intended secondary benefits of demonetization by reducing the availability of unaccounted funds to terrorist organizations, it was not the primary objective of the policy.

d). Promoting cash transactions: Demonetization aimed to reduce cash transactions by invalidating high-denomination currency notes and promoting digital payments. Therefore, promoting cash transactions contradicts the intended purpose of demonetization.

e). Encouraging corruption: Encouraging corruption is contrary to the objectives of demonetization. The policy aimed to reduce corruption by targeting black money and making financial transactions more transparent.

In summary, option (c) is the correct answer as it aligns with the primary objective of Modi's demonetization policy, as stated in the passage and widely understood during its implementation.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) Ordered the EC to reveal donation details. The passage mentions that the Supreme Court declared electoral bonds unconstitutional and ordered the Election Commission to reveal donation details.

The Supreme Court took action regarding electoral bonds by ordering the Election Commission (EC) to reveal donation details. This means that the court directed the EC to disclose information about the donors and the amounts contributed through electoral bonds to political parties.

a). Declared them constitutional: The Supreme Court did not declare electoral bonds constitutional. In fact, the passage mentions that the Supreme Court declared electoral bonds unconstitutional, indicating that they found issues with the legality or constitutionality of the bonds.

b). Ordered their immediate abolition: While there have been calls from various quarters for the abolition of electoral bonds, the Supreme Court did not issue such an order as per the information provided in the passage. The focus of the Supreme Court's action was on revealing donation details rather than abolishing the bonds altogether.

d). Issued guidelines for their use: Although the Supreme Court may have issued guidelines or directives regarding the use of electoral bonds, the primary action mentioned in the passage is the order to reveal donation details. While guidelines may have been issued, they are not the primary focus of the Supreme Court's action as described in the passage.

In summary, option (c) is the correct answer as it reflects the specific action taken by the Supreme Court regarding electoral bonds, as mentioned in the passage.

3. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) Through electoral bonds and public donations. The passage mentions that the BJP received significant funds through electoral bonds, along with other sources.

According to the passage, the BJP funded its election campaigns through a combination of electoral bonds and public donations. Electoral bonds are financial instruments that allow individuals and corporations to donate money to political parties anonymously. Public donations refer to contributions made by individuals or entities directly to the party's campaign fund.

a). Through public donations only: While public donations are mentioned as one of the sources of funding for the BJP's election campaigns, the passage also highlights the significant role played by electoral bonds. Therefore, this option is not entirely accurate as it excludes electoral bonds.

b). Through government grants: The passage does not mention government grants as a source of funding for the BJP's election campaigns. Political parties typically do not receive direct government grants for campaign financing.

d). Through foreign funding: Foreign funding for political parties in India is heavily regulated and restricted. The passage does not suggest that the BJP funded its campaigns through foreign sources.

e). Through corporate funding only: While corporate funding is mentioned as a significant source of electoral bonds, the passage does not specify that corporate funding was the sole source of funding for the BJP's election campaigns. It mentions both electoral bonds and public donations, indicating a more diverse funding base.

In summary, option (c) is the correct answer as it accurately reflects the multiple sources of funding, including electoral bonds and public donations, as mentioned in the passage.

4. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is: a) "Na Khaunga, Na Khane Doonga". The passage directly quotes Modi's slogan as "Na Khaunga, Na Khane Doonga" which translates to "Neither will I indulge in corruption nor allow anybody else to participate in it."

Narendra Modi's famous slogan during the 2014 general election campaign was "Na Khaunga, Na Khane Doonga." This slogan translates to "Neither will I indulge in corruption nor allow anybody else to participate in it." It became a prominent part of his campaign rhetoric, emphasizing his commitment to combat corruption and promote clean governance.

b). "Corruption is inevitable": This option contradicts Modi's slogan, which explicitly states his stance against corruption. There is no indication in the passage or in public discourse that Modi endorsed the idea that corruption is inevitable.

c). "Power at any cost": While political parties may adopt such slogans, there is no evidence to suggest that this was Modi's slogan during the 2014 general election campaign. Moreover, it does not align with the theme of combating corruption emphasized in Modi's actual slogan.

d). "Money talks": This slogan conveys a different message related to the influence of money in politics and does not reflect Modi's commitment to fighting corruption as expressed in his actual slogan.

e). "Corruption for progress": This option is the opposite of Modi's actual slogan, which condemns corruption. Associating corruption with progress goes against Modi's stated stance on corruption.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

In summary, option (a) is the correct answer as it accurately reflects Narendra Modi's famous slogan during the 2014 general election campaign, as mentioned in the passage.

5. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) 93rd. The passage mentions that India ranked 93rd out of 180 nations in the corruption perceptions index in 2023.

According to the passage, India's corruption perceptions index ranking in 2023 was 93rd out of 180 nations. This ranking indicates the perceived level of corruption within India compared to other countries.

a). 30th: This option suggests a much higher ranking for India in the corruption perceptions index, which is inconsistent with the information provided in the passage. India's actual ranking in 2023, as stated in the passage, was 93rd.

c). 180th: This option suggests that India was ranked at the bottom of the corruption perceptions index, which is not accurate according to the passage. While India faces challenges related to corruption, it was not ranked last among the 180 nations listed in the index.

d). 1st: This option implies that India was ranked first in the corruption perceptions index, which is not accurate. A ranking of first would indicate that India is perceived to have the lowest level of corruption, which is not consistent with the information provided in the passage.

e). 50th: This option suggests a different ranking for India in the corruption perceptions index, which is not accurate according to the passage. India's actual ranking in 2023, as stated in the passage, was 93rd out of 180 nations.

In summary, option (b) is the correct answer as it accurately reflects India's corruption perceptions index ranking in 2023, as mentioned in the passage.

6. Questions

Answer: C

In the passage, various consequences of corruption are discussed, including economic damage, political instability, breeding ground for further corruption, and undermining of political freedom. However, social progress is not explicitly mentioned as a consequence of corruption in the passage. Therefore, option (c) is the correct answer as it does not align with the consequences discussed in the passage.

a). Economic damage: The passage discusses the significant effects of corruption on the economy, including economic damage caused by corruption. It highlights how corruption can hinder economic growth, distort markets, and lead to inefficiencies, making this option a consequence of corruption as discussed in the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). Political instability: The passage mentions political instability as one of the consequences of corruption. It suggests that corruption undermines political stability by eroding public trust in institutions and fostering a climate of distrust and dissatisfaction among citizens, making this option a consequence of corruption as discussed in the passage.

d). Breeding ground for further corruption: The passage discusses how corruption can create a breeding ground for further corruption by perpetuating a culture of impunity and normalizing corrupt practices. It suggests that failure to curb corruption can lead to its proliferation, making this option a consequence of corruption as discussed in the passage.

e). Undermining of political freedom: The passage highlights how corruption undermines political freedom by enabling the suppression of political opposition through tactics such as raids and the manipulation of legal processes. It suggests that corruption erodes democratic principles and weakens the rule of law, making this option a consequence of corruption as discussed in the passage.

In summary, options (a), (b), (d), and (e) are all consequences of corruption as discussed in the passage, while option (c) is not explicitly mentioned as a consequence of corruption in the passage.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The tone of the passage is critical. It portrays a critical view of corruption in India, particularly highlighting instances of corruption among political leaders and the failure of anti-corruption efforts. The passage presents a critical analysis of various policies and actions taken by political figures, such as Narendra Modi, and their impact on corruption in the country. The language used in the passage reflects a tone of criticism towards corruption and the shortcomings in addressing it effectively. Therefore, option (b) is the most suitable choice for describing the tone of the passage.

a). Objective: An objective tone would present information without bias or personal opinion. It would focus on presenting facts and providing an impartial analysis of the topic. However, the passage expresses a clear viewpoint and critical assessment of corruption in India, indicating that it is not written in an entirely objective tone.

c). Optimistic: An optimistic tone would convey hopefulness, positivity, or confidence about the subject matter. It would emphasize potential solutions or improvements and inspire a positive outlook. However, the passage discusses various instances of corruption, failures in anti-corruption efforts, and the negative consequences of certain policies, which does not align with an optimistic tone.

d). Satirical: A satirical tone would involve the use of irony, sarcasm, or humor to criticize or ridicule the subject matter. While the passage is critical of corruption and political actions, it does not employ satire or humor to convey its message. Instead, it presents a serious and straightforward critique of corruption in India.

e). Indifferent: An indifferent tone would show a lack of interest, concern, or emotion towards the subject matter. It would suggest a detached or apathetic attitude towards the issues discussed. However, the passage clearly expresses a strong viewpoint on corruption and its negative impact, indicating that it is not written in an indifferent tone.

In summary, while the passage could be described as critical, it does not exhibit the characteristics of the other tone options.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

8. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentence, the correct pair of words is " sombre, profound."

"Sombre" accurately describes the mood or tone associated with the anniversary of the Rwandan genocide, which was a deeply tragic and somber event in history. "Profound" emphasizes the depth and seriousness of the implications of the genocide on global peace and security. This combination effectively conveys the gravity of the situation and the lasting impact it has had on humanity.

"Obscure" means unclear or not well-known, and "abstruse" refers to something difficult to understand. This combination does not appropriately reflect the widely acknowledged tragedy of the Rwandan genocide and its profound implications.

a). placid, subtle - "Placid" means calm or peaceful, and "subtle" refers to something delicate or not immediately obvious. This combination does not capture the gravity of the situation or the depth of its implications.

c). tranquil, equivocal - "Tranquil" suggests a state of calmness or serenity, and "equivocal" means ambiguous or uncertain. This pair does not convey the seriousness of the Rwandan genocide or its significant implications.

d). vivacious, astute - "Vivacious" means lively or animated, and "astute" refers to being clever or perceptive. This pair does not fit the context of reflecting on a tragic event like the Rwandan genocide.

So, the completed sentence would be: As the world marks mark the sombre anniversary of the Rwandan genocide, it is imperative to reflect on the legacy of this tragic chapter in human history and its profound implications for global peace and security.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) sombre, profound. This choice effectively captures the solemnity of commemorating the anniversary of the Rwandan genocide and underscores the profound implications it holds for global peace and security.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

9. Questions

Answer: C

In the given sentence, the correct pair of words is " semblance, stifled."

"Semblance" refers to an outward appearance or illusion of something, often without the reality of it. In this context, it suggests that the dynastic tradition provides a superficial appearance of continuity within the party. "Stifled" means suppressed or restrained, indicating that this tradition has hindered innovation and prevented potentially transformative leaders from emerging.

"Veracity" means truthfulness, and "inhibited" means restricted or constrained. This combination does not effectively convey the idea of maintaining a semblance of continuity while hindering innovation.

a). profusion, impeded - "Profusion" means an abundance, and "impeded" means hindered or obstructed. This combination does not fit well with the context of maintaining continuity through a dynastic tradition.

b). deception, subdued - "Deception" refers to misleading or trickery, and "subdued" means restrained or quietened. This pair does not accurately convey the idea of continuity and innovation within a political party.

d). affinity, precluded - "Affinity" refers to a natural liking or connection, and "precluded" means prevented or made impossible. This pair does not capture the concept of a dynastic tradition stifling innovation.

So, the completed sentence would be: While providing a semblance of continuity and a rallying symbol for party loyalists, this dynastic tradition has stifled innovation and excluded potentially transformative leaders from rising through the ranks.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) semblance, stifled. This choice effectively highlights how the dynastic tradition creates the appearance of continuity but actually restricts innovation and prevents new leadership from emerging within the party.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

10. Questions

Answer: D

In the given sentence, the correct pair of words is " skewed, decrying."

"Skewed" means biased or distorted, and "decrying" means strongly disapproving of something. This pair accurately captures the idea of pointing out the unfair influence in media and condemning censorship.

"Influenced" means affected or manipulated, and "denouncing" means condemning or strongly criticizing. While "denouncing censorship" fits, "influenced media landscape" does not accurately convey the concept of bias or distortion.

a). unbiased, censuring - "Unbiased" means fair and impartial, and "censuring" means criticizing or condemning. This combination does not accurately convey the idea of a media landscape being unfairly influenced or censorship being opposed.

b). impartial, discerning - "Impartial" means unbiased or neutral, and "discerning" means perceptive or insightful. This pair does not fit well with the context of describing a media landscape or censorship.

c). balanced, bothering - "Balanced" means fair and even-handed, and "bothering" means troubling or concerning. This combination does not effectively convey the notion of a media landscape being distorted or censorship being criticized.

So, the completed sentence would be: In an era where social media and digital platforms are crucial battlegrounds for public opinion, merely pointing to a skewed media landscape or decrying censorship is not enough.

Therefore, the correct answer is (d) skewed, decrying.

11. Questions

Answer: A

In the given sentence, the correct pair of words is " reminiscent, wielded."

"Reminiscent" means similar to something else, often triggering memories or associations. In this context, it suggests that the transformation under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership is similar to the era when Indira Gandhi held significant influence within the Congress party. "Wielded" means to have effectively used or controlled something, indicating the extent of influence Indira Gandhi had. Together, this pair effectively conveys the idea that the BJP's transformation under Modi's leadership reflects a similar level of influence as seen during Indira Gandhi's era.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"Oblivious" means unaware or ignorant, and "unveiled" means revealed or disclosed. This pair does not fit the context of describing a significant transformation or historical influence.

b). evocative, concealed - "Evocative" means bringing strong memories or feelings to mind, and "concealed" means hidden or kept secret. This combination does not accurately convey the intended comparison between Narendra Modi's leadership and Indira Gandhi's influence.

c). redolent, ceased - "Redolent" means strongly reminiscent or suggestive, and "ceased" means stopped or ended. This pair does not effectively capture the idea of transformation and historical influence.

d). defiant, clinched - "Defiant" means showing resistance or disobedience, and "clinched" means decisively settled or secured. This combination does not accurately describe the nature of the transformation under Narendra Modi's leadership.

So, the completed sentence would be: The BJP under Prime Minister Narendra Modi's leadership has undergone a significant transformation, reminiscent of the era when Indira Gandhi wielded unparalleled influence within the Congress party.

In summary, the correct answer is (a) reminiscent, wielded. This choice effectively highlights the parallels between Narendra Modi's leadership and Indira Gandhi's influence within their respective parties.

12. Questions

Answer: E

In the given sentence, the correct pair of words is " proliferates, trembles."

"Proliferates" accurately describes the unchecked spread of disinformation across digital platforms.

"Trembles" effectively portrays the instability or vulnerability of democracy under the weight of doubt caused by disinformation and populist rhetoric.

a). burgeons, ambles: "Burgeons" means to grow or expand rapidly, which fits the context of disinformation spreading across digital platforms. However, "ambles" means to walk leisurely or casually, which doesn't convey the sense of unchecked proliferation as effectively as "proliferates" does. Additionally, "trembles" effectively conveys the sense of instability, which is not captured by "ambles."

b). emanates, prevails: "Emanates" means to spread out from a source, which could describe the spread of disinformation. However, it doesn't capture the sense of rapid and unchecked growth as effectively as "proliferates" does. "Prevails" means to be widespread or dominant, which fits the context of democracy being affected, but it doesn't convey the sense of instability or vulnerability as effectively as "trembles" does.

c). dwindles, resonates: "Dwindles" means to diminish gradually, which is the opposite of what is happening with disinformation in the sentence. "Resonates" means to have a particular meaning or importance for someone, which doesn't accurately describe the unchecked spread of disinformation. Additionally, "trembles" effectively conveys the sense of instability, which is not captured by "resonates."

d). recedes, stumbles: "Recedes" means to move back or retreat, which doesn't accurately describe the unchecked spread of disinformation. "Stumbles" means to trip or make a mistake, which doesn't convey the sense of instability or vulnerability as effectively as "trembles" does.

e). No replacement required: This is the correct option. The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. "Proliferates" accurately describes the unchecked spread of disinformation, and "trembles" effectively portrays the instability or vulnerability of democracy under the weight of doubt caused by disinformation and populist rhetoric.

In summary, option (e) is the correct choice as the sentence effectively conveys the intended meaning. The words "proliferates" and "trembles" accurately depict the situation described in the sentence.

So, the completed sentence would be: In an age where disinformation proliferates unchecked across digital platforms and where populist rhetoric often eclipses substantive debate, the bedrock of democracy trembles under the weight of doubt.

13. Questions

Answer: A

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (a) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: As the largest democracy in the world, India is looked upon as a model owing to its ideals, such as a non-partisan Election Commission, free dialogue and debate and several abiding features such as non-discriminatory management of diversity, concern for an equitable and equal society, as well as profound reverence for the country's Constitution.

The odd one out is E. India's constitution sets out the country's political code, federal structure, powers of government.

This statement provides factual information about the Indian constitution, its contents, and its function, while the other statements (A, B, C, and D) focus more on ideals, principles, and values associated with India's democracy, such as non-partisan institutions, free dialogue, concern for diversity, and reverence for the Constitution.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

14. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: During the time of elections, it is not uncommon in many parts of the country to witness propaganda campaigns where deep-set prejudices against those of particular ethnic or religious groups are systematically aroused for political gains.

The odd one out is C. To give voters a peaceful time to consider and make a final decision on their vote.

This statement introduces a positive aspect, suggesting a peaceful and thoughtful voting process, while the other statements (A, B, D, and E) focus on negative aspects related to propaganda campaigns, arousing prejudices for political gains, and manipulation during elections.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

15. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: The era of low inflation, marked by decades of economic stability, seems like a

sk53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

distant memory as we grapple with the resurgence of price pressures.

The odd one out is C. The inflation rate has been attributed to many factors.

This statement introduces a different perspective, discussing the attribution of inflation rates to various factors, while the other statements (A, B, D, and E) focus on describing the era of low inflation, economic stability, the resurgence of price pressures, and grappling with the current situation.

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

16. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: India with a paradigm and planned shift from petroleum fuels can leverage biofuels and bio-based chemicals and polymers, which are nearly carbon neutral, offering the best way forward for energy security, and reducing imports of petroleum.

The odd one out is E. And how it can catalyze cost-effective biofuel production.

This statement introduces a different perspective by discussing the catalyzation of cost-effective biofuel production, whereas the other statements (A, B, C, and D) focus more on India's paradigm shift from petroleum fuels to biofuels, energy security, reducing imports, and leveraging biofuels and bio-based chemicals.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

17. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: Central banks must regain the trust of the public by demonstrating their commitment to price stability, while governments must provide the support and guidance necessary to navigate the uncertain waters ahead.

The odd one out is D. central banks the opportunity to participate in a review.

This statement introduces a different perspective, discussing central banks participating in a review, whereas the other statements (A, B, C, and E) focus more on the roles and responsibilities of central banks and governments in regaining public trust, ensuring price stability, and providing support and guidance in uncertain times.

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

18. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

Part A: "As Earth continue to spiral into a climate crisis..."

The subject "Earth" is singular, so the verb should be in the singular form "continues."

Corrected: "As Earth continues to spiral into a climate crisis..."

Part B: "...the recently revelation of March 2024..."

The correct term is "recent revelation" instead of "recently revelation."

Corrected: "...the recent revelation of March 2024..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads:

"As Earth continues to spiral into a climate crisis, the recent revelation of March 2024 marking the 10th consecutive month of record-breaking heat should serve as an unignorable wake-up call."

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: C

Part C: "India find itself at a critical juncture..."

The verb should agree with the subject "India," which is singular. Therefore, it should be "finds" instead of "find."

Corrected: "India finds itself at a critical juncture..."

Part E: "...performances vis-à-vis the China-plus one strategy..."

The error in Part E involves the incorrect plural form "performances." The correct form should be the singular "performance" to match the singular subject "India's FDI" and maintain grammatical agreement.

Part E Correction: "...performance vis-à-vis the China-plus one strategy..."

After these corrections, the sentence reads:

"Amidst the shifting tides of geopolitics and supply chain diversification, India finds itself at a critical juncture, grappling with the implications of its FDI performance vis-à-vis the China-plus one strategy."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

20. Questions

Answer: E

Part A: "The recent developments in key constituencies highlights..."

The error in Part A involves subject-verb agreement. The subject "developments" is plural, but the verb "highlights" is singular. Therefore, the verb should be plural to match the subject.

Correction: "The recent developments in key constituencies highlight..."

Part D: "...opposition parties in navigate the intricate social and political..."The error in Part D is the use of "in navigate." The correct form should be the gerund form "navigating." (Gerund): "...opposition parties in navigating the intricate social and political..."

using the gerund form "navigating" may make the sentence flow more smoothly.

After these corrections, the sentence reads:

The recent developments in key constituencies highlight the complexities and challenges faced by opposition parties in navigating the intricate social and political dynamics of India's most populous state.

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

21. Questions

Answer: D

Part C: "...an organ can be donate by a living person..."The error in Part C is the incorrect verb form "donate." The correct form should be "donated" to match the passive voice structure of the sentence.

Corrected: "...an organ can be donated by a living person..."

Part E: "...share a close bond and wants to donate altruistically..."The error in Part E involves subject-verb agreement. The subject "they" is plural, but the verb "wants" is singular. Therefore, the verb should be plural to match the subject.

Corrected: "...share a close bond and want to donate altruistically..."

After correction, the sentence reads:

"Organs of the deceased donor are anonymously allocated to people waiting for a transplant, while an organ can be donated by a living person only if they (donor and recipient) are close relatives or share a close bond and want to donate altruistically."

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

22. Questions

Answer: B

Part B: "...the dominant of multinationals..."The error in Part B involves the incorrect use of the noun "dominant." It seems like the intended word is "dominance," which is the noun form. Corrected: "...the dominance of multinationals..."

Part E: "...with the introduction of it's new brand 'Wyzr'."

The error in Part E involves the misuse of the possessive pronoun "it's." The correct form should be the possessive determiner "its" without an apostrophe.

Corrected: "...with the introduction of its new brand 'Wyzr'."

After correction, the sentence reads:

Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL) plans to disrupt the dominance of multinationals in the local consumer electronics and home appliances market with the introduction of its new brand 'Wyzr'.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following questions, there are two sentences given below with two or three words highlighted in each sentence and have been interchanged inappropriately. You have to choose the proper arrangement of bold words from the given options to make the given sentences meaningful.

I). It is inappropriate (A) on the part of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to continue to defend, and even pushed (B), the Electoral Bonds Scheme, which was struck down as unconstitutional by the Supreme court in February this year.

II). The Prime Minister has said that the court's decision has commend (C) contributions made to parties towards "black money," referring to the system of political donations that prevailed (D) before the bonds scheme was introduced in 2017.

a. A-C

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

2. Questions

I). The Election Commission of India's proactive attention to 266 low-turnout parliamentary constituencies points to its extension (A) to take the issue (B) head-on.

II). Voter turnout is among the major checkpoints on which the quality (C) of elections and, by intention (D), the health of Indian democracy is evaluated.

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

3. Questions

I). India's parliamentary elections, which began on April 19, is marked (A) as the largest electoral exercise in history, and promises to be one of the most graduating (B) for the country's 968 million eligible voters, beset as they are by a host of conflicting issues, electoral promises and manifestos.

II). Some feel that the last ten years have been an unmitigated economic disaster billed (C) by rising unemployment and record wealth inequalities, while others believe that the economy has bloomed and is on the verge of challenging (D) to developed nation status.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

4. Questions

I). The continued dissemination (A) as well as the poor quality of official data in India is, therefore, becoming (B) a matter of concern — domestically and abroad.

II). This is unfortunate since the quality and the public scarcity (C) of data are integral (D) to the fates of transparency and democracy.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

5. Questions

I). To those watching (A) political parties over time, it is fascinating and instructive to see how they factor into their manifestos and election campaigns some of the popular issues of the time, irrespective of their own conviction and commitment (B) to them.

II). Twenty-five years ago, in the 1999 election campaign, these barely made an appearance either in manifestos or on the campaign trail of the Bharatiya Janata Party which was then seeking (C) another term in the office under the stewardship (D) of Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee.

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. A-D and B-C

e. No Correction required

6. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

With the rise of fintech companies and digital banking platforms, traditional banks are facing increasing competition in the financial services landscape. Fintech innovations such as peer-to-peer lending, robo-advisors, and mobile payment apps offer customers new ways to manage their finances and access credit. To remain competitive, traditional banks are embracing _____.

a. reducing customer service offerings to cut costs.

b. partnering with fintech companies for innovative solutions.

c. increasing fees for banking services to boost revenue.

d. expanding physical branch networks to reach more customers

e. limiting digital banking features to maintain traditional practices.

7. Questions

In recent years, financial institutions have increasingly embraced digital transformation to meet the evolving needs of customers in an interconnected world. Online banking platforms, mobile apps, and digital payment solutions have become integral parts of daily financial transactions, offering convenience and accessibility. However, as technology continues to advance, it is essential for banks to prioritize _____.

a. improving customer service through human interactions.

b. enhancing data privacy and security measures

c. reducing the accessibility of digital banking services.

d. increasing reliance on paper-based transactions.

e. neglecting advancements in financial technology (fintech).

8. Questions

In recent years, the concept of open banking has gained traction, revolutionizing the way financial services are delivered and accessed. Open banking allows third-party financial service providers to access financial data from banks through APIs (Application Programming Interfaces), enabling innovative solutions such as budgeting apps, personalized financial advice, and seamless payment integrations. However, to fully realize the potential of open banking and ensure consumer protection, it is essential for regulatory authorities to establish _____.

a. stringent data privacy regulations to safeguard consumer information.

b. barriers to entry for new fintech startups to prevent competition.

c. limitations on the types of financial services offered by third-party providers.

d. exclusive partnerships between banks and third-party providers for data access.

e. unrestricted access to consumer financial data for all third-party providers.

9. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In today's dynamic financial landscape, investors face a multitude of options for building and diversifying their portfolios. With access to a wide range of investment vehicles, including stocks, bonds, mutual funds, and exchange-traded funds (ETFs), investors have the opportunity to tailor their investment strategies to align with their financial goals and risk tolerance. However, to navigate the complexities of the financial markets successfully, it is essential for investors to conduct thorough research and _____.

a. consult with financial advisors for personalized investment advice.

b. rely solely on past performance data for investment decisions.

c. ignore market trends and economic indicators.

d. invest impulsively without considering long-term goals.

e. diversify their investment portfolios to manage risk effectively.

10. Questions

The concept of risk is inherent in the field of finance, where investors weigh potential returns against the possibility of losses. Risk management strategies aim to identify, assess, and mitigate various types of risks, including market risk, credit risk, and operational risk. However, effective risk management goes beyond mere avoidance; it involves striking a balance between risk and reward. Therefore, it is essential for financial institutions to implement _____.

a. rigid risk aversion policies to minimize potential losses.

b. leveraging high-risk investments for maximum returns.

c. comprehensive risk assessment frameworks and protocols.

d. overlooking risk factors to prioritize short-term gains.

e. relying solely on historical data for risk analysis.

11. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with a blank, which is followed by a word. You have to identify the given word is correct or not, if not, choose the correct word from the following options.

The Dubai _____(drought) prompted much speculation about whether the UAE's cloud-seeding programme was the culprit.

a. surge

b. stream

c. deluge

d. dearth

e. No replacement required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

As soon as Hamas executed its attack last October 7, it was inevitable that Israel would strike back in strength without any _____(euphoria).

a. anguish

b. remorse

c. exultation

d. exuberance

e. No replacement required

13. Questions

Over recent decades, policymakers have equated consumption, often funded by borrowing because of _____(buoyant) incomes, to better living standards.

a. creeping

b. prolific

c. stagnant

d. indolent

e. No replacement required

14. Questions

As the world's largest democracy, India boasts of a youthful population, a demographic advantage that, if properly leveraged, could _____(expedite) the nation towards becoming an advanced economy by 2047.

a. gather

b. propel

c. impede

d. thwart

e. No replacement required

15. Questions

India stands at a crossroads, poised to either capitalise on its demographic dividend or _____(squander) its potential.

a. exploit

b. retrench

c. converge

d. replenish

e. No replacement required

16. Questions

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). The legacy of colonial rule, with its arbitrary borders and divide-and-rule policies, continues to manifest in linguistic, religious, and ethnic tensions that pervade the Indian subcontinent.

B). In the vibrant tapestry that is New India, (A)/ the trauma of Partition, (B)/ the shadows of its colonial past, (C)/ and the echoes of historical conflicts loom persistently, (D)/ subtly yet significantly shaping its social and political contours (E).

C). These spectral remnants are not mere footnotes in history; they are active participants in the nation's present, influencing contemporary identity and communal relations in many ways.

D). Acknowledging and engaging with these spectres is crucial for forging a path toward a more inclusive and harmonious society where the lessons of the past inform the decisions of the present and the aspirations for the future.

E). In this context, historical hauntings act as a prism through which the complexities of nation-building, amidst diverging narratives and unresolved grievances, are not only highlighted but also interrogated.

F). Moreover, the political discourse surrounding these issues often invokes historical figures and events, from the freedom struggle to the Emergency of the 1970s, as points of reference or contention.

Find the suitable Antonym of the word highlighted in bold.

a. deplete
b. permeate
c. percolate
d. proliferate
e. None of these

17. Questions

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B
b. C
c. D
d. E
e. F

18. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (B) which is divided into five parts.

a. ABCDE
b. ACDBE
c. ABDCE
d. ADBCE

sky53up@gmail.com

e. ACBDE

19. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (D) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. Acknowledging and engaging with these specters is crucial for

b. forging a path toward a more inclusive and harmonious society

c. where the lessons of the past informing the decisions

d. of the present and the aspirations for the future.

e. No correction required

20. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCDE

b. ABECD

c. ABEDF

d. BCAED

e. BCADF

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

In the given sentences, 'pushed' and 'commend' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). It is inappropriate on the part of Prime Minister Narendra Modi to continue to defend, and even commend, the Electoral Bonds Scheme, which was struck down as unconstitutional by the Supreme court in February this year.

II). The Prime Minister has said that the court's decision has pushed contributions made to parties towards "black money," referring to the system of political donations that prevailed before the bonds scheme was introduced in 2017.

So the correct answer is: b) B-C.

2. Questions

Sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: A

In the given sentences, 'extension' and 'intention' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The Election Commission of India's proactive attention to 266 low-turnout parliamentary constituencies points to its intention to take the issue head-on.

II). Voter turnout is among the major checkpoints on which the quality of elections and, by extension, the health of Indian democracy is evaluated.

So the correct answer is: a) A-D.

3. Questions

Answer: C

In the given sentences, 'marked' and 'billed' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct as well as 'graduating' and 'challenging' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). India's parliamentary elections, which began on April 19, is billed as the largest electoral exercise in history, and promises to be one of the most challenging for the country's 968 million eligible voters, beset as they are by a host of conflicting issues, electoral promises and manifestos.

II). Some feel that the last ten years have been an unmitigated economic disaster marked by rising unemployment and record wealth inequalities, while others believe that the economy has bloomed and is on the verge of graduating to developed nation status.

So the correct answer is: c) A-C and B-D.

4. Questions

Answer: A

In the given sentences, 'dissemination' and 'scarcity' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The continued scarcity as well as the poor quality of official data in India is, therefore, becoming a matter of concern — domestically and abroad.

II). This is unfortunate since the quality and the public dissemination of data are integral to the fates of transparency and democracy.

So the correct answer is: a) A-C.

5. Questions

Answer: E

e) No Correction required

The sentences are correct, hence no correction required.

6. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) partnering with fintech companies for innovative solutions.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on traditional banks adapting to the changing landscape by embracing fintech innovations. Partnering with fintech companies allows traditional banks to leverage innovative solutions and technologies to enhance their offerings and meet evolving customer needs. By collaborating with fintech firms, banks can access new technologies, improve efficiency, and expand their range of services without having to develop everything in-house. This approach enables traditional banks to remain competitive and relevant in a rapidly evolving financial services industry.

The other options either involve counterproductive measures, such as reducing customer service offerings (a) or increasing fees (c), which could lead to customer dissatisfaction and push them towards fintech alternatives. Expanding physical branch networks (d) may not align with the trend towards digital banking, and limiting digital banking features (e) would hinder innovation and customer convenience.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) enhancing data privacy and security measures.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the importance of ensuring the security and privacy of financial transactions in the digital age. As banking services become increasingly digital, the protection of customer data becomes paramount. Enhancing data privacy and security measures is crucial for safeguarding sensitive information from cyber threats and unauthorized access. It ensures that customers can trust their financial institutions with their personal and financial data, contributing to a secure and reliable banking experience. The other options either involve counterproductive measures, such as reducing accessibility to digital banking services (c) or neglecting advancements in financial technology (e), or regressive practices, such as increasing reliance on paper-based transactions (d), which go against the trend of digital transformation in banking. Option (a), while important, does not address the overarching theme of technology and digital transformation highlighted in the paragraph.

8. Questions

Answer: A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: a) stringent data privacy regulations to safeguard consumer information.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on ensuring consumer protection within the context of open banking. Stringent data privacy regulations are essential to safeguarding consumer information and maintaining trust in the financial system. By establishing robust privacy regulations, regulatory authorities can ensure that consumers' financial data is handled securely and ethically by third-party providers accessing banking data through APIs. This helps to address concerns related to data security, unauthorized access, and potential misuse of personal financial information. The other options either involve practices that hinder innovation and competition (b, c, d) or pose risks to consumer privacy and security (e).

9. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) consult with financial advisors for personalized investment advice.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the importance of conducting thorough research and seeking guidance in navigating the financial markets successfully. Consulting with financial advisors allows investors to receive personalized investment advice tailored to their unique financial circumstances, goals, and risk tolerance. Financial advisors can provide valuable insights, expertise, and recommendations to help investors make informed decisions and optimize their investment strategies. In contrast, the other options (b, c, d, and e) advocate ineffective or risky approaches to investment decision-making, such as relying solely on past performance data, ignoring market trends, investing impulsively, or failing to diversify portfolios.

10. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) comprehensive risk assessment frameworks and protocols.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on effective risk management in finance. Comprehensive risk assessment frameworks and protocols enable financial institutions to systematically identify, assess, and manage various types of risks they face. By implementing such frameworks, institutions can better understand the nature and magnitude of risks, allowing them to make informed decisions and take appropriate actions to mitigate potential losses. This approach ensures a balanced approach to risk management, considering both risk and reward.

The other options present strategies or approaches that are either too conservative (a), too risky (b), or outright negligent (d), and they do not contribute to effective risk management. Option (e) suggests relying solely on historical data, which may not capture emerging risks or changing market conditions adequately.

11. Questions

Answer: C

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of heavy rainfall or a flood is "deluge."

Therefore, the correct answer is: c) deluge

Surge (Option a) typically refers to a sudden powerful forward or upward movement, often in the context of a large increase. While it can be related to water, it doesn't specifically convey the idea of heavy rainfall or a flood.

Stream (Option b) refers to a continuous flow of water, but it doesn't necessarily suggest the magnitude or intensity of a deluge.

Deluge (Option c) means a severe flood or a heavy downpour of rain, which accurately conveys the idea of heavy rainfall or a flood in the context of the sentence.

Dearth (Option d) means a scarcity or lack of something, which is the opposite of what is described in the sentence.

Drought refers to a prolonged period of abnormally low rainfall, which is the opposite of a deluge.

So, "deluge" is the most appropriate word in this context to describe the heavy rainfall or flood that prompted speculation about the UAE's cloud-seeding program.

12. Questions

Answer: B

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea that Israel would strike back without any feeling of guilt or regret is "remorse."

Therefore, the correct answer is: b) remorse

Anguish (Option a) refers to severe mental or physical pain or suffering. While Israel might indeed strike back with anguish or anger, the sentence focuses on the lack of guilt or regret, which "anguish" does not directly convey.

Remorse (Option b) means a feeling of deep regret or guilt for a wrong committed. This word accurately reflects the lack of regret or guilt Israel would feel when striking back after an attack by Hamas.

Exultation (Option c) means a feeling of triumphant elation or jubilation, which is not appropriate in the context of a military response to an attack.

Exuberance (Option d) refers to the quality of being full of energy, excitement, and cheerfulness. It doesn't fit the context of Israel's response to an attack.

Euphoria refers to a feeling or state of intense excitement and happiness, often to an excessive degree. It doesn't convey the lack of guilt or regret that Israel would feel when striking back.

So, "remorse" is the most appropriate word in this context to convey the idea that Israel would strike back without any feeling of guilt or regret.

13. Questions

Answer: C

In the given sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of incomes that are not increasing or growing is "stagnant."

Therefore, the correct answer is: c) stagnant

Creeping (Option a) typically means slowly advancing or increasing, which doesn't align with the idea of incomes that are not growing.

Prolific (Option b) means producing in large quantities or being highly productive, which is the opposite of what is being described in the context of stagnant incomes.

Stagnant (Option c) refers to something that is not advancing, developing, or increasing. In the context of incomes, stagnant means that they are not growing or increasing over time, which fits well in the sentence.

Indolent (Option d) means lazy or slothful, which is not directly related to the concept of incomes that are not growing.

sky55up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Buoyant means cheerful or optimistic, or in a financial context, it can mean having a tendency to rise or float. Neither of these meanings fits well in the context of describing incomes that are not growing.

So, "stagnant" is the most appropriate word in this context to convey the idea of incomes that are not increasing or growing over recent decades.

14. Questions

Answer: B

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of moving or driving the nation forward is "propel."

Therefore, the correct answer is: b) propel

Gather (Option a) means to bring together or collect, but it doesn't convey the idea of moving or advancing the nation towards becoming an advanced economy.

Propel (Option b) means to drive or push forward. In the context of the sentence, it accurately conveys the idea of leveraging the youthful population to drive or advance the nation towards becoming an advanced economy.

Impede (Option c) means to hinder or obstruct progress, which is the opposite of what is intended in the sentence.

Thwart (Option d) means to prevent or frustrate someone's efforts, which is also the opposite of what is intended in the sentence.

Expedite means to make something happen sooner or faster, but it doesn't convey the idea of driving or advancing the nation forward.

So, "propel" is the most appropriate word in this context.

15. Questions

Answer: E

No replacement required

In this sentence, the word "squander" correctly conveys the idea of wasting or failing to make the best use of India's potential. The option (e), "No replacement required," indicates that the given word in the sentence is appropriate.

Exploit (Option a) typically has a negative connotation, implying the selfish or unfair use of resources for personal gain. It doesn't align with the intended meaning of making the best use of India's potential in a positive and beneficial way.

Retrench (Option b) means to reduce or cut back, especially in terms of expenses or resources. It doesn't fit in the context of making the best use of India's potential.

Converge (Option c) means to come together or meet at a point. While it could suggest a positive outcome, it doesn't convey the idea of utilizing India's potential.

Replenish (Option d) means to refill or restore something that has been depleted. It doesn't fit in the context of deciding whether to make the best use of India's potential.

sky53un@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

So, "squander" accurately captures the notion of wasting or failing to utilize India's potential, making it the correct choice for the sentence. Therefore, "No replacement required" is the appropriate answer.

16. Questions

Answer: A

The suitable antonym for "pervade" is "deplete." So, the answer would be: a) deplete

In the sentence, it states that the legacy of colonial rule continues to manifest in tensions that pervade the Indian subcontinent. "Pervade" means to spread throughout or to be present throughout every part of something. So, the sentence is suggesting that these tensions are widespread and present in various aspects of life across the Indian subcontinent.

To find the suitable antonym for "pervade," we need a word that means the opposite, indicating a reduction or decrease rather than a widespread presence. Among the options provided: The word deplete means to reduce or decrease something, usually in quantity or strength. In the context of the sentence, if tensions were to deplete, it would mean that they are decreasing or diminishing, which is the opposite of pervading or spreading throughout.

a). deplete: This means to reduce or decrease something, usually in quantity or strength. In the context of the sentence, if tensions were to deplete, it would mean that they are decreasing or diminishing.

b). permeate: This means to spread throughout something, often implying that it fills or saturates the entire space. In the context of the sentence, if tensions were to permeate, it would mean that they are spreading extensively throughout the Indian subcontinent.

c). percolate: This means to filter through or spread gradually, usually suggesting a slow and subtle diffusion. In the context of the sentence, if tensions were to percolate, it would mean that they are gradually spreading or seeping into different aspects of the Indian subcontinent.

d). proliferate: This means to increase rapidly in number or spread, often implying a rapid and unchecked growth. In the context of the sentence, if tensions were to proliferate, it would mean that they are rapidly increasing or spreading throughout the Indian subcontinent.

17. Questions

Answer: E

The odd one out is Sentence F: "As people had to choose between one nation and the other during and after Partition, homes were lost and lives were altered forever."

Sentences A to E primarily focus on the lasting impact of colonialism, Partition, and historical conflicts on the Indian subcontinent, emphasizing their influence on contemporary society and the need to address them for a more inclusive future. However, sentence F provides a specific example related to the consequences of Partition, which is more concrete and specific compared to the broader discussion in the other sentences about the ongoing influence of historical events.

18. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “In the vibrant tapestry that is New India, the shadows of its colonial past, the trauma of Partition, and the echoes of historical conflicts loom persistently, subtly yet significantly shaping its social and political contours."

19. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part (C). Part C should be corrected to "where the lessons of the past inform the decisions."

The error in this sentence involves incorrect verb usage. The phrase "where the lessons of the past informing the decisions" is grammatically incorrect. The verb "informing" should be in the present tense form "inform" to agree with the subject "lessons of the past."

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part C should be corrected to "where the lessons of the past inform the decisions."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "Acknowledging and engaging with these specters is crucial for forging a path toward a more inclusive and harmonious society where the lessons of the past inform the decisions of the present and the aspirations for the future." This version uses the correct verb tense to convey the intended meaning.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph discusses the lingering impact of colonialism and historical conflicts on the social and political landscape of contemporary India, emphasizing the importance of acknowledging and addressing these influences for building a more inclusive society.

The sequence begins with sentence B, which sets the stage by highlighting the persistent influence of colonial past and historical conflicts on contemporary India. Sentence C follows, reinforcing the active role of historical remnants in shaping contemporary identity and communal relations. Sentence A introduces the lingering impact of colonialism on linguistic, religious, and ethnic tensions in the Indian subcontinent. Sentence E adds further depth by emphasizing historical hauntings as a prism to understand the complexities of nation-building. Finally, sentence D concludes by stressing the importance of acknowledging and addressing these influences for building a more inclusive and harmonious society.

So, the correct sequence is: B - C – A – E - D.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the paragraph carefully and answer the following questions:

In the crucible of conflict, Ukraine finds itself at a critical juncture, grappling with the harsh reality of war's relentless toll. As the spectre of Russian aggression looms large, Ukraine's Parliament has passed a ____(A)____ law aimed at bolstering the depleted ranks of the country's military. This move comes amidst a backdrop of escalating hostilities, with vital infrastructure such as the Trypilska thermal power plant falling prey to devastating missile strikes. The passage of the mobilisation law underscores the urgent need for reinforcements in the face of an increasingly emboldened adversary. With the Ukrainian military stretched thin, the call for additional troops is not just a strategic imperative but a matter of existential urgency. However, the efficacy of this measure remains uncertain, as logistical challenges and doubts about the adequacy of Western aid persist. At the heart of the debate lies the delicate balance between national defence and societal sacrifice. The prospect of conscription inevitably evokes mixed emotions, as families grapple with the prospect of their loved ones being thrust into harm's way. Yet, amidst the ____(B)____ and apprehension, there remains a resolute determination to defend Ukraine's sovereignty at all costs. Indeed, the passage of the mobilisation law is a testament to Ukraine's unwavering commitment to resist foreign aggression and safeguard its hard-won freedoms. It is a solemn acknowledgment of the sacrifices borne by its men and women in uniform, who have (C) valiantly defended their homeland against overwhelming odds. However, the challenges facing Ukraine extend beyond the battlefield. The recent (D) onslaught on critical infrastructure highlights the nature of Russia's hybrid warfare tactics, which seek to undermine Ukraine's resilience and sow discord among its populace. As energy facilities lie in ruins and cities plunge into darkness, the need for international solidarity and support becomes ever more pressing. Yet, amidst the chaos and destruction, there are glimmers of hope. The resilience of the Ukrainian people, undaunted in the face of adversity, serves as a beacon of inspiration to the world. From the front lines to the halls of Parliament, there is a ____(E)____ sense of unity and resolve to confront the challenges ahead. As Ukraine braces itself for the trials yet to come, it does so with a resolve forged in the crucible of conflict. The passage of the mobilisation law may mark the beginning of a new chapter in Ukraine's struggle, but it is a chapter written with the spirit of a nation determined to defend its sovereignty and uphold its values. In the end, the true measure of Ukraine's resilience lies not in the passing of laws or the strength of its military, but in the unwavering resolve of its people to stand tall in the face of adversity. And it is this spirit of defiance that will ultimately determine Ukraine's fate in the ____(F)____ days ahead.

Which of the following words can fit in the blank A?

a. benign

b. tranquil

c. serene

d. contentious

e. dubious

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words can fit in the blank B?

a. euphoria
b. vivacity
c. anguish
d. besiege
e. attrition

3. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "valiantly" used in the sentence?

a. timorously
b. cravenly
c. recreantly
d. valorously
e. ambivalently

4. Questions

What is the appropriate synonym for the term "onslaught" as used in the passage?

a. foray
b. incursion
c. ambush
d. plunder
e. assault

5. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank E?

a. certain
b. obscure
c. palpable
d. prominent
e. conspicuous

6. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank F?

a. tranquil

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. furious

c. turbulent

d. raucous

e. tumultuous

7. Questions

In the following questions, a table is given with three columns; a divided sentence is mentioned in three columns you have to combine the divided parts of the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Mobile banking has emerged as a powerful tool	D). by promoting the establishment of banks in rural areas and	G). managing their money and accessing financial services.
B). Government policies and initiatives can drive financial inclusion	E). for financial inclusion, allowing people to conduct transactions	H). implementing programs to educate and empower underserved communities.
C). Financial literacy programs are essential for ensuring that	F). can play a significant role in promoting financial inclusion by	I). and access banking services using their mobile phones.

a. Only AEG

b. Only BFH

c. Both AEG and CFG

d. Both AEI and BDH

e. All AEG, BDH and CFI

8. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Community-based financial institutions such as credit unions and cooperatives,	D). and payment facilities, is fundamental to promoting financial inclusion	G). to transact without the need for traditional bank accounts.
B). Digital payment systems are transforming the landscape of financial inclusion,	E). has the potential to revolutionize financial inclusion by providing	H). and empowering individuals economically.
C). The integration of fintech innovations into the financial sector	F). providing convenient and secure ways for people	I). serving the needs of their members and communities.

a. Only AIH

b. Only BFG

c. Both AIH and BEG

d. Both BFG and CDI

e. All ADI, BEG and CFH

9. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Microfinance institutions play a vital role in promoting	D). are key to advancing financial inclusion initiatives	G). remote and underserved areas, increasing financial inclusion.
B). Partnerships between governments, financial institutions, and non-profit organizations	E). financial inclusion by offering small loans, savings accounts,	H). and other financial services to low-income individuals.
C). The expansion of branchless banking through agent networks	F). and mobile banking has extended financial services to	I). and reaching marginalized communities effectively.

a. Only AEH

b. Only BDH

c. Both AEH and BDI

d. Both BDI and CFG

e. All AEH, BDI and CFG

10. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Targeted interventions to address specific barriers to financial inclusion	D). such as identification requirements or lack of financial infrastructure,	G). can significantly enhance financial inclusion.
B). Regulatory frameworks that encourage innovation and competition	E). small businesses to invest in education, healthcare, and entrepreneurship,	H). development of inclusive financial products and services.
C). Affordable and accessible credit products enable individuals and	F). in the financial sector can lead to the	I). driving economic growth and reducing poverty.

a. Only ADG

b. Only BHI

c. Both BFH and CEI

d. Both AFH and BDG

e. All AEI, BFH and CDG

11. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Financial education and literacy programs are essential components of any strategy	D). to reduce transaction costs, improve efficiency, and reach previously	G). to expand financial services to underserved populations.
B). Financial inclusion aims to provide access to affordable	E). to promote financial inclusion, empowering individuals	H). those traditionally excluded from the formal banking system.
C). The digitization of financial services has the potential	F). financial services for all individuals, especially	I). underserved populations, advancing financial inclusion goals.

a. Only ADG

b. Only AEH and BFI

c. Both BFI and CEH

d. Both BFH and CDI

e. All AEH, BFG and CDI

12. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The mother searched frantically for her lost child in the crowded park, calling out their name with increasing urgency.

II). I decided to sack some groceries for dinner tonight.

III). After the economic downturn, the company faced a bleak future, with layoffs and dwindling profits on the horizon.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

13. Questions

I). Despite facing severe consequences, she stood tall in defiance of the unjust law, refusing to comply with its oppressive measures.

II). Despite initial setbacks, she was not daunted and continued to pursue her dreams with determination.

III). The employee's energy was depleted after a long vacation, leaving them feeling refreshed and ready to tackle their workload.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both I and III

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

14. Questions

I). Her lack of resilience was evident as she quickly bounced back from setbacks and adversity, showing strength and determination.

II). The company's decision to downsize its workforce was aimed at bolstering employee morale, but it resulted in widespread dissatisfaction and low morale among the remaining staff.

III). Despite numerous setbacks, she maintained a relentless pursuit of her goals, never giving up on her dreams.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

15. Questions

I). His lack of remorse for his actions was evident as he apologized sincerely to those affected by his behaviour.

II). Despite his expertise, he couldn't help but fumble with the unfamiliar controls of the new machine.

III). The peaceful protest aimed to ravage awareness about environmental issues and promote community harmony.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

16. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). He was accused for stealing money from the company's fund.

B). Despite the rain, the outdoor event continued as planned.

C). The cat jumped onto the table and knocked over a vase of flowers.

a. Only A
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

17. Questions

skyeSup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). She runs very fastly during the races, often winning first place.

B). She received a big and an expensive gift for her birthday.

C). He spoke too loudly, disturbing the entire class.

a. Both A and B
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

18. Questions

A). Not only the movie was interesting, but it was also a thought-provoking experience.

B). Despite the obstacles, neither the team nor the coach were deterred.

C). The dog found a cozy and warm spot to take a nap.

a. Both A and B
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

19. Questions

A). She is interested in joining the club to enhance her social skills.

B). Despite the rain, a flock of birds flew gracefully across the sky.

C). She speaks French well enough to hold a conversation.

a. Both A and B
b. Both B and C
c. Both A and C
d. All A, B and C
e. No error

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: D

The word that best fits in the blank A is (d) "contentious".

a). benign - This word means harmless or gentle. In the context of the passage, it doesn't fit because it doesn't convey the seriousness or contentious nature of the law being passed. The situation described involves conflict and aggression, so "benign" would be an inappropriate choice.

b). tranquil - Tranquil means calm or peaceful. Again, in the context of the passage which discusses the harsh reality of war, escalating hostilities, and missile strikes on vital infrastructure, "tranquil" would be out of place. The situation described is anything but peaceful.

c). serene - Serene means calm, peaceful, or untroubled. Similar to "tranquil," it doesn't fit the context of the passage which describes a country grappling with the toll of war and facing increasing aggression from Russia. The atmosphere depicted is far from serene.

d). contentious - Contentious means causing or likely to cause an argument; controversial. This word fits well with the passage, as it describes the situation where Ukraine's Parliament is passing a law in the midst of escalating hostilities and amid doubts and debates about its efficacy and implications. The passage suggests that the decision to pass this law is not without disagreement or controversy.

e). dubious - Dubious means hesitating or doubting. While doubts are mentioned in the passage regarding the adequacy of Western aid and the efficacy of the mobilization law, the term "dubious" doesn't quite capture the contentious nature of the situation. It's more about uncertainty than about the controversial or disputed nature of the law itself.

Therefore, "contentious" (d) is the most appropriate word to fill in the blank A, as it accurately reflects the controversial and debated nature of the law passed by Ukraine's Parliament.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The word that best fits in the blank A is (c) "anguish".

a). Euphoria: This word refers to a feeling of intense excitement, happiness, or joy. However, in the context of the passage, which discusses the harsh reality of war, missile strikes on infrastructure, and the urgent need for reinforcements in the military, "euphoria" would be an inappropriate choice as it doesn't align with the somber and serious tone of the text.

b). Vivacity: Vivacity refers to liveliness and energy. While this word could be used to describe certain emotions or situations, it doesn't accurately capture the sense of mixed emotions, apprehension, and seriousness conveyed in the passage. Therefore, it's not the best fit for the blank.

c). Anguish: Anguish refers to extreme suffering, grief, or distress. This word aligns well with the context of the passage, which discusses the emotional turmoil experienced by families as they face the possibility of their loved ones being sent into harm's way. The word "anguish" effectively conveys the intense emotions associated with such a situation.

d). Besiege: To besiege means to surround and harass, typically with the intent of capturing or forcing someone or something to surrender. While the word "besiege" could be relevant in the broader context of the passage, it doesn't directly address the emotions experienced by families or the societal impact of the mobilisation law, which are the focus of the blank.

e). Attrition: Attrition refers to the gradual reduction or weakening of something over time, often due to sustained pressure or continuous losses. While attrition could be a relevant concept in discussions of military strategy or the toll of conflict, it doesn't directly address the emotions or societal impact mentioned in the passage. Therefore, it's not the most appropriate choice for the blank.

In summary, "anguish" (c) is the most appropriate word choice for the blank B. It accurately conveys the sense of distress and emotional turmoil experienced by families and individuals as they confront the realities of war and the potential consequences of the mobilization law.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The word that can replace "valiantly" in the sentence is "d) valorously." It fits the context of describing the courageous and brave actions of the Ukrainian military in defending their homeland.

a). timorously - This word means timidly or fearfully, which is the opposite of what is being conveyed in the sentence. It suggests hesitation or lack of bravery, which doesn't fit the context.

b). cravenly - This word means cowardly or lacking in courage. Similar to "timorously," it conveys the opposite meaning of what is intended in the sentence. It implies a lack of bravery rather than courageous action.

c). recreantly - This word means showing cowardice or lacking loyalty. Like "cravenly," it suggests a lack of courage or commitment, which doesn't align with the context of the sentence where the actions of the Ukrainian military are being praised.

d). valorously - This word means courageously or bravely. It perfectly fits the context of the sentence, as it describes the heroic actions of the Ukrainian military in defending their homeland against overwhelming odds.

e). ambivalently - This word means having mixed feelings or uncertainty. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which is praising the courageous actions of the Ukrainian military. Using "ambivalently" would imply a lack of clear determination or commitment, which contradicts the tone of the sentence.

4. Questions

Answer: E

The synonym for "onslaught" as used in the passage is "assault" (e).

a). Foray: While a foray can imply a sudden attack or raid, it doesn't quite capture the sense of a sustained and intense attack, which is more in line with the meaning of "onslaught" in this context.

b). Incursion: This term refers to a sudden invasion or attack into territory, which is somewhat similar to "onslaught" but lacks the connotation of a relentless or overwhelming assault.

c). Ambush: An ambush involves a surprise attack from a concealed position, typically targeting a specific group or individual, rather than the widespread and continuous nature of an "onslaught."

d). Plunder: Plunder refers to the act of stealing goods or valuables, usually during or after a conflict, but it doesn't specifically denote the act of an aggressive attack or assault.

e). Assault: This is the correct synonym for "onslaught" in this context. An assault involves a violent attack or barrage of attacks, often with the intention of causing harm or destruction, which aligns well with the description of the attack on critical infrastructure in the passage.

Therefore, "assault" best captures the meaning conveyed by "onslaught" in this context.

5. Questions

Answer: B

The word that cannot fit in the blank labelled (E) is: b) obscure

The word that cannot fit in the blank E is "obscure." All the other options - "certain," "palpable," "prominent," and "conspicuous" - convey a sense of visibility, clarity, or prominence, which aligns with the context of the sentence. "Obscure" means unclear or hidden, which doesn't fit the tone or meaning of the sentence.

a). "Certain" - This word implies a definite or unmistakable sense of unity and resolve among the Ukrainian people, which fits well with the context of the sentence.

b). "Obscure" - This word means unclear or hidden, which doesn't align with the context of the sentence. The sentence is describing a sense of unity and resolve that is visible and evident, not hidden or unclear.

c). "Palpable" - "Palpable" means able to be touched or felt, often used metaphorically to describe something that is easily perceived or understood. In this context, it suggests that the sense of unity and resolve among the Ukrainian people is tangible and strongly felt, making it an appropriate choice.

d). "Prominent" - "Prominent" means standing out or easily noticeable, which fits well with the idea that there is a visible and significant sense of unity and resolve among the Ukrainian people.

e). "Conspicuous" - Similar to "prominent," "conspicuous" means attracting attention or standing out, which makes it a suitable choice for describing the sense of unity and resolve among the Ukrainian people in the sentence.

Therefore, "b) obscure " is the word that cannot fit in the blank (E).

6. Questions

Answer: A

The word that cannot fit in the blank (F) is: a) tranquil

The word "tranquil" cannot fit in the blank F. The passage describes a situation of conflict, turmoil, and adversity, so a word suggesting calmness or peace like "tranquil" would be out of place. Therefore, the correct answer is a) tranquil.

a). tranquil - This word means calm, peaceful, or free from disturbance. Given the description of Ukraine grappling with war, conflict, and devastation, the idea of tranquillity doesn't align with the situation presented in the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). furious - This word means extremely angry or full of intense emotion. Given the context of escalating hostilities, missile strikes on infrastructure, and the urgent need for reinforcements in the face of aggression, the idea of fury fits well with the description of the situation.

c). turbulent - This word means characterized by conflict, disorder, or agitation. It perfectly encapsulates the atmosphere described in the passage, with Ukraine facing challenges of war, destruction of infrastructure, and the need for societal sacrifice amidst escalating hostilities.

d). raucous - This word means harsh-sounding, disorderly, or loud. While it doesn't directly describe the situation in Ukraine, it could be interpreted as fitting due to the chaos and destruction caused by warfare and the urgency conveyed in the passage.

e). tumultuous - This word means characterized by confusion, disorder, or upheaval. It aptly describes the state of affairs in Ukraine as depicted in the passage, with escalating conflict, devastation of infrastructure, and the urgent need for reinforcements.

In summary, all options except "tranquil" are suitable to describe the tumultuous and challenging situation faced by Ukraine, with options b), c), d), and e) directly aligning with the context provided.

Therefore, "a) tranquil" is the word that cannot fit in the blank (F).

7. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these three statements AEI: "Mobile banking has emerged as a powerful tool for financial inclusion, allowing people to conduct transactions and access banking services using their mobile phones." This combined sentence highlights how mobile banking serves as a potent tool for promoting financial inclusion by enabling individuals to conduct transactions and access banking services conveniently through their mobile phones.

When combining these three statements BDH: "Government policies and initiatives can drive financial inclusion by promoting the establishment of banks in rural areas and implementing programs to educate and empower underserved communities." This combined sentence emphasizes the role of government policies and initiatives in driving financial inclusion through actions such as establishing banks in rural areas and implementing educational programs for underserved communities.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

8. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these three statements BFG: "Digital payment systems are transforming the landscape of financial inclusion, providing convenient and secure ways for people to transact without the need for traditional bank accounts." This combined sentence highlights how digital payment systems are reshaping financial inclusion by offering convenient and secure transaction methods that do not necessarily rely on traditional bank accounts.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these three statements AEH: "Microfinance institutions play a vital role in promoting financial inclusion by offering small loans, savings accounts, and other financial services to low-income individuals." This combined sentence emphasizes the significant role of microfinance institutions in promoting financial inclusion by providing essential financial services to low-income individuals.

When combining these three statements BDI: "Partnerships between governments, financial institutions, and non-profit organizations are key to advancing financial inclusion initiatives and reaching marginalized communities effectively." This combined sentence highlights the importance of collaborative efforts between various entities in advancing financial inclusion initiatives and effectively reaching marginalized communities.

When combining these three statements CFG: "The expansion of branchless banking through agent networks and mobile banking has extended financial services to remote and underserved areas, increasing financial inclusion." This combined sentence emphasizes how the expansion of branchless banking and mobile banking has broadened access to financial services, particularly in remote and underserved areas, thereby contributing to increased financial inclusion.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

10. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these three statements BFH: "Regulatory frameworks that encourage innovation and competition in the financial sector can lead to the development of inclusive financial products and services." This combined sentence emphasizes how regulatory frameworks promoting innovation and competition can foster the creation of financial products and services that are inclusive, benefiting a wider range of individuals and businesses.

When combining these three statements CEI: "Affordable and accessible credit products enable individuals and small businesses to invest in education, healthcare, and entrepreneurship, driving economic growth and reducing poverty." This combined sentence emphasizes how access to affordable and accessible credit products empowers both individuals and small businesses to make investments that contribute to economic growth and poverty reduction.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

11. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these three statements BFH: "Financial inclusion aims to provide access to affordable financial services for all individuals, especially those traditionally excluded from the formal banking system." This combined sentence succinctly captures the essence of financial inclusion, emphasizing its goal of providing affordable financial services to everyone, with particular attention to those who have been historically excluded from traditional banking systems.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

When combining these three statements CDI: "The digitization of financial services has the potential to reduce transaction costs, improve efficiency, and reach previously underserved populations, advancing financial inclusion goals." This combined sentence emphasizes how the digitization of financial services can be instrumental in lowering costs, enhancing efficiency, and extending services to populations that have historically lacked access to financial services, thus contributing to the goals of financial inclusion.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

12. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "frantically" appropriately describes the mother's actions, indicating a state of frantic or panicked searching.

II). In this sentence, "sack" is used incorrectly. "Sack" typically means to dismiss someone from their job, not to pack or gather groceries. A more appropriate verb in this context would be "gather," "pack," or "prepare."

III). In this sentence, "bleak" is correctly used to describe the grim and unpromising outlook for the company's future.

13. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "defiance" is correctly used to describe the act of openly resisting or challenging something, in this case, an unjust law.

II). In this sentence, "daunted" is correctly used to convey that the setbacks did not discourage or intimidate her; she remained determined despite challenges.

III). In this sentence, "depleted" is used incorrectly. "Depleted" typically means used up or exhausted, often implying a lack or deficiency. However, in the sentence, it suggests the opposite—a feeling of refreshment and readiness after a vacation, which contradicts the usual meaning of "depleted." A more appropriate term might be "replenished" or "renewed."

14. Questions

Answer: D

I). In this sentence, "resilience" is used incorrectly. Resilience typically refers to the ability to recover quickly from difficulties or setbacks, showing toughness or flexibility. However, the sentence suggests a lack of resilience despite quickly bouncing back from setbacks, which contradicts the usual meaning of the term. A more appropriate term might be "fragility" or "vulnerability."

II). In this sentence, "bolstering" is used incorrectly. "Bolstering" typically means to support or strengthen, but the sentence suggests that the company's decision to downsize had the opposite effect—it weakened employee morale instead of strengthening it. A more appropriate term might be "undermining" or "eroding."

III). In this sentence, "relentless" is correctly used to describe the unwavering and persistent pursuit of her goals despite challenges or obstacles.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "lack of remorse" is used incorrectly. Remorse implies a feeling of regret or guilt for one's actions, but the sentence suggests that the individual apologized sincerely, which indicates some level of remorse. A more appropriate term might be "apathy" or "indifference."

II). In this sentence, "fumble" is correctly used to describe clumsily handling or struggling with something, in this case, the unfamiliar controls of the new machine.

III). In this sentence, "ravage" is used incorrectly. "Ravage" typically means to cause severe damage or destruction, often in a violent or destructive manner. However, in the context of the sentence, the intended meaning seems to be to raise or promote awareness, which doesn't align with the usual meaning of "ravage." A more appropriate term might be "raise" or "promote."

16. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "accused for stealing." The correct preposition to use after "accused" is "of," so it should be "accused of stealing money from the company's fund."

Corrected Sentence A: "He was accused of stealing money from the company's fund."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

17. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "very fastly." The correct form is "very fast." "Fast" is already an adverb, so "fastly" is redundant.

Corrected Sentence A: "She runs very fast during the races, often winning first place."

B). The error in this sentence is "a big and an expensive gift." When using multiple adjectives before a noun, the same article should be used for each adjective. The correct form is "a big and expensive gift."

Corrected Sentence B: "She received a big and expensive gift for her birthday."

C). There is no error in this sentence.

18. Questions

Answer: A

A). The error in this sentence is "Not only the movie was interesting." The correct form is "Not only was the movie interesting." In this structure, the auxiliary verb "was" should come before the subject "the movie."

Corrected Sentence A: "Not only was the movie interesting, but it was also a thought-provoking experience."

B). The error in this sentence is "neither the team nor the coach were." The correct form should be "neither the team nor the coach was." When "neither...nor" is used, the verb agrees with the subject closest to it, which is "the coach" in this case.

Corrected Sentence B: "Despite the obstacles, neither the team nor the coach was deterred."

C). There is no error in this sentence.

19. Questions

Answer: E

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

In an era marked by a perpetual struggle for democracy, the recent findings of a comprehensive study shed light on a disquieting reality: global skepticism regarding the fairness of elections and a disturbing inclination towards strong, undemocratic leadership. This revelation, while unsettling, serves as a clarion call for introspection and action. At the heart of this disconcerting narrative lies a fundamental question: are democratic institutions fulfilling their mandate? The answer, according to the International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance, is a sobering "no." The study, spanning 19 countries and encompassing diverse sociopolitical landscapes, underscores a pervasive sentiment of disillusionment among citizens regarding the integrity of electoral processes. From the bustling streets of Brazil to the vibrant democracies of India and the United States, doubts linger like an ominous cloud over the sanctity of the ballot box. What drives this skepticism? It is a multifaceted confluence of factors ranging from allegations of electoral malpractice to the erosion of trust in political institutions. In an age where disinformation proliferates unchecked across digital platforms and where populist rhetoric often eclipses substantive debate, the bedrock of democracy trembles under the weight of doubt. Furthermore, the allure of a "strong leader," unencumbered by the constraints of parliamentary democracy, poses a grave threat to the very essence of democratic governance. But amidst this gloom, there exists a glimmer of hope ~ a beacon of resilience embodied by the collective will of citizens yearning for a more just and equitable society. The study serves as a wake-up call, compelling us to re-evaluate the foundations of our democratic systems and to fortify them against the encroaching tide of authoritarianism. It is incumbent upon policymakers, civil society, and ordinary citizens alike to heed this call to action ~ to champion transparency, accountability, and inclusivity in our electoral processes. Furthermore, the study underscores the imperative of economic prosperity as a linchpin of democratic stability. In a stark indictment of current economic paradigms, only a minority of citizens across surveyed nations believe they are faring better economically than their parents. This economic disillusionment, coupled with political disenchantment, creates fertile ground for the proliferation of authoritarian ideologies. The study is a reminder that democracy is not a static entity but a living, breathing organism that requires constant nurturing and vigilance. The findings serve as a sobering reminder of the fragility of democracy in the face of global challenges. They underscore the imperative of collective action in safeguarding the principles of transparency, accountability, and inclusivity upon which democracy rests. As we navigate an uncertain future, let us heed the lessons of the past and stand united in defence of democracy, for it is not merely a political system but a beacon of hope for a better tomorrow.

According to the passage, what factors contribute to the skepticism towards electoral processes?

a. Allegations of electoral malpractice and erosion of trust in political institutions

b. Lack of access to digital platforms

c. Populist rhetoric and substantive debate

d. Economic prosperity and political stability

e. Transparency and inclusivity in electoral processes

2. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

How does the passage describe the impact of disinformation and populist rhetoric on democracy?

a. They foster substantive debate and strengthen democratic institutions.

b. They have little effect on the integrity of electoral processes.

c. They erode the foundations of democracy and undermine trust.

d. They promote transparency and inclusivity in governance.

e. They encourage citizens to engage more actively in political processes.

3. Questions

What is emphasized as essential for safeguarding the principles of democracy in the passage?

a. Economic prosperity

b. Strong leadership

c. Collective action

d. Political disillusionment

e. Authoritarian ideologies

4. Questions

According to the passage, what is democracy compared to?

a. A political experiment

b. A beacon of hope

c. A static entity

d. An authoritarian regime

e. A system of economic prosperity

5. Questions

What does the passage propose as necessary actions to fortify democratic systems?

a. Increased censorship on digital platforms

b. Limiting the power of civil society

c. Championing transparency, accountability, and inclusivity

d. Promoting populist rhetoric

e. Encouraging the concentration of power in a single leader

6. Questions

What does the passage suggest about the relationship between economic disillusionment and political disenchantment?

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. They are unrelated phenomena

b. Economic prosperity alleviates political disenchantment

c. Political disenchantment exacerbates economic disillusionment

d. They create fertile ground for authoritarian ideologies.

e. Authoritarian ideologies have no impact on economic prosperity.

7. Questions

What is the central concern highlighted in the passage?

a. The rise of authoritarian leadership

b. Global skepticism towards democratic processes

c. Economic prosperity as a linchpin of democracy

d. The need for collective action in safeguarding democracy

e. The role of disinformation in undermining democracy

8. Questions

In each of the questions below two phrases have been highlighted in bold. You are required to replace it with correct phrases in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually correct.

The burden of student debt measured heavily in her mind as she contemplated the implications it would have on her financial future, getting her considerable stress and anxiety.

a. calculated heavily in her mind; inducing her considerable stress

b. computed heavily on her mind; impelling her considerable stress

c. weighed heavily on her mind; causing her considerable stress

d. evaluated heavily in her mind; affecting her considerable stress

e. considered heavily on her mind; effecting her considerable stress

9. Questions

After hesitating for a moment at the entrance, she summoned her courage and determined to walk into the dimly lit room, unsure of what she might encounter but decided to face whatever awaited her on the other side.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. concluded to walk into; committed to face

b. decided to walk into; determined to face

c. agreed to walk into; agreed to face

d. decreed to walk into; intended to face

e. assured to walk into; decided to face

10. Questions

After years of conforming to societal expectations, Sofia finally summoned the courage to break off from the constraints of her conventional life, boarding on a journey of self-discovery and personal fulfilment.

a. break off from the constraints; mounting on a journey
b. break in from the constraints; departing on a journey
c. break for from the constraints; beginning on a journey
d. break away from the constraints; embarking on a journey
e. no improvement required

11. Questions

Despite her best efforts to complete all her tasks before the end of the day, she noticed that some work would have to be carried on to tomorrow due to unexpected delays and additional assignments.

a. she observed that; carried through to tomorrow
b. she realized that; carried over to tomorrow
c. she inspected that; carried out to tomorrow
d. she marked that; carried on to tomorrow
e. she accrued that; carried off to tomorrow

12. Questions

Due to the unexpected flight delay, the passengers were informed that their departure would be held over until the following morning, prompting them to make alternate habitation arrangements for the night.

a. held over until the following morning; to make alternative accommodation
b. held against till the next morning; to make possible acclimation
c. held up still the following morning; to make reserve accommodation
d. held off until the following morning; to make another assimilation
e. held onto till the next morning; to make different adjustment

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

13. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into three parts. You have to choose the correct connector to combine the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

I). The bank faced a shortage of liquidity,

II). It decided to reduce lending,

III). It could maintain its financial stability.

A). Nevertheless, though

B). Therefore, so

C). Despite, but

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. Both B and C

14. Questions

I). The bank faced criticism for its high fees, II). It launched a campaign to educate customers,

III). It could improve its public image.

A). Although, and

B). Despite, so

C). Yet, but

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. Both B and C

15. Questions

I). Despite facing economic challenges,

II). The bank expanded its branch network,

III). It aimed to reach more customers in underserved areas.

A). But, therefore

B). However, so

C). Although, and

a. Only A
b. Only B

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. Both B and C

16. Questions

I). The bank introduced a new mobile banking app, II). It experienced an increase in customer satisfaction, III). It provided more convenient services.

A). Thus, and

B). Despite, but

C). Consequently, so

a. Only A

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. Both B and C

17. Questions

In the sentence given below two blanks are there followed by six words to fill the blank to complete the sentence meaningfully correct. You have to choose the correct pair of words to complete the sentence.

The fintech startup _____ traditional banking models, _____ blockchain technology to streamline transactions, enhance security, and foster financial inclusion in the digital economy.

1). disrupted

2). ravaged

3). impeded

4). exploiting

5). leveraging

6). oppressing

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. 3 and 4

18. Questions

On March 22, during an election campaign speech in Rajkot in Gujarat, Union Minister and Rajkot Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) candidate Parshottam Rupala _____ triggered _____ when he praised the Dalits at the expense of the Kshatriyas or Rajputs.

1). obliviously

2). unwittingly

3). obtusely

4). profanation

5). outrage

6). deterioration

a. 1 and 6

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

19. Questions

The Aadhaar-Based Payment System (ABPS) has been _____ sufficient attention, mostly on account of the myriad issues _____ it.

1). accorded

2). conferred

3). conceded

4). plaguing

5). enthralling

6). cajoling

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 2 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

20. Questions

sky53un@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Elon Musk's N1 implant, introduced to facilitate operating devices by just intending it in the brain, has _____ many into realising how far seemingly _____ neuroscience has been put to practical, commercial use.

1). rattled

2). spurred

3). jolted

4). exotic

5). peculiar

6). intriguing

a. 1 and 5

b. 2 and 6

c. 3 and 6

d. 2 and 4

e. 3 and 4

21. Questions

The _____ of electricity shortages rises again as hot weather _____ across the country.

1). infelicity

2). torment

3). spectre

4). plunges

5). plummets

6). descends

a. 1 and 4

b. 2 and 5

c. 3 and 6

d. 1 and 5

e. 3 and 4

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: A

The passage mentions allegations of electoral malpractice and erosion of trust in political institutions as contributing factors.

The passage explicitly mentions several factors contributing to skepticism towards electoral processes. One of the primary factors highlighted is "allegations of electoral malpractice," indicating instances where the fairness or integrity of elections is called into question. Additionally, the passage discusses the "erosion of trust in political institutions," which implies a loss of confidence in the bodies responsible for overseeing electoral processes. These factors create doubts among citizens regarding the integrity of elections and contribute to the overall skepticism towards electoral processes.

Option b) Lack of access to digital platforms is not mentioned in the passage in the context of contributing to skepticism towards electoral processes. While the passage does acknowledge the proliferation of disinformation on digital platforms, it does not directly link this to skepticism towards electoral processes.

Option c) Populist rhetoric and substantive debate are mentioned in the passage, but they are not specifically identified as factors contributing to skepticism towards electoral processes. Rather, the passage suggests that populist rhetoric often overshadows substantive debate, which could indirectly impact the electoral landscape.

Option d) Economic prosperity and political stability are not identified as factors contributing to skepticism towards electoral processes in the passage. Instead, the passage discusses economic disillusionment and political disenchantment as separate but related phenomena that can create fertile ground for authoritarian ideologies.

Option e) Transparency and inclusivity in electoral processes are presented as necessary actions to fortify democratic systems, rather than contributing factors to skepticism towards electoral processes. While the lack of transparency and inclusivity could indeed foster skepticism, the passage does not explicitly state this as a contributing factor.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The passage states that disinformation proliferates unchecked and populist rhetoric often eclipses substantive debate, leading to doubts about the integrity of democracy. Thus, option c) is correct.

The passage portrays disinformation and populist rhetoric in a negative light, suggesting that they have a detrimental impact on democracy. Specifically, the passage states that disinformation proliferates unchecked across digital platforms and that populist rhetoric often eclipses substantive debate. This characterization implies that disinformation and populist rhetoric contribute to a climate where the foundations of democracy are weakened and trust in democratic institutions is undermined.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Option a) They foster substantive debate and strengthen democratic institutions, is incorrect because the passage suggests the opposite, stating that populist rhetoric often overshadows substantive debate.

Option b) They have little effect on the integrity of electoral processes, is also incorrect as the passage indicates that disinformation can lead to doubts about the integrity of electoral processes.

Option d) They promote transparency and inclusivity in governance, is not supported by the passage. Instead, the passage implies that disinformation and populist rhetoric hinder transparency and inclusivity in governance.

Option e) They encourage citizens to engage more actively in political processes, is not supported by the passage. Instead, the passage suggests that disinformation and populist rhetoric may have a negative impact on citizens' engagement by overshadowing substantive debate and eroding trust in democratic institutions.

3. Questions

Answer: C

The passage emphasizes the imperative of collective action in safeguarding the principles of democracy, making option c) the correct answer.

The passage emphasizes the importance of collective action in safeguarding the principles of democracy. It underscores the imperative for policymakers, civil society, and ordinary citizens alike to heed the call to action to champion transparency, accountability, and inclusivity in electoral processes. This suggests that democracy's survival and vitality depend on the concerted efforts of individuals and groups working together to uphold its core principles.

Option a) Economic prosperity is mentioned in the passage as a factor related to democratic stability but is not emphasized as essential for safeguarding the principles of democracy.

Option b) Strong leadership is portrayed in a negative light in the passage, as the allure of a "strong leader" is presented as a grave threat to democratic governance, rather than as a safeguarding mechanism for democracy.

Option d) Political disillusionment is described in the passage as a phenomenon that, when coupled with economic disillusionment, creates fertile ground for the proliferation of authoritarian ideologies. It is not presented as essential for safeguarding democracy but rather as a challenge to be addressed.

Option e) Authoritarian ideologies are portrayed in the passage as a threat to democracy rather than as something essential for safeguarding it. The passage emphasizes the need to fortify democratic systems against the encroaching tide of authoritarianism.

Therefore, option c) collective action is the most appropriate answer, as it aligns with the passage's emphasis on the importance of collective efforts in protecting and strengthening democracy.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The passage compares democracy to a "beacon of hope," making option b) the correct answer.

The passage compares democracy to a "beacon of hope." This comparison suggests that democracy is seen as a guiding light or a symbol of optimism amidst challenges and uncertainties. By describing democracy in this way, the passage highlights its aspirational and transformative qualities, implying that it offers promise and inspiration for a better future.

Option a) A political experiment is not mentioned in the passage as a comparison for democracy. While democracy may involve ongoing experimentation and refinement, the passage does not explicitly characterize it as a mere experiment.

Option c) A static entity is contradicted by the passage, which emphasizes that democracy is not static but rather a living, breathing organism that requires constant nurturing and vigilance.

Option d) An authoritarian regime is presented as a threat to democracy in the passage, rather than as a comparison for democracy itself.

Option e) A system of economic prosperity is not directly compared to democracy in the passage. While economic prosperity is discussed in relation to democratic stability, it is not explicitly equated with democracy itself.

Therefore, option b) A beacon of hope is the most appropriate answer, as it aligns with the passage's characterization of democracy as an optimistic and inspiring force for positive change.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The passage proposes championing transparency, accountability, and inclusivity in electoral processes as necessary actions to fortify democratic systems, making option c) the correct answer.

The passage proposes championing transparency, accountability, and inclusivity in electoral processes as necessary actions to fortify democratic systems. It emphasizes the importance of policymakers, civil society, and ordinary citizens alike heeding the call to action to uphold these principles in order to strengthen democracy. Transparency ensures that the electoral process is open and accessible, accountability holds individuals and institutions responsible for their actions, and inclusivity ensures that diverse voices are heard and represented in the democratic process.

Option a) Increased censorship on digital platforms contradicts the passage's emphasis on addressing disinformation and promoting transparency. Censorship could hinder free expression and access to information, which are vital for democratic participation.

Option b) Limiting the power of civil society goes against the passage's suggestion of collective action involving policymakers, civil society, and ordinary citizens in safeguarding democracy. Limiting civil society's power could weaken democratic accountability and oversight mechanisms.

Option d) Promoting populist rhetoric is presented in the passage as a negative influence on democracy, as it often overshadows substantive debate and undermines trust in democratic institutions. Therefore, promoting it would not fortify democratic systems.

Option e) Encouraging the concentration of power in a single leader is antithetical to democracy, which is characterized by the distribution and balancing of power among different branches and levels of government. Concentrating power in a single leader would undermine democratic principles such as checks and balances and could lead to authoritarianism.

Therefore, option c) Championing transparency, accountability, and inclusivity aligns with the passage's recommendations for strengthening democratic systems by addressing key principles essential for democratic governance.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: D

The passage suggests that economic disillusionment, coupled with political disenchantment, creates fertile ground for authoritarian ideologies, making option d) the correct answer.

The passage suggests that there is a relationship between economic disillusionment and political disenchantment, stating that when coupled together, they create fertile ground for the proliferation of authoritarian ideologies. This implies that economic disillusionment, which refers to a feeling of disappointment or dissatisfaction with one's economic situation, and political disenchantment, which refers to a loss of faith or disillusionment with the political system or its institutions, can interact and reinforce each other, leading to conditions conducive to the rise of authoritarian ideologies.

Option a) They are unrelated phenomena is not supported by the passage, as it explicitly states that economic disillusionment and political disenchantment, when combined, contribute to the proliferation of authoritarian ideologies.

Option b) Economic prosperity alleviates political disenchantment is not supported by the passage. While economic prosperity may contribute to overall satisfaction and stability, the passage suggests that economic disillusionment can still coexist with political disenchantment, particularly when economic prosperity is not widely shared among the population.

Option c) Political disenchantment exacerbates economic disillusionment is not explicitly mentioned in the passage. While it is possible that political disenchantment could have an impact on economic sentiment, the passage does not specifically address this relationship.

Option e) Authoritarian ideologies have no impact on economic prosperity is not supported by the passage. While the passage discusses the relationship between economic disillusionment, political disenchantment, and authoritarian ideologies, it does not suggest that authoritarian ideologies have no impact on economic prosperity.

Therefore, option d) They create fertile ground for authoritarian ideologies is the most appropriate answer, as it aligns with the passage's assertion regarding the relationship between economic disillusionment, political disenchantment, and the rise of authoritarianism.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The passage primarily discusses global skepticism regarding the fairness of elections and the inclination towards strong, undemocratic leadership, making option b) the correct answer.

The central concern highlighted in the passage is the global skepticism towards democratic processes. The passage discusses the findings of a comprehensive study that sheds light on this disquieting reality, emphasizing doubts and disillusionment among citizens regarding the fairness and integrity of electoral processes across diverse sociopolitical landscapes. It highlights the pervasive sentiment of skepticism towards the sanctity of the ballot box, which spans countries like Brazil, India, and the United States. The passage underscores various factors contributing to this skepticism, such as allegations of electoral malpractice, erosion of trust in political institutions, the proliferation of disinformation, and the allure of strong, undemocratic leadership.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Option a) The rise of authoritarian leadership is a related concern mentioned in the passage, particularly in the context of the threat posed by the allure of "strong leaders" unencumbered by the constraints of parliamentary democracy. However, the central concern emphasized in the passage is the skepticism towards democratic processes rather than solely the rise of authoritarian leadership.

Option c) Economic prosperity as a linchpin of democracy is discussed in the passage, but it is not the central concern highlighted. While the passage acknowledges the importance of economic prosperity for democratic stability, the primary focus is on the skepticism towards democratic processes and the factors contributing to it.

Option d) The need for collective action in safeguarding democracy is indeed emphasized in the passage as a response to the challenges facing democratic systems. However, it is presented more as a solution or course of action rather than the central concern itself.

Option e) The role of disinformation in undermining democracy is discussed in the passage as one of the contributing factors to skepticism towards democratic processes. While important, it is not the central concern around which the passage revolves.

Therefore, option b) Global skepticism towards democratic processes is the most appropriate answer, as it aligns with the primary focus and emphasis of the passage on the challenges and concerns related to the integrity and trustworthiness of democratic systems worldwide.

8. Questions

Answer: C

Option (c) is the most fitting choice as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the sentence. The other options use less appropriate language or convey different meanings.

a). calculated heavily in her mind; inducing her considerable stress: "Calculated heavily in her mind" is not the most natural or idiomatic expression to convey the idea of something weighing heavily on someone's mind. "Inducing her considerable stress" is a suitable phrase to describe the result of the burden of student debt.

b). computed heavily on her mind; impelling her considerable stress: "Computed heavily on her mind" is not commonly used to express mental burden. "Impelling her considerable stress" is appropriate, but "computed" is not the best verb choice in this context.

c). weighed heavily on her mind; causing her considerable stress (Correct): This option is correct. "Weighed heavily on her mind" is a common expression to indicate mental burden or preoccupation. "Causing her considerable stress" effectively conveys the impact of the burden on her mental state.

d). evaluated heavily in her mind; affecting her considerable stress: "Evaluated heavily in her mind" is less common and less appropriate than "weighed heavily on her mind." "Affecting her considerable stress" is suitable, but "evaluated" doesn't fit well in this context.

e). considered heavily on her mind; effecting her considerable stress: "Considered heavily on her mind" is not the most appropriate phrase to convey mental burden. "Effecting her considerable stress" is suitable, but "considered" doesn't align well with the context.

In summary, option (c) is the most appropriate as it accurately and effectively conveys the idea that the burden of student debt weighed heavily on her mind, causing her considerable stress. The other options use less appropriate language or convey different meanings.

9. Questions

Answer: B

Option (b) is the most fitting choice as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the sentence. The other options either use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

a). concluded to walk into; committed to face: "Concluded to walk into" is not the most natural expression in this context. "Committed to face" is appropriate, but "concluded" doesn't align well with the context of making a decision.

b). decided to walk into; determined to face (Correct): This option is correct. "Decided to walk into" accurately portrays the act of making a choice to enter the dimly lit room. "Determined to face" effectively conveys the resolve or firmness of will to confront whatever awaits her on the other side.

c). agreed to walk into; agreed to face: "Agreed to walk into" suggests a mutual decision, which doesn't fit the context where she's making an individual choice. "Agreed to face" also implies a mutual agreement, which doesn't align well with the context of her personal determination.

d). decreed to walk into; intended to face: "Decreed to walk into" suggests a formal or authoritative order, which doesn't fit the context where she's making a personal decision. "Intended to face" is appropriate, but "decreed" doesn't align well with the context.

e). assured to walk into; decided to face: "Assured to walk into" is not the most appropriate phrase to convey the act of making a decision. "Decided to face" is suitable, but "assured" doesn't align well with the context of making a determined choice.

In summary, option (b) is the most appropriate as it accurately and effectively conveys the idea that she decided to walk into the dimly lit room and was determined to face whatever awaited her on the other side. The other options use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

10. Questions

Answer: D

Option (d) is the most fitting choice as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the sentence. The other options either use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

a). break off from the constraints; mounting on a journey: "Break off from the constraints" is appropriate, indicating a separation from societal expectations. However, "mounting on a journey" is not the most suitable phrase. "Mounting" typically refers to climbing or ascending, which doesn't fit the context of beginning a journey.

b). break in from the constraints; departing on a journey: "Break in from the constraints" is not the correct phrase. "Departing on a journey" is suitable, indicating the beginning of a journey. However, "break in" typically means to enter forcibly, which doesn't convey the intended meaning of breaking free from societal expectations.

c). break for from the constraints; beginning on a journey: "Break for from the constraints" is not grammatically correct. "Beginning on a journey" is suitable, but "break for" doesn't convey the intended meaning of breaking free from societal expectations.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d). break away from the constraints; embarking on a journey (Correct): This option is correct. "Break away from the constraints" accurately conveys the idea of breaking free from societal expectations. "Embarking on a journey" is suitable, indicating the beginning of a journey.

In summary, option (d) is the most appropriate as it accurately and effectively conveys the idea of Sofia breaking free from societal constraints and beginning a journey of self-discovery and personal fulfilment. The other options use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

11. Questions

Answer: B

Option (b) is the most fitting choice as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the sentence. The other options either use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

a). she observed that; carried through to tomorrow: "She observed that" is a valid expression to indicate noticing or perceiving something. However, "carried through to tomorrow" is less common and less fitting than "carried over to tomorrow" to convey the idea of postponing work to the next day.

b). she realized that; carried over to tomorrow (Correct): This option is correct. "She realized that" accurately conveys the idea that she became aware or understood that some work would need to be postponed. "Carried over to tomorrow" effectively describes the action of postponing the unfinished work to the following day.

c). she inspected that; carried out to tomorrow: "She inspected that" suggests a more active examination rather than a realization or awareness. "Carried out to tomorrow" is not idiomatic and doesn't accurately convey the idea of postponing work.

d). she marked that; carried on to tomorrow: "She marked that" is not the most appropriate phrase to convey the idea of realizing or becoming aware of something. "Carried on to tomorrow" implies continuation rather than postponement.

e). she accrued that; carried off to tomorrow: "She accrued that" is not the correct phrase to convey the idea of realizing or becoming aware of something. "Carried off to tomorrow" doesn't accurately convey the idea of postponing work; "carried over to tomorrow" would be more appropriate.

In summary, option (b) is the most suitable as it accurately and effectively conveys the idea that she realized that some work would need to be postponed to the next day due to unexpected delays and additional assignments. The other options use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

12. Questions

Answer: A

Option (a) is the most fitting choice as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the sentence. The other options either use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

a). held over until the following morning; to make alternative accommodation: This option is correct. "Held over until the following morning" accurately describes delaying the departure, and "to make alternative accommodation" effectively conveys the action prompted by the delay, indicating that the passengers needed to arrange for different lodging for the night.

b). held against till the next morning; to make possible acclimation: "Held against till the next morning" is not a common expression in this context and doesn't accurately convey the idea of delaying the departure. "To make possible acclimation" doesn't align well with the context of needing alternative accommodation due to a flight delay.

c). held up still the following morning; to make reserve accommodation: "Held up still the following morning" is not a natural or idiomatic expression to describe delaying the departure. "To make reserve accommodation" suggests making additional or backup arrangements, but it doesn't accurately convey the

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

need for alternative accommodation due to a flight delay.

d). held off until the following morning; to make another assimilation: "Held off until the following morning" accurately conveys delaying the departure. However, "to make another assimilation" is not appropriate in this context. "Assimilation" typically refers to the process of integrating or adapting, which doesn't fit the context of needing alternative accommodation.

e). held onto till the next morning; to make different adjustment: "Held onto till the next morning" is not the correct phrase to convey delaying the departure. "To make different adjustment" doesn't accurately convey the need for alternative accommodation due to a flight delay.

In summary, option (a) is the most appropriate as it accurately and effectively conveys the idea that the passengers' departure was held over until the following morning, prompting them to make alternative accommodation arrangements for the night. The other options use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different meaning.

13. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is B. Therefore, so.

Combined Sentence: The bank faced a shortage of liquidity; therefore, it decided to reduce lending, so it could maintain its financial stability.

"Therefore" is used to indicate a logical consequence or result, connecting the shortage of liquidity with the decision to reduce lending.

"So" is used to indicate a consequence or result, linking the decision to reduce lending with the goal of maintaining financial stability.

This combination effectively communicates that due to the shortage of liquidity, the bank made the decision to reduce lending, and this action was taken to ensure its financial stability.

14. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is B. Despite, so.

Combined Sentence: The bank faced criticism for its high fees, despite it launched a campaign to educate customers, so it could improve its public image.

"Despite" is used to introduce a contrast or concession, indicating that the bank faced criticism despite taking a specific action.

"So" is used to indicate a consequence or result, connecting the action of launching a campaign with the intended outcome of improving the bank's public image.

This combination effectively communicates that despite facing criticism for its high fees, the bank took the initiative to launch a campaign to educate customers, with the goal of enhancing its public image.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is C. Although, and.

Combined Sentence: Despite facing economic challenges, although the bank expanded its branch network, and it aimed to reach more customers in underserved areas.

"Although" is used to introduce a contrast or concession, indicating that the bank expanded its branch network despite the economic challenges it faced.

"And" is used to connect the two independent clauses, highlighting the simultaneous actions of expanding the branch network and aiming to reach more customers in underserved areas.

This combination effectively communicates the contrast between the economic challenges and the bank's expansion efforts, while also emphasizing its goal of reaching more customers in underserved areas.

16. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is C. Consequently, so.

Combined Sentence: The bank introduced a new mobile banking app; consequently, it experienced an increase in customer satisfaction, so it provided more convenient services.

"Consequently" is used to indicate a cause-and-effect relationship, showing that the introduction of the new mobile banking app led to a specific outcome.

"So" is used to indicate a consequence or result, connecting the increase in customer satisfaction with the subsequent action of providing more convenient services.

This combination effectively communicates that the introduction of the new mobile banking app resulted in increased customer satisfaction, which in turn led to the provision of more convenient services.

17. Questions

Answer: D

1 and 5

Disrupted: This term is appropriate because it indicates that the fintech startup has caused significant changes or disturbances to traditional banking models. Fintech startups often aim to disrupt the status quo of the financial industry by introducing innovative technologies and business models.

Leveraging: This term is fitting because it suggests that the fintech startup is utilizing or taking advantage of blockchain technology to achieve its goals. In this context, the startup is using blockchain technology as a tool to streamline transactions, enhance security, and promote financial inclusion.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Ravaged" implies destruction or severe damage, which is not the appropriate characterization of the fintech startup's impact on traditional banking models.

"Impeded" suggests that the fintech startup hindered or obstructed traditional banking models, which contradicts the idea of disruption and innovation.

"Exploiting" carries a negative connotation of taking advantage of something for selfish gain, which may not accurately reflect the fintech startup's intentions or actions.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

"Oppressing" implies unjust or cruel treatment, which is not the appropriate description of the fintech startup's relationship with traditional banking models.

18. Questions

Answer: B

2 and 5

Unwittingly: This term indicates that Union Minister Parshottam Rupala praised the Dalits without being aware of the potential consequences or offense it might cause to the Kshatriyas or Rajputs. It suggests that his actions were unintentional or done without full knowledge.

Outrage: This term is suitable because it denotes a strong feeling of anger or indignation provoked by Parshottam Rupala's remarks. Praising one group at the expense of another, especially in a sensitive context like caste dynamics in Indian society, can lead to outrage and condemnation.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Obliviously" suggests that Parshottam Rupala made his remarks without being aware of what he was saying, which might not be the case given the context of an election campaign speech.

"Obtusely" implies that Parshottam Rupala made his remarks in a dull or insensitive manner, which might not accurately capture the situation.

"Profanation" refers to the act of disrespecting something sacred or holy, which does not precisely describe the situation of praising one group over another in a political speech.

"Deterioration" suggests a decline or worsening of a situation, which doesn't fit the context of the reaction to Parshottam Rupala's speech.

19. Questions

Answer: A

1 and 4

Accorded: This term means to give or grant something, such as attention, recognition, or importance. In this context, it suggests that the ABPS has received a significant amount of attention from various stakeholders.

Plaguing: This term refers to causing persistent trouble, distress, or torment. It accurately describes the numerous issues or problems that have been affecting the Aadhaar-Based Payment System.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Conferred" typically refers to granting an honor or privilege, which is not suitable in this context.

"Conceded" means to admit or acknowledge something reluctantly, which doesn't fit the context of the ABPS receiving attention.

"Enthralling" means captivating or fascinating, which doesn't accurately describe the attention given to the ABPS, especially considering the negative connotation implied by the subsequent phrase about issues

"Cajoling" means persuading someone to do something through flattery or gentle urging, which doesn't fit the context of the ABPS receiving attention or the issues it faces.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

Answer: E

3 and 4

Jolted: This term suggests that Elon Musk's N1 implant has caused surprise or shock, potentially by its innovative nature or the implications it holds. It implies that the introduction of the implant has prompted people to reassess their understanding or expectations regarding neuroscience and its practical applications.

Exotic: This term conveys the idea that Elon Musk's N1 implant is unusual, unconventional, or rare. It suggests that the implant represents a departure from the norm or the expected, particularly in the context of how neuroscience is typically applied. The word "seemingly" preceding "neuroscience" also adds to the idea that the application of neuroscience to practical, commercial use may appear exotic or unexpected to some.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Rattled" implies a feeling of anxiety or nervousness, which may not be the most appropriate characterization of people's reaction to the N1 implant.

"Spurred" suggests that the N1 implant has motivated or encouraged people to realize something, but it doesn't capture the sense of surprise or the unconventional nature of the implant's introduction.

"Tedious" means boring or monotonous, which is not appropriate in the context of discussing a groundbreaking technological advancement.

"Mediocre" means of average or ordinary quality, which is not suitable for describing the impact of Elon Musk's N1 implant on people's realization about the use of neuroscience in practical applications.

21. Questions

Answer: C

3 and 6

Spectre: This term refers to something widely feared or regarded as a source of terror or anxiety. In this context, it suggests that the possibility or threat of electricity shortages is looming over the situation, evoking a sense of fear or concern.

Descends: This term implies a gradual movement downward. In the context of hot weather spreading across the country, it suggests that the heat is gradually moving or spreading, potentially exacerbating the risk of electricity shortages.

The other options do not accurately convey the intended meaning or context:

"Infelicity" means unhappiness or misfortune, which doesn't fit the context of discussing the rising possibility of electricity shortages.

"Torment" refers to severe physical or mental suffering, which may not accurately describe the situation of electricity shortages.

"Plunges" typically means to fall or drop suddenly and forcefully, which doesn't fit the context of the gradual spread of hot weather.

"Plummets" means to fall or drop straight down at a high speed, which also doesn't fit the context of the gradual spread of hot weather.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the given question, sentences are given in jumbled form. Rearrange them in proper order and answer the questions that follow.

Rearrange the following sentences to form a coherent paragraph:

A). The report, by the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) of the United Nations, states that 2023 was the hottest year in the recorded history of the planet.

B). The State of the Global Climate report that was released recently is cause for concern.

C). The temperature rise is tantalisingly close to breaking the agreed limit of 1.5 °C by different nations.

D). Such a rise in global temperatures, also popularly known as global warming, is definitely alarming.

E). Moreover, the average temperature rise from pre-industrial levels has been 1.45 °C, with a margin of uncertainty of ±0.12 °C.

Which of the following is the penultimate sentence after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

2. Questions

Which of the following is the second sentence after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

3. Questions

Which of the following is the hind most statement after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

Which of the following is the introductory statement after rearrangement?

a. E

b. A

c. B

d. C

e. D

5. Questions

Which of the following should form a consecutive pair after re-arrangement?

a. A-C

b. A-D

c. C-D

d. B-E

e. B-C

6. Questions

In each of the following questions, a sentence has been divided into five parts out of which one part is erroneous. You are required to choose the option which is grammatically or contextually incorrect.

a). The Delhi High Court said Trinamool Congress leader

b). Mahua Moitra cannot be barred from defending c). her against the allegations made by d). an estranged friend in the public domain as long as e). her statements are not “objectively false”.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

7. Questions

a). Offering citizenship to migrants who have fled

b). their countries of origin because of persecution

c). and have stayed a sufficiently time in their d). adopted country, is a humane endeavour by e). any nation-state and should be generally welcomed.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

8. Questions

a). Amid the global movement towards regulating AI systems, b). India's response would be crucially,

c). with the nation currently catering to one of the d). largest consumer bases and e). labour forces for technology companies.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

9. Questions

a). The electoral combat in Dibrugarh, b). the easternmost of Assam's 14

c). Lok Sabha constituencies, are between d). crusaders against contrasting laws involving

e). migrants or refugees from Bangladesh.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. e

10. Questions

a). The Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM) has demanded

b). a probe into the "electoral bonds scam"

c). by a special investigation team

d). of retired administrators,

e). monitored with the Supreme Court.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

11. Questions

In the question below, three columns are given. Column 1 and 3 contain different independent sentences (3 in each column) and column 2 contains 3 connectors which may or may not join the given sentences in the other two columns. This connector can be placed anywhere in the sentence. Mark the option which provides the correct sequences of joined sentences as your answer.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The weather forecast predicted heavy rain.	1).therefore	D).They decided to stay home.
B). The teacher explained the instructions clearly.	2). although	E). Some students were still confused.
C). The students were eager to start their project.	3).since	F). They began working immediately.

a. A2F, B3E, and C1D

b. A3F, B2E, and C1D

c. A1D, B2E, and C3F

d. A1D, B3F, and C2E

e. A2E, B1F, and C3D

12. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). I locked the door.	1). therefore	D). We had to wait for the next one.
B). She was very tired.	2). because	E). There was no point in arguing.
C). We missed the train.	3). so	F). I didn't want anyone to come in.

a. A2F, B1E, C3D

b. A3F, B1E, C2D

c. A2E, B3D, C1F

d. A1D, B3E, C2F

e. A1F, B2E, C3D

13. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A).The team scored a goal.	1).after	D). The match ended.
B).The crowd cheered loudly.	2). therefore	E). The atmosphere became electrifying.
C).The referee blew the whistle.	3).as soon as	F). The opposing team felt discouraged.

a. A1D, B2E, and C3F

b. A3F, B1D, and C2E

c. A3E, B1D, and C2F

d. A3E, B2F, and C1D

e. A1E, B2D, and C3F

14. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A).The rainbow emerged.	1).after	D). They celebrated with fireworks.
B).They danced joyously.	2). therefore	E). The colors painted the sky.
C).The new year began.	3).consequently	F). The old year ended.

a. A1D, B2E, and C3F

b. A2D, B3F, and C1E

c. A1E, B3F, and C2D

d. A3E, B1D, and C2F

e. A3E, B1F, and C2D

15. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The deadline for submission was approaching.	1).before	D). the rainbow emerged.
B). The clouds dispersed.	2). thus	E). They needed to manage their time effectively.
C). The night deepened.	3).therefore	F). Darkness enveloped t he surroundings.

a. A2E, B1D, and C3F

b. A3E, B1D, and C2F

c. A1F, B2D, and C3E

d. A3E, B2F, and C1D

e. A2F, B1D, and C3E

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

Despite facing numerous obstacles and setbacks, he followed to seek after his impressions with unwavering determination, never allowing discouragement to diminish his resolve or deter him from his pursuit of success.

a. he sustained to seek for his notions

b. he focused to seek after his trances

c. he dedicated to seek for his dreams

d. he continued to seek after his dreams

e. no improvement is required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

She asked her best friend to articulate for her at the convocation since she couldn't attend, trusting that her friend would effectively convey her perspectives and advocate on her behalf in her absence.

a. to declare of her at the convention

b. to express for her at the council

c. to mention of her at the conference

d. to speak for her at the meeting

e. no improvement is required

18. Questions

The tradition of exchanging engagement rings is supposed to originate in the ancient Romans, who viewed the circle as a symbol of eternity, representing the eternal bond between the betrothed couple.

a. declared to originate in the ancient Romans

b. believed to originate with the ancient Romans

c. asserted to originate in the ancient Romans

d. accepted to originate with the ancient Romans

e. no improvement is required

19. Questions

In a rush to gather information for her presentation, she decided to quickly glance through the dense research paper, hoping to glean the key points without delving too deeply into the details.

a. check through the compact research paper

b. look over through the solid research paper

c. look at the complex research paper

d. peep through the cryptic research paper

e. no improvement is required

20. Questions

In the wake of the controversial decision, activists began to demand for justice, filling the streets with chants and demands for accountability from those in power.

a. radicals began to request for justice

b. agitators began to urging for justice

c. protesters began to clamour for justice

d. partisans began to protest for justice

e. no improvement is required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph discusses the alarming findings of the State of the Global Climate report, highlighting that 2023 was the hottest year on record and expressing concern about the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit.

The sequence begins with sentence B, introducing the State of the Global Climate report and setting the context for the discussion. Sentence A follows, presenting the key finding of the report, which states that 2023 was the hottest year on record. Sentence E adds further detail about the average temperature rise from pre-industrial levels. Sentence C emphasizes the concerning aspect of the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit. Finally, sentence D concludes by emphasizing the alarming nature of global warming.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – E – C – D.

The penultimate sentence in a paragraph is the one that appears just before the last sentence and serves as a bridge or transition to the final point. In this sequence, Sentence C, "The temperature rise is tantalisingly close to breaking the agreed limit of 1.5 °C by different nations." is the penultimate sentence.

2. Questions

Answer: B

The paragraph discusses the alarming findings of the State of the Global Climate report, highlighting that 2023 was the hottest year on record and expressing concern about the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit.

The sequence begins with sentence B, introducing the State of the Global Climate report and setting the context for the discussion. Sentence A follows, presenting the key finding of the report, which states that 2023 was the hottest year on record. Sentence E adds further detail about the average temperature rise from pre-industrial levels. Sentence C emphasizes the concerning aspect of the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit. Finally, sentence D concludes by emphasizing the alarming nature of global warming.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – E – C – D.

Sentence A, “The report, by the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) of the United Nations, states that 2023 was the hottest year in the recorded history of the planet.” is the second sentence after rearrangement.

3. Questions

Answer: E

The paragraph discusses the alarming findings of the State of the Global Climate report, highlighting that 2023 was the hottest year on record and expressing concern about the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit.

The sequence begins with sentence B, introducing the State of the Global Climate report and setting the context for the discussion. Sentence A follows, presenting the key finding of the report, which states that 2023 was the hottest year on record. Sentence E adds further detail about the average temperature rise from pre-industrial levels. Sentence C emphasizes the concerning aspect of the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit. Finally, sentence D concludes by emphasizing the alarming nature of global warming.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – E – C – D.

The hindmost statement, also known as the last sentence, is the final statement that concludes the paragraph. The hindmost or last sentence is Sentence D: "Such a rise in global temperatures, also popularly known as global warming, is definitely alarming."

4. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph discusses the alarming findings of the State of the Global Climate report, highlighting that 2023 was the hottest year on record and expressing concern about the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit.

The sequence begins with sentence B, introducing the State of the Global Climate report and setting the context for the discussion. Sentence A follows, presenting the key finding of the report, which states that 2023 was the hottest year on record. Sentence E adds further detail about the average temperature rise from pre-industrial levels. Sentence C emphasizes the concerning aspect of the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit. Finally, sentence D concludes by emphasizing the alarming nature of global warming.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – E – C – D.

The introductory statement after rearrangement is sentence B: “The State of the Global Climate report that was released recently is cause for concern.”

5. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph discusses the alarming findings of the State of the Global Climate report, highlighting that 2023 was the hottest year on record and expressing concern about the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit.

The sequence begins with sentence B, introducing the State of the Global Climate report and setting the context for the discussion. Sentence A follows, presenting the key finding of the report, which states that 2023 was the hottest year on record. Sentence E adds further detail about the average temperature rise from pre-industrial levels. Sentence C emphasizes the concerning aspect of the temperature rise approaching the agreed limit. Finally, sentence D concludes by emphasizing the alarming nature of global warming.

So, the correct sequence is: B – A – E – C – D.

The consecutive pair after rearrangement is: C-D.

6. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part c: The error in the sentence is the use of the pronoun "her" instead of the reflexive pronoun "herself" after the verb "defending." When someone defends themselves, we use the reflexive pronoun to indicate that the action is directed back at the subject. Therefore, the corrected phrase is

"defending herself," which ensures proper grammar and usage in the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The Delhi High Court said Trinamool Congress leader Mahua Moitra cannot be barred from defending herself against the allegations made by an estranged friend in the public domain as long as her statements are not "objectively false"."

7. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part c: The error in the sentence is the incorrect use of the phrase "a sufficiently time." The word "sufficiently" is an adverb, but in this context, we need an adjective to modify the noun "time." Therefore, we use "sufficient," an adjective, instead. Additionally, "a" is used before "sufficient time" to indicate that a single, unspecified amount of time is being referred to. So, the corrected phrase is "a sufficient time," which properly modifies "time" and maintains the intended meaning of the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: "Offering citizenship to migrants who have fled their countries of origin because of persecution and have stayed a sufficient time in their adopted country, is a humane endeavour by any nation-state and should be generally welcomed."

8. Questions

Answer: B

The error is in part (b), where "crucially" is corrected to "crucial" to match the adjective form with the noun "response." "Crucial" is the appropriate adjective to describe the significance of India's response in this context.

So, the corrected sentence is: "Amid the global movement towards regulating AI systems, India's response would be crucial, with the nation currently catering to one of the largest consumer bases and labour forces for technology companies."

9. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part (c), where "are" is corrected to "is" to ensure subject-verb agreement. Since "the electoral combat" is a singular noun phrase, the verb "is" should also be singular to match it.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The electoral combat in Dibrugarh, the easternmost of Assam's 14 Lok Sabha constituencies, is between crusaders against contrasting laws involving migrants or refugees from Bangladesh."

10. Questions

Answer: E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The error is in part (e), where "monitored with" is corrected to "monitored by" to indicate the entity overseeing the investigation. The correct preposition to use in this context is "by" to show that the Supreme Court is actively monitoring the investigation.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The Samyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM) has demanded a probe into the "electoral bonds scam" by a special investigation team of retired administrators, monitored by the Supreme Court."

11. Questions

Answer: C

A1D, B2E, and C3F

" The weather forecast predicted heavy rain therefore they decided to stay home."

" The teacher explained the instructions clearly although some students were still confused."

" The students were eager to start their project since they began working immediately."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

The weather forecast predicted heavy rain therefore they decided to stay home. The connector "therefore" indicates a logical consequence. If heavy rain is predicted, it makes sense that they would decide to stay home to avoid getting wet.

The teacher explained the instructions clearly although some students were still confused. The connector "although" introduces a contrast. Despite the teacher's clear explanation, some students were still confused.

The students were eager to start their project since they began working immediately. The connector "since" indicates a cause-and-effect relationship. The students were eager to start their project, so they began working immediately.

In summary, option c) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

12. Questions

Answer: A

A2F, B1E, C3D

A). I locked the door. - This sentence describes an action.

F). I didn't want anyone to come in. - This sentence explains the reason behind the action in sentence A.

Connector: because - This connector indicates a cause-and-effect relationship. So, joining them with "because" makes sense: "I locked the door because I didn't want anyone to come in."

B). She was very tired. - This sentence describes someone's state.

E). There was no point in arguing. - This sentence expresses a consequence based on the information in sentence B.

Connector: therefore - This connector indicates a conclusion drawn from the information in the previous sentence. So, joining them with "therefore" makes sense: "She was very tired; therefore, there was no point in arguing."

C). We missed the train. - This sentence describes an event.

D). We had to wait for the next one. - This sentence describes the consequence of missing the train in sentence C.

Connector: so - This connector indicates a result or consequence. So, joining them with "so" makes sense: "We missed the train, so we had to wait for the next one."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, the correct sequence of joined sentences is A2F, B1E and C3D.

In summary, option a) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

13. Questions

Answer: D

A3E, B2F, and C1D

“The team scored a goal as soon as the atmosphere became electrifying.”

“The crowd cheered loudly therefore the opposing team felt discouraged.”

“The referee blew the whistle after the match ended.”

The team scored a goal as soon as the atmosphere became electrifying. This sentence logically connects the action of scoring a goal (A) with the atmosphere becoming electrifying (E). The connector "as soon as" indicates an immediate or closely linked action, implying that the goal was scored when the atmosphere became electrifying.

The crowd cheered loudly therefore the opposing team felt discouraged. This sentence logically connects the action of the crowd cheering loudly (B) with the feeling of discouragement by the opposing team (F). The connector "therefore" indicates a logical consequence, suggesting that the loud cheering of the crowd led to the opposing team feeling discouraged.

The referee blew the whistle after the match ended. This sentence logically connects the action of the referee blowing the whistle (C) with the end of the match (D). The connector "after" indicates that the blowing of the whistle occurred subsequent to the match ending.

Therefore, the correct sequence of joined sentences is A3E, B2F, and C1D.

In summary, option d) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

14. Questions

Answer: E

A3E, B1F, and C2D

“The rainbow emerged consequently the colours painted the sky.”

“They danced joyously after the old year ended.”

“The new year began therefore they celebrated with fireworks.”

The rainbow emerged consequently the colours painted the sky. This sentence logically connects the emergence of the rainbow (A) with the painting of colours in the sky (E). The connector "consequently" indicates a cause-and-effect relationship, suggesting that the appearance of the rainbow led to the colours painting the sky.

They danced joyously after the old year ended. This sentence logically connects the action of dancing joyously (B) with the end of the old year (F). The connector "after" indicates that the joyous dancing occurred subsequent to the ending of the old year.

The new year began therefore they celebrated with fireworks. This sentence logically connects the beginning of the new year (C) with the action of celebrating with fireworks (D). The connector "therefore" indicates a logical consequence, suggesting that the start of the new year led to the celebration with fireworks.

Therefore, the correct sequence of joined sentences is A3E, B1F, and C2D.

In summary, option e) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

15. Questions

Answer: B

A3E, B1D, and C2F

“The deadline for submission was approaching therefore they needed to manage their time effectively.”

“The clouds dispersed before the rainbow emerged.”

“The night deepened thus darkness enveloped the surroundings.”

The deadline for submission was approaching therefore they needed to manage their time effectively. This sentence logically connects the submission of project (A) with time management (E). The connector "therefore" indicates a logical consequence. The approaching deadline necessitated effective time management.

The clouds dispersed before the rainbow emerged. This sentence logically connects the dispersal of clouds (B) with the emergence of the rainbow (D). The connector "before" indicates that the clouds dispersed prior to the rainbow appearing.

The night deepened thus darkness enveloped the surroundings. This sentence logically connects the deepening of the night (C) with the envelopment of surroundings by darkness (F). The connector "thus" indicates a logical consequence, suggesting that the deepening of the night led to the surroundings being enveloped by darkness.

Therefore, the correct sequence of joined sentences is A3E, B1D, and C2F.

In summary, option b) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) he continued to seek after his dreams

The phrase "he continued to seek after his dreams" is the most appropriate and idiomatic choice to convey the idea that he persisted in pursuing his goals despite obstacles. It maintains clarity and effectively expresses the intended meaning.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that either change the meaning, use incorrect phrasing, or are less idiomatic:

Option (a) "he sustained to seek for his notions" introduces a different meaning with "sustained" and

"notions," which may not accurately convey the intended message.

Option (b) "he focused to seek after his trances" introduces a different meaning with "focused" and "trances," which may not accurately convey the intended message.

Option (c) "he dedicated to seek for his dreams" changes the verb and disrupts the phrase "to seek for," which is less idiomatic compared to "to seek after."

Therefore, option (d) "he continued to seek after his dreams" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

17. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) to speak for her at the meeting

The phrase "to speak for her at the meeting" is the most appropriate and idiomatic choice in the context of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the friend will represent her and convey her perspectives during the convocation.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that either change the meaning or use less appropriate terms:

Option (a) "to declare of her at the convention" changes the meaning slightly. "Declare" suggests making a formal statement rather than representing someone.

Option (b) "to express for her at the council" is not the most appropriate term for this context. "Express" generally means to convey one's own thoughts or feelings, not to represent someone else.

Option (c) "to mention of her at the conference" is less appropriate. "Mention" implies briefly bringing something to attention, whereas the sentence implies a more substantial representation.

Therefore, option (d) "to speak for her at the meeting" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

18. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) believed to originate with the ancient Romans

The phrase "believed to originate with the ancient Romans" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea that the tradition of exchanging engagement rings is thought to have started with the ancient Romans. It is common to use "believed to" to express the understanding or belief surrounding the origin of a tradition.

Options (a), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are less idiomatic or change the meaning:

Option (a) "declared to originate in the ancient Romans" introduces a stronger assertion ("declared") which may not accurately represent historical understanding.

Option (c) "asserted to originate in the ancient Romans" also introduces a stronger assertion ("asserted") which may not accurately represent historical understanding.

Option (d) "accepted to originate with the ancient Romans" implies a level of agreement but may not accurately represent historical understanding.

Therefore, option (b) "believed to originate with the ancient Romans" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

19. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) no improvement is required

The phrase "glance through the dense research paper" is clear and idiomatic. It effectively conveys the idea of quickly reviewing or skimming through the research paper to extract key points without diving deeply into the details.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning, use incorrect phrasing, or are not idiomatic:

Option (a) "check through the compact research paper" changes the meaning slightly and introduces less common phrasing.

Option (b) "look over through the solid research paper" is incorrect and redundant. "Look over" and "through" do not typically collocate in this context.

Option (c) "look at the complex research paper" changes the meaning and does not convey the sense of quickly reviewing or skimming through.

Option (d) "peep through the cryptic research paper" changes the meaning and introduces an informal and somewhat inappropriate word ("peep") for this context.

Therefore, option (e) "no improvement is required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

20. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) protesters began to clamour for justice

The phrase "protesters began to clamour for justice" effectively conveys the idea of activists demanding justice loudly and insistently. "Clamour" here means to make a loud outcry or demand.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning, use less appropriate vocabulary, or disrupt the intended tone:

Option (a) "radicals began to request for justice" changes the tone and meaning. "Request" is less forceful than "demand" or "protest."

Option (b) "agitators began to urging for justice" has a grammatical error and incorrect phrasing. "Urging" should be in the form of "urge," and "for justice" should follow the verb directly.

Option (d) "partisans began to protest for justice" introduces a different tone. "Partisans" typically refers to supporters of a particular party or cause, which may not accurately describe the activists in this context.

Therefore, option (c) "protesters began to clamour for justice" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

1. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

The Supreme Court order expanding the scope of Article 14 of the Constitution on the right to equality and Article 21 on right to life and liberty so as to include "the right against the adverse effects of climate change" should be read as a landmark judgment. The government must now take appropriate steps to ensure that the order helps the large masses of the country who bear the ___(1)___ of climate change. Access to a clean and healthy environment is a right of every individual but competitive consumerism does not recognise restrictions on the use of resources, including energy, ___(2)___ the very existence of the human race on the earth. Voluntary action on cutting down on the demand on the resources would be the best option to fight climate change but that is next to impossible, given the pressure being ___(3)___ by market forces. Now that the court has said every person has the right to equality and right to life with respect to her immediate environment, the government must now put in place systems to ensure that everyone plays by the rule. Given that the court has brought equality into the discussion, all human activities that put an extra burden on the nature must be identified and penalised. There are ___(4)___ protocols available on almost every human activity, and they must be implemented in India, too. It is a fact that those at the bottom of the social pyramid are the worst affected when climatic change, or for that matter any calamity, hits the earth. The rich and the powerful will have options available to them to lessen the impact or even avoid it; the poor will have little option to escape it. The Supreme Court order makes it amply clear that such a situation cannot continue. The government must immediately launch awareness campaigns and legal measures on resource ___(5)___ to operationalise the apex court's order.

Which of the following word most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. sway
b. control
c. imprint
d. strain
e. brunt

2. Questions

Which of the following word most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. blemishing
b. impeding
c. tarnishing
d. jeopardising
e. none of the above

3. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Which of the following word most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. strived
b. strained
c. saddled
d. exerted
e. encumbered

4. Questions

Which of the following word most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

a. exhaustive
b. intact
c. integral
d. intensive
e. catholic

5. Questions

Which of the following word most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. dissipation
b. squander
c. profligacy
d. iniquity
e. libertinage

6. Questions

In the following questions First part of the sentence is fixed. You are required to rearrange the remaining parts in order to form a meaningful sentence.

The World Meteorological Organization (WMO) in its recently released / State of the Global Climate report sounded a 'Red Alert' (A) / witnessing new highs in heat records (B) / and confirmed that not only was 2023 the hottest year recorded so far, (C) / but also that there was a high probability of 2024 (D).

a. ABDC
b. BDAC
c. ACDB
d. ACBD
e. ABCD

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

7. Questions

While the Modi sarkar has been repeatedly accused of misusing / against its political rivals, there is no evidence (A) /the state machinery, especially the Enforcement Directorate, (B) / let alone the likelihood of such excesses reaching anywhere (C) / close to the criminal actions of former US president Nixon (D).

a. ABDC
b. BACD
c. ACDB
d. ACBD
e. ABCD

8. Questions

In the services sector, India's large, well-educated, / young, and English-speaking workforce, (A) / has turned the country into a global leader in computer services (B) / coupled with a reliable digital infrastructure, (C) / and business process outsourcing and a global hub for medical services (D).

a. ADBC
b. ADCB
c. ACDB
d. ACBD
e. ABCD

9. Questions

An intriguing revelation stemming from a granular analysis of / payments related to invisibles is that (A) / private transfers from India have skyrocketed (B) / by 84 percent over the period from 2018-19 to 2022-23, (C) / surging from $5,795 million to $10,689 million (D).

a. ABDC
b. BCAD
c. BDAC
d. ACBD
e. ABCD

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

The Supreme Court's expert committee to determine / a difficult situation of balancing conservation (A) / with evacuating renewable electricity (B) / will help move towards resolving (C) / the Great Indian Bustard's core habitat (D).

a. ABCD

b. BCDA

c. BACD

d. CDBA

e. DCAB

11. Questions

In the following questions three words are highlighted and from the given options you have to identify the synonym for the highlighted word given in the sentence.

Six months since Hamas gunmen stormed into southern Israel on a killing spree, Israel's ground campaign to annihilate the Islamist movement has turned much of the Gaza Strip into a wasteland with an unfolding humanitarian catastrophe.

a. seethed, smother, calamity

b. invaded, destroy, disaster

c. steamed, obliterate, tragedy

d. invaded, devastate, insurrection

e. None of the above

12. Questions

Impunity has a price for the perpetrator as well as the victim, and that price is that the state ceases to be able to regulate its own behaviour, and begins to self-sabotage.

a. permission, recitalist, thwart

b. vindication, destroyer, inhibit

c. immunity, offender, obstruct

d. amnesty, swindler, vandalize

e. None of the above

13. Questions

In the last few years, Indian citizens are increasingly facing an inexplicable set of problems on the foreign affairs front — problems that are a far cry from India's socialist day narratives of how we are an underdeveloped-to-developing country, a victim of foreign rule and a happy hunting ground of an ominously conspiring "foreign hand".

a. mysterious, assailant, sinisterly

b. abstruse, perpetrator, oppressively

c. Unexplainable, Casualty, Menacingly

d. luminous, mortality, propitiously

e. None of the above

14. Questions

The diligent student achieved remarkable success through perseverance, demonstrating resilience in the face of adversity, ultimately triumphing over challenges.

a. reluctance, intrepidity, supremacy

b. apathy, courage, dominion

c. wavering, tenacity, sway

d. tenacity, fortitude, hardship

e. None of the above

15. Questions

The erudite professor elucidated complex theories with eloquence, captivating his audience and instilling a deeper comprehension of the subject matter.

a. vernacular, rhetoric, infusing

b. Knowledgeable, Fluency, Inculcating

c. colloquial, articulation, imparting

d. barbaric, loquacity, uprooting

e. None of the above

16. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

The Karnataka state is taking measures to mitigate the impact of drought by releasing relief funds, restricting lifting of water from rivers for irrigation, and imposing fines against the use of drinking water for _____.

a. Industrial activities

b. Agricultural purposes

c. Recreational activities

d. Non-essential activities

e. Non-consumptive purposes

17. Questions

Some recent events in India which attracted much criticism within the country have also _____.

sky5up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. Triggered widespread protests
b. Resulted in international condemnation
c. Led to significant policy changes
d. Sparked diplomatic tensions
e. Drawn the attention of other countries

18. Questions

The findings of the India Employment Report released by the International Labour Organisation (ILO) have again highlighted the problem of _____.

a. Insufficient workforce participation
b. Skill gaps in the labour market
c. Low wages and poor working conditions
d. Continuing high unemployment in India
e. Inadequate access to education and training

19. Questions

Israel's refusal to call a halt to the assault on Gaza despite a UN Security Council resolution for an immediate ceasefire does not behove a country _____.

a. That champions human rights
b. With a long history of conflict resolution
c. That respects international law
d. With a strong commitment to peace
e. That has benefited from the UN from the get-go

20. Questions

Governors in Opposition-ruled states have become obstructionist in many matters, claiming powers that they do not have, and _____.

a. Have adhered strictly to constitutional provisions
b. Have maintained a neutral stance
c. Have acted in accordance with legal precedents
d. Have conducted themselves like politicians
e. Have upheld the principles of federalism

skybsup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (1) is "brunt."

The phrase "bear the brunt" means to suffer the worst part of something, especially something unpleasant or harmful. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that the large masses of the country are the ones who bear the most severe consequences or effects of climate change.

a). "Sway" means to have control or influence over something, but it doesn't convey the idea of directly experiencing the negative effects of climate change.

b). "Control" means to have power over something or someone, but it doesn't specifically convey the notion of bearing the harmful effects of climate change.

c). "Imprint" means to leave a mark or impression, but it doesn't fit well in the context of describing who is most affected by climate change.

d). "Strain" means pressure or stress, but it doesn't specifically convey the idea of experiencing the direct impact of climate change.

Therefore, "brunt" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea that the large masses of the country are the ones who suffer the most severe consequences or effects of climate change.

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

2. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (2) is "jeopardizing."

The sentence discusses how competitive consumerism does not recognize restrictions on the use of resources, which in turn could jeopardize the very existence of the human race on Earth. "Jeopardizing" means putting something at risk or endangering it, which accurately reflects the idea conveyed in the sentence.

a). "Blemishing" means damaging or spoiling the appearance or quality of something. While competitive consumerism may indeed have negative consequences for the environment, "blemishing" doesn't fully capture the severity of the impact on the human race's existence as implied in the context.

b). "Impeding" means obstructing or hindering progress. While competitive consumerism may hinder efforts to address climate change, it doesn't directly convey the idea of putting the existence of the human race at risk.

c). "Tarnishing" means damaging or discolouring something, usually its reputation or appearance. While competitive consumerism may have negative effects on the environment, "tarnishing" doesn't fully convey the idea of endangering the human race's existence as implied in the context.

Therefore, "jeopardizing" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea that competitive consumerism could put the very existence of the human race at risk due to its impact on the environment.

skyhsup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (3) is "exerted."

In the context provided, the sentence suggests that there is pressure or influence being applied by market forces that makes voluntary action on cutting down resource demand difficult. The word "exerted" means to apply or put into use, often with a significant amount of effort or force. In this case, it implies that market forces are actively applying pressure, making it challenging for voluntary action to occur.

a). "Strived" means made great efforts or struggled, but it doesn't quite capture the idea of external pressure being applied by market forces.

b). "Strained" means stretched or put under pressure, but it doesn't directly convey the sense of external influence or pressure from market forces.

c). "Saddled" means burdened or loaded with responsibilities, but it doesn't specifically convey the idea of external pressure being exerted by market forces.

e). "Encumbered" means hindered or restricted, often by a heavy load, but it doesn't directly convey the sense of external pressure being applied by market forces.

Therefore, "exerted" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of external pressure or influence being applied by market forces, making voluntary action difficult.

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

4. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (4) is "exhaustive."

In the context of the sentence, the word "protocols" suggests a systematic set of rules or guidelines. Therefore, the word that would best describe these rules or guidelines is one that indicates thoroughness and comprehensiveness.

a). "Exhaustive" means comprehensive and thorough, covering all possible details or aspects. This fits well with the idea of protocols covering every human activity.

b). "Intact" means undamaged or whole, which doesn't make sense in the context of describing protocols.

c). "Integral" means essential or fundamental to the completeness of a whole, which doesn't convey the sense of thoroughness or comprehensiveness needed in this context.

d). "Intensive" means involving a concentrated effort or high level of activity, which doesn't convey the idea of thoroughness in covering all aspects.

e). "Catholic" means universal or broad-minded, but it doesn't directly relate to the idea of protocols covering all aspects comprehensively.

Therefore, "exhaustive" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of thoroughness and comprehensiveness in covering all possible aspects or activities.

skyvsup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labeled (5) is "profligacy."

The context of the sentence suggests that the government must take measures related to resource management in order to operationalize the Supreme Court's order regarding the right to equality and the right to life concerning one's immediate environment. In this context, "profligacy" refers to wasteful or extravagant behaviour, particularly concerning the use of resources.

a). "Dissipation" refers to the wasteful use or squandering of resources, which is similar in meaning to "profligacy." However, "dissipation" doesn't quite capture the idea of reckless or extravagant behaviour to the same extent.

b). "Squander" also means to waste or spend wastefully, particularly referring to resources. While similar to "profligacy" in meaning, it doesn't directly convey the idea of excessive or extravagant behaviour as explicitly.

d). "Iniquity" refers to injustice or unfairness, particularly in social or moral contexts. It doesn't directly relate to the mismanagement or wasteful use of resources.

e). "Libertinage" refers to immoral or licentious behaviour, particularly in a sexual context. It doesn't relate to resource management or the themes discussed in the sentence.

Therefore, "profligacy" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of wasteful or extravagant behaviour concerning the use of resources, which aligns with the context of the sentence.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

6. Questions

Answer: C

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “The World Meteorological Organization (WMO) in its recently released State of the Global Climate report sounded a ‘Red Alert’ and confirmed that not only was 2023 the hottest year recorded so far, but also that there was a high probability of 2024 witnessing new highs in heat records.”

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

7. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “While the Modi sarkar has been repeatedly accused of misusing the state machinery, especially the Enforcement Directorate, against its political rivals, there is no evidence let alone the likelihood of such excesses reaching anywhere close to the criminal actions of former US president Nixon.”

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

8. Questions

Answer: D

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (d) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “In the services sector, India’s large, well-educated, young, and English-speaking workforce, coupled with a reliable digital infrastructure, has turned the country into a global leader in computer services and business process outsourcing and a global hub for medical services.”

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

9. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “An intriguing revelation stemming from a granular analysis of payments related to invisibles is that private transfers from India have skyrocketed by 84 percent over the period from 2018-19 to 2022-23, surging from $5,795 million to $10,689 million.”

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

10. Questions

Answer: E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “The Supreme Court's expert committee to determine the Great Indian Bustard's core habitat will help move towards resolving a difficult situation of balancing conservation with evacuating renewable electricity.”

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The word "stormed" means to move quickly and forcefully into a place, often with aggressive intent. The synonym for "stormed" in this context is "invaded" (option b).

The word "annihilate" means to destroy or completely defeat something. The synonym for "annihilate" in this context is "destroy" (option b).

The word "catastrophe" refers to a disastrous event causing great damage or suffering. The synonym for "catastrophe" in this context is "disaster" (option b).

Therefore, option b) "invaded, destroy, disaster" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

12. Questions

Answer: C

The word "impunity" refers to exemption from punishment or freedom from the consequences of an

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

action. A synonym for "impunity" is "immunity" (option c).

The word "perpetrator" refers to a person who carries out a harmful, illegal, or immoral act. A synonym for "perpetrator" is "offender" (option c).

The phrase "self-sabotage" means to undermine or obstruct one's own efforts. A synonym for "self-sabotage" is " obstruct " (option c).

Therefore, option c) "Immunity, Offender, obstruct " provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

13. Questions

Answer: C

The word "inexplicable" means unable to be explained or understood. A synonym for "inexplicable" is "unexplainable" (option c).

The word "victim" refers to a person who suffers from a destructive or injurious action or situation. A synonym for "victim" is "casualty" (option c).

The word "ominously" means in a way that suggests that something bad is going to happen. A synonym for "ominously" is "menacingly" (option c).

Therefore, option c) "Unexplainable, Casualty, Menacingly" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

14. Questions

Answer: D

The word "perseverance" refers to the persistence in doing something despite difficulty or delay in achieving success. A synonym for "perseverance" is "tenacity" (option d).

The word "resilience" refers to the ability to recover quickly from difficulties or toughness. A synonym for "resilience" is "fortitude" (option d).

The word "adversity" refers to difficulties or misfortune. A synonym for "adversity" is "hardship" (option d).

Therefore, option d) "Tenacity, Fortitude, Hardship" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

Therefore, option D is the correct answer.

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Answer: B

The word "erudite" refers to having or showing great knowledge or learning. A synonym for "erudite" is "knowledgeable" (option b).

The word "eloquence" refers to fluent or persuasive speaking or writing. A synonym for "eloquence" is "fluency" (option b).

The word "instilling" means to gradually but firmly establish (an idea or attitude) in a person's mind. A synonym for "instilling" is "inculcating" (option b).

Therefore, option b) "Knowledgeable, Fluency, Inculcating" provides synonyms for the highlighted words in the sentence.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

16. Questions

Answer: E

Option e) is the correct answer. It completes the sentence by specifying that Karnataka state is taking measures to impose fines against the use of drinking water for non-consumptive purposes as part of mitigating the impact of drought.

a). Industrial activities (Not correct): This option suggests that fines are imposed against the use of drinking water for industrial activities. While industrial water usage is important, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the fines imposed.

b). Agricultural purposes (Not correct): This option proposes fines against the use of drinking water for agricultural purposes. While agricultural water usage is significant, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the fines imposed.

c). Recreational activities (Not correct): This option suggests that fines are imposed against the use of drinking water for recreational activities. While recreational water usage might be relevant, the sentence does not specify this as the focus of the fines imposed.

d). Non-essential activities (Not correct): This option proposes fines against the use of drinking water for non-essential activities. While non-essential water usage could be a concern, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the fines imposed.

e). Non-consumptive purposes (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that fines are imposed against the use of drinking water for non-consumptive purposes, such as non-essential uses that do not involve consumption, as part of mitigating the impact of drought.

Options a), b), c), and d) offer different activities or purposes for which water might be used, but they do not directly address the specific issue of imposing fines against the use of drinking water for non-consumptive purposes as mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option e) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the imposition of fines against the use of drinking water for non-consumptive purposes in drought mitigation measures by the Karnataka state.

17. Questions

Answer: E

Option e) is the correct answer. It completes the sentence by specifying that some recent events in India, which attracted criticism within the country, have also drawn the attention of other countries.

a). Triggered widespread protests (Not correct): This option suggests that the recent events triggered widespread protests. While protests could be a consequence of events, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the events attracting criticism.

b). Resulted in international condemnation (Not correct): This option proposes that the recent events resulted in international condemnation. While condemnation could be a consequence, the sentence does not specify this as the focus of the events.

c). Led to significant policy changes (Not correct): This option suggests that the recent events led to significant policy changes. While policy changes might occur in response to events, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the events attracting criticism.

d). Sparked diplomatic tensions (Not correct): This option proposes that the recent events sparked diplomatic tensions. While tensions could arise from events, the sentence does not specify this as the focus of the events.

e). Drawn the attention of other countries (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that some recent events in India, which attracted criticism within the country, have also drawn the attention of other countries.

Options a), b), c), and d) offer different outcomes or consequences of the events, but they do not directly address the specific issue of drawing the attention of other countries as mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option e) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the events in India drawing the attention of other countries due to the criticism they received within the country.

18. Questions

Answer: D

Option d) is the correct answer. It completes the sentence by specifying that the findings of the India Employment Report have again highlighted the problem of continuing high unemployment in India.

a). Insufficient workforce participation (Not correct): This option suggests that the problem highlighted is insufficient workforce participation. While this could be an issue, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the problem highlighted by the India Employment Report.

b). Skill gaps in the labour market (Not correct): This option proposes that the problem highlighted is skill gaps in the labour market. While skill gaps are important, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the problem highlighted by the report.

c). Low wages and poor working conditions (Not correct): This option suggests that the problem highlighted is low wages and poor working conditions. While these are significant issues, the sentence does not explicitly mention them as the problem highlighted by the report.

d). Continuing high unemployment in India (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that the findings of the India Employment Report have highlighted the problem of continuing high unemployment in India.

e). Inadequate access to education and training (Not correct): This option proposes that the problem highlighted is inadequate access to education and training. While education and training access are crucial, the sentence does not explicitly mention them as the problem highlighted by the report.

Options a), b), c), and e) offer different aspects or factors related to employment issues, but they do not directly address the specific problem highlighted in the sentence, which is the continuing high unemployment in India.

In summary, option d) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the problem of continuing high unemployment in India highlighted by the India Employment Report.

19. Questions

Answer: E

Option e) is the correct answer. It completes the sentence by specifying that Israel's refusal to call a halt to the assault on Gaza does not behove a country that has benefited from the UN from the get-go.

a). That champions human rights (Not correct): This option suggests that the behaviour of Israel does not align with a country that champions human rights. While this may be relevant, the sentence does not explicitly mention human rights as the standard for the behaviour discussed.

b). With a long history of conflict resolution (Not correct): This option proposes that Israel's behaviour does not align with a country with a long history of conflict resolution. While conflict resolution history could be significant, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the standard for the behaviour discussed.

c). That respects international law (Not correct): This option suggests that Israel's behaviour does not align with a country that respects international law. While adherence to international law is important, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the standard for the behaviour discussed.

d). With a strong commitment to peace (Not correct): This option proposes that Israel's behaviour does not align with a country with a strong commitment to peace. While a commitment to peace is crucial, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the standard for the behaviour discussed.

e). That has benefited from the UN from the get-go (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that Israel's behaviour does not align with a country that has benefited from the UN from the beginning, indicating that Israel's actions contradict its historical relationship with the UN.

Options a), b), c), and d) offer different characteristics or expectations of countries, but they do not directly address the specific issue of benefiting from the UN from the beginning as mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option e) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on Israel's actions conflicting with its historical relationship with the UN.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

Answer: D

Option d) is the correct answer. It completes the sentence by specifying that governors in Opposition-ruled states have conducted themselves like politicians.

a). Have adhered strictly to constitutional provisions (Not correct): This option suggests that governors have strictly followed constitutional provisions. While adherence to the constitution is important, the sentence implies the opposite, stating that governors are claiming powers they do not have.

b). Have maintained a neutral stance (Not correct): This option proposes that governors have maintained a neutral stance. While neutrality could be desirable, the sentence suggests that governors are obstructing matters, which implies they are not neutral.

c). Have acted in accordance with legal precedents (Not correct): This option suggests that governors have acted in accordance with legal precedents. While following legal precedents is important, the sentence implies that governors are claiming powers they do not have, which may not align with legal precedents.

d). Have conducted themselves like politicians (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that governors in Opposition-ruled states have conducted themselves like politicians, implying they prioritize political interests over their constitutional duties.

e). Have upheld the principles of federalism (Not correct): This option proposes that governors have upheld the principles of federalism. While upholding federalism is crucial, the sentence suggests that governors are obstructing matters, which may not align with the principles of federalism if they are overstepping their constitutional powers.

Options a), b), c), and e) offer different behaviours or roles governors might adopt, but they do not directly address the specific behaviour mentioned in the sentence, which is conducting themselves like politicians.

In summary, option d) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on governors in Opposition-ruled states conducting themselves like politicians rather than impartial constitutional figures.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Over four billion—that's the staggering number of individuals around the world who would be eligible to vote in 2024, a year brimming with elections. Traditionally, such widespread participation would be a democratic triumph. Yet, a dark cloud hangs over this year's pivotal contests—the chilling vulnerability of democracies in the age of artificial intelligence (AI). The vulnerabilities? Not relics of the past. Outdated voter registration systems, electronic voting machines and election management software—these are the gaping holes waiting to be exploited. But the threats have evolved. Social media, as we know, shattered the gatekeepers of information. Anyone could publish, dissemination costs plummeted. Generative AI takes this a step further. It's not just dissemination that's near-free; content creation itself approaches zero cost. Sophisticated content, once the domain of specialists, can be churned out with frightening ease. This is the second shift—the democratization of deception, with profound implications for our information landscape. The ever-prescient Jonathan Swift wrote, "Falsehood flies, and Truth comes limping after it." Academics seem to have proven this with social media; people are more likely to share falsehoods, perhaps for their novelty or surprise. AI has the potential to supercharge the problem, making content production and propagation automatic, faster and easier. Researchers at Indiana University revealed a botnet of over 1,100 Twitter accounts seemingly operated using ChatGPT in July last year. AI's reach extends beyond visuals. It can churn out mountains of synthetic text, fabricate articles, and create a seemingly endless army of fake social media accounts. This is now a world where political discourse isn't a clash of ideas but a cacophony of bots parroting lies to each other. AI can also effortlessly generate event-based media. Days before a Taiwanese election, every phone buzzed with an air-raid alert triggered by a Chinese satellite. Within 24 hours, Taiwan AI labs observed over 1,500 coordinated social media posts promoting conspiracy theories about the alert, sowing distrust. As many as five posts appeared per minute, many more readable than the typical mill fare. The decentralized online landscape compounds the danger. Users are migrating from monolithic platforms like Facebook to federated social media networks like Mastodon. While fragmentation offers advantages, it creates breeding grounds for misinformation. Each new platform becomes a new frontier for manipulation, making content policing more daunting. But the most dangerous fear is its ability to become intimate with users. In the age of digital loneliness, the biggest trump card for generative AI is it promises to act as advocate and butler. Unlike your search engine, email or cloud storage, AI requires a level of intimacy that goes beyond utility. Imagine a constant companion, working tirelessly in your 'best interests'. Imagine AI-powered chatbots forging intimate relationships with unsuspecting individuals, subtly shaping their political views. Loneliness, a growing social epidemic, could be exploited to turn individuals into unwitting pawns. Disinformation wouldn't just be broadcast; it would masquerade as friendship. Hannah Arendt, writing on totalitarianism, described loneliness as a permanent state cultivated by isolation and terror. Totalitarian regimes used this to create a fertile ground for ideological propaganda. During the 2020 US election, the Internet Research Agency linked to the Russian government reached out to targets like Black Lives Matter activists to offer online support and funding. Truth has always been contested, but AI allows for the mass production of customized realities. Distinguishing fact from fiction becomes an uphill battle when falsehoods are tailored to resonate with individual biases and anxieties. It's not just about fighting fake news; it's about combating the erosion of a shared understanding of reality itself. So how do we fortify our democracies? Lessons can be learned from Taiwan. Recognizing their vulnerability to Chinese interference, Taiwan adopted a 'pre-bunking' strategy. They openly discussed the potential for deepfakes and educated public on how to identify them. By pre-bunking before deepfakes fell into the wrong hands, they inoculated the public. Taiwan's president even filmed himself being deep-faked to demonstrate the ease of manipulation. Pre-bunking takes time, and Taiwan's repeated messaging throughout 2022 and 2023 yielded results. By 2024, when deepfakes did appear, they had minimal effect due to the public's built-up "antibodies". The second challenge is transparency in training data used for generative AI systems. Access to this is crucial for effective defense. Legislation like the EU's Digital Services Act and AI Act, the UK's Online Safety Act, and India's Digital Personal Data Protection Act—all intended to regulate AI—will come into effect after the elections, after significant damage is done. If the internet was the most audacious experiment in anarchy and succeeded beyond the wildest imagination of its progenitors, the US's Defense Advanced Research Project Agency, AI is the new frontier as far as tech dominance over the human species is concerned. This is not to argue that the human race should be petrified of the innovation; every technological advance has different implications. Through the use of AI's large language models, a vigorous attempt is being undertaken to replicate the human brain, perhaps the most complex organ among the millions of species that inhabit Earth. The call for universally agreed rules of engagement across global tech space is growing louder by the minute. There must be a set of common principles that undergirds country-specific legislation. The EU's AI Act provides guidance in the principles that form the substratum of that legislation. They address the risks created by AI applications, prohibit practices that pose undesirable risks, define a list of high-risk applications, set clear imperatives for AI systems for high-risk applications, define the obligations of those who provide high-risk AI applications, require compliance assessment before a given AI system is put into service, and establish a governance structure at European and national levels. Finally, the fight against AI manipulation cannot be shouldered solely by governments and tech companies. The role of civil society organizations and independent fact-checking would be crucial, too. However, the moot question is: would it be enough given the way AI is mutating?

According to the passage, what strategy did Taiwan adopt to mitigate the impact of deepfakes?

a. Censorship of online content
b. Pre-bunking and public education
c. Increased surveillance measures
d. Collaboration with foreign governments
e. Development of advanced AI detection tools

2. Questions

How does the passage suggest that loneliness could be exploited in the context of AI manipulation?

a. By fostering genuine human connections
b. By providing emotional support
c. By leveraging personalized content creation
d. By encouraging offline social interactions
e. By promoting mental health awareness

3. Questions

What example does the passage provide to illustrate the potential impact of AI on political discourse?

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. Creation of deepfake videos
b. Use of traditional media outlets
c. Implementation of stricter content policies
d. Enhancement of cybersecurity measures
e. Adoption of decentralized social media platforms

4. Questions

How does generative AI contribute to the spread of misinformation, as described in the passage?

a. By increasing the cost of dissemination
b. By limiting the speed of content creation
c. By democratizing content creation
d. By reducing the availability of fake social media accounts
e. By enhancing the accuracy of information dissemination

5. Questions

According to the passage, what is the primary concern regarding democracies in the age of artificial intelligence?

a. Outdated voting systems
b. Vulnerability to manipulation
c. Lack of voter engagement
d. Fragmentation of social media
e. Decrease in political discourse

6. Questions

According to the passage, what is emphasized as crucial in combating AI manipulation besides government and tech company efforts?

a. Global cooperation
b. Increased internet censorship
c. Enhanced AI development
d. Political campaign regulation
e. Public awareness and fact-checking

7. Questions

skysup@gmail.com
Tg. @NextGenBankers

In the passage, the term "deepfakes" is used to describe a type of manipulated media. Which of the following options is a synonym for "deepfakes"?

a. Artificial fabrications

b. Synthetic illusions

c. Falsified simulations

d. Algorithmic counterfeits

e. Technological hoaxes

8. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

India finds itself at a crossroads, _____ with the dual challenge of sustaining growth momentum while addressing underlying structural _____.

a. grappling, constraints

b. wrestling, dilemmas

c. entangled, barriers

d. contending, opportunities

e. engaging, deficiencies

9. Questions

The World Bank's _____ regarding fiscal consolidation underscores the importance of prudent fiscal management in safeguarding macroeconomic stability and _____ investor confidence.

a. projections, enhancing

b. assessments, boosting

c. prognosis, bolstering

d. diagnosis, stimulating

e. analysis, promoting

10. Questions

Questions of terrorism, militancy, insurgency and other forms of organized violence that _____ destruction, death and suffering must be understood within the _____ of "good" and "evil".

a. cause, context

b. impose, realm

c. bring, perspective

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. perpetrate, spectrum

e. wreak, paradigm

11. Questions

India, the world's second largest wheat consumer, grapples with the aftermath of consecutive years of diminished wheat production, attributed to relentless heat waves.

a. contends, oppressive

b. grapples, relentless

c. contends, persistent

d. copes, scorching

e. deals, extreme

12. Questions

The Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) _____ raises many questions of constitutional and political significance, like whether the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) violates the principle of equality _____ in Article 14 of the Constitution by failing the tests of reasonable classification and non-arbitrariness?

a. issue, epitomized

b. puzzle, governed

c. controversy, encapsulated

d. conundrum, enshrined

e. issue, embodied

13. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Column I	Column II
A). The role of banks as financial intermediaries includes	D). regulations governing their operations, ensuring transparency and accountability.
B). Regulatory compliance is paramount for banks to adhere to laws and	E). mobilizing savings and allocating capital to productive investments.
C). Commercial banks serve businesses and corporations by offering	F). loans, cash management services, and trade finance solutions.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

a. Only A-F

b. Both A-F and C-E

c. Both B-D and C-F

d. Both A-E and B-D

e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

14. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Bank stress tests assess the resilience of banks to adverse economic scenarios,	D). helping regulators evaluate their ability to withstand financial shocks.
B). Bank liquidity refers to the ability to meet short-term financial obligations	E). and regulating the banking sector to maintain economic stability.
C). The Basel Accords establish international standards for banking regulation,	F). and maintain smooth operations, crucial for financial solvency.

a. Only A-F

b. Both A-F and B-D

c. Both B-D and C-E

d. Both A-D and B-F

e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

15. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Bank mergers and acquisitions reshape the industry landscape,	D). like underwriting securities offerings and advising on mergers and acquisitions.
B). The emergence of challenger banks disrupts the traditional banking model,	E). including savings accounts, certificates of deposit, and retirement accounts.
C). The adoption of digital currencies such as Bitcoin has sparked debates about	F). their impact on traditional banking systems and financial regulations.

a. Only C-F

b. Both A-D and C-F

c. Both A-D and B-E

d. Both B-E and C-F

e. All A-F, B-D and C-E

16. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Central banks implement monetary policy to regulate interest rates,	D). depositors and investors in the stability of the banking institution.
B). Bank capital serves as a buffer against losses and provides confidence to	E). reserve requirements set by central banks, ensuring liquidity and stability.
C). Bank reserves are funds held by banks to meet deposit withdrawals and	F). facilitating cross-border transactions and capital flows.

a. Only A-F

b. Only B-D

c. Both B-D and C-E

d. Both B-E and C-D

e. All A-F, B-E and C-D

17. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). Banking regulations and oversight are enforced by regulatory authorities to	D). banking services for underserved populations and marginalized communities.
B). Banks play a vital role in promoting financial inclusion by providing access to	E). ensure the stability, integrity, and safety of the banking system.
C). Banking services are essential for individuals and businesses to	F). manage their finances, facilitate transactions, and achieve their financial goals.

a. Only B-F

b. Both A-D and B-F

c. Both B-F and C-E

d. Both A-F and B-D

e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

18. Questions

In the following questions, five sentences are given, labelled A, B, C, D and E, among these, four sentences are in logical order and form a coherent paragraph/passage. From the given options, choose the option that does not fit into the theme of the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). The United States, in its bid to cripple Russia's economy following its invasion of Ukraine, has implemented a multifaceted approach that includes sanctions targeting Russian oil exports.

B). The global oil market has become a battleground of sanctions and strategic manoeuvres.

C). Amidst escalating tensions and economic warfare, recent statements by US Treasury officials shed light on the intricacies of these measures and their impact on key players like India.

D). The sanctions are intended to limit the options available to Russia to three: sell its oil under the price cap, offer deeper discounts to buyers if they circumvent Western services, or shut its oil wells.

E). However, amidst these measures, a crucial distinction emerges: while Washington aims to limit Moscow's revenue, it is not imposing direct restrictions on countries like India regarding their purchases of Russian oil.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

19. Questions

A). The CAA, which originated in 2016 and was passed by Parliament in 2019, aims to grant citizenship to religious minorities from neighboring Muslim-majority countries who migrated to India before December 31, 2014.

B). Ahead of the upcoming Lok Sabha elections 2024, the Ministry of Home Affairs announced the implementation of the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) on March 11.

C). The government has defended the CAA as a measure to protect persecuted minorities from neighboring countries, asserting that it does not affect Indian citizens.

D). Under the Citizenship Act of 1955, Indian citizenship by registration or naturalization is granted to non-Muslim minorities from Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Afghanistan in nine states such as Gujarat, Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Haryana, Punjab, Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Delhi, and Maharashtra.

E). The opposition to CAA in Assam stems primarily from concerns about its potential impact on the Assam Accord of 1985 and the NRC process.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). The underrepresentation of women in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM) fields is a complex issue with multiple contributing factors.

B). Apart from societal bias towards women opting for careers in Science and technology, lack of support from the peer professional group in their workplace is also a severe issue.

C). It is challenging for women to venture into scientific research without the support of the peer community dominated by their male counterparts.

D). In such a scenario, special schemes or initiatives targeting women in scientific research can be beneficial in addressing systemic barriers and inequalities that women may face in STEM fields.

E). Reaching the top tiers of scientific recognition, however, remained difficult for women.

a. B

b. C

c. D

d. E

e. A

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) Pre-bunking and public education. Taiwan implemented a pre-bunking strategy, openly discussing deepfakes and educating the public to identify them, thereby minimizing their impact.

a). Censorship of online content: Censorship of online content involves restricting or controlling the dissemination of certain information. However, the passage does not mention Taiwan adopting censorship as a strategy to mitigate the impact of deepfakes. Instead, it discusses a different approach.

b). Pre-bunking and public education: The passage indicates that Taiwan adopted the strategy of pre-bunking and public education to mitigate the impact of deepfakes. Pre-bunking involves preemptively debunking false information before it spreads widely, while public education aims to raise awareness among the population about the existence and potential dangers of deepfakes. This strategy emphasizes proactive measures to empower individuals to recognize and resist misinformation.

c). Increased surveillance measures: Increased surveillance measures involve intensifying monitoring and surveillance activities to identify and combat deepfakes. While surveillance may be part of a broader strategy to address misinformation, the passage does not specifically mention Taiwan adopting increased surveillance measures as a strategy to mitigate the impact of deepfakes.

d). Collaboration with foreign governments: Collaboration with foreign governments involves working together with other countries to address common challenges such as deepfakes. While international cooperation may be important in combating misinformation, the passage does not specify Taiwan adopting collaboration with foreign governments as a specific strategy to mitigate the impact of deepfakes.

e). Development of advanced AI detection tools: Developing advanced AI detection tools involves creating technology to identify and filter out deepfakes. While this approach may be part of a comprehensive strategy to address deepfakes, the passage does not mention Taiwan specifically adopting the development of such tools as a strategy to mitigate their impact.

In summary, based on the information provided in the passage, option (b) Pre-bunking and public education is the correct answer, as it reflects the strategy Taiwan adopted to mitigate the impact of deepfakes by preemptively debunking false information and raising public awareness.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) By leveraging personalized content creation. The passage mentions the potential for AI-powered chatbots to forge intimate relationships with lonely individuals, thereby subtly shaping their political views through personalized content creation.

a). By fostering genuine human connections: While fostering genuine human connections may help alleviate loneliness, it does not directly address the potential for exploitation of loneliness in the context of AI manipulation. The passage suggests that loneliness could be exploited through other means.

b). By providing emotional support: Providing emotional support can be beneficial for individuals experiencing loneliness, but it does not directly address the exploitation of loneliness in the context of AI manipulation. The passage focuses on the potential for manipulation rather than genuine support.

c). By leveraging personalized content creation: This option correctly identifies a way in which loneliness could be exploited in the context of AI manipulation. The passage discusses how AI algorithms can personalize content to target individuals based on their vulnerabilities, such as feelings of loneliness. By leveraging personalized content creation, AI can manipulate individuals by tailoring content to exploit their emotional vulnerabilities, including loneliness.

d). By encouraging offline social interactions: Encouraging offline social interactions is important for combating loneliness, but it does not directly address the potential for exploitation of loneliness in the context of AI manipulation. The passage focuses on the manipulation of individuals through personalized content rather than the promotion of offline social interactions.

e). By promoting mental health awareness: Promoting mental health awareness is crucial for addressing loneliness and its associated challenges, but it does not directly address the potential for exploitation of loneliness in the context of AI manipulation. The passage discusses the manipulation of individuals through personalized content rather than the promotion of mental health awareness.

In summary, option (c) By leveraging personalized content creation is the correct answer, as it reflects how loneliness could be exploited in the context of AI manipulation by tailoring content to exploit individuals' emotional vulnerabilities, including loneliness.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

3. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is: a) Creation of deepfake videos. The passage discusses how AI can generate synthetic text and create fake social media accounts to manipulate political discourse, such as the example of coordinated social media posts during a Taiwanese election.

a). Creation of deepfake videos: The passage discusses the potential impact of AI on political discourse by providing an example of deepfake videos. Deepfake technology allows for the creation of highly realistic videos that manipulate audio and visual content to make it appear as though individuals are saying or doing things they never actually did. These videos can be used to spread false information, manipulate public opinion, and undermine trust in political figures and institutions. Therefore, the creation of deepfake videos illustrates the potential negative impact of AI on political discourse, as they can be used as a tool for disinformation and manipulation.

b). Use of traditional media outlets: While traditional media outlets play a role in shaping political discourse, the passage specifically focuses on the potential impact of AI technology. It does not provide an example of how traditional media outlets contribute to this impact.

c). Implementation of stricter content policies: This option suggests a response to the potential impact of AI on political discourse rather than an example of that impact. While implementing stricter content policies may be a strategy to address issues related to misinformation and manipulation, it is not an example provided in the passage to illustrate the potential impact of AI on political discourse.

d). Enhancement of cybersecurity measures: Enhancing cybersecurity measures is important for protecting against various threats, including those related to AI-driven manipulation. However, it does not directly illustrate the potential impact of AI on political discourse, as discussed in the passage.

e). Adoption of decentralized social media platforms: Decentralized social media platforms may offer alternative approaches to addressing issues of manipulation and misinformation, but the passage does not specifically mention them as an example to illustrate the potential impact of AI on political discourse.

In summary, option (a) Creation of deepfake videos is the correct answer, as it provides an example used in the passage to illustrate the potential negative impact of AI on political discourse through the manipulation of audiovisual content.

4. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) By democratizing content creation. Generative AI lowers the cost and effort required for content creation, thus democratizing the process and making it easier to spread misinformation.

a). By increasing the cost of dissemination: This option suggests that generative AI increases the cost of dissemination, which is not aligned with its role in contributing to the spread of misinformation. In fact, generative AI can often lower the cost of content creation and dissemination, making it more accessible and widespread.

b). By limiting the speed of content creation: This option implies that generative AI slows down the process of content creation, which is not accurate. Generative AI, especially in the context of deep learning models, can generate content rapidly, thereby contributing to the rapid spread of misinformation.

c). By democratizing content creation: This is the correct answer. Generative AI democratizes content creation by making it accessible to a wider range of users, regardless of their technical expertise. This democratization allows anyone with access to such technology to create and disseminate content, including misinformation, without the need for specialized skills or resources. As a result, the spread of misinformation becomes more prevalent and widespread.

d). By reducing the availability of fake social media accounts: This option suggests that generative AI reduces the availability of fake social media accounts, which is not aligned with its role in contributing to the spread of misinformation. Generative AI can actually facilitate the creation of fake accounts and personas, making it more challenging to identify and combat misinformation.

e). By enhancing the accuracy of information dissemination: This option implies that generative AI improves the accuracy of information dissemination, which is not the case when it comes to spreading misinformation. While AI technologies can be used to enhance the accuracy of certain tasks, in the context of misinformation, generative AI can be used to create false or misleading content, thereby undermining the accuracy of information dissemination.

In summary, option (c) By democratizing content creation is the correct answer, as it accurately reflects how generative AI contributes to the spread of misinformation by making content creation more accessible to a broader audience.

5. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) Vulnerability to manipulation. The passage highlights concerns about the vulnerability of democracies due to the potential manipulation enabled by artificial intelligence, such as generating fake content and influencing public opinion.

a). Outdated voting systems: The passage does not directly address concerns about outdated voting systems in the context of democracies and artificial intelligence. While updating voting systems may be a concern for some democracies, it is not the primary concern highlighted in the passage.

b). Vulnerability to manipulation: This is the correct answer. The passage discusses concerns about the vulnerability of democracies to manipulation in the age of artificial intelligence. It highlights how AI technologies, such as generative AI, can be used to create and spread misinformation, manipulate public opinion, and undermine democratic processes. The vulnerability to manipulation poses significant challenges for democracies in ensuring the integrity of elections, protecting against disinformation, and preserving trust in democratic institutions.

c). Lack of voter engagement: While voter engagement is an important aspect of democracy, the passage does not primarily focus on concerns about voter engagement in the age of artificial intelligence. Instead, it emphasizes the vulnerability of democracies to manipulation through the use of AI technologies.

d). Fragmentation of social media: The passage mentions the fragmentation of social media as a factor contributing to the spread of misinformation and polarization, but it does not emphasize this as the primary concern regarding democracies in the age of artificial intelligence. The primary concern is the vulnerability of democracies to manipulation facilitated by AI technologies.

e). Decrease in political discourse: While the passage discusses the impact of AI on political discourse, it does not suggest that a decrease in political discourse is the primary concern regarding democracies in the age of artificial intelligence. The primary concern highlighted in the passage is the vulnerability of democracies to manipulation enabled by AI technologies.

In summary, option (b) Vulnerability to manipulation is the correct answer, as it reflects the primary concern regarding democracies highlighted in the passage.

6. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is: e) Public awareness and fact-checking. The passage suggests that civil society organizations and independent fact-checking play crucial roles in combating AI manipulation, in addition to government and tech company efforts.

a). Global cooperation: While global cooperation may play a role in combating AI manipulation, the passage does not emphasize it as crucial besides government and tech company efforts. The primary focus is on another approach.

b). Increased internet censorship: The passage does not advocate for increased internet censorship as a crucial factor in combating AI manipulation. Instead, it emphasizes a different strategy.

c). Enhanced AI development: While enhancing AI development may improve capabilities for detecting and combating AI manipulation, the passage does not specifically highlight it as crucial besides government and tech company efforts. The emphasis is on a different aspect.

d). Political campaign regulation: While political campaign regulation may be important for ensuring the integrity of elections, the passage does not emphasize it as crucial in combating AI manipulation besides government and tech company efforts. The primary focus is on another approach.

e). Public awareness and fact-checking: This is the correct answer. The passage emphasizes the importance of public awareness and fact-checking in combating AI manipulation. It suggests that individuals need to be aware of the potential for manipulation and actively engage in fact-checking to discern truth from falsehood in online content. This approach acknowledges the role of informed and vigilant citizens in mitigating the spread of misinformation facilitated by AI technologies.

In summary, option (e) Public awareness and fact-checking is the correct answer, as it reflects the emphasis placed in the passage on the crucial role of public awareness and fact-checking in combating AI manipulation alongside government and tech company efforts.

7. Questions

Answer: D

a). Artificial fabrications: This option refers to something that is artificially created or manufactured. While it captures the idea of something being created, it does not specifically address the manipulation of media, as "deepfakes" does.

b). Synthetic illusions: "Synthetic" refers to something produced by synthesis or artificially created, and "illusions" are deceptive appearances or impressions. This option conveys the sense of something being artificially created but does not specifically address the manipulation of media.

c). Falsified simulations: This option combines "falsified," meaning altered or misrepresented, with "simulations," which are imitations or representations of something. While it captures the idea of media being manipulated, it does not specifically refer to the advanced AI-based manipulation technique known as "deepfakes."

d). Algorithmic counterfeits: "Algorithmic" suggests that something is created or generated using algorithms, and "counterfeits" are fraudulent imitations or copies. This option is a close synonym for "deepfakes" as it describes media that is manipulated using algorithms to create deceptive copies or representations.

e). Technological hoaxes: This option combines "technological," relating to technology, with "hoaxes," which are deceitful tricks or pranks. While it captures the deceptive nature of "deepfakes," it does not specifically address the advanced AI-based manipulation technique involved.

The correct answer is d) Algorithmic counterfeits, as it most closely aligns with the concept of "deepfakes" as described in the passage.

8. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is: a) grappling, constraints

"Grappling" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means struggling with or wrestling with a difficult problem or challenge. In the context of the sentence, it effectively conveys the idea that India is facing a significant challenge.

"Constraints" is the suitable word for the second blank. It refers to limitations or restrictions that hinder progress or development. In the context, it highlights the underlying structural issues that hinder India's growth momentum.

So, the completed sentence would be: "India finds itself at a crossroads, grappling with the dual challenge of sustaining growth momentum while addressing underlying structural constraints."

This means that India is facing a critical juncture where it must deal with both sustaining its growth and overcoming limitations or restrictions in its structural framework.

b). wrestling, dilemmas: "Wrestling" suggests struggling or contending with something, which fits the context, but "dilemmas" doesn't convey the same sense of structural limitations as "constraints" does.

c). entangled, barriers: "Entangled" means caught up in or involved in something complicated, which doesn't quite convey the same sense as "grappling" in struggling with a challenge.

"Barriers" is appropriate for the second blank, but it doesn't convey the same sense of struggling with a challenge as "constraints" does.

d). contending, Opportunities: "Contending" means competing or dealing with something, which is similar in meaning to "grappling."

"Opportunities" in the second blank is the incorrect word choice. The sentence indicates that India is facing challenges, not opportunities. Therefore, this option does not align with the intended meaning of the sentence.

e). engaging, deficiencies: "Engaging" means participating or becoming involved with something, which doesn't convey the same sense of struggling with a challenge as "grappling" does. It also lacks the intensity implied by "grappling."

"Deficiencies" means shortcomings or inadequacies, which is somewhat similar to "constraints" but doesn't specifically convey the idea of structural limitations as "constraints" does.

In summary, option (a) "grappling, constraints" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that India is facing significant challenges in sustaining its growth momentum due to underlying structural limitations.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

9. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) prognosis, bolstering

"Prognosis" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It refers to a forecast or prediction, especially in relation to the likely outcome of a situation. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that the World Bank's forecast or assessment regarding fiscal consolidation underscores the importance of prudent fiscal management.

"Bolstering" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means strengthening or reinforcing. In the context, it implies that prudent fiscal management safeguards macroeconomic stability and strengthens or reinforces investor confidence.

So, the completed sentence would be: "The World Bank's prognosis regarding fiscal consolidation underscores the importance of prudent fiscal management in safeguarding macroeconomic stability and bolstering investor confidence."

This means that the World Bank's forecast or assessment emphasizes the significance of careful fiscal management in maintaining macroeconomic stability and strengthening investor confidence.

a). projections, enhancing: "Projections" in the first blank works well in the context of forecasting, but "enhancing" in the second blank doesn't convey the same sense of strengthening or reinforcing as "bolstering" does.

b). assessments, boosting: "Assessments" in the first blank is suitable for evaluating a situation, but "boosting" in the second blank doesn't convey the same sense of strengthening or reinforcing as "bolstering" does.

d). diagnosis, stimulating: "Diagnosis" refers to the identification of the nature or cause of a problem, which doesn't fit well in the context of the sentence discussing the World Bank's assessment or forecast regarding fiscal consolidation.

"Stimulating" means encouraging or prompting, which doesn't convey the same sense of strengthening or reinforcing as "bolstering" does.

e). analysis, promoting: "Analysis" refers to a detailed examination or investigation of something, which doesn't convey the same sense of forecasting or predicting as "prognosis" does. It also lacks the specificity implied by "prognosis."

"Promoting" means advocating or encouraging something, which doesn't convey the same sense of strengthening or reinforcing as "bolstering" does.

In summary, option (c) "prognosis, bolstering" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence, accurately conveying the idea that the World Bank's forecast emphasizes the importance of prudent fiscal management in safeguarding macroeconomic stability and reinforcing investor confidence.

10. Questions

Answer: E

The correct answer is: e) wreak, paradigm

"Wreak" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means to cause or inflict (damage or harm) in a violent or devastating way. In the context of the sentence, it effectively conveys the idea that terrorism, militancy, insurgency, and other forms of organized violence cause destruction, death, and suffering.

"Paradigm" is the suitable word for the second blank. It refers to a typical example or pattern of something; in this context, it suggests the framework or model through which these questions must be understood. Here, it implies that these issues should be understood within the broader context of moral concepts such as "good" and "evil."

So, the completed sentence would be: "Questions of terrorism, militancy, insurgency, and other forms of organized violence that wreak destruction, death, and suffering must be understood within the paradigm of 'good' and 'evil'."

This means that these forms of violence, which cause significant harm, should be analysed and comprehended within the broader framework of moral judgments about right and wrong.

a). cause, context: "Cause" fits well in terms of indicating the action of creating destruction, but "context" doesn't convey the same sense as "paradigm" in terms of providing a broader framework for understanding.

b). impose, realm: "Impose" doesn't convey the same sense of causing destruction as "wreak" does.

"Realm" refers to a field or domain, but it doesn't convey the same sense as "paradigm" in terms of providing a broader framework for understanding.

c). bring, perspective: "Bring" doesn't convey the same sense of causing destruction as "wreak" does.

"Perspective" is similar to "paradigm" in suggesting a broader framework, but "paradigm" is more commonly used in this context.

d). perpetrate, spectrum: "Perpetrate" means to commit or carry out (an illegal, immoral, or harmful act), which conveys a sense of action but doesn't fit well in the context of causing destruction, death, and suffering.

"Spectrum" refers to a range or variety of things, which doesn't convey the same sense as "paradigm" in terms of providing a broader framework or model for understanding.

In summary, option (e) "wreak, paradigm" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that questions about organized violence should be understood within the broader framework of moral concepts.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) grapples, relentless

"Grapples" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means to struggle with or wrestle with something, especially a difficult problem or situation. In the context of the sentence, it effectively conveys the idea that India is dealing with the aftermath of consecutive years of diminished wheat production.

"Relentless" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means continuous and unceasing, often implying harshness or severity. In the context, it describes the nature of the heat waves that are attributed to the diminished wheat production.

So, the completed sentence would be: "India, the world's second-largest wheat consumer, grapples with the aftermath of consecutive years of diminished wheat production, attributed to relentless heat waves."

This means that India is struggling with the consequences of reduced wheat production, which are exacerbated by the continuous and severe heat waves.

a). contends, oppressive: "Contends" means struggles or competes with, which is similar in meaning to "grapples."

"Oppressive" describes the nature of the heat waves but doesn't convey the same sense of continuous severity as "relentless" does.

c). contends, persistent: "Contends" means struggles or competes with, which is similar in meaning to "grapples."

"Persistent" means continuing firmly or obstinately, but it lacks the sense of harshness or severity conveyed by "relentless."

d). copes, scorching: "Copes" means deals effectively with something difficult, which fits the context but is not as intense as "grapples" in conveying the struggle.

"Scorching" describes the nature of the heat waves but doesn't convey the same sense of continuous severity as "relentless" does.

e). deals, extreme: "Deals" means handles or manages something, which is similar in meaning to "grapples."

"Extreme" describes the nature of the heat waves but doesn't convey the same sense of continuous severity as "relentless" does.

In summary, option (b) "grapples, relentless" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that India is struggling with the aftermath of reduced wheat production exacerbated by continuous and severe heat waves.

12. Questions

Answer: D

The correct answer is: d) conundrum, enshrined

"Conundrum" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means a confusing and difficult problem or question. In the context of the sentence, it effectively conveys the idea that the Citizenship Amendment Act raises many complex and challenging questions.

"Enshrined" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means to preserve or protect (a right, tradition, or principle) as if in a shrine or sacred place. In the context, it refers to the principle of equality enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution, highlighting its importance and sanctity.

So, the completed sentence would be: "The Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) conundrum raises many questions of constitutional and political significance, like whether the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) violates the principle of equality enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution by failing the tests of reasonable classification and non-arbitrariness."

This means that the complexities surrounding the Citizenship Amendment Act give rise to numerous questions, particularly regarding its potential violation of the fundamental principle of equality protected in the Constitution.

a). issue, epitomized: "Issue" refers to a subject or problem for discussion, but it doesn't convey the same sense of complexity and difficulty as "conundrum" does. It also lacks the intensity implied by "conundrum."

"Epitomized" means represented by a perfect example or typical instance, which doesn't convey the same sense as "enshrined" in terms of protecting a principle.

b). puzzle, governed: "Puzzle" refers to something that is difficult to understand or solve, similar to "conundrum," but it lacks the same intensity and complexity.

"Governed" implies being controlled or regulated by a governing authority, which doesn't convey the same sense as "enshrined" in terms of protecting a principle.

c). controversy, encapsulated: "Controversy" refers to a disagreement or dispute, which is similar in meaning to "conundrum" but lacks the same sense of complexity and difficulty.

"Encapsulated" means summarized or expressed concisely, which doesn't convey the same sense as "enshrined" in terms of protecting a principle.

e). issue, embodied: "Issue" refers to a subject or problem for discussion, which is similar in meaning to "conundrum" but lacks the same sense of complexity and difficulty.

"Embodied" means represented or expressed in a tangible form, which doesn't convey the same sense as "enshrined" in terms of protecting a principle.

In summary, option (d) "conundrum, enshrined" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence. It effectively conveys the idea that the Citizenship Amendment Act presents many complex and challenging questions, particularly regarding its potential violation of the principle of equality protected in the Constitution.

13. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: “The role of banks as financial intermediaries includes mobilizing savings and allocating capital to productive investments.” This sentence emphasizes that one of the key functions of banks is to mobilize savings from depositors and allocate capital to support productive investments, highlighting their role in facilitating economic growth and development.

When combining these two statements B-D: "Regulatory compliance is paramount for banks to adhere to laws and regulations governing their operations, ensuring transparency and accountability." This sentence underscores the critical importance of regulatory compliance in the banking sector, highlighting its role in maintaining transparency and accountability, and ensuring adherence to laws and regulations.

When combining these two statements C-F: "Commercial banks serve businesses and corporations by offering loans, cash management services, and trade finance solutions." This sentence highlights the role of commercial banks in catering to the financial needs of businesses and corporations by providing a variety of services essential for their operations and growth.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

14. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these two statements A-D: “Bank stress tests assess the resilience of banks to adverse economic scenarios, helping regulators evaluate their ability to withstand financial shocks.” This sentence underscores the significance of bank stress tests in the regulatory framework, as they aid regulators in assessing banks' preparedness to navigate and endure adverse economic conditions and financial shocks.

When combining these two statements B-F: "Bank liquidity refers to the ability to meet short-term financial obligations and maintain smooth operations, crucial for financial solvency." This sentence highlights the significance of bank liquidity in supporting the ongoing operations of a bank and maintaining its overall financial health and solvency.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

15. Questions

Answer: A

When combining these two statements C-F: "The adoption of digital currencies such as Bitcoin has sparked debates about their impact on traditional banking systems and financial regulations." This sentence highlights the discussions and concerns raised by the adoption of digital currencies like Bitcoin, particularly regarding how they may affect traditional banking systems and the regulatory framework surrounding finance.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

16. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements B-D: "Bank capital serves as a buffer against losses and provides confidence to depositors and investors in the stability of the banking institution." This sentence emphasizes the crucial role of bank capital in maintaining financial stability and trust among depositors and investors, underscoring its significance in ensuring the resilience of the banking system.

When combining these two statements C-E: "Bank reserves are funds held by banks to meet deposit withdrawals and reserve requirements set by central banks, ensuring liquidity and stability." This sentence underscores the role of bank reserves in meeting regulatory requirements and maintaining stability within the banking sector by ensuring that banks have sufficient liquidity to meet withdrawal demands and comply with central bank regulations.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

17. Questions

Answer: E

sky53up@gmail.com
tg:- @NextGenBankers

When combining these two statements A-E: "Banking regulations and oversight are enforced by regulatory authorities to ensure the stability, integrity, and safety of the banking system." This sentence underscores the importance of regulatory measures in safeguarding the stability and security of the banking system, crucial for maintaining trust and confidence among depositors and investors.

When combining these two statements B-D: "Banks play a vital role in promoting financial inclusion by providing access to banking services for underserved populations and marginalized communities." This sentence emphasizes the significant contribution of banks in expanding access to financial services, particularly for those who are underserved or marginalized, thereby fostering greater financial inclusion and empowerment.

When combining these two statements C-F: "Banking services are essential for individuals and businesses to manage their finances, facilitate transactions, and achieve their financial goals." This sentence highlights the fundamental role of banking services in enabling individuals and businesses to effectively manage their financial activities, conduct transactions, and work towards their financial objectives.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

18. Questions

Answer: C

The odd one out is Sentence D: Sentences A to E primarily discuss the actions and implications of sanctions imposed by the United States on Russia's oil exports and the broader impact on the global oil market. However, sentence D provides specific details about the options available to Russia in response to the sanctions, which diverges from the broader theme of discussing the impact and intricacies of the sanctions and their implications on key players like India.

19. Questions

Answer: D

The odd one out is Sentence E: Sentences A to D primarily discuss the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), its origins, implementation, and the government's defense of it. However, sentence E introduces a different aspect by focusing on the opposition to the CAA in Assam, specifically mentioning concerns about its impact on the Assam Accord of 1985 and the National Register of Citizens (NRC) process. This sentence diverges from the broader discussion about the CAA and its implementation, focusing instead on regional opposition in Assam.

20. Questions

Answer: D

The odd one out is Sentence E: Sentences A to D discuss the challenges faced by women in STEM fields, including societal bias, lack of support, and the need for special initiatives. However, sentence E shifts the focus to the difficulty women face in reaching the top tiers of scientific recognition, which is a more specific aspect compared to the broader discussion about underrepresentation and challenges in STEM fields.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage and answer the questions as directed. There are some blanks given in the passage. You have to find the appropriate word for the given blank and mark the corresponding option as your answer.

The judicial intent of better informing voter choice through disclosures about electoral bonds (EBs) is obviously welcome. But here's the thing - could it lead to a __(1)__ outcome of driving corporate donations to political parties further underground during the upcoming elections? Corporate donations through EBs were premised upon a layer of anonymity by maintaining uncorrelated lists of donors and recipients. If this correlation is established through additional information provided by issuer of the bonds, SBI, companies face the prospect of loss of reputation, or even litigation. This makes the __(2)__ of half-hearted measures to increase transparency over political funding an unfortunate exercise. The effects could be felt during the course of this year's elections if corporate donors were to seek true anonymity over political donations. This could raise the level of cash - especially of the darker-hued variety that was the bane and raison d'etre of demonetisation - chasing ballots. The Indian voter may, thus, rather ironically, become better informed about political funding in the past but less informed in future. This does not serve the purpose of improving choice. Even as things stand, the voter is being exposed to __(3)__ about quid pro quos with the information now available in the public domain about EBs. Extra disclosure will clear the air, but will not offer certainty. Judicial intervention would be needed to establish cause and effect. Where India's attempt at shining light on political funding went __(4)__ was in its incremental ambition. Half knowledge, as is becoming evident, can be dangerous. One way to go would be to legitimise lobbying, as in the US, and match it with full disclosure of political funding, irrespective of the source. Although not perfect, this approach is __(5)__ . And it is out there in the open. Both voters and shareholders benefit from transparency and are better placed to apply correctives to governance. GoI will be well advised to not settle for half measures when it gets down to reworking the EBs scheme, or devising alternative mechanisms. There is a very real risk of sliding back to old bad habits.

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (1)?

a. vicious

b. perverse

c. iniquitous

d. obstinate

e. stubborn

2. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (2)?

a. deducing

b. envisaging

c. discerning

d. unravelling

Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. deciphering

3. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (3)?

a. reckon
b. deduce
c. prognostic
d. conjecture
e. ambivalence

4. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (4)?

a. awry
b. crooked
c. oblique
d. spurious
e. fallacious

5. Questions

Which of the following words most appropriately fits the blank labeled (5)?

a. expedient
b. sagacious
c. pragmatic
d. propitious
e. efficacious

6. Questions

In each of the following questions one word is highlighted in bold, and using that highlighted word four sentences are framed, in four sentences three will be synonyms for the highlighted word and one is an antonym for the word. You are required to find an antonym for the highlighted word.

TUMULTUOUS

a. During the summer months, the town experienced sporadic rainfall, with short bursts of heavy rain followed by long periods of sunshine
b. The children's laughter echoed through the playground, creating a riotous atmosphere of joy and excitement

c. As the sun set over the tranquil lake, the only sound was the gentle lapping of the water against the shore

d. The turbulent waters of the river made it difficult for the canoeists to navigate safely

e. None of the above

7. Questions

PLUMMET

a. After careful analysis, the company decided to plunge into the international market, seizing the opportunity for growth

b. As the economy began to recover, new businesses started to burgeon in the city, creating jobs and opportunities

c. As the resources dwindled, the community implemented conservation measures to ensure sustainability for future generations

d. As the floodwaters began to recede, residents returned to assess the damage to their homes

e. None of the above

8. Questions

THROTTLE

a. After a brief hiatus, the company decided to revive its popular marketing campaign, aiming to reignite interest in its products

b. The weeds began to strangle the delicate flowers in the garden, inhibiting their growth

c. The thick smoke filled the room, causing her to cough and struggle to breathe, feeling as though the air was starting to suffocate her d. She tried to stifle her laughter during the solemn ceremony, not wanting to disrupt the proceedings

e. None of the above

9. Questions

THWART

a. Despite multiple attempts, the puzzle continued to baffle even the most experienced players

b. The heavy rain did not impede the progress of the construction workers; they continued to work diligently despite the adverse weather conditions

c. The medication works to inhibit the growth of harmful bacteria in the body, helping to fight off infections

d. In order to meet the tight deadline, the manager decided to expedite the approval process for the project

e. None of the above

10. Questions

EXONERATION

a. After a lengthy trial, the defendant was relieved to receive an acquittal, clearing his name of all charges

b. Despite facing numerous obstacles, her conviction to pursue her dreams never wavered

c. The new evidence provided undeniable exculpation for the wrongly convicted man, leading to his release from prison

d. After years of doubt and criticism, the scientist's latest discovery served as a vindication of her theories, earning her recognition in the scientific community

e. None of the above

11. Questions

In the given question, sentences are given in jumbled form. Rearrange them in proper order and answer the questions that follow.

Rearrange the following sentences to form a coherent paragraph:

A). Essentially, emission scenarios are pathways that tell us about emissions of greenhouse gases and aerosol due to human activities over time.

B). The latest approach to determining emission scenarios is known as Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs).

C). RCPs specify concentrations of greenhouse gases that will result in total radiative forcing increasing by a target amount by 2100, relative to pre-industrial levels.

D). Scientists use these scenarios to feed into climate models, which then calculate things like future global temperatures or sea levels.

E). Total radiative forcing is the difference between the amount of energy that enters the Earth's atmosphere and the amount of energy that leaves it.

Which of the following is the penultimate sentence after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

Which of the following is the second sentence after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

13. Questions

Which of the following is the hind most statement after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

14. Questions

Which of the following is the introductory statement after rearrangement?

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

15. Questions

Which of the following should form a consecutive pair after re-arrangement?

a. A-B

b. B-C

c. C-D

d. D-E

e. B-E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

In each of the following questions, a sentence has been divided into five parts out of which one part is erroneous. You are required to choose the option which is grammatically or contextually incorrect.

a). The recent Cabinet Committee on Security decision

b). to green-light the development of a fifth-generation

c). stealth fighter is a crucial one intended to d). significantly enhancing India's capacities in e). developing aerial warfare platforms.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

17. Questions

a). For the past two decades, in response to the sensitivities

b). of those who are detached from the excitement

c). of choosing popular representatives,

d). the Election Commission has took many steps

e). to curb the fun and frolic associated with elections.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

18. Questions

a). The Karnataka Government recently tabled

b). a bill that makes it compulsory

c). to shops and establishments

d). to have 60 percent of their

e). signboards in Kannada.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. e

19. Questions

a). India has the loudest voice in seeking b). to lower the global average cost of money transfer,

c). being the largest contributor to the d). international migrant workforce,

e). as well as the recipients of the biggest remittance inflow.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

20. Questions

a). A study from Christian Medical College, Vellore, reveals that b). Indians with Covid-19 are more likely to suffering from c). lung function impairments compared to Europeans

d). and Chinese, possibly due to air pollution,

e). lack of physical activity, and high stress levels.

a. a

b. b

c. c

d. d

e. e

sky53up@gmail.com

Explanations:

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Answer: B

In this context, the term "perverse" is used to describe an unintended and undesirable outcome that may arise from the disclosure of information about electoral bonds (EBs). The passage discusses the potential consequence of increased transparency leading to corporate donors seeking greater anonymity in their political contributions. This unintended consequence could be considered "perverse" because it goes against the intended goal of improving transparency in political funding.

a). vicious: While "vicious" can sometimes refer to something harmful or brutal, it doesn't quite capture the sense of unintended and undesirable consequences discussed in the passage.

c). iniquitous: "Iniquitous" means unjust or morally wrong, but it doesn't directly convey the idea of an unintended outcome resulting from increased transparency.

d). obstinate: "Obstinate" refers to stubbornness or resistance to change, which doesn't align with the context of unintended consequences resulting from disclosure of information about electoral bonds.

e). stubborn: Similar to "obstinate," "stubborn" refers to a refusal to change one's position, which doesn't fit the context of discussing unintended outcomes of increased transparency.

Overall, "perverse" best captures the idea of an unintended and undesirable outcome resulting from the disclosure of information about electoral bonds.

2. Questions

Answer: D

The word "unravelling" is the most suitable choice for the blank labelled (2) because it conveys the idea of exposing or revealing the inadequacies or inefficiencies of something. In the context of the sentence, it implies that the half-hearted measures taken to increase transparency over political funding may not achieve their intended goal and could instead lead to unintended consequences, such as driving corporate donations further underground.

a). "Deducing": This word implies reaching a conclusion based on evidence or reasoning, which doesn't quite fit the context of exposing the shortcomings of measures.

b). "Envisaging": This word means to imagine or visualize something in the future, which doesn't fit the context of revealing the inadequacies of current measures.

c). "Discerning": This word means to perceive or recognize something, usually something subtle or obscure. While it could work in a different context, it doesn't quite capture the sense of uncovering the flaws in existing measures.

e). "Deciphering": This word means to interpret or understand something that is difficult or mysterious, usually involving decoding symbols or messages. While it implies uncovering hidden meanings, it doesn't quite fit the context of revealing the shortcomings of measures related to political funding.

Therefore, "unravelling" is the most appropriate choice as it accurately conveys the idea of exposing or revealing the inadequacies or inefficiencies of half-hearted measures aimed at increasing transparency over political funding.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

3. Questions

Answer: D

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (3) is "conjecture."

"Conjecture" means forming an opinion or conclusion based on incomplete information or guesswork. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that voters are exposed to speculation or guesses about quid pro quos (favourable actions in return for something) concerning electoral bonds due to the information available in the public domain.

a). "Reckon" means to calculate or estimate, but it doesn't convey the sense of speculation or guesswork implied in the context.

b). "Deduce" means to derive a conclusion logically from given information, which is not exactly synonymous with speculation or guesswork.

c). "Prognostic" means predictive or forecasting, which doesn't fit the context of exposure to uncertain information.

e). "Ambivalence" refers to uncertainty or mixed feelings about something, which doesn't convey the idea of speculation or guesswork regarding quid pro quos.

Therefore, "conjecture" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the notion of voters being exposed to speculation or guesses about quid pro quos concerning electoral bonds.

4. Questions

Answer: A

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (4) is "awry."

The phrase "went awry" means to go wrong or not as planned. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that India's attempt at shining light on political funding didn't go as planned due to its incremental ambition.

b). "Crooked" means dishonest or fraudulent, but it doesn't convey the idea of something going wrong or off course as directly as "awry" does.

c). "Oblique" means indirect or not straightforward, which doesn't fit the context of something going wrong or not as planned.

d). "Spurious" means false or counterfeit, which doesn't convey the sense of something going wrong or off course.

e). "Fallacious" means based on a mistaken belief, but it doesn't directly convey the idea of something going wrong or not as planned.

Therefore, "awry" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the notion that India's attempt at shining light on political funding didn't go as planned due to its incremental ambition.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The most appropriate word to fill in the blank labelled (5) is "pragmatic."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The word "pragmatic" means dealing with things sensibly and realistically in a way that is based on practical rather than theoretical considerations. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that although the approach of legitimizing lobbying and matching it with full disclosure of political funding might not be perfect, it is sensible and realistic.

a). "Expedient" means convenient and practical, but it often carries the connotation of being self-serving or motivated by immediate gain, which may not accurately capture the intended meaning in this context.

b). "Sagacious" means having or showing keen mental discernment and good judgment, which, while positive, doesn't quite capture the practical, down-to-earth nature implied by the sentence.

d). "Propitious" means indicating a good chance of success; favourable, but it doesn't convey the practical, realistic approach suggested by the sentence.

e). "Efficacious" means effective or capable of producing the desired outcome, but it doesn't directly convey the idea of being practical or sensible in addressing the problem.

Therefore, "pragmatic" is the best choice as it accurately reflects the idea of taking a sensible and realistic approach to the issue of political funding transparency and governance.

6. Questions

Answer: C

The antonym for " tumultuous " is reflected in option c). The term "tumultuous" describes something characterized by disorder, agitation, or turbulence. The opposite, or antonym, of tumultuous would involve calmness or tranquillity. Option c) describes a tranquil scene with gentle sounds, which contrasts with the idea of tumultuousness. The other options (a, b and d) do not provide an antonym for " tumultuous " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

7. Questions

Answer: B

The antonym for " plummet " is reflected in option b). The term "plummet" refers to a sudden and steep fall or decline. The opposite, or antonym, of plummet would involve a rise, growth, or increase. Option b) describes new businesses burgeoning, which indicates growth and expansion, contrasting with the notion of plummeting. The other options (a, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " plummet " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

8. Questions

Answer: A

The antonym for " throttle " is reflected in option a). The term "throttle" typically means to restrict or limit, often in the context of controlling the speed of an engine. The opposite, or antonym, of throttle in this context would involve reviving, restarting, or increasing activity. Option a) describes the company reviving its marketing campaign, which contrasts with the notion of throttling or restricting.

The other options (b, c and d) do not provide an antonym for "throttle" but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

9. Questions

Answer: D

The antonym for " thwart " is reflected in option d). "Thwart" means to prevent or hinder someone from accomplishing their goals. The opposite, or antonym, of thwart would involve facilitating, enabling, or expediting progress. Option d) describes the manager expediting the approval process to meet the deadline, which contrasts with the notion of thwarting or hindering progress. The other options (a, b and c) do not provide an antonym for " thwart " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

10. Questions

Answer: B

The antonym for " exoneration " is reflected in option b). "Exoneration" refers to the act of absolving someone from blame or proving their innocence. The opposite, or antonym, would involve doubts, criticisms, or obstacles. Option b) describes someone maintaining their conviction despite facing obstacles, which contrasts with the idea of exoneration. The other options (a, c and d) do not provide an antonym for " exoneration " but instead offer synonyms or related concepts.

11. Questions

Answer: C

The paragraph introduces emission scenarios, particularly Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs), explaining their purpose and how they are used in climate modeling.

The sequence begins with sentence A, providing an introduction to emission scenarios and their purpose. Sentence D follows, explaining how scientists utilize these scenarios in climate models to predict future climate conditions. Sentence B introduces Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs) as the latest approach to determining these scenarios. Sentence C provides more detail on RCPs, specifying their role in determining greenhouse gas concentrations. Finally, sentence E concludes by explaining total radiative forcing, providing context for understanding the impact of greenhouse gas concentrations.

So, the correct sequence is: A – D – B – C – E.

The penultimate sentence in a paragraph is the one that appears just before the last sentence and serves as a bridge or transition to the final point. In this sequence, Sentence C, " RCPs specify concentrations of greenhouse gases that will result in total radiative forcing increasing by a target amount by 2100, relative to pre-industrial levels." is the penultimate sentence.

12. Questions

Answer: D

The paragraph introduces emission scenarios, particularly Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs), explaining their purpose and how they are used in climate modeling.

The sequence begins with sentence A, providing an introduction to emission scenarios and their purpose. Sentence D follows, explaining how scientists utilize these scenarios in climate models to predict future climate conditions. Sentence B introduces Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs) as the latest approach to determining these scenarios. Sentence C provides more detail on RCPs, specifying their role in determining greenhouse gas concentrations. Finally, sentence E concludes by explaining total radiative forcing, providing context for understanding the impact of greenhouse gas concentrations.

Tg:-@NextGenBankers

So, the correct sequence is: A – D – B – C – E.

Sentence D, " Scientists use these scenarios to feed into climate models, which then calculate things like future global temperatures or sea levels." is the second sentence.

13. Questions

Answer: E

The paragraph introduces emission scenarios, particularly Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs), explaining their purpose and how they are used in climate modeling.

The sequence begins with sentence A, providing an introduction to emission scenarios and their purpose. Sentence D follows, explaining how scientists utilize these scenarios in climate models to predict future climate conditions. Sentence B introduces Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs) as the latest approach to determining these scenarios. Sentence C provides more detail on RCPs, specifying their role in determining greenhouse gas concentrations. Finally, sentence E concludes by explaining total radiative forcing, providing context for understanding the impact of greenhouse gas concentrations.

So, the correct sequence is: A – D – B – C – E.

The hindmost statement, also known as the last sentence, is the final statement that concludes the paragraph. The hindmost or last sentence is Sentence E: " Total radiative forcing is the difference between the amount of energy that enters the Earth's atmosphere and the amount of energy that leaves it."

14. Questions

Answer: A

The paragraph introduces emission scenarios, particularly Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs), explaining their purpose and how they are used in climate modeling.

The sequence begins with sentence A, providing an introduction to emission scenarios and their purpose. Sentence D follows, explaining how scientists utilize these scenarios in climate models to predict future climate conditions. Sentence B introduces Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs) as the latest approach to determining these scenarios. Sentence C provides more detail on RCPs, specifying their role in determining greenhouse gas concentrations. Finally, sentence E concludes by explaining total radiative forcing, providing context for understanding the impact of greenhouse gas concentrations.

So, the correct sequence is: A – D – B – C – E.

The introductory statement after rearrangement is sentence A: "Essentially, emission scenarios are pathways that tell us about emissions of greenhouse gases and aerosol due to human activities over time."

15. Questions

Answer: B

The paragraph introduces emission scenarios, particularly Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs), explaining their purpose and how they are used in climate modeling.

The sequence begins with sentence A, providing an introduction to emission scenarios and their purpose. Sentence D follows, explaining how scientists utilize these scenarios in climate models to predict future climate conditions. Sentence B introduces Representative Concentration Pathways (RCPs) as the latest approach to determining these scenarios. Sentence C provides more detail on RCPs, specifying their role in determining greenhouse gas concentrations. Finally, sentence E concludes by explaining total radiative forcing, providing context for understanding the impact of greenhouse gas concentrations.

So, the correct sequence is: A – D – B – C – E.

The consecutive pair after rearrangement is: B-C.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The error is in part (d). The error in the sentence is the use of the verb "enhancing" in its gerund form ("-ing" form). In this context, the verb should be in its infinitive form because it follows the phrase "to" (from "intended to"). Therefore, the correct form is "enhance," which is the base form of the verb. The corrected phrase is "significantly enhance India's capacities in," which maintains proper grammar and sentence structure.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The recent Cabinet Committee on Security decision to green-light the development of a fifth-generation stealth fighter is a crucial one intended to significantly enhance India's capacities in developing aerial warfare platforms."

17. Questions

Answer: D

The error is in part (d), where "took" is corrected to "taken" for proper verb form. "Taken" is the past participle form of the verb "take" and is required here because it's used with the auxiliary verb "has" to form the present perfect tense. Therefore, the correct form is "taken." The corrected phrase is "has taken," which maintains proper verb tense agreement in the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: "For the past two decades, in response to the sensitivities of those who are detached from the excitement of choosing popular representatives, the Election Commission has taken many steps to curb the fun and frolic associated with elections."

18. Questions

Answer: C

The error is in part (c). The error in the sentence is the use of the preposition "to" before "shops and establishments." In this context, the preposition "for" is more appropriate because it indicates the purpose or goal of the compulsion. The corrected phrase is "for shops and establishments," which accurately conveys the intended meaning of the sentence.

So, the corrected sentence is: "The Karnataka Government recently tabled a bill that makes it compulsory for shops and establishments to have 60 per cent of their signboards in Kannada."

19. Questions

Answer: E

The error is in part (e). The error in the sentence is the use of the plural noun "recipients" to refer to "India." However, "India" is a singular entity, so it should be followed by a singular noun. Therefore, the corrected form is "recipient," which matches the singular subject "India." This adjustment ensures grammatical agreement within the sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the corrected sentence is: "India has the loudest voice in seeking to lower the global average cost of money transfer, being the largest contributor to the international migrant workforce, as well as the recipient of the biggest remittance inflow."

20. Questions

Answer: B

The error is in part (b). The error in the sentence is the incorrect use of the verb "suffering." In this context, the correct structure is "to suffer from," where "suffer" is the infinitive form of the verb. Therefore, the corrected phrase is "to suffer from," which maintains proper grammar and sentence structure.

So, the corrected sentence is: "A study from Christian Medical College, Vellore, reveals that Indians with COVID-19 are more likely to suffer from lung function impairments compared to Europeans and Chinese, possibly due to air pollution, lack of physical activity, and high stress levels."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Despite facing stiff opposition from the supporters of the National Pension System, the governments of five states—Rajasthan, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Punjab, and Himachal Pradesh—have reintroduced the Old Pension Scheme. The Karnataka government is in the process, and the Telangana government is likely to revert to the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) soon, fulfilling its poll promise. The resurgence of the OPS across states and may be at the Centre appears inevitable for the new government after the 2024 elections, given the success of the employees achieving their demand in these states despite the central government's resistance. The Centre, however, continues to create new hurdles. For instance, in a reply to a recent parliamentary question, Pankaj Choudhary, minister of state for finance, said that the PFRDA 2013 and other related regulations do not provide for the refund of the contributions to the state governments, which means the state governments that have switched to OPS are going to have a tough time getting back their money from the pension fund. The Government of India replaced OPS with the New Pension Scheme (NPS), with effect from January 1, 2004. The OPS entailed a pension of about half the last drawn salary to its employees without any contribution from them towards any pension fund, while the NPS required the employees to contribute 10% of their basic and Dearness Allowance (DA) to the pension fund and a matching contribution (enhanced to 14% since 2019) from the employer. When they retire, the employees get 60% of their accumulated money, along with returns on it. They are required to invest the remaining 40% in the annuities of life insurance companies. Thus, the NPS is far inferior to the OPS and undoubtedly detrimental to government employees' interests. Besides the central government, all the states except West Bengal have imposed this on their employees. Although Tamil Nadu has accepted the NPS, it has not implemented it earnestly. Employees all over India are naturally against the NPS. Their agitation has intensified, with a few states reverting to the OPS. For instance, the railway employees have threatened to go on strike from May 1 if the OPS is not allowed to them. The main argument against accepting the employees' demand is the burgeoning financial burden on the exchequer as a result of pensions given to government employees, who constitute a minuscule, less than 4% of the total workforce in the country. A recent RBI Bulletin article (September 2023) argues that "the cumulative fiscal burden in the case of OPS could be as high as 4.5 times that of NPS, with the additional burden reaching 0.9% of GDP annually by 2060." The short-run reduction in the outgo with the discarding of the NPS and the monthly payments towards it is no comfort because the long-run burden with the reintroduction of the OPS will be untenably high since it is an unfunded pay-as-you-go model that entails payments out of the current revenues, whereby the government's capital expenditure gets eroded with the resultant adverse impact on output, income, and employment. They fear the burden will increase with the increasing life expectancy; the UN has projected the global life expectancy to go up to 77.2 years in 2050 from 72.9 years in 2022, with the share of people above 65 years in the population swelling from 10 to 16%. When the critics themselves agree that the OPS is for a small proportion of the workforce, how can they say the burden increases in proportion to the GDP? Economist Prabhat Patnaik (People's Democracy, January 14, 2024) raises the question: "While the government boasts of a fast growth of the economy, the fastest in the world with the likelihood of reaching $5 trillion, how can it be a burden to pay pension under OPS?" Patnaik also says that the pension burden will not increase in real terms since governments do not revise the pension amount in tandem with rising inflation. The extremely materialistic approach of the opponents of OPS is that the burden is a result of the increased longevity of people. The government should welcome and feel happy if life expectancy is increasing and should not feel it as a burden. Also, it should be understood that the increased life span calls for increased governmental assistance, not its reduction. In a welfare state, the government should act as an ideal employer and pay decent pensions to its employees, setting a good example for the private sector. It should work towards a decent pension scheme in the non-government sector, too. The goal should be to revert to the OPS in government and to work towards a similar scheme in the private sector, but it should not be to reduce the existing benefit anywhere.

What does the passage suggest about the government's role in pension schemes?

a. The government should reduce pension benefits to ease financial burden.

b. The government should prioritize pension schemes for the private sector.

c. Governments should ensure decent pensions for employees, setting an example.

d. The government's primary goal is to decrease the pension burden.

e. Pension schemes are not a concern for the government.

2. Questions

What is the major concern raised by critics regarding the reintroduction of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS)?

a. Lack of government funding

b. Decrease in employee benefits

c. Long-term financial burden

d. Complexity of pension regulations

e. Disruption in capital expenditure

3. Questions

How does the New Pension Scheme (NPS) differ from the Old Pension Scheme (OPS)?

a. NPS requires contributions from employees and employers, while OPS does not.

b. OPS provides higher pension benefits compared to NPS.

c. NPS guarantees returns on investment, while OPS does not.

d. OPS was implemented in 2019, while NPS dates back to 2004.

e. NPS allows employees to withdraw their entire pension fund upon retirement.

4. Questions

What is the primary reason for the resurgence of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) in several Indian states?

a. Pressure from the central government

b. Employees' demand and success in certain states

c. A directive from the Reserve Bank of India

skysup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

d. Financial crisis faced by state governments

e. Opposition from private sector unions

5. Questions

According to the passage, which state has not implemented the New Pension Scheme (NPS)?

a. West Bengal

b. Tamil Nadu

c. Karnataka

d. Telangana

e. Punjab

6. Questions

According to economist Prabhat Patnaik, what is the argument against considering pension payments under OPS as a burden?

a. Longevity of people is increasing

b. Governments do not revise pension amounts

c. OPS contributes to economic growth

d. Private sector opposes OPS

e. Inflation rates are stable

7. Questions

What is the antonym of the word "resurgence" as used in the passage?

a. Decline

b. Continuation

c. Stability

d. Progress

e. Stagnation

8. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In each of the questions given below four words are given in bold. These words may or may not be in their correct position. Following each sentence four sequences are provided. Select the sequence of the words which will make the given sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful. If the words are correct at their current position, then choose option (e) as your answer.

The fastest growing major economy in the world will have to improve (A) its inclusive agenda to reinforce (B) human development interventions (C), the Economic Survey points out after assessing the government's social sector outcomes (D) since the onset of the pandemic.

a. ABDC
b. BADC
c. BACD
d. ACBD
e. No interchange required

9. Questions

Not overdoing (A) into the 'cause-effect trap', a UNSC abstention (B) calling for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza, made possible by US resolution (C), sends out a clear message: Israel is falling (D) retribution.

a. ACBD
b. DCBA
c. DBCA
d. CADB
e. No interchange required

10. Questions

India's growth is being driven by a gov-led investment push, rather than by free markets (A), which should combine with political consolidation (B) to deliver outsized equity returns (C), except in the event of disappointment (D) over the victory margin or an outright upset.

a. CDAB
b. ADCB
c. ACDB
d. CADB
e. No interchange required

11. Questions

Sebi is trying to ensure (A) the runaway growth in retail investments into mid and small-caps by asking (B) mutual fund houses to release fortnightly stress test reports starting (C) this week, and to temper (D) equal treatment of investors during heightened market volatility as we saw this week.

a. ACBD
b. DCBA
c. DBCA
d. BCAD

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. No interchange required

12. Questions

The surge (A) in gold jewellery loans raises concerns for regulators due to the pledged (B) rally in gold prices and the potential (C) for borrowing against sustained (D) gold.

a. ADCB

b. ACDB

c. CBAD

d. CABD

e. No interchange required

13. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

When trying to find the best deal on car rentals for their upcoming trip, the couple decided to call after to several rental agencies in the area, hoping to compare prices and secure the most affordable option.

a. decided to call up

b. decided to call on

c. decided to call in

d. decided to call around

e. No improvement is required

14. Questions

Despite the temptation to engage in petty gossip, she always strived to be away such behaviour, preferring to focus on meaningful conversations and constructive interactions with others.

a. always strived to be above

b. always strived to be after

c. always strived to be along

d. always strived to be around

e. No improvement is required

15. Questions

After numerous unsuccessful attempts to repair the old car, the mechanic finally decided to write it down as beyond salvageable, acknowledging that it would be more cost-effective to invest in a new vehicle

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

instead.

a. decided to write it in
b. decided to write it out
c. decided to write it off
d. decided to write it up
e. No improvement is required

16. Questions

After indulging in a hearty meal, he knew he needed to work off the excess calories, so he headed to the gym to engage in an intense workout session to burn off the extra energy and maintain his fitness regimen.

a. needed to work on
b. needed to work in
c. needed to work over
d. needed to work through
e. No improvement is required

17. Questions

As twilight descended over the sleepy town, a dense fog began to creep out the countryside, shrouding everything in an eerie veil of mist and casting an otherworldly atmosphere over the landscape.

a. began to creep into
b. began to creep over
c. began to creep in
d. began to creep up on
e. No improvement is required

18. Questions

Select the phrase (STARTERS) from the given three options which can be used to form a single sentence from the two sentences given below, implying the same meaning as expressed in the statement sentences.

I). The new marketing campaign significantly increased brand visibility.

II). Customer engagement also saw a notable rise during the campaign period.

i). Despite the new marketing campaign.....

ii). While the new marketing campaign.....

iii). In addition to the new marketing campaign.....

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. Only (i)

b. Only (ii)

c. Only (iii)

d. Both (i) and (ii)

e. Both (i) and (iii)

19. Questions

I). The team brainstormed innovative ideas for the upcoming project.

II). Collaboration among team members significantly improved during the brainstorming sessions.

i). As a result of the team brainstorming innovative ideas.....

ii). Considering the team brainstormed innovative ideas.....

iii). Given the team brainstormed innovative ideas.....

a. Only (i)

b. Only (ii)

c. Only (iii)

d. Both (i) and (ii)

e. Both (ii) and (iii)

20. Questions

I). The company restructured its operations to adapt to changing market dynamics.

II). Productivity levels among employees showed a notable increase post-restructuring.

i). In light of the company restructuring its operations.....

ii). With the company restructuring its operations.....

iii). Bearing in mind the company restructuring its operations.....

a. Only (i)

b. Only (ii)

c. Only (iii)

d. Both (i) and (ii)

e. Both (i) and (iii)

skyStup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) Governments should ensure decent pensions for employees, setting an example. This is evident from the passage's emphasis on the government's role as an ideal employer and provider of decent pensions.

The passage suggests that governments have a responsibility to ensure decent pensions for their employees, setting an example for both the public and private sectors.

a). The government should reduce pension benefits to ease financial burden: This option suggests a cost-cutting approach to dealing with pension schemes, implying that the government's primary concern is financial savings. However, the passage emphasizes the importance of decent pensions for employees and criticizes the materialistic approach of reducing benefits. Therefore, this option does not align with the message conveyed in the passage.

b). The government should prioritize pension schemes for the private sector: This option suggests a focus on extending pension schemes to the private sector rather than maintaining or improving existing schemes for government employees. However, the passage primarily discusses the reintroduction of OPS and the concerns surrounding pension schemes for government workers. Therefore, this option does not reflect the main point emphasized in the passage.

d). The government's primary goal is to decrease the pension burden: This option implies that the government's main objective regarding pension schemes is to reduce the financial burden associated with them. While the passage does discuss concerns about the financial burden of OPS and NPS, it also emphasizes the importance of decent pensions for government employees and critiques arguments against providing adequate benefits. Therefore, while reducing the burden may be a consideration, it is not the government's sole or primary goal according to the passage.

e). Pension schemes are not a concern for the government: This option suggests that pension schemes are not a significant issue or priority for the government. However, the passage clearly indicates that pension schemes, particularly the debate between OPS and NPS, are of great concern and relevance. The passage discusses the reintroduction of OPS, criticism of NPS, and arguments for providing decent pensions, all of which indicate that pension schemes are indeed a concern for the government.

In summary, while these options may reflect certain perspectives or considerations related to pension schemes, they do not accurately represent the main point emphasized in the passage, which is the importance of ensuring decent pensions for government employees.

Overall, the passage suggests that governments should prioritize ensuring decent pensions for employees, indicating that answer choice (c) is the most appropriate.

2. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is (c) Long-term financial burden. The passage discusses concerns about the burden associated with OPS, especially in the long run, as it is an unfunded pay-as-you-go model. Critics of the reintroduction of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) primarily raise concerns about the long-term financial burden associated with this pension scheme.

a). Lack of government funding: This option suggests a concern that the government may not have sufficient funds to support the OPS. While funding is indeed a consideration, the specific concern raised by critics in the passage is more about the long-term financial burden associated with OPS, rather than a lack of funding at the time of reintroduction.

b). Decrease in employee benefits: This option implies that critics are concerned about a reduction in benefits for employees under OPS compared to other pension schemes. However, the passage does not emphasize a decrease in employee benefits as a major concern. Instead, it discusses the higher pension benefits provided by OPS compared to NPS, albeit with associated financial burdens.

d). Complexity of pension regulations: This option suggests a concern about the complexity of regulations governing the OPS. While complexity in regulations could be a potential issue, the passage primarily focuses on the financial implications and challenges associated with OPS, rather than the regulatory complexities.

e). Disruption in capital expenditure: This option implies that critics are concerned about OPS causing disruptions in government capital expenditure. While the passage does mention the erosion of government capital expenditure as a consequence of OPS, it is discussed more as a result of the financial burden imposed by OPS rather than a direct concern raised by critics.

In summary, while these options may represent valid concerns related to pension schemes in general, they do not align with the primary concern raised by critics in the passage, which is the long-term financial burden associated with the reintroduction of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS).

3. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is (a) NPS requires contributions from employees and employers, while OPS does not. This is evident from the passage where it states that OPS did not require any contribution from employees towards any pension fund, unlike NPS.

a). NPS requires contributions from employees and employers, while OPS does not: This option accurately distinguishes between the two pension schemes based on their contribution requirements. The passage mentions that under the NPS, employees are required to contribute a portion of their salary to the pension fund, typically around 10% of their basic and Dearness Allowance (DA), along with a matching contribution from the employer. However, under OPS, there is no requirement for employees to contribute to any pension fund. Instead, OPS provides pension benefits to employees without any contribution from them towards a pension fund.

b). OPS provides higher pension benefits compared to NPS: This option incorrectly states that OPS provides higher pension benefits compared to NPS. However, the passage indicates that OPS provided a pension of about half the last drawn salary to its employees without any contribution from them towards a pension fund, whereas NPS requires contributions from both employees and employers. The passage does not explicitly compare the pension benefits provided by OPS and NPS.

c). NPS guarantees returns on investment, while OPS does not: This option inaccurately suggests that NPS guarantees returns on investment, while OPS does not. In reality, both OPS and NPS can offer returns on

skysup@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

investments, but the structure of their pension schemes and the involvement of contributions differ. NPS involves contributions from employees and employers, with the accumulated funds invested in various market instruments, and the returns depend on the performance of those investments. OPS, on the other hand, typically does not involve employee contributions and provides pension benefits without requiring investments from employees.

d). OPS was implemented in 2019, while NPS dates back to 2004: This option presents inaccurate information regarding the implementation dates of OPS and NPS. The passage states that the Government of India replaced OPS with NPS with effect from January 1, 2004, indicating that NPS dates back to 2004. However, OPS predates NPS, and its implementation would have occurred before 2004.

e). NPS allows employees to withdraw their entire pension fund upon retirement: This option inaccurately suggests that employees can withdraw their entire pension fund upon retirement under NPS. In reality, under NPS, employees are allowed to withdraw only a portion (up to 60%) of their accumulated pension fund upon retirement, with the remaining amount used to purchase annuities from life insurance companies. Withdrawal options may vary depending on specific circumstances and regulations.

In summary, option (a) accurately distinguishes between NPS and OPS based on their contribution requirements, making it the correct answer.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is (b) Employees' demand and success in certain states. This is evident from the passage where it mentions that despite opposition, several states have reintroduced the OPS due to the success of employees achieving their demand.

a). Pressure from the central government: This option suggests that the resurgence of the Old Pension Scheme (OPS) in several Indian states is primarily due to pressure exerted by the central government. However, the passage does not mention any direct involvement or pressure from the central government regarding the reintroduction of OPS. Instead, the passage highlights the success of employees' demands in certain states, indicating that the initiative for reinstating OPS came from within the states rather than from the central government.

b). Employees' demand and success in certain states: This option accurately identifies the primary reason for the resurgence of OPS in several Indian states. The passage mentions that despite facing opposition, several states reintroduced OPS due to the success of employees' demands. This indicates that the driving force behind the resurgence of OPS was the demand from employees themselves, coupled with successful negotiations and advocacy efforts within certain states.

c). A directive from the Reserve Bank of India: This option suggests that the resurgence of OPS in several Indian states is due to a directive from the Reserve Bank of India (RBI). However, there is no mention in the passage of any directive or involvement from the RBI regarding OPS. The decision to reintroduce OPS appears to be driven by state governments and employees' demands rather than external directives from financial institutions like the RBI.

d). Financial crisis faced by state governments: This option implies that the resurgence of OPS is primarily driven by the financial crisis faced by state governments. While financial considerations may play a role in decisions regarding pension schemes, the passage emphasizes the success of employees' demands and negotiations as the main reason for reintroducing OPS in certain states. Additionally, the passage does not provide specific details about financial crises prompting the resurgence of OPS.

e). Opposition from private sector unions: This option suggests that the resurgence of OPS is driven by opposition from private sector unions. However, the passage does not mention any involvement or opposition from private sector unions regarding OPS. The primary focus in the passage is on employees' demands and negotiations within certain states, rather than external opposition from private sector unions.

In summary, option (b) accurately reflects the primary reason for the resurgence of OPS in several Indian states, as highlighted in the passage.

5. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is (a) West Bengal. The passage explicitly mentions that all states except West Bengal have imposed the NPS on their employees. According to the passage, all states except West Bengal have imposed the New Pension Scheme (NPS) on their employees. This implies that West Bengal has not implemented the NPS.

In summary, based on the information provided in the passage, option (a) West Bengal is the correct answer, as it explicitly states that West Bengal has not implemented the New Pension Scheme (NPS).

6. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is (a) Longevity of people is increasing. Patnaik argues that the increased life expectancy should not be seen as a burden, but rather as a reason for increased governmental assistance.

a). Longevity of people is increasing: Economist Prabhat Patnaik argues against considering pension payments under OPS as a burden by highlighting the increasing longevity of people. He suggests that instead of viewing longer life expectancy as a burden, governments should welcome it and provide increased assistance. This implies that as people live longer, there is a greater need for pension schemes to support them during their retirement years. Patnaik's argument underscores the idea that longer life expectancy should be seen as a positive development rather than a financial burden on pension schemes like OPS.

b). Governments do not revise pension amounts: This option suggests that the argument against considering pension payments under OPS as a burden is based on the premise that governments do not revise pension amounts. However, this is not the argument presented by economist Prabhat Patnaik in the passage. Patnaik's argument centers on the increasing longevity of people, not on the lack of pension amount revisions.

c). OPS contributes to economic growth: This option suggests that OPS contributes to economic growth, which is not the argument presented by economist Prabhat Patnaik in the passage. Patnaik's argument focuses on the impact of increasing longevity on pension payments under OPS, rather than the economic contributions of OPS.

d). Private sector opposes OPS: This option suggests that the argument against considering pension payments under OPS as a burden is based on opposition from the private sector. However, there is no mention in the passage of the private sector opposing OPS as the reason for not considering pension

skyguru@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

payments as a burden. Patnaik's argument is centered on the increasing longevity of people and its implications for pension schemes.

e). Inflation rates are stable: This option suggests that the argument against considering pension payments under OPS as a burden is based on stable inflation rates. However, there is no mention in the passage of stable inflation rates as the reason for not considering pension payments as a burden. Patnaik's argument focuses on the increasing longevity of people, which is unrelated to inflation rates.

In summary, based on the information provided in the passage, option (a) Longevity of people is increasing is the correct answer, as it reflects economist Prabhat Patnaik's argument against considering pension payments under OPS as a burden.

7. Questions

Answer: A

The word "resurgence" refers to a revival or renewal of something, indicating a resurgence or increase in activity, popularity, or importance.

Therefore, the antonym of "resurgence" would be a situation where there is a decrease or decline in activity, popularity, or importance.

Option (a) "Decline" represents the opposite of resurgence, as it indicates a decrease or reduction rather than a revival or renewal.

Options (b) Continuation, (c) Stability, (d) Progress, and (e) Stagnation do not represent the opposite meaning of resurgence. Continuation suggests the continuation of a trend, stability implies a state of being stable, progress indicates forward movement, and stagnation implies a lack of change or activity, none of which are opposite to the concept of resurgence.

b). Continuation: This option suggests a state of ongoing or uninterrupted activity, implying that the situation remains the same or continues without any change. While continuation contrasts with a sudden resurgence or revival, it does not represent the opposite meaning of a decline or decrease in activity.

c). Stability: Stability refers to a state of being steady or unchanging, suggesting a lack of fluctuations or disruptions. While stability contrasts with the idea of a sudden resurgence or renewal, it does not inherently imply a decrease or decline in activity, which is the opposite of resurgence.

d). Progress: Progress signifies forward movement or advancement, suggesting improvement or development over time. While progress contrasts with a situation where there is a resurgence or revival of something, it does not represent the opposite meaning of a decline or reduction in activity.

e). Stagnation: Stagnation refers to a state of inactivity or lack of progress, indicating a situation where there is little or no change or development. While stagnation contrasts with the concept of a resurgence or renewal, it does not directly represent the opposite meaning of a decline or decrease in activity.

In summary, while these options may represent contrasts to the concept of a resurgence or renewal, they do not accurately reflect the opposite meaning of a decline or decrease in activity, which is represented by the word "decline" in this context.

Therefore, the correct answer is (a) Decline.

8. Questions

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Answer: B

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: b) BADC.

So, the sentence will be: “The fastest growing major economy in the world will have to reinforce its inclusive agenda to improve human development outcomes, the Economic Survey points out after assessing the government's social sector interventions since the onset of the pandemic.”

In this sequence:

"B" comes first: "reinforce" suggests that the first action required is to strengthen or fortify the inclusive agenda.

"A" comes second: "improve" follows "reinforce" to indicate what aspect of the economy's inclusive agenda needs enhancement.

"D" comes third: "outcomes" follows as the object of the action "improve," indicating what specifically needs to be improved upon.

"C" comes last: "interventions" logically follow, as it connects to the assessment mentioned in the sentence.

So, the correct sequence is "BADC," where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence contextually meaningful.

9. Questions

Answer: B

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: b) DCBA.

So, the sentence will be: “Not falling into the 'cause-effect trap', a UNSC resolution calling for an immediate ceasefire in Gaza, made possible by US abstention, sends out a clear message: Israel is overdoing retribution.”

In order to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful, we need to rearrange the words.

Option (b) "DCBA" provides a more logical sequence:

"D" comes first: "Not falling" is the main idea, setting the context for the rest of the sentence.

"C" comes second: "a UNSC resolution" logically follows, as it's discussing a decision made by the United Nations Security Council.

"B" comes third: "made possible by US abstention" explains how the UNSC resolution was facilitated.

"A" comes last: "sends out a clear message: Israel is overdoing retribution" concludes the sentence by indicating the message conveyed by the UNSC resolution.

So, the correct sequence is "DCBA," where each word logically follows the previous one, making the sentence both contextually and grammatically meaningful.

10. Questions

Answer: E

The given sentence is: “India's growth is being driven by a gov-led investment push, rather than by free markets, which should combine with political consolidation to deliver outsized equity returns, except in

SKY Sup@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

the event of disappointment over the victory margin or an outright upset."

This sentence appears to be logically coherent as it is. Let's analyze the sentence:

"India's growth is being driven by a gov-led investment push": This part of the sentence establishes the driving force behind India's growth, which is a government-led investment push.

"rather than by free markets": This phrase contrasts the government-led investment push with the role of free markets in driving growth.

"which should combine with political consolidation": This part suggests that the government-led investment push, along with political consolidation, will work together to achieve a certain outcome.

"to deliver outsized equity returns": This phrase describes the expected result of the combination of government-led investment push and political consolidation, which is delivering significant equity returns.

"except in the event of disappointment over the victory margin or an outright upset": This part introduces a condition under which the expected outcome may not be achieved.

The given sentence is already contextually and grammatically meaningful, the correct answer is:e) No interchange required

11. Questions

Answer: C

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: c) DBCA.

So, the sentence will be: "Sebi is trying to temper the runaway growth in retail investments into mid and small-caps by asking mutual fund houses to release fortnightly stress test reports starting this week, and to ensure equal treatment of investors during heightened market volatility as we saw this week."

In order to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful, we need to rearrange the words.

Option (c) "DBCA" provides a more logical sequence:

"D" comes first: "temper" introduces Sebi's action of moderating or balancing the treatment of investors during market volatility.

"B" follows: "asking" indicates the action Sebi is taking regarding mutual fund houses, which is to request or require them to release stress test reports.

"C" comes next: "starting" specifies when the action of releasing stress test reports begins.

"A" comes last: "ensure" concludes the sentence by indicating Sebi's overarching goal, which is to ensure the runaway growth in retail investments into mid and small-caps.

So, with this arrangement, the sentence is contextually and grammatically meaningful. Therefore, the correct answer is DBCA.

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

Answer: A

The correct sequence to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful is: a) ADCB.

So, the sentence will be: "The surge in gold jewellery loans raises concerns for regulators due to the sustained rally in gold prices and the potential for borrowing against pledged gold."

In order to make the sentence contextually and grammatically meaningful, we need to rearrange the words.

Option (a) "ADCB" provides a more logical sequence:

"A" comes first: "surge" describes the sudden increase in gold jewellery loans, setting the context for the concern raised by regulators.

"D" follows: "sustained" describes the type of gold against which borrowing is being considered, providing more specificity to the concern.

"C" comes next: "potential" introduces the reason for regulators' concerns, which is the potential for borrowing against this sustained gold.

"B" comes last: "pledged" concludes the sentence by describing the situation created by the rally in gold prices, indicating the gold that has been offered or committed as security.

So, with this arrangement, the sentence is contextually and grammatically meaningful. Therefore, the correct answer is ADCB.

13. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) decided to call around

The phrase "decided to call around" is idiomatic and commonly used to indicate that someone is making multiple phone calls to different places or people in order to gather information or compare options. In this context, the couple is calling different rental agencies to compare prices.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that are not idiomatic or do not convey the intended meaning:

Option (a) "decided to call up" could imply calling a specific person or place, but it doesn't convey the idea of calling multiple places to compare.

Option (b) "decided to call on" usually means to visit someone, which doesn't fit the context of making phone calls.

Option (c) "decided to call in" typically means to contact someone for assistance or to make a reservation, which is not the same as calling multiple places to compare options.

Therefore, option (d) "decided to call around" is the correct choice for maintaining proper idiom and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

14. Questions

Answer: A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: a) always strived to be above

The phrase "strived to be above" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea of avoiding or rising above petty gossip. It implies maintaining a higher standard of behaviour.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that do not fit the intended meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (b) "strived to be after" does not convey the idea of avoiding gossip. "After" typically means pursuing or chasing something.

Option (c) "strived to be along" is not idiomatic in this context. "Along" typically means in company or alongside someone or something.

Option (d) "strived to be around" does not convey the idea of avoiding gossip. "Around" typically means in the vicinity or nearby.

Therefore, option (a) "always strived to be above" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) decided to write it off

The phrase "write it off" means to declare something as a loss, especially in accounting or financial contexts. In this sentence, the mechanic decided that the old car was beyond repair and should be considered a loss. Therefore, "write it off" is the most appropriate choice.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that do not convey the intended meaning:

Option (a) "decided to write it in" is not idiomatic. "Write in" typically means to record or insert information, which doesn't fit the context of declaring the car as beyond repair.

Option (b) "decided to write it out" also doesn't convey the intended meaning. "Write out" typically means to express or spell out in detail, which is not applicable here.

Option (d) "decided to write it up" suggests writing a report or summary, which is not appropriate in this context.

Therefore, option (c) "decided to write it off" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

16. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) No improvement is required

The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. The phrase "needed to work off" is idiomatic and means to remove or eliminate something, in this case, excess calories.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that do not convey the intended meaning or are not idiomatic:

Option (a) "needed to work on" does not convey the idea of removing or eliminating something.

Option (b) "needed to work in" is not idiomatic in this context and does not convey the idea of removing or eliminating something.

Option (c) "needed to work over" does not convey the idea of removing or eliminating something.

Option (d) "needed to work through" does not convey the idea of removing or eliminating something.

Therefore, option (e) "No improvement is required" is the correct choice as the original sentence maintains

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

proper grammar and effectively conveys the intended meaning.

17. Questions

Answer: B

The correct option is: b) began to creep over

The phrase "creep over" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea of the fog gradually spreading across the countryside. It implies a movement that extends over an area, which aligns well with the context of the sentence describing the fog enveloping the landscape.

Options (a), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are less idiomatic or do not convey the intended meaning:

Option (a) "began to creep into" suggests movement towards the interior of something, which doesn't accurately depict the spreading nature of fog over an area.

Option (c) "began to creep in" is less specific and doesn't convey the idea of the fog spreading over the countryside as effectively as option (b).

Option (d) "began to creep up on" implies a sudden approach or surprise, which doesn't fit the gradual and pervasive nature of the fog described in the sentence.

Therefore, option (b) "began to creep over" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

18. Questions

Answer: C

Option (i) "Despite the new marketing campaign significantly increasing brand visibility" introduces a contrast, suggesting that something unexpected or contradictory happened despite the increase in brand visibility. However, there's no indication in the second sentence of any negative consequence or contrasting event happening alongside the increase in brand visibility.

Option (ii) "While the new marketing campaign significantly increased brand visibility" suggests a temporal relationship, indicating that brand visibility increased concurrently with something else happening. However, it doesn't effectively connect with the second sentence, which talks about customer engagement rising. This option fails to convey the intended meaning.

Option (iii) "In addition to the new marketing campaign significantly increasing brand visibility" introduces the idea of something else happening alongside the increase in brand visibility, which aligns well with the rise in customer engagement mentioned in the second sentence.

Formed Sentence: (c) In addition to the new marketing campaign significantly increasing brand visibility, customer engagement also saw a notable rise during the campaign period.

This sentence effectively combines the two given sentences and maintains the coherence of the context, making option (c) Only (iii) the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: A

Option (i) "As a result of the team brainstorming innovative ideas" introduces a cause-and-effect relationship, suggesting that something occurred because the team brainstormed innovative ideas. This option effectively connects the brainstorming sessions with the improved collaboration mentioned in the second sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Option (ii) "Considering the team brainstormed innovative ideas" suggests taking into account the fact that the team engaged in brainstorming sessions. While it acknowledges the brainstorming, it doesn't effectively convey the outcome of improved collaboration.

Option (iii) "Given the team brainstormed innovative ideas" implies that the brainstorming sessions happened, but it doesn't effectively connect with the second sentence in terms of conveying the outcome or impact of the brainstorming sessions.

Formed Sentence:

(a) As a result of the team brainstorming innovative ideas for the upcoming project, collaboration among team members significantly improved during the brainstorming sessions.

This sentence effectively combines the two given sentences and maintains the coherence of the context, making option (a) Only (i) the correct answer.

20. Questions

Answer: A

Option (i) "In light of the company restructuring its operations" introduces the idea that something occurred or should be considered because of the company's restructuring. This option effectively connects the restructuring with the subsequent increase in productivity mentioned in the second sentence.

Option (ii) "With the company restructuring its operations" suggests that restructuring was happening simultaneously with something else. However, it doesn't effectively convey the cause-and-effect relationship between the restructuring and the increase in productivity.

Option (iii) "Bearing in mind the company restructuring its operations" implies that the restructuring is happening, but it doesn't effectively connect with the second sentence in terms of conveying the outcome or impact of the restructuring.

Formed Sentence:

(a) In light of the company restructuring its operations to adapt to changing market dynamics, productivity levels among employees showed a notable increase post-restructuring.

This sentence effectively combines the two given sentences and maintains the coherence of the context, making option (a) Only (i) the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the question below, three columns are given. Column 1 and 3 contain different independent sentences (3 in each column) and column 2 contains 3 connectors which may or may not join the given sentences in the other two columns. This connector can be placed anywhere in the sentence. Mark the option which provides the correct sequences of joined sentences as your answer.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). He cooked dinner.	1). as	D). The power went out.
B). The storm passed.	2). although	E). They had enough food in the pantry.
C). She turned off the lights.	3). after	F). The sky cleared up.

a. A2E, B3F, and C1D

b. A3E, B2F, and C1D

c. A1E, B3F, and C2D

d. A3E, B1F, and C2D

e. A2E, B1F, and C3D

2. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The sun rose.	1). since	D). she wasn't feeling well.
B). She left the party early.	2). after	E). We had reached the summit.
C). The temperature dropped rapidly.	3). because	F). The wind picked up.

a. A1E, B2F, C3D

b. A2E, B1F, C3D

c. A3F, B2D, C1E

d. A2E, B1D, C3F

e. A3E, B1F, C2D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

3. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The cat jumped onto the table.	1). until	D). The traffic was terrible.
B). He reached the office on time.	2). although	E). They were waiting for the exam to begin.
C). The students were silent.	3). as	F). The dog barked loudly.

a. A2F, B3D, C1E

b. A1F, B2D, C3E

c. A2F, B1D, C3E

d. A3F, B1D, C2E

e. A3F, B2D, C1E

4. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The alarm clock rang loudly.	1). therefore	D). The dog slept peacefully.
B). She studied diligently.	2). when	E). She achieved excellent grades.
C). The cat meowed loudly.	3). while	F). The teacher entered the classroom.

a. A2E, B3F, C1D

b. A2F, B1E, C3D

c. A3D, B2E, C1F

d. A1F, B2E, C3D

e. A2D, B1E, C3F

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

5. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). The students cheered loudly.	1). consequently	D). The football team won the championship.
B). The movie received rave reviews.	2). despite	E). She arrived late to work.
C). The traffic was heavy.	3). while	F). It failed to impress the audience.

a. A3D, B1F, C2E

b. A1D, B2F, C3E

c. A3D, B2F, C1E

d. A1D, B3F, C2E

e. A2D, B1F, C3E

6. Questions

Given below are a few questions with three sentences in each of them which may or may not contain errors in them. You have to find the sentence which has or have errors in them and mark your answers accordingly. If none of the sentence contains errors then choose option E as your answer.

A). Not only did he write creatively, but he also revised thoroughly his work.

B). Despite the stormy weather, they managed to have a wonderful and enjoyable picnic.

C). The new employee showed great skill and efficiency in completing his tasks.

a. Only A

b. Both A and B

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

7. Questions

A). The team of volunteers is planning their next charity event.

B). The old, rusty car sputtered to life after sitting in the garage for years.

C). The box of chocolates were a gift for her birthday.

a. Only C

b. Both A and B

sky53in@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

8. Questions

A). She spoke too quietly during the meeting, so many attendees couldn't hear her.

B). Not only did she work diligently, but she also completed the project exceptionally well.

C). He performed the task incredibly quick, impressing everyone with his efficiency.

a. Only C

b. Both A and B

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

9. Questions

A). He was excited about the opportunity to travel abroad and experience different cultures.

B). Despite the challenges, neither of the candidates were able to secure the position.

C). The set of instructions for the experiment were clearly outlined in the manual.

a. Only A

b. Both A and B

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

10. Questions

A). She bought a new dress for the event, but she forgot to buy a matching shoes.

B). She is interested in learning new languages for expand her career opportunities.

C). Not only the company but also its subsidiaries are affected by the new regulations.

a. Only A

b. Both A and B

c. Both B and C

d. All A, B and C

e. No error

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

In the following questions, two columns are given, containing three phrases each. A phrase from the first column may or may not connect with a phrase from the second column to make a grammatically and contextually correct sentence. There are five options, four of which display the sequence(s) in which the phrases can be joined to form a correct sentence. If none of the phrases makes a correct sentence, mark 'None of these' as your answer.

Column I	Column II
A). The new banking regulations have implications that stretch	D). across different regions to expand their market share.
B). Banks are implementing similar strategies	E). across various sectors of the economy.
C). Changes in interest rates have repercussions	F). across the entire banking ecosystem.

a. Only C-F

b. Both A-F and B-D

c. Both B-D and C-E

d. Both A-D and B-F

e. All A-E, B-D and C-F

12. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The line of credit offers flexibility	D). between the central bank and commercial banks.
B). The agreement stipulates the terms of cooperation	E). between borrowing and repaying funds as needed.
C). The bank is mediating a dispute	F). between different banking providers before choosing a savings account.

a. Only A-E

b. Only C-F

c. Both A-D and C-F

d. Both A-E and B-D

e. All A-D, B-E and C-F

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

13. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The training program will delve into	D). new markets to diversify its revenue streams.
B). The partnership will explore ventures into	E). the intricacies of compliance regulations in banking.
C). The bank is branching out into	F). sustainable banking practices.

a. Only A-E
b. Only C-D
c. Both A-D and C-E
d. Both B-D and C-F
e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

14. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The bank is implementing measures for	D). employees to improve their knowledge of banking regulations.
B). Cryptocurrency presents new opportunities for	E). investment diversification for banking clients.
C). Risk assessments are conducted for	F). improving customer service satisfaction.

a. Only A-D
b. Only B-E
c. Both A-F and B-E
d. Both A-D and C-E
e. All A-D, B-E and C-F

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

15. Questions

Column I	Column II
A). The bank's profits increased significantly from	D). retirement planning to wealth management.
B). Interest on savings accounts accrues from	E). one account to another seamlessly.
C). The bank offers financial planning services ranging from	F). the comfort of their own homes.

a. Only A-E

b. Only C-D

c. Both A-E and B-F

d. Both A-C and B-F

e. All A-E, B-F and C-D

16. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

Realizing the mistakes made in the initial attempt, the team decided to scrap their current strategy and start afresh, assigning to did up the project with a renewed focus and revised approach to ensure success.

a. concluding to done out the project

b. resolving to does over the project

c. preferring to do up the project

d. opting to do over the project

e. no improvement is needed

17. Questions

After a long week of work, I decided to sleep over on Saturday morning, relishing the luxury of staying in bed past my usual waking hour.

a. I decided to sleep in

b. I have decided to sleep over

c. I had decided to sleep through

d. I decided to sleep through

e. no improvement is needed

skyBup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

18. Questions

After hours of negotiation, he totally gave up to his opponent's demands, recognizing that further resistance would only prolong the conflict and lead to more significant losses.

a. he ultimately gave away
b. he absolutely gave up
c. he finally gave in
d. he exactly gave back
e. no improvement is needed

19. Questions

The new government's policies directed to bring in critical social change, fostering equality and prosperity for all citizens.

a. intended to bring over vital social change
b. marked to bring up crucial social change
c. focused to bring in historic social change
d. aimed to bring about significant social change
e. no improvement is needed

20. Questions

After weeks of meticulous planning and preparation, the theatrical performance finally came off without a hitch, leaving the audience awestruck and applauding fervently for the talented cast and crew.

a. ultimately came in without a hitch
b. totally came out without a hitch
c. surely came over without a hitch
d. completely came through without a hitch
e. no improvement is needed

Explanations:

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Answer: A

A2E, B3F, and C1D

"He cooked dinner although they had enough food in the pantry."

skyfsup@gmail.com

"The storm passed after the sky cleared up."

"She turned off the lights as the power went out."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

"He cooked dinner although they had enough food in the pantry.": This sentence logically connects the action of cooking dinner (A) with the fact that they had enough food in the pantry (E). The connector "although" appropriately contrasts the action of cooking dinner with the fact that there was already enough food available.

"The storm passed after the sky cleared up.": This sentence logically connects the event of the storm passing (B) with the condition of the sky clearing up (F). The connector "after" appropriately indicates the sequence of events, where the storm passing happens subsequent to the sky clearing up.

"She turned off the lights as the power went out.": This sentence logically connects the action of turning off the lights (C) with the event of the power going out (D). The connector "as" indicates a simultaneous or closely linked action, implying that she turned off the lights at the same time or just after the power went out.

In summary, option a) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

2. Questions

Answer: D

A2E, B1D, C3F

"The sun rose after we had reached the summit."

"She left the party early since she wasn't feeling well."

"The temperature dropped rapidly because the wind picked up."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A2E: "The sun rose after we had reached the summit." This connector "after" appropriately connects the action of the sun rising with the action of reaching the summit, indicating a temporal sequence.

B1D: "She left the party early since she wasn't feeling well." The connector "since" indicates a reason. She left the party early because she wasn't feeling well.

C3F: "The temperature dropped rapidly because the wind picked up." The connector "because" indicates a cause-and-effect relationship. The temperature dropped rapidly as a result of the wind picking up.

In summary, option d) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

3. Questions

Answer: E

A3F, B2D, C1E

"The cat jumped onto the table as the dog barked loudly."

skybun@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

"He reached the office on time although the traffic was terrible."

"The students were silent until they were waiting for the exam to begin."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A3F: "The cat jumped onto the table as the dog barked loudly." The connector "as" indicates a simultaneous action. The cat's action of jumping onto the table happens simultaneously with the dog barking loudly.

B2D: "He reached the office on time although the traffic was terrible." The word "although" suggests a contrast - despite the terrible traffic, he reached the office on time.

C1E: "The students were silent until they were waiting for the exam to begin." The connector "until" indicates a temporal condition. The students were silent up to the point when they were waiting for the exam to begin.

In summary, option e) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

4. Questions

Answer: B

A2F, B1E, C3D

"The alarm clock rang loudly when the teacher entered the classroom."

"She studied diligently; therefore, she achieved excellent grades."

"The cat meowed loudly while the dog slept peacefully."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A2F: "The alarm clock rang loudly when the teacher entered the classroom." The connector "when" indicates a simultaneous action. The alarm clock rang loudly at the same time as the teacher entered the classroom.

B1E: "She studied diligently; therefore, she achieved excellent grades." The connector "therefore" indicates a logical consequence. She achieved excellent grades because she studied diligently.

C3D: "The cat meowed loudly while the dog slept peacefully." The connector "while" appropriately connects the action of the cat meowing with the action of the dog sleeping, indicating that they occurred simultaneously.

In summary, option b) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

5. Questions

Answer: C

A3D, B2F, C1E

"The students cheered loudly while the football team won the championship."

"The movie received rave reviews despite it failed to impress the audience."

"The traffic was heavy; consequently, she arrived late to work."

This option creates logical sentences with appropriate connectors.

A3D: "The students cheered loudly while the football team won the championship." This connector "while" appropriately connects the action of cheering with the action of the football team winning the championship, indicating that both events happened simultaneously.

B2F: "The movie received rave reviews despite it failed to impress the audience." The connector "despite" indicates a contrast between the rave reviews and the audience's lack of impression.

C1E: "The traffic was heavy; consequently, she arrived late to work." The connector "consequently" indicates a result of the heavy traffic.

In summary, option c) provides a coherent sequence of joined sentences where the connectors appropriately link the actions/events in each column.

6. Questions

Answer: A

The error in this question lies in Sentence A:

A). "Not only did he write creatively, but he also revised thoroughly his work."

The error is in the placement of the adverb "thoroughly." In this sentence, "thoroughly" should be placed before the verb "revised" to modify it properly.

Corrected Sentence A: "Not only did he write creatively, but he also thoroughly revised his work."

B). There is no error in this sentence.

C). There is no error in this sentence.

7. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). There is no error in this sentence.

The sentence containing an error in subject-verb agreement is Sentence C: "The box of chocolates were a gift for her birthday."

The error lies in the subject-verb agreement. The subject "box" is singular, so the verb should also be singular. The correct form should be "The box of chocolates was a gift for her birthday."

Corrected Sentence C: "The box of chocolates was a gift for her birthday."

Tg.- @NextGenBankers

8. Questions

Answer: A

A). There is no error in this sentence.

B). There is no error in this sentence.

The error in this question lies in Sentence C: "He performed the task incredibly quick, impressing everyone with his efficiency."

The error is in the usage of the adverb "quick." The correct adverb form to modify the verb "performed" should be "quickly" rather than "quick." Therefore, the correct sentence should be:

Corrected Sentence C: "He performed the task incredibly quickly, impressing everyone with his efficiency."

9. Questions

Answer: C

A). There is no error in this sentence.

The error in this question lies in Sentence B and Sentence C:

B). "Despite the challenges, neither of the candidates were able to secure the position."

The error is in the verb "were" which does not agree with the subject "neither of the candidates." When "neither...nor" is used, the verb should agree with the subject closest to it, which is "neither" in this case. Therefore, the correct form should be "neither of the candidates was able to secure the position."

Corrected Sentence B: "Despite the challenges, neither of the candidates was able to secure the position."

C). The error in this sentence is "set of instructions were." The correct form should be "set of instructions was." The term "set" is a singular noun, and when referring to it as a single entity, a singular verb is used.

Corrected Sentence C: "The set of instructions for the experiment was clearly outlined in the manual."

10. Questions

Answer: B

A). The error in this sentence is "a matching shoes." The correct form is "matching shoes." When referring to a pair of shoes in general, the article "a" is not needed.

Corrected Sentence A: "She bought a new dress for the event, but she forgot to buy matching shoes."

B). The error in this sentence is "interested in learning new languages for expand." The correct form is "interested in learning new languages to expand." The preposition "to" is used to indicate purpose.

Corrected Sentence B: "She is interested in learning new languages to expand her career opportunities."

C). There is no error in this sentence.

11. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: “The new banking regulations have implications that stretch across various sectors of the economy.” This sentence highlights the significant impact of new banking regulations, indicating that they influence not only the banking sector but also other sectors of the economy.

When combining these two statements B-D: "Banks are implementing similar strategies across different regions to expand their market share." This sentence highlights the coordinated efforts of banks to employ similar strategies in various geographical areas with the aim of increasing their market presence and

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

competitiveness.

When combining these two statements C-F: "Changes in interest rates have repercussions across the entire banking ecosystem." This sentence emphasizes that fluctuations in interest rates have widespread effects that impact various components and functions of the banking sector.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

12. Questions

Answer: D

When combining these two statements A-E: “The line of credit offers flexibility between borrowing and repaying funds as needed.” This sentence emphasizes how a line of credit provides flexibility by allowing individuals to borrow and repay funds according to their requirements and financial situation.

When combining these two statements B-D: “The agreement stipulates the terms of cooperation between the central bank and commercial banks.” This sentence highlights that the agreement delineates the terms under which cooperation occurs between the central bank and commercial banks, emphasizing the significance of the agreement in governing their interactions.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

13. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these two statements A-E: “The training program will delve into the intricacies of compliance regulations in banking.” This sentence emphasizes that the training program will thoroughly explore and address the complexities of compliance regulations within the banking industry, indicating its importance in ensuring regulatory adherence and best practices among banking professionals.

When combining these two statements B-F: “The partnership will explore ventures into sustainable banking practices.” This sentence emphasizes that the partnership aims to explore and potentially engage in initiatives related to sustainable banking practices, highlighting a commitment to environmental and social responsibility within the banking sector.

When combining these two statements C-D: “The bank is branching out into new markets to diversify its revenue streams.” This sentence emphasizes that the bank is expanding its presence into new markets as part of its strategy to diversify its sources of income, highlighting its efforts to grow and adapt in response to market opportunities.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

14. Questions

Answer: C

When combining these two statements A-F: “The bank is implementing measures for improving customer service satisfaction.” This sentence emphasizes that the bank is taking steps to enhance customer service satisfaction, underscoring its commitment to providing excellent service to its customers.

@NextGenBankers

When combining these two statements B-E: “Cryptocurrency presents new opportunities for investment diversification for banking clients.” This sentence emphasizes that cryptocurrency offers banking clients the chance to diversify their investments, indicating a potential area of exploration and growth within the banking sector.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

15. Questions

Answer: B

When combining these two statements C-D: “The bank offers financial planning services ranging from retirement planning to wealth management.” This sentence highlights the breadth of financial planning services offered by the bank, covering various aspects of financial management from retirement planning to wealth management.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Column I and Column II.

16. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) opting to do over the project

The phrase "opting to do over the project" is the most appropriate choice to convey the idea of restarting or redoing the project. "Opting to" indicates a deliberate choice or decision, and "do over" is a phrasal verb meaning to redo or start again.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that are less idiomatic or disrupt the intended meaning:

Option (a) "concluding to done out the project" is not idiomatic. "Concluding" does not fit well in this context, and "done out" is not a standard expression for restarting a project.

Option (b) "resolving to does over the project" has tense agreement issues ("does over" should be "do over") and incorrect phrasing.

Option (c) "preferring to do up the project" introduces a different meaning. "Do up" typically means to renovate or improve the appearance of something, which is not appropriate in this context.

Therefore, option (d) "opting to do over the project" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

17. Questions

Answer: A

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The correct option is: a) I decided to sleep in

The phrase "to sleep in" means to remain in bed longer than usual in the morning. It is the most appropriate expression for the context provided in the sentence.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that do not convey the intended meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (b) "I have decided to sleep over" suggests staying somewhere overnight, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (c) "I had decided to sleep through" implies sleeping without waking up at all, which is not the intended meaning.

Option (d) "I decided to sleep through" also implies sleeping without waking up at all, which is not the intended meaning.

Therefore, option (a) "I decided to sleep in" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

18. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) he finally gave in

The phrase "he finally gave in" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea that he yielded or surrendered to his opponent's demands after hours of negotiation. "Gave in" means to yield or surrender, which fits well in the context of the sentence.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (a) "he ultimately gave away" changes the meaning. "Gave away" typically means to distribute or give something as a gift, which doesn't fit the context of yielding to demands.

Option (b) "he absolutely gave up" also changes the meaning. "Gave up" typically means to quit or cease trying, which doesn't convey the sense of yielding after negotiation.

Option (d) "he exactly gave back" is not idiomatic. "Gave back" typically means to return something, which doesn't fit the context of yielding to demands.

Therefore, option (c) "he finally gave in" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

19. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) aimed to bring about significant social change. The phrase "aimed to bring about significant social change" is the most appropriate choice as it accurately conveys the intended meaning. It indicates that the policies were designed with the specific goal of achieving significant social change.

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (a) "intended to bring over vital social change" introduces unnecessary words ("over" and "vital") and changes the meaning slightly.

Option (b) "marked to bring up crucial social change" does not accurately convey the idea of directing policies toward social change. Additionally, "bring up" is not the appropriate phrasal verb in this context.

Option (c) "focused to bring in historic social change" changes the meaning slightly and introduces the word "historic," which may not be suitable depending on the context of the social change.

Therefore, option (d) "aimed to bring about significant social change" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) no improvement is needed

The sentence is grammatically correct and effectively conveys the intended meaning. The phrase "finally came off without a hitch" is idiomatic and clear in expressing the successful outcome of the theatrical performance.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (a) "ultimately came in without a hitch" changes the meaning slightly and is less idiomatic than "came off."

Option (b) "totally came out without a hitch" introduces a different adverb "totally," which alters the tone of the sentence.

Option (c) "surely came over without a hitch" introduces "surely," which implies a level of certainty that may not be appropriate in this context.

Option (d) "completely came through without a hitch" changes the meaning slightly and may imply overcoming obstacles, which is not the intended meaning here.

Therefore, option (e) "no improvement is needed" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

In recent years, fintech innovations have revolutionized the banking landscape, offering customers new ways to manage their finances and access services. From mobile banking apps to peer-to-peer payment platforms, fintech companies have disrupted traditional banking models and reshaped customer expectations. To stay competitive in this rapidly evolving landscape, traditional banks are increasingly focusing on _____.

a. expanding physical branch networks to reach more customers

b. embracing digital transformation and investing in technology

c. offering outdated banking products and services

d. increasing reliance on paper-based transactions for security

e. ignoring customer preferences and feedback in product development

2. Questions

The concept of risk is inherent in the field of finance, where investors weigh potential returns against the possibility of loss. Risk management strategies play a crucial role in navigating the complexities of financial markets and protecting investments. From diversification to hedging, there are various techniques employed to mitigate risk exposure. However, it is important for investors to also consider _____.

a. the impact of inflation on purchasing power

b. the importance of speculative investments for portfolio growth

c. ignoring market trends to maintain a conservative approach

d. relying solely on past performance as an indicator of future returns

e. the influence of geopolitical events on financial markets

3. Questions

In the realm of commerce, e-commerce has revolutionized the way businesses operate and consumers shop. The convenience of online shopping, coupled with secure payment gateways, has led to exponential growth in digital transactions. However, to stay competitive in the digital marketplace, businesses must prioritize _____.

a. maintaining traditional brick-and-mortar stores for a physical presence

b. ignoring customer feedback and preferences in product development

c. investing in outdated marketing strategies with limited digital presence

d. enhancing website usability and user experience for online shoppers

e. relying solely on word-of-mouth advertising for business promotion

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

In modern economies, fiscal policy plays a crucial role in regulating economic activity and promoting stability. Governments use fiscal policy tools, such as taxation and government spending, to influence aggregate demand and manage economic fluctuations. However, effective implementation of fiscal policy requires careful consideration of various factors, including _____.

a. the political landscape and public sentiment

b. the availability of natural resources

c. international trade agreements and tariffs

d. technological advancements and innovation

e. the demographic composition of the population

5. Questions

In recent years, advancements in technology have revolutionized various aspects of our lives, from communication and entertainment to healthcare and transportation. Emerging technologies such as artificial intelligence, blockchain, and 5G networks hold the promise of further transforming industries and enhancing efficiency. However, to harness the full potential of these technologies, it is crucial for policymakers and regulators to establish _____.

a. stringent regulations that stifle innovation and progress

b. unrestricted access to personal data for technology companies

c. ethical guidelines to govern the responsible development and deployment of technology

d. barriers to international collaboration and information sharing

e. monopolies for tech giants to ensure market stability

6. Questions

In the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentence is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). An article featured in the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) monthly bulletin highlights the consistent progress of the Indian economy in the first half of the financial year (FY24).

B). The bulletin emphasises the mounting anticipation (P)/ to pick up where the government left off (Q)/ for a fresh wave of capital expenditure by corporations (R)/ and drive further economic expansion (S).

C). The bank predicts India's investment ratio to rise to 36% of GDP by FY27, from 34% in FY24.

D). The article suggests that the upcoming growth phase is expecting to receive a boost from increased capital expenditure by the corporate sector.

E). It underscores the need to the corporate sector to step up and play a more significant role in investment, thereby lessening the burden on the government.

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B
b. C
c. D
d. E
e. A

7. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (D) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. The article suggests that the upcoming
b. growth phase is expecting to receive
c. a boost from increased capital expenditure
d. by the corporate sector
e. No correction required

8. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (E) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. It underscores the need to the corporate sector
b. to step up and play a more
c. significant role in investment
d. thereby lessening the burden on the government
e. No correction required

9. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (B) which is divided into four parts.

a. PQSR
b. PRQS
c. SRPQ
d. PRSQ
e. No rearrangement required

10. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

a. ABCD

b. CABD

c. ABDE

d. ADBE

e. ABCE

11. Questions

In each of the following sentences there are two blank spaces. Below each sentence five pairs of words are given. Find out which pair of words can be filled up in the blanks in the sentence in the same sequence to make the sentence grammatically and meaningfully correct.

It takes extraordinary _____ for a party leader to assert that she will fight the Lok Sabha elections solo when the cards are _____ against her.

a. courage, stacked

b. temerity, stashed

c. audacity, dealt

d. resilience, shuffled

e. determination, drawn

12. Questions

Nitish Kumar's inconstancy—the latest demonstration being the _____ with which he dumped the INDIA alliance and _____ the BJP-led NDA again in a little over a year—was cruelly mocked on social media.

a. hesitation, deserted

b. alacrity, embraced

c. swiftness, jettisoned

d. reluctance, joined

e. agility, abandoned

13. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

It is a truism in Indian politics that a party consigned to the opposition at the Centre and _____ with challenges must turn to the states it controls for _____ survival.

a. besieged, sheer

b. fraught, political

c. endowed, financial

d. aligned, strategic

e. riddled, overall

14. Questions

The Voice of the Global South summit under India's G20 presidency signified the growing space for the developing world to express itself, _____ by the need to _____ one global hegemon or another.

a. unhindered, accommodate

b. unencumbered, placate

c. unfettered, appease

d. hampered, cater

e. unrestrained, mollify

15. Questions

Global confidence in India has been _____ even by credit rating agencies, despite their _____ to upgrade its sovereign rating.

a. bolstered, haste

b. underscored, eagerness

c. reiterated, reluctance

d. questioned, hesitance

e. reinforced, inclination

16. Questions

In each of the questions given below, a sentence/ paragraph is given with few words highlighted. These words may not be placed correctly. Also, one of these words may be inappropriate in context of the sentence/ paragraph. Identify the most appropriate rearrangement of the words and the suitable replacement for the incorrect word.

Article 239AA, which conferred (A) a special status on the National Capital Territory of Delhi and constitutionally governed (B) a representative form of government, was incorporated (C) in the Constitution in the spirit of federalism so that the residents of the capital city would have a voice in how they are inculcated (D).

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. ABCD; A-accorded

b. DBCA; B-directed

c. ADCB; D- entrenched

d. BCAD; D- instilled

e. No rearrangement required

17. Questions

When Israel's war of amends (A) started, the silence of the PM and his government's reluctance (B) to issue a similar statement of support for the beleaguered (C) people of Palestine marked a departure from our historical commitment (D) to the two-state solution for Israel and Palestine.

a. ABCD; A- retribution
b. DBCA; A-indemnity
c. ADCB; B-assurance
d. BACD; B-conviction
e. No rearrangement required

18. Questions

The unmindful (A) attempts by India's largest bank, the State Bank of India (SBI), to keep the details of the electoral bonds from public eye futile (B) of an order of the Supreme Court of India are a sad speculation (C) of how the powers that be make historic institutions opt for indefensible (D) positions and in the process damage their own reputation.

a. ABCD; A-imprudent
b. BACD; C- reflection
c. DBCA; B-delusive
d. ADCB; B-abortive
e. No rearrangement required

19. Questions

The recent recommendations by the Ramnath Kovind panel advocating for simultaneous state and national elections in India mark a pragmatic (A) milestone in the ongoing discourse surrounding electoral reform. While the concept of "One Nation, One Election" holds infringement (B) for enhancing governance efficiency and fostering economic growth, its successful implementation hinges (C) on a delicate balance of political consensus and significant (D) considerations.

a. ABCD; C-predicates
b. BACD; C-emanates
c. DBCA; B-promise
d. ABCD; B-covenant
e. No rearrangement required

20. Questions

In today's global arena, myriad (A) challenges ranging from geopolitical conflicts like the Russia-Ukraine tensions to the assertive (B) threat of transnational terrorism, and the pervasive (C) global ambitions of

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

China, overlook (D) the complex landscape we navigate.

a. ABCD; A-various

b. BCAD; B-epidemic

c. BDAC; C-emphatic

d. ACBD; D-underscore

e. No rearrangement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on how traditional banks are responding to fintech innovations and evolving customer expectations. Embracing digital transformation and investing in technology are essential for traditional banks to stay competitive in the rapidly evolving banking landscape. By adopting fintech innovations, such as mobile banking apps and peer-to-peer payment platforms, traditional banks can enhance customer experiences, streamline operations, and remain relevant in the digital age. The other options are not suitable because they either involve outdated practices (a, c, d) or disregard customer needs and preferences (e), which would not help traditional banks remain competitive in the face of fintech disruption.

2. Questions

Answer: E

The correct option is: e) the influence of geopolitical events on financial markets. This option aligns with the theme of risk management in finance and emphasizes the importance of considering external factors that can impact investment outcomes. Geopolitical events, such as political instability, trade disputes, and international conflicts, can have significant implications for financial markets, leading to volatility and uncertainty. Ignoring these events can expose investors to unforeseen risks. Therefore, being aware of geopolitical dynamics and their potential impact on financial markets is essential for effective risk management strategies.

The other options do not directly address the importance of external factors or risk management in finance:

a). Inflation's impact on purchasing power is important, but it doesn't directly relate to risk management strategies.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). Speculative investments may offer growth potential, but they also carry higher levels of risk, which contradicts the focus on risk management.

c). Ignoring market trends and maintaining a conservative approach could be considered a risk management strategy, but it's not advisable to completely disregard market trends.

d). Relying solely on past performance as an indicator of future returns overlooks potential risks and doesn't account for changes in market conditions or external factors.

3. Questions

Answer: D

The correct option is: d) enhancing website usability and user experience for online shoppers. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the importance of staying competitive in the digital marketplace. Enhancing website usability and user experience for online shoppers is crucial for attracting and retaining customers in the e-commerce landscape. A well-designed and user-friendly website can improve customer satisfaction, increase conversion rates, and ultimately drive business growth. As e-commerce continues to evolve, businesses need to prioritize providing a seamless and enjoyable online shopping experience to remain competitive. The other options either involve outdated practices (a, c, e) or neglecting customer preferences and digital presence (b), which would not contribute to competitiveness in the digital marketplace.

4. Questions

Answer: A

The correct option is: a) the political landscape and public sentiment. This option aligns with the context of the paragraph, which discusses the factors influencing the effective implementation of fiscal policy in modern economies. The political landscape and public sentiment significantly impact fiscal policy decisions, as governments must consider public opinion and political dynamics when formulating and implementing policies related to taxation and government spending. Changes in government leadership, shifts in political ideology, and public attitudes toward fiscal policy can all influence the effectiveness of fiscal measures. Therefore, understanding the political landscape and public sentiment is essential for policymakers to design fiscal policies that are both feasible and socially acceptable. The other options (b), (c), (d), and (e) are relevant factors in economics but are not specifically mentioned in the context of the paragraph, which focuses on the importance of political considerations in fiscal policy implementation.

5. Questions

Answer: C

The correct option is: c) ethical guidelines to govern the responsible development and deployment of technology. This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the importance of establishing ethical guidelines to ensure the responsible use of emerging technologies. Ethical guidelines can help address concerns related to privacy, security, bias, and potential societal impacts of technology. By implementing ethical guidelines, policymakers and regulators can promote innovation while also safeguarding the interests of individuals and society as a whole. The other options either involve counterproductive measures, such as stringent regulations (a) or monopolies (e), or pose risks to privacy and security, such as unrestricted access to personal data (b). Option (d) suggests barriers to international collaboration, which could hinder progress and knowledge sharing in the technology sector.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

6. Questions

Answer: B

C

The odd one out is Sentence C: "The bank predicts India's investment ratio to rise to 36% of GDP by FY27, from 34% in FY24." Sentences A to E primarily discuss the progress and expectations related to the Indian economy, focusing on factors such as capital expenditure, economic expansion, and the role of the corporate sector. However, sentence C introduces a specific prediction about India's investment ratio, which shifts the focus to a different aspect compared to the other sentences, which discuss broader themes and expectations.

7. Questions

Answer: B

Error: Part b) should be corrected to "is expected to receive."

The error in this sentence involves incorrect verb tense and structure. The phrase "is expecting to receive" is in the wrong tense and does not properly convey the intended meaning. Instead, the correct form should be "is expected to receive," which is the passive voice of "expect."

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part b) should be corrected to "is expected to receive."

So, the corrected sentence is: "The article suggests that the upcoming growth phase is expected to receive a boost from increased capital expenditure by the corporate sector." This version uses the correct verb tense and structure to convey the intended meaning.

8. Questions

Answer: A

Error: Part a) should be corrected to "underscores the need for the corporate sector."

The error in this sentence involves redundancy and incorrect phrasing. The phrase "the need to the corporate sector" is grammatically incorrect and redundant. Instead, the phrase "underscores the need for the corporate sector" is more concise and grammatically accurate.

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part a) should be corrected to "underscores the need for the corporate sector."

So, the corrected sentence is: "It underscores the need for the corporate sector to step up and play a more significant role in investment, thereby lessening the burden on the government." This version uses more precise phrasing and eliminates redundancy.

9. Questions

Answer: B

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is:" The bulletin emphasises the mounting anticipation for a fresh wave of capital expenditure by corporations to pick up where the government left off and drive further economic expansion."

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

The paragraph discusses an article featured in the Reserve Bank of India's monthly bulletin, which highlights the consistent progress of the Indian economy in the first half of the financial year (FY24) and underscores the anticipation for increased capital expenditure by the corporate sector.

The sequence starts with sentence A, introducing the article featured in the RBI's monthly bulletin, which highlights the consistent progress of the Indian economy. Sentence D follows, discussing the expectation of increased capital expenditure by the corporate sector to boost the upcoming growth phase. Sentence B emphasizes the anticipation for this capital expenditure to further drive economic expansion. Finally, sentence E concludes by underscoring the need for the corporate sector to play a more significant role in investment, reducing the burden on the government.

So, the correct sequence is: A – D – B – E.

11. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) temerity, stashed

"Temerity" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means excessive confidence or boldness, especially when challenging something. In the context of the sentence, it highlights the extraordinary level of confidence or boldness required for a party leader to assert that she will fight the Lok Sabha elections solo.

"Stashed" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means stored or hidden away. In the context, it suggests that the odds or circumstances are heavily stacked or hidden against her.

So, the sentence can be completed as follows:

"It takes extraordinary temerity for a party leader to assert that she will fight the Lok Sabha elections solo when the cards are stashed against her."

This means that it requires an extraordinary level of confidence or boldness for a party leader to declare that she will contest the Lok Sabha elections independently, especially when the odds or circumstances are heavily against her.

a). courage, stacked: "Courage" in the first blank is a suitable term for bravery or boldness, but it doesn't convey the same sense of excessive confidence or boldness as "temerity" does.

"Stacked" in the second blank means arranged in a pile or stacked against someone, which aligns with the idea that the odds are heavily against her.

c). audacity, dealt: "Audacity" in the first blank means boldness or daring, which is similar in meaning to "temerity."

"Dealt" in the second blank means distributed or assigned, which doesn't convey the same sense of the odds being against her as "stashed" does.

d). resilience, shuffled: "Resilience" in the first blank means the ability to recover quickly from difficulties or toughness, which doesn't convey the same sense of excessive confidence or boldness as "temerity" does.

"Shuffled" in the second blank means rearranged or mixed up, which doesn't convey the same sense of the odds being against her as "stashed" does.

e). determination, drawn: "Determination" in the first blank means firmness of purpose or resolve, which is similar in meaning to "temerity."

"Drawn" in the second blank means selected or chosen, which doesn't convey the same sense of the odds being against her as "stashed" does.

skyn3t9@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In summary, option (b) "temerity, stashed" is the best choice for maintaining both the meaning and structure of the sentence, accurately conveying the extraordinary level of confidence required for a party leader to contest elections independently when the odds are heavily against her.

12. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) alacrity, embraced

"Alacrity" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means brisk and cheerful readiness. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that Nitish Kumar's action of dumping the INDIA alliance and joining the BJP-led NDA again was done with swift and eager readiness.

"Embraced" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means accepted or welcomed enthusiastically. In the context, it highlights Nitish Kumar's action of joining the BJP-led NDA again.

So, the sentence can be completed as follows:

"Nitish Kumar's inconstancy—the latest demonstration being the alacrity with which he dumped the INDIA alliance and embraced the BJP-led NDA again in a little over a year—was cruelly mocked on social media."

This means that Nitish Kumar's swift and enthusiastic decision to leave the INDIA alliance and rejoin the BJP-led NDA was met with ridicule on social media due to his perceived inconsistency.

a). hesitation, deserted: "Hesitation" in the first blank doesn't convey the same sense of swiftness as "alacrity" does. It means a delay or reluctance in taking action.

"Deserted" in the second blank means abandoned, which is suitable for the context of leaving the INDIA alliance, but it doesn't convey the same sense of enthusiastic acceptance as "embraced" does.

c). swiftness, jettisoned: "Swiftness" in the first blank is a suitable term for speed, but "alacrity" more precisely conveys the idea of eager readiness.

"Jettisoned" in the second blank means discarded or abandoned, which is suitable for the context of leaving the INDIA alliance, but it doesn't convey the same sense of enthusiastic acceptance as "embraced" does.

d). reluctance, joined: "Reluctance" in the first blank means unwillingness or hesitation, which doesn't convey the same sense of eager readiness as "alacrity" does.

"Joined" in the second blank is suitable for the context of joining the BJP-led NDA again, but it doesn't convey the same sense of enthusiastic acceptance as "embraced" does.

e). agility, abandoned: "Agility" in the first blank means the ability to move quickly and easily, which doesn't convey the same sense of eager readiness as "alacrity" does.

"Abandoned" in the second blank means left behind or discarded, which is suitable for the context of leaving the INDIA alliance, but it doesn't convey the same sense of enthusiastic acceptance as "embraced" does.

In summary, option (b) "alacrity, embraced" is the best choice for maintaining both the meaning and structure of the sentence, accurately conveying Nitish Kumar's swift and enthusiastic decision to rejoin the BJP-led NDA after leaving the INDIA alliance.

13. Questions

Answer: A

The correct answer is: a) besieged, sheer

"Besieged" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means surrounded by enemies or facing overwhelming challenges. In the context of the sentence, it highlights the situation where a party in opposition at the Centre is confronted with numerous challenges or difficulties.

"Sheer" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means nothing other than or complete. In the context, it suggests that the party must rely solely on the states it controls for survival.

So, the sentence can be completed as follows:

"It is a truism in Indian politics that a party consigned to the opposition at the Centre and besieged with challenges must turn to the states it controls for sheer survival."

This means that in Indian politics, it's widely acknowledged that a party facing challenges while in opposition at the Centre must rely solely on the states it governs for its very survival.

b). fraught, political: "Fraught" in the first blank means filled with or characterized by. While it conveys a sense of difficulty or tension, it doesn't convey the same sense of being surrounded by challenges as "besieged" does.

"Political" in the second blank is a reasonable choice, but it doesn't convey the same sense of complete reliance as "sheer" does.

c). endowed, financial: "Endowed" in the first blank means provided or supplied with, but it doesn't convey the sense of being surrounded by challenges as "besieged" does.

"Financial" in the second blank doesn't convey the same sense of complete reliance as "sheer" does.

d). aligned, strategic: "Aligned" in the first blank means in agreement or coordination with, but it doesn't convey the sense of being surrounded by challenges as "besieged" does.

"Strategic" in the second blank doesn't convey the same sense of complete reliance as "sheer" does.

e). riddled, overall: "Riddled" in the first blank means filled or permeated with something undesirable or problematic. While it conveys a sense of difficulty or challenge, it doesn't convey the same sense of being surrounded or overwhelmed as "besieged" does.

"Overall" in the second blank means taking everything into account or considering everything. While it suggests a comprehensive approach to survival, it doesn't convey the same sense of complete reliance as "sheer" does.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In summary, option (a) "besieged, sheer" is the best choice for maintaining both the meaning and structure of the sentence, accurately conveying the idea that a party in opposition at the Centre, facing numerous challenges, must rely solely on the states it controls for survival.

14. Questions

Answer: B

The correct answer is: b) unencumbered, placate

"Unencumbered" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means not burdened or restricted by something. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that the developing world has a growing space to express itself without being hindered or restricted.

"Placate" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means to pacify or calm someone down, often by making concessions or compromises. In the context, it implies that there's no need for the developing world to appease or satisfy any particular global hegemon.

So, the completed sentence would be: "The Voice of the Global South summit under India's G20 presidency signified the growing space for the developing world to express itself, unencumbered by the need to placate one global hegemon or another."

This means that the summit represented a significant opportunity for the developing world to assert its voice without feeling the pressure to satisfy the interests of any dominant global power.

a). unhindered, accommodate: While "unhindered" fits well in the first blank, "accommodate" in the second blank doesn't quite capture the idea of needing to satisfy or appease a global hegemon.

c). unfettered, appease: "Unfettered" works well for the first blank, but "appease" in the second blank conveys a similar meaning to "placate" but is slightly less appropriate in this context.

d). hampered, cater: "Hampered" is opposite in meaning to what is intended in the first blank, and "cater" in the second blank doesn't convey the idea of needing to satisfy or appease a global hegemon.

e). unrestrained, mollify: "Unrestrained" fits well in the first blank, but "mollify" in the second blank, while similar to "placate," is not as fitting in this context.

In summary, option (b) "unencumbered, placate" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence.

15. Questions

Answer: C

The correct answer is: c) reiterated, reluctance

"Reiterated" is the appropriate word for the first blank. It means to state or do something again, especially to emphasize it. In the context of the sentence, it suggests that global confidence in India has been affirmed or emphasized, even by credit rating agencies.

"Reluctance" is the suitable word for the second blank. It means unwillingness or hesitation to do something. In the context, it implies that despite credit rating agencies being hesitant or unwilling to upgrade India's sovereign rating, global confidence in India has still been reinforced.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

So, the completed sentence would be: "Global confidence in India has been reiterated even by credit rating agencies, despite their reluctance to upgrade its sovereign rating."

This means that even though credit rating agencies have been hesitant to improve India's sovereign rating, confidence in India's economy has still been affirmed or emphasized on a global scale.

a). bolstered, haste: "Bolstered" means strengthened or supported, which doesn't convey the same sense as "reiterated" in emphasizing the existing confidence.

"Haste" refers to excessive speed or urgency, which doesn't align with the context of reluctance on the part of credit rating agencies.

b). underscored, eagerness: "Underscored" means emphasized or highlighted, which is similar in meaning to "reiterated."

"Eagerness" refers to enthusiasm or willingness, which doesn't convey the same sense as "reluctance" on the part of credit rating agencies.

d). questioned, hesitance: "Questioned" means doubted or challenged, which doesn't convey the same sense as "reiterated" in emphasizing existing confidence.

"Hesitance" is similar in meaning to "reluctance" but is less commonly used.

e). reinforced, inclination: "Reinforced" means strengthened or supported, which is similar in meaning to "reiterated."

"Inclination" refers to a tendency or preference, which doesn't convey the same sense as "reluctance" on the part of credit rating agencies.

In summary, option (c) "reiterated, reluctance" provides the best fit for maintaining both the coherence and meaning of the sentence.

16. Questions

Answer: C

"Entrenched" specifically implies that something is firmly established within a system or structure, often with the implication that it is difficult to change or remove. In the context of Article 239AA, it emphasizes that the representative form of government for Delhi is firmly embedded within the constitutional framework.

"Inculcated" generally means to instil or teach something persistently or repeatedly until it becomes a part of someone's habits, beliefs, or understanding. While it also implies a degree of permanence, it focuses more on the process of instilling or embedding something rather than its integration within a formal system or structure.

So, in the context, "entrenched" would be more suitable because it directly conveys the idea of something being firmly established within the constitution, whereas "inculcated" might not fully capture the legal and institutional permanence implied by "entrenched."

The Correct sentence will be: "Article 239AA, which conferred a special status on the National Capital Territory of Delhi and constitutionally entrenched a representative form of government, was incorporated in the Constitution in the spirit of federalism so that the residents of the capital city would have a voice in how they are governed."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

17. Questions

Answer: A

"Retribution" refers to retaliatory or punitive action taken in response to a perceived offense, while "amends" typically refers to actions taken to make up for a mistake or wrongdoing.

In the given context, "retribution" refers to a retaliatory or punitive action taken in response to a perceived offense or wrongdoing. Here, "Israel's war of retribution" suggests that Israel initiated a military campaign as a form of retaliation or punishment in response to a perceived provocation or threat. It implies that Israel's actions were motivated by a desire to seek revenge or to respond to previous actions or events.

The phrase "war of retribution" conveys the idea that the conflict was driven by a desire for vengeance or to right perceived wrongs, rather than solely for strategic or defensive purposes. It implies a cycle of violence or tit-for-tat actions rather than efforts towards resolution or peace.

The Correct sentence will be: "When Israel's war of retribution started, the silence of the PM and his government's reluctance to issue a similar statement of support for the beleaguered people of Palestine marked a departure from our historical commitment to the two-state solution for Israel and Palestine."

18. Questions

Answer: B

In this context, "reflection" refers to a manifestation or representation of a particular situation or condition. Specifically, it suggests that the futile attempts by the State Bank of India (SBI) to keep the details of the electoral bonds from public view, despite a Supreme Court order, serve as a visible example or indication of a broader issue or trend. The sentence implies that the actions of the SBI are emblematic of a larger problem within institutions of power, where they may choose indefensible positions that damage their own reputation. Thus, "reflection" here highlights how the situation involving the SBI is illustrative of deeper issues within institutions and their decision-making processes.

On the other hand, "speculation" refers to forming opinions or making guesses about something without having all the facts. The word "speculation" in place of "reflection" would suggest that the actions of the SBI are merely a subject of conjecture or guesswork, rather than being a visible representation of a broader problem. It would weaken the assertion made in the sentence about the significance of the SBI's actions.

Therefore, "speculation" would not accurately convey the intended meaning in this context.

The Correct sentence will be: "The futile attempts by India's largest bank, the State Bank of India (SBI), to keep the details of the electoral bonds from public eye unmindful of an order of the Supreme Court of India are a sad reflection of how the powers that be make historic institutions opt for indefensible positions and in the process damage their own reputation."

19. Questions

Answer: C

"Promise" in the given sentence conveys the idea that the concept of "One Nation, One Election" holds potential or likelihood for achieving positive outcomes such as enhancing governance efficiency and fostering economic growth. It suggests that there are advantages associated with the proposed reform.

"Infringement," on the other hand, refers to the violation or encroachment upon rights, laws, or boundaries. The word "infringement" in place of "promise" would completely change the meaning of the sentence. It would imply that the concept of "One Nation, One Election" poses a threat or encroachment upon certain rights or principles, which is not the intended meaning in this context.

Therefore, "infringement" would not accurately convey the intended idea of potential benefits or positive outcomes associated with the proposed electoral reform.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The Correct sentence will be: “The recent recommendations by the Ramnath Kovind panel advocating for simultaneous state and national elections in India mark a significant milestone in the ongoing discourse surrounding electoral reform. While the concept of “One Nation, One Election” holds promise for enhancing governance efficiency and fostering economic growth, its successful implementation hinges on a delicate balance of political consensus and pragmatic considerations.”

20. Questions

Answer: D

"Underscore" means to emphasize or highlight the significance of something. It suggests that the challenges mentioned in the sentence serve to highlight or emphasize the complexity of the global landscape.

"Overlook," on the other hand, means to fail to notice or consider something, or to disregard its significance. The word "overlook" in place of "underscore" would convey the opposite meaning. It would imply that these challenges are being ignored or not given enough attention, which is not the intended meaning in this context.

Therefore, "overlook" would not accurately convey the idea of emphasizing or highlighting the significance of the challenges mentioned in the sentence.

The Correct sentence will be: “In today’s global arena, myriad challenges ranging from geopolitical conflicts like the Russia-Ukraine tensions to the pervasive threat of transnational terrorism, and the assertive global ambitions of China, underscore the complex landscape we navigate.”

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

The GST revenue numbers that are released on the first day of every month have become barometers to assess the state of the Indian economy. The numbers for February 2024 are filled with positivity. The gross Goods and Services Tax (GST) revenue collected is Rs 1,68,337 crore, marking a robust 12.5% increase compared to that in the same month in 2023. This growth was driven by a 13.9% rise in GST from domestic transactions and an 8.5% increase in GST from import of goods. GST revenue net of refunds for February is Rs 1.51 lakh crore which is a growth of 13.6% over that for the same period last year. As of February 2024, the total gross GST collection for the current fiscal year stands at Rs 18.40 lakh crore, which is 11.7 per cent higher than the collection for the same period in FY 2022-23. The average monthly gross collection for FY 2023-24 is Rs 1.67 lakh crore, exceeding the Rs 1.5 lakh crore collected in the previous year's corresponding period. GST revenue net of refunds as of February 2024 for the current fiscal year is Rs 16.36 lakh crore which is a growth of 13 per cent over that for the same period last year. Maharashtra, Karnataka, Gujarat, Tamil Nadu and Haryana are the toppers in terms of contribution to GST revenues — together they give about 46% of GST revenues. While the growth in GST revenues is to be welcomed, studies have shown that when mapped with GDP growth and adjusted for inflation, GST revenues could be lagging. The Karnataka government recently protested that they have been deprived of Rs 59,274 crore of GST revenues — as against a shortfall of Rs 1,65,532 crore, they were compensated only Rs 1,06,258 crore. Since the GST revenue data given every month follows a template, we will have to analyze only data that is published due to which an exact indicator of the performance of GST vis-à-vis the erstwhile regime and adjusted for economic factors such as growth in GDP and inflation cannot be done. One of the contributing factors to the uptick in GST revenues could also be the aggressive assessments being made by assessing officers. "Some revenue at any cost" seems to be the guiding mantra for completing assessments. The law on some areas such as availing input tax credits on the concept of matching invoices (3B vs 2B) has been interpreted differently by different appellate authorities. GST appellate tribunals are expected to start functioning only by the latter half of this year. The tribunals are going to be burdened with a huge opening balance of cases which could delay new appeals that would be filed once the tribunals are up and running. This could be a good time for the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) to introduce a 'GST settlement scheme' across the board for all GST taxpayers. Any such scheme should be attractive enough for taxpayers to opt for it instead of going in for litigation. With elections to be held soon, the focus of the government may not be on GST. Even if the GST Council does meet before the elections, it would be to ratify some inconsequential decisions. Decisions on big-ticket items such as the levy of GST on corporate guarantees would have to wait till the elections are over. Many companies operating in the infrastructure sector have filed writ petitions seeking a review of the levy of GST on corporate guarantees. The structure of the sector is for holding companies to give guarantees to subsidiaries that are set up for each project as per the diktat of regulators such as the National Highway Authority of India. The GST department does not appear to have understood the intricacies of this sector and is demanding GST on the entire annuity receivable though it is spread over a period of time. The amount on which GST is chargeable in the case of a corporate guarantee — 1% of the value of the guarantee or the actual consideration charged whichever is higher — is also considered to be too high considering the fact that in the infrastructure sector, guarantees are given as a matter of comfort for banks and no actual service is being performed. GST laws have been a roller-coaster ride since July 2017. There has not been any area of the law that has been amended multiple times over the past six years. In addition to introducing a settlement scheme, the government should also form a task force that could take an independent relook at some areas of the law that are turning out to be pain points for the taxpayers. GST is here to stay and may not be a good and simple tax any longer. The least that taxpayers are seeking is for the tax to be logical.

Which of the following suggestion could be a contributing factor to the increase in GST revenues?

a. Decline in GDP growth
b. Aggressive assessments by assessing officers
c. Reduction in inflation
d. Delay in GST appellate tribunal functioning
e. Increase in import duties

2. Questions

Which of the following is the cause behind the Karnataka government's protest regarding GST revenues?

a. Being overcompensated for the shortfall
b. Not receiving any compensation
c. Deprivation of a significant amount of GST revenues
d. Experiencing a surplus in GST collections
e. Non-compliance with GST regulations

3. Questions

What recommendation does the passage suggest regarding the GST laws?

a. Frequent amendments for better clarity
b. Introduction of a settlement scheme
c. Removal of GST for infrastructure companies
d. Immediate ratification of decisions by the GST Council
e. Holding off any changes until after the elections

4. Questions

What is the average monthly gross collection for the fiscal year 2023-24?

a. Rs. 1.5 lakh crore
b. Rs. 1.67 lakh crore
c. Rs. 13.6 lakh crore
d. Rs. 16.36 lakh crore
e. Rs. 1,06,258 crore

sky5sup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

5. Questions

Which states contribute approximately 46% of GST revenues?

a. Maharashtra, Karnataka, Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, and Haryana

b. Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Bihar, West Bengal, and Odisha

c. Delhi, Punjab, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh, and Telangana

d. Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Assam, and Himachal Pradesh

e. Jammu and Kashmir, Uttarakhand, Goa, Manipur, and Meghalaya

6. Questions

What is the total gross GST collection for the current fiscal year as of February 2024?

a. Rs. 18.40 lakh crore

b. Rs. 16.36 lakh crore

c. Rs. 1.67 lakh crore

d. Rs. 1,06,258 crore

e. Rs. 1.5 lakh crore

7. Questions

What is the percentage increase in Gross Goods and Services Tax (GST) revenue for February 2024 compared to the same month in 2023?

a. 11.7%

b. 12.5%

c. 13.6%

d. 13.9%

e. 8.5%

8. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into five parts, only one part of the sentence is correct. You have to mark the part of the sentence that is error free.

He had wrote a heartfelt letter (A)/ for express his gratitude for the unwavering support (B)/ he had received during challenging times, (C)/ hopes that his words would (D)/ conveying the depth of his appreciation (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

d. D

e. E

9. Questions

She has been trying diligent (A)/ to mastering the intricate dance routine, (B)/ practicing tirelessly for hours (C)/ each day in a unwavering (D)/ pursuit for perfection (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

10. Questions

The marathon, gruelling test of endurance, (A)/ have been running for several hours, (B)/ challenge the participants to push (C)/ their physical limits and (D)/ persevered through the demanding course (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

11. Questions

I have read an interesting book yesterday, (A)/ and it captivates me with its (B)/ compelling narrative, thought-provoking themes, (C)/ and well-developed characters, make it (D)/ an unforgettable literature experience (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

12. Questions

He boasted about his new job, (A)/ but upon closer inspecting, (B)/ it was revealing to be nothing else (C)/ than a routine desk position with (D)/ little room for growing or excitement (E).

a. A

b. B

c. C

d. D

e. E

13. Questions

In each of the following questions, a highlighted word is given and used in the three statements. You have to identify in which of the following statements the word is incorrectly used, and mark it as your answer.

EXONERATE

I). After a thorough investigation, new evidence emerged that helped to exonerate the wrongly accused individual, leading to their release from prison.

II). The security footage was crucial in exonerating the suspect, as it clearly showed that they were not present at the scene of the crime.

III). The evidence presented during the trial served to exonerate the defendant, proving beyond a doubt that he was guilty of the crime.

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

14. Questions

TRAVESTY

I). The unfair treatment of the employees during the restructuring process was a travesty of justice, leaving many without proper compensation.

II). The seamless integration of the artist's work into the project was a travesty, highlighting the collaborative efforts and enhancing the overall creativity.

III). The unauthorized use of the artist's work without giving credit was a travesty, undermining the value of creativity and intellectual property.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

15. Questions

VICINITY

I). The restaurant was located in the vicinity of the city centre, approximately a few hundred miles away.

II). The grocery store is conveniently located in the vicinity of the residential area, making it easily accessible to the residents.

III). In the vicinity of the national park, visitors can enjoy the tranquillity of nature and observe diverse wildlife in their natural habitat.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

16. Questions

PROBITY

I). Her probity in handling confidential information was evident as she casually shared sensitive details with her friends.

II). Despite his questionable financial dealings and lack of transparency, he was known for his probity in business.

III). The politician was known for his probity, always conducting himself with honesty and integrity in both his personal and professional life.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

17. Questions

INDIGNATION

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

I). The employee expressed her indignation at the unfair treatment, demanding a resolution to the issue.

II). The journalist's article sparked widespread indignation as it exposed the corruption within the government.

III). Upon hearing the heartwarming story, she couldn't contain her indignation and burst into tears of joy.

sky53up@gmail.com

a. Only I

b. Only II

c. Only III

d. Both I and II

e. Both II and III

18. Questions

A sentence or a part of the sentence is highlighted. Four alternatives marked as (A), (B), (C) and (D) are given as substitutions for the highlighted part, one of which will improve the sentence. Choose the correct alternative. In case no improvement is needed, choose the option "No improvement is required" i.e. (E).

After patiently waiting at the bus stop, it was finally time to get by the congested bus and embark on the journey home, finding an empty seat amidst the hustle and bustle of fellow commuters.

a. time to get on the crowded bus

b. time to get into the congested bus

c. time to get over the crowded bus

d. time to get through the overcrowded bus

e. No improvement required

19. Questions

Before submitting the important document, she strictly checked over every aspect, ensuring that there were no errors or omissions that could potentially impact the accuracy and effectiveness of the information presented.

a. she thoroughly checked out every item

b. she accurately checked back every aspect

c. she carefully checked in every component

d. she meticulously checked over every detail

e. No improvement required

20. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

As the afternoon turned into evening, the group of friends decided to hang around the cozy coffee shop, sipping their drinks and engaging in animated conversations, reluctant to leave the comforting atmosphere of shared laughter and camaraderie.

a. the batch of friends agreed to hang on

b. the gang of friends decreed to hang out

c. the cluster of friends arranged to hang on

d. the community of friends concluded to hang around

e. No improvement required

21. Questions

In the fast-paced world of business, the ambitious entrepreneur was committed to take on the market, strategically acquiring competitors and implementing innovative strategies to establish their company as the dominant force in the industry.

a. decided to take up the market

b. fixed to take out the market

c. determined to take over the market

d. approved to take on the market

e. No improvement required

22. Questions

Realizing his dream of becoming an astronaut, Mark diligently pursued his education and training, controlling numerous criticisms to go ahead the opportunity to join a groundbreaking space mission that would take him beyond the confines of Earth's atmosphere.

a. getting numerous disputes to go off the opportunity

b. controlling numerous objections to go through the opportunity

c. overcoming numerous challenges to go after the opportunity

d. taking numerous exceptions to go over the opportunity

e. No improvement required

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

The passage mentions that one of the contributing factors to the increase in GST revenues could be the "aggressive assessments being made by assessing officers." This implies that the assessing officers, responsible for evaluating and determining tax liabilities, might be adopting a proactive and assertive approach in their assessments, leading to higher GST collections. The phrase "Some revenue at any cost" in the passage suggests that the officers might be prioritizing revenue generation even if it requires taking stringent measures during assessments.

a). Decline in GDP growth: This option is not supported by the passage. The passage does not mention a decline in GDP growth as a contributing factor to the increase in GST revenues. In fact, it highlights positive growth in GST revenues.

c). Reduction in inflation: The passage does not suggest that a reduction in inflation is a contributing factor to the increase in GST revenues. The focus is more on aggressive assessments by officers and other factors, but inflation is not discussed in this context.

d). Delay in GST appellate tribunal functioning: While the passage does mention the potential delay in the functioning of GST appellate tribunals, it does not indicate that this delay is a contributing factor to the increase in GST revenues. The delay is discussed more as a challenge that could lead to a backlog of cases.

e). Increase in import duties: The passage does not attribute the increase in GST revenues to an increase in import duties. The growth in GST revenue is mentioned to be driven by a rise in GST from domestic transactions and an increase in GST from the import of goods.

In summary, among the given options, (b) Aggressive assessments by assessing officers is the one that the passage explicitly suggests as a contributing factor to the increase in GST revenues. The other options are not supported by the information provided in the passage.

2. Questions

Answer: C

Deprivation of a significant amount of GST revenues. The passage mentions that the Karnataka government recently protested, claiming that they have been "deprived of Rs 59,274 crore of GST revenues." This indicates that the government is expressing dissatisfaction with the compensation they received, asserting that the shortfall in GST revenues was not adequately compensated.

a). Being overcompensated for the shortfall:

This option is not supported by the passage. The passage indicates that the Karnataka government protested because they felt they had been "deprived of Rs 59,274 crore of GST revenues," suggesting that they believe the compensation was insufficient, not excessive.

b). Not receiving any compensation:

This option is not accurate according to the passage. The Karnataka government did receive compensation, but their protest revolves around the perceived inadequacy of the compensation given the claimed deprivation of GST revenues.

d). Experiencing a surplus in GST collections:

The passage does not suggest that the Karnataka government experienced a surplus in GST collections. On the contrary, it highlights the protest based on the perception of deprivation, indicating that there was a shortfall in revenues according to the government's claims.

e). Non-compliance with GST regulations:

The passage does not mention non-compliance with GST regulations as the cause of the Karnataka government's protest. The focus is on the amount of compensation and the perceived deprivation of GST revenues.

In summary, among the given options, (c) Deprivation of a significant amount of GST revenues is the one supported by the passage as the reason for the Karnataka government's protest. The other options are not suitable with the information provided.

Tg: @NextGenBankers
skyguru@gmail.com

3. Questions

Answer: B

Introduction of a settlement scheme. The passage suggests that, in addition to introducing a settlement scheme, the government should also form a task force to take an independent relook at some areas of the GST law that are turning out to be pain points for taxpayers. This implies that the passage recommends the introduction of a settlement scheme as a measure to address issues in the GST laws.

a). Frequent amendments for better clarity:

The passage does not explicitly recommend frequent amendments for better clarity. Instead, it suggests forming a task force to take an independent relook at some areas of the law, indicating a more targeted and strategic approach to address specific issues rather than making frequent general amendments.

c). Removal of GST for infrastructure companies:

The passage does not recommend the removal of GST for infrastructure companies. It discusses the challenges faced by companies in the infrastructure sector regarding the levy of GST on corporate guarantees, but it doesn't propose the removal of GST for these companies.

d). Immediate ratification of decisions by the GST Council:

The passage does not explicitly recommend the immediate ratification of decisions by the GST Council. It mentions that, with elections approaching, even if the GST Council meets, it might be for inconsequential decisions, and major decisions might have to wait until after the elections.

e). Holding off any changes until after the elections:

While the passage mentions that the focus of the government may not be on GST due to upcoming elections, it doesn't explicitly recommend holding off any changes until after the elections. Instead, it suggests introducing a settlement scheme and forming a task force to address certain issues in the GST laws.

In summary, among the given options, (b) Introduction of a settlement scheme is the one supported by the passage as a recommendation regarding the GST laws. The other options are not explicitly recommended or discussed in the passage.

4. Questions

Answer: B

The passage mentions, "The average monthly gross collection for FY 2023-24 is Rs 1.67 lakh crore, exceeding the Rs 1.5 lakh crore collected in the previous year's corresponding period." This statement indicates that the average monthly gross collection for the fiscal year 2023-24 is Rs 1.67 lakh crore.

Options (a), (c), (d), and (e) are not supported by the information in the passage:

a). Rs 1.5 lakh crore: This figure is mentioned as the monthly gross collection in the previous year's corresponding period, not the average for the fiscal year 2023-24.

c). Rs 13.6 lakh crore: This figure is not mentioned as the average monthly gross collection for the fiscal year 2023-24.

d). Rs 16.36 lakh crore: This figure is mentioned as GST revenue net of refunds, not the average monthly

sky13sun@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

gross collection.

e). Rs 1,06,258 crore: This figure is not mentioned as the average monthly gross collection for the fiscal year 2023-24.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) Rs 1.67 lakh crore, as explicitly stated in the passage.

5. Questions

Answer: A

Maharashtra, Karnataka, Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, and Haryana. The passage states, "Maharashtra, Karnataka, Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, and Haryana are the toppers in terms of contribution to GST revenues — together they give about 46% of GST revenues." This information explicitly indicates that these five states contribute approximately 46% of GST revenues.

Options (b), (c), (d), and (e) are not supported by the information in the passage:

b). Uttar Pradesh, Rajasthan, Bihar, West Bengal, and Odisha: The passage does not mention these states as contributing approximately 46% of GST revenues.

c). Delhi, Punjab, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh, and Telangana: These states are not mentioned as the top contributors to GST revenues.

d). Madhya Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Jharkhand, Assam, and Himachal Pradesh: The passage does not specify these states as major contributors to GST revenues.

e). Jammu and Kashmir, Uttarakhand, Goa, Manipur, and Meghalaya: These states are not mentioned as contributing approximately 46% of GST revenues.

In summary, the correct answer is (a) Maharashtra, Karnataka, Gujarat, Tamil Nadu, and Haryana, as explicitly stated in the passage.

6. Questions

Answer: A

The passage mentions, "As of February 2024, the total gross GST collection for the current fiscal year stands at Rs 18.40 lakh crore." This information provides the total gross GST collection for the fiscal year 2023-24 as of February 2024.

Options (b), (c), (d), and (e) are not supported by the information in the passage:

b). Rs 16.36 lakh crore: This figure is mentioned as GST revenue net of refunds, not the total gross GST collection.

c). Rs 1.67 lakh crore: This figure is mentioned as the average monthly gross collection, not the total gross GST collection.

d). Rs 1,06,258 crore: This figure is mentioned as a specific compensation amount to Karnataka, not the total gross GST collection.

e). Rs 1.5 lakh crore: This figure is mentioned as the monthly gross collection in the previous year's corresponding period, not the total gross GST collection.

In summary, the correct answer is (a) Rs 18.40 lakh crore, as explicitly stated in the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

7. Questions

Answer: B

The passage mentions, "The gross Goods and Services Tax (GST) revenue collected is Rs 1,68,337 crore, marking a robust 12.5% increase compared to that in the same month in 2023." This information explicitly provides the percentage increase in Gross GST revenue for February 2024 compared to the same month in 2023 as 12.5%.

Options (a), (c), (d), and (e) are not supported by the information in the passage:

a). 11.7%: This figure is mentioned as the percentage higher total gross GST collection for the current fiscal year compared to the same period in FY 2022-23.

c). 13.6%: This figure is mentioned as the growth in GST revenue net of refunds for February compared to the same period last year.

d). 13.9%: This figure is not mentioned as the percentage increase in GST revenue for February 2024 compared to the same month in 2023.

e). 8.5%: This figure is mentioned as the percentage increase in GST from the import of goods, not the overall percentage increase in Gross GST revenue.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) 12.5%, as stated in the passage.

8. Questions

Answer: C

A). "He had wrote a heartfelt letter" - This part has a verb tense error. The correct past participle form of "write" is "written," so it should be "He had written a heartfelt letter."

B). "for express his gratitude for the unwavering support" - This part has a preposition error. It should be "to express his gratitude for the unwavering support" to convey the intended meaning.

C). "he had received during challenging times," - This part is grammatically correct. It provides information about the support he had received.

D). "hopes that his words would" - The correct form here should be "hoping that his words would" for proper verb tense consistency.

E). "conveying the depth of his appreciation" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "convey the depth of his appreciation" for proper verb form.

So, the correct choice is C) " he had received during challenging times ". The errors are in parts A, B, D and E.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

The corrected sentence is: "He had written a heartfelt letter to express his gratitude for the unwavering support he had received during challenging times, hoping that his words would convey the depth of his appreciation."

9. Questions

Answer: C

A). "She has been trying diligent" - This part has an adjective form error. It should be "She has been trying diligently" to use the adverb form that modifies the verb "trying."

B). "to mastering the intricate dance routine," - This part has an infinitive form error. It should be "to master the intricate dance routine" to use the correct infinitive form after "to."

C). "practicing tirelessly for hours" - This part is grammatically correct. It describes how she has been practicing.

D). "each day in a unwavering" - This part has an article error. It should be "each day in an unwavering" to use the correct indefinite article before "unwavering."

E). "pursuit for perfection" - This part has a preposition error. It should be "pursuit of perfection" to convey the intended meaning.

So, the correct choice is C) " practicing tirelessly for hours ". The errors are in parts A, B, D and E.

The corrected sentence is: "She has been trying diligently to master the intricate dance routine, practicing tirelessly for hours each day in an unwavering pursuit of perfection."

10. Questions

Answer: D

A). "The marathon, gruelling test of endurance," - The article "a" is necessary before "gruelling test of endurance" to indicate that the marathon is one instance of such a test.

B). "have been running for several hours," - This part has a subject-verb agreement error. It should be "has been running" to match the singular subject "test."

C). "challenge the participants to push" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "challenging the participants to push" to maintain proper subject-verb agreement.

D). "their physical limits and" - This part is grammatically correct. It provides additional information about the challenge faced by the participants.

E). "persevered through the demanding course" - This part has a verb tense error. It should be "persevere through the demanding course" to maintain proper verb tense agreement.

So, the correct choice is D) " their physical limits and ". The errors are in parts A, B, C and E.

The corrected sentence is: " The marathon, a gruelling test of endurance, has been running for several hours, challenging the participants to push their physical limits and persevere through the demanding course."

11. Questions

Answer: C

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

A). "I have read an interesting book yesterday," - This part has a tense error. The present perfect tense "have read" is not suitable when specifying a particular time in the past like "yesterday." It should be the simple past tense "I read."

B). "and it captivates me with its" - This part has a tense error. It should be "and it captivated me with its" to maintain the past tense.

C). "compelling narrative, thought-provoking themes," - This part is grammatically correct. It lists the features of the book.

D). "and well-developed characters, make it" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "making it" to properly connect the list of features.

E). "an unforgettable literature experience" - The correct form should be "an unforgettable literary experience" to properly convey the intended meaning.

So, the correct choice is C) " compelling narrative, thought-provoking themes ". The errors are in parts A, B, D and E.

The corrected sentence is: " I read an interesting book yesterday, and it captivated me with its compelling narrative, thought-provoking themes, and well-developed characters, making it an unforgettable literary experience."

12. Questions

Answer: A

A). "He boasted about his new job," - This part is grammatically correct. It introduces the action of boasting about a new job.

B). "but upon closer inspecting," - The correct phrase should be "but upon closer inspection," using the noun form instead of the gerund.

C). "it was revealing to be nothing else" - This part has a verb form error. It should be "it was revealed to be nothing else" for proper verb form.

D). "than a routine desk position with" - The error here is in the choice of conjunction. The correct conjunction to use in this context is "but" rather than "than." "But" is used to contrast or introduce a contradictory element.

E). "little room for growing or excitement" - The error here is in the term used for describing the availability of opportunities. The more appropriate term is "growth" rather than "growing." "growth" in this context refers to the potential for advancement and development.

So, the correct choice is A) " He boasted about his new job ". The errors are in parts B, C, D and E.

The corrected sentence is " He boasted about his new job, but upon closer inspection, it was revealed to be nothing else but a routine desk position with little room for growth or excitement. "

13. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "exonerate" is correctly used to convey the idea of clearing someone from blame or wrongdoing, particularly in the context of being wrongly accused or convicted.

II). In this sentence, "exonerating" is used correctly to describe the role of the security footage in proving the innocence of the suspect.

III). In this sentence, "exonerate" is used incorrectly. The sentence contradicts itself, as it first mentions that the evidence exonerates the defendant (clears him of guilt) and then states that the evidence proves he was guilty. A more appropriate term might be "incriminate" or "prove."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, Sentences I and II use exonerate in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option c) Only III is the correct choice.

14. Questions

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "travesty" is correctly used to describe the unjust and disgraceful treatment of the employees, emphasizing the violation of justice in the situation.

II). In this sentence, "travesty" is used incorrectly. The sentence suggests a positive and successful integration, which contradicts the usual negative connotation of "travesty." A more suitable term might be "triumph" or "success."

III). In this sentence, "travesty" is used correctly to express the injustice and violation of the artist's rights through the unauthorized use of their work.

So, Sentences I and III use travesty in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option b) Only II is the correct choice.

15. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, the usage of "vicinity" is incorrect. "Vicinity" typically refers to a nearby or surrounding area, and stating that the restaurant is a few hundred miles away contradicts the meaning of the term. A more accurate phrase might be "far from" or "at a considerable distance from."

II). In this sentence, "vicinity" is correctly used to refer to the nearby or surrounding area of the residential neighbourhood where the grocery store is situated.

III). In this sentence, "vicinity" is correctly used to convey the nearby area around the national park where visitors can experience the beauty of nature and observe wildlife.

So, Sentences II and III use vicinity in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option a) Only I is the correct choice.

16. Questions

Answer: D

I). In this sentence, "probity" is used incorrectly. "Probity" implies honesty and integrity, but the sentence suggests the opposite—a lack of discretion and proper handling of confidential information. A more appropriate term might be "lack of probity" or "lack of integrity."

II). In this sentence, "probity" is used incorrectly. "Probity" refers to honesty, integrity, and uprightness, so describing someone with questionable financial dealings as having probity contradicts the usual meaning of the word. A more suitable term might be "lack of probity" or "questionable ethics."

III). In this sentence, "probity" is correctly used to describe the politician's quality of honesty and adherence to high moral principles.

So, Sentence III uses probity in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option d) Both I and II is the correct choice.

17. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "indignation" is correctly used to convey the employee's strong displeasure and resentment in response to the perceived unfair treatment.

II). In this sentence, "indignation" is appropriately used to describe the public's strong and justified anger or displeasure upon learning about the corruption revealed in the journalist's article.

III). In this sentence, "indignation" is used incorrectly. "Indignation" typically refers to a feeling of anger or resentment, which doesn't align with the context of tears of joy. A more suitable term might be "emotion" or "happiness."

So, Sentences I and II use indignation in a grammatically correct and contextually meaningful manner.

Therefore, option c) Only III is the correct choice.

18. Questions

Answer: A

The phrase "time to get on the crowded bus" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea of boarding the bus. "Get on" is a common expression used for entering a mode of transportation like a bus.

Options (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or are less idiomatic:

Option (b) "time to get into the congested bus" is acceptable, but "get on" is more commonly used for buses and other forms of transportation.

Option (c) "time to get over the crowded bus" changes the meaning. "Get over" typically means to overcome a difficulty or obstacle, which is not applicable in the context of boarding a bus.

Option (d) "time to get through the overcrowded bus" changes the meaning. "Get through" implies moving through a space, which is not the intended action here.

Therefore, option (a) "time to get on the crowded bus" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

19. Questions

Answer: D

The phrase "she meticulously checked over every detail" is idiomatic and conveys the idea that she carefully examined each aspect or element of the document. "Meticulously" emphasizes a high level of attention to detail.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Options (a), (b), and (c) introduce variations that either change the meaning or use less idiomatic expressions:

Option (a) "she thoroughly checked out every item" changes the meaning by introducing the term "checked out," which implies a different type of examination.

Option (b) "she accurately checked back every aspect" introduces the term "checked back," which is not idiomatic in this context.

Option (c) "she carefully checked in every component" uses the term "checked in," which is not idiomatic for examining details in this context.

Therefore, option (d) "she meticulously checked over every detail" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

20. Questions

Answer: E

The original sentence is well-phrased and effectively conveys the intended meaning. The phrase "decided to hang around" is idiomatic and suits the context of friends enjoying each other's company at a coffee shop.

Options (a), (b), (c), and (d) introduce variations that are either less idiomatic, change the meaning, or use awkward phrasing:

Option (a) "the batch of friends agreed to hang on" introduces a less common term for a group of friends ("batch") and disrupts the idiomatic expression.

Option (b) "the gang of friends decreed to hang out" changes the tone and formality of the sentence, and "decreed" is too formal for this context.

Option (c) "the cluster of friends arranged to hang on" uses an unusual term for a group of friends ("cluster") and disrupts the idiomatic expression.

Option (d) "the community of friends concluded to hang around" introduces a more formal term for a group of friends ("community") and changes the tone.

Therefore, option (e) "No improvement required" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

21. Questions

Answer: C

The phrase "determined to take over the market" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the entrepreneur's commitment to achieving dominance in the industry. "Take over" in this context means to gain control or become the dominant force.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning, use less idiomatic expressions, or disrupt the intended message:

Option (a) "decided to take up the market" does not convey the same sense of gaining control or dominance as "take over."

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Option (b) "fixed to take out the market" introduces a different meaning. "Take out" typically means to remove or eliminate, which is not suitable in this context.

Option (d) "approved to take on the market" introduces a less idiomatic expression. "Take on" can mean to confront or challenge, but it doesn't convey the idea of establishing dominance.

Therefore, option (c) "determined to take over the market" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

22. Questions

Answer: C

The phrase "overcoming numerous challenges" is idiomatic and effectively conveys the idea that Mark faced and successfully dealt with various difficulties or obstacles. The word "after" in "to go after the opportunity" indicates that Mark pursued the opportunity, making the sentence clear and coherent.

Options (a), (b), and (d) introduce variations that either change the meaning or use less idiomatic phrasing:

Option (a) "getting numerous disputes to go off the opportunity" changes the meaning and is less clear.

Option (b) "controlling numerous objections to go through the opportunity" introduces a different concept ("controlling objections") and is less idiomatic.

Option (d) "taking numerous exceptions to go over the opportunity" changes the meaning and is less clear.

Therefore, option (c) "overcoming numerous challenges to go after the opportunity" is the correct choice for maintaining proper grammar and conveying the intended meaning effectively.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

In the following passage, some of the words have been highlighted in bold. Read the passage and try to understand what it wants to convey. Then replace the highlighted words with the correct option in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually correct. In any case the highlighted word is given correctly, then mark 'No Improvement required' as the answer.

The RBI's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) has prudently opted to persist with its objective of 'ensuring that inflation progressively aligns to the target' by keeping benchmark interest rates unchanged, and sticking with its stance of 'withdrawal of accommodation'. With a 5-1 majority, it has committed to keeping monetary policy exceptionally (A) disinflationary so as to anchor inflation expectations, especially at a time when 'large and repetitive price shocks are interrupting the pace of disinflation'. On the rationale to leave the repo rate unchanged at 6.5% for a sixth straight meeting, Governor Shaktikanta Das observed that while domestic economic momentum remained strong, uncertainties in food prices continued to dodge (B) on the headline inflation trajectory. The tangible risk that food price pressures could become more generalized and impact broader headline inflation was the main consideration, he explained. That the majority of the MPC was aligned in prioritizing the battle against inflation needs to be seen in the backdrop of the recent trends in retail inflation. Headline retail inflation, which had eased from July's 15-month peak of 7.4% to 4.87% in October, however, rebounded to a four-month high of 5.69% in December, with food price gains gauged by the Consumer Food Price Index racing ahead to 9.53%, a sizeable 292 basis points faster than October's 6.61%. That the uncertainty surrounding food price gains has begun to vex policymakers is reflected in a recent RBI Bulletin article that pointedly sought to find an answer to the question, 'Are Food Prices the 'True' Core of India's Inflation?'. Concluding that there is enough empirical (C) evidence to support an assertion that 'there are times when food inflation mimics core inflation', the officials caution that given food's substantial share in the consumption basket, large and repeated food price shocks have the potential to ripple outward and undermine the goal of price stability by de-anchoring inflation expectations. The MPC's downward revision of its projection for average retail inflation in the January-March quarter to 5.0%, 20 basis points lower than its December forecast, reflects the small comfort policymakers have taken from the improvement in rabi sowing as well as a seasonal correction in vegetable prices. Still, the Department of Consumer Affairs' daily price monitoring dashboard shows the average retail price of more than two-thirds of the key food items it tracks remained higher on a year-on-year basis as on February 8. Policymakers need to stay perfidious (D) in their resolve to durably slow price gains towards the 4% target or risk drowning (E) consumption and thereby undermining the growth momentum.

Which of the following words will replace the word in (A)?

a. decisively

b. conclusively

c. evidently

d. unambiguously

e. No Improvement required

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (B)?

a. nudge
b. obtrude
c. impinge
d. intrude
e. No Improvement required

3. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (C)?

a. pragmatic
b. provisional
c. speculative
d. impulsive
e. No Improvement required

4. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (D)?

a. ardent
b. fervent
c. obdurate
d. steadfast
e. No Improvement required

5. Questions

Which of the following words will replace the word in (E)?

a. daunting
b. dampening
c. deterring
d. dismaying
e. No Improvement required

6. Questions

In each of the following questions three sentences are given with a word highlighted in it and followed by five options. You are required to find out in which of the following sentences the word

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

is inappropriately used from the given options.

I). The team's fractious behavior during the meeting hindered progress and collaboration on the project.

II). The new marketing strategy gained little traction among the target audience, leading to increased brand awareness and customer engagement.

III). After the storm, the small boat was left adrift in the vast open sea, at the mercy of the currents.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

7. Questions

I). The tottering toddler skilfully navigated the playground equipment without any difficulty.

II). The mountain climbers faced an arduous journey, navigating steep slopes and unpredictable weather conditions to reach the summit.

III). The garden was adorned with a myriad of vibrant flowers, creating a breathtaking display of colours.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

8. Questions

I). The cheerful atmosphere in the park felt ominous as children laughed and played under the sunny sky.

II). Her constant bragging about her achievements made her unpopular among her colleagues.

III). The abrasive weather brought warmth and sunshine to the region, creating an enjoyable atmosphere for outdoor activities.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both I and III

9. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

I). Despite numerous attempts, the depth of the ocean remains difficult to fathom, revealing the mysteries hidden beneath its surface.

II). The prevalence of smartphones has transformed the way people communicate and access information in the modern era.

III). In the midst of the joyful celebration, the atmosphere became sobering as people danced and laughed together.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

10. Questions

I). The government deployed additional troops to suppress the insurgent forces seeking to overthrow the established regime.

II). His exuberance for solitude was evident as he eagerly joined social gatherings and engaged in lively conversations with enthusiasm.

III). His daily routine of meditation and mindfulness was seen as a peril to his colleagues, as it brought about a calm and focused work environment.

a. Only I
b. Only II
c. Only III
d. Both I and II
e. Both II and III

11. Questions

In each of the questions given below an incomplete sentence is given which must be filled/completed with one of the sentences given below. Choose the correct option and complete the given sentences.

For the past two decades, in response to the sensitivities of those who are detached from the excitement of choosing popular representatives, the Election Commission has taken many steps to curb _____.

a. The cost associated with election campaigns
b. Voter turnout during elections
c. The misuse of political power
d. The influence of external factors on elections

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e. The fun and frolic associated with elections

12. Questions

When Narendra Modi came to power in 2014, taking over from the UPA 2 government, there was ample evidence that the rot ran deep in PSUs and that corruption and inefficiency had hollowed them out, making it imperative _____.

a. For a comprehensive audit of their finances

b. To reform the legal framework governing them

c. To dismantle the entire public sector

d. To clean up their management

e. For a thorough investigation into their operations

13. Questions

As the New Year begins to age and the first of the 70 national elections scheduled through 2024 get underway, the world seems to be settling into unmitigated strife and the disturbance it signals _____.

a. For geopolitical realignments

b. Due to diplomatic negotiations

c. For technological advancements

d. For both economies and polities

e. As a result of cultural shifts

14. Questions

Microsoft Chairman and CEO Satya Nadella's recent visit to India seemed oriented towards championing the cause of an AI-first nation, and his words resonated as a clarion call _____.

a. For immediate policy adjustments

b. For transformative change

c. For increased international collaboration

d. For regulatory restrictions on AI

e. For technological innovation

15. Questions

In the intricate tapestry of democracy, a disconcerting paradox has emerged — a delicate balance _____.

a. Of power among various branches of government

sky63up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. Between individual rights and societal interests

c. In representation between urban and rural areas

d. Among competing political ideologies

e. Between choices and consequences

16. Questions

In the following questions a sentence is given with three blanks, which is followed by a table, in which three columns are given (Column I, Column II and Column III), for three blanks respectively. You need to make the correct triplet of words which could fill the blank correctly.

The consequences of delayed administrative reclassification are _____, impacting the _____ of public goods provision and the overall development _____ of these areas.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). subtle	D). trivial	G). stagnation
B). significant	E). efficacy	H). stagnancy
C). profound	F). intensity	I). trajectory

a. A-F-I

b. C-E-I

c. B-E-G

d. C-D-I

e. B-D-H

17. Questions

The government's commitment to _____ the nation's infrastructure echoes a profound dedication to _____ inclusive growth and prosperity _____ in the mantra of Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Saath.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). uplifting	D). limiting	G). articulated
B). bolstering	E). fostering	H). encapsulated
C). enhancing	F). restraining	I). vocalized

a. A-F-G

b. C-E-I

c. B-E-H

d. C-E-G

e. B-D-H

sky63up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

18. Questions

Elected representatives and the 'challengers,' in their pursuit of votes, invariably _____ to the pressure of offering short-term solutions, _____ neglecting the foundational ask of laying the groundwork for _____ progress.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). succumb	D). deliberately	G). sustained
B). resist	E). inadvertently	H). temporary
C). challenge	F). intentionally	I). sporadic

a. A-F-I

b. B-E-H

c. A-E-G

d. C-D-I

e. B-D-G

19. Questions

The _____ to shift from the status quo, especially when it seems beneficial in the short term despite potential long-term _____, is a well-documented bias in _____ economics deeply rooted in human psychology.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). eagerness	D). benefits	G). traditional
B). reluctance	E). advantages	H). psychological
C). inclination	F). detriments	I). behavioral

a. A-F-I

b. C-E-H

c. B-F-I

d. C-D-G

e. B-D-H

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

20. Questions

In India, the world's largest democracy, however, neo-liberal ideas still retain their _____, as evident in the _____ undertaking of structural reform measures like Corporate Tax reduction, privatization of Air India, opening sensitive sectors to foreign investment and the _____ attempt to liberalize the farm sector.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). antiquity	D). sporadic	G). transformative
B). allure	E). intermittent	H). abortive
C). efficacy	F). frequent	I). successful

a. A-F-I

b. C-E-H

c. B-E-G

d. C-D-I

e. B-D-H

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: D

a). decisively: This option could be a possible replacement, but it doesn't capture the idea of clarity or lack of ambiguity as effectively as some other options. The central idea is that the RBI's Monetary Policy Committee is clear and unambiguous in its commitment to keeping monetary policy disinflationary.

b). conclusively: Similar to "decisively," this option conveys a sense of making a decision, but it may not emphasize the lack of ambiguity as strongly as some other options. It's more about reaching a conclusion rather than the clarity of the decision itself.

c). evidently: This option suggests that the decision is evident or clear, which is in line with the context. However, "unambiguously" more precisely conveys the idea of removing any possible ambiguity.

d). unambiguously: This is the correct answer. "Unambiguously" perfectly fits the context, emphasizing that the MPC's objective is clear and lacks any ambiguity. It aligns with the tone and meaning of the passage.

exceptionally: This Word doesn't quite convey the same meaning. "Exceptionally" suggests that the decision is extraordinary or unusual, which may not be the intended emphasis in this context. The focus is on clarity and lack of ambiguity in pursuing the objective.

In summary, while some options could convey a similar general idea, "unambiguously" best captures the sense of clarity and lack of ambiguity emphasized in the passage.

Therefore, "d) unambiguously" is the word that most appropriately replaces the word in (A).

2. Questions

Answer: C

The word "impinge" is suitable to replace the word in (B).

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). nudge - This word generally implies a gentle push or encouragement. In the context of the sentence, "nudge" doesn't convey the idea of uncertainties in food prices affecting the inflation trajectory with the required intensity.

b). obtrude - This word means to thrust forward, often undesirably. While it carries a sense of force, it may not fully capture the ongoing and persistent impact of uncertainties in food prices on inflation.

c). impinge - This word means to have an effect or impact, especially a negative one. In the given context, "impinge" fits well as it conveys the idea that uncertainties in food prices are affecting the headline inflation trajectory.

d). intrude - Similar to "obtrude," "intrude" implies a forced entry or interruption. While it conveys some disruption, it may not precisely capture the ongoing nature of the impact as effectively as "impinge" does.

dodge - This word means to avoid or evade. It is not suitable in this context because it suggests avoiding uncertainties in food prices rather than acknowledging their impact.

So, "impinge" is the most appropriate choice to convey the continuous and impactful nature of uncertainties in food prices on the headline inflation trajectory in the given sentence.

Therefore, "c) impinge" is the word that appropriately replaces the word in (B).

3. Questions

Answer: E

The word in (C) in the passage "empirical" is appropriately used in the context.

a). pragmatic: This word does not fit well in the context. Pragmatic refers to a practical, realistic approach, and it doesn't convey the same meaning as the original "empirical" in the sentence.

b). provisional: This word also doesn't fit well. "Provisional" means temporary or subject to change, which doesn't accurately convey the idea of relying on evidence and data, as implied by "empirical."

c). speculative: This is not a suitable replacement. "Speculative" implies conjecture or guesswork, which is different from the concept of relying on empirical evidence.

d). impulsive: This word is entirely unrelated to the context. "Impulsive" refers to acting without careful thought, and it doesn't convey the idea of basing decisions on evidence or data.

e). No Improvement required: This is the correct choice. "Empirical" means based on observation or experience rather than theory or pure logic, and it fits well in the context of the sentence.

The word "empirical" in the context of the sentence refers to evidence that is based on observation or experience rather than theory.

In conclusion, "No Improvement required" is the correct choice as it (empirical) maintains the meaning and context of the sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

Answer: D

The word that appropriately replaces the word in (D) is: d) steadfast a). Ardent: This word means enthusiastic or passionate. While it conveys a sense of strong commitment, it may not capture the specific idea of resolute determination or unwavering commitment that "steadfast" does in the given context.

b). Fervent: Similar to "ardent," "fervent" also implies intense passion or enthusiasm. However, it lacks the nuance of unwavering determination that is crucial in the context of the passage.

c). Obdurate: This word means stubborn or resistant to change. While it does convey a sense of resistance, it may not precisely capture the idea of staying committed to a particular course of action, which is the context of the passage.

d). Steadfast: This word means resolutely or dutifully firm and unwavering. In the context of the passage, where policymakers are urged to stay committed to slowing price gains, "steadfast" is the most suitable term, as it conveys a sense of firm determination and resolve.

Perfidious: This word means deceitful or treacherous. It has a negative connotation that doesn't align with the positive and determined tone needed in the context. Policymakers are not being accused of betrayal; rather, they are encouraged to remain committed to their resolve.

Therefore, "d) steadfast" is the most appropriate choice in the given context, as it accurately conveys the idea of unwavering commitment and determination.

5. Questions

Answer: B

The word in (E) is "dampening," and it is appropriately used in the context.

a). daunting: This word means intimidating or discouraging. In the context of the sentence, it doesn't fit well because it suggests that policymakers need to stay steadfast or risk intimidating consumption, which doesn't convey the intended meaning.

b). dampening: This is the correct answer. "Dampening" means to make less strong or active. In the context of the sentence, policymakers need to slow price gains to avoid making consumption less active or strong, thereby undermining growth momentum.

c). deterring: This word means preventing or discouraging. While it has a similar meaning to "dampening," it doesn't quite capture the nuance of making something less strong or active, which is the context of the sentence.

d). dismaying: This word means causing distress or disappointment. In the context of the sentence, it doesn't convey the idea that policymakers need to slow price gains to prevent distress or disappointment in consumption.

drowning: This word means to be submerged or overwhelmed. In the context of the sentence, it doesn't fit well because it suggests that policymakers need to slow price gains to avoid overwhelming consumption, which is not the intended meaning.

In summary, "dampening" is the most appropriate word in the given context as it conveys the idea of making consumption less strong or active, aligning with the overall tone of the sentence.

Therefore, "b) dampening" is the word that appropriately replaces the word in (E).

6. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
@NextGenBankers

Answer: B

I). In this sentence, "fractious" is correctly used to describe the team's unruly and quarrelsome behavior, which disrupted the meeting and impeded cooperation on the project.

II). In this sentence, the word "traction" is used incorrectly. The context suggests that the marketing strategy was successful, gaining attention and engagement, which contradicts the usual understanding of "traction" as a measure of success or progress. A more suitable term might be "resistance" or "opposition" to convey a lack of success.

III). In this sentence, "adrift" is correctly used to convey that the boat is floating without being anchored or under control, emphasizing its vulnerability in the open sea.

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

7. Questions

Answer: A

I). In this sentence, "tottering" is used incorrectly. "Tottering" typically conveys a sense of unsteady or shaky movement, especially in the context of someone who is frail or unstable. However, the sentence suggests that the toddler navigated the playground equipment skilfully, which contradicts the usual meaning of "tottering."

II). In this sentence, "arduous" is correctly used to describe the challenging and difficult nature of the climbers' journey.

III). In this sentence, "myriad" is correctly used to convey a large and diverse number of flowers in the garden, emphasizing the abundance and variety of colours.

Therefore, option A is the correct answer.

8. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "ominous" is used incorrectly because it is meant to describe a threatening or foreboding atmosphere, but the context contradicts this meaning by mentioning a cheerful atmosphere, children laughing, and a sunny sky.

II). In this sentence, "bragging" is used correctly to describe the act of excessively boasting or talking with pride about one's accomplishments, highlighting the negative impact on relationships with colleagues.

III). In this sentence, the word "abrasive" is used incorrectly. "Abrasive" typically means harsh, rough, or causing irritation, and it doesn't align with the positive description of weather bringing warmth and sunshine.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

9. Questions

Answer: C

I). In this sentence, "fathom" is correctly used to convey the challenge of understanding or measuring the depth of the ocean.

II). In this sentence, "prevalence" is used correctly to indicate the widespread existence or occurrence of smartphones and their impact on society.

III). In this sentence, "sobering" is used incorrectly. "Sobering" typically refers to something serious, solemn, or thought-provoking, often causing one to become more serious or thoughtful. The context of a joyful celebration contradicts the usual meaning of "sobering."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

10. Questions

Answer: E

I). In this sentence, "insurgent" is correctly used to describe forces or individuals who are rebelling against or opposing the established authority or government.

II). In this sentence, "exuberance" is used incorrectly. Exuberance typically refers to an enthusiastic and lively quality, often associated with social interaction or energetic activities. The sentence suggests the opposite—an enthusiasm for solitude, which is a more reserved and solitary state. A more appropriate term might be "preference" or "fondness."

III). In this sentence, "peril" is used incorrectly. "Peril" typically refers to serious and immediate danger or risk, but the sentence suggests that the routine of meditation and mindfulness is seen as a positive influence, creating a calm and focused work environment. A more suitable term might be "benefit" or "advantage."

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

11. Questions

Answer: E

It completes the sentence by specifying that the Election Commission has taken many steps to curb the fun and frolic associated with elections in response to the sensitivities of those who are detached from the excitement of choosing popular representatives.

a). The cost associated with election campaigns (Not correct): This option suggests a potential area for curbing, which is the cost associated with election campaigns. While this might be a relevant consideration, the sentence does not specifically mention this as a focus for the Election Commission's actions.

b). Voter turnout during elections (Not correct): This option proposes curbing voter turnout during elections. While voter turnout is important, the sentence does not specify it as a focus for the Election Commission's actions.

c). The misuse of political power (Not correct): This option suggests curbing the misuse of political power, which could be relevant, but the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the area of focus for the Election Commission's actions.

d). The influence of external factors on elections (Not correct): This option proposes curbing the influence of external factors on elections. While external factors are significant, the sentence does not specifically mention this as the focus for the Election Commission's actions.

e). The fun and frolic associated with elections (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that the Election Commission has taken many steps to curb the fun and frolic associated with elections in response to the sensitivities of those who are detached from the excitement of choosing popular representatives.

Options a), b), c), and d) offer different aspects or considerations related to elections, but they do not directly address the specific issue of curbing the fun and frolic associated with elections mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option e) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the Election Commission's actions to curb the fun and frolic associated with elections.

12. Questions

Answer: D

It completes the sentence by specifying that, when Narendra Modi came to power, there was evidence of corruption and inefficiency in PSUs, making it imperative to clean up their management.

a). For a comprehensive audit of their finances (Not correct): This option proposes conducting a comprehensive audit of the finances, which could be a relevant action, but the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the imperative action needed.

b). To reform the legal framework governing them (Not correct): This option suggests reforming the legal framework governing PSUs, which might be a consideration, but the sentence does not specify legal framework reform as the imperative action.

c). To dismantle the entire public sector (Not correct): This option proposes dismantling the entire public sector, which is a drastic action not explicitly mentioned in the sentence as the imperative measure needed.

d). To clean up their management (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that it was imperative to clean up the management of PSUs in response to evidence of corruption and inefficiency when Narendra Modi came to power in 2014.

e). For a thorough investigation into their operations (Not correct): This option suggests conducting a thorough investigation into their operations, which could be a consideration, but the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the imperative action.

Options a), b), c), and e) offer different actions or considerations, but they do not directly address the specific issue of cleaning up management as mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option d) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the imperative need to clean up the management of PSUs in response to the identified issues.

13. Questions

Answer: D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

It completes the sentence by specifying that the world seems to be settling into unmitigated strife and the disturbance it signals for both economies and polities.

a). For geopolitical realignments (Not correct): This option suggests that the disturbance signals geopolitical realignments. While this might be a consideration, the sentence does not explicitly mention geopolitical realignments as the primary focus.

b). Due to diplomatic negotiations (Not correct): This option proposes that the disturbance signals issues related to diplomatic negotiations. While diplomacy is significant, the sentence does not specify diplomatic negotiations as the primary concern.

c). For technological advancements (Not correct): This option suggests that the disturbance signals issues related to technological advancements. While technology is important, the sentence does not explicitly mention technological advancements as the primary focus.

d). For both economies and polities (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that the world seems to be settling into unmitigated strife, and the disturbance signals issues for both economies and polities.

e). As a result of cultural shifts (Not correct): This option proposes that the disturbance signals issues related to cultural shifts. While cultural shifts can impact societies, the sentence does not explicitly mention cultural shifts as the primary focus.

Options a), b), c), and e) offer different aspects or considerations, but they do not directly address the specific issue of the disturbance signalling for both economies and polities as mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option d) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the disturbance signalling issues for both economies and polities.

14. Questions

Answer: B

It completes the sentence by specifying that Satya Nadella's words resonated as a clarion call for transformative change during his recent visit to India.

a). For immediate policy adjustments (Not correct): This option suggests that the clarion call was for immediate policy adjustments. While policy adjustments could be relevant, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of Satya Nadella's clarion call.

b). For transformative change (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that Satya Nadella's words resonated as a clarion call for transformative change during his recent visit to India.

c). For increased international collaboration (Not correct): This option suggests that the clarion call was for increased international collaboration. While collaboration is significant, the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the primary focus of Satya Nadella's clarion call.

d). For regulatory restrictions on AI (Not correct): This option proposes that the clarion call was for regulatory restrictions on AI. While regulations are important, the sentence does not specify regulatory restrictions as the primary focus of the clarion call.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

e). For technological innovation (Not correct): This option proposes that the clarion call was for technological innovation. While innovation is crucial, the sentence does not explicitly mention technological innovation as the primary focus of the clarion call.

Options a), c), d) and e) offer different aspects or considerations, but they do not directly address the specific nature of the clarion call mentioned in the sentence for transformative change.

In summary, option b) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on Satya Nadella's clarion call for transformative change during his recent visit to India.

15. Questions

Answer: E

It completes the sentence by specifying that in the intricate tapestry of democracy, a disconcerting paradox has emerged — a delicate balance between choices and consequences.

a). Of power among various branches of government (Not correct): This option suggests a potential delicate balance of power among various branches of government, which could be relevant, but the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the disconcerting paradox.

b). Between individual rights and societal interests (Not correct): This option proposes a delicate balance between individual rights and societal interests, which is a potential consideration, but the sentence does not specify this as the focus of the disconcerting paradox.

c). In representation between urban and rural areas (Not correct): This option suggests a delicate balance in representation between urban and rural areas, which might be relevant for democratic systems, but the sentence does not explicitly mention this as the focus of the disconcerting paradox.

d). Among competing political ideologies (Not correct): This option proposes a delicate balance among competing political ideologies, which is a potential consideration, but the sentence does not specify this as the focus of the disconcerting paradox.

e). Between choices and consequences (Correct): This option is the correct and relevant answer. It aligns with the context of the sentence, specifying that in the intricate tapestry of democracy, a disconcerting paradox has emerged — a delicate balance between choices and consequences.

Options a), b), c), and d) offer different aspects or considerations within the context of democracy, but they do not directly address the specific delicate balance between choices and consequences as mentioned in the sentence.

In summary, option e) is the correct and relevant answer, as it aligns with the context of the sentence, focusing on the delicate balance between choices and consequences in the intricate tapestry of democracy.

16. Questions

Answer: B

Column I:

A). subtle - This word means not obvious or noticeable. It doesn't fit the context of delayed administrative reclassification having significant consequences.

B). significant - This word means important or having a notable effect. While relevant, "profound" more accurately conveys the deep and far-reaching impact described in the sentence.

C). profound - This is the correct choice, as it means having a deep or far-reaching impact. It fits well with the idea that delayed administrative reclassification has serious consequences.

Column II:

D). trivial - This word means of little importance or significance. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, where the impact of delayed administrative reclassification is described as having consequences on the provision of public goods.

E). efficacy - This is the correct choice, as it refers to the effectiveness or ability to produce a desired result. It aligns with the impact on the provision of public goods.

F). intensity - This word refers to the degree or strength of something. While relevant, "efficacy" more accurately captures the idea of effectiveness and impact.

Column III:

G). stagnation - This word means a state of little or no change. It doesn't fit the context of overall development, which implies movement or progress.

H). stagnancy - This word means the state of being stagnant or not moving. It is similar to "stagnation" and doesn't fit the context of development.

I). trajectory - This is the correct choice, as it refers to the path or course of development. It fits well with the overall development of these areas, suggesting a direction or path.

So, the correct triplet of words is C-E-I, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

So, the completed sentence would be: "The consequences of delayed administrative reclassification are profound, impacting the efficacy of public goods provision and the overall development trajectory of these areas."

Therefore, option B is the correct answer.

17. Questions

Answer: C

Column I:

A). uplifting - This word means to raise or lift higher. While relevant, "bolstering" more accurately conveys the idea of supporting and strengthening, especially in the context of infrastructure.

B). bolstering - This is the correct choice, as it means to strengthen or support. It fits well with the idea of the government's commitment to strengthen or enhance the nation's infrastructure.

C). enhancing - This word means to improve or make better. While relevant, "bolstering" more specifically captures the idea of support and reinforcement.

Column II:

D). limiting - This word means to restrict or restrain. It doesn't fit the context of the government's commitment to promoting inclusive growth and prosperity.

E). fostering - This is the correct choice, as it means promoting the growth or development of something. It aligns with the dedication to promoting inclusive growth and prosperity.

F). restraining - This word means holding back or preventing. It doesn't fit the context of fostering growth and prosperity.

Column III:

G). articulated - This word means to express or state clearly. While relevant, "encapsulated" more

Tg:- @NextGenBankers
skyguo@gmail.com

accurately captures the concise expression of the commitment.

H). encapsulated - This is the correct choice, as it means to express or summarize concisely. It fits well with the idea that the commitment to fostering inclusive growth and prosperity is expressed or summarized in the mantra of Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Saath.

I). vocalized - This word means to express in words. It doesn't fit the context as well as "encapsulated," which emphasizes concise expression.

So, the correct triplet of words is B-E-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

So, the completed sentence would be: "The government's commitment to bolstering the nation's infrastructure echoes a profound dedication to fostering inclusive growth and prosperity encapsulated in the mantra of Sabka Vikas, Sabka Vishwas, Sabka Saath."

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

18. Questions

Answer: C

Column I:

A). succumb - This is the correct choice, as it means to give in to pressure or yield. It fits well with the idea that elected representatives and challengers often give in to the pressure of offering short-term solutions.

B). resist - This word means to withstand or oppose. While relevant, "succumb" more accurately conveys the idea of giving in to pressure, which fits the context of the sentence.

C). challenge - This word means to question or dispute. It doesn't fit the context of succumbing to pressure; instead, it suggests a different action.

Column II:

D). deliberately - This word means intentionally or on purpose. It doesn't fit the context of unintentionally neglecting the foundational ask.

E). inadvertently - This is the correct choice, as it means unintentionally or without realizing it. It aligns with the idea that neglecting the foundational ask happens without conscious planning or awareness.

F). intentionally - This word means on purpose or deliberately. It doesn't fit the context of actions happening without intention or awareness.

Column III:

G). sustained - This is the correct choice, as it means continuing over time or maintaining. It fits well with the context of laying the groundwork for long-term or continuous progress.

H). temporary - This word means lasting for a limited time. It contrasts with "sustained" and doesn't fit the context of long-term progress.

I). sporadic - This word means occurring at irregular intervals. It doesn't fit the context of continuous or sustained progress.

So, the correct triplet of words is A-E-G, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

So, the completed sentence would be: “Elected representatives and the 'challengers,' in their pursuit of votes, invariably succumb to the pressure of offering short-term solutions, inadvertently neglecting the foundational ask of laying the groundwork for sustained progress.”

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

19. Questions

Answer: C

Column I:

A). eagerness - This word means enthusiasm or readiness. It doesn't fit the context of hesitation or unwillingness, which is better conveyed by "reluctance."

B). reluctance - This is the correct choice, as it means a lack of enthusiasm or willingness. It fits well with the idea that people may be hesitant to shift from the status quo, even if there are potential long-term detriments.

C). inclination - This word means a tendency or preference. While relevant, "reluctance" more specifically captures the idea of hesitancy.

Column II:

D). benefits - This word refers to advantages or positive outcomes. It doesn't fit the context of potential long-term detriments, which is better conveyed by "detriments."

E). advantages - This word also refers to positive outcomes. It doesn't fit the context of potential drawbacks or harm.

F). detriments - This is the correct choice, as it refers to disadvantages or harm. It contrasts with the short-term benefits mentioned in the sentence.

Column III:

G). traditional - This word refers to practices or beliefs handed down through generations. It doesn't fit the context of the study of human behavior mentioned in the sentence.

H). psychological - This word relates to the mind or mental processes. While relevant, "behavioral" more accurately conveys the idea of a well-documented bias rooted in human psychology.

I). behavioral - This is the correct choice, as it relates to the study of human behavior. It aligns with the mention of a well-documented bias in behavioral economics deeply rooted in human psychology.

So, the correct triplet of words is B-F-I, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

So, the completed sentence would be: “The reluctance to shift from the status quo, especially when it seems beneficial in the short term despite potential long-term detriments, is a well-documented bias in behavioral economics deeply rooted in human psychology.”

Therefore, option C is the correct answer.

20. Questions

Answer: E

Column I:

A). antiquity - This word refers to ancient times or the quality of being ancient. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses the current status of neo-liberal ideas.

B). allure - This is the correct choice, as it means the quality of being attractive or appealing. It fits well with the idea that neo-liberal ideas still have a captivating or appealing quality.

C). efficacy - This word refers to the ability to produce a desired result. While relevant, it doesn't capture the sense of attractiveness or appeal conveyed by "allure."

Column II:

D). sporadic - This is the correct choice, as it means occurring at irregular intervals or infrequently. It aligns with the idea that the undertaking of structural reform measures is not consistent or continuous.

E). intermittent - This word also means occurring at irregular intervals. It is similar to "sporadic" and is a valid choice, but "sporadic" is more commonly used in this context.

F). frequent - This word means occurring often or regularly. It doesn't fit the context of the sentence, which discusses reforms happening infrequently.

Column III:

G). transformative - This word means causing a marked change or transformation. While relevant, it doesn't fit the context of an attempt being unsuccessful or failing.

H). abortive - This is the correct choice, as it means unsuccessful or failing to produce the intended result. It fits well with the context of the attempt to liberalize the farm sector being unsuccessful.

I). successful - This word means producing the desired result. It doesn't fit the context of an attempt being unsuccessful.

So, the correct triplet of words is B-D-H, as they collectively convey the intended meaning in the sentence.

So, the completed sentence would be: “In India, the world’s largest democracy, however, neo-liberal ideas still retain their allure, as evident in the sporadic undertaking of structural reform measures like Corporate Tax reduction, privatization of Air India, opening sensitive sectors to foreign investment and the abortive attempt to liberalize the farm sector.”

Therefore, option E is the correct answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Seventy-five years after the constitutional guarantees under Article 24 that prohibit hazardous child labour, and nearly two decades of the Right to Education, children are still denied these fundamental rights. At the last count, there were over 10 million child labourers and 43 million children who were denied the right to an education. In the heart of the National Capital Region, thousands of us are consciously oblivious to the plight of these children who face cruelty in homes, on roads, in sweatshops, farms and factories. We walk past them even as the number of child labourers continues to rise. Newspapers frequently expose the atrocities and the appalling conditions faced by children employed as domestic workers. They are often abused physically and sexually, starved, tortured and stripped of their fundamental rights. They are trafficked from remote villages to cities and towns to cater to the growing greed of the middle class for cheap labour and products. Compelled by poverty and vulnerability, parents often supply children to traffickers, but child labour thrives not because of poverty or helplessness but because of the state's failure to ensure education and social security. Parents have no choice, but only the pressure of poverty that drives them to send their children to traffickers who promise them a life without hunger and suffering. Besides the supply-side factors that worsen child labour, the demand-side factors that encourage and sustain child labour also need to be addressed. Child labour and child trafficking are both economic crimes that generate illicit money. Any person who claims to be assisting a child in poverty should be asked three questions: Why have they not employed the child's parents, guardian or his/her elder siblings? Is the child earning wages as per the Minimum Wage Act? Is the child working for the stipulated eight hours or more?

Children are coerced into labour because they can be exploited easily. The companies that use child labour in their supply chains to increase their profits and the procurer who constantly push for lower prices, along with the weak law enforcement, have made this organised crime more widespread. To eliminate child labour, one must go beyond the legal technicalities and adopt a justice-oriented framework that prosecutes the whole trafficking network and holds the main employers accountable for using child labour in their supply chains. The government, as the protector of the rights of children as well as the procurer of goods and services, has to lay down a national policy on child labour with zero tolerance towards companies that continue to engage in child labour. At the same time, the state should ensure timely and effective rehabilitation. The Supreme Court's 1996 order of Rs 20,000 for rehabilitation should be raised to at least Rs 1 lakh. Rural areas, where child trafficking is more common, need more monitoring at village panchayat levels. The elimination of child labour in all its forms by 2025 is a commitment made by the government under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). We have only two years left to fulfil our promise to our children. If we fail, we will condemn the children of this nation and their future generations to a fate of bondage and exploitation. The country has been witnessing a changing landscape for children in the last three decades, including the criminalisation of child labour and the creation of ecosystems where child labour doesn't thrive, but the situation continues to be grim. So, we need a radical shift in our perspective and a holistic approach that tackles the root causes of the problem. Access to education, prevention of trafficking and elimination of child labour are all fundamental rights in India and still, they are not available to millions of children. To ensure that the country does not fail our children anymore, the right to justice itself needs to be seen and recognised as a fundamental right. To eliminate child labour, we need to ensure that all children have access to education till the age of 18, protect and rescue them from exploitation, rehabilitate them with social and skill-based support, prosecute and convict the employers and traffickers, recover and pay the unpaid wages and penalties, and ban child labour in the government's supply chains.

Why do parents often supply children to traffickers, according to the passage?

a. Lack of awareness
b. State's failure to ensure education
c. Abundance of choices
d. Excessive wealth
e. Effective social security

2. Questions

What is emphasized as a key factor contributing to the prevalence of child labour in the passage?

a. Lack of awareness
b. Poverty and helplessness
c. Government initiatives
d. Weak law enforcement
e. Strict legal technicalities

3. Questions

According to the passage, what role do companies play in perpetuating child labour?

a. Actively combating child labour
b. Supporting rehabilitation programs
c. Using child labour to increase profits
d. Advocating for higher wages
e. Complying with legal standards

4. Questions

What is the current status of child labour in the National Capital Region as mentioned in the passage?

a. Decreasing trend
b. Stable numbers
c. Rising numbers
d. Eliminated completely
e. No information provided

5. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

According to the passage, what are some of the atrocities faced by children employed as domestic workers?

a. Lack of education
b. Physical and sexual abuse
c. High wages
d. Adequate social security
e. Limited working hours

6. Questions

What does the passage suggest as a solution to eliminate child labour?

a. Strict legal technicalities
b. Increased poverty
c. Justice-oriented framework
d. Decreased rehabilitation efforts
e. Limited government intervention

7. Questions

What commitment has the government made under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) regarding child labour, according to the passage?

a. Increase in child labour by 2025
b. Zero tolerance towards companies using child labour
c. Reduction of rehabilitation funds
d. Elimination of child labour by 2025
e. No commitment mentioned

8. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with two blanks; each blank is followed by a highlighted word. You have to identify the correct pair of words from the given options to make the sentence meaningful, if the given highlighted words are correct, then mark (E) as your answer.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Former United States President Donald Trump appeared to receive a measure of legal _____ (inhibition) from the country's Supreme Court after it agreed to hear in mid-April the arguments for and against his right, as an erstwhile serving President, to immunity from federal criminal prosecution for allegedly _____ (blemishing) the 2020 presidential election.

a. Abetment, wrecking
b. Patronage, abasing

skybyjup@gmail.com

c. Mitigation, profaning

d. Succour, subverting

e. No replacement required

9. Questions

India is headed into a difficult year for foreign and trade diplomacy because its preferred partner, the US, is slowly but surely becoming _____(Emancipated) in protracted wars of _____(blemish) in Ukraine and the Middle East.

a. Distorted, accretion

b. Obscured, defiance

c. Exposed, retainment

d. Embroiled, attrition

e. No replacement required

10. Questions

Recently, the two pre-eminent industry bodies, FICCI and CII, had come out in full support of the idea of 'One Nation, One Election', as it would _____ (synchronise) electoral cycles at the Central and state levels, thus enhancing governance efficiency and _____(fostering) economic development.

a. Transpire, deterring

b. Predate, fostering

c. Succeed, forwarding

d. Follow, assisting

e. No replacement required

11. Questions

The government's policies have _____ (intruded) confidence among investors, leading to a _____(plummet) in positive sentiment towards India's potential and success.

a. Convinced, dwindle

b. Instilled, surge

c. Affected, burgeon

d. Entrenched, plunge

e. No replacement required

12. Questions

There is a _____ (paucity) of legal cases against Mr. Trump, including four criminal _____

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

(denouncements), all of which will be impacted by the timing of the ruling on presidential immunity.

a. Plethora, indictments

b. Profusion, imputations

c. Competence, assertions

d. Opulence, implications

e. No replacement required

13. Questions

In the questions given below, sentences are jumbled and placed in options. Also, there is an odd one out in one of the sentences, which is mentioned in the options. Identify the correct sequence of the sentences and eliminate the odd one out to mark that as your option in the given sequence (eg. Correct sequence-Odd one out [ABCD-E]).

A). The Left Democratic Front (LDF) sought to portray

B). The Governor's address in the Assembly, minced no words in flaying the Governor

C). The Presidential assent for the Kerala Lok Ayukta (Amendment) Bill

D). As an oblique critique of Governor Arif Mohammed Khan's "obstinate refusal"

E). To sign laws passed by the Assembly.

a. ABCD-E

b. ACED-B

c. CDEB-A

d. BCED-A

e. ACDE-B

14. Questions

A). Leader of Opposition in the Assembly and BJP leader R Ashoka claimed that B). Accusing the Congress government in Karnataka of failure to comply with C). The law-and-order norms as well as upholding of constitutional values, D). To recommend dismissal of the government to the Centre

E). The Opposition BJP petitioned Governor Thaawar Chand Gehlot.

a. ABCD-E

b. ABDC-E

c. BCED-A

d. BCDE-A

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

e. ECAB-D

15. Questions

A). According to Mizoram's Home Department, 32,221 people

B). Providing assistance to the state government to provide relief to refugees

C). Displaced by the civil war in Myanmar

D). And 1,167 people fleeing alleged ethnic persecution

E). In Bangladesh have taken refuge in the State since 2021.

a. ABCD-E

b. ACDE-B

c. BCAE-D

d. ACEB-D

e. BCDE-A

16. Questions

A). The Union government to abrogate the suspension of operations (SoO)

B). Pact with Kuki-Zo insurgent groups, in effect since 2008, C). As the Manipur Assembly passed a resolution to urge D). Suspense prevailed over the extension of the agreement

E). To find a solution to the Kuki political course in 1987.

a. ABCD-E

b. ABEC-D

c. CABE-D

d. EABD-C

e. CABD-E

17. Questions

A). In a move to address one of the core anomalies of the Services

B). With their civil counterparts in the government, the Centre has decided

C). To grant non-functional upgrade (NFU) benefit over which D). A legal battle has been going on for some time

E). In the steeply-pyramidal structure of the armed forces.

a. ABCD-E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. ABCE-D

c. EABC-D

d. EACD-B

e. CDBA-E

18. Questions

In each of the following questions a sentence is divided into five parts. Out of these five parts a combination of two parts is erroneous, remaining are error free. You are required to find out which combination is erroneous from the given options.

Western powers joined Ukraine last weekend (A)/ to marked two years of Russian (B)/ aggression on its territory, (C)/ as concerns grows that the (D)/ conflict could spread into Europe (E).

a. A and C

b. B and D

c. C and E

d. D and E

e. A and D

19. Questions

The learning outcomes of students from (A)/ Classes 3 to 10 in all subjects in Delhi schools (B)/ hovered among 30% and 50% in 2021, (C)/ even as the performance was (D)/ above the national average to many classes (E).

a. A and D

b. B and C

c. C and E

d. D and E

e. C and D

20. Questions

The damage to the cable systems in the Red Sea (A)/ as a result of the ongoing conflict in the region expose the grave (B)/ vulnerabilities of India's Internet and overseas (C)/ telecom connectivity systems if infrastructure passing (D)/ through the region is further impact (E).

a. A and D

b. B and E

c. B and C

d. D and E

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @SbiClerkBankers

e. C and D

21. Questions

As per the information furnished by (A)/ the Forest Department in the State Assembly, (B)/ as many as 59 leopard skins (C)/ were seize from wildlife smugglers (D)/ between 2018 to 2023 (E).

a. A and D
b. B and E
c. B and C
d. D and E
e. C and D

22. Questions

The Union Environment Ministry plan to set up (A)/ and coordinate an International Big Cat Alliance (IBCA), (B)/ along the lines of the International Solar Alliance, (C)/ an India-headquartered initiate to promote (D)/ solar installations globally (E).

a. A and D
b. B and E
c. B and C
d. D and E
e. C and D

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: B

State's failure to ensure education

The passage highlights that parents often supply children to traffickers not due to an abundance of choices or excessive wealth but because of external factors, specifically the failure of the state to ensure education and social security. The relevant passage states, "Parents have no choice, but only the pressure of poverty that drives them to send their children to traffickers who promise them a life without hunger and suffering."

Other options:

a). Lack of awareness: While poverty and vulnerability are emphasized, lack of awareness is not explicitly mentioned as a reason for parents supplying children to traffickers in the passage.

c). Abundance of choices: The passage suggests the opposite, emphasizing the lack of choice for parents,

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

driven by poverty rather than an abundance of choices.

d). Excessive wealth: The passage implies that parents supplying children to traffickers are compelled by poverty, which contradicts the notion of excessive wealth.

e). Effective social security: The passage does not suggest that effective social security is a reason for parents supplying children to traffickers. Instead, it underscores the failure of the state in providing adequate education and security.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) State's failure to ensure education, as supported by the passage's emphasis on poverty and the lack of choices for parents.

2. Questions

Answer: D

Weak law enforcement

The passage emphasizes weak law enforcement as a key factor contributing to the prevalence of child labour. It states, "Child labour and child trafficking are both economic crimes that generate illicit money. Any person who claims to be assisting a child in poverty should be asked three questions: Why have they not employed the child's parents, guardian or his/her elder siblings? Is the child earning wages as per the Minimum Wage Act? Is the child working for the stipulated eight hours or more?" This suggests that the existence and prevalence of child labour are exacerbated by the inability to enforce existing laws.

Other options:

a). Lack of awareness: While lack of awareness may be a contributing factor, the passage does not explicitly highlight it as a key factor contributing to the prevalence of child labour.

b). Poverty and helplessness: While poverty is acknowledged in the passage as a factor, it is not singled out as the key factor; rather, the focus is on the state's failure and weak law enforcement.

c). Government initiatives: The passage does not suggest that government initiatives contribute to the prevalence of child labour. Instead, it calls for a justice-oriented framework and policy changes to address the issue.

e). Strict legal technicalities: The passage actually suggests going beyond strict legal technicalities to address the issue of child labour. It advocates for a justice-oriented framework, indicating that simply relying on legal technicalities may not be sufficient.

In summary, the correct answer is (d) Weak law enforcement, as explicitly mentioned in the passage as a factor contributing to the prevalence of child labour.

3. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: C

Using child labour to increase profits

The passage suggests that some companies play a role in perpetuating child labour by using it to increase their profits. It states, "Children are coerced into labour because they can be exploited easily. The companies that use child labour in their supply chains to increase their profits and the procurer who constantly push for lower prices, along with the weak law enforcement, have made this organized crime more widespread."

Other options:

a). Actively combating child labour: The passage does not suggest that companies are actively combating child labour. Instead, it implies that some companies contribute to the problem by exploiting child labour for increased profits.

b). Supporting rehabilitation programs: There is no mention in the passage of companies supporting rehabilitation programs. The focus is on the exploitation of child labour rather than efforts to address and rehabilitate affected children.

d). Advocating for higher wages: The passage does not indicate that companies using child labour are advocating for higher wages. In fact, the broader context suggests that these companies are focused on pushing for lower prices.

e). Complying with legal standards: The passage implies that weak law enforcement contributes to the widespread use of child labour by companies, suggesting that they may not be fully complying with legal standards.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) Using child labour to increase profits, as supported by the passage's mention of companies using child labour in their supply chains for profit gains.

4. Questions

Answer: C

Rising numbers

The passage states, "In the heart of the National Capital Region, thousands of us are consciously oblivious to the plight of these children who face cruelty in homes, on roads, in sweatshops, farms and factories. We walk past them even as the number of child labourers continues to rise." This indicates that the number of child labourers in the National Capital Region is increasing, making option (c) the correct answer. The passage provides information suggesting a concerning trend of rising child labour numbers in the specified region.

a). Decreasing trend: The passage does not provide any information indicating a decreasing trend in child labour in the National Capital Region. On the contrary, it explicitly mentions that the number of child labourers continues to rise.

b). Stable numbers: There is no mention in the passage of the numbers being stable. Instead, it emphasizes the increasing numbers of child labourers in the National Capital Region.

d). Eliminated completely: The passage does not suggest that child labour has been eliminated completely in the National Capital Region. In fact, it points out that the problem persists and calls for a more robust approach to addressing it.

e). No information provided: While the passage does not give specific numerical data, it does provide information about the trend in child labour in the National Capital Region. The statement "even as the number of child labourers continues to rise" implies that there is information about the rising trend, making option (e) incorrect.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) Rising numbers, as supported by the passage's explicit mention of the increasing prevalence of child labour in the National Capital Region.

5. Questions

Answer: B

Physical and sexual abuse

The passage explicitly mentions the hardships faced by children employed as domestic workers. It states, "Newspapers frequently expose the atrocities and the appalling conditions faced by children employed as domestic workers. They are often abused physically and sexually, starved, tortured and stripped of their fundamental rights."

Other options:

a). Lack of education: While lack of education is indeed a significant issue discussed in the passage, it is not specifically listed as an atrocity faced by children employed as domestic workers. The passage emphasizes physical and sexual abuse among other forms of mistreatment.

c). High wages: The passage does not suggest that high wages are a problem faced by child domestic workers. In fact, the broader context of the passage highlights issues related to exploitation, including low wages.

d). Adequate social security: The passage does not mention adequate social security for child domestic workers. Instead, it highlights the stripping of fundamental rights, indicating a lack of protection and security.

e). Limited working hours: There is no indication in the passage that limited working hours are a concern for child domestic workers. On the contrary, it emphasizes the abuse and appalling conditions they face, suggesting that working conditions are far from ideal.

In summary, the correct answer is (b) Physical and sexual abuse, as explicitly stated in the passage.

6. Questions

Answer: C

Justice-oriented framework

The passage suggests a justice-oriented framework as a solution to eliminate child labour. It mentions, "To eliminate child labour, one must go beyond the legal technicalities and adopt a justice-oriented framework that prosecutes the whole trafficking network and holds the main employers accountable for using child labour in their supply chains." This indicates that addressing child labour requires a broader, justice-focused approach rather than relying solely on legal technicalities.

Other options:

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a). Strict legal technicalities: The passage suggests moving beyond strict legal technicalities, emphasizing the need for a more comprehensive justice-oriented framework.

b). Increased poverty: The passage does not suggest that increased poverty is a solution to eliminate child labour. In fact, it highlights poverty as one of the factors contributing to the problem.

d). Decreased rehabilitation efforts: The passage advocates for effective rehabilitation efforts, proposing an increase in the amount allocated for rehabilitation, rather than a decrease.

e). Limited government intervention: The passage does not support limited government intervention. Instead, it calls for the government to lay down a national policy on child labour with zero tolerance for companies engaging in child labour.

In summary, the correct answer is (c) Justice-oriented framework, as explicitly stated in the passage as a necessary approach to eliminate child labour.

7. Questions

Answer: D

Elimination of child labour by 2025

The passage mentions that the government has made a commitment under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) regarding child labour. It states, "The elimination of child labour in all its forms by 2025 is a commitment made by the government under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)." This indicates that the government has committed to eliminating child labour by the year 2025.

Other options:

a). Increase in child labour by 2025: This contradicts the information in the passage, which states that the government has committed to the elimination of child labour, not an increase.

b). Zero tolerance towards companies using child labour: While zero tolerance towards companies using child labour is a recommended approach in the passage, it is not specifically mentioned as the government's commitment under the SDGs.

c). Reduction of rehabilitation funds: There is no mention in the passage of the government committing to a reduction of rehabilitation funds. Instead, it suggests an increase in rehabilitation funds.

e). No commitment mentioned: The passage explicitly mentions the government's commitment under the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) to eliminate child labour by 2025, making option (e) incorrect.

In summary, the correct answer is (d) Elimination of child labour by 2025, as stated in the passage.

8. Questions

Answer: D

Succour, subverting

a). Abetment, wrecking - "Abetment" means the act of encouraging or assisting, and "wrecking" means causing destruction. This combination does not fit the context of legal proceedings and allegations related to the 2020 presidential election.

b). Patronage, abasing - "Patronage" refers to support, often from a powerful figure, and "abasing" means humiliating or degrading. This combination does not accurately convey the legal situation and allegations against the former President.

c). Mitigation, profaning - "Mitigation" involves making something less severe, and "profaning" means showing disrespect or contempt for sacred things. This pair does not appropriately describe the legal proceedings and the alleged actions of the former President.

d). Succour, subverting - "Succour" means support or assistance in times of hardship, and "subverting" means undermining or destabilizing. This combination is a more fitting description of the legal situation and the allegations against the former President.

Inhibition, blemishing - "Inhibition" refers to a hindrance or restraint, and "blemishing" means tarnishing or damaging. This pair does not capture the essence of legal proceedings and allegations related to the 2020 presidential election.

In summary, the correct answer is (d) Succour, subverting. This choice accurately reflects the legal context involving former President Donald Trump, suggesting that he appeared to receive a measure of legal support ("succour") from the Supreme Court. The sentence further mentions the court's decision to hear arguments about his right to immunity from federal criminal prosecution for allegedly undermining or destabilizing ("subverting") the 2020 presidential election.

9. Questions

Answer: D

Embroiled, attrition

a). Distorted, accretion - "Distorted" means twisted or misshaped, and "accretion" refers to gradual growth. This combination does not convey the idea of the US getting involved in prolonged wars.

b). Obscured, defiance - "Obscured" means hidden or unclear, and "defiance" refers to resistance or opposition. This pair does not capture the essence of the US's involvement in wars.

c). Exposed, retainment - "Exposed" means revealed or made known, and "retainment" implies keeping or holding onto something. This combination does not fit the context of the US becoming deeply involved in wars.

d). Embroiled, attrition - "Embroiled" means deeply involved or entangled, and "attrition" refers to the gradual wearing down of resources or strength. This combination accurately conveys the intended meaning of the US being caught up in prolonged wars, leading to a decline in resources. This combination accurately conveys the sense of the US being deeply involved in wars with a gradual wearing down of resources or strength.

Emancipated, blemish - "Emancipated" means liberated or set free, and "blemish" refers to a flaw or imperfection. This pair does not align with the context of the US's involvement in wars and its impact on India's diplomacy.

In summary, option (d) Embroiled, attrition is the most suitable choice for expressing the idea of the US getting deeply involved in protracted wars, causing a decline in resources and creating challenges for India's foreign and trade diplomacy.

10. Questions

Answer: E

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

No replacement required

a). Transpire, deterring: "Transpire" means to occur or happen. This doesn't fit well in the context of electoral cycles. "Deterring" means discouraging or preventing. This doesn't align with the positive tone of the sentence.

b). Predate, fostering - "Predate" means to exist or occur before something else, and "fostering" means promoting or encouraging. While "fostering" fits the context, "predate" does not align with the idea of synchronizing electoral cycles.

c). Succeed, forwarding: "Succeed" doesn't quite match with the idea of synchronizing electoral cycles. "Forwarding" is not the most appropriate term in this context.

d). Follow, assisting: "Follow" doesn't convey the idea of synchronization as effectively as "synchronize" does. "Assisting" is positive, but it doesn't capture the essence of enhancing governance efficiency through synchronized electoral cycles.

Synchronise, fostering: "Synchronise" fits well with the idea of aligning electoral cycles. "Fostering" is a positive term that aligns with the idea of promoting economic development. These two words correctly captures the intended meaning of the sentence. Therefore, the correct answer is: e) No replacement required.

11. Questions

Answer: B

Instilled, surge

a). Convinced, dwindle - While "convinced" fits the context of increasing confidence, "dwindle" means to diminish or reduce, which is opposite to the intended meaning of a positive outcome.

b). Instilled, surge - "Instilled" means to inspire or introduce gradually, which makes sense in the context of boosting confidence. "Surge" refers to a sudden increase, aligning well with the idea of a positive sentiment rise. This combination correctly conveys the intended meaning.

c). Affected, burgeon - "Affected" is too vague in this context, and "burgeon" means to grow or expand, which could be positive, but it doesn't capture the idea of actively boosting confidence.

d). Entrenched, plunge - "Entrenched" typically implies being firmly established, which doesn't fit well with the concept of actively building confidence. "Plunge" indicates a sharp decline, which is opposite to the intended positive outcome.

Intruded, plummet - "Intruded" suggests an unwelcome intrusion, which doesn't make sense in the context of policies influencing confidence positively. "Plummet" means to fall rapidly, which is contrary to the idea of a rise in positive sentiment.

In summary, option (b) Instilled, surge is the most suitable choice for expressing the government's policies positively impacting investor confidence and leading to a surge in positive sentiment.

12. Questions

Answer: A

Plethora, indictments

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b). Profusion, imputations - While "profusion" means an abundance, "imputations" typically refers to attributing actions to someone. However, "imputations" may not precisely convey the idea of criminal charges.

c). Competence, assertions - "Competence" refers to the ability or skill, and "assertions" are statements or declarations. This combination does not capture the concept of a multitude of legal cases and criminal charges.

d). Opulence, implications - "Opulence" refers to great wealth, and "implications" suggest possible consequences. This pair does not fit the context of legal cases and criminal charges against Mr. Trump.

Paucity, denouncements - "Paucity" means a scarcity or lack of, and "denouncements" are public condemnations. This combination contradicts the idea of a multitude of legal cases.

In summary, the correct answer is (a) Plethora, indictments. This choice aptly conveys that there is an abundance or large number ("plethora") of legal cases against Mr. Trump, which includes four criminal charges known as "indictments." The sentence emphasizes the significance of the timing of the ruling on presidential immunity in impacting these legal proceedings.

13. Questions

Answer: E

ACDE-B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “The Left Democratic Front (LDF) sought to portray the Presidential assent for the Kerala Lok Ayukta (Amendment) Bill as an oblique critique of Governor Arif Mohammed Khan’s “obstinate refusal” to sign laws passed by the Assembly”.

The odd one out is B. The Governor’s address in the Assembly, minced no words in flaying the Governor. This statement is self-contradictory, as it suggests that the Governor's address flayed the Governor, which is illogical. The other statements (A, C, D, and E) maintain a coherent theme related to the Left Democratic Front's portrayal, the Lok Ayukta Bill, and the Governor's actions.

14. Questions

Answer: C

BCED-A

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (c) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “Accusing the Congress government in Karnataka of failure to comply with the law-and-order norms as well as upholding of constitutional values, the Opposition BJP petitioned Governor Thaawar Chand Gehlot to recommend dismissal of the government to the Centre.”

The odd one out is A. Leader of Opposition in the Assembly and BJP leader R Ashoka claimed that. This statement introduces a claim by the Leader of the Opposition, while the other statements (B, C, D, and E) focus on accusations, the failure of the Congress government, the petition to the Governor, and the alleged non-compliance with law-and-order norms and constitutional values.

15. Questions

Answer: B

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

ACDE-B

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “According to Mizoram’s Home Department, 32,221 people displaced by the civil war in Myanmar and 1,167 people fleeing alleged ethnic persecution in Bangladesh have taken refuge in the State since 2021.”

The odd one out is B. Providing assistance to the state government to provide relief to refugees.

This statement introduces a different perspective, discussing assistance to the state government, while the other statements (A, C, D, and E) focus on the number of people displaced by the civil war in Myanmar, those fleeing ethnic persecution, and the number of refugees who have taken refuge in Mizoram since 2021.

16. Questions

Answer: E

CABD-E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (e) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “As the Manipur Assembly passed a resolution to urge the Union government to abrogate the suspension of operations (SoO) pact with Kuki-Zo insurgent groups, in effect since 2008, suspense prevailed over the extension of the agreement.”

The odd one out is E. To find a solution to the Kuki political course in 1987.

This statement introduces a different topic related to the Kuki political course in 1987, while the other statements (A, B, C, and D) are more focused on the current situation regarding the abrogation of the suspension of operations (SoO) pact, its extension, and the resolution passed by the Manipur Assembly.

17. Questions

Answer: A

ABCD-E

While going through the Sentence, only arrangement (a) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: “In a move to address one of the core anomalies of the Services with their civil counterparts in the government, the Centre has decided to grant non-functional upgrade (NFU) benefit over which a legal battle has been going on for some time.”

The odd one out is E. In the steeply-pyramidal structure of the armed forces.

This statement introduces a different aspect, discussing the structure of the armed forces, while the other statements (A, B, C, and D) are more focused on addressing anomalies in the Services, granting non-functional upgrade benefits, and mentioning a legal battle related to these issues.

18. Questions

Answer: B

B and D

Part B: "...to marked two years of Russian..."

The correct form is "to mark" instead of "to marked" to maintain proper verb usage.

Corrected: "...to mark two years of Russian..."

Part D: "...as concerns grows..."

The correct form is "grow" instead of "grows" to match the plural noun "concerns."

Tg: @NextGenBankers

Corrected: "...as concerns grow..."

After corrections, the sentence reads: "Western powers joined Ukraine last weekend to mark two years of Russian aggression on its territory, as concerns grow that the conflict could spread into Europe."

19. Questions

Answer: C

C and E

Part C: "...hovered among 30% and 50% in 2021..."

The error in Part C involves the incorrect use of "among" with specific percentages. The correct preposition to use with distinct percentages is "between." Also, it is better to use "between" when dealing with a range.

Corrected: "...hovered between 30% and 50% in 2021..."

Part E: "...above the national average to many classes..."

The error in Part E involves the preposition "to," which is incorrect in this context. The correct preposition is "for" when indicating performance in classes.

Corrected: "...above the national average for many classes..."

After corrections, the sentence reads: "The learning outcomes of students from Classes 3 to 10 in all subjects in Delhi schools hovered between 30% and 50% in 2021, even as the performance was above the national average for many classes."

20. Questions

Answer: B

B and E

Part B: "...expose the grave..."

The error in Part B involves the subject-verb agreement. The subject "damage" is singular, so the verb should be "exposes," not "expose."

Part E: "... through the region is further impact..."

The error in Part E involves the use of the incorrect form "impact" after "is further." The correct form is "impacted" to maintain proper verb usage.

After corrections, the sentence reads: "The damage to the cable systems in the Red Sea as a result of the ongoing conflict in the region exposes the grave vulnerabilities of India's Internet and overseas telecom connectivity systems if infrastructure passing through the region is further impacted."

21. Questions

Answer: D

D and E

Part D: "...were seize from wildlife smugglers..."

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBanks

The error in Part D is the use of "seize" instead of the correct past tense "seized." The verb should agree with the past time frame specified in the sentence.

The correction involves changing "seize" to "seized."

Corrected: "... were seized from wildlife smugglers..."

Part E: "...between 2018 to 2023..."

The correct preposition to use with "between" is "and," not "to."

Corrected: "...between 2018 and 2023..."

After corrections, the sentence reads: "As per the information furnished by the Forest Department in the State Assembly, as many as 59 leopard skins were seized from wildlife smugglers between 2018 and 2023."

22. Questions

Answer: A

A and D

Part A: "The Union Environment Ministry plan to set up..."

The error in Part A involves the subject-verb agreement. "Plan" should be "plans" to match the singular subject "The Union Environment Ministry."

Part A Correction: "The Union Environment Ministry plans to set up..."

Part D: "...an India-headquartered initiate to promote..."

The error in Part D involves the incorrect use of the word "initiate." It should be "initiative" to convey the intended meaning of a new plan or project.

Part D Correction: "...an India-headquartered initiative to promote..."

After corrections, the sentence reads: "The Union Environment Ministry plans to set up and coordinate an International Big Cat Alliance (IBCA), along the lines of the International Solar Alliance, an India-headquartered initiative to promote solar installations globally."

sky5sup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

1. Questions

Each of the following questions has a paragraph from which some part has been deleted at the end. From the given options, choose the one that completes the paragraph in the most appropriate way.

The advent of financial technology (fintech) has brought about transformative changes in the banking landscape. Fintech innovations, such as mobile banking apps and peer-to-peer payment platforms, have empowered customers with greater control over their finances. As the industry embraces these digital advancements, it becomes imperative for banks to focus on _____.

a. fostering collaboration with fintech startups for innovation

b. restricting access to digital banking for security reasons

c. investing in outdated banking infrastructure for reliability

d. maintaining traditional banking practices for stability

e. discouraging customers from using digital banking services

2. Questions

In recent years, open banking has emerged as a transformative trend in the financial industry. Open banking involves the sharing of financial data between banks and third-party providers, fostering innovation and competition. While this collaborative approach enhances the range of financial services available to consumers, it also raises concerns about _____.

a. compromising the security and privacy of customer information

b. limiting access to financial data to maintain traditional banking practices

c. discouraging technological advancements in the financial sector

d. promoting a closed and less competitive banking environment

e. increasing fees and reducing transparency in financial transactions

3. Questions

The rise of FinTech (Financial Technology) has brought about significant changes in the banking landscape. FinTech companies leverage technology to provide innovative financial services, from mobile payments to robo-advisors. While these advancements offer convenience and accessibility, traditional banks face the challenge of _____.

a. increasing reliance on outdated banking infrastructure

b. reducing customer engagement through digital channels

c. adopting a conservative approach to technological integration

d. embracing digital transformation to remain competitive

e. promoting a shift towards manual and paper-based transactions

4. Questions

skyStup@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

With the increasing popularity of online banking services, customers now have the flexibility to manage their finances from the comfort of their homes. Mobile banking apps offer features such as fund transfers, bill payments, and account monitoring at the fingertips of users. However, to foster financial inclusion and cater to a diverse customer base, it is essential for banks to invest in _____.

a. traditional paper-based communication methods for a wider reach

b. limiting digital services to ensure security

c. offering exclusive services for a select demographic

d. innovative and user-friendly accessibility features

e. reducing customer support services for cost-effectiveness

5. Questions

E-commerce has become an integral part of modern retail, providing consumers with the convenience of shopping online from the comfort of their homes. The growth of e-commerce platforms has been fuelled by technological advancements, secure payment gateways, and efficient logistics. However, to address the challenges of increasing competition and consumer expectations, it is crucial for e-commerce businesses to invest in _____.

a. expanding brick-and-mortar stores for a hybrid shopping experience

b. reducing investments in website security for cost-cutting

c. implementing outdated payment processing systems

d. artificial intelligence for personalized shopping recommendations

e. relying solely on traditional advertising methods

6. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is given with a blank, which is followed by a word. You have to identify the given word is correct or not, if not, choose the correct word from the following options.

Tripura suspended its top forest official for recording two lions as Seeta and Akbar, after the Calcutta High Court cautioned against naming zoo animals after deities and prominent figures _____(despised) by people.

a. detested

b. reviled

c. revered

d. execrated

e. No replacement required

7. Questions

sky53m@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The dilemma between exit and entry exams is a _____ (perishable) issue in the Indian education system.

a. ephemeral
b. occasional
c. transitory
d. perennial
e. No replacement required

8. Questions

In a setback for ruling CPI(M) in Kerala, the President has withheld the assent for three Bills passed by the State Legislative Assembly, including one _____ (verified) to divest the governor from the position of chancellor of universities in Kerala.

a. pioneered
b. envisaged
c. conceived
d. deduced
e. No replacement required

9. Questions

The central government may be financially strong, but the fact remains that this strength _____ (absorbs) from the taxpayers who are residing in these states.

a. exudes
b. irradiates
c. expels
d. emanates
e. No replacement required

10. Questions

The Indian farmer has been _____(unleashed) to tragic circumstances for over a century.

a. confined
b. shackled
c. immured
d. penned
e. No replacement required

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

11. Questions

In the following questions, there are two sentences given below with two or three words highlighted in each sentence and have been interchanged inappropriately. You have to choose the proper arrangement of bold words from the given options to make the given sentences meaningful.

I). The leaders of China and Russia are determined to maintain their authoritarian regimes and seek to herald (A) the international system, using trade, pressure and diasporic (B) ties to obstruct the spread of western democratic values that have held sway for decades.

II). And although there is no chance of dethroning (C) the international financial settlement infrastructure soon, BRICS' policies seem to reshape (D) a contest between local currencies and the dollar because the risks in the current dollar-centric system are unacceptably high.

a. A-D

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

12. Questions

I). Three decades have passed since the 73rd and 74th Constitutional Amendments Acts came into effect, which forged (A) that local bodies in India would function as institutions (B) of local self-government.

II). When it comes to analysing the status of devolution (C), it is evident that some States have envisaged (D) ahead while many lag behind.

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

13. Questions

I). The Supreme Court squashed (A) the electoral bonds Scheme unconstitutional, saying that the anonymous influx of funding to political parties, especially from corporations, hinders democratic legitimacy (B).

II). The unanimous judgment ruled (C) the government's argument that the scheme is transparent (D) because donors have to go through official banking channels to purchase these bonds, despite their identity being hidden.

a. A-C

b. B-D

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

14. Questions

I). Anonymous donations of high value tend to undermine (A) electoral democracy and governance as they facilitate a quid pro quo culture funding (B) donors and beneficiaries.

II). In striking down the Electoral Bond Scheme (EBS) under which anyone could buy electoral bonds and donate them to political parties for encashment, the Supreme Court of India has recognised this malaise and struck (C) a blow for democracy and transparency in political involving (D).

a. A-C

b. B-D

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

15. Questions

I). The government has stipulated (A) that a significant portion of the defence capital procurement budget should be revealed (B) to the domestic industry.

II). The ministry of external affairs (MEA) diverted (C) that there are still 20 Indians stranded (D) in Russia, and the government is making efforts to bring them back from the conflict zone.

a. A-D

b. B-C

c. A-C and B-D

d. B-C and A-D

e. No Correction required

16. Questions

For the following questions, some sentences are given. Arrange the sentences in a meaningful paragraph and also find which of the sentences is out of context. Identify the correct answers for some of the activities given in the sentences.

A). VSHORADS is a man-portable air-defence system designed and developed indigenously by Research Centre Imarat (RCI) in collaboration with other Defence Research and Development Organisation (DRDO) laboratories and Indian industry partners.

B). India has conducted two successful flight tests of a very short-range air defence missile off the coast of Odisha.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

C). On February 28 and 29 from a ground-based portable launcher off the coast of Odisha (P)/ The DRDO conducted two successful flight tests (Q)/ from integrated test range, Chandipur (R)/ of Very Short-Range Air Defence System (VSHORADS) missiles (S).

D). The tests were carried out against high-speed unmanned aerial targets under different interception scenarios.

E). During all the test flights, the targets were intercepted and destroyed by the missiles, met the mission objectives.

F). Yet at the same time, the DRDO has done some path-breaking work in guided missile systems.

Identify the sentence which is out of the central theme of the passage.

a. B
b. C
c. D
d. E
e. F

17. Questions

Find the correct rearrangement of the sentence (C) which is divided into four parts.

a. PQRS
b. QSPR
c. PQSR
d. RQSP
e. QPSR

18. Questions

Find the error in the sentence (E) divided into four parts, given in italics, if the sentence is correct, mark option E.

a. During all the test flights
b. the targets were intercepted
c. and destroyed by the missiles
d. met the mission objectives
e. No correction required

19. Questions

Find the suitable arrangement of the sentences.

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

a. ABCDE

b. BCADE

c. BCDAE

d. CDAEB

e. CDEBA

20. Questions

Find the suitable Antonym of the word highlighted (indigenous) in bold.

a. endemic

b. intrinsic

c. innate

d. exotic

e. None of these

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: A

fostering collaboration with fintech startups for innovation.

The correct option is: a). fostering collaboration with fintech startups for innovation.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on the transformative changes brought about by fintech in the banking landscape. Fostering collaboration with fintech startups allows traditional banks to tap into innovative technologies, services, and approaches that can enhance customer experiences and operational efficiency. As the industry evolves, collaborating with fintech innovators becomes crucial for staying competitive and meeting the evolving expectations of customers. The other options either involve counterproductive measures, such as investing in outdated infrastructure (c) or discouraging digital banking usage (e), or miss the opportunity for embracing innovation in the digital age.

b). Restricting access to digital banking for security reasons: While security is paramount, outright restricting access to digital banking is counterproductive. The focus should be on implementing robust security measures rather than limiting access, as digital banking has become an integral part of modern financial services.

c). Investing in outdated banking infrastructure for reliability: Investing in outdated infrastructure contradicts the need for modernization and innovation in the banking sector. Reliable and secure infrastructure can be achieved through modern technologies, making this option less suitable for the evolving landscape.

d). Maintaining traditional banking practices for stability: While stability is essential, maintaining only traditional practices may hinder a bank's ability to adapt to the rapidly changing financial landscape. Fintech innovations provide opportunities for increased efficiency and improved customer experiences.

e). Discouraging customers from using digital banking services: Discouraging customers from using digital banking services would neglect the benefits of convenience and accessibility that digital channels provide. Instead of discouraging use, the focus should be on promoting secure practices and educating customers about safe digital banking practices.

In summary, the chosen completion (a) emphasizes the importance of fostering collaboration with fintech startups for innovation, aligning with the idea that collaboration with innovative entities can bring fresh ideas and advancements to the banking industry.

2. Questions

Answer: A

compromising the security and privacy of customer information.

The correct option is: a). compromising the security and privacy of customer information.

This option aligns with the paragraph's theme, highlighting the concerns associated with open banking. While open banking promotes innovation and competition, the sharing of financial data raises legitimate concerns about the security and privacy of customer information. The challenge is to strike a balance between fostering collaboration and ensuring robust security measures to protect sensitive financial data from unauthorized access or breaches.

The other options present negative consequences that are not explicitly associated with the drawbacks of open banking:

b). Limiting access to financial data to maintain traditional banking practices: This option implies resistance to innovation and collaboration without specifically addressing the security and privacy concerns associated with open banking.

c). Discouraging technological advancements in the financial sector: This option is not directly related to the concerns raised by open banking but rather suggests a broader opposition to technological progress.

d). Promoting a closed and less competitive banking environment: While this may be a consequence of open banking, the primary focus of the paragraph is on the potential compromise of security and privacy.

e). Increasing fees and reducing transparency in financial transactions: This option introduces concerns related to fees and transparency, which, while valid, are not the primary concerns highlighted in the paragraph regarding the security and privacy of customer information.

3. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: D

embracing digital transformation to remain competitive.

This option aligns with the theme of the paragraph, which discusses the impact of FinTech on traditional banking. As FinTech companies leverage technology to provide innovative financial services, traditional banks face the challenge of staying competitive in the digital era. Embracing digital transformation is crucial for traditional banks to adapt to changing consumer preferences, improve efficiency, and remain relevant in the evolving banking landscape. The other options either suggest outdated or counterproductive approaches, such as increasing reliance on outdated infrastructure (a), reducing customer engagement through digital channels (b), adopting a conservative approach to technological integration (c), or promoting a shift towards manual and paper-based transactions (e), which are not aligned with the trend towards digital banking solutions.

4. Questions

Answer: D

innovative and user-friendly accessibility features.

This option aligns with the paragraph's focus on the increasing popularity of online banking services and the need to foster financial inclusion. Investing in innovative and user-friendly accessibility features ensures that online banking services are accessible to a diverse customer base, including those who may have varying levels of digital literacy or face accessibility challenges. This approach promotes inclusivity and a positive user experience, making banking services more widely available and convenient. The other options either involve outdated practices (a), compromise security (b), limit accessibility (c), or reduce customer support services (e), which do not contribute to fostering financial inclusion and serving a diverse customer base.

5. Questions

Answer: D

artificial intelligence for personalized shopping recommendations.

This option aligns with the paragraph's emphasis on addressing challenges and staying competitive in the e-commerce sector. Utilizing artificial intelligence (AI) for personalized shopping recommendations is a strategy that enhances the customer experience, increases engagement, and addresses the expectations of modern consumers. AI algorithms analyze user behavior, preferences, and purchase history to provide tailored product suggestions, contributing to higher customer satisfaction and potentially increased sales. The other options either involve outdated or counterproductive practices, such as relying solely on traditional advertising methods (e) or reducing investments in website security (b), which could compromise customer trust and data security.

a). Expanding brick-and-mortar stores for a hybrid shopping experience: While a hybrid shopping experience integrating physical and online stores can be beneficial, the paragraph focuses on addressing challenges and staying competitive in the e-commerce sector. This option suggests a shift away from pure e-commerce, which may not align with the current emphasis on online shopping convenience.

b). Reducing investments in website security for cost-cutting: Reducing investments in website security poses significant risks to the integrity of e-commerce platforms. In an era where cybersecurity is crucial, maintaining robust security measures is essential to protect customer data. This option could compromise the trust and confidence of online shoppers.

Tg. @NextGenBankers

c). Implementing outdated payment processing systems: Implementing outdated payment processing systems could lead to inefficiencies, security vulnerabilities, and a suboptimal user experience. Modern e-commerce thrives on efficient and secure payment processing, and utilizing outdated systems may hinder transactions and expose the platform to potential risks.

e). Relying solely on traditional advertising methods: Relying solely on traditional advertising methods overlooks the digital landscape where e-commerce predominantly operates. In the online realm, digital marketing and advertising play a vital role in reaching a broader audience. This option may limit the visibility and reach of the e-commerce platform.

In summary, the chosen completion (d) emphasizes the importance of leveraging artificial intelligence for personalized shopping recommendations, aligning with the trend of enhancing customer experience and addressing challenges in the e-commerce sector.

6. Questions

Answer: C

revered

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of naming zoo animals after deities and prominent figures who are highly regarded or respected by people is "revered."

Therefore, the correct answer is: c) revered

Detested (Option a), reviled (Option b), execrated (Option d), and despised all mean to strongly dislike or have intense negative feelings toward something or someone. These words have a negative connotation and do not fit the context of naming animals after deities and prominent figures.

Revered (Option c) means to regard with deep respect and admiration. This word accurately conveys the idea that deities and prominent figures are highly regarded and respected by people.

So, in the context of naming zoo animals after such figures, "revered" is the most appropriate word to use.

7. Questions

Answer: D

perennial

The word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of an issue that is persistent and enduring is "perennial."

Therefore, the correct answer is: d) perennial

Ephemeral (Option a) means lasting for a very short time, and it doesn't convey the idea of a long-standing issue.

Occasional (Option b) means happening from time to time, but it doesn't capture the sense of continuous and persistent nature implied by the sentence.

Transitory (Option c) means not permanent, lasting only for a short time. It also does not convey the sense of a long-standing and persistent issue.

Perennial (Option d) means lasting or existing for a long time, often used to describe something enduring or persistent. This word accurately conveys the idea that the dilemma between exit and entry exams is an issue that has been persistent over time in the Indian education system.

Perishable means likely to decay or spoil, usually in a short period. It is not the correct term to describe a long-standing issue.

So, "perennial" is the most appropriate word in this context.

8. Questions

Answer: B

envisaged

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of one "envisioned" or planned is "envisaged."

Therefore, the correct answer is: b) envisaged

Pioneered (Option a) means to initiate or be the first to do something. It does not fit the context of the sentence, which is discussing the withholding of assent for bills, not the initiation of a new idea or action.

Envisaged (Option b) means to foresee or imagine as a future possibility. This word accurately conveys the idea that one of the bills was related to divesting the governor from the position of chancellor, and this was envisioned or planned.

Conceived (Option c) means to form an idea or concept in the mind. While similar in meaning to "envisaged," it is not the most precise fit in the context of legislative actions and assent withholding.

Deduced (Option d) means to reach a conclusion based on evidence or reasoning, but it doesn't convey the idea of planning or intending.

Verified means to confirm the truth or accuracy of something, and it is not the appropriate term for describing the content of the bill related to divesting the governor from the position of chancellor.

In conclusion, "envisaged" accurately conveys the idea of planning or foreseeing the content of the bill in the context of the sentence.

9. Questions

Answer: D

emanates

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea that the strength of the central government comes from the taxpayers in these states is "emanates."

Therefore, the correct answer is: d) emanates

Exudes (Option a) means to discharge or give off, often in a subtle or gradual manner. While it conveys a sense of emitting something, it might not be as fitting as "emanates" in this context.

Irradiates (Option b) means to emit or give off radiation, which doesn't accurately convey the idea of financial strength coming from taxpayers.

Expels (Option c) means to force out or discharge, which is not the intended meaning in the context of the sentence. The financial strength is not forcefully expelled from taxpayers.

Emanates (Option d) means to originate or come from a source. In the context of the sentence, it accurately conveys that the strength of the central government originates from the taxpayers in these states.

Absorbs means to take in or soak up, which is the opposite of what is intended in the sentence. The financial strength is not absorbed by taxpayers; rather, it originates from them.

sky3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NEWGENBankers

So, "emanates" is the most appropriate word in this context.

10. Questions

Answer: B

shackled

In this sentence, the word that best fits in the blank to convey the idea of being subjected to unfortunate or restrictive circumstances is "shackled."

Therefore, the correct answer is: b) shackled

Confined (Option a) means to be restricted within certain limits, but it may not fully capture the sense of being subjected to tragic circumstances.

Shackled (Option b) metaphorically refers to being bound or constrained, often in a way that suggests hardship or limitation. This word aligns well with the idea of the Indian farmer facing unfortunate circumstances.

Immured (Option c) means to be enclosed or imprisoned, which is a stronger term than "confined" and may not precisely fit the context of the sentence.

Penned (Option d) means to be confined in a small space, typically used for animals. While it conveys restriction, it may not capture the depth of the tragic circumstances as effectively as "shackled."

Unleashed means to release or set free, which is the opposite of the intended meaning in the sentence. The context is about enduring tragic circumstances, not being unleashed from them.

Therefore, "shackled" is the most appropriate word to convey the sense of enduring unfortunate or restrictive circumstances over a long period.

11. Questions

Answer: A

A-D

In the given sentences, 'herald' and 'reshape' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The leaders of China and Russia are determined to maintain their authoritarian regimes and seek to reshape the international system, using trade, pressure and diasporic ties to obstruct the spread of western democratic values that have held sway for decades.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

II). And although there is no chance of dethroning the international financial settlement infrastructure soon, BRICS' policies seem to herald a contest between local currencies and the dollar because the risks in the current dollar-centric system are unacceptably high.

12. Questions

Answer: A

A-D

In the given sentences, 'forged' and 'envisaged' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). Three decades have passed since the 73rd and 74th Constitutional Amendments Acts came into effect, which envisaged that local bodies in India would function as institutions of local self-government.

II). When it comes to analysing the status of devolution, it is evident that some States have forged ahead while many lag behind.

13. Questions

Answer: A

A-C

In the given sentences, 'squashed' and 'ruled' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The Supreme Court ruled the electoral bonds Scheme unconstitutional, saying that the anonymous influx of funding to political parties, especially from corporations, hinders democratic legitimacy.

II). The unanimous judgment squashed the government's argument that the scheme is transparent because donors have to go through official banking channels to purchase these bonds, despite their identity being hidden.

14. Questions

Answer: B

B-D

In the given sentences, 'funding' and 'involving' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). Anonymous donations of high value tend to undermine electoral democracy and governance as they facilitate a quid pro quo culture involving donors and beneficiaries.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

II). In striking down the Electoral Bond Scheme (EBS) under which anyone could buy electoral bonds and donate them to political parties for encashment, the Supreme Court of India has recognised this malaise and struck a blow for democracy and transparency in political funding.

15. Questions

Answer: B

B-C

In the given sentences, 'diverted' and 'revealed' at their current positions fail to impart valid meaning to the sentences, but interchanging them will make the given sentences both grammatically and contextually correct.

The correct sentences after re arrangement are:

I). The government has stipulated that a significant portion of the defence capital procurement budget should be diverted to the domestic industry.

II). The ministry of external affairs (MEA) revealed that there are still 20 Indians stranded in Russia, and the government is making efforts to bring them back from the conflict zone.

16. Questions

Answer: E

F

Sentences A to E primarily focus on the successful flight tests of the Very Short-Range Air Defence System (VSHORADS) missiles, providing details about the development, testing, and outcomes of the system. Sentence F, however, shifts the focus to the broader achievements of the DRDO in guided missile systems, introducing a different aspect not directly related to the specific topic of the VSHORADS missile tests off the coast of Odisha.

17. Questions

Answer: B

QSPR

While going through the sentence, only arrangement (b) makes a contextually meaningful sentence. The sentence thus formed is: "The DRDO conducted two successful flight tests of Very Short-Range Air Defense System (VSHORADS) missiles on February 28 and 29 from a ground-based portable launcher off the coast of Odisha from integrated test range, Chandipur."

18. Questions

Answer: D

met the mission objectives.

The error in this sentence involves the incorrect structure of the sentence. The phrase "met the mission objectives" lacks a conjunction or a connector to properly link it to the previous part of the sentence.

Error: Part d) should be corrected to "meeting the mission objectives."

Corrected Version: To address the error, Part d) should be corrected to "meeting the mission objectives."

So, the corrected sentence would read: "During all the test flights, the targets were intercepted and destroyed by the missiles, meeting the mission objectives." This version provides a proper structure and coherence to the sentence.

19. Questions

skysolo@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Answer: B

BCADE

The correct sequence starts with sentence B, highlighting the successful flight tests of a very short-range air defense missile off the coast of Odisha. Sentence C follows, providing details about the DRDO conducting two successful flight tests of VSHORADS on February 28 and 29. Sentence A adds additional information about VSHORADS and its development. Sentence D specifies that the tests were carried out against high-speed unmanned aerial targets. Finally, sentence E concludes by stating that the targets were intercepted and destroyed during all the test flights, meeting the mission objectives.

The paragraph provides information about the successful flight tests of the Very Short-Range Air Defense System (VSHORADS) conducted by the Defense Research and Development Organization (DRDO) in collaboration with other entities.

So, the correct sequence is: B - C – A – D - E.

20. Questions

Answer: D

exotic

In this context, the suitable antonym for the word "indigenously" (highlighted) is: d) exotic

"Indigenously" in this context means that the VSHORADS system was designed and developed within the native country, in this case, India.

The antonym for "indigenously" would be "exotic," indicating something that is foreign or not native to the region where it is being discussed.

a). Endemic: Endemic refers to the presence or prevalence of something within a specific geographic area or population. This term does not directly convey the opposite meaning of "indigenously," which is about being native or originating in a particular region.

b). Intrinsic: Intrinsic relates to the essential nature or inherent qualities of something. Intrinsic doesn't represent the opposite of "indigenously." It focuses on inherent qualities rather than the origin or native status.

c). Innate: Innate describes qualities or characteristics that are inborn or natural. Like "intrinsic," "innate" does not directly oppose the concept of "indigenously," which is more about origin or native status.

d). Exotic: Exotic refers to something that is foreign, not native, or originating from another place.

In the context provided, the word "indigenously" indicates that the system was developed within the native country, making "exotic" the most suitable antonym.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

In summary, while options (a), (b), and (c) have some relation to the concept of origin or nature, they do not directly oppose the meaning of "indigenously." Option (d), "exotic," is the best choice as it conveys the idea of something foreign or non-native, which is the opposite of "indigenously" in this context.

1. Questions

Read the paragraph carefully and answer the following questions:

In a landmark ruling, the Supreme Court has declared regulations mandating the dismissal of women from jobs upon marriage as “archaic, discriminatory and in violation of constitutional principles.” The judgment marks another significant step towards gender equality and the protection of women's rights. For decades, countless women across job sectors have faced the harsh reality of being forced out of employment solely because of their marital status or family obligations. Such discriminatory practices not only (__A__) gender inequality but also hinder women's economic independence and professional growth. The Supreme Court’s decision to strike down these rules is a resounding victory for gender justice and workplace equality, besides reaffirming the constitutional guarantee of equality before the law and non-discrimination on the grounds of gender. It is also a stride towards ensuring a society that typically takes the fair sex as unreliable and untrustworthy who would leave their work midway to tend to their families. The (__B__) of such regressive rules extend far beyond individual women; they contribute to a culture of inequality and reinforce harmful stereotypes. By dismantling these barriers, the judiciary has taken a significant step towards dismantling systemic gender discrimination and promoting a more inclusive and equitable society. Of course, changes that stand the test of time must come from within a society but legal protection is also necessary to ensure a progressive society. The judgment underscores the importance of upholding women's right to work and pursue career opportunities without facing arbitrary restrictions. Women should not have to choose between their personal lives and professional aspirations; they deserve the freedom to navigate both spheres on their own terms. Besides, the economic implications of (C) bereaving women of employment opportunities are profound. Gender equality at the workforce is not just a matter of principle but also a crucial factor in promoting economic growth and social development. By (D) exploiting the talent and potential of all individuals, irrespective of their gender, societies can foster innovation, productivity and prosperity. Additionally, efforts to combat gender-based discrimination must extend beyond legal frameworks to encompass broader societal attitudes and norms. Education, awareness campaigns and (__E__) are essential tools in challenging deep-rooted biases and promoting gender equality. While the apex court's decision represents a significant milestone in the fight for women's rights, it is only the beginning of a broader movement towards gender equality. Sustained efforts from all stakeholders, including Governments, employers, civil society and individuals, are necessary to create a truly inclusive and equitable society. For the moment, however, we can cherish that one more glass ceiling has been (__F__) and the court deserves a round of applause.

Which of the following words can fit in the blank A?

a. observe

b. secure

c. propagate

d. spread

e. perpetuate

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

2. Questions

Which of the following words can fit in the blank B?

a. nuances
b. imputations
c. suggestions
d. repercussions
e. significations

3. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "bereaving" used in the Passage?

a. diminishing
b. depriving
c. expelling
d. ousting
e. losing

4. Questions

Which of the following words can replace "exploiting" used in the Passage?

a. guiding
b. harnessing
c. handling
d. adopting
e. directing

5. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank E?

a. censure
b. advancement
c. assistance
d. encouragement
e. none of the above

6. Questions

Which of the following words cannot fit in the blank F?

a. infringed

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

b. flouted

c. contravened

d. breached

e. followed

7. Questions

In the following questions, a table is given with three columns; a divided sentence is mentioned in three columns you have to combine the divided parts of the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Sustainable employment opportunities are crucial for	D). empowering individuals in poverty to start and sustain	G). a stable source of income for their livelihoods.
B). Access to credit and financial services is essential for	E). is crucial for breaking the cycle of poverty,	H). small businesses, fostering economic growth.
C). Empowering women through education and economic opportunities	F). breaking the cycle of poverty, providing families with	I). limiting their impact on the intended beneficiaries.

a. Only ADG

b. Only BDH

c. Both BDG and CEI

d. Both AFG and BDH

e. All ADG, BEH and CFI

8. Questions

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Inclusive economic growth policies aim to ensure that	D). to start and expand small businesses,	G). many residents unable to afford essential medical services.
B). Educational infrastructure varies widely,	E). the benefits of development are shared equitably,	H). fostering economic independence and community development.
C). Microfinance initiatives empower entrepreneurs in poverty	F). with rural schools facing resource shortages and	I). reducing disparities and lifting people out of poverty.

a. Only AEH

b. Only CDH

c. Both AEI and CDH

d. Both AEH and BFG

e. All AEH, BFG and CDI

9. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Lack of access to clean water remains a significant challenge,	D). can disproportionately affect agricultural communities,	G). perpetuating the cycle of poverty into future generations.
B). Malnutrition among children in poverty can have long-term	E). contributing to waterborne diseases and further	H). burdening communities already grappling with poverty.
C). Climate change impacts, such as droughts and floods,	F). consequences on physical and cognitive development,	I). leading to increased poverty levels.

a. Only AEG

b. Only BFH

c. Both AEG and BFH

d. Both BFH and CDI

e. All AEH, BFG and CDI

10. Questions

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Access to credit and financial services is crucial	D). and community-led development, show promise in creating	G). intensifying their struggle with poverty.
B). Empowering women through skill development programs	E). and entrepreneurship initiatives is key to	H). and break free from the cycle of poverty.
C). Innovative approaches, such as social entrepreneurship	F). for empowering individuals to invest in income-generating activities	I). pool resources and address local economic challenges.

a. Only AFH

b. Only BEI

c. Both AFH and BEI

d. Both BEI and CDG

e. All AFH, BEI and CDG

11. Questions

Column I	Column II	Column III
A). Climate-related disasters, such as floods and cyclones,	D). becomes integral to education, employment,	G). leading to loss of livelihoods and assets.
B). The digital literacy gap poses a challenge as technology	E). disproportionately affect impoverished communities,	H). providing employment and empowering communities.
C). Social entrepreneurship initiatives focus on creating	F). sustainable businesses that address social issues,	I). and communication, affecting those in poverty.

a. Only AEG

b. Only BDI

c. Both AEG and CFI

skyprep@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

d. Both BDI and CFH

e. All AEG, BDI and CFH

12. Questions

In each of the questions below two phrases have been highlighted in bold. You are required to replace it with correct phrases in order to make the sentence grammatically and contextually correct.

The government has adjusted the electricity rules to exempt households from a technical feasibility study for power systems up to 10 kW capacity in a bid to enforce rooftop solar adoption

a. has amended; encourage rooftop solar adoption

b. has changed; empower rooftop solar promotion

c. has updated; empower rooftop solar adoption

d. has adapted; stimulate rooftop solar installation

e. has improved; stimulate rooftop solar implementation

13. Questions

The Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has made a preliminary finding that 2,000 crore ($240 million) have been changed out of Zee Entertainment Enterprises' books, and Zee Group founders has been looked up for questioning.

a. have changed; has been called in

b. have been diverted; has been called by

c. has been diverted; have been called in

d. have deflected; have been looked in

e. has been deflected; have been dropped by

14. Questions

The U.S., Egypt and Qatar has been sweating from weeks to find a formula that could halt Israel's striking offensive in Gaza, but now face an unofficial deadline as the Muslim holy month of Ramzan approaches.

a. have been seeking from weeks; devastating offensive in Gaza

b. have been trying for weeks; damaging offensive in Gaza

c. have been struggling for weeks; devastating offensive in Gaza

d. have been aiming from weeks; crippling offensive in Gaza

e. have been working for weeks; desolating offensive in Gaza

15. Questions

skyb3up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

Two years on, it is clear that Russia has absolutely deflated Ukraine as well as the espousal and determination of the international community.

a. Russia has completely underrated Ukraine; assistance and inclination
b. Russia has perfectly neglected Ukraine; approval and assent
c. Russia has entirely ignored Ukraine; sustenance and conation
d. Russia has fully misread Ukraine; encouragement and volition
e. Russia has totally underestimated Ukraine; support and determination

16. Questions

The Union government has specified to explore how the provisions of the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution can be equipped in Ladakh's context.

a. has agreed to examine; can be implemented
b. has arranged to observe; can be provided
c. has allotted to oversee; can be furnished
d. has stated to study; can be prepared
e. has planned to check; can be procured

17. Questions

In the following questions, a sentence is divided into three parts. You have to choose the correct connector to combine the sentence, so that a meaningful sentence can be formed.

I). The bank implemented new security measures, II). It experienced a significant decrease in fraudulent activities, III). It enhanced customer confidence.

A). Hence, but

B). Consequently, and

C). Although, so

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. None of these

18. Questions

I). The central bank raised interest rates,

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg:- @NextGenBankers

II). Inflation was brought under control,

III). It stabilized the economy.

A). Thus, and

B). Despite, but

C). Consequently, so

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Both A and C
d. Both A and B
e. None of these

19. Questions

I). The bank introduced a digital banking platform, II). It aimed to provide customers with seamless online services, III). It could compete in the evolving financial landscape.

A). Nevertheless, though

B). Because, so

C). Thus, and

a. Only A
b. Only B
c. Only C
d. Both A and B
e. None of these

20. Questions

I). The bank invested in advanced AI technology, II). It aimed to streamline its operations,

III). It could provide more efficient services to customers.

A). Hence, and

B). Nevertheless, though

C). Because, so

a. Only A

sky53up@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

b. Only B

c. Only C

d. Both A and B

e. None of these

Explanations:

1. Questions

Answer: E

perpetuate

The word that most appropriately fits in the blank labelled (A) is: e) perpetuate a). observe: This doesn't fit in the context. The sentence is discussing the negative impact of discriminatory practices, and "observe" doesn't convey the idea of actively continuing or maintaining these practices.

b). secure: This doesn't fit the context either. The sentence is describing the negative consequences of discriminatory practices, and "secure" does not convey the idea of causing or perpetuating those consequences.

c). propagate: While "propagate" can mean to spread or promote, it is not the best fit in this context. The sentence is emphasizing the continuation of gender inequality, and "propagate" may not fully capture the negative consequences of discriminatory practices.

d). spread: This is a close contender, but "spread" might not fully convey the idea of maintaining or continuing the discriminatory practices over time. The word "perpetuate," more precisely captures the notion of sustained and prolonged existence.

e). perpetuate: This is the correct answer. "Perpetuate" means to make something continue indefinitely, which fits well in the context of the sentence discussing the ongoing nature of gender inequality resulting from discriminatory practices.

In summary, "perpetuate" is the most suitable choice as it conveys the idea that these discriminatory practices not only contribute to but actively maintain or continue gender inequality.

Therefore, " e) perpetuate " is the word that most appropriately fits the blank (A).

2. Questions

Answer: D

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

repercussions

The word that most appropriately fits in the blank labelled (B) is: d) repercussions.

a). nuances - Nuances refer to subtle differences or distinctions. In this context, it doesn't fit well because the sentence is talking about the broader and more significant impacts of the rules, not subtle distinctions.

b). imputations - Imputations involve attributing something to someone. However, in this context, it doesn't convey the idea of the wide-ranging effects or consequences that the sentence is discussing.

c). suggestions - Suggestions typically refer to proposals or ideas. While the sentence is discussing the effects of the rules, "suggestions" doesn't capture the idea of the consequences or outcomes in the same way that "repercussions" does.

d). repercussions - This is the correct answer. "Repercussions" refers to the often-unintended consequences or effects of an action. In the context of the sentence, it conveys the idea that the negative effects of the regressive rules extend beyond individual women.

e). significations - "Significations" refers to meanings or interpretations. Like "nuances," it doesn't capture the sense of broader, tangible impacts that the sentence is conveying.

In summary, "repercussions" best fits the context of the sentence, as it conveys the broader and often negative consequences of the regressive rules discussed in the passage.

Therefore, " d) repercussions" is the word that most appropriately fits in the blank (B).

3. Questions

Answer: B

depriving

The word that can replace "bereaving" in the given sentence is: b) depriving.

a). diminishing: While "diminishing" implies a reduction, it doesn't fully capture the idea of actively taking away opportunities, as in the context of depriving someone of employment.

b). depriving: This is the correct answer. "Depriving" aligns closely with the idea of taking away or denying someone of something, in this case, employment opportunities.

c). expelling: "Expelling" typically refers to being forced to leave or ejecting someone from a place, like a school or organization. It doesn't quite convey the nuance of taking away opportunities.

d). ousting: Similar to "expelling," "ousting" refers to forcefully removing someone from a position or place. It doesn't specifically address the idea of denying employment opportunities.

e). losing: While "losing" is related to deprivation, it is a more general term and might not convey the deliberate action of taking away opportunities as explicitly as "depriving."

In the context of the passage, the word "depriving" best captures the sense of actively denying women employment opportunities based on their marital status, making it the most appropriate replacement for "bereaving."

Therefore, "b) depriving " is the word that can appropriately replace " bereaving " in the passage.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

4. Questions

Answer: B

harnessing

The word that can replace "exploiting" in the given sentence is: b) harnessing.

a). Guiding: This word refers to providing direction or guidance. While it has a positive connotation, it doesn't convey the idea of utilizing or making use of someone's talent or potential, which is the context in the passage.

b). Harnessing: This word means to utilize or make use of something, often implying a positive and productive use. In the context of the passage, it aligns well with the idea of utilizing the talent and potential of all individuals, irrespective of their gender.

c). Handling: While "handling" can mean dealing with or managing, it doesn't capture the sense of utilizing someone's talents or potential for a positive outcome.

d). Adopting: This word typically means to take up or accept, and in the context of the passage, it doesn't convey the idea of making use of someone's talent or potential.

e). Directing: This word involves giving guidance or instructions, but it doesn't precisely convey the sense of utilizing someone's talent or potential for a positive purpose.

In the context of the passage, "harnessing" is the most appropriate choice as it emphasizes making productive use of the talent and potential of all individuals.

Therefore, "b) harnessing" is the word that can appropriately replace " exploiting " in the passage.

5. Questions

Answer: A

censure

The word that cannot fit in the blank labelled (E) is: a) censure

The sentence suggests that education, awareness campaigns, and positive support like encouragement are essential tools in challenging deep-rooted biases and promoting gender equality. "Censure" typically refers to strong criticism or disapproval, and it does not fit the context of supporting and promoting gender equality in this sentence.

a). Censure: This word means strong criticism or disapproval. In the context of the sentence, the blank is looking for a word that represents a positive and supportive action. "Censure" does not align with the idea of providing positive tools for challenging biases and promoting gender equality.

b). Advancement: This word fits well in the blank. The sentence is discussing the importance of efforts beyond legal frameworks, and "advancement" suggests progress and forward movement, which aligns with the context.

c). Assistance: This word also fits well in the blank. The sentence is emphasizing the need for tools like education and awareness campaigns, and "assistance" implies support and help in challenging biases and promoting gender equality.

d). Encouragement: This word fits well in the blank. The sentence is highlighting the need for positive tools, and "encouragement" aligns perfectly with the idea of supporting and motivating individuals to challenge biases and promote gender equality.

In summary, options b), c), and d) fit well in the blank, aligning with the positive and supportive tone of the sentence. Option a) is not suitable because "censure" implies criticism, which is not the intended meaning in this context.

SMSBull@gmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

Therefore, " a) censure " is the word that cannot fit in the blank (E).

6. Questions

Answer: E

followed

The word that cannot fit in the blank (F) is: e) followed

The other options (infringed, flouted, contravened, breached) are synonyms that convey the idea of breaking or violating rules or regulations, which aligns with the context of the sentence. "Followed" suggests compliance rather than violation.

a). infringed: This word means to actively break or violate a law, right, or agreement. It fits the context as it conveys the idea of going against the regulations mandating the dismissal of women from jobs upon marriage.

b). flouted: Flouting means openly disregarding or disobeying a rule or law. It is suitable in this context as it emphasizes the act of defying or ignoring the discriminatory regulations.

c). contravened: Contravening means to violate or act against a law, rule, or principle. This word is appropriate in the sentence to indicate the Supreme Court's stance against regulations that mandate the dismissal of women from jobs upon marriage.

d). breached: To breach means to break or violate a law, agreement, or code of conduct. This word accurately captures the essence of the Supreme Court's decision to declare the discriminatory regulations as "archaic, discriminatory and in violation of constitutional principles."

e). followed: This word does not fit in the blank because it suggests compliance or adherence to rules, whereas the sentence is emphasizing the Supreme Court's decision to strike down, oppose, or go against the discriminatory regulations. The other options convey the idea of breaking or violating rules, which aligns with the context.

In summary, the correct answer is "e) followed" because it does not convey the idea of opposing or violating rules, which is the focus of the sentence in the given context.

Therefore, " e) followed " is the word that cannot fit in the blank (F).

7. Questions

Answer: D

Both AFG and BDH

When combining these three statements AFG: “Sustainable employment opportunities are crucial for breaking the cycle of poverty, providing families with a stable source of income for their livelihoods”. This combined sentence highlights the role of sustainable employment in breaking the cycle of poverty by offering families a stable income source for their livelihoods.

When combining these three statements BDH: “Access to credit and financial services is essential for empowering individuals in poverty to start and sustain small businesses, fostering economic growth”. This combined sentence emphasizes the importance of access to credit and financial services in empowering individuals in poverty to establish and maintain small businesses, contributing to economic growth.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

8. Questions

Answer: C

Both AEI and CDH

When combining these three statements AEI: "Inclusive economic growth policies aim to ensure that the benefits of development are shared equitably, reducing disparities and lifting people out of poverty". This combined sentence emphasizes that inclusive economic growth policies strive to distribute the benefits of development equitably, leading to a reduction in disparities and lifting people out of poverty.

When combining these three statements CDH: "Microfinance initiatives empower entrepreneurs in poverty to start and expand small businesses, fostering economic independence and community development". This combined sentence highlights that microfinance initiatives play a role in empowering entrepreneurs in poverty to initiate and expand small businesses, contributing to economic independence and community development.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

9. Questions

Answer: E

All AEH, BFG and CDI

When combining these three statements AEH: "Lack of access to clean water remains a significant challenge, contributing to waterborne diseases and further burdening communities already grappling with poverty". This combined sentence highlights the interconnected challenges of insufficient access to clean water, waterborne diseases, and the additional burden on communities already struggling with poverty.

When combining these three statements BFG: "Malnutrition among children in poverty can have long-term consequences on physical and cognitive development, perpetuating the cycle of poverty into future generations". This combined sentence emphasizes how malnutrition among children in poverty can lead to lasting effects on both physical and cognitive development, contributing to the perpetuation of the cycle of poverty into future generations.

When combining these three statements CDI: "Climate change impacts, such as droughts and floods, can disproportionately affect agricultural communities, leading to increased poverty levels". This combined sentence highlights how climate change impacts, particularly affecting agricultural communities, can contribute to heightened levels of poverty.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

10. Questions

Answer: A

Only AFH

When combining these three statements AFH: “Access to credit and financial services is crucial for empowering individuals to invest in income-generating activities and break free from the cycle of poverty”. This combined sentence highlights the significance of access to credit and financial services in empowering individuals to invest in activities that generate income, facilitating their escape from the cycle of poverty.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

11. Questions

Answer: E

When combining these three statements AEG: “Climate-related disasters, such as floods and cyclones, disproportionately affect impoverished communities, leading to the loss of livelihoods and assets”. This combined sentence emphasizes the impact of climate-related disasters on impoverished communities, resulting in significant losses of livelihoods and assets.

When combining these three statements BDI: “The digital literacy gap poses a challenge as technology becomes integral to education, employment, and communication, affecting those in poverty”. This combined sentence highlights the challenge posed by the digital literacy gap, especially as technology becomes increasingly essential for education, employment, and communication, impacting individuals in poverty.

When combining these three statements CFH: “Social entrepreneurship initiatives focus on creating sustainable businesses that address social issues, providing employment and empowering communities”. This combined sentence emphasizes the role of social entrepreneurship initiatives in establishing sustainable businesses that address social problems, contributing to employment opportunities and empowering communities.

The other combinations do not form a coherent sentence with a clear connection between the ideas presented in Columns I, II and III.

12. Questions

Answer: A

has amended; encourage rooftop solar adoption

a). has amended; encourage rooftop solar adoption: This option is correct. "Has amended" accurately describes the government's action in changing or modifying the electricity rules, and "encourage rooftop solar adoption" effectively conveys the purpose of the amendment.

b). has changed; empower rooftop solar promotion: "Has changed" is a more general term than "amended," and "empower rooftop solar promotion" is not as clear and direct as "encourage rooftop solar adoption." The emphasis on empowerment might not align with the intention of the amendment.

c). has updated; empower rooftop solar adoption: "Has updated" is a reasonable alternative to "has amended," but "empower rooftop solar adoption" is not as specific as "encourage rooftop solar adoption." Empowerment might imply giving authority rather than encouraging adoption.

d). has adapted; stimulate rooftop solar installation: "Has adapted" suggests a process of adjustment, and "stimulate rooftop solar installation" is different in meaning than "encourage rooftop solar adoption."

sky5superjmail.com
Tg: @NextGenBankers

Stimulating might imply a more active role than simple encouragement.

e). has improved; stimulate rooftop solar implementation: "Has improved" is a more general term than "amended," and "stimulate rooftop solar implementation" is different from "encourage rooftop solar adoption." Implementation and adoption have different connotations.

In summary, option (a) is the most suitable as it accurately conveys that the government has amended the electricity rules with the specific aim of encouraging rooftop solar adoption. The other options use less appropriate language or convey a slightly different emphasis.

13. Questions

Answer: C

has been diverted; have been called in a). have changed; has been called in: "Have changed" is not the most suitable term to describe the financial discrepancy; "has been diverted" would be more fitting. The second part, "has been called in," lacks subject-verb agreement, as it should be "have been called in" to match the plural subject "Zee Group founders."

b). have been diverted; has been called by: "Have been diverted" is appropriate for describing a financial misdirection. However, "has been called by" is not the most fitting phrase; "have been called in" would be more suitable for indicating that individuals are summoned for questioning.

c). has been diverted; have been called in (Correct): This option is correct. "Has been diverted" accurately describes the preliminary finding regarding the funds, and "have been called in" is the correct form to indicate that the Zee Group founders are being summoned for questioning.

d). have deflected; have been looked in: "Have deflected" is not the most suitable term for describing a financial discrepancy, and "have been looked in" is not a common phrase for indicating that individuals are being investigated or questioned.

e). has been deflected; have been dropped by: "Has been deflected" is not the most appropriate term for describing a financial misdirection. "Have been dropped by" does not accurately convey the idea of individuals being summoned for questioning; "have been called in" would be more appropriate.

In summary, option (c) is the most suitable as it effectively conveys that SEBI has made a preliminary finding that funds have been diverted, and Zee Group founders have been called in for questioning. The other options use less appropriate terms or have grammatical inconsistencies.

14. Questions

Answer: C

have been struggling for weeks; devastating offensive in Gaza

a). have been seeking from weeks; devastating offensive in Gaza: "Have been seeking from weeks" is not grammatically correct; it should be "have been seeking for weeks." Additionally, "devastating offensive in Gaza" is suitable and aligns with the context.

b). have been trying for weeks; damaging offensive in Gaza: "Have been trying for weeks" is a clear expression of ongoing efforts, and "damaging offensive in Gaza" effectively conveys the nature of the offensive. However, "trying" might be less intense than "struggling."

Tg: @NextGenBankers

c). have been struggling for weeks; devastating offensive in Gaza (Correct): This option is correct. "Have been struggling for weeks" accurately conveys the challenges and difficulties faced in finding a solution, and "devastating offensive in Gaza" aptly describes the severity of the situation.

d). have been aiming from weeks; crippling offensive in Gaza: "Have been aiming from weeks" is not idiomatic; it should be "have been aiming for weeks." Additionally, "crippling offensive in Gaza" effectively conveys the severity but might be stronger than "devastating."

e). have been working for weeks; desolating offensive in Gaza: "Have been working for weeks" is a general expression of effort, and "desolating offensive in Gaza" conveys a significant level of destruction. However, "working" might be less intense than "struggling."

In summary, option (c) is the most suitable as it accurately conveys that the U.S., Egypt, and Qatar have been struggling for weeks to find a formula that could halt Israel's devastating offensive in Gaza. The other options use less appropriate language or have grammatical issues.

15. Questions

Answer: E

Russia has totally underestimated Ukraine; support and determination

a). Russia has completely underrated Ukraine; assistance and inclination: "Completely underrated" is a suitable alternative to "totally underestimated," but "assistance and inclination" may not fully capture the contrast with underestimation. The terms are also less direct than "support and determination."

b). Russia has perfectly neglected Ukraine; approval and assent: "Perfectly neglected" is not synonymous with "totally underestimated," and "approval and assent" do not effectively convey the contrast with neglect or underestimation.

c). Russia has entirely ignored Ukraine; sustenance and conation: "Entirely ignored" is not the same as "totally underestimated," and "sustenance and conation" are less clear and less direct terms compared to "support and determination."

d). Russia has fully misread Ukraine; encouragement and volition: "Fully misread" is a suitable alternative to "totally underestimated," but "encouragement and volition" may not accurately convey the contrast with misreading or underestimation. The terms are also less direct than "support and determination."

e). Russia has totally underestimated Ukraine; support and determination (Correct): This option is correct. "Totally underestimated" accurately conveys the idea, and "support and determination" effectively captures the contrast with underestimation.

In summary, option (e) is the most appropriate as it accurately and coherently conveys the intended meaning of the statement. The other options use less appropriate language or convey different meanings.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers

16. Questions

Answer: A

has agreed to examine; can be implemented

a). has agreed to examine; can be implemented: This option is correct. "Has agreed to examine" accurately portrays the government's willingness to investigate, and "can be implemented" appropriately conveys the potential for putting the provisions into effect.

b). has arranged to observe; can be provided: "Has arranged to observe" suggests a different level of involvement than "has agreed to examine." Additionally, "can be provided" doesn't align well with the context of exploring constitutional provisions.

c). has allotted to oversee; can be furnished: "Has allotted to oversee" implies a specific assignment rather than an agreement to examine, and "can be furnished" is not the most suitable term for implementing constitutional provisions.

d). has stated to study; can be prepared: "Has stated to study" is less direct than "has agreed to examine," and "can be prepared" is not the most appropriate term for implementing constitutional provisions.

e). has planned to check; can be procured: "Has planned to check" is not the most direct expression for the government's commitment to examining the provisions, and "can be procured" is not suitable for the context of constitutional implementation.

In summary, option (a) is the most appropriate as it accurately conveys that the Union government has agreed to examine how the provisions of the Sixth Schedule of the Constitution can be implemented in Ladakh's context. The other options use less appropriate language or convey different meanings.

17. Questions

Answer: B

Only B

The correct answer is B. Consequently, and.

Combined Sentence: The bank implemented new security measures, consequently, it experienced a significant decrease in fraudulent activities, and it enhanced customer confidence.

"Consequently" is used to indicate a cause-and-effect relationship. It connects the implementation of new security measures with the subsequent decrease in fraudulent activities.

"And" is used to link the two independent clauses, emphasizing the positive outcomes that followed the implementation of security measures.

This combination effectively communicates the causal relationship between the security measures and the decrease in fraudulent activities, while also highlighting the positive impact on customer confidence.

18. Questions

Answer: C

Both A and C

Combined Sentence: The central bank raised interest rates. Thus inflation was brought under control and it stabilized the economy.

Combined Sentence: The central bank raised interest rates; consequently, inflation was brought under control, so it stabilized the economy.

"Consequently" is used to show a cause-and-effect relationship, indicating that the action of raising interest rates led to a specific outcome.

"So" is used as a coordinating conjunction, linking the successful control of inflation with the stabilization

Tg:- @NextGenBankers
skybluep@gmail.com

of the economy.

This combination effectively communicates the cause-and-effect relationship between the central bank's decision to raise interest rates, the control of inflation, and the subsequent stabilization of the economy.

19. Questions

Answer: C

Only C

The correct answer is C. Thus, and.

Combined Sentence: The bank introduced a digital banking platform; thus, it aimed to provide customers with seamless online services, and it could compete in the evolving financial landscape.

"Thus" is used to indicate a logical consequence or conclusion, connecting the introduction of a digital banking platform with the bank's objectives.

"And" is used to connect the two independent clauses, emphasizing the dual purpose: providing seamless online services and competing in the evolving financial landscape.

This combination effectively communicates that the introduction of a digital banking platform is a logical step for the bank to achieve its goals of improving customer services and staying competitive in the changing financial environment.

20. Questions

Answer: A

Only A

The correct answer is A. Hence, and.

Combined Sentence: The bank invested in advanced AI technology; hence, it aimed to streamline its operations, and it could provide more efficient services to customers.

"Hence" is used to indicate a reason or cause, connecting the investment in advanced AI technology with the bank's objectives.

"And" is used to link the two independent clauses, emphasizing the dual purpose: streamlining operations and providing more efficient services to customers.

This combination effectively communicates that the investment in advanced AI technology is the reason behind the bank's goals of operational efficiency and improved services to customers.

Tg:- @NextGenBankers